Crowley Lambasts McCraw, O'Daniel

We do not think that Karl A. Crowley has made much headway in his own race for the governorship, but he has been building a red-hot fire under some of the other candidates.

This week he sent to the weekly newspapers of the state an attack upon other candidates, particularly William E. McCraw and Lee O'Daniel. Concerning William McCraw he says: "Mr. William McCraw is the only member of my family that has not always been an ardent Republican. His father ran a Republican newspaper against William Jennings Bryan later was a candidate on the Republican ticket against Tom Love. His sister is a fine, outstanding, leading Republican young woman, who was elected an alternate Republican delegate to the convention where Republicans R. B. Creager, Eugene Nolte, Orville Bullington, and others nominated Herbert Hoover, who defeated our candidate in the November 1928 election."

From these alleged facts, Mr. Crowley draws the inference that Mr. McCraw is himself a Democrat only because it is convenient for him to be one.

"But the prize ridiculous situation", says Mr. Crowley, "is for an outright Yankee to drift down into Texas from Ohio and try to take over this Democratic state, with the use of a fiddle, band, and demagoguery of the worst type."

"It is my information that Mr. W. Lee O'Daniel drifted into Texas ten or eleven years ago from the state of Ohio and has never participated as a citizen in any of the public business of the state."

"It has been stated to me by reputable people that he never voted either as a Democrat or as a Republican, and I challenge him to state the time and place where he ever voted as a citizen of Texas or ever paid a poll tax required by law to be paid for a citizen to vote."

"Mr. O'Daniel claims to be a big flour mill man and leaves that impression with his audiences, but it is a true fact that he never did own a flour mill and does not own one now. The flour sack shows it to be milled by the flour trust."

Ball Club Shows Improvement

The Blue Socks broke over during the holidays. They lost to Eunice 6 to 5 Sunday and then beat Seagraves 13 to 2 Monday, July 4.

Lane pitched for Tahoka Sunday while Wade Holland caught. The game was all tied up till the seventh inning and a slight overthrow from third to first let a runner go home, from third for Eunice, making the score 6 and 5 in their favor. No more runs were made after that. That just goes to show how easy it is to lose a good ball game.

Lane having pitched for the Blue Socks Sunday at Eunice, this left the Blue Socks up against it for a pitcher Monday. So Jake found a boy out at New Home to pitch. He is about 18 years old and his name is Joe Randall. Joe surprised the boys and Jake too. He held them to two runs and struck out Seagraves' six best hitters.

The Blue Socks broke all the bats they had, so they borrowed all the bats Seagraves had, and broke them. Had there been any more bats, or had the game lasted a little longer, they would have broken all records and also made the field look like the Churchill Downs up in old Kentucky. The game at the end of the ninth was: the Tahoka Blue Socks 13, Seagraves 2.

Keep up the good work, boys and you will whip Plainview here next Sunday and everyone else that comes along. Plainview is coming down here next Sunday, so let's all go out and help the Blue Socks win this game.

The Blue Socks have won three and lost three, so let's help them win from now on.

Judge Tom Beauchamp and G.B. Birdwell, an oil man, both of Tyler, were Tahoka visitors this week. J.B. Nance showed them about over portions of the county while they were here.

Editor Of News In Car Accident

The condition of E. I. Hill, Senior Editor of the News, is now considered very satisfactory by attaches of a Lubbock hospital where he is recovering from a fracture of the lower left leg, shock, and body bruises, sustained when accidentally struck by the car of a friend as he was crossing a street in Tahoka Wednesday morning about eleven o'clock.

After preliminary examinations and first aid treatment in the office of a local physician Mr. Hill was carried to Lubbock by a Harris ambulance, where x-ray examination revealed only one broken bone, a comminution fracture of the fibula just below the knee of the left leg. This section of the leg was soon placed in a cast and it is thought that Mr. Hill will be brought home on Friday or Saturday of this week.

Immediately upon learning of the accident to Mr. Hill members of the Staff of the Lubbock Avalanche, The Post Dispatch, and several individual newspaper people generously offered their services, and the use of their facilities to the News, and for these kindnesses we extend our sincere thanks.

Attends Funeral At Shamrock

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Giles of Redwine returned home Tuesday after having attended funeral services for Mr. Giles' sister, Mrs. J. H. Walker, at Shamrock Monday.

Mrs. Walker, 43, died at Bakersfield, California, on Thursday of last week as the result of an operation. She had been a resident of California only 18 months, her former home being at Shamrock, where she had resided twelve years.

Mr. Giles says her death was unexpected and was a great shock to the family.

Marriage License Issued This Week

The following marriage license were issued during the past week: Mr. Donald Vaughan of Colorado, Texas, and Miss Dora Mae Terral of Lamesa.

Andrew Simmons of O'Donnell and Wilma Jane Phillips of San Antonio.

Ulyses Virgil Bolch of O'Donnell and Nola Marguerite Schelburne of Stanton. They were married by the Rev. George A. Dale here.

Presbyterian Services Announced For Sunday

The year is half gone. The Fourth of July sweeps by us with its usual recreations and tragedies in the effort to celebrate our dearly bought liberties, in the greatest civilization and government of the ages.

We are learning that there is no real progress among the nations where God is obscured and forgotten by his people, that no nation is scarcely better than its leaders or leadership in state or church, and that no institution in all our civilization is more important or indispensable than the Church and public worship; for, as goes the Church, so goes morals, education, and vital godliness among the people. In hot weather or cold weather, in all seasons of the passing years, the last noble cause to slight is public worship and the Church of our Lord. The surest anchor of any civilization is Godliness. What a blessing is the gospel when preached and lived out there among the people.

Be in our services at 11 a. m. Sunday, Sunday school at 10 a. m. A fine lesson on Caleb—the Old Testament good man. Read this fine lesson and come.

Subject of morning sermon: How to Grow Old Gracefully. Start to prepare for the inevitable before it comes. Fine old gospel songs. If you don't attend church elsewhere, day. You are cordially invited—glad to have you with us next Sunday. W. J. Johnston, minister.

New Lynn Club Meets with Mrs. Roy Kelley

Work To Start On 84 East

County Judge P. W. Goad stated Wednesday morning that he had received notice from the State Highway Department officials at Austin that work on Highway 84 east of Tahoka would start by July 12.

This information will be received as good news to the citizens of Tahoka and Lynn county as this stretch of highway has long needed repair. It is hoped that work will be rushed to completion once it is started.

Club Girls To Short Course

Lynn county sent the largest delegation of 4-H club girls to College Station to attend the short course of any county in district No. 2, which includes many counties in this section of the state, according to Miss Lillith Boyd, county home demonstration agent.

Eight girls and their sponsor, Mrs. J. W. Lowrey of Petty, left Monday morning, going by bus from Lubbock, and they expect to return home Sunday.

The girls and the clubs they represent are as follows: Wells, Billie; Etter and Clota Rae Jones; Midway, Nieto and Isaphene Stephens; Petty, Wilma Doris Crews and Joyce Porter; Grassland, Frances Aten; New Home, Thelma Ruth Strain.

Miss Lillith Boyd, county home demonstration agent, left Wednesday morning to attend the state agents' meeting and the women's division of the farmers' short course. She will return in time to be back in her office Monday, July 18.

Members of Lynn county H. D. Clubs will leave next Monday and be in attendance upon the short course all the week. Those expecting to attend are: Mrs. H. M. Snowden and Mrs. James Connolly of Tahoka, Mrs. Doyle Terry of New Lynn, Mrs. P. D. Server of Wilson, and Mrs. John Earles of O'Donnell. They will also go by bus out of Lubbock and will return the following Saturday night.

Soft Ball League Standings To Date

Morgan is leading the list in the Wilson Softball Tournament.

Morgan, Wilson and the Still and Guess teams seem to be putting up a do or die fight for that little pennant.

Here are how they stand.

Team	Won	Lost
Morgan	6	1
Wilson	5	2
Still & Guess	5	2
Tahoka	4	3
Wayside	4	3
Petty	1	5
New Home	1	5

Saturday night there is going to be a double header up at the Wilson Ball Park.

Doc Cook's Pill Rollers are going to play the boys from Lamesa the first game. The second game will be played by the Tahoka colored ball club and the colored team of Stanton.

It sounds like there is going to be plenty of fun up at Wilson Saturday night so go over and boost your favorite team.

I'm sorry that we didn't get your baseball dope last week Doc, but if you will call me or send it down some way I sure will appreciate it.

Negroes Are Jailed For Chicken Theft

Two or three weeks ago W.L. Burkhalter of New Home missed a bunch of hens from his chicken house. Officers were put wise and began an investigation. Sheriff E. L. Parker announced the first of this week that he had two negroes in the lock-up charged with the theft of the poultry.

The two accused men give their names as John Clark and Henry D. Lewis. They have signed statements confessing the offense. It is said that they have been guilty of similar offenses before.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Knight spent the Fourth in Christoval.

Big Crowd Hear Candidates

The political rally at Midway, on Tuesday night was attended by one of the largest crowds assembled so far for such a meeting. All the candidates were there and cake and punch was served to all visitors, even the candidates were able to steal a little piece of the cake and a sip of the punch, speaking and refreshment.

Bad Roads Are Bad Roads

The State Highway Department is conducting a "safe-driving" campaign at this time.

A poster that they are now putting out states that "Bad Brakes Are Bad Breaks for motorists and pedestrians."

They then call attention to some facts that show how dangerous it is to drive fast where many cars are on the highway or where it may become necessary to stop quickly.

A car going only 20 miles per hour goes 29 feet every second; an ordinary driver, if caught in an emergency, could not stop it in less than 40 feet. And experts have compiled similar figures for the various speeds.

At 30 miles per hour a car is going 44 feet a second, and it could not be stopped under like circumstances in less than 73 feet.

40 miles per hour, 59 feet per second, stopped in 115 feet.

50 miles per hour, 74 feet per second, stopped in 166 feet.

60 miles per hour 88 feet per second, stopped in 226 feet.

70 miles per hour, 103 feet per second, stopped in 295 feet.

Don't drive too fast.

Candidates Will Speak At T-Bar

There will be a candidate speaking at the T-Bar School house, July 12th, at 8 o'clock. All candidates of County, District and State are invited to be present and speak. At the beginning of the speaking the T-Bar club girls will sell ice cream cones and at the close of the speaking the Ladies Home Demonstration Club will sell socks filled with sandwiches, fruit and cookies. There will be free lemonade and iced tea for everyone. Pee Wee and his Jungle Boys will play during the refreshments.

Sister Of Local Woman Morried

Frances Meador of San Antonio was married June 30th to Thomas E. Nix of New York City.

Francis was well known around here and has many friends who wish them a long and successful marriage.

Francis Meador and Mrs. W.S. Taylor are sisters.

They are now making their home in New Mexico.

Jack Morris, who had been visiting relatives in Lubbock, returned home Saturday.

Mrs. Annie Foster and daughter of O'Donnell visited Mrs. Emma Olo Musick on the Fourth.

The Low-down On High-up Candidates

Tahoka Girl Given Military Title

Miss Claudia Draper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Draper, reared in the Midway community in this county, is now Lieutenant, Claudia Draper of the United States Army, according to the Spokane Daily Chronicle, of June 23, a copy of which was exhibited to us Saturday by Miss Draper's mother.

The Chronicle not only carried a news item to the effect that Miss Draper had been given a Lieutenant's commission but carried also a two-column picture of Lieutenant Draper of the United States Army commission.

Miss Claudia had been a registered nurse with the CCC hospital unit at Fort George Wright, Washington, where her brother-in-law Captain John D. D. pre, had been a medical officer. She was recently and was preparing to go to her new assignment, the Army Air Corps hospital at March field, near Los Angeles.

Co-op Farmers Will Meet

Mr. B. J. Emanuel, President of the Farmers Cooperative Association No. 1 announces that a general meeting of the members has been called for July 12th, at which time fifty percent of the earnings covered by stock for the first year's operations will be retired in cash. Other business will be discussed and all members are urged to attend.

The meeting will be held at the gin at 8:30 p. m.

Newmore, Lakeview To Hear Candidates

According to information furnished us, the Candidates will again meet in the Lakeview and Newmore communities.

The citizens of the Lakeview community will hear them on Wednesday night the 13. And on Thursday night July 14 the people of the Newmore community will have the opportunity to hear them again.

A. J. Powell of Dierks, Arkansas, arrived here July 4 to spend a month visiting his brother-in-law A. W. Bratcher of Draw. Mr. Powell reports that crops in Arkansas are unusually good this year.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Randal and two children of Seymour spent Sunday and Monday here as the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Ben Hardy. Mrs. Randal and Mrs. Hardy are sisters.

Sudan Man Is Moving Here

H. P. Lee has accepted a position as bookkeeper with the Farmers Cooperative Association and he and his wife moved here from Sudan. The past season he was connected with the Farmers Co-op Gin at Grassland. His wife is the former Evelyn Stewart of Grassland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Hill and daughter, Patricia are this week on a vacation trip to south Texas or Gulf Coast. Frank is out for a much needed rest and therefore has not as yet been notified of his fathers accident. They are expected to return sometime next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry of Dallas were here this week visiting in the home of Charlie Curry. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Borden Davis in Brownfield. Several years ago Albert was an employee of the News.

Miss Ruby Ratteree of Dallas spent the Fourth here with her friend, Mrs. L.T. Robertson, at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. J.H. Cobb.

Well, we hoped to be able to give the low-down as usual on most of the candidates for state offices this week, but there are many of them that we know little about. However, we will do our best.

For Governor
Thirteen candidates for governor! Whoever heard of such a political mess? Most of them are practically unknown to us common folks. But we will go down the list as they will appear on the ballot of the Lynn county voters.

First, there is W. Lee O'Daniel, the flour miller, the leader of the Hill Billies, the showman. Back in January he had not thought of becoming a candidate for governor and neglected to pay his poll tax. He is not even a voter. He surely must have been greatly interested in the welfare of his state! Did not even care enough about it to prepare himself to vote. Was so disgusted with the politicians, he says, that he just decided to keep that old dollar and six bits in his pants. But along in February a bunch of other fellows began to announce, and it occurred to the showman that he might get a lot of publicity by announcing himself. It was a capital idea. It would help him advertise his flour. So, he announced. And lo and behold the miracle that happened! People began to flock to his standard and today it seems that he is likely to be the leading candidate. Not having any very decided views, apparently, as to the legislation needed, if any, he pulled another publicity stunt by announcing that the Ten Commandments were his platform. And so there you are. He may become governor, but hand if we know what he will do with the office if he gets it. Now, if a lot of you folks are already sore at what we have written above, you needn't read any further, unless you want to.

Second on the list is Tom Hunter. Tom has been a candidate for so many times that everybody knows him. He always runs well too, but he has just never been able to get enough votes to place him in sight of Austin. Tom has been defeated so much that he is a little sour on the world, but he is a pretty able fellow and might not be a bad governor. In fact he is probably better material than most of the other candidates.

Now comes Ernest O. Thompson. As a youth Thompson had to make his own way, we understand, but he was resourceful. He was a plunger and he had a lot of confidence in himself. As a young man he began making money. In the course of time he acquired quite a bit of wealth and built a big hotel in his home town, Amarillo. He ran for mayor on a platform promising to force the gas and electric light people to cut their rates. He won, and the fight against the corporations began. Again he won. He forced rates in Amarillo a way down. This brought him a lot of notoriety. Then he ran for railroad commissioner. The depression had come on in the meantime and swept away most of his property. He was elected to the railroad commission and unquestionably he has been the dominating figure on that body. He is a man of strong intellect, though he is no orator and is not as good a campaigner as some of the other candidates. It is generally conceded that he is one of the three high men in the race.

The name of Clarence R. Miller is the fourth on the list. He lives in Dallas and owns a string of cotton mills, or at least the controlling interest in them. They say his employees are for him a hundred per cent. He must be a good man, but of course he has no chance.

P. D. Renfro is mayor of Beaumont, or has been. He claims to have made a great record as mayor. He may be an able man, but he is not in the running.

The name of Marvin P. McCoy of Harris county is the sixth name from the top. We presume he lives in Houston. Who he is or what he is is unknown to us. If any of you fellows know anything about him, wish you would tell us.

We'll be hanged if we know who (Cont'd. on back page)

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—As a token of good will, President Kemal Ataturk of Turkey sends his bomb-tossing adopted daughter on a flight over Greece and the Balkans. She holds a diamond medal for bombing Kurds, having out-scored veteran male fliers in a recent work-out.

When the timid and demure Turkish women started coming out from the harem, they kept right on going. They seem to be out-distancing our girls who are merely coming out of the kitchen.

Turkey's "Flying Amazon" is Sabiha Gueckchen, twenty-four-year-old daughter of a Turkish army captain who was killed fighting Greeks in 1921. She is a pretty little thing.

An admiring woman correspondent described her as "shy and demure," with quick recourse to her "modish little vanity case," as she climbed from her plane after a hard day's bombing. That was in the Dersim area, in eastern Anatolia, in which she had been blasting the Kurds out of their caves.

She is a first lieutenant in the Turkish army, the only woman air force officer in the world.

Her French flying instructor says she is the most gifted woman acrobatic pilot in the world. She was trained in flying and gliding in Russia and later was a cadet in the Turkish army air force school. She rides a single-seated military plane, handles all types of planes and is especially accurate and skillful in bombing.

It is said no aviator in Turkey can match her in diving and stunting, but she shrinks modestly from all such, possibly unfeminine, exhibitionism, and sticks to her drum bombing tasks.

HERE is another diverting little news note, in sharp contrast, however, on the emergence of the modern woman. At her home in New York, Mrs. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler presents prizes of $750 to the winners of the annual "Intellectual Olympics," conducted by her new history society.

Happily the flying bomb put is not included in her decathlon. She has been for many years a diligent and earnest advocate of peace and brotherhood, working through the international Bahaiist movement, of which she has long been a leader. She derives from the Blue book and has turned from society to religious and humanitarian concerns.

Her husband, now retired, is a great-grandson of John Jacob Astor, and a former lieutenant governor of New York. He is a big, gray, silent man, walking a small white poodle dog, rarely seen at his wife's salon, but a loyal partner in her endeavors. He is the brother of the late Bob and John Chanler.

The flaming-haired Valeska Suratt was an instrument of fate in the life of Mrs. Chanler. They were jointly engaged in a Hollywood script enterprise when Miss Suratt introduced her to Mirza Ahmed Sahrab, descendant of Mohammed and a disciple of the Abdul Baha. He was her tutor in the esoteric faith whose followers, like those of the Oxford movement, fervently believe the world can be saved only by a religious and cultural internationalism.

DOWN in Peru, this writer knew some dilatory natives who frequently used a word which meant, "not tomorrow, but day after tomorrow and maybe not then."

Dick Gets Degree 20 Years Late
From a n e i e n t parchment, Trinity college dons lift the reverse expression—"nunc pro tunc," which means "now instead of then." With this high academic sanction, they are enabled to deal a bachelor's degree to Richard Barthelme, who failed to touch second when he was there 20 years ago.

Baseball moguls could now say "nunc pro tunc" and hand Fred Merkle that run he didn't get in 1908. If the custom gets going, it might open the way for some European debt payments.

Mr. Barthelme is one of the thinning line of the stars of the old silent screen who remain in the public consciousness. His mother was Caroline Harris, an actress of the Biograph days. She gave Nazimova English lessons and in return Nazimova gave her by his professional start in "War Brides." "Broken Blossoms," with Dorothy Gish, was his last big success.

CHANCE FOR RECOVERY.

President's Call for Help Indicates Compromise . . . He Demands Election of Liberals to Congress

Speediest ship in our navy, the destroyer McCall, was commissioned at the Mare Island navy yard in California. The McCall, first privately built navy vessel since 1921, has a specified speed of 38 1/2 knots, but in recent tests was reported to have averaged 42 knots. It carries four 5-inch guns and four quadruple torpedo tubes and is especially fitted for quick attacks on capital ships.

Signs of Compromise

THERE are distinct indications of compromise and co-operation in the American picture, and hopes for restored prosperity are somewhat revived. The stock market has become unusually active, and private enterprise is awakening. Unfreezing of three billions in stored-up credit is expected to result from new banking regulations ordered by the President. Thousands of contracts for approved projects to cost almost $500,000,000 have been sent to all parts of the country by the Public Works administration.

Mr. Roosevelt, in his latest radio address to the nation, said: "In simple frankness and in simple honesty, I need all the help I can get," and it seems that the people are ready to give that help if the administration will do its part.

Notable in the President's talk was the admission that mistakes have been made not only by his opponents and by industry and labor, but also by government leaders. He sharply attacked reactionaries in business, blaming them for much of the current depression.

Asserting his continued belief in individual enterprise and the profit motive, he criticized the recent congress for failing to enact his program for government reorganization and legislation to aid the financially depressed railroad industry. At the same time, however, he said the legislators "achieved more for the future good of the country than any congress between the end of the World war and the spring of 1933."

Wants Liberals Elected

MOST of the President's radio speech was frankly political. He declared himself the leader of the liberals and held that, as such, it was his privilege to intervene in state primary and election campaigns for the purpose of insuring the defeat of those whom he characterized as conservatives, the opponents of his policies.

This aroused the indignation of many Democratic statesmen like Senators Burke of Nebraska and King of Utah.

"I believe the people in the districts and states will resent the President's interference," Burke said. "If we were to follow the course he has suggested, we would all be goosestepping behind a leader no matter how beneficent that leader may be. I do not approve of that course."

Senator King asserted the President should not use the great advantage he has in controlling the purse strings of the huge spending program. "People who have fought for the Democratic party for a great many years do not like interference in their state affairs by outsiders," he said. "I do not believe the President should meddle in the primary elections of the Democratic party or any other party."

General opinion was that Mr. Roosevelt had widened the split in the Democratic party and by his words had placed the stamp of his approval on the attempted "purge" directed by Corcoran, Cohen and others of his advisers.

Latest War Scare

BOMBING of loyalist Spanish cities and of British ships in Spanish ports by Generalissimo Franco's insurgent planes led directly to the most recent war scare in Europe. It was reported in London that the loyalists had threatened to bomb Italian and German cities if Franco did not call off his airmen, and in Italy it was asserted that this probably would be regarded as an act of war and would be the cause for appropriate action. The rumors were denied, but their dissemination may have done some good, for information reached the British government that Franco had ordered his aviators to stop bombing British merchant vessels.

However, this news was followed immediately by dispatches saying two more British ships had been bombed in the ports of Valencia and Alicante, several seamen being killed or wounded.

Swedes Celebrate

AMERICANS of Swedish descent by the thousand and many from Sweden gathered at Wilmington, Del., for the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the landing in America of the first Swedes and Finns.

From the old country came Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf with a large party, but he was confined to his suite on the liner Kungsholm by illness. His place was taken by his son, Prince Bertil.

The principal event of the opening ceremony was the presentation of a monument erected by Sweden on the landing site. The presentation was made by Prince Bertil and accepted by President Roosevelt. Then the President presented the monument to Gov. Richard McMullen for the state of Delaware.

After the monument ceremony there was a lawn party attended by Crown Princess Louise.

The celebration was continued for four days in Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, parts of which states were embraced in the New Sweden founded in 1638 by a company of 150 Swedes and Finns sent to America by Gustafus Adolphus.

Mustn't Seize Hainan

THE British and French envoys in Tokyo warned Japan that any occupation of Hainan, Chinese island off the south coast of China, would be met by joint Franco-British action. The island, which lies near French and British trade routes, was bombed by Japanese flyers.

Germany is recalling the Germans who have been acting as advisers to the Chinese army, and diplomats believe Germany may now give active aid to Japan.

Ireland Installs Hyde

IRELAND'S first president, in the person of Dr. Douglas Hyde, was installed in St. Patrick's hall, Dublin castle, where former viceroys held their social functions. The ceremony was conducted entirely in Gaelic and was witnessed by state and church officials, members of parliament and representatives of foreign countries.

Among the last was American Minister John Cudahy.

Dr. Hyde read and signed a declaration in which he promised to defend the constitution and dedicate himself to the service of the people of Ireland. Prime Minister De Valera made a speech in which he said:

"You are now our president, freely chosen under our own laws, inheriting authority and entitled to the respect which Gaels ever gave to rightful chiefs. Not all the territory of Ireland is at the moment under your sway, but the justice of our claim and the tenacity of the Gaels will set that right."

President Hyde has been a poet, historian and educator. He is the son of a protestant clergyman and it is hoped he will bring about a union of Roman Catholic Ireland and Protestant northern Ireland.

SEEN and HEARD around the
NATIONAL CAPITAL
By Carter Field
FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON.—Rep. David J. Lewis, New Deal candidate in the Maryland primary against Sen. Millard E. Tydings, is sure of just one thing—he does not want Harry L. Hopkins, or Harold L. Ickes, or any other New Dealer to endorse him. Actually he is running on a 100 per cent pro-Roosevelt platform. He is running against a man, Tydings, who has voted against the New Deal as consistently as any other of the so-called "purge" group. Not only did Tydings vote against the President on the Supreme court packing bill, but he has stood with Carter Glass, Harry F. Byrd, Josiah W. Bailey and Alva B. Adams on the spending issue. He has worried about the balanced budget, about politics in relief, about federal intrusion on state powers, in fact about everything that any opponent of the President has worried about.

On the contrary Lewis has voted and spoken, when he had the opportunity, for everything the New Deal has stood for. Lewis has always been a little in front of the liberal procession. Back in 1916, when he ran for the senate before, that time against Dr. Joseph I. France, many Marylanders voted against Lewis and for France because they thought Lewis was a Socialist. Reason? Because Lewis was called the father of the parcel post. He and Jonathan Bourne, then a Progressive Republican senator from Oregon, pushed the bill through congress which took the express business away from the railroads. It seems funny, now, but that brand of radicalism was what kept Lewis out of the senate 22 years ago, on an election day when Maryland was going strongly Democratic for the rest of the ticket.

This time Lewis is making a fight for the senate again on the liberal side. His not wanting any Hopkins, or Ickes, or Jimmy Roosevelt endorsements is not pussyfooting, though naturally some of the New Deal element so regards it. It is a clear-visioned view of his own state, an appraisal of Maryland independence, an estimate of an electorate which likes to decide its own problems without outside interference.

Lewis is not pussyfooting about Roosevelt himself. His first public statement of his candidacy not only praised the President to the skies, but endorsed the New Deal in toto. But that opening statement, rather curiously worded, also stated that his fight was being made exclusively by Marylanders. Lewis knows his state fairly well, and knows that any outside interference would not be welcomed.

Incidentally, Gov. Harry W. Nice, the third Republican governor since the Civil war, is being importuned by friends to make the race this year for the senate, instead of running, as he has planned, for re-election as governor. His friends are pointing out that Lewis may win the primary, due not so much to New Deal popularity as to the fact that so many Marylanders seem to be sore on Senator Tydings.

New York Situation
New Dealers and Republicans alike view the situation in New York precipitated by the death of Sen. Royal S. Copeland with mixed emotions. It is generally conceded by those in the know that Gov. Herbert H. Lehman can have the nomination for Copeland's seat if he wishes it. Several other prominent Democrats would like it, but few if any of them would want to take on Lehman for a battle, especially as the contest will be by a rather hard-boiled party convention, looking with cold calculating eyes at the election, rather than in a primary, where the individual voter marks his ballot for whomsoever he pleases without a care as to what the effect may be on carefully laid strategy plans of his party leaders.

But then whom to nominate for governor? It is a curious fact that the bigwigs of the Democratic party in New York were no little concerned about this two years ago, and again this time. They were almost in a panic two years ago, until well into the summer, when they thought Lehman was going to retire. At that time it was by no means clear to them that a big Democratic victory was ahead. They were genuinely afraid that if Lehman did not run they would not only lose the state house, but lose the 47 electoral votes of New York for Roosevelt.

Actually of course Lehman had a tremendous majority, but ran way behind Roosevelt. But the worry is present this year, perhaps based on sounder grounds, perhaps not. There is no way of telling until November, and that might be too late.

Put on Pressure
At any rate, they put the pressure on Sen. Robert F. Wagner, two years ago, to run for governor, and did not relax it until Lehman consented to run again. This year they have been putting the pressure on the senator again. He never did want to run for governor. It is no stepping stone to the presidency for him, for he is ineligible for the higher office, having been born in Germany.

But the mere fact that they have been begging Wagner to run for governor shows the mental state of the Democratic leaders.

Now the problem is complicated. They are letting Wagner alone now, willing for him to run for re-election. But they have to find somebody they think they can elect governor, if Lehman goes for the senate, or for senator, if Lehman decides to run again for governor. And, terrible thought, maybe somebody for both senator and governor if Lehman decides to retire!

All of which is all the stranger to outsiders, especially in view of the size of New York state, when actually the Republican leaders are in the same quandary. They were worried to death, before Copeland passed from the scene, about whom to put up for governor and senator. Now they have to find a candidate for the governorship, and in addition two senatorial candidates.

Looking at the Republican problem, and incidentally at most of the candidates mentioned for the three places, one wonders why the Democratic leaders are worried.

Presidential Booms
The battle of the various anti-Roosevelt groups — conservative, radical and personal—is transferred by the adjournment of congress to the states. The picture is cluttered up by presidential booms. Garner for President movements are more serious than even the vice president thinks. In fact he does not think very much about it, having had to be coaxed at length to make a fight for the nomination in 1932. Then there is the Jim Farley for President boom, sprouting in Boston and elsewhere. Last, and not politically very important for the time being, is the Joe Kennedy boom, which flowered in London just before the ambassador sailed for home.

The importance of these premature presidential booms is way out of proportion to the chances of those mentioned actually landing the nomination. If Garner were just a few years younger he would fit the picture perfectly of the type of compromise candidate the anti-Roosevelt people want. Jim Farley and Joe Kennedy are both Catholics, and the idea still persists in many quarters that it would be uphill sledding to elect a Catholic, despite the fact that the Ku Klux Klan no longer flourishes.

But these booms, and others which may be expected—there is a lot of talk about Cordell Hull—start people thinking about "somebody else." They tend to commit politicians who will name delegates, and tend to "tie them away" from Roosevelt, or even somebody Roosevelt might approve. Their effect is very clear to New Dealers, who are more than a little disturbed about the possible consequences.

All of which turns back on the importance of the primaries yet to come, and to what may happen to New Dealers in the election to follow.

Docile Congress
It is generally agreed that the congress just adjourned—the third of the Roosevelt regime—was remarkably docile for the fifth and sixth years of an administration. Especially because of its extremely top-heavy Democratic majority, which in the nature of things would encourage division into factions. The President was bumped on a few things, but astonishingly few, and he made some surprising comebacks, especially after the rejection of the wage-hour bill.

On these coming primaries and election will depend the temper of his fourth congress. If Roosevelt should win in most of the "purge" states, particularly Maryland, Georgia, South Carolina, and Nevada; if his senate leader, Alben W. Barkley—as seems likely—wins his contest for renomination, and if the Democratic loss of senate and house seats is held to a reasonable figure, the next congress will probably be the most docile any President has ever had in his seventh and eighth years.

Iowa and Pennsylvania could go Republican strongly in November without affecting this situation. Of course if either or both should go Democratic that would make the President all the stronger. But both are regarded as "enemy country."

After all, Iowa even stood against the Woodrow Wilson sweep of the West in 1916, while Pennsylvania went for Hoover in 1932.

IS ELLIJAH'S GOD DEAD?

We do not wish to become tedious nor tiresome, but we promised to offer some feeble remarks this week in answer to Jack Stricklin's rip-roaring editorial which we published last week entitled "BOOTS, SPURS, AND CHAPS". Jack surely did pour it on, and now it's our time; so here goes.

All this little tilt started when we undertook to comment on that awe-inspiring sandstorm that swept across this section of the state a few weeks ago, and in the course of our remarks we quoted the first verse of a majestic poem written many years ago by William Cowper:

"God moves in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform;
He plants His footsteps in the Sea
And rides upon the storm."

That riled Jack. In his mind we were picturing God as a sort of expert bronco buster who had saddled up one of his wildest broncs,
pulled on his boots and chaps,
donned his spurs, and was using the dust clouds as his sporting donned his spurs, and was using pasture or the T-Bar ranch, as the ordinary Terry county cowboy might have done.

Some people are so practical and matter-of-fact that they never recognize nor appreciate figurative language. They miss a lot of the beauty and majesty that surrounds them in the heavens and on the earth because they have no imagination. To them the Carlsbad Cavern is nothing more than a big hole in the ground, a majestic mountain is only a huge pile of rock and dirt, and the Pacific Ocean is just a heck of a big puddle of water.

As we understand it, Jack, Mr.
Cowper did not mean that God was actually dressed up in human clothes and was out there somewhere demonstrating his skill at riding a wild storm cloud. Neither did we mean that God, with boots, chaps, spurs, and quirt, was undertaking to ride upon the crest of that sand storm or that he was salivating around over the country looking after the weather.

We merely meant that the power and majesty of God were being demonstrated and reflected in an unusually spectacular manner by this marvelous display of the forces of nature, which He created and which He certainly must have the power to control.

We do not conceive of God as a Being of flesh and blood but as a great omnipotent, omnipresent Spirit,
who in the ages past made the universe and all material things, while to our finite minds he is pictured as a king seated on His throne. He is also pictured as a Spirit who is present everywhere throughout the universe. There are numbers of passages of Scripture teachings this great truth. The Spirit of God permeates the heavens and the earth. He not only controls but he is in all nature. "In Him we live, move, and have our being." He is a living, busy God, with his hand, figuratively speaking, upon all his works.

Your idea is that when God created the heavens and the earth
and the millions of heavenly bodies,
he had created a perfect machine
that of itself would run forever without a break or a collision or a mishap of any kind. Well, then, when he finished the job, he might as well have gone off somewhere and gone to sleep for the rest of eternity. He might even die, if that were possible, and this old universe would continue to rock on forever
without a break or a wobble.

Yes God did make laws to regulate the rainfall. There are portions of the earth where the rainfall is heavy, and there are other portions where it is exceedingly light; and you and I came here knowing that the annual rainfall, "on an average", is around 20 inches.

But, Jack, there still are some mysteries about this weather business that we have never been able to understand and that the scientists have never been able to explain.

Let us concede that the weather is controlled by natural laws—that the rainfall of a particular section depends on its distance from and position with respect to the sea, its elevation above sea level, its position with respect to mountain ranges, the prevailing direction of the wind, etc. Then, why should there be any substantial variation in rainfall from year to year? Why should we out here in Lynn and Terry counties, for instance, have a dry summer one year and a wet one the next, or vice versa? Why should we have ten inches of rain one year and 30 inches another? We were exactly the same distance from the sea, the same distance from the mountains, the same direction from each, and had the same elevation.
Moreover we were the same distance from the sun and had exactly the same successive positions with respect to the sun both years. Why should we have southwest winds and brazen skies one day after another all the summer one year, and have southeast winds and frequent rains and thunder storms
during the next summer? Can you explain that by natural laws, Jack?
Have the scientists ever explained
it.

Well, it may be foolish, but some of us think that God has a hand in
it.

You think that it would make no difference, "no matter how much we bellowed and prayed over the matter." You don't believe, I take it, that God ever hears his children
when they cry to him in their distress, "no matter how much they may "bellow and pray". Bob Inger-son expressed the same thought in language slightly more polished when, at his brother's grave, he thus voiced his despair: "We cry aloud and the only answer is the echo of our wailing cry."

But the Bible is full of examples of prayer for help and for deliverance from calamity and distress, physical and spiritual. Jesus taught us to pray. "Give us this day our daily bread." Once he said to his disciples: "Are not five sparrows sold for a farthing, and not one of them is forgotten before God. But even the hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not, therefore: ye are of more value than many sparrows."

We admit, Jack, that we know very little about limitless star-studded universe. We know little about the infinite God We can not understand all his providences.
But we do believe that he God, nor an idle God, nor a heedless not a dead God, nor a sleeping less unhearing God. We believe that he is a living God, an all-powerful God, an everywhere-present God,
an active God still ruling and running His universe, and a loving, merciful God caring for those who love, trust and obey Him and who cry to Him for help in their distress.

Wine is a mocker. Strong drink is an infamous deceiver. It likes a shining mark for a victim. The other day two Fort Worth youths were tempted to drink. One of them was a college student. The other held a good position in a store.
Both of them were members of a church choir. They went over to Dallas and decided to take a few innocent drinks. While under the influence of liquor they conceived
the idea of kidnapping a taxi driver and compelling him to drive them over to Fort Worth. They did so, and robbed him of a few dollars to boot. They were arrested and thrown into jail. Their bonds were set at $10,000. Then friends intervened in their behalf. Their pastor and other prominent Fort Worth people went over to Dallas and persuaded the grand jury not to indict, representing that the youths were of excellent character and were members of fine families. If those young fellows have the right kind of stuff in them they will never touch liquor again. Young man, regardless of what any one may tell you there is danger in liquor and there is danger in liquor and you can not afford to monkey with it.

And speaking of trees, there has been a wonderful transformation of the general aspect of our county by reason of the trees that have been planted out and grown up around many of our rural homes. More home-owners should plant trees.

Pitifully small remnants of the armies of the blue and the gray
have been living over in their minds
this week the agonies, the hopes,
the struggles, the despair, the final defeat of the gray and the final victory of the blue, enacted at Gettysburg three quarters of a century ago. The men engaged in that titanic struggle were heroes—most of them—both those who were clad in blue and those who were clad in gray. We revere the memory of those who are dead and we honor those who are yet living. But we can not help but feel that they were ungaged in the most inexcusable war that the people of this nation have ever fought. If wise counsels had prevailed, if men both North and South had not lost their heads, the vexing slavery problem could have been solved without the shedding of a drop of blood. The masses were not to blame so much as the leaders, the statesmen of that day. Just at this time we need to know that fanatical and damagoc leaders are dangerous. We do not need such in official position.

The grass is fine, and so are the wild flowers. In Tahoka and some of the surrounding territory the Tahoka daisy is blooming in profusion. The worst trouble is that it is almost hidden by the weeds in many places. More of these flowers and other wild varieties should be planted along our highways. And by the way, that reminds us. Those trees which were planted out in clusters along highway No. 9 two or three years ago are now beginning to show up beautifully. In two or three more years they will make this a magnificent driveway.

There has been a wonderful transformation of crop prospects
here the past four weeks. A month ago it looked as if the cotton crop were just about "blowed up". Today
the cotton is growing and thrifty.
The feed crop too is very promising.
They say this is the greatest "next-year" country in the world. There is no doubt right now about it because 'Lynnco' was just a few days
it looks as if it were about to become a dandy this-year country.

In an election held the other day
Cochran county out here on the New Mexico line went wet almost two to one Cochran is one of the most thinly settled counties on the plains, but it seems to like its liquor.

Yes, it may gain some trade by having saloons, but families seeking homes will prefer, for the most part, to locate elsewhere.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

(Ben Hardy, Pastor).
A good summer time attendance at Church School although several of our "regulars" were out of town. We had several visitors. Sunday night Mrs. C. M. Randall of Seymour, who is conference president of the Women's Work and who was a delegate to the General Conference at Birmingham, made an interesting talk on the general conference.
Our 3rd quarterly conference will be held next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.
Our revival starts August 7 and continues two weeks.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

We are glad to be back home again after being away two weeks
in a revival meeting at Petersburg, Texas, and we want to invite all our friends to come worship with us Sunday in our Sunday school and preaching services, and don't forget our revival meeting begins August the 7th. We want you to come—pray—sing and work. We are looking forward to a gracious meeting. Rev. R.L. Holder of Lamesa Texas will be the evangelist, and Miss Lora Webb of Gatesville will be organist and soloist. We want you to plan to be here every service.
Bring the children. Sister Pearl Keston of O'Donnell will have charge of the children's work. Trust each one will be in service somewhere Sunday.
MISS BETTY ELLIS, Pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Verhines and two sons of Roswell, New Mexico,
were here from Saturday through Monday for a visit with her parents.
Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Scott, and her brother, Clyde McDonald, and family. The boys remained here for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fenton are vacationing in Corpus Christi. They plan to be gone two weeks.

LOCAL SCOUT IS ATTRACTING ATTENTION

Elbert Boullouin, 12 years old, is one of three scouts who is attracting a fair share of attention. He announces to friends and strangers on slightest provocation he is "outing" Mrs. G.B. Wadzeck, Spur school teacher, who is accompanying her husband on the trip. Wadzeck, who recently was re-elected coach at Spur and elevated to the position of school principal there, has direct supervision of the boys.

You local girls had better watch out. You're fixing to lose a good man and you know that old saying "a good man is hard to find."

Don't put up with useless PAIN Get rid of it

When functional pains of menstruation are severe, take CARDUL. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician. Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerves, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance. Get a bottle of Cardul and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.

Besides easing certain pains, Cardul aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

ELDER DRENNON'S NOTES

I am thinking this beautiful 4th of July morning if many of us appreciate the liberty we have in this great country of ours.

I am more thankful if possible for our religious liberty. What a fine thing to worship God as the Bible directs without fear of being molested by government in the old! I think I am not boasting when I say that we are living under the world, and I am hoping that it may stand the strain it is being put to these days. We level-headed people must continue to keep our equilibrium.

I am glad to see our esteemed editor is almost persuaded to vote right for governor, and as Paul said to King Agrippa, I would that you were not almost but altogether persuaded to do it. I see you were fair though as you put his picture in.

I see by reading the ads that the city goods and grocery merchants are advertising well. I may be all wrong but I still believe if the home merchants will stay somewhere near prices in the larger places, people will trade at home.

I see in reading over Jack Stricklin's editorial that he has something when he says that the Apostles gave the world an infallible rule for this age and that a great many religious folks set it aside. But God has changed the laws of nature at times, for instance, when He stayed the sun from going down in Joshua's time. He also opened the Red Sea and the river Jordan for the Israelites to pass through. Now this is not to help out the editor but I just had to say something.

I am bothered about one thing this morning and that is why merchants will all close up today, Monday, and could or would not close up yesterday, Sunday. I wish religious folks would quit buying anything on Sunday and then we could have some chance of getting the merchants to respect the Lord's Day. As long as church folks don't respect it we can't expect others to. God gave us six days to make a living. He reserved one day for worship and rest, and yet many will not do as He said.

Yours for more people who will be as fair with God as he is with them.—R. P. DRENNON.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sewell spent the Fourth with Mrs. Sewell's parents Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Weather.

Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Carmack and Son Charles of Houston are here for a few days visiting in the home of C. O. Carmack.

CONTRACTORS NOTICE OF TEXAS HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

Sealed proposals for constructing 15.710 miles of Cut-back Asphalt Conc. Pav't. from Dawson county line to Tahoka on Highway No. U. S. 87 (9), covered by P. A. P. 613 F (2) & B (2) in Lynn County, will be received at the State Highway Department, Austin, Texas, until 9:00 a. m. July 15, 1938, and then publicly opened and read.

The attention of the bidders is directed to the required special provisions covering subletting or assigning the contract, the selection of labor, and hours and conditions of employment.

Except as otherwise specified, the minimum wages paid to all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed on this contract shall be one ($1.00) Dollar per hour for "Skilled Labor," Fifty (50c) Cents per hour for "Intermediate Grade Labor" and Forty (40c) Cents per hour "Unskilled Labor."

Attention is directed to the special provisions, included in the proposal to insure compliance with the requirement of House Bill No. 54 of the Forty-Third Legislature of the State of Texas.

Type of Laborer, Workman, or Mechanic; Prevailing Minimum Per Diem Wage (based on an eight (8) hour working day; Prevailing Minimum hourly wage rate.

Skilled Labor	$8.00	$1.00

Lynn County History

As Revealed by the Files of the Lynn County News of Friday, July 4, 1913.

Tahoka Court No. 91 Tribe of Ben Hur was instituted Monday evening, July 7, 1913, with 28 members. The official family consisted of the following members: James Crie, Walter Bishop, George Page, Louella Bishop, Joe Baldrige, J. H. Henderson, Thomas Higgins, F. R. Ramsey, Sadye Dyer, Ray King, Walter Smith, Dr. E. E. Callaway with three places yet to be filled.

Members of the Baptist Sunday School who have gardens gathered various and sundry kinds of vegetables therefrom on Wednesday afternoon, packed them into a barrel and a big box and shipped them the next morning to Buckner Orphans Home. Thus on Sunday something like 600 orphans will sit down to a vegetable dinner, much of which was raised in Tahoka.

Rev. Woods left on the Monday evening train for Lamesa after holding a week's meeting and organizing a Presbyterian Church here. Rev. Hodges of Stamford did the preaching. The Church was organized with 13 members and is the United Presbyterian Church.

J. H. Nesser of Weimar has just purchased the lumber for a new house and barn to be built on his land near Wilson. D. T. Rogers went up to Wilson Monday morning to begin work on the barn.

G. W. Small Jr. is having a new barn built on his farm 2 1/2 miles east of Tahoka. It will be 34x50 feet with 10 foot walls.

C. E. Brown, the original real estate man, left on the train Wednesday for South Texas, taking with him photographs of growing crops here in Lynn county taken Sunday.

Miss Cryte Wright had just returned from a visit with George Smith's sister at Mobeetie.

J. S. Cundiff, the head man with the Marshalltown Buggy Company, came in Monday to take charge of operations here. They will make Tahoka headquarters for a couple of weeks or more. A couple of car loads of new buggies will be in the last of this week.

Dr. H. H. McKee had just located here to practice dentistry.

Attorney C. H. Cain returned on the Monday evening train from a trip to Amarillo and Clarendon.

W. L. Kuykendall left on the Monday train to visit relatives and friends in Bell county.

Students of the South Plains Summer Normal were to give a play entitled "The Daughter of the Desert", on Friday night. The cast of characters included Walter Smith, W. B. Bishop, Madison Yates, Blanton Street, Lonnie Bigham and Misses Johnnie Henderson, Odessa Henderson, Jennie Lowe, and Linnie Cowan. The proceeds were to go to the Tahoka High School library.

The third quarterly conference of the Tahoka-Slaton Methodist Churches convened in the county clerk's office in the court house, with Rev. W. H. Terry of Big Spring in the chair. Everything looked favorable for a successful year and Brother Terry said that Tahoka is in the best shape of any place in the district.

The editor had just accepted an invitation to inspect Mrs. G. E. Lockhart's garden and gave a glowing report of what he found. Mrs. Lockhart and children had already picked a washtub full of string beans for the Orphans Home and had many left on the vines.

S. W. Joplin had just had some candidate cards printed. He was getting in the race for sheriff.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Callaway of Victoria had just left after a several days visit here with their son, Dr. E. E. Callaway.

Hon. T. M. Bartley came in Wednesday for a few days visit before starting to Austin to take his seat in the legislature, which the governor had called in special session to meet July 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McDonald were visitors in Brownfield Sunday.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Don't Scrape Tin Dishes.—Tin cooking dishes should not be scraped, as scraping exposes the iron or steel surface underneath, which may rust.

To Keep Out Dust.—Screens covered with cheesecloth help to keep dust and dirt from blowing into pantries, storerooms, and in doors and windows near the ground.

Ironing White Silk.—To help prevent white silk from turning yellow when ironed, use only a warm iron on the wrong side of the silk and protect it with cheesecloth.

Save the Floors.—Carefully arranged newspapers make good padding under fiber rugs and matting, because the dirt which sifts through may be easily removed with the newspapers.

HOW TO WRECK A VILLAGE

PIE-A-POT and Long Lodge, Cree chieftains, audacious warriors and veterans of many a scrap with other tribes, ruled their villages with an iron hand. They were happy, prosperous and had very little trouble. Shortly after the coming of the "red coated pony soldiers of the Great White Mother," the Pie-a-Pot and Long Lodge tribes of Crees had been given a splendid reservation with timber and game and fish in abundance. There they had settled down peacefully.

And then one day, to the astonishment of all concerned, Pie-a-Pot and Long Lodge ordered their tribesmen to pull stakes, for the two tribes were going for a ramble across the country without having any particular destination in view. The handful of white settlers became a bit alarmed, but their alarm subsided when they observed the Pie-a-Pots and Long Lodges were orderly.

In time the Pie-a-Pots and Long Lodges came across a large party of white men digging up the ground and also laying thin strips of iron or steel across the flat prairie. "What is all this?" inquired the majestic Pie-a-Pot. "Oh... just building a railroad," replied one of the workmen. The Crees moved on into the west and when they were about a mile or so past the end of steel the two chiefs ordered the tribes to pitch camp.

Slowly but surely the end of steel crept closer and closer toward the Cree encampment and it was later discovered that the camp was situated on the right of way of the railroad. As the end of steel moved closer and closer, engineers and foremen parleyed with Pie-a-Pot and Long Lodge, entreating them to move either to the right or left, off the right of way, so that the work could go on without unnecessary delays. The chiefs stood firm, and in time refused to parley further with the engineers in charge.

Then, one fine morning Pie-a-Pot and Long Lodge were visited by two red-coated horsemen, a sergeant and constable of the Northwest Mounted Police. The argument was soon going again, and matters reached such a stage that the sergeant informed them that they had better move or he would do the moving for them. Pie-a-Pot let out a ninety horse-power howl, and soon the sergeant and constable were surrounded by hundreds of howling, painted Crees out for blood and scalps and the complete destruction of the white invaders. During a lull in the melee, the sergeant took out his watch and told Pie-a-Pot that he would give him exactly 15 minutes to move off that railroad right-of-way. Instantly there was another demonstration of anger and truculence, and the two Men of the Mounted sat their saddles as best they could in the milling mob. As the last tick of the fifteenth minute passed into eternity, the sergeant of the Northwest Mounted Police dismounted right into the midst of that bloodthirsty mob. He forced his way through it and walked right over to Pie-a-Pot's tepee and kicked the keeple down. While squaws and children howled and screamed under the collapsed tepee, the sergeant walked to the next tepee and kicked the keeple of that one down. From one to the other that lone sergeant strode, kicking keeple down until every tepee was flat. Young bucks and so-called "braves" followed close on his heels, pushing against him, making faces at him, cursing him, and doing all they could to annoy or frighten him, but the sergeant just kept right on going until all tepees were flat, and in spite of their proximity, not one Cree had dared to strike a blow at the courageous sergeant. With everything flattened, the sergeant mounted his horse and gave his last order.

"Orrright... bustle abahnt a bit... On the move... shove orf abahnt your blurry business, wotever it is," all of which was his cockney way of saying "Get goin'." Meanwhile, Pie-a-Pot and Long Lodge were so angry they were stumped for words. Never had they seen such audacity. One lone man, wearing a red coat, had literally wrecked their village. It is highly probable, moreover, that Pie-a-Pot and Long Lodge realized that if the other men of the Mounted were anything like this sergeant, perhaps the Pie-a-Pots and Long Lodges had better not get into any more arguments with them. These red coats were bad medicine. At any rate, as the chieftains saw the hopelessness of further resistance, they muttered a few words to nearby tribesmen, and within two hours the Pie-a-Pots and Long Lodges were heading for their reservation. En route Pie-a-Pot chanced to remember that if he didn't behave himself the Great White Mother would stop sending supplies of food and flour and clothing and that little bit of treaty money now and then. "Oh well, what a day it's been, anyway," he might have said, as he arrived at the reservation.

"Vanishing Corpses"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

You know, boys and girls, I've often noticed, in these adventure stories, how in a good many cases, one mishap leads to another. That's probably because the first thing that goes wrong so upsets the fellow it happens to, that—well—he just loses his head and plunges right smack into another danger.

It's bad business when a man loses his head in the face of danger. But at the same time it has produced a lot of red-hot double-barreled and triple-barreled adventures, and the story I'm going to tell you today is a mighty good example.

Paul Moore of Chicago is today's distinguished adventurer. The events this yarn deals with happened to him and two other lads, in September, 1923.

At that time Paul was just a kid of twelve, living in Grand Rapids, Mich. Paul had just been given a .22 caliber rifle for selling perfume, and one Saturday he and his two friends, Art Kohles and Archie Eastman, started out on a hunting trip.

Art and Archie had air rifles. Paul had no cartridges for his .22, but Art said he knew where he could get some. They started out early, taking their lunches with them, and after walking a couple hours, came to a patch of woods four miles from the outskirts of town.

Art Pounded the Cartridge.

There didn't seem to be any game in sight, so they sat down on the bank of a small creek to eat their lunches. Paul had put down his gun and was just starting to untie the package that contained his grub when Art spoke up, saying there was a wild canary on the other side of the creek.

"Let's have your gun," whispered Art. "I can't get it with mine." Paul passed over his rifle. Art had the cartridges in his own pocket. He took one out and tried to put it in the chamber. It wouldn't fit.

Young Art didn't know that the cartridges he had brought from home were the wrong caliber. He thought this one wouldn't go into the chamber because the gun was new. He tried to force it in with his fingers and then, in his haste to get a shot at the bird before it flew away, he picked up a stone that happened to be lying at his feet.

Art hit the bullet two or three times with that stone. And then, suddenly, there was a loud crack. The bullet exploded. Art dropped the gun, crying, "I'm shot!" Then he fell to the ground and lay still.

The other two kids stood speechless. Art had killed himself! Paul had an uncle who lived about a mile away on the other side of the woods, and the first thought that popped into his mind was to run there and get help.

He told Archie to stay behind with Art, but Archie insisted on going along with him. They started off on a short cut through the woods, running as fast as their legs would carry them.

On the other side of the woods they came to the tracks of the interurban line that runs out of Grand Rapids. There was a third rail along the right of way, set up a foot or so above the ground.

Paul knew about it. He was well up ahead of Archie, and he went over it with a flying leap. But he didn't think to warn Archie about that electrified rail. His mind was too full of the thought of Art lying back there by the creek bank.

Archie Stepped on Third Rail.

The next thing Paul knew, Archie was stepping on that rail. He just lit on it for an instant. Then he pitched forward on his face. And he, too, lay still!

Archie's body was lying between the two tracks. "I took one look at him," says Paul, "and decided he was dead. Then I turned and ran as if the devil was after me."

It was a long way to his uncle's house, and by that time Paul was all but out of breath. But he didn't dare stop running. He stumbled on. At last he reached the house and burst in, panting, "Uncle Abe! Quick! Art's killed himself with my gun and Archie's been electrocuted!"

Everyone in the house, including two old ladies who were visiting Paul's aunt, dropped whatever they were doing and started for the tracks. They hurried through brush and corn fields to the spot where Archie had fallen—and when they arrived, there was no sign of Archie.

Uncle Abe turned on Paul. "Young man," he said sternly, "are you sure this isn't a joke of some kind?" But it was no joke to Paul. He thought maybe a passing interurban had stopped to pick Archie up. He crossed the track and started through the woods toward the stream where they had left Art.

Both Bodies Had Disappeared.

The women turned back, but Uncle Abe followed along after him. They ran through the woods in breathless haste—tore up to the spot where Art had shot himself—and then Paul stopped dead in his tracks. Art was gone, too!

It was too much for Paul. His uncle was looking at him suspiciously, and he hardly knew what to say.

How could Paul ask him to believe that two dead boys had both disappeared, one right after the other? He stood there silent a minute, and then he heard sounds of splashing water, and of voices coming from some point down the stream. Together they walked toward those voices and there they found—Art and Archie.

It was all explained easily enough. Archie had been knocked out by the shock from the third rail. He had a big bump on his head, but that was all the damage that had been done to him.

When he came to, he went back to where Art had fallen and found him bathing his leg, which had been grazed on the calf by a bit of the exploding shell. Together they had moved down stream a ways, and that's where Paul found them.

And that's all there is to this story, except that a short time after that, Art and Archie and Paul took that .22 rifle and pitched it in the Grand river.

An Impregnable Fortress

The stout stone walls and heavy cannon of the Morro Castle which fascinate visitors at San Juan, Puerto Rico, have a record of impregnability both in old and modern warfare. In Queen Elizabeth's time, Sir Francis Drake attempted to sack the city, but was beaten off. In 1898, Admiral William T. Sampson, U. S. N., searching for Cervera's fleet, tried to enter the harbor, but failed when his shelling of the fortress had no effect.

All Streets Up or Down

Among the towns, England's Clovelly is unique. It hangs on the same stretch of Cornish cliff where King Arthur built his castle, and is about 40 miles north of Tintagel. All streets in Tintagel go either up or down, and the grades are so steep that vehicular traffic is stopped one-half mile out of town. From that point one proceeds either afoot or burrow-back. Clovelly begins on the crest of a hill and ends at the ocean's edge.

Explains What Is Meant by

CORRECT NUTRITION

Describes How to Construct a Balanced Diet, So Essential to Maintain Optimal Health

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York City.

TO SOME families, a summons to the dinner table means nothing more than a chance to satisfy hunger. To others, it represents an opportunity to gratify the palate, sometimes to the extent of overtaxing the digestive system.

Neither of these extremes fulfills the true function of food, which is to provide adequately but not to excess, for growth, maintenance and repair of the body.

Food May Fail to Feed

You can satisfy hunger without providing correct nutrition. You can partake of delicious-tasting foods to the point of over-indulgence—without meeting bodily requirements.

The mere spending of money will not insure good nutrition, for extremely poor diets can be found in households where the income is large and the food budget is ample.

What counts is learning to provide the right foods in the correct proportions. The return in health will be more than worth the investment of effort in acquiring this knowledge.

A Balanced Diet Science has discovered what foods are necessary to help build top health and keep us 100 per cent fit. The amount of food required by a man for a day's work can be accurately determined. We know that a specific disease may be produced by one diet and cured by another; that growth can be influenced through changes in the quality of the dietary; that old age may be deferred by choosing the food with care.

We know that the body is a working machine which never stops but may slow down or get out of order unless the daily diet includes every element, every mineral, every vitamin needed to maintain health and avoid the deficiency diseases.

Seven Essentials

There are seven factors to be considered in planning a balanced diet. Protein for building body

Energy for fuel

Water for the body's fluids

Minerals for the body's structure

Vitamins for the body's metabolism

Balance for the body's equilibrium

Health for the body's well-being

Longevity for the body's future

Peace of mind for the body's happiness

Contentment for the body's satisfaction

Love for the body's affection

Trust for the body's confidence

Hope for the body's optimism

Faith for the body's belief

Charity for the body's kindness

Justice for the body's fairness

Temperance for the body's moderation

Prudence for the body's wisdom

Industry for the body's productivity

Diligence for the body's persistence

Perseverance for the body's endurance

Fortitude for the body's strength tissue and repairing the millions of cells that are worn out daily. Carbohydrates to produce quick heat and energy. Fats—a more compact form of fuel, which are also essential in a satisfactory diet. Minerals which serve both as builders and regulators of body processes. The six vitamins, A, B, C, D, E and G, that also act as regulators and prevent a number of deficiency diseases. Water—which serves as a vehicle by which food is carried to the tissues. And cellulose or bulk—required for the normal functioning of the intestinal tract.

Danger in Omitting One Food Substance

The homemaker who fails to take every one of these factors into consideration is depriving her husband of the opportunity to develop his greatest efficiency. Moreover, she may be robbing her children of their birthright. During every day of childhood, the body is being built, and defects in body structure are likely to arise if the child is improperly nourished. It is then that disease and disability make their appearance as a result of faulty nutrition. How tragic to deprive the young body of substances so necessary to its well being.

How to Check the Diet for Balance

Perhaps you are like the homemakers who tell me that they do not know a protein from a carbohydrate. Or it may be that while you understand the difference, you do not know what quantities should be included in the diet each day.

To simplify your task of serving balanced menus at every meal, I have prepared a Homemaker's Chart for Checking Nutritional Balance. In convenient chart form, it shows what foods should be included in the diet every day and gives the standard amount for each food. There are also classification menus outlined by food selections, which enable you to plan balanced menus for every meal by making a choice from each group of required foods.

I urge every homemaker to write for this chart, and use it daily. Then you won't make such common mistakes as serving a dried legume as a vegetable at a meal in which meat is used, which tends to concentrate too much protein in one meal; or choosing a too-heavy dessert following a main course that is overly rich in carbohydrates.

60 Per Cent Carbohydrates

Carbohydrates should form at least 60 per cent of the supply of food fuel. Rarely are menus deficient in carbohydrates, because they are so widely distributed in such common foods as cereals, bread, potatoes, macaroni products, sweets, and sweet fruits and vegetables, such as oranges, grapes, apples and peas.

Fats should supply about 20 per cent of the caloric content of the diet. They are obtained from butter, margarine, cream, egg yolk, salad dressings, vegetable oils and the fat of meats.

A protein food should be provided at each meal. Meat, poultry, fish, eggs, cheese, milk and most nuts supply complete protein. Cereals and legumes furnish incomplete protein which may be supplemented by the complete protein of milk.

The Protective Foods

It is essential that the diet should contain an abundance of minerals and vitamins which are furnished by the protective foods—milk, eggs, fruits and vegetables. Cellulose or bulk is obtained from fruits, vegetables and whole grain cereals. Water comes from juicy fruits, succulent vegetables, milk and other beverages, as well as the water that is consumed as a beverage.

To provide adequate amounts of the seven food essentials at every meal—to avoid the mistake of serving too much of one type of food and too little of another—should be the worthy aim of every homemaker. You will find the task considerably easier if you send for the Homemaker's Chart. Tack it up in your kitchen or in the room where you plan your menus, and use it to check the nutritional balance of every meal you prepare.

If you faithfully follow the food program outlined in the chart, you will help to assure your family of correct nutrition. This is the most priceless gift you could bestow upon them. For nutrition is the architect that draws the plans of human destiny. In providing the right foods, you lay a firm foundation for health on which to rear a life of happiness and success.

Questions Answered

Mrs. F. C. T.—Dried figs contain from 60 to 70 per cent sugar and 4 to 5 per cent protein. They are a fine energy food.

A. F. B.—When thorough chewing is impossible, food can be finely minced or put through a sieve, to make it easily digestible.

Mrs. A. G.—Prunes are a fine natural laxative food for those in normal health. They furnish vitamins A, B and G. But they must not replace oranges or tomatoes as they do not supply vitamin C.

THE LOW-DOWN ON THE HIGH-UP CANDIDATES

that fellow King is either, Joseph King of Harris county. Don't know whether he is a baker or a candlestick maker. He may be a lawyer, an editor, or some other insignificant cuss for all we know. Anyhow, guess he will get a few votes.

S. T. Brogdon down here at Stephenville, Erath county, is probably another good man gone wrong. We understand he is regarded as a good citizen down there and is probably as well qualified to be governor as one or two of the more popular candidates, but just as well wipe him off the slate. He hasn't a chance.

James A. Ferguson is a pretty good fellow—away up in the sixties, and some other candidates for office would probably not have such crazy platforms if they had a little more age on them. James A. is a fine fellow in spite of the fact that he is a real estate man. He has been president of the school board at Belton. Where he lives, and has held other responsible positions. And he is a cousin of Farmer Jim.

Clarence E. Farmer of Fort Worth started out with the prospect of being a formidable candidate. He has been a powerful member of the legislature for several years and is said to be a "right smart rattle-rousser. He tried to get a scoop on the governor's race a long time ago by announcing that he was in favor of paying $30 pensions to everybody over 65 years of age regardless. Really, he is entitled to the vote of all those fellows who want that thing, and he is probably more able to bring it about than any other candidate in the race. But—enough said.

Away down eleventh on the list is the name of William McCraw. His friends like to call him Bill. He is attorney general of the state of Texas and naturally stands in line for the governorship. For a long time it looked as if he had the inside track, but that was before the king of the "hill-billies" appeared on the scene. Bill is admittedly about the best politician in the race. He started out as a newspaper man on the streets of Dallas, then got a job inside a newspaper plant, studied law when he grew up, and soon climbed right up into the district attorney's office in Dallas. They say he made a good district attorney and they now say he has made an able attorney general, but the folks are all "agin" the politicians, and so they may turn Bill down. We don't know.

Next to the last on the ballot is Karl A. Crowley. He was born in Tennessee, grew up there, and then came to Texas. He got a license to practice law and located in Fort Worth. He had been there only a few years when the "New Deal" came along. He got a good fat job in Washington. He was given the post of solicitor for the Post office Department. He doubtless filled the position ably. He is a good speaker and he got the idea that he ought to be governor of Texas. He finally decided to make the sacrifice and offer his services to the people of Texas. They gave him a big send-off up at Washington. They had a big dinner in his honor. Jim Farley was there and Senator McKellar of Tennessee was there, and Secretary of State Cordell Hull was there, and a lot of other Washington political lights were there, and they all gave Karl a clean bill of health. They said he was just about the hot apple dumpling. So Karl came down to Texas and announced, expecting about everybody to fall over themselves climbing onto his band wagon. He started out with a pretty sensible progressive platform, but when the people didn't seem to be paying much attention to him he became exasperated and began promising them everything from a bale of cotton and a mule to $30 every month before breakfast.

The last name on the list for governor is that of Thos. Self, himself, of Crockett. Self probably knows himself but few other people in Texas do know him. Crockett is the county seat of Houston county, we believe and Self probably figures that, being from the land of Houston and Crockett, he ought to get a lot of votes. And that is fully as good a recommendation as some of the other candidates have.

Maybe we will tell you about some of the candidates for other offices next week, if we don't get mobbed in the meantime.

Big Bill Thompson, who was water bound last week managed to get to town Tuesday. He says lots of motorists have been getting stuck out his way. Incidentally he stated that he had been running a tractor or drawing a four-row cultivator, covering four rows at a time in a high trot -- which reminded him of his boyhood days when he hitched old Beck up to a double shovel and went four times to a row. Some progress since then.

J. J. Atkinson, who delivers most of the freight from the depot to the business men, has decided to rest up awhile. Leonard Chambliss will take his place while he is on his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hall and his sister, Mrs. Iva White and her three daughters, spent the Fourth in Post.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollin McCord were Fourth of July visitors to the Carlisbad Cavern. Mrs. Homer Harrison accompanied them to and from Plains, where she visited her father, M. E. McCord.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McNeely and two little sons of Seminole spent Sunday here with her sister, Mrs. Jessie Young.
