County AAA Purchases Security Bank Building

Streets Joining Present Pavement Will Be First

Will House County Agent's Office And AAA Officials

The commissioners court of Lynn county has contracted for the purchase of the old Security State Bank building at the northwest corner of the square owned by Judge G. E. Lockhart and now occupied by a number of business concerns, with the intention of converting it into an office building for the Triple A and county agent's work. Legal formalities must be observed in order to acquire good title, and one of these is a requirement of publication of a notice of intention to purchase the building, thus giving the tax-payers an opportunity to pass on the matter if they so desire. It is not anticipated, however, that there will be any serious objection to the purchase. This building, which was constructed more than twenty-five years ago, is one of the most substantial brick structures in town. It is said to have been constructed at a cost of about $9,000, and it is situated on one of the best corner lots in the business district. Its dimensions are 25 by 60 feet, facing east. The contract price to be paid for the building and the lot is $5,000.

Bids are to be opened on November 13 and deal closed, subject to objections legally made and filed, if any. Possession is to be given to the county on December 1. The interior of the building will be remodeled to suit the purposes for which it is to be used. Judge Goad says that it is hoped that the building will be ready for the county agent and his employees and all the AAA officials and employees to move into it on January 1, 1940. In order to accommodate this force of workers, however, it will be necessary to construct an addition to the present building. The dimensions of this proposed addition, or extension of the building westward, can not be definitely determined until an architect shall have time to plan the office spaces and arrangement in the present structure. The extension, however, will harmonize in architectural design and appearance with the present building. It is hoped that work on this addition may be begun very soon after the county acquires title to the lot and that it may be completed by January 1 or soon thereafter.

The crowded condition in the court house and the prospect that there will be little if any decrease in the office force required by the county agent and A. A. employees at any time in the near future make it desirable that additional space be provided by the county. Since this building is conveniently situated and is obviously well worth the money, the Court decided unanimously to make the purchase. The building is now occupied by Reid's Radio Shop, Mrs. R. C. Forester and daughter, Miss Obera, as an insurance office, and by Deen Nowlin, realtor and rental and loan agent.

Scout Camporal Is At Lubbock

The Boy Scouts met Monday night and most of them were prepared to go on a hike. We went several miles out of town and made camp. The main purpose of the hike was to practice making fire with flint and steel. On October 14, we are having a camporee at Lubbock, and all scouts who have their registration cards can get in the game free. We hope all of the scouts will attend.—Scribe, Rodney Fern Heck.

Thomas Parks, who received serious abdominal injuries, necessitating an operation, when he fell from the fender of a moving automobile about three weeks ago, is reported improving nicely.

Drenching Rains Visit Plains

Soaking rains visited this entire section of the state late Saturday afternoon, Saturday night, and Sunday. In Tahoka, the rain did not begin until after midnight but continued to fall intermittently throughout most of the day Sunday. The total precipitation here measured 1.65 inches. W.M. May, who resides out south east of Wilson, reported about two and a half inches at his place, while Charlie Doak reported 2.85 inches at O'Donnell. The entire county was soaked. There was never a very hard down-pour at any time. Coming gently, most of the water soaked into the earth where it fell, doing practically no damage to cotton and placing the soil in fine condition, for plowing when the cotton crop shall have been gathered. The rain was followed by clear, beautiful weather Monday.

Mack's Store At Seagraves Burns

Fire of undetermined origin partially destroyed Mack's store at Seagraves at about six o'clock Thursday morning. The store was owned by J. B. McPherson of this city and was being operated by his brother, Leon McPherson, and A. J. Minor, both of whom were formerly connected with Mack's Store in Tahoka. The building was so badly burned that the roof fell in over the rear portion and the stock of groceries in that part of it was almost completely destroyed. Much of the remaining stock was damaged by smoke and water, it is said. Leon had just started to the store when his telephone rang and when he answered it he was told that his store was afire. It had reached such headway by the time he and the fire fighters arrived that it was impossible to extinguish the flames until the building and the stock of goods had been greatly damaged. It is believed that the fire started from defective wiring.

Fashion Shop Makes Expansion

Mrs. Hope Haynes has leased the other side of the building where her Fashion Shop is now located, and has removed the partition between the two sides, making her shop just twice as large. After painting the walls, laying linoleum, and otherwise remodeling, the store is much more attractive and roomier. The city shoe shop, which was located in the south portion of the building, has moved into the little stucco building across the street. Mrs. Haynes stated that she will increase her stock, since she now has larger display room.

Hockley Fair Boosters Here Wednesday

Eighteen automobiles, carrying forty-two citizens of Levelland, spent a little while here Wednesday afternoon in the interest of the Hockley County Fair, which will take place on the 19th, 20th and 21st at Levelland. The Pep Community Band was in the crowd of boosters, and they entertained a large crowd for a few minutes on main street. A member of the party stated that they expect to have a bang-up good fair over at Levelland this year, with lots of interesting exhibits, and a dance each night with Hop Halsey's Cowboys in the saddle.

Spreading Of Hot Top On Highway 380 East Of Town Begun Wednesday

Contractors begin spreading the hot top Wednesday on the three-mile section of highway No. 380 extending east out of Tahoka. Little was done on that day but better progress was made Thursday. It was hoped that the job might be finished by Saturday night. At any rate, unless some unforeseen hindrance arises, this section will be finished and open for traffic early next week. Nearly six miles of this highway has been finished and is already open to traffic, and with the completion of this stretch, nearly nine miles of the highway extending east will be in use again. The remaining section of about five miles is under construction. There was a three-weeks delay recently on account of the death of the contractor, Mr. Bucy, and court proceedings were necessary before another contractor could take over the job and proceed with the work. This has been done, however, and work was resumed several days ago. Fine progress has been made on the Garza county section of this highway and it will not be long now until highway 380 will have a hard surface from Plains in Yoakum county through Brownfield, Tahoka, Post, and Claremont and Kent county.

Land Owners Attend Hearing

Sixty Lynn County land owners attended the hearing before the State Soil Conservation Board Thursday night October 5 at the county court room in Tahoka. Several farmers from various parts of Lynn county, the primary purpose of the county testified as to the interest in soil conservation work in the proposed district. W. G. Kennedy, member of the State Soil Conservation Board, explained the law to the group and told of the benefits to be derived from a soil conservation district. Representatives of Federal and state agencies who spoke to the Conservation Service; Don Turner, Lynn County Agent; and C. E. Friley, State Game Department. Frank A. Buckley, Chief Field Supervisor, for the State Board was also present.

Bullies Make Assault On Ball Players

Following the football game at Post last Friday night in which the Tahoka Bulldogs won a victory over the Post team, two or three bullies in that town, who were in no way connected with the school or the Post football team, made a wholly unexpected assault upon Tahoka's star player, Max Minor, and upon V. D. Armstrong, a Tahoka teacher who went to his rescue, inflicting painful bruises and knocking Max unconscious. It is said that one of the assailants used a bottle in making the assault. It should be understood, however, that neither football boys of Post nor the school authorities nor the business men and people of the town generally were in any way responsible for this cowardly attack. All regretted it very much and many apologized profusely for the vicious conduct of these two or three. Furthermore, the officers of the law arrested the culprits and required them to pay heavy fines for their violence, we are informed. The Bulldogs were accorded swell treatment by the Post team and the Post people generally and they harbor no ill feelings whatever against the town, on account of this unfortunate event.

Parity Payments Almost Complete

Almost all of the parity checks have been received in the AAA office, and paid out to the farmers of Lynn county. When payments have been completed, almost a half a million dollars will have been distributed among the farmers. The exact amount expected net is $480,000.00. This county has to date received $425,366.94, lacking only $44,633.06—making payments to Lynn county nearer completion than to any county in this section of the state. A number of checks are received every day, so it will be a very short while until the remainder of them are received.

Mrs. G. W. Knoy Buried Wednesday

Word came to the News office this week that Mrs. G. W. Knoy, mother of Mrs. J. M. Johnson of Tahoka, had died and was buried at Brady on Wednesday, October 4. She had been seriously sick for several weeks. Her husband, it will be remembered, died a few weeks ago. The Knoys were long-time residents of Tahoka, removing to Brady a few years ago. Ten children survive, among whom are Mrs. Johnson of this city, Mrs. S. E. Key and Mrs. D. L. Redmond, former residents of Tahoka.

Tahoka High Bulldogs Play First Home Conference Game Here Friday Night

By W. T. Hanes
To the many Tahoka football fans who trekked to Post last Friday night it was the best football game in the entire Southwest. The Bulldogs scored on the second play of the game and finally won by a score of 25-13. Don't let anyone tell you though that it was an easy victory. Post had a hard charging fast blocking vicious ball team on the field. The Tahoka boys won only because every man played his heart out and blocked and tackled like veterans. Post had no alibis and were fine sports about their loss. They simply knew they had lost to a great little team that outplayed them. There is no cockiness about the Bulldogs field this week as they go about their work in preparation for Slaton. The boys realize that it took every man to beat Post and that Slaton will be pretty tough. While there is no air of cockiness there is certainly no feeling of fear or inferiority. No fan has ever seen a more determined bunch of kids. Tahoka has this year. They seem to be saying to themselves "we found out in the Post game that we have the stuff. We're going to revenge on Slaton for every time they have beaten a Tahoka team for all these years." When they say that they know that they have one of the toughest assignments that a Tahoka team has ever faced. Slaton has ruled the roost on this section so long and has beaten Tahoka so long that they have nothing but athletic contempt for any team that represents Tahoka. Members of the present Bulldog team can't remember when a Tahoka team has beaten Slaton and certainly none of them has ever played on a team that won over Slaton.

District Court In Session Here

District court started its criminal week here Monday with a heavy docket. There have been convictions against eight defendants so far this week, most of them for theft. Cases tried and sentences passed up to Thursday afternoon are as follows: Two cases against Earl Williams, Elmer Vierage, and Clyde Smith, tried jointly for chicken theft, 30 days in each case. Jack Sommer, convicted of theft and assessed 5 years, sentence suspended. E. L. Flippen, case transferred from Brownfield, convicted and assessed two years for theft of sudan grass seed, appealed. J. D. Henson, car theft, assessed two years. Holland Simpson, accessory to theft of O'Donnell theatre safe, assessed 5 years, sentence suspended. Gale Hall, convicted of drunken driving and assessed 6 months in penitentiary. Two cases were continued until next term of court—the cases against D. E. Harris for drunken driving, and against D. M. Etzler, for robbery with firearms. Etzler is the man who is alleged to have kidnapped George Knight, and appropriated his automobile.

Dye Marries Mexican Couple

Justice of the Peace Jim Dye says that matrimony is apparently just as popular as ever. He married two Mexican couples over the weekend. On Saturday night he united in marriage Magdalena Robers and Amalia Garcia, and on Monday morning Charlie Rodriguez and Eva Luna took vows.

Licenses Being Signed On Additional Blocks; 40 Men Available For Work

The paving of many blocks of business and residence streets of Tahoka is scheduled to begin Monday, according to Deen Nowlin, mayor. The first paving will be done on streets adjacent to the brick pavement in the business district. In the meantime paving liens are being signed by property owners. The mayor and city council are anxious that these be signed at the earliest date possible so that when paving begins there may be no let-up until the job is finished. It is hoped to pave eventually about thirty blocks. The first project comprises seven blocks, but others will be started as soon as these are completed. Mr. Nowlin says that as soon as the road paving project here is completed, forty men will be released and available for work on the street paving project. He is assured that this job will be finished by Monday. Twenty-five other men will be available as soon as a little project at O'Donnell is completed, unless they are assigned to other work. Also thirty men will be released later when the east section of highway No. 380 in Lynn county is completed. As has been stated before, this project is being financed jointly by the City and W. F. A. funds.

B.P.W. Club Guest Of Rotarians

The Business and Professional Women's club are celebrating National Business Women's week with a series of social events and meetings. Highlights of the week have been a dinner at Lubbock, Rotary program, and the district conference to be held at Plainview this weekend. The week started with regular business session Tuesday night. On Wednesday night, the club joined with the Lubbock club in a dinner at the Hilton Hotel there. Only seven Tahoka women were able to attend, however. Mesdames Inez Knight, Gladys Stokes, Lois Daniel, Lenore M. Tunnell, Misses: Osiabell Singleton, Georgis Taylor, and Echo Milliken. Thursday noon, the club attended almost 100 per cent the Rotary luncheon, as guests of that organization, and furnished the program there. Miss Osiabell Singleton, president of the women's club, spoke telling the aims and purposes of the club. Mrs. Grover Stewart spoke on "Business and Professional Women of Tahoka Yesterday and Today." Miss Hattie Server's subject was "Women in Columbus' Day — O-What Have You?" Besides the Women's club, other guests attending the Rotary luncheon were Oscar McGinty, Rotarian of Spur, Bill Sewell, of Levelland, and Judge Louis B. Reed of Lamesa. Approximately ten members expect to attend the district conference at Plainview Saturday afternoon and Sunday. The recreational program there will consist of a reception, a dinner, and a fun party on Saturday and Saturday night, a breakfast and a luncheon Sunday. Chief addresses both Saturday and Sunday will be given by Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas, president of the state federation. Business sessions will be held Sunday morning. Tires Stolen Here Tuesday Night Four tires and in some cases, the wheel also, were reported stolen from four different automobiles while parked downtown in Tahoka Tuesday night. So far no arrests have been made in connection with the theft.

A lunatic was trying to knock a nail into a wall. But he had the head of the nail against the wood and was hammering the point.

At length, he threw down the nail in disgust and said: "Bah! Idiots! They gave me a nail with a head at the wrong end."

Another inmate of the asylum who had been watching, began to laugh. "It's you that's the idiot," he said, as he jerked his thumb toward the opposite wall. "The nail was made for the other side of the room."

Protection Against Contagious Disease

Austin, Texas, Oct. 13.—On September 1, 1939 statistics from the State Health Department showed that 34 per cent of the population of Texas, or 2,144,536 persons, were being protected against communicable diseases through the functions of full-time county and city health departments in 23 counties and 2 cities independent of the counties. These local health units carry out a well-balanced public health program to keep the well person well and to further safe-guard the health of individuals by reducing to a minimum the various communicable diseases rendered combatable by modern public health methods.

Public health, over a score of years, has rendered combatable such diseases as typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox, malaria, undulant fever, tuleremia, yellow fever, trichinosis, hookworm, the dysenteries, and the venereal diseases. The health of any geographically defined area, i. e. city or county, is in direct proportion to the amount of energy and money judiciously and scientifically expended for the protection of the health of the people of that area.

Twenty-six additional counties, with a population of 476,300, are protecting the health of their respective communities by a partial full-time health service wherein nurses, trained in public health work, in collaboration with the local part-time health officials and the medical profession under the guidance of the State Health Department.

HISTORIC OUTPOST MAY BECOME MUSEUM

Fort Snelling Won Fame in Civil and Indian Wars.

Fort Snelling, Minn.—Julius Caesar himself could not have erected a more Roman-looking round tower at lower cost than the United States did in 1821 at Fort Snelling.

And Caesar probably would have wallowed the Indians, and taken the land from them. Uncle Sam, through the offices of Lieut. Zebulon Montgomery Pike, bought title to the property in 1805 with 40 gallons of whisky.

Sixteen years later, soldiers, many of them veterans of the war of 1812, were paid 15 cents a day in addition to their army pay to build the tower.

It is possible the plans were a heritage from the Caesars, except for 20 rifle slits from which shots could be fired, and which made the tower capable of resisting, with its walls constructed of solid stone quarried from the Minnesota and Mississippi river banks, any form of attack then known.

Family Lives There.

For the last 19 years Thomas Marcum, post civilian engineer, and his family have occupied the tower, remodeling the interior at their own expense into a unique home. Plans now call for tearing out partitions to make one large museum room of the structure.

Before Marcum's occupancy many world-famed characters found shelter in the old tower. Surprisingly, the idea for the German Zeppelin was incubated there.

Union army officials stationed at Fort Snelling during the Civil war scoffed at the suggestion made by a young German military attache, Count Von Zeppelin, also stationed there, that it might be possible to scout the enemy from the air, thus passing up a chance for the Federal army to be the first to use aircraft for military purposes.

Von Zeppelin, however, failed to become discouraged and on a warm spring night in 1864 rose 300 feet above the round tower, suspended below a canvas bag filled with gas furnished by the old St. Paul gas company.

He said later it was during his 80-minute ascension here that the idea of transcontinental air transport was born. After the Civil war, he returned to Germany to bring the idea to fruition.

Dred Scott Married at Fort.

Dred Scott, a negro slave whose name is perpetuated in the famous Dred Scott decision of the Supreme court, married a slave girl in the round tower in 1837. At the time, Scott was a servant of the household of Dr. Emerson, fort medical attache to Col. Josiah Snelling.

Some 15 years later, in 1848, after Dr. Emerson had transferred and moved his slave retinue to St. Louis, Scott sued for freedom on grounds he had been a citizen of free territory in Minnesota.

The Supreme court ruled that Scott was without citizenship rights and that the Missouri compromise was unconstitutional.

Records recently discovered revealed many illuminating and hitherto not generally known facts concerning the historic importance of the round tower. It was gathered from the records that life inside the walls was a tragic experience for many a young army tenderfoot as result of the whims and caprices of Colonel Snelling.

Thus, through full-time county health units and nursing services 42 per cent of the population of the State in 49 densely populated counties, and two cities exclusive of counties, are protecting the health of their commonwealth with the most up-to-date public health practices available. There remains 58 per cent of the total Texas population, scattered over 205 counties, unprotected against diseases through any function of local health departments.

It has also been demonstrated in other states that in such counties, due both to relative uncongestion of population, and for economic reasons, cooperative health departments set up for two or more counties will give the benefits of health work commensurate with the other counties, at a relatively cheap cost.

Establishment of local health departments in Texas' counties and cities, in collaboration with the State Health Department, the United States Public Health Service, and the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, has expanded over 300 per cent since 1936.

The standard personnel of a county health department includes a director, a nurse and a sanitary engineer, all trained in public health, and a clerical force, to adequately supervise in the county the public health activities comprising communicable disease control, maternal hygiene, infant hygiene, preschool hygiene, school hygiene, sanitation of water, sewage, food, milk and school systems, special programs adapted to the health problems of the locale, and work in tuberculosis and venereal disease control.

Persons and groups interested in securing such health protection for their counties are requested to write the State Health Department for further information on the county health unit plan as operative in Texas.

BUSINESS WOMEN CELEBRATE 100 YEARS OF PROGRESS

It was twenty-three hundred years ago that Euripides said: "A woman should be good for everything at home, but for nothing away from it." For twenty-two hundred years men succeeded rather well in making his philosophy a rule, but one hundred years ago a crusade for equal rights in business, politics, and education was begun.

Interest in equal rights was first aroused in the United States by an English woman, Harriet Martineau, who came over from England during the Panic of 1837 to study conditions among women here. At that time there were only 7 fields of work open for women. Today women are engaged in 501 of the 535 fields listed.

But it was two little known women who really started the ball rolling, Mesdames Lucretia Coffin Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton. They were the real pioneers of the movement. They have had little recognition in recent years among the women who fought for emancipation of the women, but as this is National Business Women's week, it is fitting that we tell of them here.

Mrs. Mott had been active in the Abolitionist movement, and was interested in the elevation of women and in temperance. It is remarkable to note that in the early history of the movement, the same women who were interested in equal rights for women were also interested in temperance.

Mrs. Mott so esteemed herself in the Abolitionist movement, however, that she was sent to London in 1840 along with her husband as a delegate to the World's Anti-Slavery Convention. And that was the act that brought the beginning of a really active campaign for women. For Mrs. Mott was not allowed to take her seat on account of her sex! Greatly chagrined, she began to look about for some way to occupy herself until they might return home. She met in London Mrs. Stanton, who was visiting there from the U. S. and interested her in the cause.

That was the beginning of a long and fruitful friendship, for upon Mrs. Mott's advice, Mrs. Stanton called the first Woman's Rights Convention in 1848. It was held at Seneca Falls, N. Y. and present was no less a personage than Susan B. Anthony.

Another partnership was formed, this time between Mrs. Anthony and Mrs. Stanton, and in 1868 they founded "The Revolution", a periodical dedicated to the elevation of the woman, of which Mrs. Stanton was editor.

The next year, they together founded the National Woman's Suffrage Association, and the war was on! The rest of the story is common history. For the rest of her life, Mrs. Stanton dedicated her time to the fight for suffrage, equal education, more intelligent divorce laws, and equal rights of property. Some of her dreams have not yet been fulfilled, but the dream of suffrage and equal participation in business and professions has been fully realized.

There were many others who were important in the attainment of this goal, and some of whom have been almost forgotten. They were, briefly:

Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman to receive a medical degree. After overcoming much opposition and many prejudices, she graduated in 1849, one year after the Woman's Rights Convention, with highest honors. She furthered her studies in Paris, and London, and returned to establish the first medical college for women in the United States—the Women's Medical College of the N. Y. Infirmary.

Frances E. Willard—prominent suffragist and educator—the only woman whose statue stands in Statuary Hall—Washington, D. C.

Ben Ann Lockwood (1830-1917) lawyer, and the only woman ever nominated for the presidency of the United States. She induced Congress to pass a special law, allowing women to practice before the Supreme Court of the U. S. and was the first woman to do so.

Florence Ellingwood Allen—first woman to rise to the dignity of judge of a state supreme court. Which position she held in Ohio.

Emma C. Hart Willard (1787-1870) — founder of the first girls' school in the U. S.

Jane Addams, social worker and one of the founders of the Progressive party in 1912, Mary Ashton Rice Livermore, who worked with Mrs. Mott, Mrs. Stanton, and Mrs. Anthony, Carrie Chapman Catt, familiar to us all, and Julia Clifford Lathrop.

PEMBERTON HOME IS REMODELED

The time for extravagant promises to the aged in the matter of pension payments in this country is past. The time for sane and serious thought is here. Nearly everybody will agree that the needy aged should be provided for. The foolish idea that a pension should be paid to everybody over a certain age, the rich as well as the poor,
will not likely have much standing in any discussion of our pension problems hereafter. The money that would be required to pay pensions to the rich should be used to augment the payments to the poor.
The sum that is being paid the needy now is pitifully meager in most instances. It should be increased by a tax on our natural resources that are being exploited by great corporations, the profits going largely to immensely wealthy people residing in the North and East. This tax can be levied without the adoption of any constitutional amendment. Why should it not be done?

The Government estimate of the 1939 cotton crop released Monday
indicated a crop of 11,928,000 bales, 452,000 less than the September estimate. This is just a few thousand bales less than the 1938 crop, but it is nearly 1,900,000 bales less than the average crop raised in this country during the ten year period covering the years 1928-1937 inclusive. Foreign production of cotton has greatly increased during this period, however, and the foreign demand for our cotton has greatly diminished. The present administration has granted millions of dollars in subsidies to our cotton farmers in recent years,
which has been a great help to the recipients and to this section of the

REPLY TO MR. TYNE

W. SMITH
(By Elder J. Luryl Nisbett)

I can appreciate the sentiment expressed by Mr. Smith in his first article in the Lynn County News
three weeks ago, that is, "So with much love and respect, this will be my position in trying to protect the truth and expose error." And may I say that I am writing not because of prejudice and not with a desire to ridicule the intelligence or teaching of those whose beliefs differ with mine, but with the desire that the truth may become known, for without it we cannot be made free. "Ye shall know the truth" ("Thy word is truth" Jno.
17:17) and the truth shall make you free. "Jno. 8:32.

I believe that salvation is by grace and that only "God's elect" will be saved. I believe that God predesti-nated that "His elect" would be saved upon the conditions he named. I believe that because the Bible teaches it, I believe that we are called today—that God calls His elect. I believe that because the Bible teaches it. But it is not within my rights to define the terms or the processes named, God alone has that right, and He did so in His Book. How are we called by the Father?—"whereunto he called you by our gospel" (2 Thess. 2:14).
So we are called BY THE GOSPEL.
The apostle Peter addressed his first epistle to "the elect", and later said, "Ye are an elect race" 1 Pet.
2:9. Then in the first chapter he said, "Seeing ye"—Who? Ye, the elect. "Seeing ye have purified your souls—" Can any man be saved with an impure soul? Certainly not, for the Savior said, "Blessed are they pure in heart for they shall see God." How had those whom Peter addresses as "the elect" purified
their souls? Finishing the quotation,
"—by your obedience to the truth."
(1 Pet. 1:22). It takes a great deal of help to misunderstand that. I am not quoting Scripture to contradict other Scripture, because that cannot be done. All truth runs in parallel lines and there are no contradictions in all of God's Book, but we must interpret the Bible in the light of the Bible, and never must we construe one passage of Scripture so that it will contradict another. When I so interpret one passage that it flatly contradicts others,
it is evident on the face of it that my interpretation is wrong.

Mr. Smith quotes passages which teach "predestination" and "election", and that is good, and no one but a rank infidel would deny what those scriptures say, but I believe he goes on to interpret them in a way to contradict many plain teachings of the Bible. Those scriptures isolated, considered by themselves, are insufficient to let us know what the Bible teaches on the subject of salvation and damnation, and they like all Scripture must be interpreted so as to harmonize with all of the truths in God's Book.

Let us consider:
1. In Luke 19:10 the Savior says,

"For the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."
But according to the theory that every individual was before the foundation of the world placed by God in one of two classes, the elect and the "non-elect", there was nothing for Christ to save. The elect were not lost, (because salvation had been foreordained for all of them)
and the non-elect could not be saved: then there were none to save. But if Christ saved only the elect, and He saved the lost, then the elect were the only lost people on earth. On the other hand, if the elect were not lost, and Christ saved anyone, then He saved the non-elect, seeing they were the only ones lost. Again: If Christ came to save the elect only, since he came to save the lost, then the elect were the only ones lost, and the non-elect, not being lost did not need a Savior!

2. Again, if this theory be true,
God is a respecter of persons—
which the Bible says He is not, "I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness is accepted with him."
(Acts. 10:35) How can God be no
respecter of persons and predestinate one individual to be saved and another to be lost? Someone says,
"That is not what we teach", Mr.
Smith states in his last article "The Bible doesn't teach that God predestinated anyone to Hell, neither did you hear the Old Baptists preach it". But somehow I cannot see one mite of difference in saying that God predestinated certain people to hell, and saying, (quoting again from Mr. Smith) "please show me what your preaching, persuading and warning will do for the non-elect—not worth a whoop, as there is no plan of salvation on record in the Bible for the non-elect, as Election obtains all of the salvation there ever will be." Perhaps saying, "preaching to the non-elect is not worth a whoop" is just another way of saying that they will go to hell because God predesti-nated it so.

If God predestinated certain individuals to be saved and all others
to be lost, and he will call his elect in his own good time, and the elect cannot be lost, then what earthly good could ever come from preaching? Why preach at all? But "the Lord is not willing that any should perish but that all should come to repentance." (2 Pet. 3:9) Also,
"God our Savior who will have all men to be saved, and to come to a knowledge of the truth." (1 Tim.
2:3-4) I cannot believe in a God who is a respecter of persons, and such he is not. There is nothing that can turn people to atheism quicker than to believe that the Bible pictures God as one who would predestinate certain individuals to damnation.

So I believe that God predesti-nated that he would send His Son into the world "to taste death for EVERY man", and present a plan of salvation. I believe that God predesti-nated that all who accept Him
as their Savior by faith in Him and obedience to his word would be saved if they continue in faithfulness. This is the only interpretation which can stand in

ELDER DRENNON'S NOTES

(Delayed)
I have got so lazy lately that I do not write regularly, but I surely do enjoy reading the News, especially the editorials, and I think ODDS and ENDS are on timely subjects. It seems like the editor gets into it with us preachers, but I will say for my part that he has surely been fair with me; and I think he was magnanimous with Elder Smith in giving him so much space to have his say, and the editor's note was a knock-out. Just one other thing he should have added, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve," which puts some responsibility on the sinner as well as on God in his salvation.

I am glad to report that the effort to close the business houses on Sunday has resulted in some good but it seems that the officers of the law do not seem very active in enforcing the law. I can not understand why they will enforce some laws and not others.

I finally got to hold a wedding. It seems that Tahoka on the north and Lamessa on the south cuts us preachers off in between. This couple ran the blockade at Lamessa. They were from Colorado City. Mr. D. W. Black was the groom and Miss Anetta Angel was the bride. The wedding was held at the parsonage last Saturday afternoon.

As I write these notes I have word of the tragic death of brother Roy Cowan and it brings anew to my mind the certainty of death and the uncertainty of life. I am so glad that brother Roy was trying to walk in the footsteps of Jesus. When we come to die, the big question is: Are we ready? Are we Christian? Brother Roy was a great help to me while I lived in Tahoka and gave me financial help several times when I sure needed it. May God's richest blessings rest upon his good wife and sweet children.

The churches of O'Donnell are having a friendly rivalry in Bible school attendance this month. Our goal is an average of one hundred per Sunday. We fell short a few last Sunday.

Yours for more people who put God before dollars and the church before secret organizations. Visit the friendly church.—R. P. Drennon.

"OUTLAW" JOHNSON GRASS MAY BE BLESSING TO PLAINS

Dalhart, Tex., Oct. 13—Johnson grass, an "outlaw" plant that is considered a pest to most farmers, may prove to be a blessing to the severely wind-blown land of the Southern Great Plains, according to Fred S. Reynolds, agronomist on the Soil Conservation Service project at Dalhart.

Several Dallam County fields which were damaged severely by wind erosion during the long period of drought now have been stabilized completely by Johnson grass and are providing the land owners with pasturage for their livestock, Reynolds said.

"Efforts to obtain a protective turf by planting native species of grass on land in need of revegetation have met with failure in most instances," the agronomist stated. "Stands obtained were spotted and suffered from subsequent erosion. Therefore, a fast growing perennial that will completely stabilize the blowing areas within a year or two appears to be the immediate need in the severely-eroded portions of the Southern Great Plains. Observations indicate that Johnson grass comes nearer to meeting this requirement than anything else tried thus far."

A few farmers in this section remain opposed to the idea of planting Johnson grass, while a large majority favor the use of any type of forage plant that has a good chance of stabilizing blowing fields and of providing grazing, Reynolds explained. Of farmers who have planted Johnson grass, Cecil Jones probably has been the most successful.

"I planted ten acres to Johnson grass in 1934 and have increased the acreage annually until I now have 1,000 acres in this type of vegetation," said Jones, who is a livestock farmer residing near Dalhart. "On 640 acres of Johnson grass from one to five years old, I pastured 150 head of cattle and 1,350 head of sheep for four months this summer, and there is plenty of vegetative cover left as protection against soil blowing during the coming winter and spring. My Johnson grass gave me greater returns to the acre than did my cultivated land," Jones declared.

Several farmers in the Dalhart area have planted fields to Johnson grass for the first time this year, and others are planning to do so next year, the Soil Conservation Service agronomist reported.

"However," Reynolds pointed out, "Johnson grass should be confined to severely eroded land and that scheduled for retirement to grass. Land that is to be cropped every year should not be planted to Johnson grass," he warned.

To Ease Women's Pain: "Build-Up"

Do you suffer periodically from headaches, nervousness, irritability, restlessness or cramp-like pains? If so, here's good news! These may be symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea, which is so often caused by undernourishment. By improving the appetite, digestion, assimilation, through the proper use of CARDUI, women by thousands find they are able to build strength, energy, and nerve-force. Thus periodical pain is relieved for many users of CARDUI. By taking it just before and during "the time," women by thousands report that CARDUI also helps to ease the pain and discomfort of the period.

AMERICAN MANUFACTURERS STRONGLY OPPOSE WAR

American industry's position on peace and war was defined last night (Tuesday, September 19) in the following statement of the National Association of Manufacturers issued by its President, Howard Coonley:

American industry hates war. War destroys lives. War wrecks homes. Economic chaos and years of crushing depression are its inevitable aftermath. It imperils representative democracy. Free institutions are among its early victims. Ultimately no one can escape the ruin of war.

American industry wants peace. Peace is the life blood of progress. Peace must be the national objective.

Industry's position on this matter has been stated repeatedly and there must be no misunderstanding about it.

The United States can stay out of war.

Emotionalism can betray us into war.

A public will to peace, coupled with wise public policies and affirmative action to this end by our government will keep us out of war. A fatalistic attitude that war is inevitable for us is absurd. It presupposes that America cannot conduct itself intelligently to preserve peace and its own interests.

If yesterday industry was the only source of prosperity and re-employment, today it is as well the keystone of preparedness and peace. Under any conditions, America must depend on a smoothly functioning, efficient industrial system.

Manufacturers will not relax their efforts to achieve and maintain sound improvement in our domestic economy.

Industry opposes profiteering—the utilization of war psychology to boost prices for the purpose of making excessive profits.

As manufacturers we recognize it to be our moral obligation to conduct our businesses so that the prices of the products we produce and sell are related equitably to production costs.

We pledge our energetic support to this policy.

The N. A. M. calls upon all its members to exercise vigilance against any price or price policies not justified by actual cost and anti-dated cost of replacement. Months ago this Association said: "No sensible person believes that profit can come out of the wreckage of human life and economic dislocation."

The use of this crisis as an excuse either to extort unjustifiable profits or to pursue partisan political objectives is not only indefensible morally, but reprehensible. Nor should pleas of "emergency" be utilized as an excuse for reaching objectives which the American people would otherwise sanction.

The present situation calls for agreement on common objectives but the democratic process of consultation and criticism must never be abandoned. Otherwise we shall be following in the footsteps of those who believe in government by coercion.

In a world distraught by force the best way to preserve representative democracy is to practice it.

RENOVATING FURNITURE DISCUSSED AT NEW LYNN H. D. CLUB MEET

Many of the older pieces of furniture can be restored for a small amount of cash," stated Miss Maurine McNatt, county home demonstration agent, at the meeting of the New Lynn H. D. club, in the home of Mrs. Newman Bartley Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

Old pieces can be made usable and are often quite beautiful. If it requires a great deal of work to renovate a piece of furniture, the design should be pleasing, it should be of good wood, and the construction should be sound, to justify the labor.

The bread show for October 21 was discussed, and a committee composed of Mesdames R. W. Barton, P. K. Fleming, and Paul Walker, was appointed to have charge of the bread exhibit from this club.

Thirteen members were present, and three visitors: Mesdames Dee Howry, Everett Smith, and Sears Bartley.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Claude Roper Oct. 17, and at this meeting the Ball jar contest will be held. Visitors specially invited.

A marriage license was issued Saturday to Arlee McDonald and Christene Proctor, both of O'Donnell. They were married in Lubbock that day by Justice of the Peace Walter M. Davies.

No Evidence Of Unamericanism

One of the most travelled citizens in the country, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, has seen no evidences of subversive or un-American activities.

"One can, of course, always hear stories of Communist and Fascist meetings and activities," she says, "but it does not seem to me that these groups have any real hold on the people."

Mrs. Roosevelt declares she is not "foolish enough" to believe it impossible for these groups to increase, but thinks there is little to fear from their influence "if all of us make an effort to live our democracy day to day."

Writing on her monthly question and answer page in The Democratic Digest, publication of the Women's Division, Democratic National Committee, the President's wife says she has seen all kinds of places people and conditions, and in her opinion the number of Communists has "not increased greatly in the past few years." Only on rare occasions, after a lecture has there been asked a question which might indicate that the questioner belonged to a Communist group.

Suffering Women Welcome "Build-Up"

A simple method is saving many women much pain and discomfort! It is based on the knowledge that women's headaches, nervousness, and cramp-like pain often are symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to a weak, run-down, under-nourished condition. That so many women find relief from these painful symptoms through the CARDUI "build-up" is easy to explain. By improving the appetite, assisting digestion and assimilation, CARDUI helps to build physical resistance against periodic pain. Thousands of women also report that CARDUI, taken just before and during "the time," helps to ease periodic pain.

ODDS AND ENDS

COTTON! OLD KING COTTON! Behold, here he is. He still sits on his throne, at least here in Lynn county, garbed in the snow-white fleece that Old Mother Nature grows on a plant. How marvelous has been his rise to power.

ALKA-SELTZER advertisement. Includes a cartoon of a man with a headache and the text: 'CHEER UP, BIG BOY, DON'T BE SICK ALKA-SELTZER DOES THE TRICK'. Below it says 'BE WISE-ALKALIZE'.

ships to transport it across the seas than all the wheat and corn and oats and cows and hogs and meat that we have for export. Cotton has made New England rich. It has set millions and millions of spindles to singing in numberless cotton mills in Massachusetts and Connecticut and Rhode Island, spinning the thread and weaving the cloth that helps to clothe the world.

tion of highways and in the building of houses. At least there are those who claim that it has proved a success in both these categories. For thousands of years, however, cotton was an orphan, a waif, an outcast, as a commodity of commerce. It is believed to have been grown in India and other countries of the far East at least four centuries before the coming of Christ, but it is nowhere mentioned in the Bible, and if it was ever used in the making of thread and the weaving of cloth in those ancient times, such use evidently was not generally made known among the Greeks nor the Romans nor the Phoenicians nor the Hebrews. If the virtues and possibilities of the fiber for the making of garments were ever discovered back in those distant days, the discovery was rendered unimportant from the fact that the ancients discovered no practical way of separating the fiber from the seed and making it available as a material for the making of garments.

shall not undertake to unravel. How these Indians learned to spin and to weave and to make garments of this cotton is also beyond our knowledge but the fact that they did so shows that they were possessed of considerable ingenuity.

The colonists who came to North America knew little about the cultivation or the uses of cotton. The first permanent English settlement was at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1607. For a long time settlers came to the western world slowly. When the Revolutionary War broke out in 1776, almost a hundred and seventy years after the founding of Jamestown, there were probably not more than 4,000,000 Whites in the thirteen colonies. A little cotton was being raised, but only a little. The seed were picked out by hand and the lint was spun into thread on crude spinning wheels and the thread woven into cloth on crude looms by the women folks in the homes. Maybe there were a few slaves who acted as house servants but about the only field work for them to do was in the cultivation and harvesting of the corn and tobacco crops.

Right here is where a Yankee school teacher comes into the picture. He came down south to teach school but he got to watching the housewives and possibly a few of the slaves pick those cotton seeds, one at a time, out of the lint, and the process looked too slow to him. It got on his nerves. He began to think and to tinker and as a result he finally evolved a crude machine with which one man could do the work of fifty under the hand-picking method. That was in 1793, less than 150 years ago, and the name of the Yankee school teacher was Eli Whitney.

That crude machine has revolutionized the cotton industry in the South, changed the entire current of our history and vitally affected the life of practically every man, woman, and child in the civilized world since that date. During the first seven years after the invention of this hand-operated ginning machine, cotton exports from this country increased thirty-fold, we are told. Cotton had been made available a material for the making of cloth. The demand for cotton increased by leaps and bounds; the rich river-bottom lands of the South were speedily converted into cotton plantations; and the demand for slave labor was rapidly augmented. This made the South the land of cotton and slavery. Indirectly, Eli Whitney's little invention brought on three wars.

First, with the advent of cotton as a profitable commercial commodity, men began to look for new and richer lands to cultivate. In the late twenties and early thirties, colonists poured into Texas. They found Spanish rule intolerable and in 1836 rose up and threw off the Spanish, or Mexican yoke. Within ten years Texas was admitted to the Union, and that provoked a war between the United States and Mexico, these two wars gaining for the United States the vast territory now embraced by Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, and portions of several other Western states. And then the spread of slavery and the concurrent growth of anti-slavery sentiment brought on the Civil War of 1861-1865.

The Civil War destroyed slavery but it did not dethrone King Cotton. Other conditions have almost done so, it seemed at times, but cotton is still the great money crop of the South.

That little old crude contraption of Eli Whitney's is responsible primarily for most of us being out here on these plains; for if Eli or somebody else had not hatched up some kind of machine that would do the work, people still could not use cotton out of which to make clothes, and all this good cotton land would still be growing grass—or possibly it would be growing maize and kafir, but we doubt it.

So, Eli, here we are. Sitting in our room at this season of the year, day or night, we can hear the almost incessant hum of the cotton gin—five of them in Tahoka—not the crude contraption that would gin fifty or sixty pounds of cotton a day which you put on the market 146 years ago, but big fine, highly-improved, modern ginning plants that will easily turn out fifty or sixty bales of cotton a day.

Your little machine, Eli, started something that no man can stop. But back of that machine was a man who could think, constructively, a builder. In our humble opinion, Eli, you have done ten thousand times more for the world than all the Napoleons and all the Mussolinis and all the Hitlers and all the Stalins that ever lived.

PIGEON MOTHERS CHICKEN Fred Mathews, who lives down in the vicinity of Draw, was in a few days ago with a "Believe-it-or-not" story.

He says that a pigeon has hatched out and is mothering a little chicken in his barn. A White Leghorn hen laid an egg up in the barn where this pigeon and others have their habitat—two eggs in fact—and the pigeon went on the nest and assumed all responsibility as to the consequences. In a course of time one of the eggs hatched and the pigeon apparently has been lavishing the same care upon the baby chick that she would upon one of her own offsprings.

"THE TIME IS PROPITIOUS"

In 1861 when Salmon P. Chase was Secretary of the Treasury, a farmer living in Maryland expressed the opinion that our coins should indicate in some way the Christian character of our Nation, and suggested the motto "In God We Trust". Chase referred the matter to Mint Director Pollock, who discussed the question in his report of 1862. Pollock and Chase favored introducing the motto at once, but Congress ignored the matter. In his next report Pollock argued for the motto as follows: "The motto is taken from our national hymn, 'Star-Spangled Banner'; the sentiment is familiar to every citizen of the country; the time is propitious; 'tis an hour of national peril. Let us reverently acknowledge His sovereignty, and let our coinage declare our trust in God." A two-cent bronze coin was authorized by Congress to be coined the following year, and on April 22, 1864, the first United States coin was stamped with the legend, "In God We Trust".

TO BE

"I'd like to be a could-be
If I could not be an are,
For a could-be is a may-be
With a chance of touching par.
I'd rather be a has-been
Than a might-have-been, by far
For a might-have-been has never-been,
But a has-been was an are."

BULLDOGS PLAY SLATON HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

they really took a "starring" from one end of the line to the other and from tailback to full back in the backfield. There was no outstanding star except whatever in you happened to be watching.

Ham Maassen played a slashing game at end and kept the Post boys wondering just what he would do next. Horace West and Turner Rogers at right tackle helped Maassen bottle anything that came to that side of the line. T. Hines played a game at center that caused all who saw it to wonder at the stamina of a kid that size doing the job he was doing, then when he was finally worn out in the 4th quarter, Pug Parker, another light weight, went to relieve Hines and handled the job in the same fighting manner Hines had been doing. Line captain White at right guard led the fighting Tahoka line in vicious blocking and tackling till an injury removed him in the late stages and J King relieved him and carried on in grand style. Jolly and Thompson took time about at left guard and when a play was sent their way Post thought they had hit a stump. A Hammonds played 60 minutes of as hard football as any one could want. This boy is plenty tough and "likes it". At left end L Cloe balanced with Maassen on the other end and Cloe really did jar the Antelopes when they came his way. In the backfield, D Parker, Weathers Lehman and Minor were as classy backfield as any one could wish for. Lehman saved the day with his punting and tackling. Weathers and Parker in their backlog and full carrying took punishment but would have sent them to the sidelines long before the game ended had they not had what it takes to pay hard vicious football and Mr. Minor was his usual dependable touchdown threat when we had the ball and was a deadly tackler when the enemy had ambitions. When the enemy attempted to bottle Minor, Weathers or Parker would get off with nice gains and when they would stop these two rabbits Minor would carry the mail. Boys who were ready but didn't get into the Post gam, but who might see plenty tonight are J Dyer, J King E Dillard, A Kelly, J Noble, R Knight, and F Woods.

If the Bulldogs and their supporters can get over Slaton tonight they have in Earl Adams an addition to the team that will mean a greater threat to the opposition than we now have. He does not become eligible till next week and is fully capable of playing any one of three positions. He is a deadly tackler, a fine punter and can really catch that pig skin. Above all this Earl really likes the game and is going to mean a lot to the team when he finally does break in the line up. Again may the fans be reminded that Tahoka has a football team that is fighting every inch and every second and every man is a very valuable asset to the whole team. Each player is giving all he has to the very highest praise. The only reason they could have played better individually and collectively than they played in their last conference game would have been for the game to have lasted longer. Will they do it against Slaton? The answer to that question is the answer to the outcome of the Slaton game. The Bulldogs have the ability but will have to use every minute of the game in the same kind of vicious football they employed at Post. Will they do it? This writer believes they will.

WEST POINT H. D. CLUB MEETS

"Many pieces of furniture are embellished with meaningless ornaments which add nothing to the usefulness or beauty of the article," Miss Maurine McNatt, home agent, told members of the West Point H. D. Club which met with Mrs. A. D. Schaffner on Wednesday, October 4 at 3:30 o'clock.

Frequently a piece of furniture gains in simple beauty after scroll work or jig-saw decorations have been removed. These decorations are usually glued or attached with small nails and can be taken off easily, therefore should be removed before refinishing.

Plans were made for the Ball Jar Contest to be held in the club at the next meeting, which will be October 18.

The county-wide Bread Show was discussed. Seven members and two visitors were present. Refreshments were served.

Next meeting will be October 18 at the home of Mrs. C. T. Tankersley.
