Church of Christ Has New Minister

Elder J. L. Nisbett formerly of Abilene but more recently of Roaring Springs, has been engaged to serve the Church of Christ here. He conducted his first service here Sunday morning, January 9, which resulted in one baptism.

Elder Nisbett is a young man and is a graduate of the A. C. C. He has been teaching as well as preaching since leaving school.

The News joins in extending him a welcome to our little city.

A. W. Bratcher Out For Public Weigher

We were authorized this week to place the name of A. W. Bratcher in our announcement column as a candidate for re-election to the office of public weigher to the Draw-Grassland precinct.

Mr. Bratcher is now serving his first term in this position and is asking for a second. So far as we know, he has given satisfaction. He is well known to the people of his precinct and is most highly regarded as a man and a citizen. He will appreciate the kind consideration and the support of every voter in the precinct.

Mrs. N. M. Wyatt's Niece Is Dead

Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Wyatt on Wednesday afternoon attended funeral services of her niece, little Miss La Dell Rodgers, at Levelland.

Deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Major Rodgers, well known here, and the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Doak of O'Donnell, Mr. Doak having been the first sheriff of this county.

Death came Tuesday, following an operation for appendicitis in the Plains Clinic at Lubbock, the appendix having already ruptured when the patient was brought to the institution.

La Dell was twelve years of age.

Visits His Fiftieth Great Grandchild

Thomas J. Williams of Draw had an experience Tuesday that comes to few of us. He had the pleasure of visiting his fiftieth great-grandchild.

The little fellow, one month old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boatright of Lamesa.

Mr. Williams did not tell us his age but he looks as if he might live another quarter century. If so, he may have well—

Mrs. T. J. Williams Of Draw Is Dead

Mrs. Margaret Williams, 76, a resident of the Draw community for the past 28 years, died at her home at noon on Thursday of last week, following a prolonged illness.

Funeral services were conducted at Draw at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, Rev. J. N. Hester of Southland, former pastor of the Methodist Church at Draw, officiating. The body was laid to rest in the Draw Cemetery under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home of this city.

Mrs. Williams was a strong Christian character and had been a devoted member of the Methodist Church for many years. Her influence for good will never be measured on this earth.

Mrs. Williams, whose maiden name was Margaret Miles, was born in the state of Kentucky on December 21, 1861. There she grew to womanhood, and on December 18, 1878, at Palmyra, she was married to T. J. Williams. Later they moved to Hillsboro, Texas, and in January, 1910, they came from Hillsboro to Lynn county.

Besides her aged husband, she leaves surviving her two sons and two daughters, in the following order, Mrs. Lizzie Cook, T. T. Williams, Mrs. Lula Busby, and Willie E. Williams, all of Draw. Also surviving are four brothers and one sister as follows: J. A. Miles of Big Spring, P. W. Miles of Minden, La., A. J. Miles of Parsons, Kas., R. A. Miles of Palmyra, Kentucky, and Mrs. Carda Brannock of Lexington, Ky.

Mrs. Williams will be greatly missed in her community, and a great host of neighbors and friends sincerely sympathize with her aged companion and her devoted children in this irreparable loss which they have suffered.

Tahoka Teachers Win Ball Games

The undefeated Tahoka school faculty basketball team will play the Draughan's Business College team, Lubbock, in the Tahoka gymnasium next Wednesday night. The high school girls will also play some team, yet undetermined.

The faculty team defeated the strong Postex Mills team Tuesday night 49 to 22, and previously has won over New Lynn, Tahoka, and O'Donnell all-star teams, and over Lamesa faculty team, Dodson, Harris, Harlow, Hufstader and Smith compose the Tahoka faculty team.

High school boys and girls teams have not been faring so well, having lost most, if not all, of their games played so far.

DIST. ATTY. SMITH HAS AN ASSISTANT

A son weighing 7 pounds 10½ ounces was born to District Attorney and Mrs. Truett Smith at 1:36 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, January 13, in the West Texas Hospital in Lubbock. The little fellow has been named Gordon Truett in honor of his dad and of the late Judge Gordon B. McGuire. Both mother and babe are doing well.

Man Is Arrested In $28,000 O'Donnell Mail Theft Case

Carl Williams, Brownwood, Held; Men Questioned In Tahoka Recently On Case.

Carl E. Williams of Brownwood was placed in jail at San Angelo Wednesday on a charge filed in the federal court charging him with receiving and concealing stolen property in connection with the theft of $28,000 from a mail pouch being sent from Dallas to the First National Bank of O'Donnell a little more than two months ago.

The mail pouch was taken off the mail car at Slaton to be transferred to the branch line of railway extending from Slaton to Lamesa, according to evidence disclosed soon after the theft, but no trace of it was found after reaching that point. It was stated.

Federal officers, Santa Fe railway officers, sheriffs and other officers in this part of the state have been working on the case since, but they have given out no information as to the progress they have been making.

It is known that Sheriff B. L. Parker and other officers here and in surrounding towns have been working on the case. One or more persons have been questioned by the officers here recently but they have permitted no information to leak out as to the evidence, if any, which they have unearthed.

The money shipped and which mysteriously disappeared consisted of four packages, one containing $17,000 in ten-dollar, twenty-dollar, and fifty-dollar bills; another containing $11,000 in one dollar and five-dollar bills; and the third consisting of $950 in half-dollars, dimes, and nickels.

Since Williams is merely charged with receiving and concealing stolen property it is evident that officers believe that other parties actually stole the money.

Highway 84 Work May Start Soon

County Judge P. W. Goad reports that he has been authoritatively informed that the hardsurfacing of highway No. 84 from Tahoka to Post at an early date is being planned provided sufficient funds are found available. That matter will probably be determined by the state highway commission within the next two weeks.

A WPA project has been submitted to the state highway commission and is now pending before that body. If sufficient funds are in sight, it is contemplated that work on the highway will begin within the next 60 days.

It is to be hoped that the commission will find it possible to begin this work, for No. 84 east of town is getting in rather bad condition. The heavy traffic this fall, the meager rainfall recently, and a few high winds have made the surface bumpy and rough. Many of our citizens are becoming rather impatient at the delay in the construction of this important highway, and they will be grateful to the highway commission if it can speed up the matter.

Frazier Celebrates 11th Anniversary

L. F. Frazier, proprietor of the Frazier Produce, says that on the 12th day of January he rounded out eleven years of service here in the produce business.

During that time he has done an excellent business and paid out many a dollar to the farmers and housewives of Lynn county for produce. It would be interesting to know how much. Also, it would be interesting to know just how much all the produce houses here pay out annually. Some time we hope to be able to gather these figures.

90 At Rotary Club Night Meeting For Ladies

Jay and "Skeeter" Slaughter of Post Furnished Program; Two New Members.

Like every public meeting that the Tahoka Rotary Club has had, the annual affair in which the Rotary-Anns were the guests of the club at a banquet served in the American Legion-Hall last Thursday night was a pronounced success.

Many members of the Post and Lamesa clubs, and their wives, were also present and the attendance was really larger than had been expected. Plates had been laid for 70 and almost 90 guests were present. This unexpected large number in attendance devolved some extra duties upon the ladies who served the meal, the members of the American Legion Auxiliary, but they met the emergency in a fine way.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Slaughter of Post, widely known as Jay and "Skeeter," had been invited to present the program for the evening, which they did in their own inimitable way.

Jay related many of the pleasant and interesting experiences he and "Skeeter" recently enjoyed while on a visit in Old Mexico, and they exhibited many articles of wearing apparel, home furnishings, curios, trinkets, etc., some of which were passed around for inspection by the auditors. They also exhibited a couple of reels of moving pictures, showing, among other things, a typical bull fight.

Proceeding the program, President Wynne Collier requested each one present to rise in his or her turn, give the name, residence, and vocation. Some of the answers were laugh-provoking.

Two new members were also received into the club, R. P. Weathers and Fred Bucy, to whom Rollin McCord spoke a few words of welcome on behalf of the club.

J. B. Nance's Son Dies Suddenly

J. B. Nance left Thursday morning in response to a telephone message stating that his youngest son, Norris Nance, 24, had been found dead in his bed at Longview. It is supposed some heart ailment was the cause of his death.

Young Nance visited his mother at Plainview just last week and on Thursday Mr. Nance took him and two other young fellows to Fort Worth. They were bound for Houston, where Norris expected to take passage to Europe. He had been across the Atlantic four times before. Mr. Nance heard no more from him until he received the sad message Thursday morning of this week.

About four or five years ago, another son of Mr. Nance was struck and fatally injured by an automobile at Odessa.

Miss Gertrude Bishop of this city is a cousin of Norris Nance.

Negro Woman Died Friday

A negro woman, Mary Hudlin by name, about 35 years of age, who had been residing on the Wilson Edwards farm near New Home for only a short time, died at 4 o'clock Friday morning of last week, and the body was buried in the cemetery for colored folks here Saturday afternoon. Rev. Hollins, pastor of the colored Baptist Church here, conducted funeral services, at the grave, and burial was under direction of the Harris Funeral Home.

The woman had been sick for a long time, we understand, and the husband had gone back to some point in Central Texas to try to sell some personal property and raise some funds to have her treated, and she died while he was there. She left a daughter and other relatives here.

Lynn And Lubbock Counties Will Pass Nueces' All Time State Cotton Record

Little Want Ad Gets The Results

Three weeks ago J. L. Holt inserted a little notice in our classified ad column stating that he had found a purse containing money and other articles. Last week a letter came from Marvin McDaniel at Alpine, Arizona, describing a purse and its contents which he had lost here. He had read the ad in the paper. The description he sent fit to a gnat's heel, and the purse has been sent to him.

Moral: Want ads get results.

Baptists Planning New Building

With the rush of the fall season over, members of the Baptist Church are laying their plans to begin work on the construction of the second story of their church building within the next few weeks.

More than $7,000 in money has been pledged already, a portion of which has been paid in, and committees are planning to greatly increase this amount in the near future.

On Tuesday of this week a committee of the church consulted with three different contractors in Lubbock, all of whom agreed to submit bids on Thursday of next week. Each of these has been furnished a blue print and a copy of the plans and specifications. It is possible that others will wish to submit bids also.

Architects were employed and drew up the plans several months ago, but at that time it was not deemed advisable to undertake building operations until fall. When fall came on, everybody became so busy that it was almost impossible to give the necessary time to the matter. Now, the members think, is an opportune time to renew their energies and many of them have recently expressed the determination to put the job over.

It is very probable that a contract will be let next Thursday and that material will be placed on the ground at an early date.

New Produce House Is Opened In City

F. T. Thorpe and family, consisting of a wife and baby, have recently moved to Tahoka and he has opened a Produce business in one of the compartments of the Larkin building recently vacated by Mr. Larkin and Arnold Houston.

Our readers will note his announcement as proprietor of the Plains Cooperative, Inc., in this issue of the News.

Carriers Attend District Meeting

G. M. Reid, J. P. West, W. A. Reddell, and H. L. Roddy attended a meeting of the West Texas Rural Letter Carriers Association held in Lubbock Saturday night.

They report that some important matters were discussed and considered, W. E. Suddarth of O'Donnell and Paul Attaway of Big Spring being the principal speakers.

Mr. Attaway was a brief visitor in Tahoka Sunday morning and we had the pleasure of meeting him personally. He is a prominent member and past president of the Texas Rural Letter Carriers Association.

Second Hand Store Will Open Soon

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Sims have leased the main floor space of the Larkin building at the Southwest corner of the square and are preparing to open a second hand store therein within a few days.

They recently removed to Tahoka from Albany.

Cotton—142,160 bales!

That is the number of bales that had been ginned in Lynn county from the crop of 1937 up till Monday, according to reports gathered by the News from every gin in the county.

A representative of the News visited in person the five gins at O'Donnell, three at Wilson, two at New Home, and one at each of the following places: T-Bar, Wells, Newmoore, Gordon, Wayside, Hackberry, Lakeview and Petty—18 in all. Then we telephoned the following gins: Five in Tahoka, three at Grassland, one at Draw, and one at New Lynn—ten in number. We believe that we got absolutely accurate reports from every one of these gins.

The results were as follows:

|-----------------------------------|---------|
| Gordon | 1,953 |
| Wayside (Hardberger, new gin 256) | |
| Petty | 2,623 |
| Hackberry | 3,961 |
| Lakeview | 3,954 |
| Newmoore | 3,976 |
| New Lynn | 4,163 |
| T-Bar | 4,379 |
| Wells | 5,024 |
| Draw | 6,954 |
| New Home, 2 gins | 9,761 |
| Wilson, 3 gins | 11,698 |
| Grassland, 3 gins | 16,091 |
| Tahoka, 5 gins | 28,558 |
| O'Donnell, 5 gins | 36,849 |
| Total, count 'em | 142,160 |

It now seems certain that the total will reach approximately 150,000 bales, unless some that is now in the fields is left there, on account of the low price, for the cows to eat.

Of course most of the cotton being gathered now is "snaps" or "bolles" and commands a very low price.

SAMOAN CLIPPER IS LOST, Captain Musick and Six Others Die as Flying Boat Is Destroyed Near Pago Pago, Samoa

Budget Message Summary

MORE vitally important than his annual message on the state of the nation was President Roosevelt's budget message to congress. In it he forecast a deficit of $1,088,129,000 for the current fiscal year which ends on June 30, and a deficit of $949,000,000 for the 1939 fiscal year.

National defense appropriations will total $991,300,000, an increase of $34,300,000. Later the President may ask for additional funds to construct several extra naval vessels.

304,000, a decrease of $841,356,000 from the present fiscal year.

The deficit will be financed through Social Security and other trust funds and not through public borrowing.

The deficit estimate for the fiscal year which ends June 30 has been raised from $695,000,000 to $1,088,100,000, because of the business recession.

Expenditures for new highways, new rivers and harbors projects, new public buildings, new reclamation projects and other new public works will be reduced sharply.

The public debt will reach a record high of $38,528,200,000 on June 30, 1939.

More G.O.P. Programs

BERTRAND SNELL, minority leader in the house, and Col. Frank Knox, Republican candidate for the vice presidency in 1936, have set forth programs for the G. O. P. and other opponents of the New Deal.

Mr. Snell in a radio address proposed to restore confidence to the investing public and revive business activity by stopping wasteful expenditures, balancing the budget and liquidating Roosevelt social and economic experiments that he said have inspired distrust of the government and fears of the destruction of the capitalist system.

Colonel Knox, speaking at a dinner in Cleveland, declared that the Republican party must turn away from the high protective tariff, which it has championed for decades, and recognize that the time has come to reduce tariffs to meet changing conditions.

"Protect wage standards, yes!" he said. "Continue to protect monopoly, no!"

War Vote Plan Killed

REPRESENTATIVE LOUIS LUDLOW'S war referendum resolution will not be acted on at present, for the house, by a vote of 209 to 198, left it in committee for the remainder of the session.

This was a victory for the administration forces and was brought about after President Roosevelt himself had taken a hand in the controversy. Through a letter to Speaker Bankhead the President had warned congress that adoption of the resolution would hamper any chief executive in the conduct of foreign relations and would lead other nations to believe they could violate American rights with impunity.

Jackson Day Feasts

DEMOCRATS who partook of Jackson day banquets in various large cities paid about $250,000 into the purse of the party's national committee. At the dinner in Washington President Roosevelt pleaded with the nation to understand that his administration believes it is helping and not hurting business by the drive against monopolistic practices.

At the New York banquet Jim Farley staged the debut of Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, as a candidate for the governorship of the Empire state. The young lawyer, who has attracted public attention recently by attacks on big business, was the principal speaker. At a luncheon party he admitted he would be the Democratic nominee for governor "if the party wants me."

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Bailing Out With Death" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Adventure flies high in the air today, boys and girls, with Joseph Baitric of Brooklyn, N. Y. How would you like to step out of a plane several thousand feet in the air with a parachute strapped on to your shivering body and then just as you started your first jump find that Fate had chosen you for an accident?

With four other students Joe took off from Chanute Field at Rantoul, Ill., on June 5, 1931, to make their "maiden" jumps. The boys went up in five 0-38 planes, Joe says, flying in formation. The other four made their jumps without incident and Joe saw them all and thought it would be a cinch. When it came his turn, he swallowed the lump in his throat, stepped into space and pulled the cord of the chute.

The chute opened but instead of floating free in the air Joe felt a sudden tug and heard a ripping sound and looking up saw to his horror that the shrouds had fouled the plane and he HUNG SUSPENDED FROM THE TIP OF THE PLANE'S WING!

Any aviator knows what a desperate situation pilot and jumper were now in. Joe saw that the parachute impeded the movement of the "flipper" and knew at once that the plane could never land without that control. The pilot knew it, too. Of course, he could have jumped—and saved himself—but they don't do things like that in the air corps.

Around and around the field went the paralyzed plane with Joe swinging helplessly in mid-air. Joe, for the life of him, couldn't figure how he could possibly escape with his life. Even if the plane did make a landing he was certain to be dashed to death on the hard ground and he saw that his chute was so damaged that it would no longer support him.

Well, sir, down on the ground those hard-boiled flyers had seen the predicament of flyer and jumper and were getting their heads together. Joe could see them rushing around and finally he saw a plane take off. It didn't give him much hope though because he couldn't figure what they could do for him. So he just hung there and waited for death.

Looked Like a Sure Crash.

The worst of it was, Joe could see that his plane was gradually losing height—only the powerful "Conqueror" engine was keeping it from crashing. The pilot was having his hands full keeping the ship up as Joe's body cut down the speed in half. And Joe, meantime, was swinging crazily around and around like a top on a string and getting so seasick that he didn't care what happened.

It seemed to take hours for that other plane to come alongside of them but, when it did, Joe says, he felt a lot better. Somebody had chalked "follow me" on the fuselage of the other plane and Joe's pilot was doing the best he could to obey. Joe recognized the flyers in the second plane—they waved encouragement to him and he waved back—a last salute to the dead!

Ordered to Cut Loose.

The other plane maneuvered into a position above Joe and the man in the rear cockpit started lowering something on a string. Joe couldn't make out what it was for a few minutes—he was swinging so—but, as the object came nearer, he saw that it was a butcher knife.

THAT MEANT ORDERS TO CUT HIMSELF LOOSE!

A piece of delicate flying followed as the pilot of the plane above tried to bring the swinging knife within Joe's reach. Joe grabbed at it several times and then an air current would snatch it from him.

It seemed to Joe that this went on for hours—it did last for over half an hour—when finally the knife struck Joe in the chest and he grabbed it and held on. The string broke and floated away. IT WAS UP TO HIM NOW.

Joe held the knife firmly and looked at the shrouds of his chute. "Shrouds" was a good name for those cords, he thought, then he raised his arm—held his breath—and drew the sharp knife across them. The strands parted. Joe fell.

Down, down, down, his body shot straight for the earth. As he turned over and over in his fall Joe could see the hangars beneath him. He mumbled a little prayer.

And then, boys and girls, Joe pulled the cord of his emergency chute and floated safely to Mother Earth.

Come to think of it, I guess I didn't mention before that he had a second chute but you see Joe didn't mention it either until the end of his story, and I—well, I thought it was a secret.

CHAPTER XI

Dirk went to bed in the grip of a mild elation which made it difficult to distinguish between sleep and dreams. He awoke to a sense of commotion. A messenger was having trouble rousing Leonardo from much-needed sleep and presently the two of them were closeted with Don Jorge. Arnaldo joined Dirk at coffee and told him what was up: Don Jorge was doing his stuff two hours earlier than usual. The next moment Senor Maximiliano and his companions came out and started for the northeastern bastion. Dirk and Adan hurried to their rooms, Adan to get a pair of binoculars and Dirk to fetch his Springfield. They caught up with Don Jorge and his party while the blind man was still groping his way up the turret stairs. Emerging into the glare of the morning sun Leonardo's glance fell on Dirk's rifle and immediately turned moist with envy. He crossed the blue-black barrel as though he touched a woman's cheek, then looked up pleadingly. Dirk laughed, let him test the gun for balance, but promptly took it back again.

Arrived beside the bastion, Arnaldo leaned against it and focused his field-glasses on a slowly moving pillar of dust. Presently the horsemen strung out along a ledge of rocky soil and he could count them. "Three more than yesterday," he announced.

"And four more yesterday than the day before," muttered Leonardo. "If that's so," said Don Jorge. "Dorado must have escaped with more cash than I thought. As long as it holds out his troop will continue to grow."

"Do they always ride on the other side of the barranca?" asked Dirk. "Of course," answered two voices at once.

"Why?" "For the same reason we would be fools not to stay on this side," said Don Jorge. "The barranca is a barrier that runs for 20 miles. A child would have more sense than to lay himself open to getting trapped with an impassable ditch at his back."

"It was a stupid question," said Dirk, "but since we have plenty of time let me ask another. What's the sense of the daily ride? What does Dorado get out of it?"

"The tactical idea," said Don Jorge patiently, "is to intercept both reinforcements and escape. Incidentally Pepe wouldn't be averse to plunder in the way of ransom."

"He's holding a package now," murmured Arnaldo. "What package?" asked Don Jorge quickly.

"Yesterday I watched him capture a gringo by the name of Blackadder."

"Blackadder!" cried Dirk. "Why, Blackadder—" He stopped and caught his breath. "Blackadder is the name of Miss Sewell's stepfather!" Glancing around he saw a rough table and two rusted iron chairs. He pushed the table so it stood end on against the parapet which was several inches higher.

"How far are they?" he asked. "What are you doing?" said Arnaldo, looking down. "Never mind what I'm doing," said Dirk. "How far off are they?"

"Between one and two kilometers, senior," answered Leonardo mournfully.

"Eight kilometers make five miles," calculated Dirk aloud. "Leonardo, when you're sure they're under a thousand meters, sing out. What about it, Adan—can you spot Dorado? Is he riding at the head?"

"I'll tell you in a minute," said Adan, only half interested. "There's a bunch of three in the lead and I think he's on the alazon. Yes, that's Pepe; he's riding the big sorrel."

Dirk gauged the wind, set his sights for a thousand yards, loaded his rifle and stretched out, face down, on the table. Not wishing to scratch the barrel he made a wad of his felt hat and fixed it for a rest in the angle made by the parapet with the bastion.

"Don't forget, Leonardo; the minute you're sure they're under a kilometer."

"What's the use?" said Leonardo gloomily. "They won't come within range."

"Never mind about that," said Dirk sharply. "You do as I say." Several minutes elapsed before Leonardo murmured, "When they come to the first row of the maguay plantation it will be only 800 meters and they will turn."

"Damn!" muttered Dirk but promptly relaxed all his muscles, drew a long slow breath and held it. His cheek caressed the smooth oiled oak of the stock, his fingers closed on the rough grips. Taking a full breath, he fired. The bullet sang the high song of a bullet that finds no mark. A second can seem long, sometimes it can be divided into sections. An age after Leonardo had given up hope of a possible ricochet which by a miracle might hit Dorado on the bounce a puff of dust came back at his astonished eyes from far beyond the riders. While amazement still paralyzed his vocal chords he saw every horse sink on its haunches and come to a slithering stop. It was what Dirk had planned. In that instant of suspended movement he drew the foresight down to the vanishing point, steadied and fired again. There came the answering thud of a hit. Dorado's big sorrel squatted, rushed from under his rider and fell dead. "I missed him!" groaned Dirk. "I killed the horse!"

Joyce came racing along the esplanade. "Who did that?" she asked angrily. "Who fired that shot?"

Already Dorado had been swept up by two of his followers and a whole troop was riding away at a gallop; behind remained the still mound of the sorrel, a dark monument suddenly erected against the shimmering gold of the desert. Dirk rolled over and sat up.

"You're a butcher!" cried Joyce, her eyes blazing. "You come to my house, an uninvited guest, and amuse yourself by shooting horses!"

Dirk's cheeks flushed with anger. "The man out there shot me up fore we start. You're going to ride Rayo because he's a shade lighter and not so touchy in the mouth. If you do what I say, you'll be all right; if you don't you may break a neck—the horse's or yours."

"I'll be good," said Joyce, impressed by his earnestness. "What are your orders?"

"Walk a mannered-horse for half a mile," said Dirk, "and you can do anything with him; start him off with a rush and he'll ride your arms out of their sockets. So we're going to take them away slow."

As they passed through the great gate there was a bit of prancing and champing on the bit but with soothing words and a light hand Dirk coaxed Tronido back into a walk and a moment later Joyce persuaded Rayo to follow suit. They rode along the faint trail, scarcely used save by ox-carts, which provided the sole access for cars to the hacienda. The road meandered more or less parallel to the barranca which widened by almost imperceptible gradations the farther they went. At last Dirk permitted a trot and turned amused eyes on Joyce. To his amazement she took it quite easily, leaned to it, caught its rhythm and laughed a happy laugh.

"Oh, Dirk!" "Joyce!"

On the same impulse they slowed the horses again and stared at each other. "That was funny," said Joyce.

"Wasn't it?" agreed Dirk. He urged Tronido into a trot, then lifted him into an easy canter and held him there. "How are you making it?" he asked.

"Fine," said Joyce, "but you tell me." "Ease your back a bit and sit into the saddle. That's the stuff. Are you game for a gallop while we're still headed away from home?"

"Go ahead," said Joyce, and they did.

The horse under her seemed to flatten out. No jouncing up and down, no swerving from a straight line—only the feel of mighty muscles rippling rhythmically.

They rode back more slowly and as they approached the hacienda she turned on him a face so glowing he felt his heart skip a beat and then do three in one.

"Well?" she asked. "Do you want to know the truth?" "The whole truth."

"I thought it would take you a month to learn what you already know." He jumped off, handed her his reins to hold, tore down a high bean pole and laid it like a bar between two maguay plants. "Made to order," he commented as he mounted. "Watch me, then do exactly the same. Just stick on and leave the rest to Rayo."

She jumped the bar—once with a gasp of astonishment at her success, then ten times more with steadily increasing confidence and improving style. She would have been content to keep on for the rest of the day had not Dirk taken his revenge.

"If you don't let up," he remarked dryly, "you're going to find out there are more ways than one of killing a horse."

After an afternoon spent in grooming the horses for sheer love of the work he came to dinner aglow from what he called an earned bath. Already he regretted having brought no change beyond a single lounge suit but tonight Arnaldo, save for shoulders exaggerated beyond nature and a wasp-like waist, was dressed in like manner. Joyce had put on black—not the semi-evening frock of her first and last appearance at El Tenebroso, but it had an equal simplicity of line that gave her an almost sculptural appearance. Changing her clothes had changed her mood. Gracious and ready with her answers she yet was so distraught as to give an impression of inner stillness. Though she avoided looking directly at Dirk and Adan she was thinking of them, but thinking more of herself. What had come over her last night? Which person was she—the woman of no age who had been kissed and had kissed back, or the girl who had set shoulder to shoulder on the parapet with a companion to whom she had poured out her heart as though she talked to another self? Were there fibers within her that responded to music alone and others that reverberated solely to the sidereal harmony of moon, planet and star? She wondered.

Dirk was engrossed in a masterly discussion of agrarianism between Don Jorge and Arnaldo. Fresh from the capital, Adan was packed to the gills with theory and regarded the parceling out of all the land in the republic as an ultimate panacea for every ill. Don Jorge, rooted in the soil, aware of its divergence and as close to the peon as he was to his tight-fitting charro breeches, admitted the cure only to damn it with a qualifying phrase—"in a thousand years."

"You can't overleap education the way you vault a mangy horse," he exploded. "You'd have to have a mildly educated peon, but first catch your educated executive—if you can. It isn't enough for a ruler to be honest, altruistic and stuffed with beneficent theories. Unless he's greater than God he can't bridge the gulf of ignorance between a peon and a tractor, nor grow enough gramma grass on a hundred hectares to give that peon's babies milk, nor change the sweep of wheat lands into lush bottoms crammed with garden truck. You agrarians run around with a foot-rule yelling, 'Behold the measure of all things!' You can measure a back yard with a footrule, but not a prairie. Our campesinos, dumb as they are, can see that. Do you know what they're saying?"

"No," said Adan smilingly, for he loved discussion for the talk's sake alone. "Tell me." "They've heard what happened in the north and they're giving it out they'll do the same here."

"What's that?" asked Dirk. "Crop the ears off any agrarians who set foot on La Barranca. They'll do it too, for though the peon has no education he has his backlog of fundamental knowledge. He doesn't have to starve to death to see starvation on the way any more than he had to learn to read and write before he could make up his mind the three model houses put up by my master and friend, Cutler Sewell, were no good."

Joyce looked up. "Why weren't they? I've always wondered." "Because your father's education led him into the belief three rooms are better than one, while the peon's backlog of knowledge has taught him one room is infinitely better than three since the sum of the warmth of his kitchen fire, his milch goat, his wife, six children and a couple of pigs constitutes, at no expense, exactly the sort of central heating system which is slowly making England a livable country."

They laughed, rose and separated; it was already late, there was no need tonight to make the rounds.

How does a girl, lacking long social training and apparently innocent of finesse, leave one man in the lurch and walk off with another without either of them knowing how it happened? Dirk paused to ask Don Jorge a single unimportant question, but when he stepped out on the balcony Joyce and Adan were nowhere to be seen. He walked to the right hopefully until turning the angle opened a long empty vista.

Joyce and Adan Were Nowhere to Be Seen.

without the slightest provocation; why shouldn't I pay him back in his own coin?"

"But you didn't hit him," cried Joyce, "you shot a horse—you killed a poor horse."

"What bunk!" intervened Arnaldo, lowering his field-glasses. "For one thing I'm sure he did hit Dorado though it may have been only through the leg. Add to that he just missed freeing you of all your troubles and has a bomb-proof alibi besides—shooting at a bandit who's holding an American for ransom. Bunk to you and the dead horse!"

"What American?" asked Joyce, her attention seized. "Man named Blackadder," said Dirk. "Ever hear of him?"

"Blackadder!" gasped Joyce. "Mr. Helm Blackadder? Why—" "I've thought of one more for the list!" interrupted Arnaldo excitedly, laying an affectionate hand on Dirk's shoulder. "He's lifted the siege. You, he, and I—for a day or two anyway—we can go anywhere."

He turned to Leonardo. "What's become of Dorado's silver-plated car?"

"It's in Toluca where he always sent it," explained Leonardo, "to save the time it takes to drive around the barranca."

"So," said Adan. "We can go whenever we like—on foot or a horse."

Don Jorge lifted his chin. "Leonardo?"

"Senor." "Tell all the men they can take a six hours' sleep and the women to prepare a big feed for them when they wake. Open the gates and let the children go out to round up whatever small stock was left outside. As for you, Adan, give a blind man your arm; I want to have a talk with you."

Dirk was left alone with Joyce. "Fine kettle of fish," he muttered. "Now that I've fixed things so we could go for a gallop on the hunters—perhaps even jump them—you have to be sore! How long does it take you to snap out of a grouch?"

"I'm out now," said Joyce, cheeks and eyes already alight with anticipation. "Come along."

Ten minutes later, with the help of Tobalito, he had saddled the hunters and was ready to give her a leg up. He faced her and spoke gravely. "Listen. This horse is called Tronido and that one's Rayo. Do those names mean anything to you?" "Thunder and Lightning," said Joyce. "Are you trying to frighten me?"

"No; only fill you with sense be-

A Lift Toward Spring

GOOD frocks and true are these currently exhibited by your favorite designers, Sew-Your-Own. There's an ultra-polished model for informal evenings (dancing and that sort of thing), called the "Good-night frock." Then there's the more home-loving "Good-morning" number, and to complete the trio, a swell little afternoon frock for tea-time goings-on. Why not spend happy days ahead in these very frocks? All you need to do, you know, is to Sew, Sew, Sew-Your-Own!

Pattern 1410 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1/4 yard contrast for trimming sash as pictured. Pattern 1438 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material. Pattern 1211 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 3 3/4 yards of 35-inch material, plus 1/4 yard contrasting for collar and cuffs. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Spring Frock. The girl who has a flare for streamlining will see at once that the frock at the left is meant for her—just for her. She will make it of satin if she's thinking ahead to Spring; of wool if her mind is on the present-as-near-future. She will puff the sleeves gently, give the giraffe tie a fair but firm smugging-up, adjust the chic cowl neck—and she'll be something lovely to look at. Yes, Milady, this is the "Good-night frock" and if it's the last thing you do, you must add it in your new wardrobe.

Brought Prices Down At the beginning of the century only the rich could afford silk hosiery. Since then advertising has created a demand that has resulted in better and less expensive production methods, provided many thousand additional jobs, and reduced the price to the consumer to a point where practically all can wear silk hosiery if they wish.

To Start the Day. When you greet the little family with that bright and cheery "Good morning," be sure your frock reflects an equally sweet note. Sew-Your-Own's most assuring number to this end is pictured above center. With a copy or two in gay gingham or seersucker you'll breeze through your day's work like nobody's business. The shirtwaist styling offers style and comfort that make this your best bet for early season's wear.

Does your laxative make you SICK in the STOMACH? The first thing you want when you're constipated is a good thorough cleaning out. That's why you buy a laxative. But who said you had to take a rough bitter dose that makes you sick in the stomach? Taking a laxative can be just as pleasant as eating a piece of delicious chocolate—provided you take Ex-Lax. It gets thorough results—but smoothly, easily, without throwing your intestinal system out of whack, without causing nausea, stomach pains or weakness.

A Go-Gittin' Style. And for a charming "Good afternoon," choose a frock with plenty on the personality side. Such is the new young model at the right. Buttons in a line down the front tell you in so many dots and dashes that here you have "go-gittin'" style, for Spring, 1938. Princess lines cared for fastidiously by a belt, and a collar with much of what it takes—these are things that prompt Sew-Your-Own to put this frock in its Fashion-First Review for the Spring Season. Make your version soon, Milady. That invitation to tea will find you unafraid and eager to go.

EX-LAX THE ORIGINAL CHOCOLATED LAXATIVE

A few minutes' study of your garden soil just before planting may make a marked difference in your success as a gardener. Clayey soils require the most careful handling, but they are heavily productive. Sandy soils are "early" and sandy loams are just about ideal for most home garden crops.

A BILL TO LYNCH THE CONSTITUTION

The people of the South do not favor nor defend lynching.

They, in fact, have almost stamped out this crime.

Considering the provocation, they have shown a restraint of their passions the past few years that is most commendable.

The people of the South understand the negro and get along with him better, than do the people of any other section of our country.
While denying him social equality, yet as a rule they treat him better industrially than do the people of other sections. Good negroes rarely ever have any trouble with the whites in the South. It is only the criminal and the impudent among the negroes of this section that bring trouble upon themselves. No negro is ever lynched in the South except for the most heinous and revolting crimes and lynchings even in such cases have been steadily growing fewer and fewer.

And yet Northern Democrats, with the apparent approval of the Administration, seem determined to push through Congress the so-called anti-lynching bill over the vehement protests of Southern Democrats, many of whom have been just as loyal to the President and the party as have his most enthusiastic supporters from other parts of the country.

It has been pointed out by them time and again that this bill would flagrantly violate the Constitution and that it would destroy almost the last vestige of state's rights. Even Senator Borah of Idaho, Independent Republican, who has voted with the Democrats more often than he has with the Republicans on controversial issues for many years, has joined with Southern Democrats in their protest that this bill is unnecessary, unconstitutional, and vio-lative of the principle of state sovereignty.

The bill in fact does not attempt to punish the people who engage in a lynching. It undertakes to punish the peace officers and the whole people of a county in which a lynching occurs. It would send to a federal prison any state or county peace officer who permits any prisoner to be taken from his possession and lynched. It makes no difference how powerful and determined the mob may be, the sheriff must defend his prisoner with his own life or spend a term in Leavenworth or some other federal prison. Furthermore, it would assess a penalty of $2,000 to $10,000 against any county in which a lynching occurs, payable to the family of the victim.

In other words, the bill undertakes to punish the innocent for the crimes of the guilty—all the people of a county for the acts of a few or the failure or impotency of a sheriff.

All this is sought, not because lynching is so prevalent, but in order to win the vote of the negro in the cities of the North and East. As proof of this, the very terms of the bill exempt murders committed by mobs of strikers as well as gang murders from the operation of the law. Most of these occur in the North and it would not be good politics for Northern Democrats to undertake to punish these classes of criminals.

Thus, in order to cinch the negro vote for themselves and their party, these Northern Democrats are willing to endanger the very sovereignty of the states. They are willing to barter the rights and the good will of the white people of the South for the favor of the negro politicians and the negro masses of Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and other northern cities.

The strange thing about this whole fight is that the great masses of the people of the South seem to be indifferent. When Northern Republicans a few years after the Civil War sought to impose the "Force Bill" on the South, the people rose up in vehement protest. But when Northern Democrats now offer a bill scarcely less offensive, the people of the South lie supinely on their backs, and except for the brave and valiant fight being made by a number of Southern Senators, they scarcely raise a whimper.

Is it because we ourselves have our feet in the federal swill trough?
Are we willing to trade all that has been dear to us throughout our history for this mess of pottage? It would seem so.

"GIMME! GIMME!"

This seems to be a "Gimme" age.
We all seem to be wanting the government to give us something.

Time was when Southern gentlemen—Texans—felt a tinge of shame when compelled by circumstances to ask the State or the Federal Government for any kind of hand-out.

But now it seems to be different.
We are all wanting a hand-out of some kind from Washington or from Austin.

Not only are we wanting a handout, but if it is not forthcoming, or if it is more meagre than we had hoped, many of us are ready to shout threats and imprecations upon the powers that be, and we brazenly demand more hand-outs, and bigger hand-outs.

Many, many good men have gotten into this frame of mind. They seem to think that it is the duty of the Government, state or federal, to support them. If a benevolent government does render financial aid, they take it as a matter of right and do not even thank their benefactor. If the government fails to render the desired aid, they proceed to cuss the government, and all in official position who, they think, may be responsible for the refusal.
They even band themselves together and put out candidates for office who are pledged to give them all they want.

This reminds us of a thing that has happened in many a business house over and over again. An apparently able-bodied man comes in and asks for alms. When you turn him down, he goes out the door muttering curses.

Occasionally a man will come in whose family is in real distress.
With evident embarrassment and humility he makes his plight known.
You help him cheerfully and he thanks you profusely. Even if you turn him down, he does not curse you; he apologizes for asking you the favor.

Which of these men really gains your respect and sympathy?

We believe that our State and Federal governments should bend every effort to see that the really needy do not suffer.

On the other hand, we believe that the really worthy ones will feel deeply grateful to the Government for extending aid, great or small, and will not go about blatantly cussing the Government for cutting off their rations and threatening political death to those legislators and officials who may have failed to respond to every brazen demand they make.

O that we could regain some of our lost pride and could revive in our souls the old-time spirit of self-reliance.

President Roosevelt frankly and boldly asserted in a radio address a few days ago that his first vote was cast for a Republican for President.
He voted for his distant relative, Theodore Roosevelt, he said because he regarded Theodore as a better Democrat than the regular Democratic nominee, and he declared that he had never regretted his vote. Andrew Jackson Stricklin of the Terry County Herald will please take note.

A GOOD LAXATIVE

On Friday of last week, the name of Stanley Reed of Kentucky was sent to the Senate by President Roosevelt for confirmation as a member of the U. S. Supreme Court to succeed Justice George Sutherland who voluntarily retire on account of age Tuesday. The appointment, in all probability, will have been confirmed before this issue of the News is in the hands of the readers. Reed is reputed to be a very able lawyer and he seems to command the respect of Democrats and Republicans, conservatives and liberals alike. Reed was first appointed to a federal post, counsel for the Farm Board, by President Hoover in 1929. Later he was appointed by President Roosevelt as counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and still later as Solicitor General. In this latter capacity he defended many of the New Deal measures before the Supreme Court. It is expected that as a member of the Court he will be a liberal constructionist along with Justices Brandies, Cardozo, Stone, and the other recent appointees, Hugo Black. That will give the ultra liberals a clear majority on the court. President Roosevelt therefore has obtained through the operation of natural laws and in the regular course of events, in a perfectly legal and constitutional manner, the objective which he sought a year ago in his proposal to "reorganize" the Supreme Court. How much better it is that this has been brought about in this manner than it would have been to have brought it about through the questionable means which he proposed. Stanley Reed will probably make a notable record as a member of this Court. We hope that no President ever succeeds or even attempts to supplant him with any sort of pack-the-court scheme.

PAIN
Get rid of it

When functional pains of menstruation are severe, take CARDUL. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician.
Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerves, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance. Get a bottle of Cardul and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.
Besides easing certain pains, Cardul aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

EDITH COUPLE MARRIED WEDNESDAY LAST WEEK

Miss Ruby Payne and Herman Renfro of the Edith community were united in marriage at 8:10 o'clock Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Martin, near Draw. Rev. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist Church there, read the marriage vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Payne of the Edith community and was practically reared there.

The groom came to the community about four years ago from Scurry, in Kaufman county. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Renfro of Scurry. He has made many friends since coming to this county, while the bride is known and loved by everyone in the community. Their hosts of friends wish for them the best of everything that life can bring.

Mrs. Renfro, for a number of years, has been the News correspondent from the Edith community.

Y. W. A. GIRLS GIVE PROGRAM AT BROWNFIELD

The members of the Y. W. A. of the Baptist Church here went to Brownfield Monday night to give a demonstration program to their recently organized Y. W. A., meeting in the home of Mrs. Avery Rogers of that city.

The program was designed to demonstrate how to conduct a regular business meeting and missionary program.

Following the program refreshments of hot punch, paradise pudding, and roasted pecans were served.

Those in attendance from Tahoka were: Misses Eunice Mullins, Lorene Reese, Esta Mae Rogers, Pauline Rhines, Jodie Bob Nevill, Edith Robertson, Robbie Milliken, Berta Hill, Jo Belle Milliken, Doris Connelly, and Mmes. C. Hufstедler and Geo. A. Dale.

INTEREST INCREASES AT NAZARENE SERVICES

There was a marked increase in interest and attendance at the services of the Church of the Nazarene over last Sunday, which we are glad to report.

The best social and moral health sign of any community or city is the fact that its people are a religious and church loving people. People who do not love their country or the community or home in which they live don't love the church or God.

A people who love their children, home, neighbors and God will frequent themselves at the House of God to praise Him for His goodness to them.

Fathers and mothers, you want your children to be the best children possible. You want good homes. You want a good country in which to live. You want good times. But you don't want disease, famine, depression, money panics, or war that unmercifully slaughters its millions, like the World War, or yonder in Spain, where fathers and sons and brothers are slaying one another, or yonder in Old China, where the horrid mists of Hell are gathering in formations like mighty storm clouds and sending their unholy and chilling breezes to far ends of the earth.

Then, for God and Christ and the Holy Spirit's sake, wake up and go to church and Sunday School next Sunday somewhere. Don't send your children, but go with them. How can they be Christian and live right when the head of the home, the fathers and mothers are so unholy? You who would criticize me for these remarks, remember that I am right when our fair land falls into the hands of a sin-avenging God, it will fall through our homes and our hands. —B. A. Fox, Pastor.

Mrs. A. M. Cade, who underwent a minor operation at a Slaton hospital, is now recuperating at her home here.

METHODIST W. M. S. MEETS WITH MRS. ANGLIN

The Woman's Missionary Society met in the home of Mrs. W. S. Anglin at 3 p. m. Monday afternoon.

The program was an Officers' training day, and was unique in that until this year officers training schools have been held in the conference and in the Districts but not in the local Auxiliaries. Each officer pledged to the president, Mrs. V. F. Jones, her loyal support during the coming year, and in reciting the duties incumbent upon their office, showed quite a bit of originality. Especially was this true of the Superintendent of Christian Social Relations. In telling what might be done for other races, she was assisted in presenting a living picture by Jane Donaldson and "Rachel" Elinor Nell Eubanks, who portrayed first the needs of negro children; second, the needs of the Japanese children.

At the close of the program, the seventeen ladies, and the two children who assisted in the program, were served delicious refreshments by the hostess, assisted by her daughter and her niece. A pleasant social half hour was spent over the tea cups. As we went homeward, all agreed it had been a very enjoyable afternoon.

The Auxiliary will meet with the President Mrs. V. F. Jones Monday, January 24.

Theme—Others.
Song—"We've a Story to Tell to the Nations," No. 253.

Devotional—Mark 14: 1-9, Mrs. Johnson.

Molelem Women—Mrs. Story.

Song—Mrs. Poer (No. 274).

Song—"Bring Them In" (No. 87).

ANOTHER GOOD DAY AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday was another good day at the Methodist Church. A nice increase in attendance at Sunday School; three additions to the church by certificate.

The Woman's Missionary Society, is taking on new life with the new year.

Don't forget next Sunday is our First Quarterly Conference. Our new presiding elder will preach and hold conference afterwards. Evening service at 7:15 o'clock.

BAPTIST W. M. S. HAS CIRCLE MEETINGS

Meeting in circles for study and preparation to undertake greater things, twenty-six women of the Baptist Church took up the study of new books Monday afternoon.

Lockett Circle, meeting with Mrs. Jim Burleson, studied the W. M. S. manual, "Things We Should Know." Moon Circle, meeting with Mrs. H. B. Howell, studied "Christ or Chaos." Walker Circle, meeting with Mrs. W. A. Reddell, studied "Christ's Gift to the Churches"; while Sallee Circle, in the home of Mrs. T. B. Burrough, studied "Training in Stewardship."

Those attending their respective circle meetings included: Mesdames R. B. McCord, G. Pennington, A. D. Seth, K. R. Durham, C. Hufstедler, Jim Burleson, H. B. Howell, H. F. St. Clair, H. M. Snowden, Geo. A. Dale, S. H. Holland, F. M. Billman, Martha Stroud, W. Fortenberry, J. R. McIntyre, W. A. Reddell, H. L. Roddy, R. C. Wells, W. O. Robertson, H. P. Cavness, E. J. Cooper, A. J. Edwards, P. W. Goad, C. T. Oliver, T. B. Burrough, and

Miss Mary Scroyer.

Next Monday the entire W. M. S. will meet at the church for the monthly business meeting. We invite all women of the church to meet with us.

They returned to Tahoka following the wedding ceremony and are preparing this week to remove to their new farm just recently purchased by Mr. Walters near Leveland.

Mr. Walters started married life right by coming in and subscribing for the Lynn County News, even before the marriage ceremony had been performed.

Of course we wish this fine young couple all the joy and happiness that life can bring.

New Warehouses At O'Donnell

(By Correspondent)

This community has suddenly become warehouse conscious. There is a reason for it. Bales of ginned cotton spread out on vacant lots were "covering the earth." Something was done about it. Four regulation size warehouses of corrugated iron on wood frame construction have been erected in a prim row on the north side of the city limits. They face on the paved loop of Highway 9 through town. Railroad trackage is available in the rear.

Besides these, the Koeniger Grain Co. warehouse is being used for cotton storage.

The end of the cotton season is not yet in sight. Gins are running day and night during this warm, sun-shiny weather.

Judge Philip Yonge of Sweetwater, formerly county judge of Dawson county, transacted business in O'Donnell Monday.

Mrs. Fay Westmoreland has resigned her position as primary teacher in O'Donnell's public school. She is assisting her father, W. L. Palmer, in his extensive and ever growing tractor business. Miss Thelma Palmer, on account of illness, was forced to take leave of absence from her father's office.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stokes and children left this week for Oregon, where they will make their home. The Stokes were among our best citizens, as well as successful Plains farmers. They plan to change from growing maize and cotton to fruit, mostly peaches. They carry with them the best wishes of all who know them for their success.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Robinson have made their home very attractive by white-washing the stucco exterior and adding venetian blinds.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gillispie of Levelland were visitors Saturday night in the home of Mrs. J. P. Bowlin.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Campbell visited Dr. Kenneth Campbell and wife of Midland over the week end.

Mr. F. M. Cox is still very ill from a stroke of paralysis. Leon Lagrone has been absent from school the last few days on account of sickness.

There was a box supper held at the school house Wednesday, Jan. 12. Forty-seven dollars was taken in, and was used for athletic equipment. We want to thank all that attended.

Mrs. Lon Light has been sick the last few days but seems to be improving.

Mrs. Jerrell Cox is substituting for Mrs. O. C. Cox this week.

W. T. Brandon has bought the Newmoore store from Mr. McLaurin and Bill Cathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rogers are spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Byron Cabiness, at O'Donnell. Mr. and Mrs. Jake Todd spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rogers.

Misses Margie Rogers and Elsie Mae and Jean Audrey Duncan spent Sunday with Jean and Margaret Brandon.

Judge W. S. Shipp of Belton was here Tuesday looking after a farm which he owns near Tahoka Lake and called at the News office to see his old-time friend, the editor, during the latter's absence.

Winner in Paralysis Fight Is Buyer of First Ticket to Ball

Doris Harrell, restored to normalcy from an infantile paralysis attack, which left her apparently a hopeless cripple ten years ago, started the campaign for the President's Birthday Celebration in Texas this week by buying the first ticket in Chairman Jesse H. Jones' State organization from George Waverley Briggs, vice chairman. Miss Harrell, freshman at Denton's Texas College for Women, now plays tennis, rides horseback, shoots a rifle, and plays the piano. "I wish the new foundation to fight infantile paralysis every success," Doris Harrell says, "I know that without the skilled treatment given to me without cost I would still be unable to walk or use my right arm." President's Birthday celebrations will be held in every county and city in Texas January 29.

D. 1938, same being the 14th day of February, A. D. 1938, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 13th day of January, A. D. 1938, the file number of which is 1205, in which suit Mrs. Ruth Butler and husband, J. W. Butler, are Plaintiffs, and Guy T. Holcomb, T. J. McDaniel, J. E. Weatherall, and if deceased, the unknown executors, administrators, and-or legal representatives of the estate of J. E. Weatherall, and the unknown heirs of said J. E. Weatherall, deceased, and their heirs or legal representatives; and Jay Planagan, and if deceased, the unknown executors, administrators, and-or legal representatives of the estate of the said Jay Planagan, and the unknown heirs of said Jay Planagan, deceased, and their heirs or legal representatives, are Defendants, the cause of action, which is in the nature of a trespass to try title suit, in said petition being alleged as follows:

That on or about July 1, 1937, Plaintiff Ruth Butler was lawfully seized and possessed, in her own separate right and estate, of the following described land and premises in Lynn County, Texas, holding and claiming the same as her separate estate in fee simple, to-wit: All of the southwest one-fourth (SW 1/4) of Section No. Thirty-seven (37), Block A-1, Certificate No. 1444, Abstract No. 385, E. That Plaintiff Ruth Butler was in possession of said land and premises, owning and claiming the same in fee simple, as aforesaid, the Defendants, and each of them, unlawfully entered in and upon said land and premises and unlawfully dispossessed and ejected Plaintiff Ruth Butler therefrom, and unlawfully withheld from Plaintiff Ruth Butler possession thereof, to her damage in the sum of Twenty-nine Hundred ($2900.00) Dollars.

That Plaintiff Ruth Butler is entitled to recover from each and all of said Defendants title and possession of said land and premises and cancellation of any and all purported rights, titles, claims, demands, or interests in and to said land and premises. That the reasonable annual rental on said land and premises is the sum of One Hundred Fifty ($150.00) Dollars per year.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray that the Defendants, and each of them, be cited in terms of the law to appear and answer hereto, and that upon final hearing Plaintiffs have judgment against the Defendants, and each of them, for title to, and possession of, the above described land and premises; for cancellation of all purported rights, titles, claims, demands, or interests in said land and premises asserted by Defendants, and each of them; that all clouds cast on Plaintiffs' title by reason thereof be cancelled, removed, and held for naught; for writ of restitution; for rents and damages; for all costs of suit; and for such other and further relief, special and general, in law or in equity, to which Plaintiffs may show themselves justly entitled, and in duty bound will ever pray.

HEREIN FAIL NOT, but have you then and there before said Court this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

WITNESS, HATTIE SERVER, Clerk of the District Court of Lynn County, Texas.

Trip Over County Will Make One Proud He Lives In Lynn

The editor and wife made a swin-around the circle Monday covering all parts of Lynn county except the southeast quarter, collecting cotton ginning statistics.

Of course we have been in every community in the county many times before but never before did we visit so many communities in a single day. If any of our resident subscribers have never taken a trip like this, they should take time out some day just to do so. They would probably come in at night prouder of their county than ever before.

From Tahoka to T-Bar, Wells, and Newmoore, thence back to O'Donnell; thence back through Tahoka to Central Church, thence north to Gordon, east and north to Hackberry and on to Southland; and then westward through the Morgan community to Wilson; on to Wayside, New Home, and Lakeview; back to Petty, thence through Dixie, and on home.

Almost every acre of the land along this route is super-fine. Just a little shallow soil in spots along the highway from Tahoka to O'Donnell. Barring these drouthy, infertile spots, the soil is almost as rich as the valley of the Nile.

We used to think that those sandy sections surrounding Newmoore were scarcely fit for cultivation. That was before the "shinnery" and the desert-like weeds had been destroyed. Most of this land has been cleared up and placed in cultivation now and there is scarcely a more attractive farming area in the entire county. The sand is deep and prone to blow, of course, but the way the cotton and corn and watermelons grow is a sight to behold.

By the way, how many tons of pie melons did you ever see piled up in a single pile? Well, we saw so many tons of them banked up on one of the McLaurin places out between Wells and Newmoore that we wouldn't undertake to guess at the pile; and the shinnery backs of the ungathered melons almost thick enough to walk upon out in the fields were visible in every direction. We are just wondering how much money a man could make raising watermelons on a quarter section of that land in a year if he had a near-by market for his products.

As one drives from that point back to O'Donnell, he thinks surely there is no finer farming area in any country than this.

But we had the same feeling in nearly every community we visited. From Gordon to Southland and then from Southland back to Wilson, over most of the route, one finds himself going into ecstasies over the richness of the soil and the beauty of the landscape.

The New Home section has long borne the reputation of being one of the best agricultural sections of the South Plains, but possibly no section is finer than the country comprising the comparatively new settlement of Lakeview. And Petty is just as fine! And so is Dixie.

It's a great county, folks. We came home in love with it. By the way, we forgot to mention some cotton we heard about.

Over at Hackberry we were told by the gin man that Clyde Halre had gathered twelve bales of cotton from seven acres, and that Roscoe Brown had gathered almost two bales per acre off of a larger field. This was not irrigated land, just pure-dee old dry farming.

Those are doubtless exceptional cases, but in almost every community there are low spots of rich soil where the excessive rainfall collected that made from a bale to a bale and a half per acre.

As for Tahoka, there is one thing that she sorely needs. That is for the T-Bar Ranch to be cut up into farms. That would mean more for the town than an oil gusher at the city limits.

And some day it will happen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Halsey of Lubbock were visitors in the editor's home Sunday afternoon. Mr. Halsey and Mrs. Hill are brother and sister.

L. S. Todd has sold his farm seven miles north of Tahoka to a Mr. Copelin of the Midway community.

Automotive Hourly Wages Up 18% As Car Prices Drop 45% Since 1925

A REPORT just made public by General Motors indicates that the hourly wages of the workers in its plants are higher than they were twelve years ago, while the price of the car "per pound" has gone down rapidly. The report also indicated that the average number of workers employed in General Motors plants for the first ten months of 1937 was 184,013, compared with a low point of 87,843 in 1932. The average earnings per week of the General Motors factory employes of 1936 was from 22 to 35 per cent above the general industrial average.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Polishing Cloths.—The cotton tops of old stockings make the best possible rags for polishing plate. They are soft and fine, and if kept clean by boiling regularly in a little milk, they will keep your silver beautifully bright.

To Keep Sink White and Shining.—Make a soap jelly by dissolving soap in warm water and adding a few tablespoons of kerosene. Keep this in a glass or wide-mouthed jar.

Orange Cup Cakes.—Two eggs, sour cream, one cup sugar, one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup melted butter, one orange. Break two eggs into cup, fill cup with sour cream. Beat with Dover egg beater. Add sugar. Beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients and then melted butter. Use grated rind of one orange for flavoring. Bake in moderate oven for 20 minutes.

Stick That Tear.—Place the torn material wrong side up on a flat surface, cover the tear with white of egg, making sure that the torn edges are close together. Place a piece of linen over it and press with a hot iron.

Reviving Transfers.—If you wish to repeat a design when doing embroidery, it is not necessary to buy a new transfer, once the original one has been ironed off. Mix an equal amount of washing blue and sugar with a little water and, using a fine brush, paint over the design on the used transfer with this mixture and leave to dry. The transfer can then be ironed off again as when new.

Lesson for January 23

MINISTERING TO PHYSICAL NEEDS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:29-45. GOLDEN TEXT—And he healed many that were sick.—Mark 1:34. PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Went to Peter's House. JUNIOR TOPIC—When Jesus Went to Peter's House. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Helping the Sick. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity's Concern for Physical Health.

"The Mystery of Painlessness" is the title of a book published some years ago, in which the author pointed out that instead of bemoaning the physical ailments of man we should thankfully recognize that much of life is without pain. There is a point to the suggestion, but one who has reached the years of maturity and who has stood shoulder to shoulder with suffering mankind is very conscious of the never-silent cry of those whose bodies are in need.

Our Lord was tender and solicitous of man. It was to him that the great host of impotent folk—the lame, the halt, the sick, and the blind—came for healing, and they came not in vain. Note, however, that in the midst of his works of mercy he did not forget his real objective, which was to deal with man's sin.

I. Healing (v. 29).
First, we find our Lord tenderly sharing the sorrow of the home of a friend. One can picture the anxious hush that hovered over the home as distressed relatives and friends sought to alleviate the suffering of the one with a fever. They knew the possibility of a serious outcome of the illness. Many of us have gone through that dark valley. All at once there was new hope, and soon there was joy. Jesus had come and had brought healing. Many of us have also had that blessed experience.

Note that the healing was instantaneous and the restoration complete. She arose to serve. This typifies God's healing of the sickness of the soul. If you are saved you are ready to stand up and serve.

Christianity is not a selfish faith, if it follows its Lord. We see in verses 32 to 34 that all the city came to his door with the diseased and demon-possessed, and he healed them all. The account of the kindly and intelligent care of the sick is written large on the pages of the history of the Christian church.

II. Praying (v. 35).
The Son of God sought out a place and a time for prayer communion with his Father. How often we who profess to follow him fail to pray at all. Certainly we need the grace and power that prayer can bring far more than Jesus did. But, we say, we are so busy. So was he. We are tired. So was he.

III. Preaching (vv. 36-38).
Jesus said, "Let us go . . . that I may preach . . . for therefore came I forth." It bears repetition in this age when men magnify the doing of mighty deeds, that while Jesus did many miracles (and not for a moment would we detract from their worth and glory) yet he repeatedly, by word and act, emphasized the importance of preaching.

Foolish though it may seem to the natural man (read I Cor. 1:18-25), preaching the gospel in the power of the Holy Spirit is now, as it has been through the centuries, God's chosen means of turning the world upside down (Acts 17:6). What a pity that churches and pastors are forsaking it for book reviews, dramas, social hours, forums, community centers, and what not! God give us a revival of great, humble, and fearless preaching of the Word!

IV. Cleansing (vv. 40-45).
There is a sense in which the cleansing of the leper was another act of healing, but leprosy is such a striking type of sin that the incident calls for special consideration.

Leprosy is like sin in that it is a destructive malady that pursues its insidious way without revealing its true nature until it is far advanced. It renders a man unclean, loathsome to himself and dangerous to others. At least such it was in the days of our Lord.

Is there no hope for the leper? Yes; Jesus has come. The smitten man cries out, "If thou wilt thou canst make me clean."

So, also, may the sinner be cleansed, for "whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Rom. 10:13). He will not turn the vilest of sinners away.

The Feeling of Power
He knows that power is unborn, and, so perceiving throws himself unhesitatingly upon his thought, instantly rights himself, stands in the erect position, commands his limbs, works miracles; just as a man who stands on his feet is stronger than a man who stands on his head.

Beauty
This is what we want—we want the vision of a calmer and simpler beauty to tranquilize us in the midst of artificial tastes.

DORIS DENE'S COLUMN

Happiness Depends on Honesty in Marriage, Writer Advises.

DEAR DORIS DENE: I am twenty-nine years old and am in love with a girl who is more intelligent than I am in many ways. She is very sensitive and I respect her and love her deeply. We have known each other for three years and I have often been unfaithful to her. She now wants to know the truth and I am afraid to tell her since I think I may lose her. She is absolutely obsessed with the idea of fidelity and something has put a suspicion into her mind. I don't know how to handle the situation and want above everything else not to lose her.—R. H. M.

ANSWER—If the girl is sensitive and imaginative, the odds are against her being kept in complete ignorance as to the wild oats you have sown. She will meet friends of yours who may be in a reminiscent mood, and if you've deceived her with some artistic lying, the shock may be greater to her nervous system than you have any idea of. Even in this day and age there are women who are idealists about love. They won't accept half-measures. They won't believe half-truths. They carry around with them a glorious vision of perfect love and the breath of suspicion corrodes their happiness and shatters their dream.

There are dozens of times when the truth is far better left unsaid when a calm acceptance of the facts of life is in order and when deception is kinder than a cruel fact.

But if a woman is so constituted that knowledge of her future husband's infidelities is absolutely necessary to her happiness—it is wiser to take no chances about reading her a book of pretty white lies.

For the type of love which is built on a dream—and which asks absolute perfection of that dream may be insubstantial—may depend entirely for its maintenance on complete truth and understanding. Therefore, disillusionment to this kind of love means not only misery and suffering but an actual departure of the grande passion.

And so, R. H. M., if your lady demands the whole and story, give it to her now. Let her know the truth before you've both crossed a bridge it's difficult to recross. Since she has insisted on this confession, you have no real right to decide that she'd much better be lied to.

TOM: It would be a happy experience for me if I could hand out a recipe to people like you whose lives have become completely tangled up with a series of mistakes if I could say comfortably: "Do this and that and you will suddenly find yourself divorced from the wrong girl and married to the right one." Over and over again these piteous stories come in—of misunderstandings and lack of faith which led to hopeless marriages. And then of reconciliation and love too late. And then the eternal cry: "What shall I do? How shall I get out of my marriage which has lasted 14 years and resulted in several children, so that I can marry the girl I've always wanted?"

Believe me, we always have to come back to the same old theme song, however dreary the sound of it: that unless two people married to the wrong mates, can break away cleanly, secure a divorce and start life over again, there is no happiness nor any hope for the love they bear each other.

Men and women undertake more than just living with each other, when they marry. They unconsciously sign a contract which is far more binding than it looks when you read the divorce statistics. They form associations and habits together—they are bound by a million infinitesimal ties, even though they have never loved each other truly and when the time comes for a great break, it isn't only the children who stand in the way of the divorce. It's their deep unconscious dependence on each other—their unwillingness to break up a married life which has become almost an institution to them.

And so, even when they're blinded by a great love and dazzled by a radiant hope of happiness they stand back, fearful to make the great break; and too weak to give up the new hope of happiness. And the result of that is miserable uncertainty for two lovers and the utter demoralization of two households.

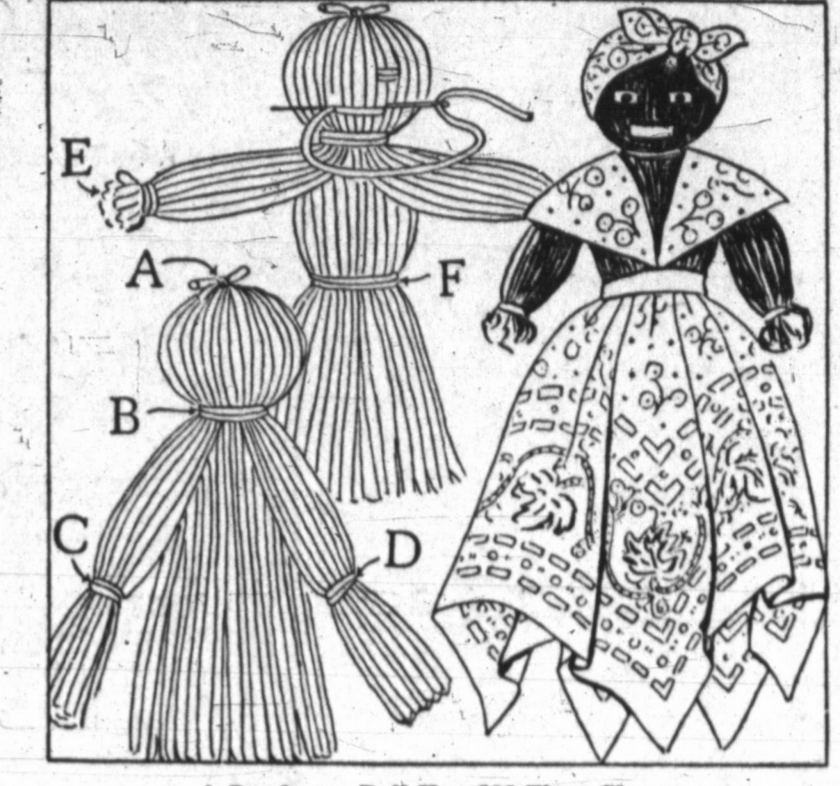

Since affairs of this kind don't stand still, Tom, I should advise you to take some step yourself. Your infatuation and hers has reached a pitch where very little will be hidden from the world in a few weeks. You must be strong in one direction or the other. You must give up this dream of a new life, or else you must give up entirely the old established order of things—prepare to do without the life which has meant respectability and comparative contentment for so long.

Once before you made up your mind to be brave and put memories behind you. That was when you married the wrong girl. Now you can be strong again and put away your hopes and dreams forever. That wrong girl you married has made an excellent wife insofar as she was capable, and perhaps you can find with her some semblance of happiness if you will cut out of your life the possibility of another great romance.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

A Bandanna Doll Has Old Time Charm

IF YOU want to make a very big doll, use two hanks of yarn and the biggest red bandanna handkerchief you can find. Smaller dolls made from one hank and a medium size handkerchief are also attractive.

Tie the hank at the top as at A, then cut it across the bottom. Make the head by tying the yarn in as at B, then separate part of the strands at the sides and bind them together to make the arms as at C and D. Cut these strands off as at E to make the hands. Bind the rest of the yarn around as at F to define the waistline. Thread a large needle with white darning cotton and make the mouth and eyes with several stitches made as shown here. Sew small black buttons or beads in the middle of the eyes.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables restoring and upholstering chairs, couches; making curtains for every type of room and purpose. Making lampshades, rugs, ottomans and other useful articles for the home. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents, to Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Illinois.

Cut a square out of the center of the handkerchief. The square piece you cut out should be big enough so it may be cut through the center from corner to corner to make two triangles—one to be used for the head kerchief for the doll and one for the three cornered shoulder kerchief. When this is done, gather around the square hole in the center of the bandanna and draw up the gathering thread

Real Tongue Twisters

"Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers" may be a tongue twister to some people, but to conductors on a railroad running through this section of Florida, according to Ed McCarthy of Orlando, it is nursery English.

Pity poor trainmen who must call Kolokee, Chuluota, Bithlo, Potocataw, Wewahotee, Salofka, Tophopkee, Holopaw, Ilohaw, Nittaw, Apossee, Lokossee, Yeehaw, Osoyaw and Hithlo; all station names on their line. But that's not all, when the locomotive puffs into the last station conductors must puff out an "Okeechobee last stop." The names were all left by Seminole Indians who called the territory their finest hunting grounds.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Salmon Hominy Casserole.

THE combined flavors of salmon and hominy is pleasing, the combined texture of them is interesting, and the appearance of the two in a casserole dish is appealing indeed. Try this combination for a tasty luncheon or supper dish.

In preparing the salmon and hominy for the dish, save the liquid drained from the cans as it adds flavor and food value to the sauce for the dish.

Salmon Hominy Casserole.
1 No. 2 can hominy ¼ cup grated American cheese, salt and pepper
1 No. 1 tall can salmon
4 Tbsp. butter ½ cup buttered bread crumbs
2 cups liquid, part milk

Arrange the hominy in the bottom of a greased casserole and lay the salmon over the hominy. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add flour, and stir until smooth. Add the liquid which is made up of the portion drained from the hominy and salmon and enough milk to make 2 cups. Cook until the sauce is thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add cheese, season with salt and pepper, and pour over the hominy and salmon. Sprinkle crumbs over the top and bake in a moderate oven (400 degrees) until the crumbs are brown and the mixture thoroughly heated, or about 30 minutes.

An asparagus tip salad with tart French dressing would be good with the casserole dish. The canned asparagus is available in all green, all white, and white with green tips; so your fancy has an opportunity to choose the variety preferred.

142,000 BALES OF COTTON GINNED IN LYNN COUNTY

price. Probably 20 or 25 thousand bales of the total crop are of this type.

But at O'Donnell we found several hundred bales, some of it of the better grades, still in piles and ricks on the ground at the southern and western limits of the town. Some of the gins there ran day and night all last week. It is believed that the piles and ricks of unginning cotton there will have almost disappeared by the end of this week.

Gin men at O'Donnell estimated that the town would gin from 3,000 to 4,000 more bales. At New Home, we were told that 1,000 to 1,200 more bales would be ginned, and at Wilson the estimate of unginning cotton was about the same.

We have no recent report as to the number of bales ginned in Lubbock county, but it is evident that final results are not going to show many thousand bales difference between the two counties.

The highest record ever made heretofore in any one county in Texas was made by Nueces county in 1930, when 148,442 bales were ginned there. It is believed that both Lynn and Lubbock will surpass this record when the final reports for the 1937 crop are in.

The second highest record ever made by a single Texas county in one year, according to records available to us, was made by Ellis county in 1931, when it ginned 130,908 bales.

Nueces county has produced more than 100,000 bales three times since 1924, Ellis county 5 times, Williamson county four times, McLennan county twice, Hill once, and Jones once.

The highest record ever made heretofore by Lynn county was made in 1933, when it ginned more than 68,000 bales. Lubbock's highest previous record was 94,921 bales ginned in 1932. She ginned 80,116 bales in 1933; 72,308 in 1931; and 72,101 in 1926.

Lubbock probably gins more cotton than she raises, while it is doubtful if Lynn does.

Furthermore, Lynn's acreage is cut considerably below that of Lubbock on account of the T-Bar and other ranches in the county. With an equal acreage with Lubbock county, Lynn county this year would have lead Lubbock by many thousands of bales.

But we have no crow to pick with anybody. There is glory enough for all.

Mrs. Tankersley, mother of Mrs. C. T. Tankersley, who fell and fractured her hip a few weeks ago, had been brought home from the hospital. Though aged, it is hoped that she will continue to improve.
