Cyanamide Plant Work Is Begun At O'Donnell

Structure Will Be Erected In Lynn County; Gas Line Being Run To Plant Site

Work on the big cyanamide plant at the Doak Lake nine miles west of O'Donnell was begun recently, according to Charley Doak, who was here Tuesday. Mr. Doak, Dad Middleton, and Dock Beach, all of O'Donnell, were here on business.

Mr. Doak says that the ditcher is excavating the ditch for the gas line which is to extend from the main line near O'Donnell to the plant. Four-inch piping is being strung for the line. Also sand and gravel are being placed on the site of the plant, which is to be situated on this side of the Lynn-Dawson county line. The Panhandle Construction Company of Lubbock has the contract.

The plant is to be built by the Arizona Chemical Company, a subsidiary of the American Cyanamide Company of New York.

The product to be mined and marketed is used chiefly in the manufacture of glass, Kraft paper, and other articles of commerce.

The plant, it is said, will employ a hundred men or more and the monthly pay roll will amount to a considerable sum.

Five Prisoners Taken To Pen

Five prisoners were taken to the penitentiary from this place by Sheriff B. L. Parker Tuesday.

One of them, however, Henry Reed, had been brought here from the penitentiary to be used as a witness for the state in a case against another defendant. The other four had been convicted here during the late term of the district court.

These four were: Frank Thomas, a white man, sentenced for four years for theft from the person; Rodell Blake, a negro, given one year for assault to murder, the victim being Eli Garrett; Earl Dallas, negro, two years for burglary; and Rogers Holder, 18 months for assault to murder.

Popcorn Proves Good Cash Crop

E. O. Montgomery, a farmer living three and one-half miles south of Wilson, has produced 20,000 pounds of shelled popcorn, which he is selling for 16 cents per pound, from 25 acres of land, according to his statement to V. F. Jones, county agent.

Mr. Montgomery states that popcorn has proven to be a very profitable cash crop for him. He made his start in 1935 with five acres. Last year the acreage was increased to 15, and this year he has 25 acres. The corn this year is yielding 500 pounds to the acre, and Mr. Montgomery states that the smallest yield he has made in the three years he has been growing popcorn has been about 500 pounds to the acre.

The popcorn is not grown under irrigation, but under dry land farming. Mr. Montgomery believes his success to date has been due chiefly to good seed, early planting, wide spacing in the row, similar to field corn, and to the fact that he has found a ready market for all the corn he could grow.

P. T. A. Will Hold Hallowe'en Party

The Parent-Teachers Association will sponsor a Hallowe'en '42' party at the gymnasium in the grade school building on Friday night, October 29, Mrs. J. K. Applewhite, president announces.

Though all are requested to come in costume, guests will be welcome without such paraphernalia. Refreshments will be served. A small admission fee will be charged, and the funds raised will be used to buy equipment for the grade school.

5,622 Bales Cotton Ginned In Tahoka

Cotton pickers are back in the fields this week, after having been idle for more than a week on account of wet weather.

Up to 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning, 5,622 bales had been ginned in Tahoka, 1,000 bales having been ginned since our report last week.

Much of the cotton now is being pulled instead of being picked. Many of the Mexican cotton pickers, it is said, have threatened to quit unless farmers would permit them to pull. They can make more money pulling than they can by picking.

The recent rainy weather has discovered the cotton to some extent, which has materially affected the price. Pulled cotton also does not command quite as good a price as picked cotton.

Most of the cotton is still being placed in the government loan.

Brunk's Comedians Are Showing Here

Brunk's Comedians, popular tent theatrical company, is filling a week's engagement in Tahoka under auspices of the American Legion.

This year's tour is the 20th annual for the show, covering Texas, and a strong cast is carried, featuring as the leading lady, the personable and charming May Smart. Brilliant in support of her is Bob Sheafnet, May Hill, Joe Palmer, Dick Castleman, and Bonnie Burk. Featured novelty numbers this year are the Musical Grays, xylophone artists deluxe, and Castleman and Smart. Thompson and Henderson are standouts in a dancing number, and a highly entertaining feature is expertly done by Grandi.

Tonight they present "In the Wrong Bed," with a merchants' matinee at 3 p. m. Saturday. The tickets with 5c will admit you and you get your tickets at Davis Cafe, Craft's Tailor Shop, and Piggy Wiggy. The farwell show Saturday night is a 4-act Western comedy, "The Cowboy, Indian, and the Lady." Following this there will be a big Swing High and Shake Low Show at 10 p. m. Any seat 10c and 15c for the late show.

Pleas of Guilty Entered Friday

Two pleas of guilty were entered in the district court here last Friday, and each defendant was given a term in the penitentiary.

Frank Thomas, alias Frank Thompson, a white man, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft from the person, the indictment alleging that he had taken about $85 from O. R. Haynes of Lamesa, the theft occurring on the carnival grounds in O'Donnell a few weeks ago. The jury assessed his punishment at 4 years in the penitentiary. Thomas was a transient in this county.

Rogers Holder, a negro, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging assault with intent to murder. The victim of his murderous attack was a young negro woman, said to be his sister-in-law. They were cotton pickers in the Gordon community. His punishment was assessed at eighteen months in the penitentiary.

The fall term of court close Saturday. Judge Reed opened court in Post Monday morning of this week.

Grand Jury Turns In Indictments

The grand jury for the September term of the district court turned in its final report on Thursday of last week, reporting that it had returned 18 felony indictments.

The offense most frequently brought to the attention of that body, the report stated, was that of driving while intoxicated, and the grand jurors proceeded to give timely warning and advice against this offense.

The indictments returned into court included several for this offense.

Yodeling Yeggman Caught At Roswell, Admits Long Series Of Plains Crimes

After indulging in a merry but noiseless carnival of crime in this section of the state following his escape from the Ellis county jail in Waxahachie a few weeks ago, B. H. Huddleston, the "singing bandit," was easily captured by officers at Roswell Sunday night.

Sheriff B. L. Parker of this county, Sheriff Tom Able of Lubbock, and other Texas officers went to Roswell early Monday morning and brought the prisoner and his two female companions back to Texas. They arrived in Tahoka early Monday night but took their prisoners on to Lubbock. Officers left with Huddleston and one of the women Tuesday for Waxahachie, where he had escaped from jail. The other woman was released.

Huddleston had stolen a new Ford from the Lynn County Motor Company at O'Donnell early Saturday morning. Accompanied by two female companions, he drove this car to Roswell, where he and companions took lodging in a hotel. After resting in his room for a time, he went down stairs, when a negro porter informed him that officers had been looking at his car. He went back up stairs and called a taxicab. Slipping out through a back entrance, he and two women entered the cab. But officers had closed in upon them, and the three surrendered without any effort at resistance. After being taken to the Chaves county jail, however, Huddleston drew and snapped a pistol twice at officers, but it failed to fire. He had carried the pistol concealed in the back of his trousers.

The Ford car was also recovered and brought back to O'Donnell. Huddleston already has more than 200 years in the penitentiary hanging over him, it is said. He has been convicted of many crimes. Among these was a burglary at Ralls several months ago, for which he was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary.

Following his escape from the Waxahachie jail, he committed many burglaries and thefts in West Texas, according to confessions made to officers following his capture. He admitted burglarizing a pharmacy in Lubbock on September 29 when $100 in money and merchandise estimated at $1900 were taken; the Hannah-Pope store in Lubbock, from which about $3,000 in diamonds and money were stolen; several stores at Sudan, two or three in Brownfield, one at Ralls, one at Colorado, and one at Big Spring. He also admitted stealing the O'Donnell car and one at Lamesa.

Stewart Recovers Stolen Car, Dog

G. M. Stewart Saturday recovered his stolen car and dog—but the car had been gutted with fire. The dog was making himself at home at a farmhouse near Lamesa, where the car had been almost destroyed and abandoned. A shot gun, a target rifle, and a pistol, which were in the car when it was stolen, have not been recovered. A farmer had found the car Friday and reported to officers.

Mr. Stewart said that the log had almost been eaten out a trail around the car, evidently while it was burning. Why the thieves undertook to burn the car up is unknown, unless it was done in order to destroy all finger prints.

The car, which was a 1934 Terraplane coupe, with the dog and the guns in it, was stolen from the street early Thursday night while parked near the News office. Mr. Stewart says that it evidently was stolen only a few minutes after he parked it, though it was two or three hours before he found it out. He immediately notified the sheriff, who proceeded to broadcast the theft over this entire portion of the state.

If officers have any clue as to the identity of the thief or thieves, they have not made the fact known.

Tahoka And Post Game Tonight

The Bulldogs go to Post this Friday night to renew grid hostilities with the ancient rivals, the Post Antelopes. The game promises to be a very exciting one. Many local fans are expected to witness the conflict. The Bulldogs hope to break into the win column.

The probable starting line-up is: Paul Casebeer, left end—155 lbs. Reid Parker, left tackle—198 lbs. Truett Cooper, left guard—156 lbs. Willis Edwards, center—175 lbs. Rudolph Snowden, right g.—179 lbs. G. C. Price, right tackle—205 lbs. James Patten, right end—150 lbs. Neil Walker, halfback—127 lbs. J. H. Dyer, halfback—153 lbs. Travis McCord, fullback—146 lbs. Hiram Snowden, quarter—163 lbs.

A. W. White of Los Angeles came in Saturday night to spend a few weeks here looking after his farming interests. He has a nice farm out in the South Ward community and of course his tenants have a wonderful crop on it this year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson and daughter of Lubbock visited in the W. A. Yates home last Sunday, that day being Mr. Yates' birthday. Mr. Jackson is Mr. Yates' step-son.

Truett Cooper At Livestock Show

Representing the F. F. A. boys of the Tahoka High School, Truett Cooper is attending the American Royal Livestock show in Kansas City this week. Some of the business men of Tahoka generously contributed to the expense of the trip.

The F. F. A. is an organization of vocational agriculture students in the high school. Chester Hufstader, the teacher, seems to be arousing more than usual interest in the work on the part of the boys, and he is now suggesting that the business men of Tahoka shall offer a scholarship to be awarded at the end of school to the student adjudged to be the most outstanding in the department. It is believed that the suggestion will be put into execution.

By the way, did you see Truett Cooper's picture in the Star-Telegram Sunday? It was used, no doubt, because as a representative of the Tahoka F. F. A. students he is typical of thousands of other F. F. A. boys throughout Texas.

Prominent Speakers At Judges' Meeting

Judge P. W. Goad reports that the county judges and commissioners state convention, which was held in Amarillo the last three days of last week, was the most largely attended convention in the history of the organization. It was announced that more than 800 officials and visitors registered.

In addition to the many speeches and discussions made by the members of the organization, a number of the most prominent men of the state made addresses. Among these were: Congressman Marvin Jones of Amarillo, chairman of the Agriculture Committee in the House of Representatives; Congressman Clyde Garrett of Eastland, successor of Hon. Thomas L. Blanton in that body; Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, chairman of the state railroad commission; R. L. Bobbitt, member of the state highway commission; and Robert Calvery, speaker of the House of Representatives in Austin.

Besides Judge Goad, Commissioners George Small and Waldo McLauria of this county attended the convention.

First Frost Of Fall Tuesday Morning

The first frost of the season appeared here Tuesday morning, though it was not sufficiently heavy to do any damage to crops. Some of the vegetation was slightly bit, and many of the cotton leaves are said to be falling off as a result of the frost and the cold leaves.

Twice before in the last quarter of a century, it is said, killing frosts have appeared on this date, October 19. The average date of the first killing frost here, however, is about November 2. Farmers are hoping that no hard freeze will come before that date, for it would damage both the late cotton and feed crops.

Last week was a hard week on farmers and cotton pickers. Practically no cotton was picked during the entire week. In addition to the rainfall amounting to more than an inch which had fallen up to Thursday when we went to press last week, .88 of an inch fell in Tahoka early Friday night. The territory covered by this rain, however, was limited. It extended only a few miles east and south of Tahoka, and covered only a strip of territory a few miles wide north and south back to Brownfield.

The skies were clear Sunday and Monday morning, but Monday afternoon the wind whipped around to the north bringing the first sandstorm of the season and rapidly falling temperatures. The skies again cleared and temperatures rose again Tuesday, and the weather has been ideal since, with murky skies Thursday, indicating more damp weather soon.

Mrs. W. C. Mathis and little son Don Mack of Levelland are spending the week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Milliken.

O'Donnell Couple Killed In Auto Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Harris Buried Thursday; Were Pioneers Of South Plains Section

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. (Dee) Harris of O'Donnell, pioneer residents of Lynn county, were killed in an automobile accident in Eden, Concho county, Tuesday night, when their car collided with a truck driven by John Wilson of Wink, and their daughter, Miss Eva Dell, 25, was seriously injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris and daughter were en route to Lockhart to attend the funeral of Mrs. Harris' sister, when they met the truck in the suburbs of Eden. Mrs. Harris was driving at the time. The truck driver stated that he swerved to miss a woman and baby crossing the road, and it is said that the accident was unavoidable.

Mr. Harris, 69 was killed instantly, and Mrs. Harris, 65, died en route to a San Angelo hospital. Miss Eva Dell was given treatment in Eden and was brought to a Lubbock hospital Wednesday. Thursday morning it was said that her injuries probably were not as serious as was thought at first.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Harris were conducted at the Methodist Church in O'Donnell at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, after which the bodies were brought to Tahoka for interment. A great throng of friends attended the funeral services and followed the remains to the grave.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris were among the early settlers of this county, coming to the county either in 1901 or 1902, before it was organized. They first settled on a section of land just north of the Dawson-Lynn county line a few miles west of where the town of O'Donnell now stands. A little later they moved a mile or two further north, where they lived a number of years. There they established a post office in their home, the mail being brought by pack and saddle pony from Big Spring by way of Lamesa. When the Santa Fe railroad built through the county in 1910, the post office was moved to O'Donnell. Mrs. Harris herself carried the mail for a time while the post office was in their home to and from some point on the freight line.

Soon after O'Donnell was started, they moved into the present Harris home about two miles almost due north of the town.

Before settling in Lynn county, Mr. and Mrs. Harris had lived a number of years in Borden county and a short time in Dawson. As pioneer ranchers in this section, they were well known to all the old-timers throughout a wide area of West Texas, and many of these attended the funeral.

They have been prominent citizens of Lynn county ever since it was organized, and have witnessed its transformation from a strictly cow country to a productive agricultural region. Their tragic and untimely death is greatly deplored not only by the old pioneers but by their hosts of friends among the new-comers to the county.

A & M Men Here For Inspections

A. L. Smith, Animal Husbandman, R. R. Lancaster, and M. R. Bentley, Agricultural Engineer of the Extension staff at College Station, visited with V. F. Jones, county agent, Tuesday afternoon.

These men were visiting demonstration work that is being carried on in cooperation with the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College, through the county agent.

They were very favorably impressed with some of the work being carried on in Lynn county, particularly in the pasture contour demonstrations. A number of pasture demonstrations where contour listing has been done is showing up very favorably. It is just another instance of conserving our rainfall and using it to good advantage, rather than let it run off into the public roads and lakes.

CONGRESS CALLED BACK

President Calls for Crop Control Measure and the Regulation of Labor's Wages and Hours

Hall, Davis and Welles Going to Confer With President.

Special Session Called

CONGRESS was called in extraordinary session to start November 15, and immediately afterward President Roosevelt explained in a "fireside chat" over the radio the necessity for this as he sees it. Reporting cheerfully on his western trip, he outlined the legislative program which he declared the American people need to promote prosperity.

These are the five measures he said should be passed without delay: Crop production control to "build an all-weather farm program so that in the long run prices will be more stable."

Wage and hour standards to "make millions of our lowest paid workers actual buyers of billions of dollars of industrial and farm products."

Regional planning to conserve natural resources, prevent floods and produce electric power for general use.

Government reorganization to provide "twentieth century machinery" to make the "democratic process work more efficiently."

Stronger antitrust laws in furtherance of "a low price policy which encourages the widest possible consumption."

Chairman O'Connor of the house rules committee predicted the house would pass a farm bill in the first week of the session and then take up the wage and hour measure. Some Democratic leaders said the labor bill, which was passed by the senate in the last session but held up in the house rules committee, would probably be the only one of the five measures to get through congress in the special session. Even that is strongly opposed by southern Democrats and has been condemned by the American Federation of Labor.

Labor Hits Labor Board

SEVERE condemnation of the federal labor relations board was voiced in a resolution adopted by the American Federation of Labor in the Denver convention. It was presented by John P. Frey, head of the metal trades department and charged that the board was acting "without warrant or authority" in interfering in disputes between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. and was violating "the spirit and specific intent of the labor relations act, with decided advantage" to the C. I. O. affiliates and damage to the A. F. of L.; that the board has sought to "destroy the validity of contracts" between bona fide trade unions and employers and that such actions were taken "in some instances with full knowledge of the facts involved"; that the board, in direct contravention of the meaning of the law, has repeatedly "denied employees the right of designating the bargaining unit and the right of selecting representatives of their own choosing with full freedom."

Frey in his speech asked that Edwin F. Smith be removed from the board and that three regional directors be dismissed.

The convention adopted a resolution opposing the pending wage and hours bill, and one calling for a boycott on all Japanese products.

Authority was voted the executive board to expel finally the ten C. I. O. unions under suspension, and President Green announced plans for the attack on the rival organization in several great fields. The first vigorous blow will be struck on the Pacific coast in a drive to organize workers in the cannery and agricultural field. "The second battle ground will be among the white collar workers generally.

C.I.O. Upholds Contracts

IN A tumultuous session at Atlantic City 150 leaders of the C. I. O. routed a "left wing" movement and went on record in favor of a policy condemning "quickie" strikes, supporting the sanctity of collective bargaining contracts and pledging co-operation in safeguarding the operation of these agreements.

The delegates also condemned recent decisions by the national labor board as being contrary to the provisions of the Wagner-Connelly act by which the board was created and approved a four-point federal legislative program. This program called for a wages-and-hours bill, licensing of all industries operating in interstate commerce, appropriation of sufficient WPA and PWA funds to provide jobs for every American worker, and expansion of the social security act.

No Peace for Labor

WAR between the rival factions in American organized labor is not going to cease in the near future. The C. I. O. leaders gathered in Atlantic City for their first "war council," and John L. Lewis, their chief, revealed plans for setting up a permanent dual organization. He condemned the suspension of the C. I. O. unions from the American Federation of Labor as "cowardly and contemptible" and said those unions considered themselves now out of the federation and awaited any further action by the federation with complete indifference.

John L. Lewis

It is true that in all the TVA dams—there is another TVA case coming up before the high court before long—there is the possible contention that electric power was not the only reason for construction. But sometimes this is a hairline decision, and the government has been uneasy about the attitude the court might take.

Big Battle at Shanghai

SHANGHAI was witnessing the fiercest battle of the Sino-Japanese war. Land and air forces of both sides were fighting furiously and the casualties were piling up hour by hour. The Chinese were making a great counter-offensive for which they had massed men and guns about the city. The Japanese were ready for the attack, and desperately battled to turn back their foes. Observers described the hand-to-hand fighting as that of madmen, especially in the Chinese quarter.

A big fleet of Chinese airplanes was sent down the Yangtze and bombs were showered on the Japanese warships along the Japanese-occupied shore of the Whangpoo.

An American navy radio man, J. P. McMichael of Connorsville, Ind., was slightly wounded by Japanese shrapnel as he stood on the signal deck of the United States cruiser Augusta between Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander-in-chief, and Capt. R. F. McConnell, chief of staff. American navy authorities immediately entered a protest and the Japanese commander expressed his regret.

Brady Gang Wiped Out

LAST of the big "mobs" of bank robbers and murderers, the Brady gang was wiped out in a gun battle with federal agents at Bangor, Maine. Al Brady, the leader, and Clarence Shaffer, Jr., his lieutenant, were killed; and James Dalhove was wounded and captured. The outlaws were recognized by a clerk in a sporting goods store and the G-men were summoned. Dalhove was taken to Indiana to stand trial for the murder of a state policeman, one of four killings attributed to the gang. He made a full confession, and search began for persons who had been aiding them.

The gangsters' capture was believed to have nipped a potential New England crime wave. Floor plans of two banks were found in Dalhove's possession with maps of nearby roads.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—Water power development by the government and the blessings of cheap electric current were the theme song of President Roosevelt's speeches on his western trip, and by a curious coincidence it is questions affecting federal powers in this direction which are more important, from the White House standpoint, in the term of the Supreme court just opened, than everything else put together. As a matter of fact, the high court has ruled on most of the questions affecting New Deal legislation.

So that perhaps Mr. Roosevelt was not ignoring the high court enlargement issue as much as some commentators seemed to suspect on that western trip. He made a flank attack, and it is generally conceded by Washington lawyers that he improved his position considerably. He has now put the court in a position something like this: either the court must go all the way in approving federal power policies, or it will strengthen the President's contention that the court needs rejuvenation.

Every correspondent writing from the President's train stressed the apparent fact that the folks out West didn't give a whoop about the Supreme court issue, but that they were mighty strong for federal spending in their own necks of the woods. And they agreed very generally also that more water resource developments were wanted.

The President did not mention the court fight, nor the senators who beat him on it, but it just so happens that many of the water resource developments are in the states of senators who fought him on the court issue, Montana, Oregon, Wyoming and Idaho particularly.

Expect Court Backing

Putting all the pieces together, experts here are predicting that the high court will sustain the government in every phase of its electric power program. For instance, on the right of the federal government to subsidize local governments which desire to go into competition with, or supersede, privately owned electric systems, either by outright grants of money or by loaning the money at very low rates of interest. For instance, on the right of the government to engage in the electric business. In the famous TVA case the language used by the court held that it was all right for the government to sell power "incidentally produced." That is, of course, power produced by a project the main reason for which was not the production of current, but for some clearly constitutional reason, such as navigation.

It is true that in all the TVA dams—there is another TVA case coming up before the high court before long—there is the possible contention that electric power was not the only reason for construction. But sometimes this is a hairline decision, and the government has been uneasy about the attitude the court might take.

This suspicion among experts here that the court may take an expedient course is based very largely on the general acceptance of the belief that at least two of the Supreme court justices "switched" in the Wagner labor act decision. The very generally held view in Washington is that at least two justices—enough had they stood by their original position to have overturned the act—changed. The alleged reason for the supposed change is that the justices feared that if they did not they would contribute importantly to President Roosevelt's case against the court then pending in the senate.

High Hopes

Always optimistic, the chaps who have been predicting erroneously ever since 1933 that President Roosevelt would "turn to the right in the near future" are at it again. This time they base their hopes on his promises in western speeches that he would balance the budget in 1939, and would do it by checking spending. The implication of course is that tax raises would not be necessary.

The process of reasoning which arrives at the result that the President will turn to the right is a little intricate, but rather interesting. First, the optimistic conservatives point out that the President cannot reduce spending appreciably. They point out that in those very speeches in which he promised to balance the budget he made lavish promises about bigger and grander projects—"more dams on the Columbia river," etc. Whereas his talk of economy was in most general terms.

Further, they point out that there is all sorts of pressure for increased spending.

On top of this they point to the well-known position of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and his aides. They are frankly worried about the tax situation.

For instance, they are sure that the income tax returns to be made on March 15 next will fall far short of those made last March. There are several explanations. One is that the calendar year of 1936, for which last March returns were made, was one of rapidly advancing security prices. Hence every one who sold, nearly, had a profit. The Treasury does not give out figures showing the amount of income taxes resulting from security profits, but the Treasury officials know them, and they are perturbed at the prospect of the decline in revenue unless there is a totally unexpected boom in the market between now and December.

Need Higher Taxes

Hence the Treasury is figuring on the necessity for much higher taxes to keep it from going further into red ink. Also it knows that the real revenue producers are few. Sales taxes and lowered income exemptions are politically verboten, leaving only boosts in the higher brackets and in levies on corporations as likely. Business knows this too, and that is a contributing reason, in the opinion of the Treasury experts, for the present timidity of investors.

So, the optimists figure, the President cannot stop spending, and he cannot head off higher taxation, which would seem to leave them little to be encouraged about.

Except—that they then proceed to look into the reason that made the President promise to do something they do not think he can do. This reason, they figure, is concern about the business situation, concern about this same timidity of investors; the unwillingness of present business to expand, and new business to start.

Conceding that the President does want to reassure business, and that he will find it impossible to carry out the reassuring promise, the alternative, they deduce, will be some assurance of another breathing spell—a period during which no further government regulation of business will be imposed. This, some think, would be just as satisfactory to business as a tax reduction.

But it takes a mighty optimistic mind to go all the way through on this solution and get that answer!

Anti-Trust Suit

The biggest anti-trust suit in history, involving corporations whose capital runs to more than six billion dollars, and threatening with jail sentences 58 key officials, most of whom are millionaires, with a sprinkling of multimillionaires, makes Madison, Wis., the oil capital of the country.

Apparently not one of the 58 officials is trusting his own company lawyers to get him out. That threatened jail sentence is too menacing. The progressive sentiment of La Follette-educated Wisconsin is too disturbing as one contemplates jury material. So each of the 58 is dragging along his own lawyers, or group of lawyers.

If there is a firm of lawyers in the United States which has ever had any anti-trust suit experience and is not employed on this case, it's not the fault of the oil millionaires. They have been hiring everybody in sight who had the slightest chance of knowing his way around in a trust suit, or with any particular knowledge of the government lawyers who might be used.

Accommodations in the town of Madison have long since been snapped up.

Most of the bigwigs, both executives and lawyers, have organized in little groups and leased private homes, turning them into clubs for the duration of the war. Some are wondering plaintively if they will get home by Christmas. Which is very funny to old-timers in trust suit matters, as they recall the duration of some of the more historic anti-trust suits.

Charge Conspiracy

The government alleges in the suit that the big oil companies have been violating the anti-trust laws by conspiring on prices. The practice, according to government officials, really flowered under the NRA, when anti-trust laws were virtually suspended in return for agreements by the employers to certain wage and hour conditions, as well as promises with respect to the number of people they would employ.

But on the day that the Supreme court knocked out the NRA, all the oil companies and their officials were in technical violation of the anti-trust laws. The government probably would not have prosecuted, officials say privately, if the oil men had thereupon stopped co-operating in price fixing. But they kept right on, the government lawyers say.

Another wrinkle is the provision in the anti-trust laws that an aggrieved party can sue violators of the law for triple damages. Thus if some one can prove that he lost one million dollars as a result of this price fixing conspiracy by the companies alleged to be violating the anti-trust laws, he can recover, according to the law, three million dollars.

This is such a serious angle in the situation that there has actually been talk of pleading guilty and taking light punishment stipulated with the government in advance. The object would be to prevent placing in evidence testimony which would give outsiders all the material needed for these triple damage suits.

CHAMP, GUARDIAN OF RIDGE-REST, AND NEIGHBOR

Some pups, like many people, oftentimes acquire an exalted opinion of their potency and will rush in—to annoy the most patient, with silly, little, wiggly maneuvers—oblivious of the fact that they are flirting around a very, very sound pair of jaws. And that, by doing so, they are in a fair way to make their efforts appear very, very ridiculous, indeed, to a more mature judgment.

Heedless of the gnarling signs of a waning temper, they continue to rear on their hind legs, to better impress their added height, until—a massive paw sets them to one side or on their ear—as the parade goes on, with all hands assuming their correct proportions.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

FRESH fruit pies are always good, but fresh grape pies are worthy of superlatives in description. The thickening may be cornstarch, eggs, flour or tapioca, depending upon preference. Tapioca is suggested in this recipe.

Grape Pie. 3 1/2 cups prepared grapes, 2 1/2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/4 cups sugar. Wash and stem the grapes. Press the pulp from the skins with the fingers. Simmer pulp slowly until soft, then press through sieve to remove the seeds. Combine 3 1/2 cups of pulp and skins together with salt, sugar and tapioca and let stand for 15 minutes. Place rolled pastry in pie pan. Fill pan with grape mixture. Moisten edge of pastry and fold inward, even with the edge of the pan. Moisten edge again and place top pastry on pie. Press edges together with a fork and trim off surplus crust. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for fifteen minutes. Decrease heat to 350 degrees; moderate heat, and bake about twenty-five minutes longer.

"But I hadn't known." "You suspected that there was one, didn't you? You and Jed Stewart came to live in the Other House to watch me, didn't you? Do you think that I have forgotten that you called me a schemer?"

"This seems to be turning into a question and answer period. Suppose you let me tell my side of the story. Sit down, please." "I prefer to stay here. Go on. I hope it doesn't take long. I have a lot to do before I leave in the morning—sorry to have to ask to let the furnishings stay here until Mother gets back, but—"

"Don't be so breathless, dearest." "I'm not breathless, and I'm not your dearest. I wish you would say what you forced your way in here to say—and go."

"All right, remember, you asked for it. I came to say that after I knew who you were that day in Jed's office, I didn't believe that you had used 'undue influence' with my aunt. I admit that for a while I tried to fool myself, but I couldn't keep it up. I didn't open my house because I wanted to 'watch' you. I decided to do it on Thanksgiving day, because I liked you and your 'whole darn family.' As the weeks passed, Jed and I were sure that if the second will had not been destroyed, Henri knew where it was. Not knowing its contents hampered us."

"But you know now?" "Yes. And it hurts infernally to think that you should have been drawn into this sordid mix-up."

"Why shouldn't I be? It's what might be called poetic justice, isn't it? Didn't I start the trouble when I went to Lookout House to see your aunt the first time? I'd been warned that business and friendship won't mix any better than oil and water. Now I know it. You had suspected for weeks that I had no right to your aunt's money, and yet you and Jed Stewart let me keep on spending and spending. When I think of those two cars I bought I almost lose my mind. How can I ever pay it back?"

"Pay it back! Don't be foolish. There is no question of paying it back. Have you forgotten that Mary Amanda Dane left an income to you?"

"You don't think for an instant, do you, that I would accept a cent of that money? Would you take any from me when I tried to divide with you? I'm surprised, I'm really surprised that you don't play the martyr and ask me to marry you."

"No. I shan't ask you to marry me. I've made a lot of mistakes in my life, but believe me, I've learned enough not to make that one."

His cool denial hurt Brooke intolerably. He hated her, she told herself. Why shouldn't he?

"In the library a while ago you told Lucette you were leaving here because you had accepted an offer. Are you engaged to Jerry Field?"

A gate in the wall! A way out without letting him know that she cared, how desperately she cared for him. She laughed.

"I—Here come Sam and Lucette. They are stamping snow from their feet outside as a warning that they are about to interrupt our conference. Amusing, isn't it?"

"Amusing to you, perhaps. It isn't to me."

Sam's face was as red as the fire as he and Lucette entered the room.

"Sorry to interrupt, but—"

"Don't apologize."

"I'm not apologizing." His face went from red to crimson. "I'm only trying to explain, Brooke, that the inspector's walking the floor and gnashing his teeth and muttering something about keeping the Law waiting. He wants you, Mark, and he wants you quick."

"I'm going," Mark Trent paused on the threshold. "Good-night, Brooke. We'll finish our talk tomorrow."

"We'll finish our talk tomorrow."

A month had passed since Mark Trent had fung those words as her, since she had left Lookout House. They had echoed to the accompaniment of the whir of the wings of the great plane in which she had flown south at the urgency and the expense of Carston's Inc.; they had flitted like writhes through her dreams.

The days slid past breathlessly. She was conscious of a sort of breathless urge to keep up with something which was escaping her. Keep up with what, she asked herself, as in the flower scented dressing room of Carston's, Inc. she slipped out of the green organza number she had been modeling and into a frock of cool yellow linen. She was looking out unseeing at the palm bordered white street when Madame Celeste entered. Her thin white frock rested Brooke's eyes after the rainbow collection she had put on and off for the last two hours.

"You do noble, cherie," the woman approved heartily.

There was something in her nasal twang as refreshing as a breeze from a thousand New England hills blowing through this tropical paradise.

"That last customer is one of the richest girls in the country. She ordered all the gowns you modeled. You look kind of tired, you've a right to, cherie, after landing that whale of an order. Get some lunch here, go home and rest until four, then come back. You will dress here, the society models will dress at the Shaw's sports house. Sidone will be there to help them. You'll be the only professional mannequin, but I wouldn't trust an amateur to show that wedding gown. The charity fete begins at five. The wedding party will be the last feature of the style show. Look your best. We expect that some prospective bride will snap up the whole outfit when she sees you walk up the ribbon and flower bordered aisle in that heavenly white satin veiled in a mist of tulle. You'll make a ravishing bride, cherie; it will be your last appearance, so knock their eyes out."

The words "last appearance" penetrated the turmoil in Brooke's mind.

"Last appearance! What do you mean?"

Madame Celeste twisted her amethyst beads. "Cherie, don't go white on me. You know business hasn't been too good, and I have

She was humming a snatch of gay song as she crossed the strip of yellow sand steeping in golden sunlight which the march of fashion had left behind. Arms extended, she slid into the sparkling water. It parted. Buoyant, foamy, it closed over her. Marvellous feeling. This would stabilize her mind, drown haunting memories. She swam with quick strokes, turned, floated, came back arm over arm, and, dripping with coolness, waded out to the shore.

A man rose from the shadow of the dark hibiscus hedge outside the patio. Its scarlet flowers seemed to nod at her in amused derision as she stopped in surprise. Mark Trent! This was the cue for cool sophistication.

He held out the beach coat she had dropped on the sand.

"Put this on, Brooke. Let's sit here. I want to talk to you and we may be interrupted inside."

"How did you know where I was?"

"I've been playing round with Lucette, more or less. Saw Sam when I came through New York."

"Sam! How was he?"

"Nerves taut as violin strings, otherwise in great shape."

"When does his play open?"

"Day after tomorrow."

"So soon?"

"Why that sudden look of horror?"

"It wasn't horror, it was—I've lost my job and I had planned to leave here tonight by bus, but traveling that way I can't possibly make New York in time for the premiere of 'Islands Arise.'"

"I know that you've lost your job. I had a talk with your boss before I left the city. He agreed with me that you shouldn't miss the opening of Sam's play."

"You mean that you told him to fire me? What right have you to interfere in my life?"

"The right of a sort of guardian; didn't Aunt Mary Amanda so request in that last will? Eyes on a pelican fishing in shallow water, he accused."

"You haven't answered Jed's letters notifying you that the amount of income you had been receiving from my aunt's estate would be deposited monthly to your account as usual. I had to come to find out if you had received them."

Brooke sprang to her feet. Her beach coat slipped off. Slim and golden-skinned in her white waerfrock, she dug pink toes into the hot sand.

"I didn't answer because you both know without being told that I won't touch that money."

Mark Trent loomed over her.

"Put this on again," he commanded grimly. "Why won't you touch that money?"

Brooke thrust her arms into the beach coat he held and stuck her unsteady hands into the pockets.

"Would you take a cent of Mary Amanda Dane's when I thought it mine? Didn't you say it that snobby voice of yours the afternoon we met in Jed Stewart's office?"

"Hope you'll enjoy the house and fortune," Miss Reyburn. Now it's my turn:

"I hope you'll enjoy the house and fortune," Mr. Trent. I'm sure Daphne Field will be crazy about it."

"Daphne! He caught her wrist in a grip which hurt. "Where did you get that crazy idea?"

How crude how unbelievably crude she had been to mention Daphne's name. Brooke accused herself hotly. But, having blundered, she'd better see it through with the light touch.

"From a letter from Mrs. Gregory the other day. It was full of news, all about Mark Trent and Daphne Field, the current-lady of his heart. She's a grand gossip."

Mark Trent's eyes drew Brooke's like a magnet. Was the light in his laughter?

"Anne Gregory is more than a gossip; she's a strategist. I haven't spoken to Daphne Field since the night of the play and she knows it." He loosened his hold on her wrist. "What are you doing this afternoon?"

it? Why did that grubby question have to pop up to take the joy out of life? Of course she would go. She had flown to Palm Beach at the expense of Carston's Inc. She would take a bus in return on her own. She would go tonight, go on to a new adventure in living.

Tingling with excitement, she telephoned for a reservation on the night bus; packed a small trunk to be sent by express; folded her silver evening frock and accessories into the air luggage suitcase which Carston's Inc. had provided. She would want the gala clothes for the premiere—thrilling thought. She laid out an amethyst tweed suit with crimson scarf and beret, to wear on the journey. It would be cold when she reached New York.

All ready and somewhere to go! She glanced at the clock. There was time for a swim before she started for the style-show. It would set her up and refresh her. She must look her best for her positively last Palm Beach appearance.

She slipped into the white waerfrock and caught up a beach coat. Life was gloriously worth while even if the man one loved did think one a "schemer," she told herself, as she ran down the steps which led to the patio.

Three Types of Overweight

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

WHILE about nine of every ten overweights acquire their excess fat from overeating and underexercising, there is the one in ten that is entitled to the care and treatment that will, to some degree, rid him or her of much of their surplus fat. This one is known as the gland type and the overweight is due to lack of activity of the thyroid gland in the neck, the pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull, or, in a few cases, the sex glands—gonads and ovaries. Sometimes there is a lack of activity in two or more of these different glands.

Thus when the thyroid gland in the neck is not manufacturing enough juice there is usually a certain amount or degree of what is called "myxoedema," the name given to a condition where the skin is thickened, dry and rough to the touch, and the perspiration is almost entirely absent. The mind and the senses are blunted, memory is poor, and there are obscure pains in the legs; and all the movements of the body are slow and languid.

"As a result of this lack of juice there follows an increase in the bulk of the body, with a firm, non-elastic swelling of the skin which does not pit when pressed with the end of the finger. The face loses some of its expression. The temperature and pulse are below normal, and there is a tendency toward constipation."

The above description is, of course, for severe cases, but you may see some little part of the above symptoms in all cases where the thyroid gland is not making enough thyroid juice. And in these cases due to lack of thyroid juice, the extra fat is deposited all over the outside and inside of the body.

The Pituitary Type.

The type of overweight when the pituitary gland on the floor of the skull is not manufacturing enough juice is found as often in men as in women and the excess fat is distributed over the shoulders, chest, abdomen, upper arms and upper legs, but not over the forearms and lower legs. The neat, small wrists, ankles, hands and feet are in great contrast to the heavy body, shoulders and hips.

This pituitary type of overweight begins just before puberty (twelve years of age in girls and fourteen in boys) and commonly attracts attention because of the great amount of starch foods—sugar, candy, bread, potatoes, pastry—that the youngsters are able to eat.

Even in this type of overweight the food intake should be reduced, but in addition to cutting down on the food intake, there is another or extra method of reducing and that is by the use of thyroid extract in the thyroid type, pituitary extract in the pituitary type, and the use of both extracts when both glands in the body are not manufacturing enough juice.

Flatulence in Children.

A few years ago when an infant had an attack of gas (flatulence) and colic very little was thought or done about it, except perhaps to give a little "peppermint water," and sometimes, unfortunately, some paregoric or laudanum. Today the mother visits or consults her physician—usually a child's specialist—and asks what change she must make in the diet to prevent the gas symptoms. The modern mother knows that when there is vomiting, pain, belching of gas, constipation or diarrhoea, there is something "wrong" with the diet.

These symptoms of indigestion are usually due to excess fermentation in the stomach and intestine which is made worse by food containing too much sugar or too much fat; so the treatment first given is to cut down on sugar and fat.

"Most of the gas in the stomach and bowel is air which has been swallowed. Air is swallowed not only when food is taken but by many infants suffering from indigestion at other times."

These gas attacks and colic, in addition to upsetting the youngster's digestion and causing him to lose weight, also disturb his sleep, thus further reducing his vitality by lessening the number of hours of rest.

While many remedies will give considerable relief in these cases—baking soda, magnesium, peppermint water, tincture of ginger—the best treatment, as mentioned above, is to use a diet that will not cause gas or colic.

Often the youngster is able to expect the gas readily and no treatment or change of diet seems necessary; but, if not, some distension of the bowel takes place and this pressure is what is known as colic.

Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

A Mean Eye

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

Few husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up sooner before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the throes of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

PENSIONS FOR THE NEEDY

There is one provision of the tax bill passed by the lower house of the legislature last week that we believe the Senate ought to eliminate.

This is the provision that would admit to the pension rolls aged persons who have children well able financially to care for them. The measure would prohibit officials from refusing to admit any person to the rolls on the grounds that such person has children able to support him.

This provision, it is estimated, would add about 20,000 new names to the rolls. If these additional pensioners were paid only $7.00 per month of state money, that would amount to a total of $140,000 monthly or $1,680,000 annually.

The News editor has consistently favored "pensions" or assistance for the aged needy. We voted for the amendment when it was submitted to the people and we advocated it through our editorial columns. We have never opposed it publicly or privately.

But we have opposed the payment of pensions to those who are not needy. We do not believe that the parents of millionaire children should be admitted to the pension rolls and thus be allowed to gobble up, in part, the funds needed by the destitute aged who have no children able financially to support them.

We contend that it is not right to tax Bill Jones, who owns only a little farm on which by hard labor he ekes out a mere living, to pay a pension to William Smith, the father of Col. Andy Mellon Smith, who owns a dozen big black-land farms, a national bank, a skyscraper, and a lot of oil stock.

If any of you small farmers can see any justice in such a law, please say Aye.

Furthermore, whatever amount of revenues we may have to place in the "pension" fund, the more persons we have on the rolls, the smaller must be the payment to each. Thus the payments to the needy and the meritorious must be reduced on account of the payments to those on the rolls who have well-to-do children and who are not needy.

If any of you poor folks on the pension rolls can see any justice in a policy that would rob you of a part of the assistance you deserve, and give it to those who do not need it, wish you also would please say Aye.

The News has never opposed pensions for the needy aged. We have always recognized the fact, too, that now and then a person has been refused a pension who is entitled thereto. These errors should be corrected, but we should not throw the gates wide open to all the leeches that would like to get on the rolls.

The trouble with this pension business is that demagogic politicians are making of it a stalking horse on which to ride into office. They are willing to promise anything and everything to anybody and everybody, and as a result the purpose of the law is largely defeated.

OUR COTTON PROBLEM STILL UNSOLVED

The present low price of cotton is not due so much to the big crop we are producing in America as it is to the big crops being produced in foreign countries. While we have been reducing our acreage during the past few years, some foreign countries have been steadily and rapidly increasing theirs. This year, for instance, we have only 33 million acres in cotton against a ten year average of more than 40 million acres preceding the inauguration of the cotton control program.

While we are producing a crop estimated at more than 17,500,000 bales, we produced just a little less than 18 million bales in 1926 and more than 17 million bales in 1931, and our average production for the ten-year period beginning with the year 1923 and ending with the year 1932 was more than 14 million bales, which is considerably larger than the average production during the last five years.

On the other hand, we find that the average annual foreign production of cotton for the above ten-year period was 10,660,000 bales, though during the last six years of the period the average foreign production increased to 12,100,000 bales.
The average foreign production for the past five years has greatly exceeded this amount and will this year exceed 20 million bales, it is claimed.

Now, without being critical of the acreage reduction program which our Government has been fostering, we ask if it is not time for us to begin to think seriously how to regain and retain our foreign markets? Has the program of the past five years encouraged the increased production abroad and has it contributed to our loss of foreign markets? If so, might it not be wise to change our program? Shall we continue a program that seems to be encouraging the production of cotton abroad and that apparently is destroying our foreign markets for cotton? Are we in fact on the right road?

These are questions that farmers and farm leaders should ponder well!

There are those in this country who would have our Government take no note of the flagrant and defiant violation by other nations of solemn treaty obligations entered into by them and us. There are those who think we should stand by without saying a word while bully nations, ignoring all rules of justice and fairness in international warfare, ravage, pillage, and murder innocent non-combatant women and children residing in a neighboring town on the grounds that it is no affair of ours. When bandits are running loose, we believe that some effort should be made by all good citizens to put a stop to their ravages. When nations go out to rob and murder, we believe other nations should take some effective steps to curb their criminal activities. A league of other great nations can usually do that without a resort to war. We think President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have done exactly right in seeking to bring about a cessation of Japan's attempt to ravish and subdue unoffending China.

Arkansas election returns indicate that Congressman John E. Miller has defeated Governor Carl E.
Bailey for the late Joe T. Robinson's seat in the United States Senate. Soon after Robinson's death, Governor Bailey was named by the State Democratic Executive Committee as the Democratic nominee. Some of the Democratic leaders resented the action of the state committee and induced Miller to run independently. Bailey made loyalty to the President and the New Deal the main plank in his platform. Miller pitched his fight against the "dictatorial" action of the committee. He had opposed the President occasionally on New Deal measures, and he was denounced by Bailey as an anti-Roosevelt Democrat. Our readers can interpret the result of the election to suit them-

FREAK TURNIPS BROUGHT TO THE NEWS OFFICE

M. T. Clinton brought to the News office Tuesday morning a freak turnip—possibly we should say a couple of freak turnips—grown on the farm of A. F. Pitts out in the Dixie community.

We have heretofore enlarged on the size and quality of the turnips grown by Mr. Pitts, but we didn't know that they were actually growing so large and so thick on the ground that they were compelled to grow on top of one another. But the specimens brought to this office by Mr. Clinton would seem to indicate this much.

These appear to be two separate and distinct turnips, one of them appended directly on the bottom of the other. The lower turnip's top or greens, if any, protrude up into the bottom of the upper turnip, and the upper turnip is natural in every respect except as to its affectionate companion or offspring clinging to its nether extremity.

Furthermore, Mr. Clinton says that he picked thirty turnips out of Mr.
Pitts' patch that weighed 62 pounds.
The freak turnip may be seen suspended in the window of the News office.

Rules For Making Livestock Pay

Low cotton prices are making many Southern farmers realize the need for more dairy, cattle, beef cattle, sheep, and poultry. But while livestock well managed will make money, poorly managed livestock may easily mean loss instead of profit. One of the South's foremost authorities on livestock, Dr. Tait Butler, writing in The Progressive Farmer after 40 years of close observation, lists these four rules for success with animals:

"In preparing to increase the production of any kind of livestock, first be certain that you are prepared to produce an abundance of suitable feeds. The secret of success in cattle production is good roughage, and the best roughages are good pasture, silage, and legume hays. With hogs the problem is somewhat different. More concentrates are required.

"Second, study the past cycle of high and low prices, especially the time between the lows and the highs, so that you will not have your largest production when prices are low and your smallest production when prices are high. We can do something toward regulating our production to meet conditions of supply and demand, but we cannot go out of the business when prices are low and get back in again economically in time to reap the benefit of high prices.

"Third, make sure that you know quality in livestock when you see it. There is a difference between the animal that is just fat and the one that has quality, whether fat or poor. While from 50 to 75 per cent of the total costs of producing livestock and livestock products are feed costs, it must be remembered that the quality of the livestock determines the returns from the feed consumed. It is the quality of the steer that determines whether he pays 6 cents or 10 cents for the feed given him. Moreover, even pedigrees are not always a guarantee of quality or ability to reproduce.

"Fourth, while thousands of farms in the South might well produce more livestock for market and home and local consumption, the number likely to make a success of the business of producing breeding stock is small. It is best first to learn the livestock business by producing market livestock and livestock products."

Congress — and Its Special Session

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Congress, as this is written, is preparing to convene at Washington in special session.

Meanwhile America wonders what that session will bring forth.

Many things have been promised. But, as most Americans remember, many things were also promised before the preceding session — and failed to materialize. Out of it came principally a long and bitter battle to preserve our Constitutional concept of a balanced form of government.

In this period of nation-wide tribute to the Constitution on its 150th anniversary, citizens will hope that the need for such a conflict will not reappear.

They will hope that Washington will give its full time, instead, to legislation devoted to the equal well-being of all citizens.

Relief from the rising costs of living which affect every segment of our 125,000,000 people, expanded opportunities for employment, continued progress in our national development, elimination of unnecessary waste, renewed confidence in our agencies of government—these are some of the things that the people seek from Washington.

It is a familiar and a traditionally American demand. It was what Thomas Jefferson had in mind when, in discussing the ideals of our early Republic, he wrote:

"A wise and frugal government which shall restrain men from injuring one another, which shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned! This is the sum of good government."

With that concept as its guide, Congress could make the special session well worth while.

Women, 4-H Girls Preserving Foods

County home demonstration agents in Northwest Texas bring favorable reports of food preserving activities of farm women and 4-H club girls in that section.

"I have conserved 135 containers of tomatoes that I grew from three rows, each approximately 35 feet long," stated Mrs. Lloyd Edwards, cooperator in the Friendship home demonstration club in Lynn county. "Of the 135 containers, 15 are tomato juice and 10 are chili sauce." This is the amount necessary to supply her family seven times a week for four months, according to her canning budget for balanced meals for her family.

From her garden planted the latter part of June, Mrs. W. D. Apple of Middle Wells home demonstration club in Moore county, has canned 14 pints of butter beans, has given her daughter-in-law enough string beans for 21 quarts and had 21 quarts of greens to can. She has 32 quarts of cucumbers brining which she plans to use for pickles and relishes.

Turnip greens, beets, blackeyed peas, and cucumbers make up the fall garden of Mrs. J. N. Morton of the Dumas home demonstration club in Moore county. The garden is located near the house, and surface irrigation is used. Old sheet iron has been used on all sides for a windbreak.

Marguerite Lewis, member of the Vivian 4-H club in Fourd county, has canned 400 quarts of vegetables for her family. In addition to this, Marguerite worked away from home a large part of the summer doing canning for other people. She canned about 200 containers, and she reports that there are still peas, beans, and corn to be canned.

Mrs. R. E. Finley of Hico is spending some time in this county now for the benefit of her health and to visit relatives. Mrs. Finley, wife of former county commissioner Bob Finley, and her husband resided in Wilson many years. They then moved to Tahoka and about a year ago removed from here to Hico.

The skating rink which has been located on the south side of the square the past few weeks, moved to Hale Center the first of the week.

A. W. White of Los Angeles came in Saturday night to spend a few weeks here looking after his farming interests. He has a nice farm

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.
By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.
This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "holding hold" of headaches and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 14 apiece.
Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.
Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.
For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Saved by a Deadly Snake"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Here we are again, boys and girls, worshipping at the dangerous shrine of the Goddess of Adventure.

Old Lady Adventure sure does some interesting things in real life—stranger than anything the fiction boys can think of. For instance: who ever heard of a snake saving anyone's life? And yet it did happen. Edgar Bell of Mountain Lakes, N. J., says that a big copperhead snake saved two lives and by golly he can prove it.

On a blistering day in August Ed and a chum of his decided to explore an old canal that, in the fowpath days, connected the Ohio river and the Lake Erie ports. The canal, long since out of use, ran through a lonely, uninhabited, densely wooded country. The boys paddled along enjoying the scenery until they came to a ramshackle houseboat moored to the bank, and then their trouble commenced.

Well, sir, they were floating along lazily a few feet from the houseboat when the cabin door banged open and a wild-eyed, bearded giant staggered out with a double-barreled shotgun in his hairy hands. The man was obviously crazed with liquor, and Ed says he must have thought they were pink elephants or something because he suddenly covered the boys with the gun and tried to draw a bead on them.

He Was Determined to Shoot Them.

The boys tried to reason with him, but he seemed to be beyond reasoning. Fortunately, Ed says, the man was so unsteady on his feet that he couldn't keep the gun pointed at their canoe long enough to get in a shot, but it was plain that he was trying his best to do just that. Ed says, too, that every time that gun swung his way he thought he was looking into twin entrances to the Holland tunnel.

Ed admits that he and his chum were scared to death. Their canoe made such an easy mark that they didn't dare start to paddle away, for, while the drunken man seemed to have some difficulty aiming, he was still able to keep the muzzle of that shotgun pointed in their general direction. He couldn't have missed at that distance. And there wasn't a soul within miles of them.

A Copperhead Lay in Position to Strike.

The man must have had some insane idea that the boys were attacking him. Ed says, because he kept jabbering curses and trying frantically to balance himself for a shot. Finally, with the muzzle of the gun still pointed in their direction, the maniac leaned against the cabin to steady himself and squinted along the sights.

Copperhead to the Rescue.

Gosh! What a spot to be in! Ed says he felt powerless to move a muscle as he saw the muzzle of the gun grow steadier. He had about decided to overturn the canoe and swim for it when he saw something on the houseboat roof that made him forget his own danger and cry out in alarm.

A deadly copperhead snake lay poised in position to strike—just a few inches from the man's face.

"Look out!" Ed screamed.

The drink-crazed man raised his head for a moment at the sudden cry, then he grinned evilly and squinted along the barrel again. Ed saw by his tense expression that this time he was going to pull the trigger. A nerve-wracking second passed.

And then the snake struck!

Once, twice, three times that vicious copper-colored head flashed in the sunlight, and each time those poisonous fangs found their mark in the man's face. The victim's gun clattered to the deck. His hand went to his cheek and he turned and looked in a dazed manner at this new enemy.

Ed says the sight of the poisonous snake seemed to steady him, and, as the snake drew back to strike again, the man deftly caught it behind the neck and killed it with his bare hands.

Venom Brought Him to His Senses.

And now, boys and girls, comes the strangest part of the whole adventure. Ed says that the deadly venom from the snake seemed to bring the houseboat man back to his senses. He thinks the poison had some chemical effect on the man's blood, because, when he turned and looked at the boys, his entire expression had changed, and they knew they had to deal now with a sane man. He gave them a sad smile.

"I'm sorry, boys," he said. "Guess I've been doing a little too much drinking. That copperhead sort of brought me around to my senses. Come in."

Well, sir, the boys went in the houseboat cabin and helped their erstwhile enemy doctor himself. They knew that in many cases the bite of the copperhead means a quick death and they watched him closely. "I'm all right," the man said, weakly. "Whiskey acts as an antidote."

And it did. Aside from a little sickness the man was soon as well as ever, but Ed couldn't help feeling sorry for the copperhead. "That snake should have had a Carnegie medal," he says, and I agree with him. Don't you? —WNU Service.

Albinos Among Animals, Same as With the Races

In many species of animals albinism occurs such as abnormal whiteness of skin, feathers or hair, due to similar causes as in human albinos. In many Eastern countries the white elephant is held in veneration by the natives.

Albinism is found in all races but is most common in the negro and Indian races. The name "albinos," says a writer in the Detroit News, originated with the Portuguese, who thus designated this condition among the negroes of Africa. The condition is due to the absence of the minute particles of coloring matter which is in the lower and last deposited layers of the epidermis and to the presence of which the skin owes its color. With rare exception, it affects the entire body.

Another peculiarity is an affection of the eyes; the pupil is red and the iris is of a pale rose color. This redness is attributed to the absence of a coloring matter of the membrane of the eye which serves to protect the eye. Therefore, albinos cannot bear a strong light. Apart from these distinctions albinos are no different from other people or other animals.

Five-King Dinner Given in Thirteenth Century

There is much obscurity about the origin of the famous five-king dinner of 1363 in the Vintners' hall.

Appropos of a Swan dinner tendered in London by the Worshipful Company of Vintners, honoring princes of England, a writer in the London Observer describes the original company as Edward III (England), David (Scotland), John (France), Waldemar III (Denmark) and Amadeus VI (Cyprus). "John," he continues, "was at the time a prisoner in England. He had been made a captive at Poitiers (1356) and was released on ransom four years later, but, on arriving in Paris, found himself unable to raise the money. His son had been left at Calais as hostage, and when he escaped in the summer of 1363, John returned to England to give himself up.

"It seems quite probable that the Vintners' banquet was given" in compliment to him, for we read that he was received in England "with great honor," was lodged, as before, in the Savoy and was a frequent guest of Edward at Westminster. "He died in the following spring, and his body was sent to France with royal honors."

CHRISTIAN RENEWAL

LESSON TEXT—Titus 2:1-11. GOLDEN TEXT—For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men.—Titus 2:11. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Good Shepherd. JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Likeness. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A New Life in Christ. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Renewed Life Through Christ.

The pastoral epistles, of which Titus is one, were written by Paul to his young brethren in the faith who had been called to the ministry of the gospel to instruct them concerning three important matters—(1) Church order and organization, (2) sound doctrine and (3) holy living. The third chapter of Titus, our lesson for today, deals with the life of believers in Christ in their relation to unbelievers. The great underlying reason why Christians should conduct themselves in meekness and humility toward others is that except for God's grace we who bear the name of Christ would be, and indeed were before our regeneration, just like the unbeliever.

We shall best study our lesson, therefore, by considering first of all v. 3 which, indicates the lost condition of man by nature, then follow him through the miracle of redeeming grace, vv. 4 to 7, and finally see him as a living testimony in vv. 1, 2, and 8 to 11.

I. Lost—by Nature (v. 3). It is not a pleasant picture that is painted in the graphic words of this verse, but, remember, it is God's picture of the unbeliever. He is said to be "foolish"—that is, irrational and senseless in his course of living. He is "disobedient," to the law of God. He is "deceived," literally "out of the way," misled by Satan. He thinks his pleasures and lusts are serving him, but alas, he is only a slave in bondage to and serving them. Such a life can only result in a man's becoming hateful to his fellowmen. They in turn are hateful to him, and so he hates them. Thus the whole world becomes a hateful place where men are "living in malice and envy."

How we thank God that we need not stop at this point. Man is by nature lost in sin—but he may be

II. Saved—by Grace (vv. 4-7). How sweet are these three words in the sinner's ears! Saved by grace, not works, and made heirs of eternal life.

1. "Not by works" (v. 5). Someone has said that man is determined by one means or another to claim salvation by his good works. To do so may flatter the flesh, but it surely finds no support whatever in Scripture. We are to work for Christ because we are saved, and after we are saved, but no man can be saved by works.

2. "By his grace" (v. 7). God shows his unspeakable kindness and love toward man—saving him by grace, through Jesus Christ. Grace has well been defined as "unmerited favor." We deserve but the just condemnation of our sin, and God in His mercy saves us, through faith in His Son.

3. "Made heirs" (v. 7). Saved now? Yes, thank God! Satisfied? Yes, praise His name! But there is more yet to come. We who deserve only God's judgment are now made heirs of an eternal hope. "This indeed no small thing to be a child of God.

Now—we are ready to approach in the right spirit the admonition to live out our salvation as a daily testimony to others.

III. Witnessing, by Holy Living (vv. 1, 2, 8-11).

The young preacher Titus is told to "put them in mind" to be 1. Subject to rulers (v. 1). True patriotism (and we did not spell it "pay-triotism") stands very close to godly living. National leaders would do well to recognize that the decay of our national life will follow the decadence of spiritual life. A man who is right with God will be right with his fellowmen, and a noble and useful citizen.

2. Meek and kind to all men (v. 2). Meekness is not weakness. Gentleness is the attribute of strong men and women.

3. Maintaining good, avoiding evil (vv. 8-11). It is the tendency of man to divorce morals from religion, to profess a faith which does not touch his daily life. Let us affirm "constantly" and "confidently" (as the R. V. has it) that those who believe in God should "be careful to maintain good works"—yes, and at the same time to "avoid" that which is "foolish," contentious, "unprofitable and vain."

Knowledge and Ignorance The best part of our knowledge is that which teaches us where knowledge leaves off and ignorance begins.—O. W. Holmes.

Justice Justice is the idea of God, the ideal of man, the rule of conduct writ in the nature of mankind.—Theodore Parker.

The Test of Truth The truth makes free, brings joy, hope, encouragement.

Wool Is Going Places

LADY, lady, lady have you anything in wool? Smart women everywhere are clamoring for wool. They're wearing it to work in, to play in, to date in, to go to church in. Yes, wool is going places! Sew-Your-Own is here with three ultra-smooth new models for you to choose from.

Needs Slim Lines. That "something in wool" might well and easily be the handsome model at the left above. Especially does a weightier fabric need slim lines and here you have them pared down to hairline precision. The zipper from throat to hemline gives this frock additional chic, and the far-reaching collar takes care of that all-important need for contrast. French wine, black, duck green, and gendarme blue are the popular colors.

Compliment to Youth. Youth and the blouse 'n' skirt have always gone sporting together. That's a compliment to youth and real flattery for the two-piece above, center. This engaging combination has a waist-coatish topper and a simply cut, flaring skirt. A singular asset is its size range: 14 to 42. And because it is figure flattering every size is benefited. Acetate crepe is lovely for the blouse; velvet or thin wool is smart for the skirt.

For a Busy Body. If you're a busy body or a lady of legion labors, you'll thank Sew-Your-Own for the charming new frock at the right. Now is the time to cut two versions: one iningham for housework, another as your "something in wool" in the long sleeve style for all occasions.

The Patterns. Pattern 1375 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material. With short sleeves, 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material. Collar and cuffs in contrast take five-eighths of a yard. Pattern 1302 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material. Pattern 1382 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material with long sleeves; 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves.

MANY LETTERS Addressed to You Personally

THINK of the advertisements in this paper as so many letters addressed to you personally. That's what they're intended to be, and, actually, that's what they are. This newspaper is, in effect, a mail-bag which brings you news of events and news of the best merchandise at the fairest prices.

You don't throw away letters ignored. You don't read three or four letters carefully and skim through the rest. Treat the "merchandise letters" in this newspaper the same way. Read them all. Read them carefully. One single item will often repay you for the time it has taken to read them all.

Many good housewives have formed the habit of reading their newspaper with a pencil and paper, ready to jot down the articles they wish to look at when they start out on their shopping tour. Try this method. It saves time, and saves money, and provides you with the pick of the day's merchandise.

Club Boys Busy Feeding Calves

County agricultural agents from Northwest Texas send in interesting accounts of the accomplishments of 4-H club boys in their beef calf feeding work.

Eugene Caldwell of the Close City community in Garza county is one of the smallest 4-H club boys engaged in feeding beef calves in his community. He weighs his Hereford steer every month and during one period of 30 days the steer gained 90 pounds. The average gain for 90 days was 2.3 pounds a day and Eugene believes he can get the gain up to 3 pounds per day. By weighing the calf at 30-day intervals the effect of the ration can be seen, and if corrections need to be made, the weight basis record is used.

James and Richard Peters and Ed and Hall Wells who live near Wellington in Collingsworth county, in working out the cost of their beef calf feeding demonstration, found that 6.49 cents per pound was the cost of producing 925 pounds of beef. These boys bought their calves from the J. M. Crews ranch and started them on feed in April. The initial weight of the four calves was 825 pounds. In August the calves weighed 1,759 pounds. They are being fed a ration of whole oats, milo maize, pea cake, and hay. Each calf is on a nurse cow.

James Butler, 4-H club boy of Bomarton community in Baylor county, has fed calves for show for the past three years. This year he is launching out into commercial feeding and with the aid of his county agricultural agent he has selected 15 steer calves from the home herd of grade Hereford cows and purebred bulls. They are in the class of good feeders, weighing 410 pounds on the average, and he values them at $461.22. He produces his own feed.

Well, folks, nothing exciting happened this week, so news is still scarce.

The farmers are all very busy picking cotton. The rain, we hope, is over for a spell.

Our Sunday School is still dragging along, but we are hoping it picks up soon.

We had church Sunday night. A very good crowd attended.

Miss Elizabeth Hill, who has been visiting home folks the past few weeks, has returned to Brownfield, where she is teaching art.

Clothing Work Interests Women

Home Demonstration club members and 4-H club girls of Northwest Texas are showing a great deal of interest in clothing work, county home demonstration agents of this section report.

A red print cotton material which cost 57 cents was used by Inez Britten, of the Rivercamp 4-H club in Childress county, to make a school dress of the sport type.

Posters illustrating the becomingness of round, square, and V-shaped necklines were shown at nine Lynn county 4-H girls' club meetings which attracted a total of 154 girls. Girls with different shaped faces were selected from each group and the remaining girls chose appropriate necklines for them.

"I bought 10 cents worth of cellophane in town and made a bag to keep dust from my house," Mrs. J. R. Hale of Hardeman county told members of the North Groesbeck club recently. Mrs. Hale stuck the edges of the material together with paper and taped one side. The garments are hung on a hanger, the bag is put over them, and the taped side is pinned. Two packages of cellophane will make three bags, Mrs. Hale said.

Varied articles of clothing have been completed by Frandie Beaty, member of the Center 4-H girls' club in Wheeler county. Frandie has hemmed a cup towel, made an apron and three undergarments, remodeled a dress, made two children's garments, and completed a smock.

Rotary Club Has First Birthday

The Rotary Club celebrated the first anniversary of its birthday Thursday with a program featured by both serious and comic numbers.

Since the Post club sponsored the organization of the club here, that club was well represented at the luncheon Thursday. M. L. Penn, a former member and the first president of the club here, and three members of the Post Club, Jay Slaughter, Dr. E. B. Young, and Rev. Clarence Bounds were present.

Jay Slaughter was the victim of a practical joke pulled by members of the Tahoka Club that Jay as well as everybody else greatly enjoyed. The principal perpetrators of the stunt were Wynne Collier, Dr. Durham, and Judge P. W. Goad.

M. L. Penn was invited by President Wynne Collier to preside during a portion of the program and he delivered one of the principal addresses of the occasion. Dr. Young responded to a few welcoming remarks made by E. I. Hill of the local club, and Rev. Clarence Bounds also responded happily to a request for a speech.

Homer St. Clair made the principal talk on the part of the Tahoka Club, his subject being "What a Year in Rotary Has Meant to Me."

Besides the delegation from Post, seven other visitors were present. Lamesa was represented by Irvin Wright, Clyde Brannon, and Sam McIntosh, while Glenn Akers and Ed Shelton represented Brownfield.

Earl McClure of Lubbock, Boy Scout Executive of the South Plains area council, was also present and expressed his appreciation of the program, while Erman Gray of Brunk's Comedians now playing in the city gave a xylophone number that was much enjoyed.

Funeral Home Has Insurance Service

The Harris Funeral Home here is undertaking to render real service to the people of Lynn county.

In addition to the duties which the Home has been heretofore rendering, Mr. Harris has just made arrangements with the Republic National Life Insurance Company whereby burial insurance is provided to all eligible persons under sixty years of age, either individually or as a family group, in amounts from $100 up.

The premiums are to be paid monthly and the cost is said to be extremely low.

This plan, it is claimed, has many advantages over the usual burial protection provided by Mutual Burial Associations. A number of new features contained in this policy are set out in an advertisement carried by the funeral home in this issue of the paper.

Post Office Is Open Saturday Afternoon

The News is informed that the postoffice here will remain open hereafter on Saturday afternoons, at least until Christmas.

This is for the accommodation of farmers and cotton pickers as well as business men during the extremely busy season.

The Federal Social Security Act does not require a state to pass a law in conjunction with it. Nor does it set up any particular system for states that do pass such laws. Every state has passed these laws, however, and three different systems are used by them.

Carl Walters Hurt In Car Accident

Carl Walters of Morton, who was grade foreman for the Lone Star Construction Company in the construction of highway No. 84 west of Tahoka recently, was seriously injured in an automobile collision near Whiteface Monday afternoon.

Walters is a brother-in-law of A. C. Weaver of Tahoka, and while engaged in the road work here he made many friends in Tahoka.

Walters suffered a severe scalp laceration, concussion, fracture of two vertebra, fracture of the pelvis in three places, fracture of the right collar bone, and numerous contusions and abrasions of his body. He was taken to a Lubbock hospital for treatment, and while his injuries are very serious, it is believed that he will recover.

Mrs. Walters, who is a sister of Mrs. Weaver, suffered a scalp laceration but was not seriously injured. The car in which they were riding was demolished.

The accident occurred when Walters' car, coming down the highway in a southeasterly direction, was struck by a farmer's pick-up which entered upon the highway from a lateral road coming from the north. Walters swerved his car to the right, going partially off the pavement, it is said, in order to avoid being struck by the other machine, but the driver of the pick-up apparently did not see Walters' car until too close to avoid a collision. His pick-up struck the rear end of Walters' car. The latter turned over several times. The driver of the pick-up was only slightly injured and little damage was done to his machine.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Harris of Corsicana are here visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Thomas.

Warning Is Given On Diphtheria

Austin, Oct. 21.—State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox urges all parents of children between the ages of six months and ten years who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to their family physician and have this done at once.

The first ten months of 1937 saw 1,635 cases of diphtheria reported to the Texas State Department of Health. This is an increase over 1936's figures, and shows the need of immunization of children in this age group.

It was not many years ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of inability of the medical profession to either prevent or cure the disease. But today when we know both the cause and the cure there is no obstacle but negligence which will prevent the complete elimination of the disease in Texas.

Diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, and it is especially important that immunization against it be given early in a child's life. In young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has proven to give absolute protection.

"It is in the power of the parents of Texas, cooperating with their physician and the Health Department, to eliminate the disease," Dr. Cox stated. "In about six months after immunization the child should be given a Schick test to determine whether further treatment is necessary. Early immunization against diphtheria is a routine procedure with up-to-date physicians. Cooperate with your family physician and your community and make early immunization a regular practice in Texas."

Better Speech And The Art Of Conversation (An Editorial)

To be able to converse freely and intelligently with people of all ages and of all walks of life is an art well worth cultivating. To do so you must first read widely and then learn how to express yourself clearly. The proper choice of words, the command of a large vocabulary, and the use of a pleasant, well-modulated voice are all essential in conversation.

Observe our associates and determine which ones really make an honest effort to speak correctly and try to better themselves in their speaking. Though others may not speak well, it is to your advantage to improve your own and at the same time set up an example for others. Set speech standards for yourself and work hard to achieve success. Read articles of interest to those other than yourself. Force yourself to carry on intelligent conversations of interest to people older or younger than yourself. In time you will find yourself growing mentally; you will be more broad-minded, and should through this process acquire a greater depth of character.

Senior

The Senior Class has been doing as well as could be expected during the absence of their sponsor, Mrs. Tunnell.

Junior

On Wednesday, October 20, the Junior Class had charge of the assembly program, which consisted of several musical numbers and current event reports of general interest. The program was as follows:

The Cardenas Regime in Mexico—Martha Drennon.

Roosevelt's Recent Western Tour—June Fender.

Song, "Oh, Brother, What a Feeling"—Scotty St. Clair, W. J. Riddle, D. F. Reddel, Odean Millman, and Finis Connolly.

Nebraska's Unicameral Legislature—Rudelle Prater.

Hugo Black and the Ku Klux Klan—Dick Bosworth.

Songs, "Was It Rain?" and "The One Rose"—Grace Greathouse, Laura Jane Milliken, Doris Lawler, and Doyce Chapman.

This program was greatly enjoyed by the student body and the Juniors are to be congratulated on the talent in their group.

Home Ec News

On Tuesday night, October 12, the Home Economics Club met in the Home Ec. Department. The business meeting was held, in which Mildred Cooper was elected Parliamentarian, and Julia Snowden was chosen as song leader. Also, the club song, "Lead the Way Home," was selected.

The meeting then adjourned to the kitchen, the place to make candy.

The next meeting will be on October 28th.

Bulldogs Will Play At Post Tonight

After a two weeks rest, during which all injuries received in previous games have healed, the Bulldogs will invade Post full strength. Here is the dope on the game.

Levelland beat Ralls and Tahoka by the same score of 13-6. That makes Ralls and Tahoka even (on paper).

Olton beat Ralls 13-0 and Post 19-0.

Since Post was beaten one more touchdown by Olton than was Ralls, our equal, it follows that our team is one touchdown better than Post. But—the game will be played on Post's field under their lights. Too, the Post boys had rather win this

The Chemical Nightmare

One forty-five and all is quiet except those infernal molecules. Small atoms with leering faces fly batlike around my room. Equations, like huge electric signs, stare me in the face from every possible angle. My pillow is stuffed with a thousand test tubes, and a row of burners surround my bed like death candles. Great crucibles are filled with acid, and they slowly tip to hang suspended over my head. Negative and positive charges, with stingers bared, buzz around my ears. Theories in the form of wolves howl in every corner. Electrons hold track meets on my spine while shades of Avogadro unite with shades of Boyle to form hypochlorous acid to burn me to the smallest known particle of ashes that can exist alone. Valences and symbols point accusing fingers at me from the ceiling and coefficients stand ready to pounce on me with sharpened triangle files. From the distance a muffled voice penetrates my bedroom. "How about a little sleep tonight?"

A THRILLING NEW SERIAL OF ROMANTIC MEXICO!

Joyce Sewell went to Mexico seeking the restful peace of LaBarranca, her father's lost hacienda in the isolated hills. But she found excitement, an adventure spiced with bullets, intrigue and gaiety. She nearly caused international complications when the American embassy and the Mexican war ministry locked horns over her escapades. She fell in love, too, with Dirk Van Suttart, the handsome diplomatic attache assigned to guard her. Follow "Under Pressure" as it unfolds serially in these columns.

To save on their country's annual bill for cotton and wool imports, Japanese big business men formed a "no suit association." They promised to practice "honorable shabbiness" and buy no new clothes without government permission. When 50 Tokyo tailors invaded the Finance Ministry with shouts of "We have to live, too," Vice Minister Sotaro Ishiwatari clucked his sympathy, but indicated that patriots would continue to patch their pants.

"I give you the health of the bride and groom." Lifting their champagne glasses, 26 wedding guests of Hermann Katz, 36, and Clara Holdorf, 26, rose to drink a toast in a Paris cafe. At that moment police walked in and arrested groom, bride, and guests as pickpocket suspects.

Fifty years ago George Cecil Morris of Sidney, Australia, "ran away" from a baronetcy. Last week when the death of a nephew made Morris a peer and proprietor of a 3,000-acre estate, the 86-year-old man grumbled: "I want to be let alone with my flowers."

BUILDING TESTS WALLS FOR FAIR

NEW YORK (Special).—Although the opening date of the New York World's Fair is still almost two years away, the Fair site already has one building that mystifies all persons who pass that way and one that is of great interest to the contractors and builders of the whole country. The big sign says it is the "test building."

The building can be made to do a lot of things just short of a late dance step. It can be made to twist, heave, buckle, sag or otherwise contort, all at the will of the Fair's engineers. It has a sawed-off tower arrangement on one end. Some sections of its walls are dazling under the sun and are, obviously, encrusted with bits of broken glass. Its four walls, in fact, comprise 43 different set-ups of material, supports and surface coatings. When its day is done it will be made to collapse by the turn of a screw.

The unique building is typical of nothing other than itself, say Fair officials, since it is just a set of walls, upon which to try out the merits of various types of wall coating and stucco treatments. The durability, appearance and structural peculiarities of walls are of great importance to the Fair, since its 300 buildings will require around 15,000,000 square feet of such enclosures.

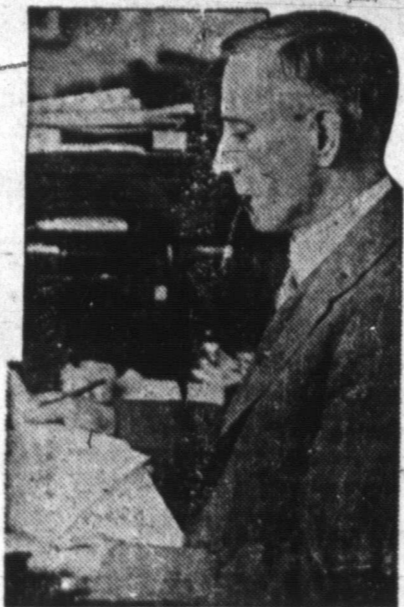

The interior of this "wall laboratory" is given over to the Corporation's illumination engineers and their experimentation with new lighting devices.

Eskimos Know Their Ice
Primitive Eskimos have long known ice forms a barrier through which no wind can penetrate. That's why they live in igloos, or ice houses, states a writer in the Washington Post. Such a dwelling is built of solid blocks of snow, plastered together with soft snow. Water is then poured over the completed hut and freezes immediately. When summer comes, the house melts and the Eskimo again takes to his skin tent. In constructing his igloo, the canny Eskimo avoids a pitfall of many Arctic explorers. Knowing the house will be heated by an open fire, the builder leaves a hole in the roof so smoke and deadly carbon monoxide fumes can escape.

Baby Kangaroo Very Small
The young of the kangaroo at birth is smaller in proportion to the size of the parents than the young of any other animal. Some of the larger species of kangaroo stand about eight feet in height and have a head as large as that of a sheep. The young at birth are about an inch in length and weigh only about twenty grains, which is 1-350 of a pound. By means of their perfectly formed front legs the young propel themselves to the pouch on the mother's abdomen where they are nourished and sheltered for several months.

Aurora Borealis Varies;
White, Green, Red, Purple

The intrepid English and Dutch sailors who searched for the northern passage, a supposed water route around the northern end of North America, failed in their main objective, but nevertheless supplied scientific men with a wealth of meteorological information. The one phenomenon that most impressed them, and one that has come to be regarded as typical of northern latitudes, is the aurora borealis or northern lights, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

This is an unearthly display of light that appears in the sky at night. It may be seen as far south as the northern part of the United States. In the eastern hemisphere, however, it is rarely seen farther south than the northern parts of Norway, Sweden and Russia. It usually appears as one of several distinct patterns of light. It may be an arch, the lower side of which is sharply defined, with the upper gradually fading into darkness; or the lower edge, instead of being arched, may be curved in irregular folds like the edge of a draped curtain. Sometimes it takes the form of radiant beams which may seem to spiral upward toward an infinite point at the zenith.

In color the aurora varies from pearly white to a pale green, although it has on occasion shown shades of red or purple. It may be easily the brightest object in the nocturnal sky, or it may be barely visible. It may last for only a few minutes or for many hours.

Frogs Have Teeth; but the Toad Is Toothless

The eyes of toads and frogs have movable lids which are closed when swallowing and when swimming.

The ear (tympanum) of the toad or frog is the round disk situated directly behind and a little below the eye.

The tongue of a toad is attached at the front of the mouth instead of at the back of the mouth as with human beings. The tongue of a toad is long and thin, thickened at the end, which is covered with a sticky mucus.

The frog's tongue is attached a little way back from the front of the mouth and cannot be protruded a very great length. As the frog has teeth on the upper jaw and the toad is toothless, it is fair to suppose that the frog depends more on his jaws than on his tongue to keep body and soul together. A big bull frog, and they do grow to be a foot in length from the tip of the nose to the end of the outstretched legs, has been known to eat small birds and rodents.

Radio and Television

NEW YORK (Special).—Radio, television, movies, telephone, telegraph, photography, news and magazine print—all those factors as they relate to communications in American life—will have their own pavilion and ten-acre exhibit zone at the New York World's Fair of 1939, according to an announcement by Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation.

The Hall of Communications will be built this year on the 1216 1/2-acre exposition site within a few minutes ride from mid-town Manhattan. Its location is adjacent to that of the unique Theme Centre structures, which with their "thousand wonders" will dominate the Fair grounds. About the Hall will be grouped ten acres of buildings to be erected by private exhibitors in the communications industry, said Mr. Whalen. Before the building will be two ultramarine pylons, 160 feet high and faced with continuous glass lighting fixtures. Features of the structure are a great hall, in which will be placed the focal exhibit summing up the role of communications in the World of Tomorrow, and a glass-walled restaurant opening onto a dining terrace and garden. The total length of the Hall of Communications will be over 400 feet. Its cost is estimated at $400,000. Numerous other Fair structures are emerging from stages of design. Construction of the exposition, however, will not reach its peak until early next year.

Textbook Heroine in College

DENTON, Texas, Oct. — Texas school children know Nancy Harris as the gay little heroine who rides ponies to adventure in the state-adopted texts, "Real Life Readers," which they use in their first classes in school.

But Nancy, whose fan mail has reached from coast to coast, is growing up, and this year is a freshman at the North Texas State Teachers College, where her father, Dr. B. B. Harris, is dean.

Above, Nancy is seen as she was when Dr. Cora M. Martin first conceived the idea of a series of readers about real children. The picture is one of those used to illustrate the books.

Below, Nancy today, a charming little co-ed of 15.

Man Outjumps the Flea,

According to Authority Bulk for bulk, a man jumps ten times as far as a flea. The old idea that a flea the size of a man could leap over the cross on the dome of St. Paul's is quite wrong, asserts a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine. It is doubtful whether it would be able to clear six feet. The reason for this is that when the size of any animal is increased on a uniform scale, its muscular force decreases rapidly.

A flea has a tiny body, flat like a fish, and strong, grasshopper legs. In its size, it offers very little resistance to the air when it jumps; consequently, flea records of 7 1/2 inches high (equivalent to a 6-foot man leaping 90 times his own height) and of 13 inches long (300 yards by the same man) have actually been measured.

Enlarge the flea to the size of a 6-foot man, and its increased bulk would be out of all proportion to the increased muscular power of its legs.

For those who like mathematics, any body made twice as long has four times the body surface and eight times the weight.

The determining factor governing the height and distance man and animals can jump is the weight behind each unit of skin area. Only in a vacuum would a flea jump higher and farther than a man—because in those circumstances the strength of its muscles compared to its bulk would be far greater than that of a man's.

School Report Cards Are Given Students

Report cards were given out in both high school and ward school grades in Tahoka this week. We urge parents to study these closely before signing. If there is any question, do not hesitate to contact the school authorities. We know that proper cooperation between the home and school will be to the best interest of both the child and the teacher.

TEXAS NAMES IN POSTAL GUIDE ARE ALSO RARE

Texas has her share of strange names.

There is a Water Proof, La., a Rough and Ready, Calif., and a Hot Spot, Ky., but a glance through the postal guide of our own state shows towns with equally strange names.

Some of these towns may have been named similar to Floydada, which was named for the first two people to settle there, a man and his wife. The man's name was Floyd and his wife's name was Ada.

A few "misnomers" in Texas are: Bee House, Edge, Loco, Frost, Calf Creek, Cross Cut, Bigfoot, Sprinkle, Razor, Nursery, Circle Back, Mud, Lariat, Happy, Earth, Old Glory, Muleshoe, Sample, Pointblank, Red Barn, Sour Lake, Okra, Cat Springs, Joy Friday, Somerset, Panhandle, Round Top, Speaks, Pride, Cuthand, and Dime Box.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Gelett Burgess, the nonsense writer, coined two words—bromide and blurb—that have been accepted into the English language by most dictionaries.

It's the membranous pads on a fly's feet, secreting a sticky, viscous fluid, that enable the insect to walk upside down on a smooth surface.

In the latter years of his life, the late John D. Rockefeller's neck had shriveled to such a degree he could wear a size 13 1/2 collar.

Tobacco is native to America—and it was introduced to Turkey from here.

Aestivation is the summer sleep of certain animals just as hibernation is their winter sleep.

No wonder American bakeries make 12,000,000,000 loaves of bread a year. The average American consumes five slices of the staff of life per day.

"I Saw It in the News Review" is a common expression among those who keep well informed on current events. They know that in the "Weekly News Review," which appears regularly in this paper, they obtain a comprehensive interpretation of world events written by Edward W. Pickens, one of the nation's most widely-known news commentators.

Weekly News Review deals with the important happenings and their effect upon our country. It is more than news—it is an interpretation of the news, and therefore much more valuable to the person who wants to understand what is going on in the world today.

Read it carefully from week to week. You will find it interesting and helpful in your discussion of world events with your neighbors and friends.
