Cyanamide Plants Will Aid Tahoka

A glance at the big chemical plant that is being constructed six miles south of highway No. 84 just over the Terry county line west of Tahoka is sufficient to convince one that it is to be an enormous industry, as industries go for this part of the country.

Seven or eight buildings are under construction and many men are employed in the work. It is claimed that at least 100 men will be employed in operating the plant.

A similar plant is being constructed on the Charley Doak land eight miles west of O'Donnell.

Many of the men connected with the Terry county plant have been making their headquarters in Tahoka, and it is believed that these plants will mean much for Tahoka as well as O'Donnell and Brownfield.

Redwine Church Sets Charity Mark

"Remember the Orphan" seems to be a live rule of action to the members and friends of Redwine Baptist Church.

"For a long time," we are told, "this rural church of 118 members has made a practice of sending several home-made quilts, canned foods, eggs, etc., to Buckner Orphan Home each year."

This year the women decided that more could be done for the orphans, and the word was passed around. One woman member visited the gin yards at Draw and tagged the donations of cotton with the result that enough "good, clean, white cotton" was given to make fourteen mattresses, and cash enough to have them made up in high quality ticking. A Slaton mattress company made the mattresses at a nominal cost and sent them to Dallas free of charges, we are told.

In addition to the fourteen mattresses, the Redwine church and its friends have sent the home in 1937, a cash offering of $26.00, eight or nine quilts, and two cases of eggs.

Rev. J. W. Braswell of Lamesa is pastor. This church is planning, together with other churches of this county, to enter into the Association-wide Sunday School Expansion Campaign the last week in January.

Mrs. Wells Enters Treasurer Race

We are authorized to announce this week that Mrs. Jewell Wells, widow of the late Coleman Wells, is a candidate for county treasurer of Lynn county.

Mrs. Wells, of course, has never before been a candidate for public office.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown, she was born and reared in Anderson county and for seven years she was a teacher in the public schools of the city of Palestine. Then, in January 1917, the family removed to Tahoka, and in September of the same year, Miss Jewell was married to Coleman Wells. Since her husband's death about two years ago, her aged parents have resided with her.

Mrs. Wells now has the responsibility of making her own way in the world and like many others so circumstanced she finds the task none too easy. She feels that she is thoroughly capable of serving in this capacity and performing the duties of the office and therefore she respectfully asks the kind consideration of the voters of the county when they make out their ballots in the July primaries. She will also appreciate every kind word that may be spoken in her behalf between now and that date. She expects to age as many of the voters in person as possible, though she will be somewhat handicapped in undertaking to make a house-to-house campaign.

Mrs. Wells is a very fine lady and has many friends throughout the county who will doubtless give her their enthusiastic support.

Farm Houses Are Under Construction

Among the nice farm homes now under construction in Lynn county are two being built by the Cicero Smith Lumber Company.

A nice frame residence to be finished with stucco is being built for E. R. Tunsell in the Dixie community northwest of Tahoka.

Another nice home is being constructed for J. E. Stigler eighteen miles southwest of Tahoka in the Wells community.

There are numbers of smaller improvements being made and rumors of other building activities soon to begin.

District Judging Contest Held Here

The Tahoka FFA chapter was host Saturday to 61 boys from nine high schools. The schools that had representatives here were: Fluvans, Post, Wilson, New Home, Seminole, Seagraves, Whitharral, and Anton. Contests were held in the judging of dairy products and in cotton classing.

Prof. K. M. Renner, of Texas Tech conducted the dairy products contest. This contest consists of the judging of milk, cream, and butter.

Robert Haddock of New Home was the first place winner, Sam Bulman of New Home was fourth, Bruce Wrenn and Fred Sharbutt of Wilson won sixth and ninth places, respectively. Bryan Wright, president of the Tahoka Chapter, was first in grading cotton.

The Tahoka Home Economics girls under the able direction of Mrs. Hegl served a very fine plate lunch to the visitors that was appreciated very much.

Chester Hufstader is local teacher of vocational agriculture.

Geo. W. Small Asks For Re-election

Encouraged by the solicitations of friends and by the unsought expressions of approval on the part of many constituents, George W. Small announces this week as a candidate for re-election to the office of county commissioner in and for precinct No. 1.

Mr. Small has served in this position, we believe, with rare good judgment and intelligence. Apparently, he has sought to give everybody a fair, square deal. He has seen his days of prosperity and his days of adversity. He is thoroughly acquainted with the problems and the struggles of the ordinary man, and he knows the interests of the people of Lynn county.

The good business judgment which he has brought to bear in the administration of the financial affairs of the county, we believe, has been of distinct value to the people; and his familiarity with the problems of his constituents has likewise worked to their advantage.

We believe that the general verdict is that he has made a most excellent county commissioner. He will appreciate your support in the July primaries.

Miss Nelms Is Out For City Secretary

We have one announcement this week for city office.

Miss Rosemary Nelms, our efficient and accommodating city secretary, desires to serve in that capacity for another term.

She has been in this position now about three years and is thoroughly conversant with the duties of the office. She feels that she can serve even more efficiently now and henceforth than she could when first entering upon the duties of the office.

The election will be held the first Tuesday in April. She respectfully solicits the votes of the citizens of Tahoka on that day, and in the meantime she hopes to see most of them personally.

Bill Bishop Killed, Criswell Injured

William Duffin (Bill) Bishop, 54, farmer, living a few miles east of Tahoka, was fatally injured, and E. J. Criswell, 24, seed buyer, was seriously injured in a car wreck which occurred late Friday afternoon on highway No. 9 two and a half miles south of Woodrow.

The accident occurred when the car which Criswell was driving left the pavement and turned a somersault just after the driver had passed a truck and was about to pass another car, all coming south.

Bishop was hurriedly taken to a Lubbock sanitarium for treatment following the accident, while Criswell was brought on to Tahoka by the driver of the truck.

After turning over two or three times the car stopped in a field alongside the highway. Criswell apparently was not critically injured, since he was able to get up and walk around and converse with the truck driver and others. He expressed a desire to come on to Tahoka and the driver of the truck proceeded to bring him. Before arriving here, however, Criswell collapsed and was brought to a physician's office. Miss Gertrude Bishop Asks For Office

Miss Gertrude Bishop, a familiar figure in the court house, aspires to the position of county treasurer of Lynn county. She is making announcement to that effect this week.

Miss Bishop has never held a public office, but she has had much experience as a clerk, stenographer, and bookkeeper. For ten years now she has been employed most of the time either in public or private offices. She has served as deputy county clerk, as stenographer for abstract companies, and in the offices of private business concerns. It would be easy for her to familiarize herself with the duties of county treasurer and to properly keep the books and records.

Miss Bishop is so situated that she must make her own way in the world. Election to this office would afford her that opportunity for a few years at least, and she believes that she can perform the duties of the office as well as anybody. She would like to have the chance to prove it.

She respectfully solicits your help and will appreciate your support in the July Primaries.

Cade Announces For Assessor-Collector

A. M. Cade has authorized us to place his name in our announcement column this week as a candidate for re-election to the office of county tax assessor-collector.

Mr. Cade is so well known to the people of Lynn county that any words of commendation from us would seem entirely superfluous. Always friendly, courteous, and accommodating, he knows everybody and everybody knows him.

His record as a county official is also well known to most of our people. He always has his tax rolls and collection books in fine shape. (Continued on Back Page)

Roadside Park Site Purchased

A plot of land consisting of 2.2 acres situated about four miles north of Tahoka on highway No. 9 has been purchased by the State Highway Department to be converted into a roadside park.

This plot lies in the triangle between the old and the new highways where they converge near the northwest corner of the W. L. Knight tract of land. A deed made by Mrs. Ollie K. Carson was received from Washington on Friday of last week and has been accepted by the highway department.

About $3,800 is available, we understand, for the improvement of this park, the major part of the funds being furnished by the Federal Government to the State Highway Department.

We are unable to state in detail just what improvements will be made, but a well will be drilled, a windmill erected, trees and shrubs planted out, a furnace, tables, seats, toilets, etc., constructed.

No better location for a roadside park could have been selected. It should be made into an attractive and serviceable little park within a few years.

Mrs. Milt Finch Is Treasurer Candidate

Our readers will find the name of Mrs. Milt Finch in our announcement column this week as a candidate for county treasurer.

Like most women, Mrs. Finch has never held a public office but she has belonged, and she has filled them or in various clubs to which she has belonged, and she has filled them all with credit to herself and the organizations which she served. Prominent among these are the American Legion Auxiliary and the Tahoka Home Demonstration club.

Mrs. Finch is well qualified by education to fill the position of county treasurer. A native of Hill county, she taught for seven years in the public schools of that section of the state. Then she came to Lynn county and taught at Edith during the school session of 1921-1922. On December 27 of the latter year she was married to Milt Finch, her maiden name being Miss Eunice Evans. Since that time they have resided in that community and in Tahoka.

Mrs. Finch is making her own announcement, which will be found below:

To the Voters of Lynn County: In announcing to you that I am in the race for the office of County Treasurer, I want to state that I am fully aware of the duties and responsibilities of said office.

I have never held elective political office, but feel that if elected, I am qualified to give you prompt, efficient and courteous service at all times.

I am making this race solely upon my own merits. You may investigate my record as a citizen of your county for the last fifteen years.

I shall endeavor to see each voter personally before the July primary, but if I do not, be assured your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.

MRS. MILT FINCH.

County Gin Total Is Now Above 136,000

J. I. Case Manager Locates In Tahoka

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Williams and little daughter, Marilyn, formerly of Lubbock, have removed to Tahoka and are occupying the Sumner Knight home in the western part of town.

Mr. Williams is district manager of the J. I. Case Company, his district embracing ten counties in this section of the state.

One of the first things Mr. Williams did after his removal was to come to this office and subscribe for the News. He had been a reader of the paper before and was generous enough to say that he liked it.

Feed Destroyed In Fire At Wells

An unknown number of bundles of feed were destroyed by fire on the Elmer Lagrone farm four miles west of Wells Tuesday morning when an immense stack of feed caught fire. The stack, it is said, contained 60,000 bundles, but a comparatively small percent of it was destroyed. We did not learn the origin of the fire.

Soon after the fire was discovered alarms were turned in to both O'Donnell and Tahoka. Three of the members of the Tahoka volunteer fire department responded, taking the City's new fire truck. These were Chief Pete Coleman, W. T. Howell, and Ovid Luallin. They report that a large number of negroes and a few whites were fighting the fire with buckets of water and had it practically under control when they arrived.

We did not learn whether or not the feed was insured.

Tom N. Hale Asks For Second Term

Tom N. Hale, serving his first term as county commissioner from precinct No. 4, would like to repeat the performance after his present term is up. His announcement as a candidate for re-election appears in this issue of The News.

Elected in the fall of 1936 and taking office on January 1, 1937, Tom has served just a little more than one year at this time, but he has done a good year's work. If any of his constituents have been dissatisfied with his work they have kept exceedingly quiet about it.

Mr. Hale is a successful farmer and knows how to manage his own affairs so as to show a profit at the end of the year. Furthermore, he is an all-round fine fellow and knows how to get along with his fellow-men. Courteous and fair to all, he makes fast friends and few enemies.

He will keenly appreciate your support in the primaries this summer, and will probably see most of the voters of his precinct in person and tell them about it.

Miss Viola Ellis Seeks Promotion

Miss Viola Ellis had her name placed in our announcement column last week as a candidate for county clerk. She is making her own statement this week and is also thanking the people for favors shown her in the past.

Miss Ellis has served efficiently as county treasurer and she now seeks a promotion. Her statement follows:

To the Citizens of Lynn County: I am happy to have another opportunity to thank you for past favors. I am always glad of this privilege.

I am asking for the office of County Clerk. With my experience in the affairs of the various county offices I feel qualified and capable to serve as County Clerk.

If it is your pleasure to vote for me for this office in the July primary election 1938 I will appreciate it very much.

Sincerely,
VIOLA ELLIS.

Reports gathered Thursday morning from 13 of the 28 gins in the county show that these 13 gins have turned out 66,673 bales of cotton from the crop of 1937, almost exactly 3,000 bales since we gathered statistics two weeks ago.

We can only give estimates as to the number of bales ginned by the other 15 gins in the county. Basing these estimates on government reports for last month and on other information gathered by us, it seems certain that not less than 136,000 bales have been ginned in the county up to this time.

The gins reporting are as follows:
Tahoka, 5 gins 28,001
Grassland, 3 gins 15,984
New Home, 2 gins 9,457
Draw 6,553
New Lynn 4,110
Petty 2,568
Total 66,673

This gins at O'Donnell have been much busier the past two weeks than the gins at Tahoka, for the reason that they had a vast amount of cotton piled on the ground which they have been ginning, and much of it still remains unginned at this time.

Trees Available At Low Prices

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock has seedling trees available for windbreak and farmstead plantings, according to V. F. Jones, county agent.

The kind of trees, size, and price are listed below:

Kind	Height In Ins.	Price Per 100
Chinese Elm	18-36	$1.50
Chinese Elm	36-48	2.00
Honey Locust	18-48	1.50
Bois D' Arc	18-48	1.50
Desert Willow	18-48	1.50
Black Walnut	12-24	1.50
Green Ash	18-36	1.50
Tamarix	18-36	1.50

The trees may be obtained by calling at the nursery for them or they may be shipped by either truck or express. Application order for the trees should be made at an early date to be assured of getting the trees you want. No applications will be received after March 15th. All orders for trees should be for as many as 100 trees. Your order may be mixed with any of the varieties, provided they are mixed in lots of multiples of 25.

For your convenience, order blanks are available at the county agent's office in Tahoka.

Miss Hattie Server Seeks Re-election

The name of Miss Hattie Server appeared in our political announcement column last week as a candidate for re-election to the position of district clerk for this county, but the announcement came too late for us to make any comment last week.

Miss Server is now serving her first term, having been elected in the fall of 1936 and having been inducted into office on January 1, 1937. She has therefore been in office just a little more than one year. So far as we have had opportunity to find out, Miss Server has served most efficiently. Prior to taking office as district clerk she served various business concerns, especially at Wilson, where she resides with her parents, and it was easy therefore for her to acquaint herself with the duties of the office.

She feels that the custom of according a second term to competent officials should be observed in her case, and she will appreciate the support of every voter in the county. She will probably see most of the voters in person between this date and the primary election in July.

Walter H. May of Wilson, who has been confined to his room most of the time the past two or three months by a badly infected hand, is now reported to be much improved.

"Where now, master?"
"We walk to La Barranca," said Arnaldo and set off, picking his way along the dry bed of the arroyo until he struck the fresh trail Juanito had failed to take.

Two hours later they came upon Van Suttart's damaged car and examined it with interest; soon afterward they arrived at the rope bridge, crossed it successfully and headed for the hacienda's nearest gate.

Not until the two strangers were within a stone's throw of the outer wall did Joyce recognize the taller of them and utter a cry.

Accompanied by Dirk he dashed down to the great court and with his help opened the zaguan and then the outer gate. She held out both hands, her eyes shining with welcome.

"How on earth did you get here? You haven't walked all the way, have you?"

Arnaldo had raised his hat. He dropped it on the ground, took her hands, gave her a gleaming smile, nodded at Van Suttart, shrugged his shoulders and pointed backward with his chin. It was as though he had spoken, told them in so many words where, how and when his car had been ditched.

"So you changed your mind," said Dirk.
"Yes," said Arnaldo. "Something happened to make me change my mind."

"What do you mean?" asked Joyce. "What are you two talking about?"

"I asked Arnaldo to come with me," explained Dirk, "but he refused to take part in a sentimental gesture."

"Quite true," admitted Adan, "but that was before I knew Miss Sewell, scoring the role of victim, had shot up Dorado." He looked around curiously. "Where are your 18 gringos?"
"What gringos?" asked Joyce, bewildered.

Taking out his wallet Arnaldo extracted the clipping the minister of war had handed him and passed it to Joyce. "Read it. I'm here on a semi-official mission to investigate."

She glanced through the inspired account of the taking of La Barranca and the further she read the more did her eyes and cheeks blaze. She crushed the paper in her fist, started to throw it away, then changed her mind, smoothed it out and slipped it inside her pullover.

"It's an outrageous lie," she said, "based on a grain of truth. You seem to have come prepared to stay. I'm glad, because this fantastic fabrication will need some talking over." She led the way into the inner patio and no sooner had she crossed its threshold than the air of a chateleine enveloped her. At ease and competent she gave directions to Luz, then turned to Arnaldo. "You're tired and you must be hungry. As soon as you've had a wash there'll be food ready in the small dining room. Perhaps Mr. Van Suttart will show you where it is."
"He won't need to," said Adan. "I've been here before."

She cast him a curious and startled glance, but the placidity of his expression reassured her. Nevertheless a certain uneasiness persisted, causing her to put off anything in the nature of a showdown. During the afternoon she attended to her many duties and took another horseback lesson, still omitting to tell Dirk she had ridden as a child. Adan appeared, refreshed by a nap, and encouraged her. The same superficiality marked the dinner hour, Don Jorge alone scoring to utter polite nothings.

"Wheels within wheels," said Don Jorge quite suddenly, "and a young girl sets them all to turning. Margarita Fonseca who would never have moved save for her hair of the Manifest Destiny—Onelia, out to get with a single stone Dorado, his ancient enemy, and the minister of war. The American ambassador trying desperately to save his face and perhaps his job. Adan Arnaldo—"

"Yes?" prompted Arnaldo coolly. "What about me?"

Don Jorge, scowling, avoided a direct answer. "Gentlemen," he continued, "we are here either as guests or servants of the senorita Joyce Sewell, lawful mistress of La Barranca. This is a world—her world. We have plenty of room for defenders, none for neutrals, tourists or spies. I'll ask you first, Mr. Van Suttart. Are you friend or foe?"
"Friend," said Dirk promptly.

"Now you, Adan," said Don Jorge, "and don't speak too hastily. You and I have met before, though you sat at Dorado's table while I ate with servants. Do you come as friend or foe?"

Arnaldo flicked the ash from his cigarette and sat staring at the brightened tip. "Here is my answer: her law I'll go for the senorita is: how business and mine and nobody else's."

"Leonardo!" Don Jorge shouted, "a spy is among us!"
"You, a Mexican," cried Joyce,

"and you're not ashamed to say that!"

Luz thrust her head in at the door. "Do I send for Leonardo?"
"No!" commanded Joyce. She turned toward Don Jorge. "Maxie, if you and Mr. Van Suttart don't mind, I'd like to talk to Adan Arnaldo alone."

Promptly Don Jorge turned ceremonious. He rose, bowed, faced toward his own room, stumped straight to the door, stood back to force Dirk to pass, then entered and closed it with emphasis.

"Let's get out of here," said Adan. "I remember a big shabby room with a huge fireplace."

"That's where I meant to go when we'd finished talking," said Joyce. The life of a hacienda is not that of a house but of a village, sometimes almost of a town. Articles and values are easily destroyed or lost, but certain ingrained fundamentals take years to die. The hereditary blacksmith, the itinerant piano-tuner, a teacher of sorts for the crowded school and a horse and cattle foreman to carry on the banner of scorn for the equally important chief of the muleteers are threads not lightly torn from a social fabric however ravaged. The drawing room gave evidence of this truth. The furniture had been maltreated, but the curiaids had been recently patched by an expert ne-

she was kissing him. Yet, somehow, he was far away and she was with him, as though she dreamed. His voice, continuing, broke the spell. "But you and I together is another story. I have the power and you the land and no government—past, present or to come—will fool too much with Adan Arnaldo. It's practical, logical; it will be a cinch."

Cheeks burning, she rushed from the room and along the balcony of the patio. As she turned its angle she saw Dirk coming from Don Jorge's study and it was all she could do to keep from running to cast herself in his arms. Instead she stopped short and asked herself if she were crazy.

He came to a halt a few paces away. "Senor Maximiliano asked me to make the rounds," he explained and hesitated. "I don't suppose you'd care to be bothered."

"That's where I was going myself," said Joyce. "Do you want to come along?"
Together they turned down the passage giving access to the stair leading to the esplanade of the roof.

Under the blaze of moon and stars Joyce, followed by Dirk, visited the four bastions. "Awake, Leonardo?" she murmured. "Awake, Senorita." "Is everything quiet?" "All is quiet, Senorita." The rounds finished she started toward the spiral stair by which they had ascended, walking slowly at first, then with a sudden acceleration in her pace.

She moved toward the parapet and they sat down, he beside her, their shoulders barely touching. They sat in silence, their senses drenched in beauty. Her heart swelled until she knew she must speak or choke.

"It's beautiful and terrible. I wonder if anywhere else in the world beauty and terror walk hand in hand."

"Me, I'm wondering who I am," said Dirk. "You're real. You're part of the night, part of this amazing place. You had a name that meant nothing—nothing at all. But now you've shaken it and become real. If I should never see you again, yet live for a thousand years, I couldn't forget you. I'm not being fresh, I'm not making love, but something belongs to me from now on—something you haven't given that I didn't try to take. You're real but what about me? I've turned into nothing. These words I'm speaking—are they a dream, or can you hear them too? Can you?"

"I've heard them all," said Joyce, "but I can't be sure you said them aloud or whether my own lips spoke them. Because as I seem real to you, so are you to me. I'm not afraid of you. I wasn't afraid of you before, but I disliked the person you were. You wore a Joseph's coat made up of the things I most despise. Now you've thrown it away—or perhaps you've only taken it off and presently will slip it on again."

"Perhaps," he admitted mournfully, "and you too."
She shivered. He took off his jacket and put it around her shoulders. Nothing was said; he had not asked her if she were cold nor did she protest he would need the coat himself.

"Name the things you despise," he said at last, staring straight ahead.

"Your false front," answered Joyce after an imperceptible pause, "your air of 'We-the-elect-are-holy-and-all-others-are-evil.'"

"Is that really the way it struck you?" asked Dirk, but did not wait for an answer. "Yes, I'm beginning to see it."
"But you mustn't think it's just you I meant. It's a lot bigger than any single one of you and it can't

"But you mustn't think it's just you I meant. It's a lot bigger than any single one of you and it can't be covered by five minutes or five years. The air you wore was the air of the whole place—chancellery, garden and the embassy itself. Then cry out, 'Look at us! our skins are safe wherever we go; if you want to keep yours, stay home.' It's so silly not to see the other half of that doctrine."

"What other half?" asked Dirk, puzzled.

"Stay at home yourselves," said Joyce with intensity, "do away with the House of Drones and take your consuls with you, guardians of the dollar and nothing else! Then we'd know where we stand."

"Easy now," said Dirk soothingly. "You! Your House of Drones. What if one of the bullets that hit your car had killed you? From being a parasite, a silkworker living on the pulp of the taxpayer safe at home, you would suddenly have acquired importance—such importance that you would certainly have destroyed me and possibly plunged your country in the very war you're supposed to wave back with a lily hand!" She rose, letting his coat fall from her shoulders.

"You're great," said Dirk, electrified against his will and judgment. "Whether you're right or not, you're great."

"Pick up your coat and come with me," said Joyce. "I want to show you something."

He followed her down the spiral stair and back to the patio. She led him to her former playroom, pushed open the door and turned. "This was the day nursery where I was playing when they came in—a hundred of them riding their horses over the flower beds, trampling the rose bushes and shooting at anything that moved. No force against a weaker nation' was responsible for their coming; don't forget it." She pointed. "That's the door where my mother ran out, looking for me. She took three steps before they shot her. I didn't see what happened then—only the crowding men. The next thing I knew my father, carrying a funny little trunk under one arm, lifted me with the other and rushed up those steps to the balcony. They turned and saw him in time to laugh and jeer but hardly to shoot. Come; I'll show you where the bullets struck and how we escaped."

She preceded him to the balcony, then through passage after passage until, doubling back, they arrived at a cavernous pit behind the vast kitchens and thence to a narrow postern. With a strong pull Dirk opened the door and they stepped out into such an umbrageous paradise as only the old-time haciendas of the semi-tropics can boast.

"This is the lake," said Joyce. "Lake?" laughed Dirk. "Where's the water?"

"You can't see it for the hyacinths," explained Joyce. "If it weren't for them we couldn't be here."

"Why not?"

"It wouldn't be safe. This mass of hyacinths, too thick for a boat to pass or a man to swim, mean a lot more to my safety than all the American embassies in the world put together."

"Let up," said Dirk, "please let up. I'm licked."

She turned toward him with an impulsive movement; her fingers barely touched his shoulder.

He took her in his arms so naturally she had no thought to draw back, then realization swept over her that resentment would have been silly before so spontaneous and unthinking an action. This was different from Arnaldo—so different she was another person standing in another world and awake, wide awake.

BEGINNING A LIFE OF SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:14-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent ye, and believe the gospel.—Mark 1:15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' First Helpers.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Why the Fishermen Followed Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Serving Now.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Adjusting Life to Service.

The public ministry of our Lord was not begun with any great fanfare of publicity. Leaving Judea where the entrenched forces of formal religion had joined the forces of sin and degradation in opposition to him, and which had brought about the imprisonment of John, our Lord appears in his home country, Galilee.

I. Preaching the Gospel (vv. 14, 15, 21, 22).

His first activity is worthy of careful note, for it is not exactly what one might expect in this Gospel of Mark, which we have already characterized as the Gospel of mighty deeds rather than of words. Jesus came to work miracles, and he did work them, and continues to do the miraculous even in our day. It is therefore significant that his first recorded work was that of preaching, his second that of calling and preparing fellow workers, and last of all the miraculous healing of the demoniac.

From a human viewpoint one would think that the opposite order would prevail. First let the Master do some mighty miracle to catch the attention of the people, then organize a great "party," and then preach. Much of the so-called evangelistic effort in our day follows that human formula and fails of lasting results. Observe the man who magnifies preaching and gives the Word of God pre-eminence, and you will see real spiritual accomplishments.

Jesus preached faith and repentance, or perhaps one should say repentance and faith (v. 15). They go together in our Lord's preaching. Let us follow his example.

We read in verse 2 that the hearers were astonished because he spoke with authority. They had been accustomed to hearing the lawyers dispute on the basis of the authority of the law, now the lawgiver himself stood in their midst. He did not set aside the law, but he gave it an interpretation and direction which surprised them.

II. Calling Disciples (vv. 16-20).

The orderly development of any work calls for the choosing and training of associates. Moody is said to have observed that "it is a greater thing to put ten men to work than it is to do ten men's work." Our Lord was no mere human leader, but he desired and used fellow-workers and he committed to them the carrying on of his work after he departed.

God still calls men into his service. Would that grace might be given to each one to whom such a call may come to respond "straightway," as did the disciples. The writer has just read the letter of a heart-broken man who has refused to answer God's call for four long years, and now comes with a broken body which may hinder his usefulness for life. Such tragedies may be averted by prompt and willing obedience.

III. Healing the Demoniac (vv. 23-28).

Three things stand out in this story. The first is that the Son of God has power over the demons of Satan. Any effort to "fight the Devil" in our own power is foredoomed to failure. But in the name of Jesus Christ we may bid him depart from us. Thank God, it works!

The other thought is also of vital import. The demons recognized Jesus, they knew that he was "the Holy One of God" (v. 24), and they bore public testimony of that fact. And yet they were demons, the enemies of God. Saving faith in the Lord Jesus Christ is more than a knowledge of his claims, a pious repetition of his name even though it be done in public. Let us make sure that we have a living faith in the Son of God.

Our final observation is that our Lord did not permit the demons to testify concerning him. Christ and his church do not need the flattering words or the financial support of unbelievers: Every time we accept them we weaken our testimony and make ourselves ridiculous before the world. If unbelievers think well of Christ let them show their sincerity by seeking him as Saviour and Lord. Then both they and their gifts will be acceptable and to his glory.

Physical Handicaps.
The failure to overcome our physical handicaps is only one of many indications that few of us ever discover ourselves.

Seeing Ourselves.
We see time's furrows on another's brow; how few themselves, in that just mirror, see!—Young.

Pleasures.
A man that knows how to mix pleasures with business, is never entirely possessed by them.

More Jobs; Less Cost

In 1906 the infant automobile industry provided jobs, directly or indirectly for about 80,000 people and what today would be considered inferior cars, sold for $5,000 and up. Advertising created a demand that today provides jobs for approximately 5,000,000 people, has resulted in radically improved cars and has reduced the price to where one out of each five people in the nation can, and does, own a car.

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

Men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is lovable for three-quarters of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth. No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure. Make a note NOW to get a bottle of Pinkham's today WITHOUT FAIL from your druggist—more than a million women have written in letters reporting benefit. Why not try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND?

Avoid Haughtiness

In prosperity, and events happening in conformity with our desires; let us above all avoid pride, disdain and haughtiness.—Cicero.

"WARMING" ACTION EASES CHEST COLD TIGHTNESS

Ease the tightness and pressure of your chest cold tonight with the thorough counter-irritant and vaporizing action of Penetro, the only salve which has a base of old-fashioned mutton suet. Together with 113% to 227% more medication than any other nationally sold cold salve. Rub with stainless, snow-white Penetro—both children and adults. Large Jar Penetro, 35c.

Consider Your Strength

Consider well what your strength is equal to, and what exceeds ability.—Horace.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

BILLION FOR DEFENSE

President Wants Bigger Navy . . . Budget Message Reveals Larger Deficit, Less Revenue

Silk to feed anti-Japanese bonfire flames is being gathered from the shapely limbs of girls at Vassar college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where the delegates to the third annual convention of the American Student Union staged a demonstration for a boycott against Japanese goods. Silk stockings, shirts and neckties were burned.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Budget Message Summary
MORE vitally important than his annual message on the state of the nation was President Roosevelt's budget message to congress. In it he forecast a deficit of $1,088,129,600 for the current fiscal year which ends on June 30, and a deficit of $949,606,000 for the 1939 fiscal year.

There was no promise that the budget would be balanced in the near future, the national revenue estimates being reduced because of the business depression.

Nearly a billion dollars was asked by the President for national defense because of "world conditions over which this nation has no control," and more may be called for soon for the same purpose.

Summarized, the President's budget statement said: Revenues for the next fiscal year will total $5,919,400,000, a decrease of $401,076,000 from the present fiscal year.

Expenditures, exclusive of debt retirements, will total $6,869,000,000, a decrease of $539,600,000 from the present fiscal year.

National defense appropriations will total $991,300,000, an increase of $34,300,000. Later the President may ask for additional funds to construct several extra naval vessels.

Relief expenditures for the next fiscal year will total roughly $1,138,304,000, a decrease of $841,356,000 from the present fiscal year.

The deficit will be financed through Social Security and other trust funds and not through public borrowing.

The deficit estimate for the fiscal year which ends June 30 has been raised from $695,000,000 to $1,088,100,000, because of the business recession.

Expenditures for new highways, new rivers and harbors projects, new public buildings, new reclamation projects and other new public works will be reduced sharply.

The public debt will reach a record high of $38,528,200,000 on June 30, 1939.

For National Defense

BEFORE the reading of the budget message in congress had been concluded, the President was in conference in the White House with men who will have most to do with putting into effect his plans for strengthening the national defense. These were Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison and Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations; Chairman Edward T. Taylor of the house appropriations committee, Chairman Carl Vinson of the house naval affairs committee, and Representative William B. Umstead, chairman of the appropriations sub-committee on naval appropriations.

The group considered additions to the navy building program, including recommendations for beginning construction on five battleships to replace all obsolete American capital vessels, ten to fifteen cruisers, and additional submarines, destroyers, and auxiliary craft.

Senators Hear About Autos

AFTER listening for two days to government officials, the senate committee studying unemployment and relief turned to industrial leaders for information and advice. It began with the automotive industry, receiving a long and exhaustive statement from the Automobile Manufacturers' association which includes all the most important concerns in the industry except the Ford company.

Major points in the statement were: In 1937, 4,600,000 automobiles were produced in the United States, 10 per cent less than in 1929.

Employment averaged 517,000 largest ever and 16 per cent above 1929.

The automobile industry was the only one having an increase in labor cost per unit of output since 1929. Weekly earnings of workers averaged $32.04 for first eight months of 1937.

At present dealers have on hand about 400,000 new cars, highest since 1930; manufacturers, have very large inventories of parts and sub-assemblies.

Hourly wage rates are 30 per cent above 1929, all direct manufacturing costs equal to 1929, but auto prices per pound are still 13 per cent below 1929.

Sutherland Retires

HAVING passed the retirement age of seventy-five years, Associate Justice George Sutherland notified the President that he would quit his seat in the Supreme court on January 18. Like Justice Van Devanter, he will still be eligible for duty in the lower courts at his own pleasure.

Justice Sutherland, a former United States senator from Utah and a former president of the American Bar association, was appointed to the Supreme court by President Harding in 1922. He was born in Buckinghamshire, England, and was brought to the United States in his infancy. He was identified with the conservative wing of the court.

Immediately upon the announcement of Sutherland's retirement, everyone began guessing as to his successor. It was taken for granted that Mr. Roosevelt would select a liberal.

Prominent among those mentioned for the place was Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, a steadfast supporter of the New Deal. If the appointment goes to the Middle West, Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan seemed to stand a good chance. Except for the fact that New York state already has three men in the court, Senator Robert F. Wagner would be near the top of the list of possibilities.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed of Kentucky was the favorite of many, but there are two other southerners on the bench. Others suggested were Judge William Denman of California, Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin, and Donald Richberg, former general counsel and later chairman of the NRA.

Remembering the Hugo Black episode, the senate will carefully scrutinize the President's nominee.

Ford Won't Comply

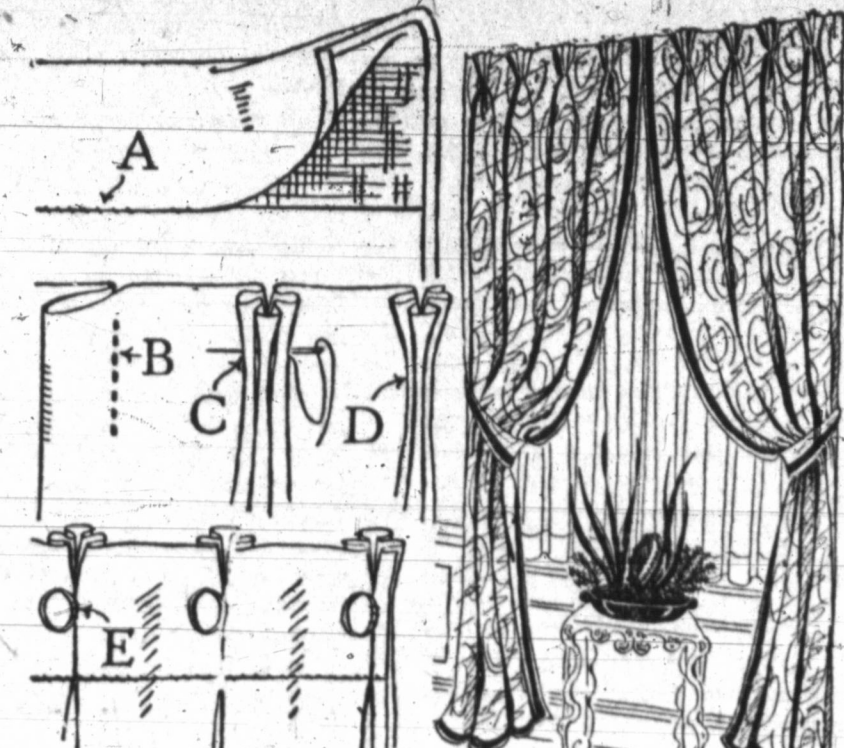

REFUSED a reopening of its case before the labor relations board, the Ford Motor company served notice it would not comply with the board's order to "cease and desist" from alleged violations of the Wagner labor act, and to reinstate certain discharged workers. The board decided to ask a circuit court of appeals to enforce its decision, and the case probably will be carried up to the Supreme court.

Can't Limit Strikes?

THE national labor relations board informed congress in its annual report that legal limitations on the right to strike would be unconstitutional. The statement was made in the face of a reviving drive to amend the Wagner act, under which the board operates, and to take steps to increase trades unions responsibility.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

A French Heading for Your Draperies.

WHETHER you line your new draperies or not will depend on how heavy the material is. It is important, however, that the top of draperies be stiffened when a French heading is used. A soft canvas which may be purchased in drapery departments is generally used for this purpose. From four to six inches is a good depth to cut the heading canvas. Turn the top of the curtain material over it and sew as at A.

Now measure the width of your curtain and plan the plaits to take up half this width. In heavy material, four or five inches will be enough. It is a good plan to let the space between the plaits be the same as the amount of material the plaits take up. The first plait may come just inside the finish of the outside edge of the drapery or it may be placed two or three inches in.

Start to sew the plait about an inch down from the top of the drapery and sew it the depth of the stiffening, as shown here at B. Pinch this plait into three small plaits and, starting two inches down from the top, sew through as at C. Sew these plaits the depth of the stiffening, so that they appear as shown here at D. Now turn to the wrong side and sew a ring to the back of each plait as at E.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables; restoring and upholstering chairs, couches; making curtains for every type of room and purpose. Making lampshades, rugs, ottomans and other useful articles for the home. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents, to Mrs. Spears, 2110 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Illinois.

Greatest Ornament

The automobile has become so necessary in our modern life that it is often called the "Fourth Necessity," giving way only to food, clothing and shelter.

Today's Trust

THIS day is before me. The circumstances of this day are my environment; they are the material out of which, by means of my brain, I have to live and be happy, and to refrain from causing unhappiness in other people. It is the business of my brain to make use of this material. Not tomorrow! Not next year! But now!

Today, exactly as today is! the facts of today, which, in my unregeneracy, I regarded primarily as anxieties, nuisances, impediments, I now regard as so much raw material from which my brain has to weave a tissue of life that is comely.

JOYS and GLOOMS

A comic strip titled 'JOYS and GLOOMS' with multiple panels showing a family's humorous interactions. The characters are a man, a woman, and a child. The dialogue is filled with puns and jokes related to Postum cereal. The final panel shows the man saying '30 DAYS LATER' and the woman saying 'WHAT A CHANGED MAN! UP EARLY EVERY MORNING, HAPPY AS A LARK! HE FEELS GREAT SINCE HE SWITCHED TO POSTUM AND GOT RID OF HIS HEADACHES!'.

YOUR MONEY BACK . . . IF SWITCHING TO POSTUM DOESN'T HELP YOU!
MANY people can safely drink coffee. But many others—and all children—should never drink it. If you suspect that the caffeine in coffee disagrees with you . . . try Postum's 30-day test. Buy some Postum and drink it instead of coffee for a full month.
If . . . after 30 days . . . you do not feel better, return the Postum container top with your name and address to General Foods, Battle Creek, Mich., and we will refund purchase price, plus postage! (If you live in Canada, address General Foods, Ltd., Cobourg, Ont.)
Postum contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It comes in two forms . . . Postum Cereal, the kind you boil or percolate . . . and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. Economical, easy to make, delicious, hot or iced. You may miss coffee at first, but you'll soon love Postum's own rich flavor. A product of General Foods. (This offer expires July 1, 1938.)

EXPENSE OF PETTY CRIME SHOULD BE REDUCED

Judge P. W. Goad has called our attention to a situation that exists in this and most of the other counties in the state that apparently calls for a remedy.

We refer to the enormous expense being imposed upon the various counties in the handling of misdemeanor cases.

In this county, for instance, this expense in recent months has run as high as $2,500 to $3,000 per month. In December, the board bill for the county prisoners alone amounted to approximately $1,200.
This includes a few prisoners charged with felony violations but the great majority of them were only misdemeanor offenders, involving charges of gambling, drunkenness, fighting, and other minor offenses.

The county pays 65 cents per prisoner per day for feeding the prisoners, and this is about as cheap as it can be done. The jail was kept crowded full during much of the month of December and the city prison at O'Donnell was likewise crowded much of the time. At times the prisoners at O'Donnell were so numerous that some of them had to be tied to posts while in custody and some here were permitted their liberty as "trusties." And this ran up the prison board bill to huge proportions during the fall, when the country was full of Mexicans and Negro cotton pickers and other transients.

This board bill is no inconsiderable sum even in the spring and winter months, Judge Goad says.

Furthermore, in misdemeanor cases, hundreds of the prisoners do not have the money to pay their fine and costs or they prefer to remain in jail at $3.00 per day rather than to have their freedom and be compelled to work for a living. In such cases, the county must not only pay the expenses of boarding them, but it must also pay the officials half of the fees provided by law in such cases. To illustrate: the county attorney's fee is $5.00; the fee for the justice of the peace is ordinarily $3.00, and the fee of the sheriff about $4.00. If the fine is $5.00, that makes a total of $17.00.
Frequently mileage and other fees are added to this amount. It takes the prisoner 6 days to lie in jail, as the law provides. His board for six days costs the county $3.90. The fees of the officers amount to $12.00 and the county must pay half of this, or $6.00. This makes $9.90 which the county must pay out on this one case and does not get one cent in return.
In many cases the expenses are much higher than this in the course of a year this expense to the county mounts up to many thousand dollars.

So, Judge Goad feels that something ought to be done about it. He thinks that the legislature can do something about it. He believes a solution of the problem can be worked out. He does not think that it would pay the ordinary county, like Lynn, to purchase and maintain a county farm. But he does think that there should be some way by which county prisoners could be put to work. Confinement in jail is no punishment to many of them, he thinks, especially when the people are paying the bill. He thinks the State should purchase a farm and maintain a prison for these petty criminals in each judicial district.

In this district, the petty offenders in all the counties comprising the district, who could not or would not pay the fines and costs assessed against them, would be sent to this district prison and made to work on the farm. In this way, they not only would be required to work, which would be real punishment for most of them, but they would thereby contribute to the expense of their upkeep. Furthermore, he thinks such a policy would be a great deterrent to petty offenders.

We are passing these suggestions on to our readers for their consideration. We believe they should have the serious consideration also of our governor and our legislators.
It may not be the best plan that could be worked out but apparently it would be better than the present plan.

GOOFY

Editor E. I. Hill of Tahoka News braced himself last week for our flying tackle, but after he explained himself, we partly agreed with him, except we just don't believe in raising cotton to the saturation point and let the government pay reliefers to chop and gather the crops without costs to farmers. What we ought to do, Bro. Hill is to wear shirts with longer tails and go back to the old fashioned "longies" winter and summer, and advocate that the gals wear cotton hose instead of going barelegged or wearing 'em made in Japan.—Terry County Herald.

We will admit, Jack, that it would seem a little goofy for the Government to furnish money to the farmers to pay for the gathering of their cotton crops; but in reality is that any more absurd than it is to give them so much per acre not to plant their land in cotton and then to "loan" them money on a certain portion of their crop with the understanding that they will never be required to pay it back?

The plan we suggested, goofy as it may seem, would permit the farmers to plant as much of their lands in cotton as they might desire.
This would create a great demand for labor throughout the South and would take a lot of people off the regular relief rolls.

The plan the Government has been following greatly reduces the demand for labor, drives tenants off the farms, and forces a great many people onto the relief rolls.

As for the gals, Jack, you are not going to be able to persuade them to go back to cotton hose. Even if you could, you and I and the rest of the men and all the gals in this country could not wear enough cotton hose, longhanded "undies" and long-tailed shirts to use up the normal cotton crop produced in this country annually. What we need is foreign markets, which we have been steadily losing the past few years.

O'DONNELL DESERVES IT!

A letter to The Plainsman from Mrs. Ferrell Farrington, editor and owner of the O'Donnell Index, anent the cotton situation in Lynn and Dawson counties, reminds The Plainsman of something the Congressman (George Mahon) said.

Several days before he left the capital, the Washington Herald had an editorial headed "Have You Ever Heard of O'Donnell?"

The article told all about the cotton crop in that vicinity and gave
By gosh, O'Donnell deserves it!—
O'Donnell a great, big hand.

Journal.

SPORTS

Since the Christmas holidays, basketball has taken the spotlight. The High School boys have played two games to date. The first game was played with Lamesa, the score ending 38 to 12 in favor of Lamesa.

The boys lost a thriller to Post in the Tahoka gymnasium Friday night, Jan. 7, by a score of 25 to 26.

The next three scheduled games for the High School boys are as follows:

- Jan. 14—Tahoka at Lamesa.
- Jan. 18—Tahoka at Post.
- Jan. 21—Tahoka at Slaton.

The boys have already played three teams on the home court and must return them in the next two weeks.

Tahoka High School has a girls' basketball team for the first time. New satin suits have been bought and although the girls have lost the first practice games, they show much improvement and a lot of spirit and may be expected to show the fans a winning aggregation before the season is over.

To create a greater interest in basketball, the faculty has organized a basketball team. They have won three games to date and have lost none.

Much interest is being shown in the publication of the 1938 yearbook, "The Skyline." The staff is already hard at work making the plans and raising the money necessary. A photographer is expected to be out in the near future.

Nominees for the favorites section have been selected by the various high school classes. They are as follows:

- Seniors
 High School Favorite Girl—Mary Ellen Conway.
 High School Favorite Boy—Paul Casebeer.
 Campaign Manager—Levi Billman
- Juniors
 High School Favorite Girl—Rosa McKinzie.
 High School Favorite Boy—J. G. Adams.
 Campaign Manager—Odean Millman.
- Sophomores
 High School Favorite Girl—Hazel Thomas.
 High School Favorite Boy—Carl Lane.
 Campaign Manager—Laruth Walden.
- Freshmen
 High School Favorite Girl—Olga Faye Taylor.
 High School Favorite Boy—George Hogan.
 Campaign Managers—Jean Simmons and Edwin Rogers.
 The class that succeeds in securing the largest number of votes elects its nominees as favorites. The purchase of an annual counts 150 votes. Each coat-hanger presented to the business managers counts one vote. Up and at 'em classes! Let's see who is the best.

This year's Skyline promises to be the finest volume ever produced in this school, and the Seniors are working night and day to make it a success.

Instead of the regular advertising by the page, they have decided to organize a booster's page for those who wish to give their support to this enterprise. Any merchant or individual can have his name and compliments to the class on this page.

RESOLUTIONS

This is the one time in the year when all mankind is resolving to accomplish more and to do bigger and better things. Every person is bound to think of numerous things he is going to do or at do to make 1938—the best-year of his life. Here are a few resolutions for the remainder of the year that the students of THE think will be of value to themselves and to you also.

1. "To love our neighbor as ourselves."
 2. To do all we can to make those around us happy.
 3. To do our very best in all our work, whether it be in school or otherwise.
 4. To be more thoughtful of all others connected with our environment and never to think only of ourselves.
 5. To keep our smile in the face of difficulties.
 6. To be more courteous and to show the proper respect for our building and other public places.
- These are only a very few of the real improvements that we wish to make, but we, as the student body of Tahoka High School, are going to live up to these requirements to the very best of our ability, and we take this opportunity in wishing for each of you the best things that life can hold for the New Year of 1938.

Students of the school are busily engaged in taking mid-term exams.

If a caller had looked in on Chemistry class Tuesday afternoon of last week he would have noticed looks of disgust and turned up noses. The reason was that Mr. Barrett was preparing several jars of chlorine gas.

Nell Mark Wyatt, little son of Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Wyatt, has been ill for several days, but is now improved.

Mrs. A. M. Cade has been sick this week. It is feared that an operation may become necessary.

Strength During MIDDLE LIFE

Strength is extra-important for women going through the change of life. Then the body needs the very best nourishment to fortify it against the changes that are taking place. In such cases, Cardui has proved helpful to many women. It increases the appetite and aids digestion, favoring more complete transformation of food into living tissue, resulting in improved nutrition and building up and strengthening of the whole system.

Burckhardt Writing History Of Family

W. J. Burckhardt of the Edith community is now busily engaged in writing a history of the Burckhardt families in this country.

Most of the families now in this country sprang from two families that came over in a very early day.

A few years ago, a monument to the Burckhardt families was erected at Payette, Missouri, and at the unveiling of the monument, a beautiful poem written by a college professor commemorating the heroic lives of some of its members was read. A copy of this poem was later sent to Mr. Burckhardt here, and the News is this week printing a number of copies of it for distribution among his relatives and friends.

Mr. Burckhardt was himself born in Texas county, Missouri, and grew to manhood there. At the age of 35 he migrated to Johnson county, Texas, and came from there to Lynn county fifteen or twenty years ago. For many years he was a teacher and has also been active in farmers' organizations and in politics.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Oliver have just purchased the brick residence in north Tahoka facing the highway and will make it their permanent home. The Olivers have been residing east of town.

Miss Jeane Suits, columnist on the Lockney Beacon, and her brother, Tom Suits, were visitors at the News office last Saturday. Miss Jeane conducts one of the most racy and spicy columns to be found in any South Plains paper. Tom has worked at intervals in the News office. Their brief visit was greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. J. M. Phillips, Mrs. Hulsey, Mr. and Mrs. Sae Taylor of Denison, Mrs. A. C. Crowe and children of Seagraves, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stricklin and baby of Brownfield visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Nowlin Sunday. Mrs. Stricklin is a cousin of Mrs. Nowlin.

Mesdames G. E. Lockhart and J. B. Walker, both former long-time residents of Tahoka, were here visiting among their many friends last Friday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Spurgeon O'Neal and two daughters of Austin. Mrs. O'Neal will be remembered as the former Miss Jonsaye Walker.

Ms. B. L. Parker was recently rather seriously sick of lumbago. She had scarcely gotten up when her son, Reed, became ill with the flu, and he has been in bed all this week.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Early, who reside south of town, on Thursday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fenton have purchased the Roberts place recently occupied by V. F. Jones and family and have moved into it from the farm east of town where they have lived for many years. They expect to make this their permanent home.

Miss Ruth Evans of Portales, New Mexico, has been here the past few weeks visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Craft. Miss Evans is a teacher at the college in Portales. She is Mrs. Craft's sister.

County agent V. F. Jones and family have recently moved into a residence situated in the northwest part of town owned by Mrs. E. S. Davis.

Mrs. Clay Bennett has been sick this week following several weeks of rather ill health.

O'Donnell Index Editor Makes Answer Avalanche On Dawson Crop Story

Recently the "Plainsman" in the Avalanche - Journal publications made the following comment respecting cotton ginning in Dawson and Lynn counties:

"Down in Dawson county they're a little touchy—and you can't blame them—on the subject of cotton production.

"It seems that a whale of a lot of Dawson county cotton was ginned in Lynn county, to the north, and in Howard county, to the south, and Dawson is not getting credit for raising nearly so much of the fleecy staple as it actually did.

"The Plainsman's friend, J. T. Broughton, who has some fine farms in Dawson county, was in the other day and he says Dawson county would have been a good second to Lubbock county if it had ginned anywhere near its own crop. He says Dawson county raised at least 125,000 bales, instead of the 98,000 it is credited with.

"(Golly, Moses! This'll probably get a rise out of Lynn county!)"

A few days later, Mrs. Ferrell Farrington, editor of the O'Donnell Index, wrote a reply to the "Plainsman", which was published in the Lubbock papers, from which we clip the following paragraphs:

"Dear Plainsman: you proved yourself a true prophet in at least one instance—i. e. when you foretold a rise out of Lynn county on the cotton situation and especially the statement that Dawson would have ranked higher than Lynn county in cotton production had it not been for the fact that O'Donnell gins handled more than a few bales of Dawson county staple, thus receiving credit which rightfully is due our neighbor on the south.

"It is true that our five local gins have turned out quite a few bales of Dawson-grown cotton. (And we herewith rise to a point of order and challenge the whole South to produce any five other gins who have turned out as many bales with as good staple as have ours here). But we'd also like the world to know that hundreds of bales of Lynn county cotton have been trucked as far as Abilene, Sweetwater, Snyder, and Big Spring, simply because they couldn't be ginned here. Being a mere woman, we of course would not presume to offer a bet. But from reports from our cotton growers, it would appear that about as much cotton has been taken out of Lynn county for ginning as has been brought in. Therefore, we believe that Lynn county was rightfully placed as near the top of the ginning list as she was. And with all respect to Lubbock county, we'll give her a close run for first place in the state when all these mountains of cotton piled at the city limits and in the fields are accounted for.

"We'd like to have an accurate check on the number of Dawson county bales brought in here, to be compared with a similar accurate check of bales taken out of Lynn county. If they don't balance very evenly, the drinks are on us any

Religious Rights Stressed at Fair

NEW YORK (Special)—A tribute to the constitutional right of freedom of worship will have a prominent part in the statuary to be placed upon the $60,000,000 Central Mall of the New York World's Fair 1939, Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair corporation, announces.

Part of a group known as "The Four Freedoms," the statue will depict a chaste, young girl, her face raised to the skies, holding a prayer book in her hands. On the base of the statue, a number of churches of various denominations will signify that freedom of religion in this country is not confined to any one sect or creed.

"time you'll come down and collect."

"The O'Donnell Index last week also carried a reply to the "Plainsman" in which Mrs. Farrington calls his hand in much the same manner. We quote from the Index as follows:

"We'd like to call to mind that Lynn county's ranking in second place in state's ginning reports has been attained while thousands of bales of Lynn grown cotton were being hauled out of this county to be ginned. We know one cotton producer who has trucked cotton from the gin yards here to the Arvana gin, several others who have ginned the bulk of their crop at Punkin Center, and one man who has taken his entire crop to Anson for ginning. Slaton and Post gin records show bale after bale of cotton from the northeastern part of Lynn county, while figures from Abilene, Sweetwater, Snyder, Big Spring show the same thing. For that matter, we'd like to know how many bales of Lynn county cotton were ginned at Woodrow and Lubbock?"

"We do not have the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with Mr. Broughton, who is quoted in the Plainsman's column, but we know of him as a most estimable gentleman. We congratulate him on his loyalty to his own county. But may we mention to him that the figures he quotes are from GINNING reports; not from actual PRODUCTION reports. Fiddiesticks—if Lynn county got credit for all the cotton she actually produced on her acres, the total would be at least 175,000 bales. Our gins here are still running day and night, and crews can't see over the stacks yet. So Lynn county ranked second in ginning reports with fully as much or more of her actual production being ginned elsewhere as was brought into this county."

To all of which The News adds only this: How about that Lynn county cotton ginned at Slaton, Union, and Slide, as well as Woodrow, all in Lubbock county; and at Southland and Pleasant Valley, in Garza? (We admit the Hackberry gin may offset the Pleasant valley gin.) Lynn county evidently loses just about as much cotton as she gains; but Lubbock county obviously gains much more than she loses. (Golly, Moses! This'll probably get a rise out of Lubbock county!)"

Amusement-Zone Of New York Fair Biggest in History

NEW YORK (Special)—An amusement zone designed to accommodate at one time the entire population of cities, the size of Akron, Atlanta, Birmingham, Dallas, Denver or St. Paul will greet the millions of visitors to the New York World's Fair 1939, Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair corporation, announces.

By far the largest entertainment structure ever constructed, it will contain enough shows, devices, restaurants, villages, shaded rest spots, secondary streets and plazas to handle more than 250,000 fun-seekers.

One huge theater-restaurant alone will have seats for 5,000. Another music auditorium will seat 2,500. An amphitheater to contain huge crowds will be built by the state of New York at a cost of $1,600,000; erected at the head of one of the lakes it will be the scene of operas, aquatic exhibitions; pageants and other extravaganzas.

The visitor to the Fair will walk about two miles merely to pass through the amusement section which will be laid out in the form of an oval loop with no "dead end" streets.

The 230-acre tract will be divided into at least thirteen villages or zones and every concession will conform in design and atmosphere to the particular zone in which it is located.

An example will be the "Little Old New York" village, where the theater will be a replica of the famous old Park theater, the principal cafe will duplicate Steve Brodie's saloon and the attendants will dress in character. All architecture will be attuned to that picturesque period. Admission to the zones will be free.

SEWING ROOM USES SCRAPS TO ADVANTAGE

Baby cradles made from barrels; waste baskets from scraps lumber, barrel staves, etc.; match boxes, corner shelves, foot stools, coffee tables, magazine racks, and other useful articles made from scraps of waste lumber; cotton carded by hand; quilts pieced from scraps of cotton or woolen materials; rugs made from scraps and from old socks and stockings; chairs, reseat with strips cut from old inner tubes—these are some of the many items that are being made at the WPA renovating establishment in the old sewing room here under the direction of Mrs. W. T. Clinton.

Made-over clothing is also one of the principal articles turned out by this establishment. "No matter how old or faded a garment may be as long as the material is good" seems to be the slogan of Mrs. Clinton and her corps of workers, as they turn garments, darn small holes, and make them over like new.

From garments too worn to be used, smaller garments are often contrived, and the scraps left go into rugs, thus nothing is lost.

Not only is this WPA project useful by reason of its salvage of old and discarded clothing and a hundred other articles used in and about the home and the increased value given the renovated articles, but it is also of vast benefit in that it teaches the workers how to do these things for themselves after they shall have left the WPA project.

This renovating project is worth many times the money that is being put into it.

Freedom of Press

NEW YORK—Portraying "the unadorned truth," this statue will be dedicated to the constitutional right of freedom of the press in the "Four Freedoms" statuary group on the Central Mall of the New York World's Fair 1939.

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilit Boyd, H. D. Agent

MRS. S. G. ANTHONY IS HOST TO WILSON H. D. CLUB

The Wilson Home Demonstration Club met January 5 in the home of Mrs. S. G. Anthony, with all new officers in charge.

Miss Boyd gave a demonstration of daily food requirements for a man, a woman, and a child.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Huffaker on January 19. All members and all ladies of the Wilson community who are interested in home demonstration work are invited to attend this meeting and join if you are not already a member.

Those present last meeting were: Mmes. S. G. Anthony, W. H. May, M. C. Brandon, W. C. Huffaker, P. D. Server, B. W. Baker, J. F. Covey, H. B. Crosby, D. A. Hill, and Jack Miller.

HACKBERRY WOMEN MEET WITH MRS. WOOD.

Hackberry H. D. Club met Jan. 7th in the home of Mrs. Riley Wood with thirteen members present, president and most officers present.

We had a really good meeting, as Miss Alta Clements gave us an idea of the public speaking at Lubbock last week.

The hostess served fruit salad. Next meeting: A meal to be planned with whipped cream, jello and cake, with very few vegetables.

The meeting will be on Jan. 21, and in the home of President Mrs. B. N. Billingsley.—Reporter.

DRAW 4-H CLUB HAS NEW SPONSOR

"Gingham, print, percale, cambric, unbleached muslin and feed sacks are some of the materials most commonly used in kitchen apron construction," said Miss Boyd at a meeting of the Draw 4-H Club January 5.

Simple patterns were provided by the home agent.

Twenty members were present. The new sponsor, Mrs. R. L. Pirtle, met with the girls for the first time.

Air Show Will Be Here Sunday

A free air show will be presented in Tahoka Sunday afternoon by the Hatch Flying Service of Fort Worth, according to A. B. Hatch, manager of the company. A special feature of the show will be a parachute jump by Miss Kenchloe, the second one she will have ever made.

Hatch is bringing two planes with him, a Stinson monoplane and an open stunt ship.

Mrs. Harve Henderson of Redwine has been very ill with the "flu" the past two weeks.

GRASSLAND H. D. CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. COOK

The Grassland H. D. Club met with D. G. Cook January 11, 1939, at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Boyd, H. D. agent, gave a demonstration on balanced meals.

Members present: Mesdames E. A. Thomas, M. C. Thomas, R. B. McCord, Myrl Mathis, E. N. Durham, C. E. Short, and D. G. Cook.

Mrs. W. W. Stewart was a visitor.

BOYS WIN TRIPS TO CARLSBAD CAVERNS

J. C. Womack and R. L. Bosworth went to Carlsbad Caverns Dec. 29 with a group of winners of prizes in the recent Woodrow judging contests. Robt. Sanders was eligible to make the trip, but was unable to do so.

Womack won first in corn judging, Bosworth first in dairy products, and Sanders won first in the grain sorghums contest.

The Tahoka Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. C. V. Nelms Wednesday afternoon.

Following its regular business meeting, a demonstration, "Dairy Food Requirements of a Man, a Woman, and a Child Each Day," was given by Miss Boyd.

Two new members were added to the roll.

Those present were: Mmes. A. C. Weaver, W. S. Anglin, Milt Finch, J. H. Nelms, Jack Corley, P. W. Goad, R. W. Fenton, H. M. Snowden, J. H. Edwards, Jr., S. H. Holland, J. K. Woosley, and L. O. Mitchell.

T. C. U. "Swingsters" Advertise Texas

The Horned Frog Band of Texas Christian University has traveled more than 12,000 miles in the past 15 months—from the Pacific to the Atlantic—and has been received with wild acclaim wherever it has played. Beginning in October, 1936, the band has performed (in connection with football games) in College Station, Houston, Dallas, San Francisco, Calif., Columbus, Ohio, New York City, Waco, Shreveport, La., and Austin. Pictured here is the clarinet section of the band, in the throes of a "hot" swing number. The organization is directed by Prof. Don Gillis (right); Miss Frances Buster (left), sophomore coed in T. C. RECENT BRIDE HONORED IN LUMDEN HOME, WILSON

Honoring Mrs. Loyd Swan, a recent bride, the loveliest social function of the season was held in the beautifully appointed home of Mrs. Lonnie Lumsden of Wilson on Friday afternoon, January 7.

After registering in the exquisitely painted guest book decorated by and presided over by Miss Clara May, the guests were entertained with appropriate games. Mrs. Jack Miller then gave two readings, "Little Mary's Essay on Husbands," and "How to Preserve a Husband."

Dainty little June and Jean Covey assisted by Jackie Miller presented Mrs. Swan with a beautiful box, which when opened contained rhymed directions for hunting the gifts. The honoree enjoyed a merry treasure hunt until she finally located the huge pile of lovely gifts in the living room.

A very attractive salad course of congealed salad on a bed of lettuce, smack sandwiches, stuffed olives, and spiced tea were served. Tea was poured by Mrs. M. C. Brandon and Mrs. J. T. Covey. On the plates were dainty sweet pea favors, and the honoree was presented with a gorgeous shoulder corsage.

The social was closed with a reading, "A Prayer for a Bride's House," by Mrs. Paul McCasland, and a prayer of benediction upon the recently wed couple by Mrs. S. G. Anthony.

The out of town guests were: Mrs. Patterson, the grandmother of the honoree, and Mrs. Pitts of Tahoka; and Mesdames Don Hatchett, Byron Shaw and Bill Whitsett of Lubbock.

and Mrs. Hart of Posey. Some fifty other relatives and friends attended the affair.

BAPTIST W. M. S. MEETS FOR "GOLDEN" PROGRAM

Meeting in two groups the Baptist W. M. S. had a "Golden" program Monday afternoon, this being the "Golden Jubilee" year of the Southern Baptist W. M. S.

Mrs. C. Hufstедler was program leader for the Lockett Circle which rendered the Royal Service program to the Sallee Circle in the home of Mrs. P. W. Goad.

Mrs. H. B. Howell directed the same program given by the Moon Circle to the Walker Circle in the home of Mrs. P. M. Billman. Each group enjoyed a social hour during which the Sallee and Walker circles served a refreshment plate to Mesdames C. Hufstедler, W. O. Robertson, B. Davis, E. C. Rogers, I. Dunagan, G. Pennington, J. Burleson, E. I. Hill, P. W. Goad, C. T. Oliver, J. Connolly, A. J. Edwards, W. S. Taylor, A. O. King, W. M. Harris, A. D. Seth, K. R. Durham, and Miss Mary Seroyer; Mesdames H. B. Howell, J. L. Reese, C. Connolly, H. M. Snowden, J. R. McIntyre, Geo. A. Dale, H. F. St. Clair, W. Fortenberry, J. L. Nevill, H. L. Roddy, F. M. Billman, Mother Stroud and Miss Mary Preston.

The new W. M. S. schedule is as follows: First Monday, Bible study, led by the pastor; second Monday Royal Service program, rendered by alternate circles; third Monday, circle meetings; fourth Monday, business meeting.

Next Monday the circles will begin the study of the following books: Lockett Circle, "Things We Should Know"; Sallee Circle, "Training in Stewardship"; Moon Circle, "Christ or Chaos"; Walker Circle, "Christ's Gift to the Churches."

New members and visitors are always welcome.

ELDER R. P. DRENNON'S PERTINENT POINTS

A fine thing; I mean the splendid weather we have had this winter. It seems we do not have the bad blizzards we used to have, for which I am glad.

Another thing not so fine: I mean the raise of rents. It seems that some owners of property have put their conscience in their pockets when it comes to raising rents. In some instances they have been raised one hundred and fifty percent, which I don't think conditions justify.

We are glad our friend D. A. Stephens is home; also Max Minor; and as I visited them I was made to think what a fine thing it would be to have a hospital here. I believe the getting one would be a fine objective for us this year.

Another thing I think would be fine is a public library. When I lived at Idalou, the county commissioner helped us in establishing one. What about our commissioners here? How do you feel about it? I believe one would be liberally patronized.

Last Lord's Day I visited a friend who made a bountiful crop last year and invested his profits in improvements. I have other friends who made more but put their profits in the bank, it seems, to stay. I am made to believe if our men of wealth would use their profits in improvements it would kill the present depression and prevent another. It is hoarding that is causing us part of our trouble. I had a friend at Brownfield who made large improvements in 1932 and thereby kept two families in the necessities of life for one whole year. I believe this is the solution of our present financial difficulties.

Another thing I want to raise my voice against is the low, vulgar jokes that are spoken into the microphones. I believe if enough of us would object, the programs would be made cleaner. I am glad the Catholic Church spoke out against the low, vulgar pictures and raised the standard there.

But, lest you think I am so straight I lean back a little, will say

Contour Listing Of Lynn County Pasture Lands

(By County Agent V. F. Jones)
Fourteen pasture contour demonstrations, involving 676 acres of pasture land were carried out in Lynn county in 1937. Contouring of crop land along with other practices that tend to conserve moisture on the cultivated land are a common practice in Lynn county, but the problem of conserving and utilizing rainfall on pasture areas have not received much consideration until just recently.

Many of our pasture and range areas have been over-grazed and the vegetative covering on the land is very light, the grass turf is practically gone. This scant covering of vegetation allows the rainfall to run down the slope into the public roads or lakes, often causing gullying and the water is lost for vegetative growth.

The listing of pasture land in the contour has been done for the purpose of holding this run off water on the land long enough for it to be absorbed into the soil. When we have done that we have conserved the water in the subsoil of the land for vegetative growth, and have prevented erosion that would be caused by water running off the land.

Some of the demonstration pasture areas have been listed solid with a two row lister, while other areas have been listed with furrows ten feet apart and others with furrows sixteen feet apart. These demonstrations have not been carried long enough to tell which method of listing will produce the most grass in the shortest period of time, but they have, definitely demonstrated that more native grasses, particularly the buffalo grass, can be produced on pasture land that has been listed on the contour.

Probably the outstanding pasture contour demonstration in Lynn county is that on the farm of G. M. Duckett, a farmer of the Edith community, six miles east of Tahoka.

Mr. Duckett has 120 acres of pasture land. This land is not excessively steep, but there is enough fall to the land that water runs off into the public road and into a small lake in one corner of the pasture. This pasture was contour listed in May, 1937. Two different areas of the pasture was solid listed with a two row lister, with the furrows 3 1/2 feet apart. It is the intention of Mr. Duckett to list two more furrows in the wide spacing in 1938 and two more furrows in 1939 to complete the solid listing of the land. Upon examination of the range land in November, 1937, after a season of above average rainfall, it was found that the listed furrows have fairly well sodded over with buffalo grass.

There was practically as much grass on the land that had been listed solid as on the land that had the lister furrows further apart. Some of the best grazing in the pasture, and the stock grazing in the pasture showed a preference for the grass growing on the sides and in the bottom of the listed furrows. It was noticeable that the best grass was on or very near the area that has been listed. A very light growth of weeds appeared on the listed area during the summer, but it is believed that with another season's growth the better grasses such as buffalo and gramma will crowd out the weeds. The value of conserving and holding on the land the run off water has been reflected in increased grass growth on this pasture land.

Another pasture contour demonstration that has shown outstanding results is that of the 25 acre pasture land contour listed in March, 1937, on the farm of J. T. Owens, five miles east of Tahoka. Mr. Owens listed his pasture land with a two row lister with furrows about twelve feet apart. In spots of the pasture where the turf of buffalo grass was still fairly good before listing, the furrows had sodded over almost complete the first growing season. This was due to light grazing of the pasture during the year and to the conserving of the rainfall that was received during the summer.

Many of the farms of Lynn county have small grass patches that have almost reached the state of being only "stomp lots", or exercise lots for the farm livestock. Many of these areas could be brought back to good productive grazing areas for the farm livestock by giving these areas a little systematic care for a few years. We think this can best be done by contour listing of the pasture to stop run off water and conserve the rainfall for vegetative growth and by light grazing of the pasture until the grass turf has been re-established.

We hope that more consideration will be given to the problem of erosion and water conservation on our native grass areas; that our pastures may become more productive and at the same time we will go a long way toward solving the problem of soil erosion and floodwaters.

Don P. Milliken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Milliken of Morgan, who was very ill following an appendicitis operation performed in a Lubbock hospital Thursday of last week, is showing improvement, according to relatives here.

A girl weighing seven pounds, one ounce, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGinty of Wells, this county, at the Lubbock Sanitarium early Thursday afternoon. Mrs. McGinty is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Draper of Midway.

J. M. Johnson Jr. and wife of Lubbock were here Saturday afternoon attending the funeral of Bill Bishop.

J. M. Johnson left Sunday for a visit of several days with his brother, Dr. W. G. Johnson, in Chicago.

Newmoore

The Newmoore school resumed work December 27 after having been dismissed for cotton picking several weeks.

Delton Hamton was slightly injured in a car mishap Sunday.

Carl Thompson is a new pupil in the third grade. His sister Winnie entered the sixth grade. We are glad to have them.

F. M. Cox, father of O. C. Cox, who has lived in the Newmoore district several years, was stricken with paralysis at six o'clock Friday morning. He is now in a serious condition in the home of O. C. Cox at O'Donnell.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Thompson and family moved from Klondike into the Newmoore community Saturday, Jan. 8.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brandon, who have spent several weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Brandon, returned to their home in Mira Loma, Calif., Jan. 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kaiser and family of O'Donnell spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Brandon.

A nine-pound boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nelson Jan. 1. The baby is now in the Lamesa Sanitarium recovering from a recent illness.

NOTICE

Mr. H. L. Skinner will be in Tahoka the week of January 22-27 to look after the life insurance business of Mrs. Gladys M. Stokes.

Clint Sikes was confined to his room with an attack of the flu throughout the major portion of last week but was able to be out again at its close.

Mother Weathers, who has been ill at her home in East Tahoka for about three weeks, is reported improving.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CAR-DUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

PRESS THE CLUTCH

to start quicker

Here's right smart footwork for right smart starting in the cold: Down with your clutch pedal before you do anything else. Then your starter and battery won't be turning the gears, but only the engine, which is just that much easier to do.

Now don't let up on the clutch, but pull out the choke (unless automatic) and then spin your starter, leaving ignition OFF. After a few engine revolutions, switch on the ignition... And hark to the strong steady firing of your Special Winter Blend Conoco Bronze, which is certainly the sensible gasoline for quick starting.

Conoco Bronze always lets you do a cocksure "professional" job of starting. For that matter the way Conoco Bronze is specially winter-blended you could purposely give it the worst handling in the worst cold just for a test... and that's daring you! Shrimp Creole for Sunday Night Supper.

SHRIMP Creole is an excellent dish to serve for Sunday night supper, not just because it is especially good to eat, but because it can be made the day before or in the morning and reheated when ready to serve.

Shrimp Creole.

- 2 medium size onions sliced
2 cups canned tomatoes
1/2 cup sliced celery
2 tbsps shortening
1 tbsps flour
1 tsp salt
1 x 2 tbsps chili powder
1 cup water
2 cups canned peas
2 cups canned corn
1 tsp sugar
2 cups canned shrimp
3 cups hot boiled rice

Cook the onions and celery in the fat until a delicate brown. Add the flour, salt and chili powder and blend until smooth. Add the water (use the liquid drained from the peas as part of the water). Cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly.

If the shrimp creole is made before serving time, you will find a double boiler, or casserole convenient to use for reheating it.

The amount of chili powder to use depends upon personal taste. It would be a good idea to add just one tablespoonful and after the finished product has been sampled more can be added if desired.

Chilled canned peas served with a custard sauce would make a pleasing dessert for the supper.

"Death Fog"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Well, sir, the Vikings of old used to sail the seas in oared galleys that were hardly bigger than the motor cruisers in which we plough through our lakes and rivers today. I'll give them a lot of credit for their nerve. But they had oars to row with and sails to carry them along. They knew where they were going and they had a pretty good chance of getting there. I'm betting a lot that there wasn't a Viking in any age who would have put himself in the spot Pete Gear of Sunnyside, L. I., found himself in. Not for any amount of money.

It happened in September, 1927—and here's how. Pete got a job on a coal barge. And one of the first trips that barge was sent on after Pete joined the crew, was a tow out to sea with a load of coal for a ship that was to meet them a hundred and ninety-five miles out in the Atlantic.

The rendezvous at which they were to meet was southeast of Block Island. A tug was to take the barge out. Five men composed the barge's crew. Four of those fellows—Pete included—had never been out to sea before. The fifth man was a regular sea-going bargeman.

They Couldn't Find the Boat.

On the afternoon of the day appointed, the tug came along and the barge was hooked on behind it. Pete says the trip up Long Island sound was like a moonlight excursion. But after they passed Montauk point, the sea was mighty rough. The four landlubbers immediately got seasick.

It was a hard night for those lads—but it was going to be a lot harder before they got back. The next day, when they arrived at the appointed spot, there was no sign of the boat they had come to meet. The tugboat captain told the bargeman to drop anchor and he would circle around and see if he could find the other boat. He cast off the tow line and the tug steamed away. Soon it was out of sight. There was nothing in sight, as a matter of fact, but water and more water. They were nearly two hundred miles from the nearest land. Then, half an hour later, a thick fog settled down over the anchored barge.

Anchored in the Shipping Lane.

Says Pete: "We were lying in our bunks, too sick to move, when the regular bargeman came in and told us about the fog. He explained that we were anchored in the shipping lane, and that was a dangerous position. We would have to keep the fog bell ringing as long as the fog lasted. Otherwise we would most likely be run down by one of the liners which were continually passing through that part of the ocean."

Pete Yanked Away On That Bell.

And that was only the beginning. The troubles crowded thick and fast after that. It was night now, and the bargeman went aloft to hang a riding light. He was hardly up there when he fell to the deck and lay still, his leg broken. "Then," says Pete, "the nightmare began."

Pete picked him up and carried him to his bunk. The other three men were still lying in their bunks, the ghastly pallor of seasickness on their faces. When he had done what little he could for the injured man, Pete went out and started ringing the fog bell.

The night wore on, and the fog showed no sign of lifting. Pete yanked away rhythmically on that bell, tolling a monotonous dirge. His arm was getting tired. His hand was chafing from its constant contact with the bell rope. Every minute he expected to see the bow of an ocean liner looming over the barge. Every minute he expected to hear a thud and a crash of splintering timbers as some huge craft cut them in two.

Pete Had to Keep Ringing the Bell.

Pete began to feel that he couldn't hold his arm up to pull that bell rope any longer. He went into the cabin and tried to rouse one of the seasick men. Not one of them would get up. Pete was seasick himself, but these fellows felt a lot worse. In vain he told them of the dangers of leaving that bell unmanned. They didn't care whether the barge went down or not. In fact, one or two of them hoped it would.

Pete dragged himself back to the bell. He was sick—sleepy—aching. But he couldn't quit. His life depended on it. And so did the lives of those other four men in their bunks. Dawn came, and still he was jerking away on that rope. Still the fog hadn't lifted. All morning long—all afternoon—he stuck to his post. Both his hands were so raw now that he had to hook his elbow through the bell rope and pull it with his arm.

Night came—and still Pete was at it. His whole body was stiff now. He ached in every muscle and joint and bone. His arm was working mechanically now. He scarcely realized that he was pulling that cord.

And for TWO NIGHTS AND A DAY Peter rang that bell. Never will he forget the nightmare of that experience. On the morning of the third day he couldn't take it any longer. He didn't quit. He just fell asleep—right where he was—from sheer exhaustion.

Found by an Airplane.

When Pete awoke again the sun was just disappearing over the western horizon. But the fog had lifted. There was no sign of the tug. When the fog came down it had been unable to find the barge—and it still hadn't found it.

All that third night they waited. On the fourth day Pete sighted a plane. It circled around in the skies and then headed back toward land again. "When it turned around," says Pete, "I thought that pilot had seen us." But the plane had spotted the barge. It had been sent out from New London for that very purpose. And on the fifth day the tug boat came out and reclaimed its lost tow.

It didn't take Pete long to get over the effects of his adventure. Now he looks back on it as quite an exciting experience. There's one thing, though, that makes Pete mad. He worked himself to exhaustion, trying to keep some vessel from sending that barge to the bottom. "But in all that time," he says, "I didn't see a single one of those big liners that I was in such fear of."

Where Yale Is Buried
All around the Welsh village of Bryn-Eglwys, writes H. V. Morton in "In Search of Wales," lies property which once belonged to the Yale family, one of whom, Elihu, did so much toward founding Yale university. Elihu lies buried, however, not in the Yale chapel attached to the church of Bryn-Eglwys, but at Wrexham, ten miles away. Both places are much visited by Americans traveling in Wales.

Cock Fighting, Cuban Sport
One of the most typical of Cuban sports is gamecock fighting. It dates from the landing of the first Spanish galleon on the island's palm-fringed shores with blue-blooded fighting roosters from Andalusia. But Cubans also support numerous other sports. They are extremely fond of horse racing, and confirmed addicts of the great American game of baseball. They like track competitions and fishing, yacht racing and hunting.

Simple or Sophisticated?

A PRETTY girl is like a melody and her frock is the swing in it that makes you remember her—and never lets you forget. Sew-Your-Own puts that "remember me" ingredient into all frocks, from its simple all-occasion models to its more exclusive fashion frocks. You, Milady, have an exceptional opportunity today to choose an engaging frock from this taking trio. Just send for your pattern and Sew-Your-Own will do the rest—see you through every step to a happy, successful finish, or, in other words, to a thrilling frock fortified with much "Remember me."

Five Shipshape Pieces.
Start your day in an attractive morning frock if you would leave a bright all-day impression on the family. Sew-Your-Own suggests the new, young-looking dress at the left for creating a really lasting impression. It will impress you, too, for the five pieces fit together so effortlessly and produce such shipshape style that you'll be not only pleased but thrilled. Gingham, percale, or seersucker is the material suggested for this popular frock.

Exclusive Looking.
A beautifully styled frock that will lend a festive feeling and a note of glamour to every occasion is the smart new piece, above center. It is modern of line, gracious of detail, and flattering beyond belief. The new tucked skirt looks important, yes, even exclusive, but happily for you, Milady, it's as easy to sew as any you've done. Note the little button trim and youthful collar and cuffs to add that telling touch of good taste. Make a copy for now in satin or silk crepe.

Come-Get-Me Look.
Winter is here, but Spring is packaged up for an early delivery, which would behoove the fastidious young woman to now turn her gentle thoughts to the problem of what-to-wear. The slim-waisted model, above right, should set one straight, both in matters of thoughts and actions, for it has that come-and-get-me look that's so typical of the modern Sew-Your-Own. The "act" of sewing is most simplified in this little number, as the seven pieces and the cut-away diagram clearly illustrate.

Pattern 1431 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35-inch material. The collar in contrast requires 3/4 of a yard.

Pattern 1436 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 3 3/4 yards of 39-inch material, plus 3/4 yard contrasting. With long sleeves 3 3/4 yards are required.

Pattern 1435 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/4 yards of 39-inch material, plus 3/4 yard contrasting. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns; 15 cents (in coins) each.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

NOW ROLLIN' 'EM IN HALF THE TIME — ENJOYIN' 'EM TWICE AS MUCH

Jack Clem finds his ideal "makin's" tobacco — extra mild, extra tasty!

I'LL NEVER FORGET THE DAY I TRIED PRINCE ALBERT ON THE SPECIAL MONEY-BACK OFFER. NOW I'M ROLLIN' 'EM IN HALF THE TIME, AND ENJOYIN' 'EM TWICE AS MUCH!

JACK CLEM (right) is a salesman, and a good one too! He says: "I usually sell ideas to other people. But I'm the one who got sold on Prince Albert 'makin's' tobacco. Most of my customers smoke P. A. and it's everything they say—mild and mellow, yet with plenty of good, rich taste."
"Say," Murray Benton (left) comes back, "if everything in your sample case was as good as Prince Albert, you'd fill up your order book in no time. Look at the way these P. A. smokers roll up—fast and handsome. And they draw right. No wonder they smoke so mellow." (Prince Albert is great in a pipe, too!)

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE
Roll yourself 30 small cigarettes from Prince Albert. If you don't find them the finest, tastiest roll-your-own cigarettes you ever smoked, return the packet (in with the rest of the tobacco) in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage. State Politics Will Be Warm

State Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo announced early last week that he is a candidate for governor. It is generally understood that Attorney-General Bill McCraw will be a candidate, but upon being asked about his intentions he stated that he was too busy to announce. There are strong indications that Governor James V. Allred is also planning to become a candidate again, and James E. Ferguson is testing out public sentiment in behalf of his wife. If Allred runs, it seems certain that Mrs. Ferguson will run also. Rep. Clarence Farmer, Ft. Worth, announced several weeks ago that he would be a candidate. He is seeking to make an issue of old age pensions or assistance and hopes thereby to ride into the governor's office. There are a number of prospective candidates for attorney general. Lewis M. Goodrich of Shamrock, serving his third term as district attorney of the 31st judicial district, which lies up in the north Panhandle, has been a candidate for this office for many months. He made one visit to Tahoka and other points in this part of the state last summer in behalf of his candidacy. Lieut. Governor Walter Woodul of Houston has been an avowed candidate for attorney general for a year or more and he is expected to make his formal announcement soon. There are a number of other prospective candidates for this post, including Gerald Mann of Dallas, former secretary of state, Robert Calvert of Hillsboro, speaker of the House of Representatives, and Everett Looney, a former assistant attorney general under Allred. The name of G. H. Nelson, senator from this district, has also been widely mentioned in connection with this office but recently he as been more frequently mentioned as a candidate for lieutenant-governor. It would not be at all surprising if he should announce for this latter office. There are also a number of other prospective candidates for this latter position. It is obvious that all shades and colors of political belief are going to be represented by candidates for the various offices this year, and the political pot promises soon to boil over. There'll be a hot time in Texas this summer.

BILL BISHOP IS KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE WRECK
 fice here apparently in a most critical condition. His skull had been fractured and there were terrible lacerations and abrasions on and about the face. After receiving first aid treatment he was rushed back to Lubbock in a Harris ambulance for further examination and treatment in a sanitarium. He had improved sufficiently to be brought to Tahoka Monday afternoon. He has a room in the W. S. Swan home. Bishop suffered a fracture of the pelvis and a rupture of the bladder. He died at 8:45 Friday night, about four and a half to five hours after the injuries were sustained. His body was brought back to Tahoka for burial. Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church here at 4:30 Saturday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Dale, and by Rev. J. W. Braswell of Lamesa, pastor of the Baptist Church at Redwine. Burial was in the Tahoka Cemetery under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home. Mr. Bishop left surviving him his wife, five sons and three daughters, as follows: T. J., Jack, Ace, Jimmy, and Everett, sons, and Mrs. Pauline Curry, Billie, and Evelyn Bishop, daughters, all of Tahoka. Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. S. D. Bailey of Tahoka, one brother, J. J. Bishop, living in the northwest portion of the county, and two sisters, Mrs. C. G. Pennington of McAllister and Mrs. Lillian Thurston of Wilburton, Oklahoma. A native of Alabama, having been born at Birmingham on January 29, 1884, Mr. Bishop came to Texas in early life. He was married to Miss Hattie Schutte at Vernon, Texas, on January 16, 1908. He lived for a time in Oklahoma before locating in Lynn county. He had been a resident of Lynn county, however, for fifteen years, locating here on December 24, 1922. His untimely and unexpected death was a terrible shock to his family and his friends, and the widow and children have the deepest sympathy of our entire citizenship.

Judge Louis Reed Makes Statement

Louis B. Reed, present District Judge, in announcing his candidacy to the citizens of the 106th Judicial District, makes the following statement:

"I am your present District Judge, filling the unexpired term of the late Judge Gordon B. McGuire. I am now a candidate for that position. This district is composed of Garza, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, Gaines and Dawson counties. I have been actively engaged in the practice of law since about a year after my return from the Army in 1919. My practice has been devoted to the prosecution and defense of criminal cases, and general civil practice. I have devoted all of my time to the practice of law and not engaged in any other trade, avocation or profession. My home is Lamesa, where I have resided for the past seven years. Although planning to run for this position, I have carefully refrained from announcing or urging my candidacy until the proper time. The dockets of this district are very crowded and will demand practically all of my time until June 20th. As a result I will be unable to see many of you personally to solicit your vote. "Whether I have properly performed the duties of the office is for your determination. If you are not familiar with the manner of my performance of duty, I hope that you will inquire of those who are. "In considering such candidates that shall offer for this position, I feel that you will consider their legal experience and knowledge, energy, integrity and general fitness."

 and he has very high standing with the State Comptroller's Department at Austin. Efficiency and promptness are two of the chief characteristics of his work. Experience in public office as well as in the business world enables a man to serve better, and Mr. Cade feels therefore that the experience he has had will be invaluable to him and to the people he serves if he should be re-elected. Below is a brief statement which he desires to make personally through the columns of this paper. "In announcing for re-election to the office of Tax Assessor-Collector, I am mindful of the fact that a public office is a public trust; and during my tenure of office as your
