Cotton Is Rolling In To Break Records

County Ginnings Are Possibly Near To 45,000 Bales

Of the 27 gins being operated in Lynn county this fall, eleven of them had ginned 19,862 bales of cotton prior to 11 o'clock Thursday morning

It is reasonable to conclude that more than 45,000 bales have been ginned in the entire county.

The five gins in Tahoka had turned out 8,686 bales; the two gins at Grassland, 6,407, one gin at Draw 2,650, one at New Lynn 1,300, one at New Home 539, and one at Petty

Many Routes Are Considered Near Central Church

Surveyors of highway No. 84 are now in the vicinity of Central Church, but we understand that they have given no intimation as to the route along which they will proceed from that point.

It is said by some who are in position to know that at least three good routes for the new highway are available, but they do not indicate the log of either of the three routes.

This leaves the matter open to speculation.

And hence a lot of people who are interested, and this includes almost everybody, are making their guesses. Some are surmising that the new highway will angle across farms in a northeast direction from Central highway No. 84 a mile or two east

Landon Calls on G.O.P.

ALF M. LANDON came to the surface in a radio address to 17,000,000 Americans who voted for him in the last election, and especially to the Republican party as a whole. He said he had called this "radio meeting" to suggest ways and means by which 'we, the minority party," can be of outstanding service to the country. The Kansan de-

It is up to the Republicans, he said, to curb Mr. Roosevelt in his demands. He also discussed the war talk prevalent after the President's Chicago speech and said: 'We are faced with a situation where he may make a mistake that would indeed be tragic, that might lead to war. Close observers have increasing doubt if he thought his recent declaration through to its logical conclusion."

In conclusion Mr. Landon said: "We have had a New Deal. Now what we most need in America is a new yardstick-a yardstick to measure the ability and the accomplishments, as well as the good intentions, of public officials.

"It is time to put a solid foundation of workable legislation under the air castles which the President forever is blowing.

"It is time to realize that we must apply the resources of the mind if we are to make the wishes of the heart come true."

Farmers Warned on Loans

EDWARD 'A. O'NEAL, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, headed a group of farm leaders who called on the President for the purpose of asking loans of 60 cents a bushel on corn to improve prices. It was understood Mr. Roosevelt warned that crop loans should not be pushed so high that the drain on federal revenues would become too heavy; and that he intimated that the budget would not permit great extension of loans at this time.

However, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace subsequently told a press conference a government loan on this year's large corn crop "should be exceedingly desirable." He declined to say what loan rate he favored, but conceded that a corn loan of about 46 cents a bushel would be comparable to the government's 9 cents a pound loan on this year's cotton crop.

Credit System Praised

DRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, speaking at the opening of the new Federal Reserve building in Washington, gave full praise to the federal reserve system as a most important part of the government's plans for economic stability and security. He said disastrous depressions and booms could be avoided only by the development of the credit and monetary machinery of the nation.

That machinery, he continued, "must be steadily perfected and co-ordinated with all other instruments sians and charged with "Trotskyist" ordinated with all other instruments of government to promote the most productive utilization of our human and material resources. ity, free from the disastrous extremes of booms and depressions. Only in that way can our economic system and our democratic institutions endure." Mr. Roosevelt avoided mention of the jittery condition of the stock markets, but before delivering his address he had seen Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and learned that the market was recovering, due to heavy buying by bargain hunters and perhaps to recovery of confidence by investors.

Among the many notable persons on the platform with the President was Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who fathered the federal reserve system during the Wilson administration. The veteran senator was loudly cheered.

His subject was the economic relationships of the who have had more experience and | nations of the western hemisphere, who know more about the practical | and he proposed this four-point program which he believed would benefit the entire world:

1. United action throughout the Americas for the publication of verified facts about every country, stressing constructive events and objectives rather than prejudice, crimes, and disrupting events.

2. The introduction into the educational system of every country study of other languages so that each country would be better prepared in attitude and knowledge to help develop its own country. "This means," he said, "that no country will exploit the resources of another country."

3. Encourage tourist travel among all the Americas by truthful advertising and better travel facilities.

4. Broader studies by the countries in the western hemisphere of each other's economic and social needs in the light of the individual country.

New Budget Figures

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT found his estimate of $418,000,000 as the probable deficit for 1938 fiscal year was much too low. So he gave out new budget figures putting the probable deficit at nearly 700 millions. And it admittedly will be much greater unless the executive and congress achieve very considerable economies.

Famous Headline Hunter I ELLO, EVERYBODY:

Here's a yarn, fellow adventurers, that socks me right smack in the weakest spot I've got. You know, I am not afraid of mice, and I don't go around nights looking under beds for burglars. Some day I might even get used to being shot at or torpedoed, or chewed up by man-eating kangaroos. But heightaltitude—elevation—anything more than two inches off good, flat, solid ground-just about scares me to death.

Today, reading a yarn from Adventurer Eric K. Frank of Palisades Park, N. J., I got a dose of altitude fever I couldn't very well avoid. It was quite a few miles away from here, boys and girls, and quite a few years back. The episode that is scaring the pants off of me happened on Winsel-Burg mountain in south Germany in the year 1927. Then, Eric Frank was one of a party of hardy souls who had gone out with a guide for a skiing jaunt on the treacherous slopes of the Winsel-Burg. They had been climbing up steep paths, edging their precarious way along narrow, ice-covered ledges, skirting treacherous cliffs and dodging dangerous pitfalls. Finally they came out on a broad slope covered with hard-packed January snow, whose vast, glistening expanse reared it-self high up the mountain side, and here the leader called a halt.

They were all set for a nice quiet little meal in the peace and stillness of the great outdoors, but they forgot that old Mother Nature, for all that she is a quiet old dame, can be cruel and murderous when she has a mind to.

The knapsacks were open-the lunches out-some of the crowd had started eating when the guide remembered a precaution highly necessary in those regions where people get lost from their parties, fall down cliffs and get stuck in crevasses. He started to check over the people in his charge to make sure none of them were missing. He counted the gang twice, frowned, counted them again. Then, his face pale and his voice shaky, he announced that the party was short one man.

Eric Frank had a queer feeling in the pit of his stomach when he heard that announcement. "I was filled with fear," he says, "and I know everyone else was too. I pity anyone who gets lost in those mountains. Either he starves to death, freezes to death, or ends up at the bottom of a gorge with his bones broken." He put away his lunch uneaten-strapped on his knapsack, and started out with the rest of the party to search for the lost man.

Riding Fast to Sure Death.

For two hours they hunted, doubling back on their own tracks, trying to find the place where he had left the party. Finally, they spotted him-a rapidly moving speck, far off to the left-a man on skis, hurtling at express-train speed down the side of the mountain. It was a sight that should have brought joy to that anxious little party of searchers, but it only filled them with a new and awful fear. Unfamiliar with the country, the man on skis was riding STRAIGHT TO HIS DESTRUC-TION. The slope he was careening down so merrily ended in a steep, towering cliff. If he wasn't stopped before he got to the bottom, he would be dashed to pieces on the ice-covered rocks below.

Eric thrust his feet into the toe-straps of his skis-told his comrades he was going to try to head that poor devil off. "You can't do it," his friends told him. "He's too far gone. Nothing on earth could reach him in time. You'll only go over the cliff yourself." Eric didn't even hear the last of it. He was on his way, shooting down the mountainside in the direction of the doomed man-and the threatening, ever-nearing

The man ahead had almost a two-mile lead when Eric started. He'd need all the speed he could muster to close that gap in time to save the poor fellow from the cliff. He raced along down the mountain, knees bent, head and chest thrust forward to lower the wind resistance—using every bit of strength and skill that was Saved by Eric's Desperate Measure.

He was careening along now at forty miles an hour, the rush of cold air in his face making his eyes water so that he could hardly see. He crouched lower and stepped up his pace. Now he was making forty-fiveforty-eight-fifty, and slowly gaining on the man ahead. About half a mile from the cliff's edge, he caught up with his man-motioned to him to halt. Then his heart sunk as the fellow waved back at him and kept right on going.

Eric yelled to him to stop. The wind ripped the words from his mouth and carried them away up the mountainside. He tried making motions again, but you can't make many motions balanced on a pair of skis going fifty miles an hour. The edge of the cliff was only two hundred yards away now. There was one chance left and Eric took it. He whipped up his speed, passed his man, and flung himself headlong in his path.

There was no mistaking that gesture. The friend braked his skis. slowed down, fell in a heap over Eric's bruised and lacerated body. When he got up again-saw the edge of the cliff only fifty feet awayhis face turned white as the snow that had nearly carried him to his death. And after that, boys and girls, came one of the briefest conversations on record. The lad Eric had saved stood up, looked down at that gaping declivity before him, and in a weak voice said: "OH." Eric didn't say anything. After all, what was there to say?

for WOMEN only

CARDUI is a special medicine for the relief of some of the suffering which results from a woman's weakened condition. It has been found to make monthly periods less dis-agreeable, and, when its use has been kept up awhile, has helped many poorly nourished women to get more strength from their food. This medicine (pronounced "Card-u-i") has been used and recommended by women for many, many years. Find out whether it will help you by giving it a fair trial. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

"I'm-I'm modeling-for the last

"Can't you get out of it?"

"That's decisive. I have a present for you, but this doesn't seem to be just the moment to produce it. You seem to dislike me more than ever. I thought we might play round together. If you can't, or wcn't, I'll join a bunch of friends who wanted to date me up for some sort of fete this afternoon. They were all excited about a plan to surprise somebody about something. I didn't listen; I was anxious to locate you. I'll see you tonight be-fore I leave, Brooke."

The sky was like a huge sapphire; the sunshine was rose-tinted; the ocean a tumbling mass of emeralds. A fragrant breeze, a mere suggestion of a breeze, ruffled the bright orange flame-vine on top of the high Spanish wall which enclosed three sides of a garden open to the sea, a garden filled with tables set in gay borders which were filmy frocks; there were faces above the tables, faces under large hats and men's faces with no hats at all.

From a Moorish gallery drifted male voices singing to the accompaniment of guitars as Brooke stepped from the automobile which had brought her to the charity fete. Carstons Inc. had staged the wed-ding party of the style show with meticulous attention to detail, even to sleek shining cars to bring the bride and bridesmaids to the ornate grilles which were the garden gates. Reporters were there and camera men, hordes of them, all the frills and appurtenances of a wedding except groom and ushers.

Madame Celeste, chic in black and pearls, was flushed with excitement under her make-up; her French accent was noticeable for Its absence as she whispered last Instructions

"Wait until the singers stop, girls. The moment the orchestra strikes the first note of the wedding march, start. Don't get flustered. Don't get out of step. You're all lovely." A violin sighed a soft note. Others joined until strings and harps and woodwinds swelled into the wedding march from Lohengrin. Bridesmaids, their lips scarlet, their eyes shining between dark mascaraed lashes, passed between the iron grilles and moved slowly up the ribbon-outlined aisle, dragging their gold slippers a little in time to the rhythm of the music, and the switch of their taffets slipe. and the swish of their taffeta slips The first two were dressed in bil-lowy rose-orange net; behind them at a short distance came two more In a lighter tint, then two in soft yellow, then a fourth pair in ivory, and then the bride in snowy satin so soft in texture that it trailed in ravishing folds. Slowly she came with head slightly bent, eyes presumably on the mass of white Transvaal daisies and stevia she carried Brooke felt the surge of motion as everyone stood up—a tribute to Madame Celeste's stagecraft—the wedding procession was so perfect that habit had brought the audi-ence to its feet. She must keep her attention on the girls in front-why had Mark Trent come to Palm Beach—this heavenly music made one all trembly inside—would she never reach the spot where she was to turn—three stairs to mount be-fore she reached it.

Something pulled at her eyes like a magnet. She looked up. A group of men was standing near the steps.
All wore white suits with blue shirts and identical ties of Java shirts and identical ties of Java print; each one had a boutonniere of deep blue bachelor buttons in the lapel of his coat; all were smil-ing broadly, she could feel their re-pressed excitement. Mark Trent was with them. His face went colarless with surprise as his eyes met hers in the instant before she bent her head again. Why was he here? Was this the fete a bunch of friends had urged him to attend?

The stairs. One! Two! Three! She was up. The bridesmaids had leployed to face the audience—she had almost thought "congregation"—the orange-color frocks were at the ends of the semi-circle, the tints paled till they came to the snow-white bride. Her well had been white bride. Her veil had been thrown back. Time for her to turn. The music swelled into a paean of triumph. It looked miles to the iron grilles beyond which stood Madame Celeste. She was safely down the steps! She must smile.

"Ready!" She heard the whispered word, saw the men in white who had been standing beside the stairs hurdle the guarding ribbon. One offered his arm to her. Urged huskily: "Quick! Let's put it through."

She looked up. Mark Trent! All the bitterness and pain went out of her heart. It was as if a great wall she had built between them had crumbled to a heap which she could cross. In a flare of gorgeous happiness she slipped her hand under his

"It would be you," she said, and smiled in the second before they were in step with the music. Be-hind her she heard peals of laugh-hind her she heard peals of laughter, girls' voices, men's voices.

Then applause. A woman called:

"How priceless! The men are coming out with the bridesmaids!"

Brooke stopped at the intricate iron grille. She withdrew her hand from Trent's arm, walked back a step or two, tossed her bouquet among the bridesmaids, waited to see it scatter in four parts, turned. see it scatter in four parts, turned, and ran out through the gateway to the limousine.

Reporters and camera men flocked after her. Machines clicked. Mark Trent fairly lifted her into the car. He blocked the door from curious eyes as he bent forward and kissed her on the lips. It was a tender kiss. There was reverence in it, there was a promise in his eyes, but laughter in his voice.

"That's an important part of the ceremony, isn't it? Hold out your left hand, Brooke." He pressed a ring on her finger. "This is what I had for you." He turned away as Madame Celeste hurried up. "Back to the salon!" She gave the order to the chauffeur with the air of a queen on location. She pushed aside billows of tulle, and sank into the seat beside Brooke who hid her left hand in the satin folds.

As she drove home from Carston's Inc. dressed in the tweeds in which she was to travel, Brooke kept looking at the ring on the third finger of her left hand.

"It Would Be You," She Said

The soft flush of a tropical evening was stealing forward when she entered the patio, the glamour of night was settling over the dark mystery of the sea. The afterglow turned the masts of the distant yacht to red gold. Birds twittered sleepily. The fronds of the royal palm stirred gently. A man who was pacing back and forth came toward her quickly. Brooke's pulses which had been none too steady broke into a quickstep.

"I thought you would be flying through the air by this time, Mark," she tried to say indifferently. "Did you think I would leave my bride?" She avoided his disturbing eyes. "Bride! The wedding party turned into a riot, didn't it? It was fun. Great theater."

"Just a minute, dearest. Stop and get your breath while I explain my part of it. I told you that I met

"To England. It's being done some, you know." "Of course I know. Don't, don't be so wooden.'

"Wooden!" His laugh sent Brooke's hands behind her to clasp each other. "First I was a silent policeman, now I'm wooden. That also we will take up later. I didn't know what you had written your mother about the new will. I thought she should understand that your income was the same as when she left; otherwise she might not dare spend money to rush home for the premiere of Sam's play this week.'

"It is not the same as when she went away."

"Your mistake. It is. She arrives in New York tomorrow." "Tomorrow! I don't care what it costs. I'll fly."

"I thought you'd feel that way. I have reservations for us for the night plane." He glanced at his watch. "Throw some things into a suitcase, air-weight, remember. I have a car outside. We have just time to make the flying field." Was she real, was anything real, Brooke asked herself, as the automobile burned up miles and the broad road flowed away from it. It was alive enough now; the Palm Beach world was hastening to eat, drink, and be merry. Above, through the warm black velvet dome, dripped a million or two stars. A magic night. Shining auto-mobiles, gracefully long and low; others, silent, powerful, fast, provided glimpses of gay wraps, films of chiffon, glints of lame, smooth heads, waved coiffures, sparkling jewels, the sombre black of evening clothes. Chairs propelled by boys with faces dark as chunks of obsidian held gayly appareled occupants. She glanced at Mark Trent beside her. Was he real? WILSON H. D. WOMEN MEET WITH MRS. HILL

Methods of saving energy in the kitchen were brought by members of the Wilson Home Demonstration Club at the home of Mrs. D. A. Hill October 20.

Suitable equipment makes easier and quicker cleaning and the proper care of this equipment is also important. All equipment should be cleaned and ready for use again before being stored. Cleaning walls, ceilings, and woodwork often makes the work easier. Upholstered furniture stays in good condition longer if thoroughly cleaned often. All plumbing needs to be kept clean to prevent discoloration and pipe stop-

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place.

In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

January Floods Reveal Strength of Red Cross

Aid Given 1,062,000 Persons Through Set-Up by Agency

The elasticity and scope of Red Cross disaster work is shown in a recent re port on Red Cross relief measures during the unparalleled Ohio-Mississippi Valley flood of this year.

At the height of the emergency Red Cross relief offices were established in 182 inundated counties and in 146 coun ties where refugees were cared for, the report stated. Eight regional head quarters offices controlled the 328 coun ty offices, and were in turn supervised by the National Red Cross in Washing ton, D. C.

A statistical summary of persons aided by the organization indicates that the floods constituted the greatest peace-time emergency ever faced by the nation. The Red Cross gave some form of assistance to 1.062.000 men, wo men and children From January to August hundreds of trained workers telped by thousands of volunteers ad ministered to the sufferers.

A Red Cross rescue fleet of 5400 boats was organized, according to the report. Emergency hospitals estab lished totaled 300 and 3600 nurses were assigned to flood duty. In more than 1,000 refugee centers the victims of the flood were sheltered, clothed and fed. Through the Red Cross medicalhealth program and the work of public health agencies sickness was kept to normal for the time of year in 11 inundated areas.

Because of its disaster experience President of the United States, who is also president of the Red Cross. to co ordinate the effor, of all federal flood Cross officials met daily at the Red ington to plan relief measures and pre vent duplication of effort.

"We were fortunate in having 56 years of disaster redet experience to All returned to Tahoka Tuesday. call upon in meeting the emergency. Admiral Gary T. Grayson, chairman of the Red Cross, said.

It was found that 97,000 families mergency and rehabilitation assist ance was as follows: rescue, trans portation and shelter for 62,000 fam ilies; food, clothing and other mainte nance for 193,000 families; building and repair for 27,000 families; household goods for 90,000 families; medical nursing and sanitation telp for 15,000 families: agricultural rehabilitation for 10,000 families; other occupational aid for 3,000 families and other types of relief for 4,000 families. "Credit for this largest peace-time relief operation in the history of the nation must go to the American people who contributed a Red Cross relief fund of more than $25,000,000." Admira Grayson said.

During the year the Red Cross gave aid to the victims of 105 other dis asters in 36 states, Alaska and the District of Columbia. The Red Cross financed the majority of these relief operations from money contributed through memberships during the an nual Roll Call last November, since it is only in case of large scale disasters that a national grive for relief funds in

This year the Roll Call is from No rember 11th to the 25th. The Red Cross seeks a greater membership to meet its disaster relie, and other service obligations during 1938.

Last year Red Cross Chapters gave vital help to 120,000 needy families.

Red Cross Replaces Farm Family Losses

The Red Cross gave agricultural rehabilitation to 10,116 farm familles following the severe eastern floods of las winter. Types of aid included feed, seed, livestock, farm tools and machinery and other items essential to agricultural productiv ity. More than $599,000 was ex pended by the organization to meetthese requirements.

In addition to occupational as-sistance, rural families hard hit by the flood waters were rescued clothed, fed and sheltered by the Red Cross. Where it was necessary the Red Cross repaired and re built out-buildings, barns and other structures. Medical and nursing care were provided and homes re furnished.

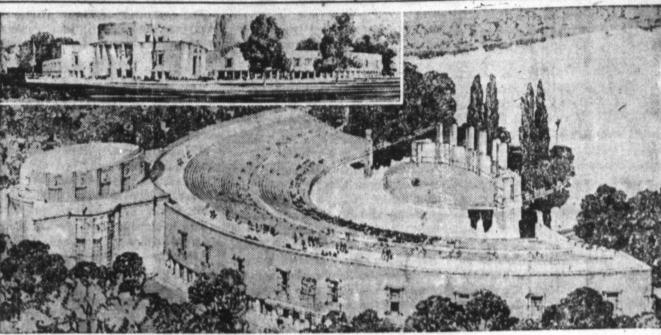

Red Cross agricultural rehabilitation benefited nearly three times as many families as received all other types of Red Cross occupational re habilitation combined.

Labor's advocacy of the Red Cross program is attested by recent state ments from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

"Red Cross aims and purposes are highly commendable and deserving of the support of all classes of people.'

said Mr. Gree.i. "The activities and service of the American Red Cross satisfy a great need of the people, and I strongly urge that it receive the unqualified support of all during its annual Roll Call for members." Mr. Lewis said.

New York State to Erect $1,600,000 Amphitheatre at "Nation's Fair of 1939"

NEW YORK (Special) .- The State of New York, it is disclosed in architectural drawings made public, will be represented officially at the New York World's Fair of 1939 by a $1,600,000 combined marine amphitheatre and exhibit building of many distinctive features largely designed for the presentation of master stage spectacles and compelling exhibits by state departments and 62 counties.

The accompanying photograph shows how a total of 16,500 spectators can be afforded unobstructed view of an island stage of magnificent proportions set 100 feet offshore in an exposition lagoon and to be screened, between acts, by sheets of water blown by compressed air from the lake and made doubly effective by the projection upon them of light and color. Above and behind the tier of seats shown is a broad promenade 800 feet long which will afford a view of the whole exposition and the 280 acres of lake-shore amusement zone.

The insert shows the exhibit pavilion facade and the forward position of the grand reception hall above which will be a circular auditorium seating 1000 persons Under the amphitheatre, on two floor levels, 70,000 square feet of space is provided for New York State exhibits.

The New York State Legislature this spring appro priated $2,200,000 for official participation in the $125,-000,000 exposition. Enactment provides for the building, for a $250,000 exhibit and for $350,000 maintenance and operation. Contracts for construction of the dual purpose structure, a permanent addition to the site, will be let soon in public bidding by prequalified bidders.

Dad's Birthday Party Raises Note Problem

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you please write a form of invitation for us under the following circumstances? I am one of four children, only one of us married, who want to give a party in honor of my fa-ther's birthday, although I suppose it would be better not to mention the occasion. We would like to write the invitations by hand on small sized note paper stamped with our house address. While we are asking at least 75 people we want the invitation to sound as friendly and informal as possible.

Answer: I would suggest that each one of you write notes to your own personal friends, and that whoever has most time and perhaps neatest handwriting also write those to your father's friends and relatives, following this general wording: "Mary, Jim, Bob and I are having a party for father, on Sunday afternoon, January 31st. Won't you come in between four and six o'clock?' As you notice, I have left the birthday out, but this does not mean that I think it improper to write, "Mary, Jim, Bob and I are having a birthday party for father . . . because those who know him very well and know it is his birthday will probably bring him a present, and this might make others who are very fond of him and would have liked to remember his birthday feel that they have come empty-handed. DEAR Mrs. Post: What is my position regarding the parents of friends of my daughter? She is at college far away and goes home frequently with the girls whose homes are closer to the school. She sometimes mentions in her letters home that these girls' parents are going to New York on a holiday, and as we live in the environs of is expected that we extend some kind of hospitality to the parents at

Answer: Your real obligation is in encouraging her to invite these girls home with her when they have longer recesses or perhaps to let her ask them to come between school terms when they can stay longer. But why don't you ask her whether she wants you to show particular hospitality to the parents she knows especially well, and what she suggests. She knows what type of people they are and whether they have friends in New York, or on the other hand, whether they are going as strangers or whether the mothers are likely to be alone while their husbands attend to business, or just what the individual situa-

Note Is Mandatory. D EAR Mrs. Poet: A .am I know spent a week-end at my mar-ried brother's house. My sister-in-law had let me ask him so that my visit would be more pleasant. She and my brother certainly put themselves out to entertain us. I feel that the least my friend can do is write her a note, which I happen to know he hasn't done. Is there a way I could remind him to write her, because his thoughtlessness certainly puts me in a bad light?

Answer: I can think of nothing else to do except say to him, "I hate to ask you to write another one, but my sister-in-law never got your letter." Then he will probably say, "What letter?" and you answer, "Why, didn't you write and say anything for that pleasant week end we had?" And that is that!

Butter Balls Remain D EAR Mrs. Post: Has the vogue DEAR Mrs. Post: Has the vogue, for "butter balls" gone out? Several years ago it seemed that every hostess served fancy designs of individual butter portions but today I never see them anywhere.

Answer: No, I think butter balls are still seen in many houses although it is true that in quite as many others butter is simply cutneatly into squares. The reason is probably that of time saving since very few of us have as many servants as we used to. One might, in fact, say that comparatively few have any.

Better Late Than Never DEAR Mrs. Post: Is one supposed to be able to hold over social obligations from one season to the next? I should have entertained several new friends last spring but had no money to give a party of any kind then. I'm wondering if now, which is the first it has been possible, would be considered too late to repay these kindnesses?

Answer: Not at all. There is no time limit on any return you want to make. After all, there are so many reasons why we may not be able to do what we want to when we want to.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL CUNDAY 11109C JCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for October 31 THE MORAL ISSUE IN THE DRINK PROBLEM

LESSON TEXT—Romans 13:12-14; I Corinthians 6:9-11; Galatians 5:16-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.—Galatians 5:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC-My Neighbors. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Greatest Law.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
Why is it Wrong to Drink Alcoholic Beverages?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
The Moral Issue in the Drink Problem.

The title for our lesson is well-chosen-"The Moral Issue in the Drink Problem." First, let it be clear that there is an issue. Those who have business, social, or political connections with the liquor traffic would like to have us believe that the repeal of prohibition settled the matter once for all. But let us be sure of this factthe liquor problem is at our very door, and it must be met.

In the second place, many would have us think that the matter of drunkenness is a social, political, or even a physical problem, without any moral implications whatever. But those who are informed know that even the supposedly innocent beer is inextricably tied up with vice and crime. A prisoner in a federal penitentiary writing before prohibition was repealed said, "Criminals hail with delight . . . the return of liquor via the beer route and the greater license that the return of the saloon will inevitably bring. With the return of beer will come open prostitution and gambling." His words were true.

I. Drunkenness Is a Work of Darkness (Rom. 13:12-14).

Just as there are darkness and daylight in the physical universe, so there are two contrasting spiritual realms, of darkness and light.

Men "loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil, according to the Lord Jesus. (See John 3:19.) This spiritual realm of darkness is directed by "rulers of the darkness of this world" (Eph. 6:12), and their purpose is "spiritu-al wickedness." With the "works of darkness" the believer is to "have no fellowship" (Eph. 5:11), but is "reprove them" and bring them into the light where their true nature is made manifest (Eph. 5:13). "God is light, and in him is no darkness at all," and those who have fellowship with him "walk in the light." (See I John 1:5-7.) Drunkenness is a work of darkness. It separates man from God and makes him fear the glorious light of his countenance. The solu-tion for that awful condition is re-vealed in v. 14. "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ."

II. Drunkenness Is a Work of Unrighteousness (I Cor. 6:9-11).

No drunkard "shall inherit the kingdom of God" (v. 10), and the man who takes his first drink has put his foot on the path that leads to the drunkard's grave. Of course no man plans to go that far, but the fact is that such is the tragic conclusion for hundreds of thousands of men and women damned for time and eternity by drink.

Again in this passage we have the answer to our problem. Not refor-mation, not education, not culture (desirable and useful though we recognize these things to be), but being "washed," "sanctified," and "justified" in "the name of the Lord Jesus and in the Spirit of God." Try that on your town drunkard. Thank Ged, it works!

III. Drunkenness Is a Work of the Flesh (Gal. 5:16-24).

The flesh-that is our bodies ruled over by self-will as opposed to God's will-is revealed in the Scriptures to be thoroughly bad, and in opposi-tion to God. Consider the appalling list of the works of the flesh in verses 19 and 20. And note that in the midst of them stands drunken-

It is the lowest in man that responds to intoxicants. Little wonder that the Brewers' Journal came out right after the election of 1932 with the statement that "not one tenth of one-per cent of American youths know the taste of real beer. We must educate them." In other words the normal taste of an intelligent person would revolt at the stuff, but once give it a chance to stir the lusts of "the flesh" and the victim is caught.

Once again, note the antidotelive in the power of the Holy Spirit. and the flesh with its lusts is cruci-fied (y. 24). How shall we have the Holy Spirit and his power in our lives? By taking the Lord Jesus Christ as personal Saviour.

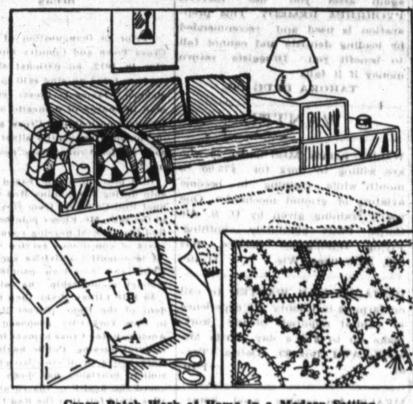

Words Without Action Few men suspect how much mere talk fritters away spiritual energy -that which should be spent in action, spends itself in words.

Killing Time People partial to this crime of killing time might be pardoned if they'll only kill their own.

Simple Way to Avoid Dust When Shaking Grates and Taking

THERE is an easy way to keep dust from sifting through the cracks of the ashpit door when shaking furnace grates. Quite a few readers have asked me how it can be done, and I'm sure many more of you will be interested.

Here's how: Have a spray made of small pipe, connected with the cold water system installed in the ashpit of the furnace. Only a short length of pipe will be needed. In it have small holes drilled and cap the free end.

Just before shaking the grates, turn on the spray. It will throw a fine mist over the whole ashpit, wetting down the ashes as they drop through the grate openings and settling the dust immediately. Then remove the ashes from the ashpit. They will be sufficiently wet to prevent the dust from rising and settling in the cellar. The cost and installation of such a spray will be but little, and it able work in dusting off things on which the dust would otherwise

NURSING ANNIVERSARY Security Program

1937 Marks 25th Year Of Public Health Nursing In Rural Areas

"Prior to inauguration of the Red Cross Town and Country nursing service in 1912, no national effort was made to bring nursing skill to the rural sickbed," James L. Fleser, vice chair man in charge of domestic operations for the American Red Cross, said today sary of Red Cross public health nurs

In a plea for an increased member ship during the coming Red Cross annual Roll Call held from November 11 to the 25th, Mr. Fieser pointed out that Red Cross rural nursing rounds out 25 years of continuous service this year "It is essential activities such as this which the American people support through membership," he said.

In 1910 Lillian Wald, then head rest dent of the Henr. Street Settlement in New York City, proposed that the American Red Cross pioneer in the field of rural nursing. Public health nurses were active in urban districts but a. similar provision had been made to suard the health or the rural dweller Miss Wald felt that the Red Cross was best qualified for the undertaking through its long experience in convert ing humanitarian ideals into practical accomplishment.

Two years later the first Red Cross rural nurse set forth upon her rounds n a county in Massachusetts. Jacob Schiff, member of the Red Cross Board of Incorporators, and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid each contributed funds to star: the project. Special courses of training for nurses resulted in young women who thoroughly knew the mechanics of this new job. By 1918 there were 100 rural nursing services conducted by Red Cross chap ters; and 18 months later the number of services had skyrocketed to 2,000, as the signing o the Armistice released a flood of War nurses for peace-time

"Reorganization and consolidation eventually cut the number of public health nurses serving under the Red Cross flag," Mr. Fieser stated. "But as a group their efficiency increased."

Mr. Fieser called attention to a study of Red Cross public health nursing ac complishments since the service was begun. "Statistics show that in all nearly 3,000 services were established by the Red Cross," he said. "During the past 15 years 6,800 public health nurses of 18,000,000 visits were made to or in behalf of patients.

"Each year during the past 11, more than 440,000 rural school children nave been found to have physical defects Each year 189,000 of these children were helped through treatment."

At the presen, time there are 666 Red Cross public health nurses en gaged in health work in rural com munities, and last year more than 1,000,000 visits were made on behalf of the sick.

."It has been our purpose from the first," Mr. Fieser emphasized, "to demonstrate that tural nursing was needed and could be organized. In many instances we have turned establisher community nursing services over to lo al health authorities when this wa done, we turned our effort toward open ng up additional virgin territory."

Other Red Cross services supported y Roll Call mamberships are life say ng: first aid: disaster relief and the work of organized Red Cross volun-

Many Red Cross chapters carry on extensive civilian relief work. During the past year 120,000 needy families received this type of Red Cross help.
