BENNY SANDERS MEETS TRAGIC DEATH

Former Tahoka Boy Killed In Accident Was Buried Here Saturday

Another tragic death must be recorded this week. The crushed body of a fine Tahoka boy, who had been making his home elsewhere for a number of years, was brought back to his former home for burial last Saturday.

Bennie Sanders was crushed to death at Los Angeles, La. Salle county, on Thursday of last week, the motor block of a tractor which he and a Mexican helper were loading onto a truck fell upon him. The head and a large portion of the body were horribly crushed. Death of course was instantaneous.

The remains were brought back to Tahoka and funeral services were conducted at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Baptist Church here, of which Bennie was formerly a devoted member. The services were conducted by his former pastor Rev. E. N. Shepherd now of Abilene. Interment was in the Tahoka Cemetery.

Bennie Sanders was reared in the Edith community in this county. He is a nephew of Oscar, Joe and Dee Sanders of Edith and Tahoka and Sid Sanders now of Waco. His father died many years ago. His mother died only three or four years ago.

After reaching manhood's estate he removed to Goodnight for a time (Continued on back page)

Mrs. Helen Bishop Dies Wednesday

Mrs. Helen Bishop, 44, wife of J. J. Bishop, residing eight miles northwest of New Home, died about one o'clock Wednesday afternoon of cancer of the stomach. She had been a sufferer from this malady for a year or more, and for months she had been confined to her bed.

The body was interred in the cemetery here Thursday afternoon following funeral services at the Church of Christ conducted by Elder R. P. Drennon.

The daughter of L. C. Johnson and his first wife, who died a number of years ago, Mrs. Bishop was born in Foard county on April 15, 1893. She was married to J. J. Bishop in Wilbarger county in 1915. She and husband removed to Lynn county in 1919, and they have resided in this county continuously since that time. For a number of years they lived in the Redwine community. Then they bought a farm at Wells and lived there three or four years. Finally, they bought a section out northwest of New Home and have been residing on it ever since.

Mrs. Bishop is survived by her husband and eight children, seven daughters and a son. She was deeply devoted to her family and to her church. She had been a member of the Church of Christ since childhood. Fully realizing months ago that she was suffering from an incurable malady, she often expressed her readiness to go, and she died without the shadow of a fear.

A faithful wife and mother, a good neighbor, and a devout worshipper of her God, Mrs. Bishop will be greatly missed and her death brings genuine grief to a large circle of friends.

The News joins in condolences to all the bereaved.

Fingers Amputated In Gin Saws

A ginner named Golden employed at the Edwards-Lockhart gin at Pleasant Valley had the misfortune of getting the fingers of one hand caught in the saws Tuesday morning. All four of the fingers were mangled and completely severed from the hand.

The patient was taken to Post for surgical treatment. Jack Edwards of this city, one of the owners of the gin, went over to Post Tuesday night to see the injured man. He took Golden to a hospital in Lubbock for further treatment.

New Home Vocational Agriculture Exhibit At Fair

The New Home vocational agriculture department won fourth place with its exhibit on farm landscaping at the Panhandle-South Plains fair last week. The picture above shows the exhibit prepared by the 43 boys in the Future Farmers chapter of the school. W. W. Hall is teacher of the department which was established in the Lynn county school for the first time this year. Avalanche-Journal Photo.

3,752 Bales Ginned Here To Date

Ideal weather for the harvesting of the cotton crop has prevailed here the past week and the gins have been kept busy. Up to 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning, 3,752 bales had been ginned by the five gins of Tahoka, 1903 having been ginned since our report last week.

With one or two exceptions, the other twenty-five gins of the county have been kept busy too. Some of the gins here and elsewhere have been running far into the night. Especially at O'Donnell, Draw, and Cassland have the gins been crowded.

Practically all the cotton is being picked. Very little is being pulled as yet.

Very little cotton also is being sold. Most of it is going into the Government loan. A larger per cent than was expected is of more than 8-7 inch staple length. The decision of the authorities at Washington made in response to appeals by Congressmen Marvin Jones and George Mahon and others to broaden the loan policy so as to include the shorter staples has been a great relief to many farmers of the south plains, where much half-and-half cotton has been grown. It is doubtful if this policy will be pursued another year, however, and it behooves all farmers to plant a good variety of longer staple cotton hereafter.

There has been little change in the price of cotton the past week. Seed have advanced slightly in price and are now bringing $19 per ton.

Turners To Spend Winter In South

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Turner left Wednesday for southwest Texas, where they expect to spend the winter. They were not sure whether they would choose Uvalde, Crystal City, or Del Rio as their location, but they were sure that they would select one of these places. They expected to stop at Bronte en route on business, as Mr. Turner has a farm there.

They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Turner's daughter, Mrs. E. J. Lynch, and granddaughter, Bobby Jean Lynch, of Scott's Bluff, Nebraska, who will remain with them in their winter home several weeks.

Bulldogs Will Meet Levelland Eleven

The Tahoka Bulldogs go to Levelland tomorrow night to match their wits and skill against the Levelland team, the game beginning at 8 o'clock. It is believed the Tahoka team has a good chance to win. As many Bulldog fans should go as possible.

The Bulldogs were slightly outclassed by the strong Slaton team on the Slaton field last Friday night but they put up a good game. The score was 26 to 0 in favor of Slaton.

Mrs. J. B. Gass Dies Sunday

Death came just at sunset last Sunday evening to Mrs. J. H. Gass, residing with her husband two or three miles west of Tahoka, as the result of a blood clot which had formed on the brain.

Following funeral services conducted by the pastor, Rev. John Ferguson, at the Nazarene Church at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, the body was laid to rest in the Tahoka Cemetery, in the presence of many sorrowing relatives and friends. Mrs. Gass had been a devout member of the Church of the Nazarene for a number of years.

Mrs. Gass was a native of Bollinger county, Missouri. Born April 23, 1885, she was past 52 years of age. She was married to J. H. Gass on March 16, 1922, at Wichita Falls. She and husband came to this county from Knox county in January, 1924. Most of the time since they had resided in the vicinity of Grassland.

Surviving are the husband, J. H. Gass, two brothers and two sisters, L. L. Kegley of Munday, J. A. Kegley of Clarksville, Mrs. Martha Harris of Grassland, and Mrs. Emma Glenn of Tahoka.

The News joins with many friends in sympathy for all the bereaved.

J. B. Walker Family Moves to Lubbock

J. B. Walker and family removed to Lubbock on Friday, the first day of this month.

It is rare indeed that a family that has been here as long as the Walkers move away. Prof. and Mrs. Walker came to Tahoka more than thirty years ago. He began his career here as principal of the school. After teaching a year or two he went into the real estate business and helped to put Tahoka on the map. Since then he has engaged in various pursuits, serving as postmaster a number of years under the Wilson administration. For several years he engaged in farming. For the past year or more he has been serving as truck and bus inspector for the state railroad commission. During all these years he has taken an active interest in politics, being a candidate a time or two himself.

Mrs. Walker has likewise been prominent in political and civic affairs as well as the religious life of the town. She served for several terms as city secretary. In 1928 she was the Democratic campaign manager in this county. She has been prominent as a teacher and leader in her church here so long that she seems almost indispensable in its work.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker have reared their family here, two of the children being yet in the home. They go to Lubbock with the best wishes of many friends here, but Tahoka will never seem quite the same any more without the Walkers.

City Buys New Fire Truck

At a meeting of the city council Monday night, a contract was made with the Premier Manufacturing Company for a new fire truck, to be built according to specifications prescribed by the council and to be delivered early in December.

The new truck is to be built on a Ford chassis, with a Premier pump, and completely equipped. It will be one of the first if not the very first cab truck brought to the south plains. The contract also calls for 1,000 feet of new fire hose.

The specifications for the new truck were actually made out by Pete Coleman, chief of the Tahoka Volunteer Fire Department. He has made a thorough study of the various types of trucks, and the result, it is believed, will be one of best trucks made.

The consideration for the truck is $3,000 cash upon delivery. Terms were given for the $955 to be paid for the hose. The entire outfit complete is to cost $3,955, which is quite a reduction from the original price set by the Company. Mayor Deen Nowlin helped to swing the deal and scale down the price, and the boys say he actually knows his onions.

Members of the city council are Joe Bovell, N. C. Rainey, Homer St. Clair, Dr. K. R. Durham, and A. J. Mullins.

Dr. W. K. Johnston Back In Pulpit

After being out of his work here for three months on account of sickness, Dr. W. K. Johnston of Lubbock, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, announces that he will be back in his pulpit next Sunday morning. Dr. Johnston has been sick practically all the summer, in the hospital much of the time, and his many friends here of all denominations are delighted that he has recovered sufficiently to resume his work. They are hoping that he continues to gather strength for his task. In making his announcement, Dr. Johnston says:

"I am so glad and grateful to be up and back again at work. Health is not only a luxury, it is capital with which to serve the Lord all our days.

"Our church group at Tahoka and friends there have been so beautiful and helpful to us in this long drawn out sickness, for which we thank you more than words can tell. Be in our services next Sunday.

"Sunday School and Bible Class at 10 A. M., preaching services at 11. Subject: The Workman. Immortalized by his Work. Don't miss this service. Gospel hymns and a fine fellowship always at the Presbyterian Church.

"Two representatives will be elected to attend fall meeting of El Paso Presbytery at Midland October 14.

New Home Exhibits Win At Fair

New Home Department of Vocational Agriculture entered an exhibit at the Panhandle and South-Plains Fair at Lubbock and placed fourth among twenty-one schools. The title of their exhibit was "A Landscaped Farm Home".

In selecting the subject for the exhibit, Mr. Hall, the Agricultural teacher at New Home, saw the need of Landscape Appreciation in his community, and endeavored to set up an example that is practical, and could be put into effect, or some modification of it, with but little expense.

Because of a limited space for Vocational exhibits, not all departments could exhibit. New Home, being a new department, was permitted to exhibit.

Mrs. B. P. Robinson Dies Monday

Mrs. Florence Robinson, sister of Mr. W. M. Harris of Tahoka, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Cawthorn, a few miles east of town at about 9:15 o'clock Monday night.

Mrs. Robinson had been in bad health a long time, suffering from Bright's disease and a leakage of the heart, but the immediate cause of death was an attack of tonsillitis which she suffered the preceding Thursday night.

The body was taken back to her home town, Sulphur Springs, for burial, the Harris ambulance and relatives of the deceased leaving here about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Funeral services were conducted from the Tapp Funeral Home in Sulphur Springs at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and burial was in the City Cemetery there. The services were conducted by the minister of the Church of Christ, of which Mrs. Robinson was a faithful member.

Deceased was born June 4, 1877, in Florence, Alabama, and was named Florence in honor of the town. She was 60 years and four months old the day of her death, September 4.

As a girl, Miss Florence Young spent three years in McNary College in Tennessee. Then taught a year in Tennessee and a year in Texas. During Christmas week, 1898, she was married to B. P. Robinson and the couple soon settled in Sulphur Springs. Eleven years ago they moved with their family to Lynn county, but five years ago they went back to Sulphur Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson returned to Lynn county in July of this year, hoping that the change in climate might (Continued on back page)

Mrs. Jim Dye's Brother-in-law Dies

Mrs. Jim Dye returned Monday night from Montague, where she had spent the past two weeks with her sister in an effort to save the life of the latter's husband, Herman T. Chandler, sheriff of Montague county, who had recently undergone an operation for appendicitis.

In spite of all that doctors and nurses could do, however, Mr. Chandler died Thursday night of last week and the remains were buried at Montague Sunday afternoon in the presence of a great throng of friends and admirers.

A few weeks before the operation for appendicitis, Mr. Chandler had sustained internal injuries, which, it is believed, contributed to his death.

At a meeting of the commissioners court of Montague county Monday, Mrs. Chandler was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of her husband as sheriff.

Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Johnson of Abilene spent last Friday and Saturday here visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Woods. They were formerly residents of Tahoka. They are now operating a grocery store and laundry in Abilene.

Committee Will Recommend Acala Seed After Extensive Investigation

The committee appointed to make investigation and recommendation of the single variety cotton seed for use in Lynn county is ready to report, according to H. W. Calaway, one of the number. Headed by County Agent V. F. Jones, the committee, consisting of Jones, Calaway, Rudolph Maeker, W. C. Huffaker, and Fred McGinty made a trip to the state experiment farm at Lubbock last Friday and obtained much information from the manager, Don L. Jones. Their conclusion was that Acala breed of cotton is the best of all long-staple varieties for use in this county. Other breeds almost if not fully as good, however, are the New Boykin and the Paymaster.

The experiment farm has tested out hundreds of varieties during the past ten or fifteen years, Mr. Calaway stated, and a few varieties stand out distinctly above all others as best adapted to this climate.

The Acala has been grown on the experiment farm for ten years. Its average production of lint per acre during this time has been 175 pounds. The lint turnout has averaged 37 per cent of the pre-ginned weight, though for the last few years it has run as high as 39 and 40 per cent. The staple has averaged a full inch in length. At the first picking, 18 per cent of the crop, on an average, was gathered; at the (Continued on back page)

Father-Son Banquet Is Big Success

The Father-Son banquet served to the F. F. A. boys and their dads at the American Legion Hall Wednesday night was a very distinct success from every standpoint, according to reports coming to the News office.

The Future Farmers of America is an organization of the vocational agriculture students in the high schools of the country. This meeting of the F. F. A. boys of the Tahoka high school and their dads was planned by Chester Hufstедler, the resourceful and energetic vocational agriculture teacher here.

The food was prepared and served by the Home Economics students in the high school under the supervision of their capable teacher, Mrs. Pete Hepl. Their work, the boys say, was perfect.

About forty of the F. F. A. boys were present, with thirty of the dads, and about ten other guests.

J. C. Womack, an F. F. A. boy, acted as toastmaster, and served with the ease and dignity that would have done credit to much older and more experienced person.

The feature of the occasion was the address of Dr. Bradford A. Knapp, President of the Texas Technological College. He stressed the fact that successful farming can be accomplished no longer by mere manual labor. The farmer of the future must have scientific knowledge of agriculture and must be trained for his work.

The boys themselves had an important part on the program.

Dick Bosworth made the welcome address on behalf of the F. F. A. boys, and E. J. Cooper responded on behalf of the dads.

George Bell gave the F. F. A. creed.

R. L. Bosworth gave a history of the F. F. A. organization.

Robert Sanders outlined the year's F. F. A. objectives.

Brief talks were also made by O. T. Ryan of Lubbock, vocational agriculture supervisor for this district, and Ray L. Chappelle, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Texas Technological College.

A number of local guests present responded briefly to calls for a few remarks.

Mr. Hufstедler and the F. F. A. boys desire to express their thanks to the American Legion organization for the use of their hall, to the Baptist Church for the use of their chairs, to E. H. Boullion for supplies furnished at wholesale cost, and to Calvery's variety store for cups.

Bar for Free Courts

CONVINCED that the independence of the federal judiciary is still threatened, despite the defeat of the plan to enlarge the Supreme court, the American Bar association, in session in Kansas City, voted unanimously to authorize a committee to keep up the fight to preserve the freedom of the courts, as recommended by a special committee. That committee said: "There appears to be no likelihood that efforts to re-make the courts of the United States will not be renewed. Your special committee is of the opinion that the association ought to maintain itself in readiness to meet such issues as they may recur, rather than to rely upon impromptu organization for the purpose."

The lawyers listened to many speeches, both attacking and defending President Roosevelt's court program and his appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme court. The climax to all this came when Hatton W. Summers of Texas, chairman of the house judiciary committee, arose to talk. He had a prepared address, but shifted to an extemporaneous talk in which he declared the people have lost control of the government of the United States and it has passed into the hands of a million people in its executive department, in which only one man was elected, and which the people could not control.

"What are we going to do about it?" Summers cried. "Are you willing to join a battalion of death to save the Constitution and the government?"

"As we look to the future, we are rapidly approaching a crisis when it will be decided whether our economic system and our government will stand or fall.

"I mean actually. A very serious situation is before the people. It means we have got to do something soon. We have got to balance the budget. We have got to decentralize government responsibility."

Cummings Hasn't Quit Fight

ATTORNEY GENERAL CUMMINGS in his press conference intimated strongly that the administration intends to push for the court reforms the President has demanded. To support this position he produced the annual report of the judicial conference composed of the chief justice and senior circuit judges. It recommended appointment of 16 additional federal judges.

"In this report" said Mr. Cummings, "the judiciary has capitulated. They admit now there is congestion and delay in the judicial system. They ask for additional judges to provide relief. This is a complete capitulation and a welcome one."

O'Mahoney Butts In

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, on the way to Seattle, first entered the "enemy's" country when he crossed the border of Wyoming, the state of Senator Joseph O'Mahoney, leader of the anti-Supreme court enlargement forces. Mr. Roosevelt's train reached Cheyenne in the early morning, and there, among the welcomers, was Joseph, though he had pointedly not been invited to board the train. He walked alongside the President's car and Mrs. Roosevelt emerged, shook his hand and asked after Mrs. O'Mahoney.

The senator then entered the private car and he and Mr. Roosevelt shook hands and said "Hello," but the atmosphere was decidedly chilling; he took leave of the party at Casper, Wyo., after accompanying the President and his group on a drive about that city.

The Chief Executive spent two days in Yellowstone National park, and then went on to Boise, Idaho;

Yarnell's Policy Wins

ADMIRAL HARRY YARNELL was decidedly opposed to the policy of Washington to withdraw American warships from Chinese waters in the face of danger. His protests have been considered by the general board of the Navy department and his program approved. Consequently our naval vessels will remain there to protect our nationals "as long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists."

Auto Union Shake-Up

SEVERAL times Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, has intimated that there were too many radicals among the leaders of that union. Now, allegedly for reasons of economy, he has got rid of some of them. These organizers have been let out: Victor Reuther, one of the leaders in the General Motors strike at Flint, Mich., last winter; Robert Kanter, Stanley Novak, Melvin Bishop and William Tonn of Detroit; R. D. Richter of Saginaw; Charles Rigby, Ohio; Frank McMillan, Kansas City; Eugene Stauder, Frank Bartee and Frank Schutz, Indiana.

Martin also announced he had promoted Loren Houser to be organizational director for Detroit. Elmer Dowell was made director of all General Motors locals in the nation. R. J. Thomas, international vice president, has been appointed director of all Chrysler locals, and Richard T. Frankenstein, director of the organization program among Ford Motor company employees.

Lester Washburn of Lansing, Mich., leader of the "labor holiday" last spring, was made director of the U. A. W. for western Michigan, and Charles Madden, Pontiac, director of eastern Michigan outside of Detroit.

Italy Wins "Parity"

GREAT BRITAIN and France yielded to the demands of Mussolini and granted "parity" to Italy in the anti-piracy patrol of the Mediterranean. That sea was divided into three zones. The Italian zone includes the extensive Italian coast line, the Tyrrhenian sea around Sardinia and, in the east, the coast of the Libyan colony. The Aegean sea is assigned to Britain; and France will guard the Syrian coast and the sea lane between Marseilles and Algiers.

All three zones extend east to the Suez canal since all three powers are interested in keeping open that gateway to the East.

War Dance for Duce

BENITO MUSSOLINI, visiting Adolf Hitler for the purpose of composing and presenting to the world a statement of the intentions and demands of the Italian and German governments, was received by the Nazis with great enthusiasm. Il Duce, on the way to Berlin, stood on a hill in Mecklenburg with Hitler and witnessed a big war dance staged by the reichsfuehrer that displayed the regained military might of Germany most impressively. Hitler's best officers and troops, armed with the latest weapons of death, put on a sham battle participated in by all land and air forces. In the nearby Baltic the German warships showed how they chase "Red" submarines; and at Wustrow the anti-aircraft batteries gave a demonstration of their effectiveness.

The huge munitions plants in the Ruhr district were visited, and the throngs of workers, given a holiday with pay, cheered the two dictators heartily. Every city and village was decorated. In Berlin there were tremendous demonstrations and elaborate festivities in honor of the visitor from Rome.

In the midst of the display of war strength and preparedness, Hitler and Mussolini made speeches declaring their devotion to the cause of peace. At the same time they insisted the world must grant to Germany and Italy the recognition and the rights they feel are their due.

After a grand review of the Nazi army, the two dictators conferred privately. Details of the conversation were kept secret, but officials said Il Duce and Der Fuehrer not only discussed German-Italian cooperation but also talked about an understanding in southeastern Europe—the inclusion of Austria, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Bulgaria, and possibly Rumania in a general European realignment.

Noted Merchant Dies

EDWARD A. FILENE, best known of all Boston's merchants, died of pneumonia in the American hospital in Paris. He was seventy-seven years old. Besides being a business man, Mr. Filene was a noted social economist. He was sometimes called the apostle of mass production and distribution.

Only ten days after he took charge of the American legation in Vienna, Grenville T. Emmet died of double pneumonia. He was sixty years old and was a former law partner of President Roosevelt. He was minister to the Netherlands in 1933 and was given the Austrian post last July.

More Woo in Palestine

GREAT BRITAIN's contested plan to divide Palestine between the Jews and the Arabs, with a slice for herself, came to the front again when Lewis Andrews, British commissioner of Galilee, was assassinated by a group of terrorists in Nazareth. Three men, two in European garb and one in peasant clothing, ambushed Andrews and shot him and his bodyguard to death.

Andrews had gained the enmity of extremists because of the strictness of his rule as district commissioner.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—There are certainly signs in Chicago, at the conference between railroads and labor, that on the part of those particular labor leaders at least there is promise of a rule of reason.

For the first time since this country started to work out of the depression, labor, in these conferences, despite the knowledge that the administration is on its side, has shown a disposition to let the employer live and make a profit. This doesn't sound as though it were much of a concession. Some might think that of course labor would have to take this stand, as, if there were no profits—if the employer did not "live"—there would be no jobs.

Every employer who has had labor troubles, however, believes that it is simply impossible to exaggerate the importance of dealing with labor union representatives who agree frankly that the employer should not only "live" but should make a profit. And it does not often happen that labor representatives, in a conference with employers, have been willing seriously to discuss abandoning restrictions on their employers which they hoped to obtain by law!

A case in point in the railroad labor negotiations is the bill pending in congress, which restricts the length of freight trains—generally called the 70-car bill. Most experts agree that this idea is not primarily in the interest of safety. In fact, some contend that it would increase rather than diminish hazards. It is primarily to force the employment of more men to operate more trains. But the railroads contend that it would not only increase their pay rolls, but would cause congestion in railroad terminals at times when there is a rush to ship perishable freight.

Sounds Reasonable

Now the point is that this bill passed the senate—the "greatest deliberative body in the world"—with hardly any discussion. It was stopped in the house not because of the actual strength of its opponents, but because of other things. Those who wanted to stop it had the advantage of the crowded closing days of a session. They had the advantage of the wages and hours bill and others far more spectacular than the 70-car train bill. But railroad representatives here admit privately that they have small hope of killing it next session if the railroad unions continue to press for its passage.

So the willingness of so many labor representatives at this Chicago conference to call off passage of this law was not an empty gesture. They were giving up something they thought of real importance in order to permit the railroads to make enough money to give them an advance in wages.

It all sounds reasonable enough, but it is spectacular in labor relations history, of tremendous importance to every employer of labor and to every person living in this country as indicating a long step towards industrial peace.

Most observers are inclined to think that this conference is a straw in the wind indicating the trend of labor relations for the next year. This view may prove too optimistic. There is no certainty about it. But it seems probable for several reasons. One is that intelligent labor leaders realize they have a much aroused public opinion to deal with. There is more sentiment than they like for something they would fight to the last ditch to avoid—responsibility of labor unions for their actions, clinched on them by a law forcing incorporation of unions.

Find Ally in Lewis

The bituminous coal producers may find John L. Lewis a very potent ally on one of the problems that is worrying them more than anything else.

This is government competition for the coal industry from hydroelectric-power developments. It is just so happens that Mr. Lewis is very strongly persuaded that all this hydroelectric stuff is the bunk. He believes that electric current can be produced more cheaply from coal than from water power, even under circumstances favorable to economical water power development. Further he believes that the engineers of the electric industry have long since pre-empted most of the sites promising low cost development.

It also happens that Mr. Lewis has expressed himself very forcibly about the lobbyists who come to Washington paid by local chambers of commerce and other associations and maneuver to get big power developments financed by the federal treasury in their localities.

Naturally, Mr. Lewis has pointed out, this benefits that particular community during the period of construction. So would tearing down a row of houses on one side of a street, and erecting them again in precisely the same condition on the other! The local merchants would be selling groceries and clothing and drugs to the workers. The local doctors and dentists would be getting some fees from the transients.

But when the whole job is completed, Lewis points out, it takes very few men to take care of the dam and the electric plant. Whereas a lot of coal miners are out of work forever as a result!

Agree With Lewis

It so happens that every one in the electric industry agrees with Mr. Lewis in every particular on this particular subject, little as they may think of his C. I. O. and ideas about gratitude in politics, etc. The point they make is that the government right now in this electric business is gambling with the people's money.

The point is that the chief cost of producing electricity from a hydroelectric development is interest on the cost of the project. Due to abnormally low interest rates at present—they being held down by artificial government restrictions—this particular item of cost is very unlikely to decrease. Quite the contrary. When the bonds sold now to finance such developments mature the government is more likely to pay a much higher rate.

But the cost of producing electricity from other sources is extremely apt to become less. Mr. Lewis says current can be produced more economically now from coal than from water power. Most engineers agree. But not after the dams and hydro plants are built, providing the cost of these dams and plants is charged to profit and loss.

Nearly every year the cost of producing current from coal is reduced. Every few months there is some improvement in Diesel engines, which makes the production of current from oil cheaper. No one knows when the terrific waste now involved in cooling systems will be eliminated. But scientists say it's coming and will revolutionize the production of power, cutting its cost to a fraction.

So it might pay the coal barons to have Mr. Lewis discuss this question with them to their mutual advantage. It would certainly dramatize the situation before the country and tend to stop more government competition!

Scribes Snicker

The fiendish glee of anti-administration column writers over the discovery that Charley Michelson, premier Democratic press agent, attacked Hugo L. Black in 1926 as a Klansman, and as unworthy to fill the shoes of Oscar W. Underwood, is a rather interesting commentary on how the status of the once abused press agent has advanced in the last decade. Also on how much this same Charley Michelson has done to advance it.

But it's also rather amazing in that it has always been the accepted doctrine that newspaper men who wrote editorial or policy into their stories at all injected the partisan flavor desired by their bosses! So that unless one assumes that bosses employ writers solely for the brilliance of their writing, or perhaps in order to present all sides of the picture, the slant taken by the writer is in accord with the editorial policy of the paper.

It so happens that the New York World, at the time Michelson wrote this attack on Hugo Black, had been running an anti-Klan crusade. This crusade was conducted by men in the New York office, only helped out in pinches by the Washington bureau, of which Michelson was the head.

It also happens that the World was, of all the outstanding newspapers of its time, the most anxious to have its editorials backed up by news stories, interviews and color in general.

Brought Up Reserves

As a matter of fact, there was a sort of reserve staff, consisting of ten or twelve young men working for other—though never rival—papers. Generally these were youngsters covering the senate or house of representatives for non-New York newspapers or press services. They would be called on the telephone, as soon as the chief of the World bureau received his orders, and directed first to read the editorial for which endorsements were wanted, and then get them.

This policy accomplished the point of indicating to World readers that their paper had a tremendous following among the government officials and important persons generally. The World did not pay money for endorsements. It only paid hacks to get them.

Later on Michelson went to work for John J. Raskob, and did his amazing job of smearing Herbert Hoover, probably the most effective press agenting job ever done in this country. When they were thrown out the window in the 1932 Democratic convention, Michelson was retained by Franklin D. Roosevelt and James A. Farley—has been writing Farley's speeches and many others ever since, and cheerfully blasting his former employers, Raskob and Jouett Shouse.

The whole point is that a good press agent works for his employers, and shoots at whatever target they direct, just as a good lawyer resorts to all sorts of legal technicalities as well as sound argument to attack his client's opponents.

Refund Coming
Smith called on his parson. "Is it right for any person to profit by the mistakes of other people?" he asked. "Most certainly not," replied the parson. Smith brightened as he replied, "Very well, then, perhaps you'd like to return that $10 I paid you for marrying me."

"Look here," said the indignant woman in the post office, "your mistakes are getting too bad. My husband has gone to Philadelphia on business, and this morning I had a letter from him with an Atlantic City postmark."

I'M FEELING FINE THIS MORNING
—FREE FROM THAT THROBBING HEADACHE AND READY FOR A GOOD DAY'S WORK.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief. At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, a second dose is necessary later, according to directions. If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it. The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents—virtually, only a cent apiece.

WHEN you have those awful cramps when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love. Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man. A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she nags her husband seven days out of every month. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

By Emilie Loring

Jerry Field was breathless from the effort of shaking off congratulatory hands which had tried to detain him. "Changing her sandals at Lookout House. I've got to speak to you, Trent! Quick!"

Relief stopped the thumping of Mark Trent's heart. Had Brooke married Field, would he be here? He would not. He turned to Kowa still standing beside him and asked in a voice he had difficulty in keeping steady: "Is anyone in the print room?"

"The Jap disappeared and returned with incredible speed." "No person there, sir." Mark spoke in a low tone to Jerry Field: "Slip into the room back of the stairs. Sam, tell the musicians to play something loud and gay; then join us. Now that we know Brooke is safe, Mrs. Gregory—"

"Mrs. Gregory is coming with us," Jed Stewart interrupted. Even with the door of the room closed, the beat and rhythm of the music outside set the air within vibrating. A cheery fire crackled on the hearth. Incredibly long-stemmed Templar roses in a tall vase made a splash of gorgeous crimson against the neutral tinted walls hung with Japanese prints, scented the air with their spicy fragrance. Mrs. Gregory resisted the seductive depth of a large chair and sat erect on the edge.

"What's happened? What's happened?" she demanded testily. "Wait a minute. Thought I heard something." Field pulled aside the hangings at the window and peered out; Jed Stewart on his toes looked over his shoulder. "Yep, there they go. Police are no respecters of supper parties."

Jerry Field drew the hangings close and returned to the mantel. The lighter he held to his cigarette was not quite steady. "Now, folks, listen to my bedtime story." For an instant there was no sound in the still room save the purr of the fire and the tap of a snowy wine against a window. Then it seemed to Mark Trent that the woman in the deep chair, Sam Reyburn with his elbow resting on one corner of the low bookshelves, Jed Stewart backed against the door as if to barricade it, stopped breathing as Field told how Brooke had commandeered his roadster and himself to take her across the causeway, of the reason she had given for her going, of her suspicion that the man she called the Bath Crystal Bandit might be serving as waiter at the party because of interest in the jewels of one of the guests.

Mrs. Gregory instinctively put one hand to her tiara and one of the blazing plastron at her breast. "I suppose you mean mine. W-when did they in-tend to take them?" she quavered. Mark Trent crossed the room. He sat on the arm of her chair and put his hand on her shoulder. "Steady, Empress, they can't get them now. Go on, Field. Then you and Brooke are not married?"

"Married! No such luck. Didn't I make that clear? Brooke told that yarn to avert suspicion from our get-away. Do you think I'd be here if we were married?" There was a glint of steel in his eyes as they met Mark Trent's. "Where was I—oh, yes. We made headquarters in record time. Brooke told her story. Your kitchen, Trent, was the scene of the nearest, quickest clean-up in the history of crime in this state, I'll bet. No, don't go. Inspector Harrison sent special instructions to you to keep things moving here so that the news of the arrests wouldn't get out until he had the men safely in jail. Sorry to report that you've lost your chauffeur, Mrs. Gregory."

Mark Trent turned her by the shoulders that she might see Jerry Field standing by the mantel. He saw the look in the girl's eyes, saw something in the man's spring up to meet it. He felt the quiver that ran through her body, felt the effort she made to overcome it as she said flippantly: "News flash! Eloping bridegroom returns without lovely bride. Where's Brooke, Jerry?"

"Changing her wet sandals at Lookout House." "Wet sandals! Where has she been?" "She'll be here in a minute and tell you herself, Lucette. Better go back to the party," Mark Trent suggested. "The New York producer and the Boston manager are still here, aren't they? We're depending on you to see that they have the time of their lives."

"Boy, when Brooke didn't appear, I forgot those boxes, forgot that we'd had a play." With his hand on the knob of the door, Sam stopped. "Come along, Lucette." Lucette caught Field's arm. "Come with us, Jerry, and stop the rumor that you and Brooke have eloped; also we'll let people tell us what hits we were in 'Islands Arise.'"

"Suppose we go back to the party," Mark Trent suggested, and offered his arm to Mrs. Gregory. As Mark Trent stepped back that Mrs. Gregory might precede him into the hall, Jed Stewart caught his arm.

"Just a minute, fella!" He lowered his voice. "The inspector wants us to wait up until he gets here, no matter if he doesn't come till daylight." Mark nodded assent. The throbbing of a harp, the singing of the violins, the quaver of the horns, the brooding of the oboe were muted to a caressing minor, heart-breakingly sweet, as he piloted Mrs. Gregory to a throne-like chair in the hall. He left her and went in search of the New York producer. It required considerable finesse to evade clamorous friends. Even as he acknowledged praise of his acting, congratulations on the party, he was thinking what a queer, aching, vivid thing love was, with its ecstasy, its inevitable misunderstandings, its quarrels, and he wondered why he bruised his heart against Brooke's dislike, wondered if she would ever forgive him for that kiss. At least he—

"Mark! Mark!" Before he had a chance to evade her, Daphne Field flung a bare arm about his neck. "Dance with me, please! Mark! Mark! You must love me!" The girl's voice caught in a sob as she pressed against him. Too annoyed to answer, he put his arm about her to guide her out of the room. As he turned he saw Brooke Reyburn standing directly behind her. There was a curious light in her eyes, a mocking smile on her lips.

Even as Brooke smiled and accepted congratulations on the success of her brother's play, did her best to entertain the New York producer who attached himself to her from the moment Sam presented him, she was asking herself impatiently: "Will the party never end? Who stole that paper from my desk? Can I make Mark Trent understand why I held it back? If it is lost, will he ever forgive me?"

But all parties end. The last of the guests, with Mrs. Gregory carefully tucked into their limousine, drove off in a flood of moonlight which transformed the world into an enchanted land of dazzling purity. The producer and manager left in a powerful car after hearty handshakes with Sam and a backward look at Brooke as she stood between her brother and Mark Trent in the hall. Except for the Reyburns, the Fields were the last to go.

"Sorry to Report That You've Lost Your Chauffeur, Mrs. Gregory."

She drew an unsteady breath of relief when the front door had shut out the brother and sister. They were outlanders in the present situation. She couldn't have told her story before them, and she must tell it quickly; that will must be found. She wanted Lucette and Sam to hear what she had to tell Mark Trent and Jed Stewart; the sooner they knew of the change in her fortune, the better.

Mark Trent linked his arm in Sam's. "Don't wig-wag the let's-go signal at the girls, maestro. Jed and I can't let you off yet. Come into the library. Half the fun of a party is talking it over. I told Kowa to bring in some eats. I don't believe you Reyburns ate a mouthful of supper; you were too busy receiving congratulations. I'm starving myself."

Sam grinned. "Now that you call the matter to my attention, I could try with a little food. Come on, Brooke." Lucette was curled up against the pillows in a corner of the library couch hugging her knees, when they entered. Stewart was backed up to the mantel. The girl's eyes were brilliant, her cheeks were pink, the voice in which she greeted them was bumped from excitement: "Come in, folks, and hear Jed tell me how good I was. He predicted that I would be an overnight sensation on Broadway."

"Snap out of that idea and snap out of it quick." "Don't growl, Master Reyburn; he has been handing bouquets to the play too. I done you wrong, Sammy, when I crabbed about the last minute changes you made in the script; they were the high lights. Where's Jerry?"

Mark Trent answered Lucette's question. "He and Daphne have gone home. You put it all over the other women in the cast of 'Islands Arise,' Lucette." "She was a knockout and so was the leading woman," Sam agreed, "but, if you want to know who had the New York producer eating out of her hand, it was our little sister Brooke. After she arrived—trust a Reyburn to realize the dramatic value of a late entrance—I couldn't pry him away from her; lucky I got my option before she appeared. What were you saying to him, Brooke?"

"We talked theater fast and furiously. It was a wonder that I could think of anything but the near escape the party had from a hold-up." Kowa entered with his quick cat-like tread. His eyes sparkled like black diamonds as he set a Chinese teapoy of red and gold lacquer beside each chair. "Boy, I'm tired! I feel all in," Sam confessed. "It's reaction, and I'll bet you haven't eaten for hours and hours." Mark Trent spoke to Kowa as he returned with a laden tray. "Serve Mr. Sam first. Here you are, maestro."

Sam's grin was swift and a trifle sheepish. "I'm all right, m'lad; slumped for a minute,—that's all." "Don't apologize," Lucette mimicked. "I'm not apologizing. I'm explaining—Sam broke off with a grimace at his sister. "Humorous, aren't you, kiddo? Fuss over Brooke, Mark, she needs it more than I. What with bracing me every time I got cold feet about 'Islands Arise' and getting dragged into the crime wave, she's had a hectic time since she came to Lookout House to live—I'll take another shot at those rolls, Kowa—I don't wonder she has decided to trek back to the town apartment. What will we do with the parrot when we go, Brooke?"

Brooke felt her color rise in response to the flash in Mark Trent's eyes as they met hers reflected in the great mirror. This was as good an opening as any she could bring about to tell the story of the paper Henri had produced. She rose and stood behind her chair. "We won't have to consider the parrot, Sam. Mr. Micawber has gone." "Gone!" Sam and Lucette chorused. "Did he make another get-away, or has Henri kidnaped him?" "Neither, Sam. He's in his cage, just a heap of green feathers." "Poor old duffer. He hasn't had any pep since the night he took off in a hop for freedom. I liked that bird. Something's always taking the joy out of life."

Removal of Gall Bladder

By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

A PROMINENT lawyer was going down hill physically. He was seventy years of age but had always been able to look after his legal work despite attacks of indigestion and an irritation which caused painful and frequent emptying of the urine.

Dr. Barton

The indigestion gave him loss of appetite, sour taste in the mouth, a bloated feeling, gas on the stomach and in the intestine, fullness after eating, and either constipation or diarrhoea. He didn't want to go to a doctor as he was afraid that an operation, perhaps two operations, might be necessary, and at seventy years of age he was "taking no chances."

The symptoms however—terrible attacks of indigestion, and the frequent desire to pass urine—made him decide that life wasn't worth the living with this pain and distress so he consulted his physician. Some months later friends meeting him on the street stopped him and congratulated him on his splendid appearance—good color, brisk walk, calm, serene face.

Don't Put Off Operation. To the inquiry as to the cause of the change in his appearance, he quite casually remarked, "Oh, they found some gall stones and removed my gall bladder, and then a little later I had them remove the gland at the neck of the bladder, so with these two annoyances removed I'm feeling young again."

The point here is that while operation can never be treated lightly and operation on one past seventy would seem somewhat of a serious risk, nevertheless when gall stones are present it is not the age of the patient that matters from the standpoint of a good recovery after operation, but the length of time the patient has allowed the symptoms to be present before undergoing the operation.

So if your doctor advises removal of the gall bladder, don't put it off too long. If it should come out, the sooner the better.

DiETING Daughters. One of the unfortunate things about prescribing reducing diets, particularly for women, is that so many young women of normal weight, or even below normal weight, believe that they will have a better appearance, will look "slim," if they follow the general rule of reducing weight, which, after all, is "just to eat less food." Intelligent young women, college and business girls, who would not think of using a drug such as thyroid extract to reduce weight, will deliberately "starve" themselves to get the slim boyish figure. "Of all the conditions found on examination of large groups of young women, underweight is about the most universal and likewise the most likely to prove dangerous." I am quoting Jane Foster, R. N., in Hygeia. Miss Foster is assistant director of health, Sarah Lawrence college. "There is then the problem of the girl of eighteen or nineteen consciously controlling her own weight at a standard below that for good health. Now the greatest cause for death in this age group is tuberculosis, the predisposing factor of which is malnutrition—underweight. The greatest cause of illness in college health records is found to be infections of the nose, throat and chest and these, too, go with pronounced underweight. Other companions of underweight may be irritable dispositions and a loss of the natural mental ability or alertness. Those who work with this age group are frequently impressed with the large number who complain of fatigue and general dissatisfaction with life." Of course the cause of this fatigue, irritability, dissatisfaction with life, is that these young women, who should be eating more food at this age than at any other age in their lifetime, are actually eating less than the body needs just to keep it working, aside from the extra food needed for growth in height and width. And the foods that should be eaten for growth and strength—meat, eggs and milk—are not included to any extent in the diet of these slim-mad girls.

Doilies Offer Thrifty Way to Set Table

A perfectly appointed table is the dream of every woman's heart. With the simplest of crochets you can make this dream come true. This set of doilies, in four sizes, does the trick. There are a 6, 12 and 17-inch size suitable for luncheon and buffet sets as well as doilies while the largest, a 22-inch doily, is just the thing for in-between cloth on many a table. Use string or mercerized cotton—they'll stand long usage and be decorative too. Pattern 1462 contains directions for making the doilies shown; illustrations of them and of all stitches used; material requirements. Send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) for this pattern to The Sewing Circle Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

I LEARNED TO 'BEAT' ACID INDIGESTION
ONCE LIFE WAS MISERABLE, NO APPETITE... LITTLE SLEEP...UNTIL THE DOCTOR SAID 'ALKALIZE'

BUT NOW—AT THE FIRST SIGN OF ACID-INDIGESTION I USE PHILLIPS' AND I FEEL LIKE A NEW PERSON ALMOST IMMEDIATELY!

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkaliizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready. Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonsful of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Liquor leaders in the legislature are seeking to make Texas as wet as the Gulf of Mexico. When the wets were advocating the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead and Dean laws, they solemnly promised the people that they would never permit the return of the old-time saloon. It has already returned in some of the states. We have a miserable makeshift of it in this state. But the wets are not satisfied with it. It does not throw the bars as wide-open as they would like. Therefore, they are now seeking to do two things. First, they are seeking to pass a law legalizing the sale of liquor by the drink in Texas. Second, they are seeking to abolish the Liquor Control Board and place the administration of the law under the jurisdiction of the state comptroller. The enactment of these two measures would mean the return of the old-time saloon in all its infamy. The wet leaders know it, and that is their purpose. Yet, some of them are putting up the hypocritical plea that they are merely seeking more revenue from the liquor business and less expense in administering the law. And they will probably hoodwink a large per cent of the population of Texas. Even oodles of dries have always been easily duped by the wets in this state, and we guess they will keep on being duped.

The records of senators and representatives in the legislature should be closely watched in this matter. We are lucky to have a senator from this district who doesn't need watching, but there are others, even from West Texas, who do need watching. We'll try to keep our readers wised up on at least some of these birds.

WALLACE'S COTTON PROGRAM

After the South has lost about half of its foreign cotton market, Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, arrives at the decision that it might be well to make some concessions in the 1938 control program by which lint production would be adjusted to both foreign and domestic demand. Had this policy been adopted in the adjustment schemes of the last five years, Texas and other export States might not have lost markets for some 3,500,000 bales now supplied by foreign countries.

Texas as the Nation's greatest cotton producing and exporting State has the major share at stake in a cotton adjustment program. South-eastern cotton States have their cotton mills, but Texas has few of these and must look to Japan, England, Germany and other nations, which because of restrictive measures imposed upon the South and because of high tariff and other reasons, have come to depend increasingly upon foreign cotton producers.

"The United States intends to keep its place in the world cotton markets"—these are bold words coming from the Secretary of Agriculture at the Memphis conference, but they have a hollow sound. That conclusion should have been an integral part of the agriculture adjustment program since 1933 as the paying of benefits to complying farmers. One wonders how the name of common sense the South and Texas can hope to displace foreigners who in five short years have managed to increase their cotton crops from a ten-year average of 10,250,000 bales prior to 1933 to 19,500,000 this season.

Mr. Wallace in his writings has shown himself to be a thinker, but in action he has pursued a vacillating course. After the horse has been stolen he would shut tightly the door. Encouragement of greater cotton consumption is nothing new. That has been talked for years but little has been accomplished. Increased production of food and feed will not provide the cotton farmer with badly needed cash to take the place of cotton income. Texas cotton must go into export. That is its normal outlet.—Dallas News.

We still insist that there should be a law in this state requiring every state senator and representative to file an affidavit showing his corporate connections. There are too many members of the legislature drawing pay from corporations for "legal services", if current reports are to be accepted. If there are lawyers in the legislature representing the liquor interests, the race-track gambling interests, the public service corporations, and other interests having axes to grind, the people have a right to know it. And the lawyer in the legislature who piously draws his cloak around him and pleads that his honor is being questioned every time some one suggests that legislators be required to reveal their corporate connections will do to watch.

That was a straight forward statement made by Justice Hugo Black over the radio last Friday night respecting his membership in the Ku Klux Klan. While he gave no reason for joining the order, the conclusion is inescapable that he joined purely for political reasons. Evidently he decided later that the order was too radical in its purposes and activities and he got out. Thousands of other good men in the South did the same thing. His bitter critics who refuse to be placated and who continue to pour out their vitriol upon him do so themselves for political reasons or because they are themselves exceedingly intolerant. In either case they are guilty of the same fault they are condemning in him. They should let Mr. Black rest now and give him a chance to make a great justice of the Supreme Court, if he has it in him.

SOME PUMPKIN

The largest pumpkin ever grown in Gaines County is on display in the office at Bowers Bros. Weighing 44 pounds and 3 ounces it was grown in a garden at the Joe Bailey home. It is 4 feet and 1 1/2 inches in circumference. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey planted the small Sugar Pumpkin seed about June 20th, and have three vines with eighteen pumpkins on them, all larger than the average sized pumpkin, but this one is the largest. The vine this large one grew on has six other pumpkins on it. They were planted on land treated with fertilizer.—Gaines County News.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Notice is hereby given that bids will be received until 10 a. m. October 15, 1937, on the following described equipment: One Diesel tractor, wide gage, 18 inch track shoes, approximately 60-horse motor, upholstered seat, starter, no cab; and one 10-foot power control bade grader, complete with two 3-foot extensions, approximate shipping weight 8,200 pounds. The court reserves the right to reject any or all bids. If any bid is accepted, it is the intention of the commissioners court of Lynn county to issue interest-bearing time warrants in payment for the hereinbefore described road machinery, and the contract therefor in the maximum amount of $4,000, bearing interest at the maximum rate of six per cent per annum and maturing serially over a period of four years with maximum maturity date May 1, 1941.

"Certain Basic American Rights"
By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

In one of the most inspiring discussions that marked the writing of our Constitution, James Madison identified the people as "the fountain of all power," and insisted that by resorting to them all difficulties would be solved. How true the statement was, subsequent history has proved. In virtually every serious national difficulty, it has been the voice of the average citizen, rather than of the partisan politician, that spoke the constructive answer. And within recent weeks America has seen another demonstration of this great verity.

At the National Convention of the American Legion, many resolutions were heard and adopted. But the one to strike a responsive chord in the heart of every American was that which affirmed "our belief in, and adherence to, and our resolve to defend, certain basic American rights and institutions..."

They included personal liberty, religious freedom, home and family and "constitutional guaranty to safeguard these precious rights."

This was not the voice of political partisanship—for the American Legion includes members of all parties. It was the voice of any economic faction—for the Legion includes employers and employees, professional men and artisans; every strata of our great productive body of workers.

It was, indeed, the pronouncement of the composite American, voiced by men who had demonstrated their faith in the American ideal of democracy and were willing to demonstrate it again.

It was an expression of that spirit which the Founders invoked and foresaw when they made this a government of, by, and for the people, and knew they had placed it in firm and capable hands.

Less Monthly Discomfort
Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

BAPTIST WORKERS MEET IN GOMEZ

Each church of the Brownfield Baptist Association may hold a school of missions during the next few months if plans made at the monthly Workers Conference Tuesday at Gomez are carried out. Rev. George A. Dale of Tahoka explained the plan worked out by the Executive Board, which would make it possible for every church in the Association to hold such a school simultaneously with each other church. Returned missionaries will speak and missionary books will be taught, bringing much new and vital information to each church. This plan endorsed alike by laymen, pastors and W. M. U. doubtless will mean much to the cause of Christ in this Association.

Other work of Tuesday's meeting included an Executive Board meeting and the regularly quarterly meeting of the W. M. U. presided over by Mrs. L. Lumsden of Wilson, who heard reports and gave a history of the past year's work.

The day's program included inspirational sermons by Revs. J. C. McGraw of Plains, W. A. Rogers of Brownfield, and W. P. Bryan of Ropesville, Mexican missionary, J. F. Lopez of Lubbock and Martinez of Slaton discussed Mexican mission work.

Those attending from Tahoka included Rev. and Mrs. George A. Dale, Mmes. F. L. Kelley, H. P. Caviness, T. B. Burrough, H. M. Snowden, E. I. Hill and Miss Margaret Preston.

The next meeting will be held in O'Donnell in November.

CALIFORNIA MAN MARRIES HERE

Joe Martin of Bakersfield, California, and Miss Frieda Parker of Seminole, Texas, were married here Tuesday night at the residence of Rev. George A. Dale, pastor of the Baptist Church.

Mr. Martin is connected with a Seismograph surveying crew and formerly did work in this county, staying while here in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Price. They were witnesses to the wedding ceremonies.

The couple will make their home in Bakersfield.

A Lemesa couple, J. J. Carroll and Miss Odessa Hill, were evidently intent on getting an early start in married life this week, for they drove up to Tahoka Monday morning, arriving at the Baptist pastor's home before breakfast, and engaged his services in the performance of a marriage ceremony, which he did to their entire satisfaction. They will reside in Lamesa.

BAPTIST W. M. S. HOLDS ROYAL SERVICE PROGRAM

With the Chinese as their subject the Blanche Rose Walker and Lottie Moon Circles rendered an interesting and instructive program when all circles met for the Royal Service program in the home of Mrs. Jim Burleson Monday afternoon. Mrs. C. T. Oliver had charge of the program.

Mrs. H. P. Caviness, newly-elected president, held a short business session and urged closer cooperation in both the local and the association-wide W. M. U. work.

Each local W. M. U. is being given an efficiency rating this year and attendance upon all associational meetings is being urged upon all local officers and associational chairmen.

Mrs. Garland Pennington and members of the Sallee Circle passed a refreshment plate of pie and coffee to the following: Mmes. George A. Dale, H. P. Caviness, C. Hufstedler, C. T. Oliver, A. J. Edwards, J. L. Nevill, F. L. Kelly, R. C. Wells, W. C. McKinzie, H. B. Howell, H. P. St. Clair, Wylie Fortenberry, J. R. McIntyre, Jim Burleson, S. H. Holland, H. M. Snowden, C. C. Barnes, K. R. Durham, C. Connolly, Garland Pennington, Mother Weathers and Mother Stroud.

CHURCH OF GOD SERVICES

We cordially invite everyone to attend our services at the Assembly of God Church two blocks south of the court house on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sunday evenings at 7:30 P. M.

Sacrament services Sunday at 11 A. M. Pas. 122. Rev. O. C. Wolf, pastor.

Mrs. Weaver Wins Many Prizes

Mrs. A. C. Weaver, member of the Tahoka H. D. Club, seemingly won just about everything in sight in the H. D. Club women's department of the Panhandle-South Plains Fair last week. Here is a list of her winnings:

Canned cherries, second place; string beans, first place; beets, first place; greens, first; tomato juice, second; green tomato pickles, sour, first; green tomato pickles, sweet, first; cucumber pickles, sweet, first; pepper relish, second; pickled beets, first; pickled pears, sweet, second; strawberry preserves, third; plum preserves, third peach preserves, second; plum jelly, second.

Club Women Report Great Convention

Mrs. S. G. Anthony of Wilson and Mmes. James Connolly and T. I. Tippit of Tahoka returned at an early hour last Friday morning from San Antonio, where they attended the three days convention of the H. D. Club women for Texas.

They report that 172 counties were represented and that 379 voting delegates were present. The program, they say, was very fine.

Mrs. J. L. Morris of Lamesa was elected president for the ensuing year and Mrs. Kennedy of Muleshoe was elected vice-president for this district.

NEW LYNN 4-H CLUB IS REORGANIZED

The New Lynn 4-H Club met at school and reorganized October 4 with the following officers elected:

Velma Lee Parker, President
Mezzie Mae Baker, Vice-President
Juanita Jones, Secretary
Pauline Perkins, Reporter
Mezzie Mae Baker, Recreation Leader.

Demonstrators will be decided on at a later date.

Mrs. A. P. Cooper will be sponsor. Members present: Helen Bain, Ruth Evans, Lucretia Lackey, Gracie Crouch, Anna Jean Carpenter, Margaret Huff, Dorothy Lackey, Pauline Perkins, Mezzie Mae Baker, Bobbie Smith, Pearl Fleming, Naomi Reagan, Velma Lee Parker and Juanita Jones.

GRASSLAND 4-H CLUB ELECT NEW OFFICERS

At a regular meeting of the Grassland 4-H Club, October 1, at the school building, the following officers were elected for 1938: President, Viola Roberts; Vice-President, Margie Shepherd; Secretary, Nelda Lois Moore; Recreation Leader, Beth Shepherd; Poultry Demonstrator, Joy Moore. The clothing demonstrator was not decided on at this meeting.

Members present were: Bernice Huffaker, Margie Shepherd, Joy Lanell Moore, Nelda Lois Moore, Eula May Laws, Olive Belle Smith, Viola Roberts, Billie Williams, Beth Shepherd and Rubie Greer. Seven visitors were present.

NOTES FROM THE METHODIST CHURCH

Let us make the month of October "Loyalty Month". The year is rapidly closing. Let us show our gratitude by making its closing weeks the best part of it. Let's not get too busy with other things to forget the Church, the Sabbath and God. We are thankful the sick are better. We expect to see you in school and church services next Sunday.

Garland Edwards was taken to a Lubbock hospital Tuesday suffering from an attack of appendicitis. He soon recovered from the attack, however, and physicians decided it was not necessary to operate. He was brought back home Wednesday afternoon.

Arm Is Amputated In New Home Gin

The right arm of Layton Reeves was amputated near the wrist Tuesday afternoon when it was caught by the saws of the cleaner in Edwards gin at New Home. The dismembered hand was terribly mangled in the machinery.

The injured man was taken to the Lubbock Sanitarium for treatment, where medical and surgical attention was given. It is hoped that the wound will heal with the minimum of pain.

Reeves, 27, was an employee of the gin.

PHOEBE K. WARNER CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. CALAWAY

The Phoebe K. Warner Club will meet this (Friday) afternoon at 4 o'clock in the home of Mrs. E. E. Calaway, according to announcement made by Mrs. W. O. Henderson.

Every member is expected to be present. A good program is to be given.

Mrs. Calvin Dunagan, who has been seriously sick for several weeks, was taken to a Lubbock sanitarium Thursday afternoon for an operation. It is hoped that the operation will prove to be entirely successful and that she may be speedily restored to her health.

Paul B. Halamlock of Big Lake was here this week looking after property interests. He owns a section of land east of Tahoka and a half section in the New Home community. He ordered the News sent to his address for the next year.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. McClendon are the parents of a son born Monday, weighing 9 1/4 pounds. The little youngster has been named Wendell Eudell. Mother and babe are both doing well. McClendon is one of the owners of the Black Cat Cafe.

Henry Clark Is Reported Improving

Henry Clark, who was bitten on the leg by a big diamond rattler while working in a field on the Mrs. M. I. Ray farm a mile south of Tahoka on Wednesday of last week, is now out of danger, and it is hoped that he will completely recover. Mr. Clark was in a critical condition for several days following the bite.

He was rushed in a car to a physician and received treatment only a few minutes after being bitten. The big rattler sank both fangs, it is said, into the flesh of the leg below the knee. A fellow worker procured a gun and killed the vicious reptile.

Jackson West was taken to a Lubbock hospital Wednesday for an appendicitis operation.

Record Attendance For Lubbock Fair

The attendance at the Panhandle-South Plains Fair in Lubbock last week surpassed all previous attendance records except one, according to the Lubbock Avalanche.

The attendance probably would have far exceeded all previous records without exception had not the farming population been so busy harvesting the bumper cotton and feed crops that have been produced on the South Plains this year. Farmers were just beginning the harvest and they could not afford to quit to attend any kind of fair. Business men too were getting the first sweet taste of a prosperity which seems to be sweeping in upon them, and they too could not afford to quit.

The poor editor got a more pep-in Saturday afternoon.

It looked good to see the white ribbon pinned on the Lynn county agricultural exhibit, indicating that Lynn county stood third among the entire list of counties having exhibits there.

But they all looked good to us. If we had been called in as one of the judges, we would have been up against it. Everything exhibited was super-fine. And O Boy! those watermelons, some of them almost as large as prairie schooners.

In the live stock department, there were the usual mammoth specimens. Cows as fine and pretty as any picture you ever saw—and this is no bull. There were plenty of bulls there, however, the best in the West, which means the best on earth. And Hogs! There were hogs as big as the side of a house.

We didn't get there in time to see the races. Spent just a few minutes on the carnival grounds—might have had our fortune told if the "missus" hadn't been along. She led us away from the "bovery" and in to the Women's Building, where all kinds of textile and artistic work as well as culinary specimens and flowers were on display. It takes a woman to bring beauty and delicacy and refinement to a fair, a home, a town, or any other place where man gropes around; and it was so here. We wouldn't undertake to picture the delicate and artistic displays in this building, for we would make a mess of it; but it was fine for even a mere man to look upon.

Let's go to the fair again next year, folks.

J. D. Franklin Jr. of Blackwell (recreational Agriculture teacher) was in this section Saturday studying cotton variety. He was accompanied by his wife the former Miss Gladys Moore of T-Bar. They visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Curry and while here visited the Panhandle-South Plains Fair at Lubbock.

The condition of Frank Hill continues to improve slowly but he is by no means able to return to his work in the News office. Physicians expect to take an x-ray picture of the mastoid bone at an early date to determine whether or not there is any mastoid trouble.

Miss Dorothy Payne, who has been visiting friends for the past five weeks in Moab, Utah, in Colorado and in Cuba, New Mexico, returned to her home Monday.

New Acts Booked for Pan American Casino

For the last 30 days of its run, the Pan American Casino at the Pan American Exposition in Dallas has booked four stellar acts to complement its "perfect revue" that has received nation-wide acclaim. 1. Johnny Paleo, star of Borrah Mineevich's Harmonica Rascals; 2. Isabel Kimpal and Leon Barre, dance team featured in the "Bolero"; 3. Barto and Mann, the long and short of laughs and taps; and 4. Stan Kavanaugh, comedy juggler, who returns to the Casino revue by popular demand.

G. H. Nelson Speaks To Rotary Club

Senator G. H. Nelson was the speaker at the Rotary meeting here Thursday noon. He discussed the problems of a legislator and particularly the issues now confronting the legislature. His discussion was so frank and enlightening that it is regrettable that it was not heard by every citizen of the county. The people need to know the background and the circumstances of every fight over taxes and other matters that are being staged in this state.

As usual several visitors were present. Among them were Superintendent M. L. H. Baze and Coach Boel of Brownfield and R. M. Cade of Morgan, the latter being a brother of A. M. Cade.

Fire Boys Answer Call To Wilson

The Tahoka Fire Department was called Sunday afternoon to help extinguish a fire which broke out in the hotel at Wilson. Some of the boys started with the truck but failed to get there with it. They parked the truck and went on to Wilson in a car. The fire had been extinguished before their arrival. Only small damage was done to the building and not much to the contents.

Again the department was called out Tuesday night to fight out a fire at the Greathouse filling station in south Tahoka. This fire had likewise been extinguished when the fire boys arrived. Mrs. Greathouse smothering it out with flour which she brought from the living compartment of the house. The fire started when a man threw a lighted match down too near a gasoline tank. The pump was only slightly damaged.

We did not learn how the fire at Wilson originated.

This is Fire Prevention Week, folks.

Corley Convicted Of Assault

Jack Corley was tried in the district court Monday on a charge of Assault to murder. The jury acquitted him of this charge but found him guilty of the lesser offense of aggravated assault. His punishment was fixed at a fine of $30.

The victim of Corley's alleged assault was a negro. Corley is alleged to have shot at him near his place of business here several months ago. The disturbance caused quite a bit of excitement at the time.

Leroy Knight Attends Dealers Conference

Lee Roy Knight of the Gagnat Motor Company recently attended a conference of Dodge car dealers held in Oklahoma City.

The purpose of the meeting was to review the 1937 activities of Dodge dealers and discuss sales and service plans for 1938.

Mr. Knight says that reports at the conference showed that many orders for the 1938 model Dodge are being placed "sight-unseen".

Guarding Our Guarantee of Liberty

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Since our inception as a nation, the proudest boast of our American Republic has been its guarantee of civil and religious liberty.

That guarantee is written into our Constitution. It is the first article; in our Bill of Rights. It is the substance that has attracted to our shores, through successive decades, men of faith and character.

It is inextricably woven into the whole American tradition.

Above all things, it is that guarantee which differentiates life in America from life under the new European dictatorships, whether of individual men or of favored groups. It remains a keystone of the structure which protects free democracy from the assaults of intolerance and oppression.

The citizens of our young Republic recognized all this when they wrote into the Federal Constitution a dictum that:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

Modern Americans must recognize it too, and continue—as did their fathers—the defense of this national tradition from threats in any form, or from any source.

Perennial vigilance remains today, as in the era of the Founders, the inescapable price of liberty.

And to that high ideal of liberty—both of action and of spirit—America still is dedicated.

G. H. Nelson Family Visit Here

Senator and Mrs. G. H. Nelson and children of Lubbock were here Sunday visiting friends.

Senator Nelson had been in Austin a few days during the week attending the called session of the legislature, but there was really nothing for the Senate to do but mark time until the House passes some kind of tax measure and sends it to the Senate, since the governor had submitted only the matter of taxation, and all tax measures must originate in the House.

Senator Nelson was planning to return to Austin about the middle of this week.

BORDEN COUNTY PIONEER DIES AT GALE HOME

C. W. Taylor, 82 years of age and a resident of Borden county for more than 35 years, died at his home near Gall early Tuesday morning, and the remains were buried at Gall Tuesday afternoon.

The funeral was conducted by Elder R. P. Drennon of Tahoka. A great crowd of the neighbors and friends of the deceased attended the services, many coming from other West Texas counties. Deceased had been engaged in the ranch business ever since coming to the county more than 35 years ago, and he had numerous friends and acquaintances among the old-time ranchmen of this section.

He left surviving him the widow, two sons and two daughters.

Fred House has accepted a position with the W. M. Harris Hardware and Furniture Co.

The Senior Class of '38 presented a very entertaining chapel program to the student body last Friday, September 30. The theme of this program was good school citizenship. The program was as follows:
Talk on Good School Conduct—Mary M. Tunnell
Piano Solo—Edith Robertson
Song—Give the World a Smile—Senior Boys' Quartet—Jack Weathers, Hiram Snowden, Wyman Johnson, and George Wright.

Song—Old MacDonald Had a Farm—Group of Senior boys and girls
Talk on School Loyalty and Sportsmanship—Jo Alice Brooks
Song—A Sailboat in the Moonlight—Senior girls' Quartet—Leverne Allen, Jo Belle Milliken, Edith Robertson, and Mary M. Tunnell.

Editorial—Some School Statistics
Total enrollment for the first school month was 218 for the High School. The percentage of attendance was 92 per cent. This means that on the average there were about eighteen high school people absent daily. With these facts in mind consider the following:
Every day spent in school pays the child $9.

Here is the proof, based on the wage scale of 1913.
Uneducated laborers earn on the average of $500 per year for forty years, a total of $20,000.
High school graduates earn on the average of $1,000 per year for forty years, a total of $40,000.

This education required twelve years of school of 180 days each, a total of 2,160 days in school.
If 2,160 days at school add $20,000 to the income for life, then each day at school adds $9.25.
The child that stays out of school to earn less than $9 a day is losing money—not making money.
These figures are based on an investigation made by Dr. A. C. Ellis of the University of Texas.

Anything to Oblige
A young subaltern joined a guards depot, his upper lip as yet unadorned with even the suspicion of down. The adjutant sent for him.
"You must grow a mustache."
"Yes, sir."
"And not one of those Chaplin affairs—a proper mustache."
"Yes, sir."
The interview was finished, but the subaltern did not move, so the adjutant asked: "Well, what more do you want?"
"Any particular color, sir?"

After the kiss she calmed down a bit.
"But how can you love me, George," she said. "The doctor says I must have a course of slimming, and now you won't let me. I think that's brutal of you."
He took her in his arms.
"My darling," he replied, "I love you so much that I can't bear to lose an ounce of you."—London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Household Questions

Cleaning Enameled Sinks.—Those stubborn dark streaks which accumulate on enameled sinks and bathtubs can be removed with kerosene.

Potatoes for Short Cakes.—Hot, boiled and mashed white potatoes are good in making short cakes and puddings. They not only save flour, but require less shortening.

When Peeling Small Onions.—Cover small onions with hot water and let stand for a minute or two and the skins are easily removed.

Eggs in Tomatoes.—Take large tomatoes, slice off the tops, remove the pulp. Break an egg into each case, replace the pulp, add a nut of butter, season with pepper and salt. Replace the tops and bake in a hot oven for 5 to 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold, garnished with cress, peas or lettuce.

Dry Soiled Clothes.—When clothes are sent to the laundry they are usually paid for by weight. Money can be saved if the housewife makes certain all articles are dry before they are sent out.

When Washing Soft Polishing Dusters.—Rinse them in slightly soapy water instead of clear water. This makes the dusters much softer and they polish better.

Crab Apple Jelly.—Take one pint of water to every pound of apples, and boil until soft. Then put through jelly-bag. Allow one pound of sugar and a tablespoonful of vinegar to every pint of liquid, and boil for half an hour or until it jellies.

Johnny Cake.—One cup yellow corn meal, one cup bread flour, one-third cup sugar, one and one-half cups sour milk, half teaspoon soda, half teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt. Mix and sift the dry ingredients twice, and gradually add the sour milk. Beat well; and bake in a shallow greased pan, in a moderate oven.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious troubles may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, so that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Death Was Confused" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY: As a rule, it doesn't pay to look too much like someone else. You know how embarrassing it is to have some dizzy dame rush up to you gushing, "Why, Tom Waters, where on earth have you been? I haven't seen you for ages; how's your dear mother?" etc.

Your name has always been Henry Jones and you don't know the gal from Adam's off ox, but you stand there like an ox wondering how you can correct the mistake without hurting her feelings.

Some have been pointed out as robbers and murderers, served terms in prisons and even paid with their lives for looking like someone else. It never happens that someone walks up to you and says, "Well, if it ain't old Joe Doakes himself. Here's that five hundred bucks you loaned me twelve years ago."

But, luckier, very much luckier, things than that have come to a very few men because they were thought to be other persons. One of them is William H. D. Bence, of Laurelton, L. I., who sent me today's adventure.

In 1917 Bill was where most Canadians were—in the Canadian army, and on December 6 of that year he was at Wellington barracks, Halifax, Nova Scotia. At 9 o'clock in the morning on that awful day in Halifax Bill was standing inspection in the barracks yard. The commanding officer was just in front of Bill, looking over his equipment with an eagle eye, when all at once the air seemed to quiver, there was a dreadful, deep sigh, followed by a TERRIFIC EXPLOSION. The officer was hurled violently against Bill and they both went down together.

The officer, swearing a blue streak, got to his feet. Bill sat up and saw that every man in the battalion on parade had been blown flat like a pack of cards, instruments of the band were scattered and the bass drum was bowling across the yard like a thing possessed.

The air became thick and yellow as a London fog and carrying through it was the rumble of falling masonry. Through the murk the soldiers could see the solidly-built barracks building melting away as they settled inwards.

Panic in the Wrecked Barracks.

With the cry, "The magazine is going up—run for your lives!" there was a mad rush for the main gate. But above the shouts of the men and the roar of falling masonry came the screams of women and children trapped in the crumbled, married men's barracks. And standing at the gate with outstretched arms and blood dripping from a cut over one eye stood Private McClellan, a rather irresponsible soldier, who, often as not, was in the guard house.

"We can't run away, boys!" he shouted. "There's women and children in there. Let's be Scotsmen."

Plowing through that mass of men, he led them back on the double. They found that one end of the married quarters had fallen in and rest of it was slowly collapsing. Women and children who had escaped were tearing frantically at the debris to reach those who had been trapped. The soldiers went to work more systematically and soon had a truck filled with children. Bill Bence grabbed a baby from under a pile of rubbish and forced it into the trembling arms of a girl. Then he realized the form was limp and saw the back of the skull was crushed.

Bill says he must have gone a little "off" at that discovery. But he began working his way into the wreckage to reach those whose screams of pain and fear made a nightmare of the morning. From beneath a heap of bricks he saw a pair of men's boots and a hand that moved feebly. As he stepped into the room the whole world seemed to fall on him and everything went black.

Slate Roof Was Coming Down on Him.

When he came to, Bill was on his back, his legs pinned between two beams on which was heaped a ton of bricks. Struggle how he would, Bill could not free his legs. Then, as he lay and looked up, he got the shock of his life.

There, directly over his head, hung half the slate roof that was held only by a thin lath that had become wedged at a key point, but was SLOWLY BUCKLING. The mass was already stirring and dust trickled onto his upturned face. Bill raised up and began tearing like a madman at the top beam that held him prisoner, shouting himself hoarse for help. Soon exhausted, the dust-covered man lay back, waiting for the end.

Perhaps he fainted. Anyway, Bill says, it was as in a dream he heard a woman's voice: "Praise be to the saints, he's here! See the stripes and crown on his sleeve. Here, Katie, get hold of this beam and pull—the only thing holding him down."

A tall, strong woman and a husky girl in her teens heaved and pulled until they had that top beam to one side. Then their strong fingers clutched the collar of Bill's coat and pulped him outside. And only in the nick of time, for, with a great roar and a blinding cloud of dust, the roof came down.

They Thought He Was Their Dinny

Bill was unable to stand. The two women supported him, all three coughing from the choking dust, and mother and daughter took turns in kissing him frantically. And then, heaven preserve us, mother and daughter realized the man they had saved from certain death was not their Dinny.

"Who were you looking for?" Bill gasped. The woman screamed at the sound of his voice, the more practical daughter wiped the thick coating of dust from his face. "Company Sergeant-Major O'Hara," she answered. "He was off duty this morning—wasn't he in there?"

Bill only shook his head. He did not have the courage to tell them of those two boots and the feebly moving hand. For, whatever life there was then in the buried Company Sergeant-Major O'Hara had been crushed out by the falling roof. Bill had been pinned down in O'Hara's room. And the crown and stripes were worn by both a company sergeant-major (O'Hara) and a company quartermaster-sergeant (Bill).

Bill was not long in learning what had knocked over the battalion parade like so many toy soldiers. A ship loaded with high explosives had been in a collision in the harbor and had been blown to bits, causing a tidal wave and started fires that destroyed one-third of the city of 80,000 persons. There were 1,226 dead and 400 more were missing. There were, of course, thousands and thousands injured, and Bill was immediately assigned to Dartmouth hospital for duty. Things he saw there are better left untold.

Origination of the Airedale: Legend says the airedale originated in the valleys (dales) of the Ayr river, Scotland. Hence the name. Actually, English poachers, seeking to evade forest wardens, created the breed. They crossed the otterhound with various terriers to obtain a courageous hunting dog that seldom barked.

Ancient Egypt's Writing: Three forms of writing were used in ancient Egypt—the hieroglyphic, or priestly, writing, consisting of pictures to represent ideas; the so-called hieratic, an abbreviated form of the hieroglyphic, used by the priests for writing manuscripts, and the demotic, or popular script, which came into use very late.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for October 10 THE CHRISTIAN IN GOD'S KEEPING

LESSON TEXT—Jude 1-4, 17-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.—Jude 21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why David Sang. JUNIOR TOPIC—In God's Keeping. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Keeping Oneself Christian. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Safe in God's Keeping.

To be born is only to begin life. The years which stretch out before with their growth, their struggles, their joys, call for courageous living.

So it is with the Christian. He is a "born one," as we saw in our lesson of last Sunday. But when he is born again he is just ready to begin the Christian life.

The Epistle of Jude sheds much light on the dangers which beset the Christian's pathway and exhorts him to holy living and sacrificial service. It opens with a description of the Christian and closes with an ascription of praise to God. It reveals the Christian as one who is

I. Called in Christ (vv. 1, 2). The entire Trinity is seen to be active in our redemption (See Revised Version). Jude writes "to them that are"

1. "Called"—The Holy Spirit calls men unto salvation.

2. "Beloved in God the Father"—for God is love.

3. "Kept for Jesus Christ"—until he appears.

II. Living for Christ (vv. 3, 4, 17-23).

As Jude began to write of the "salvation" which he had in "common" with his readers, the Holy Spirit moved him to deal with a very urgent and vital problem—the hostility of wicked men toward the gospel of Christ, and their efforts to destroy "the faith." The Christian life includes

1. Contending for the faith (vv. 3, 4). "The Faith" is the body of revealed truth, the gospel, the good news of redemption in Jesus Christ.

The world hates the gospel, and attacks upon it are to be expected, but the most insidious assault is that of those within the church (v. 4) who profess to believe in Christ. Against them and their destructive work Christians must "contend earnestly," at the same time praying that they may be delivered from their sin and its terrible judgment (vv. 15-16).

2. Observing the times in which they live (vv. 17-19). Some folk seem to think that being a Christian means entering into a place of security and rest and promptly going sound asleep. Far from it. The Christian, knowing God's Word, is keenly alert to the dangers of this ungodly world.

3. Keeping their own souls (vv. 20, 21). The best defense is a vigorous offense. The way to contend against error is to build up one's own faith by the study of God's Word, by communion with his children, but above all by prayer "in the Holy Ghost." And above all there will be an abiding in the love of God and a looking for the fulfillment of the mercy of Christ at his coming again.

4. Saving the souls of others (vv. 22, 23). Soul-winning is (or should be) the normal expression of the Christian's life. It is his crowning joy. It most effectively counteracts error and worldliness. It builds up the church. Why not do it?

Note that there are two types of sinners to be rescued. Some are "in doubt" (R. V.), needing tender and careful instruction. Others are in grave danger, and must be rescued by drastic reproof and decisive action. Soul-winning is urgent business.

III. Kept by Christ (vv. 24, 25). The doxology at the close of Jude has been a haven of comfort and assurance for God's children throughout the centuries. Hither have come the strong in faith to rejoice and praise God. Here has been found the strengthening of faith by the fearful and trembling soul who had not yet learned that he may fully trust God. These verses present two truths.

1. Assurance. Our Saviour is able to keep us from falling, yes, even from "stumbling" (R. V.), and to present us "faultless" "without blemish" (R. V.), with exceeding joy, before the glorious presence of God.

2. Worship. Such a God and Saviour is indeed worthy of the outgoing of every Christian heart in adoration and worship.

Work and Wait: Haste is not always speed. We must learn to work and wait. This is like God, who perfects his works through beautiful gradations.

Greatness of Trifles: "Commit thy trifles unto God, for to Him nothing is trivial; and it is but the littleness of man that seeth no greatness in a trifle."

Sabbath Days: Sabbath days are quiet islands on the tossing sea of life.

Fall Fashion Parade

BE THE first to wear the new Fall fashions in your group—let Sew-Your-Own help you to step right out in front, in the parade of new Fall Fashions. Today's trio gives you wide choice.

Your first occasion frock if you are young and slim is a good looking basque model; for run-around a pretty yoke model that is as easy to make as it is to wear; and if you are full bosomed a jabot model that takes away inches.

The Popular Basque Dress: If you are twenty or thereabouts, you'll adore this pretty basque dress with its flaring skirt. The slim wasp waist and short puffed sleeves above a swing skirt are as young as the morning. Have it in a pretty dark print banded in velvet ribbon for every afternoon festivity. It's a dress that you'll wear all through the winter.

Every woman will be quick to see the advantages of this frock, in style and wearability. The round yoke buttons at front and gives a fresh, young look to this design. Best of all, it is cut in one piece from neck to hem so that you can make it in practically no time at all. The waistline is darted for snug fit. You'll look and feel years younger in this model—wear it round the house and for afternoon, too.

Look Slim and Sleek: The newest fashions give you a slim, sleek look even if you are not blessed with a svelte figure. The jabot model in the illustration is designed to make even the woman who is a bit on the plump side look sleek and inches slimmer. Make this dress in one of the new thin wools and see how you'll stand out in your crowd as a fashion leader.

Pattern 1257 is designed for sizes 12 to 40. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material and 11 yards of ribbon to trim.

Pattern 1380 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1373 is designed for sizes 34 to 50. Size 36 requires 3 1/2 yards of 54 inch material and 3/4 yards of 39 inch material for jabot in contrast.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Henderson of Eastland and their three daughters, Mrs. H. D. Sone of Eastland, Mrs. Sidney Farris of Cisco, and Miss Nell Rose Henderson, now a student in the Texas Tech; Mr. and Mrs. Charey Sanders and two children and Mr. and Mrs. Garland Cabe and two children, all of Brownfield; Doyle Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Maynard of Anton; Mrs. Sanders' mother, Mrs. McDowell and the latter's daughters Misses Sue and Edith, of Goodnight; Mrs. John Cook and son, John Manley Cook, and Mr. and Mrs. Dexter McDowell, all of Borger; Mr. and Mrs. Dodd McDowell and Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Carpenter of Clarendon; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lambert of Pampa; Fred Clatenoff and L. V. Chenoweth of Los Angeles, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Shockley, and Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rutherford and daughter, Agnes, all of Anton; and possibly others whose names were not given us.

Benny Sanders was a good man; industrious, kind-hearted, and deeply religious. It seems so tragic that he should be taken from his family, his relatives, and his friends while yet in the prime of life. We drop a tear to his memory.

Oscar Summers Case Is On Trial

The case against Oscar Summers charging cow theft went to trial in the district court here Thursday morning.

The probabilities were that the case would go to the jury Thursday night or Friday.

COUNTY COMMITTEE WILL RECOMMEND ACALA SEED

The New Boykin has also been tested out for ten years. Its average production has been 193 pounds of lint per acre. The lint turnout has averaged 39 per cent. The staple length has averaged 29-32 of an inch. At the first picking, 12 per cent of the crop has been gathered; at the second picking, 48 per cent.

The Paymaster seems to be in a class with the two varieties mentioned above, though it has not been grown on the experiment farm for a sufficient number of years to fully test its merits.

While the yield per acre of the Acala has been eighteen pounds lower than the yield of the New Boykin yet it has a longer staple, matures more quickly, and opens earlier. In fact, the ten year test shows that it opens earlier even than the regular half-and-half variety.

It is probable that different communities and even different individual farmers in the same community will prefer different varieties of cotton. If the committee finds it impossible to induce the entire county to adopt a single variety, it is believed that a plan can be worked out whereby any particular community may adopt the variety of its choice. Even a sufficient number of individuals in a community in some instances may adopt one variety while another group adopts another variety and succeed in getting it ginned without mixing the cotton or seeds. This is not desirable, however, and might be impossible in most communities.

MRS. B. P. ROBINSON DIES MONDAY

(Continued from first page) help Mrs. Robinson's health. They were at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cawthorn, when death came.

Besides her husband Mrs. Robinson leaves surviving her two daughters and one son, Mrs. Frank Chezem of Hugo, Oklahoma, Mrs. Ernest Cawthorn of Tahoka, and Luther Robinson of Draw. She also leaves two brothers and four sisters. The brothers are W. L. Young of Corpus Christi and W. O. Young of Tahoka. The sisters are Mrs. Frank Kelso of Ruff, Okla., Mrs. Lida Pogue of Sulphur Springs, Mrs. Alice Freeman of Austin, and Mrs. W. M. Harris of Tahoka.

Mrs. Robinson united with the Church of Christ in her childhood and she had been a devoted and faithful member ever since. She was an affectionate and tender mother, a true friend, and a good neighbor. The bereaved husband, children, and other relatives have the sincere sympathy of many friends.

Mrs. Jim Bannister, who lives a few miles east of Tahoka, is seriously ill in a Lubbock hospital though her condition has greatly improved the past few days. It is hoped that she may be able to return to her home soon.

DR. W. K. JOHNSON BACK IN PULPIT

(Continued from first page) pastor Women's Summer Bible Course. Have not heard if there will be refreshments. First on the program are those Bible lessons calling us. Again I say, it is good to be back and about our waiting work. The Lord give us strength and grace to keep doing our best all the rest of our days.

"Glad to have a good attendance Sunday. No night service, for the present. You are cordially invited."
 —W. K. Johnston, Minister."

FIRE! FIRE!

That is an alarming cry to hear at the dead hours of the night. It is a fearful cry to hear at any time.

As winter approaches and the heaters are set burning, the fire hazards are greatly increased.

Every gas connection and every flue should be carefully inspected. Fires should not be left burning long at a time in any kind of heater while all the occupants of the house are out. Fires should never be left burning in any kind of heater at night while the occupants are asleep. Certainly not unless the utmost precaution is first taken to prevent a fire catastrophe.

This is Fire Prevention Week. It is a good time to think of the danger of fire, and to take steps to reduce such danger to a minimum.

The Two Types of Modern Mattresses

OF ALL OUTER-SPRING MATTRESSES IN USE 90% are Spring-Air

Here is the Most Important Fact about Mattresses . . .
All Other Testimonials Are Trilling by Comparison!

There are two types of modern mattresses—Inner-spring and Outer-spring—each having advantages that can be explained to you by your dealer—without prejudice. The right to make both types is shared by over three thousand bedding manufacturers in North America, many of whom do make the two types. Yet, of all Outer-spring mattresses in use throughout the continent, over 90% are Spring-Air!

WHY?
 Because the records made by all competing spring units in this direct, out-in-the-open comparison show the unquestioned superiority of Spring-Air's guaranteed Karr Spring Unit!
 Important as it is that the vital spring element in an Outer-spring mattress be right, it is even more important in the Inner-spring type where the spring unit is buried inside and hidden from inspection.
 Every Spring-Air Mattress—Inner-spring or Outer-spring—contains the genuine Karr Spring Unit, fully guaranteed to you in writing. The only way to get this guarantee is to insist on buying a mattress with the Spring-Air label,—priced from $24.50 to $45.00.
