School Teachers Of Lynn County Organize

J. T. Carter of New Home Is Head of New Set-Up For Teachers Association

J. T. Carter, superintendent at New Home, was elected president, by a unanimous vote, of the Lynn County Teachers Association, at a meeting held in the court house Saturday morning and attended by about sixty teachers.

This new organization will be affiliated with the State Teachers Association under the new set-up of that vast organization. Delegates from the local chapter will attend the Big Spring district meeting, and delegates from that meeting will have voting power at the state meeting.

Delegates elected were: S. G. Anthony, superintendent at Wilson, and W. G. Barrett, Tahoka superintendent. Tolbert Fanning, New Home, and R. K. Green, Draw, are alternates.

In addition to Carter, the following were elected to office in the organization:

First vice president and program chairman, Supt. Fletcher Johnson, O'Donnell.

Second vice president and publicity chairman, Mrs. J. B. Bolin, New Lynn.

Secretary-treasurer, County Supt. H. P. Caviness.

The executive committee is composed of the above officers and Lee Dodson, Tahoka, and C. S. Harris, T-Bar.

W. L. Brown, 80, Is Injured By Car

Contrary to all expectations, the condition of W. L. "Uncle Will" Brown, who was struck and seriously injured by an automobile on the streets of Tahoka early Friday morning, has shown much improvement. It is now believed that he may survive the terrible ordeal and in time will be able to appear on our streets again.

The accident occurred while he was crossing a street near the Tahoka Hotel. Very decrepit and almost blind, it is said that he stepped in the path of an approaching automobile, which struck him and knocked him to the pavement. One of his legs was fractured at the knee and he suffered other minor injuries.

A physician was immediately summoned, who set the fractured bones, after which the patient was taken hastily to a Lubbock hospital by the Harris ambulance for further treatment. There it was found that the local physician had done a perfect job in setting the bones and the leg was placed in a plaster cast. Mr. Brown was brought back to his home here Sunday.

While he has suffered much at times, both from the injury and from the terrible shock to his nervous system, yet he has shown much more improvement than any one expected at the time. His condition is still serious, of course, and it was reported Thursday that he was not doing so well, his heart showing some signs of weakening. Due to his advanced age, which is almost 80, grave fears for the outcome are still entertained.

Father Of Sam Price Is Dead

T. J. Price, 71, a pioneer citizen of Brownfield and father of Sam Price of Tahoka and Judge W. W. Price of Brownfield, died from a stroke of paralysis Tuesday night. Funeral services were conducted at Brownfield Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Price hastened to Brownfield immediately after the aged man was stricken and had not returned to Tahoka Thursday morning.

Mr. Price came to Terry county in 1901, and was therefore one of the earliest residents of this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Tredway have recently moved to Slaton, where Mr. Tredway is now employed.

Former Tahoka Man Dies In Mock Battle Of U. S. Navy

Radio broadcasts Thursday brought information of the accidental death of Joe Earl Walton, a Tahoka-reared boy, which resulted from a navy airplane accident seventy miles out at sea west of San Diego, California, some time Wednesday night.

The accident occurred, it seems, in a moot battle in the air, when two large bombers collided, resulting in the death of eleven men; Walton being one of the number. The bodies were not recovered.

Joe Earl was the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Walton who resided for a number of years east of Tahoka and Joe Earl attended school here. Mrs. Walton, the mother, is a sister of Roy Poer and the late Mrs. R. C. Wood, and Joe Earl was a cousin of Miss Rose Maud of this city. The family removed from Tahoka to Stamford ten or twelve years ago, and Joe Earl later enlisted in the aerial service.

W. T. Bovel, who was a boyhood chum of Joe Earl, was the first one here to hear the radio report telling of the accident, and he informed some of the relatives of the disaster.

Cremated Body Is Buried Here

The ashes of Samuel Sylvester McKay, whose body was cremated following his death in Imola, California, on Monday, January 17, were buried in the cemetery at Draw in this county last Saturday afternoon. The ashes were shipped and were buried in an urn enclosed in a box, interment being under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home of this city.

Mr. McKay is said to have died of bronchial pneumonia. Appropriate funeral services were conducted in his home town prior to cremation.

Deceased was a former resident of the Draw community. A brother, Louis McKay, still resides at Draw. We understand that he also left a surviving wife at Imola.

This is probably the first burial of the remains of a cremated body that ever occurred in Lynn county, except in cases in which the person was burned to death in a fire.

Daniel C. Davis In Race For Clerk

Convinced that this is the day of the young man but believing also that the young man must grasp opportunity with a firm hand if he would win success, Daniel C. Davis, 26, announces his week as a candidate for county clerk of Lynn county.

Born at Desdemona in Eastland county, Daniel came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Davis, to Tahoka eighteen years ago, since which time this has been his home. After attending the grade school and the high school here for a number of years, Daniel took a course in Draughon's Business College in Abilene.

For a man of his age he has had quite a lot of experience. Eight years ago he was married to Miss Mayfair Woosley of this city. Since this time he has engaged in various pursuits. He has had practical experience as a bookkeeper, serving in this capacity for some time for the Brown & Root Construction Company, highway contractors. For the past three years he has been engaged in cotton buying.

Mr. Davis feels that he is thoroughly competent to keep the books and records for Lynn county. He would appreciate the opportunity to demonstrate his ability to do the job in a manner that would be highly pleasing to the people of the county. He intends to make an active campaign and to present his claims in person to the voters of the county between this date and the July primaries.

James Minor, student and football star in Howard Payne College at Brownwood, underwent an operation for appendicitis in a Brownwood hospital Tuesday, according to messages sent to the family here. Many Tahoka friends are wishing for James a speedy and complete recovery.

G. E. Hogan Is Stroke Victim

The condition of G. E. Hogan, who became suddenly ill early Monday morning, has shown much improvement the past two or three days.

Shortly after coming to his store Monday morning, he fell and began calling for help. A physician and an ambulance were summoned and he was taken immediately to the home of his son, George Hogan Jr., his wife being away from home at the time, visiting her daughters in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

His wife and children in the Valley were notified immediately and they hastened to his bedside. Mrs. Hogan and their son Leslie and his wife arrived between one and two o'clock the next morning, while Judge and Mrs. Bryce Ferguson, Mary Jewell and Sonny arrived the next day. Mrs. Hooper of San Diego was unable to come by reason of the fact that she was seriously ill herself.

Mr. Hogan has been suffering for some time from high blood pressure. A heart attack, brought on possibly by indigestion, and possibly a stroke of paralysis are responsible for his present serious condition. Since he seems to be improving greatly, it is hoped that he will speedily recover from this attack and that many years may be spared him yet.

Newmoore Infant Is Buried Here

Ernest Wayne, the little infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nelson of Newmoore, died early Wednesday morning of last week and was buried here in the afternoon of the same day. Little Ernest Wayne was just 26 days old having been born on New Year's Day.

Funeral services were conducted at the cemetery here by Rev. George A. Dale of the Tahoka Baptist Church.

The parents have the deepest sympathy of many friends in their great disappointment and grief occasioned by the loss of their precious babe.

FORMAL OPENING FOR WILLIAMS' STATION

BOVELL STARS SERIES OF EDUCATIONAL ADS.

W. T. Bovell, proprietor of Bovell's Bakery, is this week beginning a series of advertisements which will be of interest to everyone.

Boy Scouts Will Assume Charge Of City Affairs In Tahoka Friday Next Week

Next week is to be observed here and throughout the South Plains Area as Boy Scout Week.

Two special programs are to be given here: One on Monday night at the grade school auditorium, and the other on Tuesday night at the American Legion Hall. On Friday, the Boy Scouts are going to run the city government.

These programs are being staged under the general supervision of the local committee composed of W. E. Reddell, scoutmaster, W. S. Anglin, and W. G. Barrett.

The feature of the meeting Monday night at the grade school auditorium will be the address of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who will speak to the Scout membership of the entire nation over the national hook-up.

Local Scouts are expected to assemble at the auditorium at 7 p. m. At this meeting, officers who will serve the city on Friday will be

Wildcat Oil Test Was Spudded In Last Friday

Baldridge Well, Located in Petty Community, Drills To Depth Of 450 Feet, Sets Casing

The Baldridge wildcat well No. 1, situated in the southwest quarter of section 151, H. E. & W. T. Railway company survey, about one and three-quarters miles northwest of Petty school house, was spudded in last Friday.

When a depth of approximately 450 feet should be reached, it was announced that casing would be set and drilling operation stopped for a few days for the casing to settle. This depth was reached early this week, and it was expected here that drilling would be resumed the latter part of this week.

This is one of the best rigs and rotary drilling outfits ever used in a wildcat well in West Texas, we were told at the office of Deen Nowlin Thursday morning.

It was expected that the time would be reached within about 21 days after drilling should be resumed, if no ill luck prevented. It is expected that the time will be encountered at a depth of 4,000 to 4,100 feet. When the time is struck the rotary rig will be replaced with a standard.

The progress on this well and the results will be watched with much interest here as well as in oil circles throughout West Texas.

Jess Woosley Hurt In Car Wreck

Jess Woosley of Brady, formerly a resident of Tahoka, sustained serious injuries Saturday night when his car struck one which was parked beside the highway near that city. He was returning from Eden, where he works, to his home in Brady and was passing the Country Club grounds near that city when the accident occurred.

He received a bad cut over one eye, painful abrasions and bruises on the face and chest, and injuries to one of the legs. He was found some time after the accident lying near the wrecked car unconscious. The car was almost utterly demolished. He was taken to a Brady hospital for treatment and the family here were notified.

Mrs. F. E. Calvery and Mrs. Daniel Davis of Tahoka and Mr. and Mrs. Spence Kendrick of Brownfield left for Brady soon after being informed of the accident. They returned home Monday. Physicians were of the opinion that Jess would recover unless pneumonia or other complications developed.

DRENNON FAMILY IS MOVING TO O'DONNELL

Elder R. P. Drennon and family are moving to O'Donnell, where Elder Drennon will serve the Church of Christ full time.

Elder Drennon and family have resided in Tahoka five years, and many friends here in all of the churches as well as other citizens deeply regret their removal from our city. The preacher and family will be a distinct asset to O'Donnell.

ALVIN R. ALLISON, Of Levelland, who is announcing his candidacy for State Representative, 119th district.

Allison Candidate For Legislature

Judge Alvin R. Allison of Levelland has requested us to place his announcement in our paper this week as a candidate for representative in the legislature, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries. He states that he will make his platform of principles public a little later.

Judge Allison is now serving as county judge of Hockley county. Although a young man, he has won a place of influence and leadership in the county judges and commissioners association of Texas.

We clip the following comment from a recent issue of the Hockley County Herald:

"Judge Allison's recognition as being an active but conservative official will at once place him before the people as a leading contender for the place. When he gets to Austin, he will be heard from and before the first session is over will be known throughout the State as one of the leaders of the Lower House."

"He is level-headed, usually right on all public questions, energetic and forceful and will place the 119th district on the Legislative map in large letters. We are but stating a conviction when we say that Hockley county will support him in a big way for this office."

Waldo McLaurin's Hat Is In The Ring

The capable and accommodating county commissioner from the O'Donnell precinct, Waldo McLaurin, has again cast his sky-piece into the ring and announced that he is willing and anxious to serve the people of his town and vicinity for another period of two years as a member of the county's administrative body.

Mr. McLaurin is now serving his fourth term in this capacity. In these seven years he has gained an intimate knowledge of county affairs, and the experience he has had in dealing with the public and with the people and interests who are continually seeking to sell something to the county has served to make him wise and cautious in the performance of his duties. In fact, Waldo McLaurin has long been regarded as one of the most valuable members of that body.

As usual, he expects to meet most of the voters in his precinct personally between this date and the July election.

The W. C. McKinzie family left early this week for some point in Oklahoma, where they expect to reside.

New Readers Join The News Family

The News has probably had more new subscribers the past two months than ever before in a like period of time. They have just come in voluntarily and ordered the paper sent to their address without any special campaign or effort of any kind to obtain new subscriptions. Old subscribers have likewise been renewing their subscriptions almost to a man. All of which we appreciate.

Poll Tax Payments For Year Reach 3,199 Total

County's Voting Strength Is Largest Since 1933, Assessor A. M. Cade Reports

When the books closed Monday night, more poll taxes had been paid in Lynn county for the preceding year than since 1933, according to A. M. Cade, county tax assessor and collector. The total was 3,199. Of this number 642 were paid the last day, which is possibly an all-time record for a single day's collections.

Exemptions issued to persons becoming 21 years of age since the first day of January, 1937, and therefore not subject to the payment of a poll tax, amounted to 138.

There is no way of determining the number of "overs" in the county—those persons more than sixty years of age on January 1, 1937, but their number is believed to be about 15 per cent of the number of poll tax payers. If this is an approximately correct estimate, there are about 480 such persons in the county. The total voting strength of the county therefore would be about 3,800.

Mr. Cade says that the property tax collections this year have also been above normal. Much of the delinquent taxes have been paid, he reports, which is most gratifying to all concerned. It reflects the improved financial condition that prevails in this county.

Mr. Cade has furnished the News with a list of poll tax payments for each year since 1933. The list is as follows:

Year	Receipts
1933	3,206
1934	1,660
1935	3,036
1936	1,771
1937	3,199

Pioneer Settler Died Friday

Rayborn Wright Parker, 41, who resided a few miles south of Draw across the line in Borden county, died at 6:30 o'clock last Friday evening, and funeral services were conducted at the home at 2:30 o'clock the next afternoon. The services were directed by Rev. J. W. Braswell, assisted by Rev. Burns of Lamesa. Death resulted from an attack of pneumonia.

The body was buried in the cemetery at Plainview school house in Dawson county under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home of this city.

Although only 41 years of age, deceased was a pioneer settler of the South Plains. Born in Washita county, Oklahoma, on December 20, 1896, the boy came with his parents to the South Plains when about 8 years of age, and at the time of his death he had resided in the vicinity of Draw for 33 years.

The mother, Mrs. Martha Parker, and three of his brothers, J. H., John H., and Lester, reside in the same or neighboring communities. Another brother, Dewey, resides at Levelland, while the eldest brother, T. I., resides at Waurika, Oklahoma. Surviving sisters are Mrs. Mae Hendrix of Tatum, New Mexico, and Mrs. Opal Haynes of Abernathy.

Clyde Shaw, Wilson, Asking Re-election

Serving most acceptably as public weigher of precinct No. 2, Wilson, the past several years, Clyde Shaw this week announces as a candidate for re-election.

Clyde is well known to nearly every man, woman, and child in his bailiwick, and the farmers of his precinct know how well he has performed his duties. They are evidently well pleased with his services, for they have continued to re-elect him. We do know that he is a gentle, accommodating fellow—a man that folks delight to vote for.

From now until July he will be greeting the people of his precinct with a happy smile and a warm handshake—but he usually does that in off years. So, ruffled-

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...
By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—If a prisoner hadn't jumped out of a two-story window and escaped, 123 years ago, newspapers today wouldn't be front-paging the description of the biggest star in the universe, 3,000 times larger than the sun. They should have named the star Napoleon, instead of Epsilon Aurigae. His was the touch-off of events terrestrial which finally ranged out 3,000 light years and brought news of the giant star. Chronologically, as the astronomers would put it, it was like this:
Frederich-Georg Wilhelm Struve was a studious German youth who wanted to be an astronomer, but lacked opportunity for study. For no apparent reason, a ranging band of Napoleon's scouts seized him and locked him in a prison on the banks of the River Elbe.
He timed his high window-dive to the passing of a queer-looking ship, made a long, hazardous swim and was pulled aboard. The ship was homeward bound to Russia. The czar was a patron of astronomy.
The young man was encouraged and became not only director of the observatory of the University of Dorpat, but one of the founders of modern astronomy, with Herschel and Bessel.
His sons and grandsons became famous astronomers and it is his great-grandson, Dr. Otto Struve, who, with his assistants at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago at Williams Bay, Wis., discovers the facts about Epsilon Aurigae.
He is director of the observatory. He arrived here in 1921, after fighting with the white armies in Russia and fleeing to Turkey with their collapse. He became director of Yerkes observatory five years ago at the age of thirty-four.

IN THE new movie, "Hollywood Hotel," Bennie Goodman, trumpeter and swingster, again demonstrates that he gets all the college trade. The boys whinny with excitement at Mr. Goodman's most off-hand toot. Expeditions sent by this department into the far domain of youth say it's that way all over the country, particularly among the collegians. The Dossier says he does it with his "gut-bucket, barrel-house, screw-ball and grunt-iron music." Be that as it may, it nets him $100,000 a year.
At the age of ten, he was a semi-pro vaudeville musician, earning around $2 a week in Chicago's Ghetto. He was the eighth of eleven children of a tailor who earned $20 a week. He bought a mail order clarinet on the installment plan, and by the time he was thirteen, was a full-fledged journeyman musician, but still in short pants.
He first got out in front in California, running his first band in 1931. He slumped down to $40 a week in 1934, moved in with Billy Rose, hit his stride again, and, via radio, is a recent arrival in the top-money brackets.
He is twenty-seven, tall, dark, athletic, good-looking, with rimless octagonal glasses, and, the more savage his music, the more money he makes.

FRANKLIN MOTT GUNTHER, American minister to Rumania, decorously, and quite unofficially, he says, challenges the new anti-Semitism in Rumania. He is a suave career diplomat who once pulled headlines as big as a Rumania war would get today. That was in 1914, when there was less news.
He was a guest on a yacht anchored in Christiania harbor. The harbor master told him that spot had been saved for Kaiser Wilhelm's yacht.
There was an argument and the harbor master said Mr. Gunther had clipped the cap off his head and wouldn't pick it up. It boiled up into a big international story, but Mr. Gunther came through it nicely to continue representing his country in many foreign ports.
President Coolidge made him minister to Egypt in 1928. He is a native of New York, fifty-two years old, an alumnus of Harvard.
Author of "God Save the King"
The origin of "God Save the King" has been wrapped in mystery for centuries. It was first sung by Harry Carey at a dinner to celebrate the capture of Portobello by Admiral Vernon in 1740, according to Pearson's London Weekly. Carey admitted authorship of the words, but refused to commit himself about the music. The song achieved instant success on the wave of patriotism that followed the declaration of Bonnie Prince Charlie as king. English citizens sang it everywhere as a retort in favor of the legitimate monarch, and it was first sung in the presence of the monarch, at Drury Lane in September, 1745.

"LITTLE BUSINESS" HEARD
Five Hundred Formulate Program While "Big Business" Gets Another Swat from President

Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana is here seen in action as he established a record for long talking in the senate, at least in modern times. Engaged in the filibuster against the anti-lynching bill, this successor of Huey Long spoke for 27 hours and 45 minutes—and he confined himself strictly to his views on the measure.

Turn-of-Little Business
CALLED to Washington from all parts of the country by Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, some 500 representatives of "little business" undertook to formulate a recovery program for submission to President Roosevelt. Mr. Roper and his assistant, Ernest Draper, took part in the preliminary discussions, and since the President could not receive all of them a small committee was named to take their proposals to the White House.
According to reports from the capital, the President desires legislation for federal financing of small industries to stimulate business. This would require the creation of a new government agency unless the power were granted to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
Three chief complaints of the small business men are:
-The undivided profits tax has prevented them from accumulating a "rainy day" surplus.
-The capital gains and losses tax has frozen capital and prevented the encouragement of new enterprises.
-Monopolistic practices are presenting increasing hazards to their successful operations.
Congress and the administration already are busy with steps to correct these alleged abuses.

Big Business Scared Again
MEANWHILE big business—and the country generally—was discussing with considerable apprehension the declaration by the President that industry must reduce prices and at the same time keep wages up. An immediate result was the crash of prices on the stock exchanges, the decline reaching as high as 7 1/2 points. Commodities declined in sympathy with stocks.
"If industries reduce wages this winter and spring," the President said at his press conference, "they will be deliberately encouraging the withholding of buying—they will be fostering a downward spiral and they will make it necessary for their government to consider other means of creating purchasing power."
Many congressmen, Democrats as well as Republicans, took issue with Mr. Roosevelt's logic and economics, pointing out that industries lack the resources to keep wages up on a falling market because their funds have been depleted by the undistributed profits tax.
In his statement the President said:
"I am opposed to wage reductions because the markets of American industry depend on the purchasing power of our working population. And if we want to restore prosperity we must increase, not decrease, that purchasing power."
"Those in charge of a well managed and solvent industry should no more consider casting the burden of a temporary business recession upon their workers than upon their bondholders. To cast such burden on the bondholders is financial bankruptcy. To cast such burden on its workers is not only moral bankruptcy, but the bankruptcy of sound business judgment."

Lynch Bill Doomed
FIFTY-ONE senators voted against a motion to invoke the cloture rule for the purpose of choking off the filibuster against the anti-lynching bill, and the measure which the southerners were fighting so determinedly was thus doomed to failure.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who had supported the bill and voted for cloture, immediately served notice that the senate had made it impossible for the bill to be passed and that it must be displaced promptly by other legislation.

Miners for Third Term
MINERS from three states, attending the convention of the United Mine Workers of America in Washington, presented eight resolutions urging that President Roosevelt be drafted for a third term in the White House. Echoing the description of Mr. Roosevelt by John L. Lewis as "the only President who has given the common people a square deal," the third term resolutions were submitted by unions from Royal, Pa., Avella, Pa., New Salem, Pa., Uniontown, Ky., Rivesville, W. Va., Everettville, W. Va., Scottsdale, W. Va., and Lochgelly, W. Va.

In response to innumerable demands that the C. I. O. make peace with the A. F. of L., Lewis proposed that his organization march into the A. F. of L. February 1 and that units be granted charters.
President Green of the federation, which was in convention in Miami, said this was just the same old proposition and would merely transfer the conflict into the midst of the federation.

The building trades department of the federation enlisted in a campaign to develop on a national basis a "build America" plan started by the Cleveland Building Trades council. A committee was named to co-operate with real estate men, manufacturers, and distributors of building materials to promote definite housing projects.

Steiner Resigns
FREDERICK STEINER resigned as senator from Oregon in order to enter the private practice of law in Washington and Portland, Ore. Steiner was keynoter of the last Republican national convention and has been a steady opponent of the New Deal.

Jackson Gets Reed's Place
ROBERT H. JACKSON, assistant attorney general, was nominated by the President to be solicitor general of the United States. He succeeds Stanley Reed, whose appointment to the Supreme court was confirmed by the senate. Jackson has been much in the headlines lately because of his speeches attacking business and his avowed intention to seek the governorship of New York.

Niagara Bridge Falls
THE Falls View bridge at Niagara Falls, from which many thousands of honeymooners have looked at the cataract, was crushed by a terrific ice jam in the river and fell into the gorge in a great mass of twisted steel. The bridge had been closed to traffic a few hours earlier, so there was no loss of life.

Jap Slaps American Diplomat
JOHN ALLISON, third secretary of the American embassy in Nanking, was slapped in the face by a Japanese sentry when he tried to enter a house occupied by Japanese troops. Allison's protests brought an apology from the Japanese officer in command of the unit involved. An official Japanese announcement said Allison adopted an insolent attitude and criticized the Japanese army.

The Japanese embassy in Shanghai ordered all commercial firms there, regardless of nationality, to give the Japanese censor copies of their code books.

CALL RECRUITS IN SYPHILIS WAR

Call for "recruits" in the "War Against Syphilis" by Gen. John J. Pershing and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur will be heard throughout the country. General Pershing is chairman and Doctor Wilbur is vice chairman of the National Anti-Syphilis Committee of the American Social Hygiene Association. "Aided by state and city committees in many sectors, we expect to enlist broader interest in the fight on syphilis and the conditions which favor its spread with a war fund of $500,000 contributed by volunteers," says Doctor Wilbur, who is also president of the association.

Several Colleges Join War to Check Syphilis

Stimulated by the national campaign to control venereal disease, a few colleges—and universities—are making syphilis tests a part of the routine examinations required of incoming students. Judging from a survey made by the Chicago Tribune, serological diagnosis for syphilis is not a common regulation among student health services, however.

Instruction on the sexual and social hazards of the disease is far more common. Many universities, in fact, require their freshman men and women to take courses in health or hygiene revealing the character of the disease. Others confine this instruction to medical and sociological courses beyond the reach of most students.

University presidents, deans, and health directors questioned were unanimous in declaring that syphilis does not constitute a major health problem on American campuses.

Most of them agreed that students found to have syphilis and gonorrhea should be kept in school where they could have adequate treatment. Prep school leaders, dealing with younger boys, were just as certain that all syphilitics should be barred.

The University of Chicago, University of Iowa, and Dartmouth college are schools which have elected to give Wasserman or Kahn tests to all newcomers. New York university offers free tests to all students, but does not require them.

Testing began on the Midway with the winter quarter this month, taking advantage of the Chicago board of health's program of free and secret examinations, since the university health service lacked funds for this purpose.

Dartmouth college began routine Wassermans last fall and found one case of congenital syphilis among 650 incoming students.

The University of Iowa started serological testing of freshmen in 1924 and continued until 1930, reported Dr. M. E. Barnes, head of the department of hygiene. It ceased, he said, because of many objections. The university then confined its testing to food handlers, employees, and others.

"Fid. Def." on British Coins
The title "Fidel Defensor" (Defender of the Faith) was conferred on the English King Henry VIII by Pope Leo X, in 1521. It was his recognition of Henry's reply to Martin Luther. When Henry quarreled with Rome, in 1533, the Pope then in power, Paul III, deprived him of this title. But in 1544 it was confirmed by the English parliament, and has ever since been borne by all British sovereigns. Now it refers to the Protestant faith, and not, as at first, to the Catholic religion.

"You are to proceed alone, senator," announced their leader. "It is not well we should be seen, yet be assured we will be watching—and our horses are much faster than yours. You have only to follow the barranca to reach your goal."

The sun was almost setting when he came into full view of the hacienda. He could have made a short-cut across a stubble field, but he chose to stick close to the barranca until he should come upon the rope bridge. There was no need to pause to examine it since he had often crossed the same sort of thing before. Swerving he rode straight for the eastern gate, confident his bedraggled appearance together with that of his scarecrow of a horse would protect him better than subterfuge. He was right and a few minutes later was being admitted by Van Suttart and Arnaldo since Joyce, recognizing his stocky figure while it was still afar, had decided to receive him at her leisure and against her own background.

"You're Mr. Blackadder, aren't you?" said Dirk.

"Yes," said Blackadder, dismounting heavily. "How did you know?"

"I'm from the American embassy," said Dirk. "My name is Van Suttart and this is Adan Arnaldo who happened to witness your capture. I congratulate you on your escape."

"Huh?" grunted Blackadder. "Oh, yes. What about Joyce Sewell? She's here, isn't she?"

"I'll take you to her," said Dirk, "but she thought you'd be glad of a chance for a shave and a wash first."

"I haven't a razor," grumbled Blackadder, "and nothing to change into."

"I can lend you a razor," said Dirk; "as for linen, you're too big for me, but we can fix that too if you'll put up with stuff from the hacienda store. Come along."

He led him to a room near his own, showed him the bath, provided him with shaving equipment and promised to send up an assortment of shirts and underwear from the store. Scarcity of windows insured any Spanish habitation against curiosity on the part of the outer world but knocks the props from under individual privacy. Since every apartment depends for light and ventilation on high doors opening on a central patio the price of seclusion is apt to be darkness and suffocation. On the way to do his errand Dirk saw Joyce standing expectantly in her boudoir-office-sitting room and pretended not to see her—the sort of thing he had been doing for two long days and longer nights. On his way back she intercepted him.

"Dirk, come in here, please."

"What for?" he asked blankly, then remembered he was supposed to be a diplomat. "Forgive me. Of course I'll come in."

"Quit being polite!" said Joyce sharply. "I hate it. It isn't you and you've been doing it for two days. It's spoiled our rides. It's made me unhappy. For a while you were Dirk Van Suttart, a lovable human being. But now what are you? A shell, varnish, floor wax, veneer! I dislike you."

"That goes for me," said Dirk hotly. "I dislike actresses who change their leading men but always use the same old stage set."

"So that's it," said Joyce, "that's really it! I couldn't believe it. Half my mind told me that was the matter but the other half called the first half a fool. Why shouldn't I have taken Adan to the roof? Why? What conceivable reason?"

"You're asking me what business it was of mine," said Dirk dully, "and I'll answer you. None—none at all. What it did, though, was to wake me up. I felt miserable. I thought it would pass by morning, but it didn't." He looked up at her. "I—I hate feeling miserable."

"Oh, Dirk—poor Dirk! If you could only know what happened! He covered his nose and mouth with a silk handkerchief."

"Why?" demanded Dirk, bewildered.

"On account of the night air."

They looked at each other and their eyes began to dance. Another second and they would have burst into laughter, but unfortunately Dirk's thoughts veered into another channel. There was something he had been wanting to do for his own personal satisfaction for what already seemed a long time and while her attention was still diverted he took her chin in his left hand and studied the tip of her nose as if it had a smudge. Her startled and puzzled eyes should have warned him but somehow her half parted lips seemed more important. He leaned over quickly but kissed them slowly.

Joyce had not imagined she would mind being kissed by Dirk, yet the light in her eyes dimmed and went out. Instead of warming she turned cold—so cold he released her and stood back. A sense of loss oppressed her. What had happened? Suddenly she knew. He had been selfish, casual. It wasn't only that she had been taken for granted; it went deeper—so much deeper. He had destroyed something they both should have guarded.

"Dirk," she said, "some day you'll grow up and learn how foolish it is to cheapen another person. I believe people can make beauty for themselves, not out of whole cloth perhaps, but when they have a fair start. Friends are what you make them. Love is what you make it. Just now I think you yourself are too small to know what I'm talking about."

He threw up his head rebelliously and made an impulsive forward movement, but something in her steady eyes stopped him in time. He turned and walked blindly toward his room.

CHAPTER XIII

Blackadder recoiled from his first glance in a mirror in five days. He felt grateful to that young Van Suttart for saving him from showing himself to Joyce looking like a tramp. Being a stickler for daily shaving he hadn't seen his beard in years and was shocked to find it spotted with gray. He took joy in getting rid of it, in steaming in a hot bath and in slipping into underwear and shirt, coarse but clean, supplied from the hacienda store. In spite of his wrinkled suit he felt in better humor than at any moment since his departure from Elsinboro. Joyce was a fool, he reflected complacently. What a chance she had missed by giving him this opportunity for recuperation! In his mind he credited her with tactical error number one.

But the moment he was shown into her presence he wondered if and where he had gone wrong. Already dressed in one of her flowered frocks, she turned in the chair at her desk but did not rise. She looked unbelievably cool—cool inside and out—as she passed slow eyes over his face and figure. Here was a man out of her past, accurately remembered, and he had not changed; yet he was distant, divided from her by a world. As for Blackadder, he beheld a person he did not know, a person he felt he might never know. He had been thinking of her as a young girl—headstrong, violent in her reactions, but young, unformed and consequently malleable. Now he stared at something as fixed as a portrait; alive yet baffling, impenetrable. Instantly his own plan of attack went into reverse with an almost audible stripping of mental gears and as an added humiliation he discovered he would have to speak first or not at all.

"Hardly what you'd call a warm welcome, Joyce."

"No," she admitted; then continued in an even tone. "Why have you come and what do you want?"

He was at a loss for an answer. That a whipper-snapper should outface him roused his always unmanageable temper and abandoning the sensible course he had just determined upon he foolishly reverted to a prepared speech—prepared and rehearsed for days.

"You know why I'm here. You're a willful and ungrateful girl. You bit the hand that fed you—fed you for years. Your escapade has cost me time and money and caused real anguish to Irma, as fine a woman as ever drew breath. But now it's a lot more serious. You're like a child playing with matches around a keg of powder and thinking it's funny! Get this, Joyce: if you don't go back with me at once you may find yourself responsible, silly as it may sound, for thousands of deaths. Fortunately you're still a minor. Do you hear? A minor."

"Yes, yes," said Joyce quietly, "you don't have to shout. I heard you—a minor. Well, what of it?"

"Your stepmother has appointed me your guardian and by the laws of the state of New York—" He stopped, halted by a clear laugh.

"Excuse me," said Joyce, controlling herself, "but that sounded so funny. The state of New York, Elsinboro, you, my stepmother—it's all thousands of miles and a hundred years away. There you were Mr. Blackadder, weren't you? Mr. Helm Blackadder, and a power in a small way. Well, here you're nothing. Unless you find some work to do around the place you haven't the right to eat, breathe, sleep or live."

"You talk to me like that," exploded Blackadder, "a man twice your age who—"

"Please don't shout," interrupted Joyce. "Try to realize it's only because I hate bloodshed that you weren't shot. That's easy enough to understand, but what about this? If you had been it wouldn't have affected the course of my present life in the slightest—it wouldn't even have rated an added inconvenience."

"Are you crazy?" gasped Blackadder.

"Perhaps," said Joyce, "but that isn't what matters, is it? What stands for a whole lot more than you seem able to comprehend is that I'm mistress of La Barranca."

"Anything I can do to help, Joyce?" asked Dirk, sauntering in from the balcony.

"Oh, Dirk; I'm glad you came. Do you mind showing Mr. Blackadder around for a while? I'm going to be busy until dinner time."

Blackadder, though annoyed at the interruption, promptly saw the value of a chance to sound out Van Suttart. Whose ally would he turn out to be? What was he doing here anyway? How had he got here and when? He accompanied him with alacrity, glad of a chance besides to reassemble his shaken wits, and to all his questions except the first and most important obtained ready answers. At the end of half an hour he could murmur: "So that cable of mine is really all the authority you have for being away from your post?"

"Why, yes, I guess so, yes," said Dirk, a little troubled by the tone of the statement. "I hadn't thought of it in exactly that way."

"Now that you have and that I'm here," continued Blackadder, "it sort of does away with any reason for you to continue hanging around, doesn't it?"

"Eh?" said Dirk, beginning to wake up; then he laughed. "Well, there's certainly an answer to that! The only method of departure at present happens to be ride or walk a hundred miles."

"Not necessarily," said Blackadder. "I have reason to think my driver may come to his senses and return; there's also the possibility he may have reported to the ambassador. Say I manage to get a car. Would you be inclined to help me persuade Miss Sewell to leave at once?"

"I'm not sure," said Dirk, frowning thoughtfully. "I'd have to talk to her about it first."

"That's an extraordinary stand for you to take."

"If you can't see it," said Blackadder, "I won't try to show you. For your own good I might point out again that your justification for absence from your post terminated with my arrival."

"I can't blame you for being puzzled, Mr. Blackadder," said Dirk slowly, "since I'm a bit that way myself. I don't know quite how it's come about but somehow I sort of don't seem to give a tinker's dam about my post."

Thousands of Ideas for Inventions, but Few Get Through Patent Office

Every minute of the day in these United States, thousands of persons are having productive brainstormings, bearing now ideas in the bathtub, or chewing pencil stubs as they struggle through the final phases of their "invention." Of the hundreds of thousands of ideas produced, few of them get through the patent office, but this lot, relatively small as it is, appears large enough, judging from the rapidly filling shelves in the patent room of the Chicago public library, notes a writer in the Chicago Daily News.

Here every month are added anywhere from sixteen to twenty-one heavy volumes describing the patents issued by the United States for the last month. Each patent is numbered and described in the inventor's application by drawing and text. The idea of the patent record is to give anyone who wishes a peek at the workings of any patent that catches his fancy or upon which he might want to improve. (Patented articles usually bear the number of the license.)

Blackadder snorted, stared at him, then turned away with a shrug. Here certainly was no ally and he dismissed him from mind. But not for long. At dinner, where Blackadder sat in brooding silence, Dirk was the mainspring that kept the ball of conversation rolling. He egged Don Jorge and Arnaldo into one of their perfunctory political discussions, then bargained with the latter to alternate with him at playing a dance tune. Adan to go first. The challenge accepted, Dirk fairly forced Joyce to dance, but when it came his turn it developed he scarcely knew one note from another.

Joyce had been puzzled by his high spirits, in violent contrast to the gloom which had enshrouded him from the moment of the rebuke she had administered. It wasn't the kiss she had minded nor its rough-and-ready manner, not even its humiliating assumption. The truth was she had been hurt rather than angry and had spoken straight from the heart in protest against a blow struck at some vague beauty, still in the bud yet present to them both. But no sooner did he slip his arm around her to dance than his strategy throughout dinner became evident.

"This is the only way I could think of," he whispered, "to be alone with you. To tell you I'm sorry—sorry that I ever was about anything else in my life. You were quite right to say what you did. Please don't stay away from me. Please give me a chance. Please go for a ride tomorrow as though nothing had happened."

"Will you promise on your word of honor—your given word I believe you called it—never to do it again?"

"No," he said after some deliberation. "I can't honestly promise any such thing. I'm though with giving my word. All I can say is I'll do my best—my level best."

It was all Joyce could do to keep from laughing and what stopped her, strangely enough, was his sincerity—the very thing that made him comical. They rode the next morning; to Blackadder's disgust they were gone for hours. After their return came lunch and the inevitable siesta. Even then Blackadder got no chance for a further talk with Joyce, for she was busy with the myriad details tossed up as steadily as a playing fountain by a family of 500 souls. How long was this sort of thing to keep up? He could imagine himself hanging around for days without ever securing five minutes free of interruption. The dinner was an exact replica of that of the night before except that his surly abstraction was more profound—so dense it gradually spread its wet blanket over everybody else. At last Joyce surrendered, crushed into submission by a prolonged silence.

"I'm afraid you're having a miserable time, Mr. Blackadder. What can we do to cheer you up?"

Helm raised somber eyes to her face. "You know the answer to that, Joyce," he said with overwhelming simplicity. "All I ask from these gentlemen and yourself is an hour's uninterrupted talk with you."

Joyce knew when she was fairly caught. "I'm sure that can be arranged any time you like," she said, making the best of it. "Shall we say in my sitting room in half an hour?"

"Splendid," said Blackadder, and promptly turned affable. To the amazement of everyone, though he had appeared deaf to such talk as there had been, he took up a discussion where Don Jorge and Arnaldo had left off, enumerated the omissions made by each and arrived at an unanswerable conclusion astonishing to both.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Curtaining Your Front Door:

YOUR front door greets your friends before you do. Is it dressed to look its best? Here are some simple rules that will be useful in selecting the material and style for front door curtaining.

Choose a fabric that looks well on both sides and that harmonizes with the outside color of your door as well as with the color scheme of the hall or room into which it opens. A simple net curtain material or plain silk are good to use but if your door is white on the outside think twice before you choose the usual ecru or pongee color. White net or silk of a color to match the shutters or the trim of the house will look infinitely more attractive and will not be too conspicuous. The curtains may be made double with a different color on the inside if need be. Pale yellow is another color that is always safe to use as it gives the effect of light shining through the door.

These curtains should be firmly anchored both top and bottom so that they do not blow about and catch in the door when it is opened and closed. Both bottom and top rods may be fastened over hooks as shown here at A.

Every homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables; curtains for every type of room; lampshades, rugs, ottomans and other useful articles for the home. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents (coins preferred) to Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

CHEST COLDS

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN there's a cold to treat—especially if it's a chest cold—there's no time to experiment. Relieve the misery with the treatment that has been doubly proved for you.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use your dependable Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no stomach upsets. Just massage it on throat, chest, and back. Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin... Almost before you finish rubbing, you begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break local congestion. And long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

INTEMPERATE CRITICISM

Accusing the editor of The Lynn County News of usually taking the position that the courts can do no wrong, the editor of the Claude News proceeds to set out the facts in a certain criminal case as they appeared in a newspaper and then proceeds to castigate the court of criminal appeals for reversing the judgment of conviction rendered in the trial court.

Mr. Waggoner does not claim to have read the decision of the higher court nor the statute setting out the manner in which grand juries must be selected, which seems to have been the basis of the higher court's decision. In fact, he knows practically nothing about the case except that a heinous crime was committed.

But that is enough for him. If a heinous crime was committed, any reversal of a judgment of conviction would itself be a heinous crime in his opinion, regardless of the number or enormity of the errors that might have been committed by the trial court. Therefore, with practically no knowledge of the trial nor of legal procedure, he brazenly impugns the motives and the integrity of the members of the higher court who reversed the case.
"Probably, in this case, a technicality was wanted and needed to render a decision to FREE two cold blooded murderers and rapists," he says.

Like yourself, Mr. Waggoner, we have not read the opinion of the judges in this case. Like you, we know practically nothing about the trial. We have not recently read the statute which, it is said, was violated by officials in the selection of the grand jury that indicted the defendants. Therefore, unlike you, we feel wholly incompetent to either approve or condemn the action of the higher court in reversing this case. Certainly, with our un familiarity with the trial and our imperfect knowledge of the law, we would not dare to impugn the motives and slander the character of learned judges whose duty it was to render an opinion in this case in accordance with the laws of this state governing the legal points raised by defendants and their attorneys.

"It is just such decisions as this that fans mob violence," you continue.

Yes, and such intemperate and unjustified attacks upon the courts, either through ignorance or wantonness, by men who are supposed to merit and enjoy the confidence of the reading public, are calculated to unjustly bring the courts into disrepute and thereby, in some measure, encourage men to resort to mob violence.

As for the editor of the News, we do not believe and have never intimated that the courts can do no wrong. On the other hand, we think that they do sometimes do wrong.
We think that they sometimes render erroneous opinions. We think that they sometimes yield to political pressure and popular clamor in rendering their decisions. They are made up of mere men, some of whom have the same human frailties and possibly the same prejudices as you and I, Mr. Waggoner.
But when a judge does yield to prejudice or popular clamor or political pressure, he makes a sorry showing. For that reason, Mr. Waggoner, we think our judges should be men of the highest ability, of the strictest probity, and of the strongest moral courage. They should be free from political pressure or influence of any kind whatever, whether it is sought to be exerted by the man on the street or by the President of the United States.

And when a judge yields to any such influence, he is no longer a judge—he has become a mere tool.
And while we think that courts and judges often err, we still have confidence, after long years of experience with them, in the integrity and honesty of most of them.

We are not prepared yet to pass judgment on the conduct of Land Commissioner McDonald whose leasing of oil lands has been under investigation by a Senate committee the past several days, but this and other incidents should teach us the lesson that we can not be too careful in selecting our public officials.
There are so many opportunities and temptations to the public official to "feather his own nest" while in office that we should elect to office only those men whom we believe to be scrupulously honest. And in case of doubt, the doubt should be resolved in favor of the state.

From persistent rumors we have heard the past few years, we think it would be wise to make at least one or two other changes among the heads of departments at Austin.

WE AGREE

In spite of his occasional brain-storms, our good friend Andrew Jackson Stricklin of the Terry County Herald is pretty level-headed as a rule. A few weeks ago that old newspaper war-horse, Bill Kellis
of the Sterling City News-Record, took the hair and hide off of a bunch of University sissies who had signed a pledge not to fight for Uncle Sam under any circumstances nor under any provocation except when attacked on our own soil. That editorial really should have been clipped and published in every newspaper in Texas. It hit the spot.
Andrew Jackson Stricklin did not publish it but he commented on it favorably last week. We quote him as follows.

"Uncle Bill Kellis of the Sterling City News-Record seems to be having a lone battle with University of Texas students following their recent vote that they would not bear arms for the United States unless in case of invasion. Uncle Bill don't mince words, but tells them they are yellow, and points to Ethiopia and China as being recent examples of "waiting for the other nation to invade." Like Uncle Bill, we have our aversion to Uncle Sam ever stepping out to stop a fight across seas, but we want our nation ready to meet any armed force from a hostile nation long before they reach our shores and begin destroying our cities. Another thing that points toward something being seriously off-brand at the U. of T. from the majority of Texas folks; was their recent vote in favor of the antilynching bill in congress. Is our state university that we have spent millions building and endowing being influenced by communistic teaching?"

The University of Texas is a great institution—one of the greatest state universities in the entire country. Most of the pupils, we take it, are red-blooded Americans.
But just as the seeds of communism have been sown in every other great educational institution in the land, and just as they have been sown among the common people here at home, they have also been sown
among the University students.
There may be a few professors there who propagate and cultivate communist ideas. There are professors elsewhere who do the same thing.
Some of them, we opine, have held high positions at Washington. Many good people in college and out of college have "fallen" for the propaganda that the communists have been stealthily putting out all over this country. Many of our people are near-communists without knowing it. Certain labor organizations are seething with communistic ideas.
And these same organizations have been pampered and petted and encouraged and truckled to and fawned upon by the powers-that-be in Washington until they think they just about own this government.
There are near-communists walking your streets every day, Jack; is it any wonder that some of them find their way into the University of Texas?

THE COST OF GOVERNMENT

Under the caption, "The Increasing Cost of State Government," The Terry County Herald last week published a long string of figures showing that the annual expenditures have almost doubled during the past ten years, increasing from $73,563, 721 in 1927 to $125,693,992 in 1936.

The Herald then continues: "The average head of a family of five in Texas pays $162.55 a year to keep the state, cities, counties, and districts going. It costs $32.51 per year to every person in Texas—man, woman, or child—to maintain state and local government."

But that is tame, as compared with what the Federal Government is expending. In 1934, the total expenditures of the Federal Government were $7,105,050,084.95 and in 1935 they were $7,375,825,165.57.

Knocking off the odd cents, that would be around $60 for every man, woman, and child in the United States, or $300 for every family of five.

With the state funds we run our public schools, our state colleges and the University, we operate all our eleemosynary institutions, we build and maintain highways, we pay the expenses of all our courts, we pay the salaries of thousands of employees in the various departments of government, and numerous other items.

The Federal government is costing us nearly twice as much as the state government. We wonder if we are getting twice as much out of it.

IS SHE ON THE TEAM—
...OR IN THE BLEACHERS?

Bread and Milk are the foods children need in largest amounts

BREAD and growing children are perfect team mates. They like each other—and together they bring home lots of victories.

For, bread supplies many of the things growing bodies need—carbohydrates, for energy to win the game; proteins, for growth, and the replacement of tired, worn out tissues; and it contributes to the mineral salts necessary for the all-round development of a strong constitution. Bread builds husky muscles, too.

Because it is more nearly well-balanced in protein and carbohydrate than any other food, bread can well make up at least a FOURTH of a child's diet. The child who eats six slices or more a day is the gainer.

Children need food that is quickly turned into energy and food that maintains their energy between meals. Bread never lets them down.

What's more, no other common food except sugar is MORE QUICKLY digested. It leaves no harmful residue and puts no strain on young digestive organs.

There is no BETTER or CHEAPER way than through good white bread of giving to growing children the things their young bodies need in greatest amounts: a good source of food energy and muscle-building proteins.

The Junior play, "The Wary Ape," went off in grand style last Friday night. The class as a whole wishes to thank the citizens of Lynn county for the good support they received in this production. The funds made are going to be used for the annual Junior-Senior banquet.

Pictures for the "Skyline" have been made and everyone is anxiously awaiting the proofs. The annual is really progressing rapidly now, and it is believed that it will be ready sometime in April.

Mr. Leslie Browning, the new Ag. teacher from Texas Tech, is most heartily welcomed to T. H. S.

Max Minor, popular Sophomore of T. H. S., who has been absent for several weeks because of illness, is now back in circulation.

The Seniors regret to say that Bessie Mae Perkins will not be here after this week, as she is moving to Brownfield.

Rosa McKinzie of the Junior class moved to Oklahoma last Monday. The Juniors will really miss Rosa as "she had a finger in everything, if not a whole foot!"

To make up for the loss of these students, there are several new students enrolled in T. H. S.

It seems that the Freshman candidate is bent on winning her race. These mornings she has arrived at school in a car with an armload of coat-hangers which she promptly drops in her own vote-box.

Slowly but surely love has crept into the heart of a very speedy young man. This was plainly shown when he escorted "Foxy" to the Junior play last Friday night. Droop had only one trouble that night and wishes to warn other girls against

The Way To National Progress

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
 National Chairman
 Sentinels of the Republic

Recent news dispatches from Washington contain numerous promises that the "little fellows" in industrial and other activities are going to be consulted in current endeavors to clear the roadway toward sound recovery.

By this is meant that the average merchant or small producer and employer will have a chance to tell his story and outline his needs to the men who make and enforce the laws which control our well-being as a nation.

It's an excellent idea, which all Americans who feel a sincere concern with our national progress will approve. It could, with real benefit, be carried still further. It could, with real benefit, extend to all types of workers and producers, who compose the body and strength of our Republic.

Washington might, for example, consider the problem of the average wage-earner, who feels the toll that heavy taxes—direct and indirect—levy on the contents of his pay envelope.

It might, for example, consider the worries of the average insurance policyholder or other prudent saver, who wonders what effect huge public debts—with their constant threat of inflation—may have on the thoughtful provisions he makes for the future security of his family.

It might, for example, consider the situation of the housewife, struggling to provide balanced meals on a family budget constantly unbalanced by rising prices due to public extravagance and impractical economic experiments.

These are the people to consider, rather than the blatant pressure groups or the expert fishers for votes, whose voices appear so often to drown out the modest demands of the average worker and earner.

Yet it is on these average citizens that the strength and stability of America depend—today as in the past. They represent not only the thews and sinews of our country, but its hopes as well. It is they who built America and will carry it to still greater heights—if given a chance.

They are, moreover, the real voice of the Nation—and if Washington only heeds that voice, America cannot fail to resume her progress.

which needs solving. Projects were selected on bedroom improvement, kitchen improvement, meal preparation, tested recipe files, making inexpensive Christmas gifts— from sacks and materials at home, caring for an infant in the home, teaching good health and eating habits to a little brother or sister, making toys and providing entertainment for small children, clothing construction, food preservation and building and remodeling closets.

The completion of these projects lead to a desire to improve other parts of the home or solving other problems the girls may have.

There is economy in the use of sacks for making gifts and articles for the home. Some of these articles are curtains, lunch cloths, towels, aprons, pajamas, blouses and attractive scarf sets.

Only a small amount of time and money are required in making these. You may make them from feed, flour, sugar, and burlap sacks. These may be cleaned by soaking in kerosene, boiling in lye water, rubbing lard on the letters, or boiling in a commercial bleach.

In making the articles you need only a small amount of tape, dye and embroidery thread. Threads may be pulled to make attractive lunch cloths. The sack material fringes well and this adds to the attractiveness of the scarfs. Attractive durable garments for children can be made from sacks. I used the things I made this year for Christmas gifts and I hope to make many more next year.—Ida Botkin, first year class.

My Home Project
 I chose improving my bedroom for a home project this semester. I wanted to make my room as attractive as possible. My problem was darkness. At first I had dark curtains over the windows and the baseboards were scarred and dirty. I took one Saturday off to clean these baseboards and walls.

My curtains were easily made and I took a piece of board and made a little rod. This wasn't very hard to make because I had a sharp knife and knew what size to make it.

Less Monthly Discomfort
 Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

GIRL TRAVELS FROM SOUTH AMERICA TO ENTER TECH

Cairo, Jan. 22—The tomb of a second dynasty noble, sealed since funeral rites 5,100 years ago, was reported today to have been found by W. B. Emery.

The English Egyptologist, who only two weeks ago unearthed what may be the first Pharaoh, made his latest discovery at Sakkara while seeking graves of Menes' servants.

The contents of this second tomb, including a great crumbling coffin, exquisite alabaster bowls and other objects, apparently had not been disturbed since the burial.

There even were skull bones of a slaughtered bull left in the tomb for "sustenance" in the after-life.

Egyptologists hitherto had thought the chances of finding such a tomb intact were negligible. Its discovery was hailed as a feat comparable to the finding of Tutankhamen's tomb in 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. McElroy have removed to Tahoka from Longview. Mr. McElroy has accepted a position as collector for the D. W. Gaignat Hardware & Furniture Co.

Col. G. C. Grider left Wednesday for Brownwood to assist in a three-day horse and mule auction sale. The Colonel is in great demand the past few weeks as an auctioneer.

I cleaned the floors and arranged the furniture. I hung attractive pictures and made two vanity sets for my dresser.

The whole cost was $2.50—Ophelia Eudaley, first year class.

Man Gets Quick Action On Classified Ad.

This did not happen yesterday. It did not happen last week. But, it happened—at least, it occurred. A subscriber walked into the News office Monday and in the course of the conversation that followed, he said, "I had a good story to tell you once, but I never did tell you, and it's too old now." And then he proceeded to relate that some time ago he inserted a little ad. in our classified column offering a certain piece of machinery for sale. He lives on a route out of another town and does not get the paper till Saturday. When the paper came he picked it up and looked for his ad. He had scarcely finished reading it when a car drove up and stopped in front of the house. The gentleman asked him how much he wanted for the machine. He had read the little ad. in the News. Greer stated the price (for the gentleman who inserted the ad. was

A. W. Greer of Grassland). Without saying a word, the gentleman wrote out and handed him a check for the money—and the trade had been made. It was all done in the twinkling of an eye. Greer says that want ad. brought results, and brought them swiftly.

Tahoka Fighters Enter District Contests

Lubbock, Feb. 3.—Amateur boxing at its best is scheduled for the Auditorium in Lubbock next Monday and Tuesday nights when leading fighters of the South Plains area meet to decide district Golden Gloves championships. The list of around sixty definite and prospective entries includes two Tahoka boys, Jim Ware, a welterweight, and Jack Weathers, a lightweight. Almost a complete team of fighters has been registered from Wilson. Several competed in the recent City tournament here, and were well liked. The Wilson list includes Fred Pendleton, John Melde, Carl Schubert, Roy Neiman, Albert Wuensche, Herbert Lamb and Buck Vance. Advance ticket sales indicate an unusually large turnout next week, but while they last, ringside tickets may be reserved by mail, wire or telephone, addressed to the Avalanche-Journal at Lubbock. Winners in each of the eight weight divisions at the district tournament will get expense-paid trips to Fort Worth for the state tournament, as well as nice trophies here. Mrs. E. S. Davis left last week for Los Angeles, Calif., to spend about two months with her daughters, Mrs. Lee Wood and Miss Muldred. Hon. Joe Moss of Post was a professional visitor in Tahoka Wednesday. He is serving as county attorney of Garza county at the present time. Little Joe Bob Stroud, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stroud, has been sick with a bad case of tonsillitis this week.

Miss Lillian Boyd, H. D. Agent
MIDWAY CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. G. A. EDWARDS
Feeding the Child from One to Six was discussed by the women of the Midway H. D. club January 27 at the home of Mrs. G. A. Edwards.
After ten minutes spent in recreation, committees were appointed as follows:
Finance: Mmes. R. L. Littlepage, ch., Rufus Slover and J. F. Thomas.
Program: Mmes. Alice Duncan, ch., G. A. Edwards, and Curtis Driver.
Exhibit: Mmes. I. M. Draper, ch., and Sam Floyd.
Mrs. R. L. Littlepage was elected parliamentarian. Due to the fact that the child's food is different to the adult's, he should sit at another table. The business of eating is serious one and demands all his attention. Hence, he should not be distracted by interest in what adults are doing and saying. In planning the child's daily meals, the mother should know which food supplies the elements that he needs.

Members present were: Mmes. G. A. Edwards, R. L. Littlepage, H. Draper, Alice Duncan, I. M. Draper.
New members are: Mmes. J. C. Wells, G. W. Wells Curtis Driver, and J. F. Thomas.
Mrs. Lloyd Edwards was a visitor.

NEW LYNN GIRLS STUDY BREEDS OF POULTRY

"Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Wyandottes, and Orpingtons are dual-purpose breeds of poultry," said Miss Boyd at a meeting of the New Lynn 4-H Club February 1 at 10:45 o'clock. "They are medium in size, make good setting hens but produce fewer eggs than the egg breeds," added Miss Boyd.

Several of the members had their aprons completed.
Members present were: Ruth Evans, Mary Evelyn Carpenter, Pearl Fleming, Winnell Meeks, Lois Dean Jester, Earline Jester, Elva Stone, Pauline Perkins, Naomi Reagen, Lois Walker, Mary Joe Newman, Vernell Walker, Gladys Carter, Ima Lou Newman, Gracie Crouch, Ivorie Meeks, Anna Jean Carpenter, Oleta Gary, Odessa Young, Edith Dickens, Ona Fay Meeks, Nadeen Nelson, and Juanita Jones.

DRAW 4-H CLUB GIRLS MET WEDNESDAY

"Eggs used for setting, should be from hens which have egg production qualities back of them. This can be secured by systematically culling to eliminate low producers from the flock," stated Miss Boyd at the Draw 4-H Club meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 2, at 9 o'clock. "The standard weight of an egg is two ounces. It is best to set eggs as near this weight as possible," she said.
Members present were: Mary Gene Luttrell, Bobbie Spruell, Wanda Thompson, LaVerne Garnett, Lorene Jackson, Patty Fenton, Velma Saint, Jo Williams, Margie Alexander, Sylba Busby, Lela Fae Parker, Ellen Isbell, Eva Veach, Veneta Garnett, Elsie Mae Brewer, Juanita Williams, Wanda Beard, Novella Wade, and the sponsor, Mrs. R. L. Pirtle.
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rountree of Lamesa were brief visitors in Tahoka Wednesday on a return trip from Crosbyton. Carl is a prominent attorney of his city and at one time represented this district ably in the legislature.

INTEREST INCREASES IN METHODIST W. M. S. WORK

The pastor is pleased at the increase of interest in the women's work. They have always done a good work, but too few of them have been interested in it. The number has greatly increased this year.

The Sunday School is doing a good work. Several of our teachers were out on account of sickness last Sunday. We trust they will be back right away.

The pastor preaches for the O'Donnell church this Thursday night. They have just completed a campaign to pay off their church debt. We rejoice with them in the splendid results.

We will be expecting you in your place next Sunday.

BEN HARDY, Pastor.

MRS. FENTON HOSTESS TO METHODIST W. M. S.

The Woman's Missionary Society met Monday, January 31, in the home of Mrs. R. W. Fenton Sr.

Mrs. Gibson was program director. Mrs. Poer gave the devotional, followed by a very interesting book review by Mrs. L. E. Weathers. After the study hour, we were invited to the dining room, where delicious nutbread sandwiches, tea and cookies were served to fourteen members and one visitor.

If you are a Methodist woman, won't you find your place of service with us? You will enjoy the study, as well as the association.

Next Monday is business day and we will meet at the church in our regular meeting place in the basement at 3:00 o'clock. Please be in your place.—Reported.

CHURCH SERVICES AT BETHEL ANNOUNCED

The News is requested to announce that Rev. S. K. McCulloch of New Home will preach at Bethel Church near Joe Bailey school house next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

There have been no regular services at Bethel for many months. It is desired and hoped that every resident member of the church will be present. The general public is invited.

Robert Drennon, student in Abilene Christian College, came home last Thursday to visit his parents, Elder and Mrs. R. P. Drennon, and while here developed a severe case of tonsillitis. He hopes to be able to return to school this week.

Subscription Rates Raised On Papers Going To Distant Points

During the depression we reduced our subscription rate from $1.50 to $1.00.

Due to the continued increase in the cost of paper during the past year, particularly the increase of about 20 per cent that went into effect on the first of January, together with the ever-increasing cost of living, we now find that it is imperative that we make some adjustment of our subscription rates.

We are making no change, however, in our local subscription rate. In Lynn and contiguous counties, the rate will remain at $1.00. In all other counties and in other states, we feel that we must return to our former rate of $1.50 per year.

We are sure that our subscribers living at a distance realize that it costs us considerably more to send the paper to them than it does to send it to local subscribers. It would seem but fair and just therefore that we should charge them a little more than we charge local subscribers. Many weekly papers have been pursuing this policy for years. All such subscribers will please take note of this change and send in $1.50 hereafter when renewing their subscriptions.

NEW LYNN LEAGUE HAS COUNCIL MEETING

The New Lynn Epworth League met January 29, and a program was well rendered by Mrs. Mozelle Richards.

The League had a council meeting Tuesday night, January 25. All the officers but two were present. Two of our members have moved away. We were sorry of their moving. Two new members joined Sunday night. We were glad to have them.—Pub. Supt.

The Phebe K. Warner Club met in the home of Mrs. J. K. Applewhite January 25.

Mrs. L. E. Weathers reviewed "How to Win Friends and Influence People." A short musical program was enjoyed by thirteen members. Mrs. Borden Davis was a guest.

ELDER DRENNON'S NOTES

This is perhaps my last article. I want to thank all who have expressed their appreciation and also to the office force for their kind treatment of me and my writings.

I have surely had a pleasant stay in Tahoka for a little over five years and will say that I have never been treated better anywhere I have ever lived.

I am moving to O'Donnell and am expecting a fine reception there. The Church there is modernizing the parsonage and has engaged me for full time work.

A few wise-cracks: Religious spasms are hard on the constitution.

The man who does what he pleases is seldom pleased with what he does.

The most trouble is produced by those who don't produce anything else.

Another good thing about telling the truth is you don't have to remember what you say.

Some people who think they are ahead of the times are merely off the track.

Many a young man poses as hard-boiled when he is half-baked.

Buying what you do not need is an easy road to needing what you cannot buy.

As I think of moving from one place to another it brings to my mind the time when I shall make my last move—from this world to the Unseen. I am glad we can be prepared for this move as well as any other.

I am glad Jesus said that He was going to prepare a place for us and that He was coming back after us.

And, don't forget, friends, your last move will come some of these days. And, oh, won't you be prepared to move into one of those mansions Jesus has gone to prepare for you?

And, don't forget that where you spend eternity depends on the preparations you make in this life.

I will preach at the little peaceful village of Gall next Lord's Day.

Yours for more preparation for peace and less for war, I will not sign "thirty" as I may write again some time.—R. P. DRENNON.

Ed. Note.—Would be glad for you to continue to send your Notes from O'Donnell, Brother Drennon.

Prof. D. O. Wiley, director of the Texas Tech Band, was a visitor here last Saturday. He came down to get N. W. Allphin to draft some extra copies of a symphony for his band. The composition was written by the late Carl Venth, one of Prof. Wiley's former teachers.

Mrs. J. O. Hyne and Mrs. E. H. Ezell en route home from Lubbock to Albany visited the latter's cousin, Mrs. Effie Townes, here Tuesday.

The Rest Of The Record

BY JAMES V. ALLRED Governor of Texas

Testimony before the Senate investigating committee this week shows without dispute that Land Commissioner McDonald has issued hundreds of leases on submerged coast lands for which he refused big cash offers bearing the usual 1-16th royalty. Instead he accepted small cash offers, usually one dollar per acre, with an agreement for an overriding, or sliding royalty if and when oil is produced. In some instances the evidence shows Mr. McDonald has turned down over one thousand dollars per acre cash while accepting one dollar acre with an overriding royalty.

With the exception of a few leases, there was no obligation for immediate drilling; and, although some of these leases have been executed for more than a year, only one well has been commenced on state lands in all of the counties and on all of the thousands of acres leased. Not a drop of oil and not a penny of additional money has been received by the state from any of these leases, although the Land Commissioner has turned down more than a million dollars in cash for them.

Now Mr. McDonald testified that, in his opinion, the overriding royalties retained by him for the state would ultimately make a hundred million dollars for Texas. Of course, he admits this is a gamble; but even if it should turn out to be true then what he gave to a little circle of bidders for one dollar an acre will yield them anywhere from two hundred million dollars to a billion dollars.

In other words, before the Land Commissioner made these leases the state already had all that he retained and more! For a few hundred dollars he has given this small circle of bidders a gamble with hardly any obligation on their part—a gamble from two to thirteen times as much as that of the state! It is a gamble which cost these bidders only a few hundred dollars, but at a cost to the state of over a million dollars in cash which the state was offered by other bidders! If the state were going to gamble on oil being under our land, I would prefer to gamble the whole thing and not fritter away three-fourths of it for one dollar an acre. Evidence before the Senate committee further shows that some of the men who were mixed up in the old highway contracts which were broken up by Dan Moody have moved back to Austin and are asking for favors in the land office. The hearing may be moving along a bit slowly but the committee is making headway and the testimony is developing facts which should prove interesting to everyone.

Southwestern Life Has Good Record

Mr. H. L. Skinner of Abilene, district agent for the Southwestern Life Insurance Company, was here on business for his company this week. He reports that Mrs. Gladys Stokes, local representative of this company, who has been resting and recuperating from an attack of illness at Mineral Wells the past few months and who is now in Dallas temporarily, is expected to return to Tahoka on or about the 25th day of this month.

Mr. Skinner incidentally had some fine things to say about the work of Mrs. Stokes here as the company's local representative. He says she is one of the company's most efficient agents. In 1936 she won the persistency award for the West Texas territory, and she has had a renewal record above 90 per cent ever since she has been with the company. She has in force in Lynn county now approximately a million dollars of Southwestern Life insurance.

In commenting on the annual financial statement of the Southwestern Life Insurance Company recently issued, Mr. Skinner said that C. F. O'Donnell, president, has announced that no increase in Southwestern Life rates is contemplated. "Lots of people think that life insurance rates are about the same among legal reserve companies," continued Mr. Skinner. "This belief is probably based on the fact that there is a minimum below which no company can safely go, determined by definite mortality tables and conservative expectations of interest earned on investments. But most companies' premiums are well above this minimum, and today there is a larger difference between the rates of the leading companies than ever before."

"The companies with the best records on their investments and the lowest overhead expenses are naturally able to make lower rates than their competitors. Every change in ordinary life insurance rates made by Southwestern Life during its 35 years' history has been downward. Safety, of course, is of absolute first importance in the buying of life insurance, but the careful buyer today can save money without sacrificing anything in the way of security."

Mr. Skinner also reported that due to continued satisfactory earnings on Southwestern Life's investments, the rate of excess interest allowed on proceeds of maturing policies left with the company will be one-half of one per cent during 1938, making a total of four per cent paid, three and one-half per cent being guaranteed.

Warning Is Given Against Influenza

Austin, Feb. 4.—Influenza, while not of such prevalence as last year, is still occurring frequently enough to cause alarm, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

In its present form, its symptoms may range from a common cold to high fever, backache and prostration. However, pneumonia as a complication represents the real hazard. And, as is well known, pneumonia is an exceedingly dangerous foe. The remedy is bed on first appearance of a cold, and remaining there until advised by the physician that one can safely get out of it.

Everyone should realize that in its mildest form influenza can easily become a very serious matter. Of course, prevention is better than cure. While influenza seems to be no respecter of persons, the careful observance of a few common sense rules will materially strengthen one's resistance to an attack. Some of these rules:

Insofar as possible, avoid intimate contact with members of the family who have colds or influenza.

Keep the feet dry. Wash the hands thoroughly before meals.

And if you do develop influenza, see your doctor at once.

Mall Structures At New York Fair To Break Records

NEW YORK (Special)—Not only will the New York World's Fair 1939 be the largest exposition in history, but it will have the most luxurious Central Mall ever designed, a mile-long walk to cost $50,000,000, Grover A. Whalen, president of the Fair corporation, announces.

And, not only will the Mall be the most magnificent ever laid out, but it will contain a number of other "largests"—structural works of art that have never been surpassed for size or elegance, he added.

In addition to the Trylon, tallest triangular spire ever raised, and the Perisphere, largest ball ever made by mankind, the Mall will form a setting for the largest portrait statue fashioned since the Egyptians heaved the likeness of Rameses II from rock in the land of the Nile. It will portray George Washington as he arrived for his inauguration exactly 150 years previous to the opening day of the Fair. It will be 65 feet tall and its mass will be more than 500 tons that of an average six-foot man.

The tallest sundial ever erected, supported by a life-size tree sculptured by the celebrated Paulanship, will actually tell time for Fair visitors, for the numerals denoting the hours of the day will be set in a huge, circular plot where the sundial's shadow will fall from 50 feet above.

More than a million plants and a thousand trees will be used in landscaping the Mall.

Tahoka Appliance Sets Sales Record

Sam Singleton of the Tahoka Appliance Company this week received a communication from the Philco Manufacturing Company informing him that his firm had won a trip to Mexico City in the big Philco contest which closed February 1.

The trip is given to the firm that makes the most sales of Philco radios in any county in its class in a given territory, as we understand it. Counties are classified according to population, and this district includes all the territory in Texas west of Fort Worth and lying north of the Texas & Pacific Railway and also a portion of eastern New Mexico.

The Tahoka Appliance Company made more sales during the period of the contest than any other dealer in any county in this territory falling in Lynn county's class.

Mr. Singleton was advised that the winning dealers would leave Fort Worth on Wednesday, February 9, for Mexico City and would return to Fort Worth on the following Wednesday. Mr. Singleton hoped that he or some member of his firm would be able to make the trip.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our many friends in Tahoka for their exceeding great kindness to us in the misfortune that overtook us when our husband and father, W. L. Brown, was struck and injured by an automobile Friday morning. We are thankful for every act of assistance rendered and every expression of sympathy.

We desire to state further that we blame no one for the accident. The young lady who was driving the car that struck him has done everything possible for us and for him. We know that the occurrence was purely accidental, and we appreciate her efforts to make recompense for the injury.—Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mrs. W. C. Wells, Ben T. Brown.

Baked Peaches for Garnish or Dessert.

CANNED peach halves baked in their own syrup with the addition of sugar, butter and a suspicion of cinnamon make an ideal fruit to feature with the meat course or they are equally delicious to have for dessert. Serve them hot or cold but hot fruit during the winter months is especially good.

Baked Peaches.

1 No. 2 1/2 can peach halves 2 tablespoons butter 1/4 cup brown sugar Cinnamon

Pour the peaches and the syrup into a shallow pan, a cake pan is convenient to use. Turn the peach halves so the cut side is up. Sprinkle the sugar over the peaches, place a piece of butter in each peach where the pit was removed and sprinkle them ever so lightly with cinnamon. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) until the sugar on the edges of the peach begins to brown, or about 30 minutes. If you wish a more pronounced brown edge, set the pan of peaches under the broiler for a few minutes.

Canned pear halves are delicious prepared in this same manner.

If the fruit is served as a dessert, plain cream is nice to serve with it.

MARJORIE H. BLACK.

Advertising of canned fruits and vegetables created demand, produced competition, made large and economical production possible, provided markets for the farmers and owners of orchards, and jobs for many thousands of people. The consumer profits by better quality and lower prices. Without advertising, these things could not have happened.

Why of Hollywood
Movie companies first settled in Early movies were made in sun-

"The Harbor Horror"

By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY: Frank V. Hann of Hackensack, N. J., is with us today, to tell us the story of the shortest sea voyage he ever made. It's a yarn that proves that all sea-going thrillers don't happen out on the ocean where the waves run high and the wind screams through the rigging. For this particular trip ended in adventure—and terrible tragedy—before the ship was out of the harbor.

It was at Halifax, on October 28, 1929, that the cruise started. Frank was first mate of the steamer "Larking," which was due to sail that night. It was a dark, cloudy day, and the loading gang was working at a fast pace to finish while it was still light.

There were only a few cases left to come aboard, when word came from the company agent that the two carloads of iron pipe had to be loaded. The holds were full, and the only available space for that pipe was on the open deck, but orders were orders and the pipe had to come aboard.

The pipe arrived and the gang started loading it on the after deck. That pipe was to give Frank Hann the most terrible moments of his life.

It Was a Bad Night for Navigation.

The ship finally got under way, but darkness shut down just as they cleared the dock. A drizzling rain had started to fall, and visibility was poor. Traffic in the channel seemed to be unusually heavy that night, and navigation on those dark, murky waters was dangerous. Whistles or tugs and harbor craft were blowing on all sides. Lights were hard to distinguish through the rain. But the "Larking" got along all right until it was almost clear of the harbor limits.

Then, suddenly, the officer on watch spied a small light directly ahead. He called Captain Williams' attention to it and the captain, after studying it for several seconds, made out a dark mass on the water, decided it was a tow boat. He gave an order to alter the ship's course slightly to port. The ship's whistles were blown to signal the tug. The captain figured—and rightly—that he would clear the tug by thus altering his course, but a minute later—too late—the men on the bridge saw a number of mud scows being towed along behind the tug, and the ships headed straight for them!

The captain ordered, "Full speed astern," but that helped mighty little. Before the momentum of the ship could be checked they struck the hawser between the first and second scows. The second scow swung around against the side of the ship, and there was an ominous grinding, and a ripping of steel plates.

Big Hole Below the Water Line.

"For a moment," Frank says, "we were all stunned. Captain Williams shouted to me: 'Get below, Mr. Hann, and see how badly we've been hit and how much water we're taking.' I dashed down the ladder and came back to report a big hole in the side below the water line, with the water coming in like Niagara. Even as I was speaking the ship began to list. Captain Williams seized the tube and called down to the engineer, 'Have the men draw the fires and all report on deck at once!'"

Nothing in the world would save that ship. The boats were lowered and the crew clambered in. Frank and the captain were just about to get in themselves, when the captain remembered his papers and went back to get them. The ships after deck was almost level with the water by that time. Her bow was already under. And then a terrible thing happened.

"The captain had just come out of the pilot house," says Frank, "and clambered down the ladder to the deck, when suddenly the ship gave a sickening lurch, and Williams was thrown against the deck house. And then, as in a nightmare, I saw the iron pipe which had been stowed on the after deck shift with the movement of the ship.

Captain Williams' Terrible Plight.

"I saw Williams pinned to the deck house up to his knees by tons of iron pipe. His legs must have been broken instantly, for his eyes almost started out of their sockets. His cries rent the air as the chief engineer and I started toward him. The bow of the ship was under water, and moments were precious now. In desperation, we tried to move some of the heavy pieces of iron, but our efforts were pathetic.

"The sweat was pouring off our faces, and our lungs almost burst under the strain. Our task was hopeless, and to make matters worse, the water was already creeping up to our shoes. We knew we could never move that pipe in time, so we abandoned this effort and made a hysterical attempt to drag Williams—who weighed two hundred pounds—clear of the pipe that was crushing his legs. We took hold of his arms and tried to pull him loose by sheer force."

Then followed a scene that Frank will never forget. Tears were streaming down Captain Williams' face, and his cries were terrible to hear. "My God," he moaned, "why did you have to do this to me?" And then he began shrieking over and over again, "Get me loose—get me loose! I don't want to die!"

Says Frank: "I had never witnessed such terror in my life. He was half out of his mind by this time. Suddenly he clutched each of us by an arm, with all the fearful strength of a man bereft of his senses. We were standing higher than he was, but his grip was terrific. I knew he was doomed, and if we could not break away we were doomed with him. Already the water had passed our knees and was working up to our waists. Still we tried, with ebbing strength, to break away from him. But it was no use."

The water was up to their chests now. The ship would go under any moment. The water began covering the Captain's face. Still he hung on. It seemed an interminable time before his grip relaxed. Then Frank and the engineer, their strength almost gone, turned and swam to the waiting lifeboat.

So, in the calm waters of the harbor a captain went down with his ship and Frank Hann finished the shortest voyage he ever made. Copyright.—WNU Service.

Westminster Abbey's Towers
In Eighteenth-century England, prison warders and guards, being unassisted, were obliged to live on the fees and fines they imposed on the inmates. Largest and most imperative was the "delivery fee," demanded on release. One paid—or stayed. Persons found not guilty by court trial and even those who were never tried for lack of evidence were likewise held, says Collier's Weekly, sometimes for months until they could make this payment.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for February 6

CHALLENGING THE SOCIAL ORDER

LESSON TEXT—Mark 2:13-22. GOLDEN TEXT—I came not to call the righteous, but sinners—Mark 2:17. PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Had Dinner With Matthew. JUNIOR TOPIC—When Jesus Passed By. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Helping by Being Friendly. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Crusading for a Christian Society.

"Crusading for a Christian Society," is one of the topics assigned for consideration today. Everyone who is right thinking would be glad if the social order of which we are all a part might be made Christian, for it is far from it now. But foredoomed to failure are the attempts to Christianize society by some great program of "social regeneration." God's way is to save the individual who makes up the social order. When a man is right with God he will be right with his fellow man.

The Scripture lesson for today is full of outstanding spiritual principles of the greatest practical import to both Christians and the unconverted. It should be studied by the guidance of the Holy Spirit and taught in his power.

I. One Sinner Becomes a Servant (vv. 13, 14).

Capernaum was so situated that it provided an excellent location for the collection of the Roman taxes which the Jews so hated. There at the "receipt of custom" sat a Jew named Levi, who was no doubt despised by his neighbors because he had joined in this distasteful business. To him came the gracious Lord with the invitation, "Follow me." How different would be the history of the cause of Christ on earth if every other man who thus was called had done likewise. To follow the Master means sacrifice and breaking with the old life, but it also means peace and glory.

II. Many Sinners Meet the Lord (v. 15).

Levi, who now becomes Matthew, showed his love for the Lord by desiring that his friends might also meet him. So he prepared a dinner for them in his own house, to which he also invited Jesus.

It is always dangerous for a Christian to maintain social contact with his former companions in sin, if he does so for his own enjoyment or advantage. But to be his friends that one may win them to Christ, that is most desirable.

III. Some Righteous Folk Miss the Lord (vv. 16, 17).

Sin is an unspeakably horrible thing that separates men from God, but it is not an insuperable barrier, for the moment a man confesses his sin and calls on the Saviour—he is saved. But self-righteousness—that is the impassable barrier. God can do nothing for the man who rests his hope of salvation on his own good character, high morality, and respectable position in society.

IV. Fasting and Feasting—When and Why (vv. 18-20).

God established one fast day for Israel. They established many, especially the Pharisees. Religion that loses its spiritual life and power clings with tenacity to outward observances and symbols.

Should one never fast? Yes, to the true follower of Jesus there come times when the urgency of soul concerning the problems of one's own life, the lives of others, the needs of the world, shuts the door of interest to anything as ordinary as food for the body.

Feasting and rejoicing—are these spiritual and uplifting? Christianity is a joyful faith. It is not to be hidden in damp, dark cloisters; it thrives in the sunshine, in the happy laughter of a child, in the cheerful shout of the saint. The Church is the Bride of Christ. If the friends of the bridegroom were to rejoice (v. 19), should not the Bride shout for joy?

V. New Things versus Old Things (vv. 21, 22).

The Pharisees wanted the gospel of grace to conform to the narrow channels of their interpretation of the law. Was not the law good? Yes, Jesus said he came not to destroy it, but to fulfill it (Matt. 5:17). He bore the curse of the law that we might be free (Gal. 3:13, 14). But he also brought in the new covenant of assurance and grace.

The mixing of grace and law, or the effort to do so, has continued even to our day. Let us be clear on that point—we are saved by grace, not by the works of the law (Eph. 2:8, 9). We work because we are saved, not in order to be saved.

Something for Everybody

SEW-YOUR-OWN spells economy and a better wardrobe for all the family, as these patterns indicate. You can sew at home during brisk winter days and have a new dress for all the family in no time at all and at very little expense. When you sew, you spend only a fraction of what you would usually pay for dresses of this character. Enlist the family's enthusiasm, and you can make winter days cheery for all of you by planning something new to wear.

For Little Sister. A copy of the popular Big Apple frock with the same flaring skirt, fitted bodice and short, puffed sleeves. The dress that your little girl will adore wearing, for she likes these copy-cat fashions. Make it for Spring school days of chambray, percale or cotton broadcloth. For immediate wear, try it in serge or flannel. It is a dress that has flaring, graceful lines.

For Mother. This slenderizing coat frock is one which you will find becoming and comfortable to wear. Designed on Princess lines with long surplice collar and two button closing at waistline, it is as easy to get into as a coat and as easy to wear. TIPS to Gardeners

Soils Flowers Prefer GARDENERS will have better success with their flowers if care is taken to plant them in the most suitable soils available, for certain flowers have rather peculiar soil preferences.

Even though you may have beds of good, rich soil, there are some flowers that will not do so well in it as they might in poorer soil, according to Gilbert Bentley, flower expert.

The most satisfactory flowers for soil that is generally poor are nasturtium, love-lies-bleeding, Joseph's coat, celosia, alyssum, California poppy, calendula, love-in-a-mist and hollyhock.

Zinnia, petunia, portulaca, snapdragon, stock, heliotrope, marigold and salvia do best in a rich soil. Soil that is heavy and contains clay is good for sweet peas, pansies, snapdragons; and most of the popular perennials. In general, a heavy soil retains more moisture and is cooler than a light soil. Plants that like a heavy soil also like cool, moist weather.

Early Arc Lamps

When Charles Brush's arc lamps were lighted for the first time at Cleveland's public square in 1879 many persons looked at them through smoked glasses. They thought the light coming from these new contraptions would injure their eyes. Many women complained that these "bright" lights would not do justice to their complexions.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

Men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is lovable for three weeks of the month—but a hell-out the fourth. No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure. Make a note NOW to get a bottle of Pinkham's today WITHOUT FAIL from your druggist—more than a million women have written in letters reporting benefits. Why not try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND?

A Better Thing

It is a good thing to be rich, and a good thing to be strong, but it is a better thing to be beloved of many friends.—Euripides.

No Standing Still All that is human must retrograde if it does not advance.—Gibbon.

Fruit of Patience Patience is bitter, but its fruit sweet.—Rousseau.

CONSTIPATED?

To keep food waste soft and moving, many doctors recommend Nujol—because of its gentle, lubricating action.
