Demo Meeting Is Harmoniaus, But Republicans Split

Three county conventions, one by Lynn county Democrats, and two by as many factions of the Republican party, were held in Tahoka last Saturday afternoon,

With County Demo Chairman

C. H. Cain, in the chair, Truett Smith was elected temporary chairman, and W. S. Anglin temporary secretary, and later permanent officers. The following delegates, instructed to vote as a unit were elected to attend the State Conven. tion on Sept. 14: J. W. Elliott, chairman, A. L. Dunagan, C. H. Cain, G. W. Small, Norvell Redwine, Sam Floyd, Otis Harris, B. W. Baker, Truett Smith, S. L. Williams J. K. Applewhite, Claud Wells, V.L. Botkin, Tom Garrard, and Herman Reid.

Principal interest Saturday, however, was in the Republican meetings, since there is a fight for the Republican leadership and control of patronage in the county, district, and state, in case a Republican president is elected this year.

A faction led by Mrs. Ola Belle chairman, called its county conven_ tion for 5 o'clock. Six delegates were present representing 13 votes, and Mrs. Lamb was declared reelected county chairman. Sam Singleton, O'Donnell, was named the convention chairman and also the

At the state convention on next Tuesday, both factions will seek recognition. and one will be seated. The faction recognized will likely have a great deal to do with the naming of postmasters, if the Republican presidential ticket wins the YEAT.

ATTENDS FUNESAL OF NEPHEW

Mrs. J. L. Jolly returned Saturday night from Artesia, New Mexico, where on Friday she attended the funeral of her nephew, Frank James Mullenax, 20.

Young Mullenax met a sudden and tragic death on Wednesday at Loving, New Mexico, where he had some for a truck load of cotton seed hulls. After weighing in his truck, and about ten tons of the storage house to loosen the packed hulls preparatory to filling hi truck, and abiut ten tons of the hulls caved off over him, suffocating him. When found three hours later, the stiffened body with upraised fork in hand was standing just inside the storage house completely buried under the hulls.

"Tiny" made a record here as a Boy Scout, then he became ill of a little-known malady that for many nonths threatened to take his life. His former scoutmaster and other friends assisted his parents in providing treatment that proved unwailing. He was then taken to Dal_ las where his malady was finally diagnosed by a specialist; his life was saved, and he was finally restored to almost normal health. In pite of all these handicaps and his consequent tiny size. he was accepted into service by the Navy some two months ago.

Navy doctors at first changed his treatment and it was not long till "Tiny" found himself in a Navy Hospital. Physicians then went back to the treatment, which had been prescribed by the Dallas specialist, and "Tiny" was soon on his feet aagain. He is now looking well and says he is feeling fine. He will return to San Francisco within a few days.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEG-ISLATURE OF THE STATE OF

TEXAS: Section 1. That Section 28 of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as hereafter to read as follows: "Section 28. The Legislature shall, at its first regular session after the publication so of each United States decennial census, apportion the state into senatorial and representative districts, agreeable to the provisions of Sections 25, 26; and 26-a of this Article. In the event the Legislature shall at any such first regular session following the publication of a United States decennial census, fail to make such apportionment, same shall be done the Legislative Redistricting Board of Texas; which is hereby created, and shall be composed of five (5) members, as follows: The Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Attorney General, the Comptroller of Public Accounts and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, a majority of whom shall constitute a quorum. Said Board shall assemble in the City of Austin within ninety (90) days after the final adjournment of such regular session. The Board shall, with_ in sixty (60) days after assembling, apportion the state into senatorial and representative districts, or into senatorial or representative districts, as he failure of action of such Legislature may make necessary. Such apportionment shall be in writing and signed by three (3) or more of the members of the Board duly acknowledged as the act and ed of such Board, and, when so executed and filed with the Secre. tary of State, shall have force and effect of law. Such apportionment shall become effective at the next succeeding statewide general election. The Supreme Court of Texas shall have jurisdiction to compel such Commission to perform its duties in accordance with the provisions of this section by writ of mandamus of other extraordinary writs conformable to the usage of law. The Legislature shall provide necessary funds for clerical and technical aid and for other expenses incidental to the work of the Board, and the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall be entitled to receive per diem and travel expense during the Board's session in the same manner and amount as they would receive while attending a special session of the Legislature. This amendent shall become effective January 1, 1951." Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held throughout the state on the first Tuesday after the first Mon-day in November, A. knew nothing about the distressful plight of the aged couple.

The story has brought at least two responses in the way of aid, and probably more. This week Mrs. J. K. Looker of Idaho Springs, Colorado, the former Miss Lucille McCord, sent to the The News a check for five dollars to be used for the benefit of the aged couple. She suggests that other donations be made and that a buzzer system or other form of signal be installed for them to use to notify neighbors of any mis-hap.

"My earliest recollections of life include the Faireses," Mrs. Looker adds, "and they are a wonderful and deserving couple. I am sure that every one who knows them, feels as I do and would be only too happy to contribute to their happiness."

Mrs. Looker and her husband are now operating a restaurant, "motel," and filling station at Idaho Springs.

More and more Texas families say the Gas Refrigerator is their first choice. Because this modern refrigerator is different, simpler. It operates with no moving parts at all. There's nothing in its freezing system that can wear or cause noise. A tiny gas flame does the work. It operates anywhere, on any kind of gas.

So Servel stays silent, lasts longer. And its silent, worry-free performance is guaranteed for ten years. (Many of the over 2,000,000 Servel-owning families still enjoy theirs after 18 and 20 years.)

There's every new feature you're looking for in the beautiful new models. A big frozen food compartment, plenty of ice cubes, moist and dry cold for fresh foods. Come see the refrigerator that's Texas' growing favorite today.

"Cluster City" For Atom Age

"Cluster city" is not the name of a place, but of a style of city designed especially for protection against atomic bombs.

Tracy B. Augur, a city planner and a consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission is responsible for the "cluster city" idea. Such a city, he says, would be a bunch of small cities of about 50,000 population each, all grouped together and interrelated, and separated from each other by four to five miles of open country.

Augur believes that such cities would reduce to a minimum the effect of an atomac attack and would also increase city livability.

CRACKDOWN: On Reds

Uneasiness over the foreign situation was reflected in two actions directed against subversive elements on the home front.

In the greatest crackdown in history on the Community party in this country, a special federal grand jury in New York indicted 12 party leaders on charges of conspiring and agitating to overthrow the U.S. government and of being members of a party which threatens overthrow of the government.

The special grand jury to delve into Communist activity was created in June, 1947, by order of Atty. Gen. Tom C. Clark.

Included in the roundup were William Z. Foster, party chairman and several times Communist candidate for President of the U.S.; Benjamin Davis, New York City councilman; John Gates, editor of the Daily Worker, and several members of the Communist national board.

Almost simultaneously, charges that several hundred foreign agents have used the United Nations to cover subversive activities here were hurled by state department representatives at a senate committee hearing.

Robert C. Alexander, assistant chief of the department's visa commission, declared that some of the agents were employees of the United Nations or came here in some way related to the U. N. Such persons are covered by the international immunities act passed in 1945.

Surprised at the charges, United Nations officials insisted that it was up to the state department to back up the charges with facts.

A check on nationalities of U. N. staff members showed that of a total of 2,944 there were 1,463 foreigners. From the "iron curtain" countries there were 108, but many were appointed before the change of governments put their homelands

The official line was laid down by

Although rumors that the Berlin blockade might prove the spark that would enkindle fighting warfare permeated official quarters, the U.S. position appeared to be that this country hopes to avoid war. However, if the Russians are determined to cause more serious trouble at Berlin, this government is determined to resist force with force. It is equally determined to avoid taking any step which might make the situation more serious as long as negotiation and other diplomatic means remain open. There will be many more talks, much painstaking deliberation among the western powers in connection with the exchange of notes regarding the Berlin blockade, irretrievably linked up as it is with the over-all German settlement.

Marking the high water mark in the deepening Berlin crisis and lending emphasis to the determination to back up its policy that for vice president was in the field American troops will not leave Berlin, the United States dispatched powerful, reinforcements to its air arm in strife-torn Europe.

A big question mark still concerned Russia's ultimate objectives. Was the Kremlin merely trying to drive the Allies out of Berlin or was this but another step in the fundamental objective of moving the iron curtain inexorably westward, country by country, until it embraced the whole heartland of Europe?

DRAFT:

Blows Strong

America's first draftees - 1948 style-are going to be whisked into uniform so fast they won't know what hit them.

The draft proceedings will start rolling Monday, August 30, when the first of 9,500,000 youths will register. Registrations will continue on 17 designated days extending to September 18.

From these millions of men, volunteer draft boards throughout the nation will select the manpower to match the material build-up of air, land and sea forces called for under the rearmament program.

Military men are set to welcome the first draftees into their ranks any time after September 22. Under the law actual drafting cannot start until that date. The presidential proclamation setting the registration dates did not specify when in-

STRAW:

Stack of Money

There are potential stacks of money in the stacks of straw which annually go to waste on U.S. farms. Although the paper industry offers a large potential market for the product, farmers last year burned or did not use about 38 million tons of straw, according to department of agriculture estimates.

Recent technical advances have made possible a large expansion of the market for straw. It has been found suitable for blending with wood pulp to make fine papers and also can be used in the manufacture of various insulating buildingboard products. Principal industrial use for straw at present is in making corrugated strawboard, which is used as a liner in cartons and boxes. Some straw also is used for coarse grades of wrapping paper. Research by the department of agriculture laboratory at Peoria. Ill., indicates that straw pulp can be substituted for 25 to 40 per cent of the wood pulp now used in fine and specialty papers. The strawboard industry was established in this country around 1990, when wheat was harvested with binders and threshed. Every wheat farm then had its straw stack and the straw could be baled. When the combine harvester came into general use, most of the straw stacks disappeared. Development of pickup balers, however, once again have made straw collection on the farm a practical operation. In normal times, it is estimated, the farmer may add 8 to 20 per cent to his cash income from wheat by collecting and selling the straw,

Naming Month of May

How the month of May got its name is a subject of controversy among historians. According to the World Book encyclopedia, the most widely accepted story is that the month was named after "Maia." the Roman goddess of spring and growth. But some scholars claim May was a month sacred to the "Majores" or older men, just as June was sacred to the "Juniores." or younger men.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE by Roger C. Whitman QUESTION: The lincleum in our kitchen has risen up in a certain spot. It is inlaid linoleum over a felt base over plywood. Do you think if we bored a small hole in the linoleum and poured some kind of cement in, it would hold? What kind of cement would you recommend for this job?

ANSWER: Try this method for flattening the bulge: Cut a slit in the bulge, following a line of the pattern so that it will not show. Then press linoleum cement under each side of the slit, working it well underneath with a spatula, or some similar tool. Wipe off surface smears promptly. If you cannot get linoleum cement, use roofing cement. Smears of roofing cement should be promptly wiped off with turpentine. Then place weights on top until the cement has dried hard.

QUESTION: My walls are covered with a very poor quality of wallboard, which bulges here and there. It is covered with paper: but now shows a few cracks, which developed after the furnace was started. What is the best thing to do with the walls? The expense is an item; I'll have to have someone do all the work.

ANSWER: For a good job it would be better to take off the board and replace it with one of better quality, properly put up according to the manufacturer's instructions; or else .nail up new boards over the old ones. In the meantime, you might consider nailing down the bulges as well as you can, and then covering the joints with strips of decorative wood moulding, such as halfround.

QUESTION: The walls of our new home are all pastel-colored, rough-finished plaster. Now "five o'clock shadow" is beginning to show around our high-wall registers. Our oil furnace has filters for the blower but, nevertheless, the soot on two walls looks black. How can I remove this grime and prevent a recurrence?

ANSWER: To clean the walls, first remove as much loose dirt as you can by light brushing, and follow by cleaning with a wallpaper cleaner. The filters probably are loaded down with dust may need cleaning, if they are

Crisp Vegetables Serve as Centerpiece (See recipes Lelow)

Summer Vegetables

ARE YOU MAKING the most of your garden? There are so many ways to serve vegetables, especially if you have your own garden-fresh variety on hand.

Of course, you can prepare them with enchanting sauces, or toss them crisp and icy into salads, but have you ever thought of using them in a centerpiece that can be eaten?

There's no disputing the fact that radish roses, celery curls, cucumber wheels and the like are very attractive. And that's the thought of many a smart homemaker who whips these fancy, easy-to-make vegetables into a centerpiece for mealtime.

Fancy gew-gaws that have been centerpiece standbys for too long a time should be retired, as strictly summer-style creations of fresh vegetables put in their place will give the family a combination eye and appetite teaser. Try these tricks: Radish Roses

What To Do In Case of Fire

Each member of a household should understand how to send in a fire alarm to the fire department. In many cities the fire alarm may be sent in by telephone or from . street fire-alarm box. Some cities require that the alarm be sent in by telephone, and others require that a fire-alarm box be used. Seconds count at the time of a fire, the proper method should be definitely known, and used. If sending in a fire alarm by telephone is required or permitted, the telephone number of the fire department should occupy a conspicuous and permanent place at each telephone or telephone extension in the home. In giving information about a fire over the telephone one should carefully consider what he is doing. What the fire department want and should know is (a) the number of the house, (b) the name of the street or road, (c) the nearest street corner, and (d) the number of the telephone from which the call is made.

Carrot Straws

Wash, scrape tender young carrots and cut in eighths, then cut in narrow strips about three inches long. Cover with a damp cloth and chill in refrigerator.

Cauliflower Flowerets

Wash carefully by running under cold water; then separate raw cauliflower into flowerets. Chill in salted ice water until crisp.

Scallions

Wash well, trim green stalks. Peel onion if skin is loose or shrivelled and chill in ice water.

Celery Hearts

Wash celery carefully. Remove outer stalk and save for salads or use in cooking. Trim root and cut into an eval shape. Cut through in thirds or quarters. Crisp in ice water. . . .

HERE ARE WAYS to prepare attractive platters of vegetables:

Platter I Place cauliflower flowerets in one corner of platter, against this the carrot curls, then radish roses. Around this one corner may be placed in sections, the following vegetables: Carrot strips, cucumber wheels and celery hearts.

Platter II Place well chilled ripe olives and green stuffed olives in center of large platter and separate these with carrot strips and celery hearts. Divide rest of plate into four sections and in each one place the following: Fomato slices, cucumber wheels, scallions and radish roses.

COOKED VEGETABLES also may be used for pretty platters. Each vegetable should be cooked only until it is tender, and served at once. Here's a lovely platter which may be used as a main dish:

During Hot Days

It's best to do the main part of the cooking early in the day before it becomes so warm. For example, roast meat or bake meat loaf in the morning and serve cold for evening meal.

Au gratin potatoes may be cooked, the cheese melted in a hot sauce, then mixed with potatoes, and the whole dish neated for 15 minutes in the oven with the corn and green pepper are placed around the green beans. Serve with melted butter. . . .

ANOTHER PRETTY SUMMER platter uses entirely different vegetables but is very colorful:

Cabbage with Sliced Carrots Lima Beans Fried Parsnips

Parboil a large head of cabbage for 10 minutes. Remove all the inside leaves, so that only a few of the larger ones remain, leaving a huge cup. This is filled with carrots which have been sliced, or creamed if preferred, and cooked for 20 minutes, Sprinkle with parsley. Around this place parsnips which have cooked for seven to 15 minutes, then fried until golden brown and crisp in a buttered skillet. Lima beans are shelled and placed around that after cooking for 20 to 30 min-* utes in boiling, salted water. Another platter uses a combination of colorful white, green, yellow and red vegetables: Creamed Polatoes

Beets with Peas

Carrot Strips The potatoes are cooked after peeling, then cubed and creamed. If they are small leave them whole. The carrots are cleaned, cut in strips and cooked just until tender, about 20 minutes. The beets are cooked with skins, which are slipped off in cold water after cooking. Scoop a small hole in the beets and fill with peas. Place the potatoes in the center of the platter, carrots around those, and the beets and peas around the carrots.

IF YOU HAVE a sectioned vegetable dish, you may like to serve a variety of sauces with your vegetables. Here is a nice variety from which to choose to add more snap to vegetables:

Vinegar-Bacon Sauce

Simmer one-fourth cup minced onion in one-fourth cup bacon drippings until tender but not brown. Add one-fourth cup vinegar, one and one-half teaspoons salt, oneeighth teaspoon pepper and oneeighth teaspoon sugar. Heat and pour over green beans, brussels sprouts, cabbage, kale or other greens.

Cheese Sauce

Place one-half pound of processed cheese in the top of a double boiler and add one-half cup of milk as soon as cheese melts. This is good with potatoes, cauliflower and broccoli.

Released by WNU Festures Prepare dinner during the early morning hours so that it will be crisp and cold when served. Cut fruit or vegetables for salads, make dessert and store in refrigerator during the morning. Many casserole dishes can be cooked more quickly if partially prepared on top of the range, thus saving oven time. Use refrigerator desserts, made early in the day, which save time at the last minute and which are refreshing.

Choose containers that can be sealed tightly and won't leak. Frozen foods are better when packaged in containers that are moisture-proof and vapor-proof. Miss Van Duyne explains. Otherwise the foods dry out and lose palatability.

Cartons come in a variety of types and shapes. Rectangular or square cartons may have inner linings or have a waxed plastic finish; some are made for use with cellophane bags. Most of these are sealable with heat-by pressing together edges of covering material with an electric iron or a hand iron. The cartons are generally easy to handle and store. Waxed cups are convenient, but the seal on the set-in lid isn't moisture- or vapor-proof.

Before sealing a filled carton or bag, wipe inside edges with a clean cloth to remove moisture that would prevent a tight seal. Also press out all possible air from top of bag, then heat-seal tightly. Or you may like the pressure tapes for sealing; they have an adhesive substance on one side so that they can be stuck on edges of bags and cartons.

SERVICE—from the ground up

From Brownfield to Post, our new electric transmission line has stretched in recent months. It brings more power to the fast growing agriculture, manufacturing and business of this region. It means more dependable power for the Slaton, Post, and Tahoka section.

This new line didn't just grow overnight. Careful study and planning came first. Surveys of the proposed route followed. Meanwhile, materials and supplies were ordered, to be sent to the right spots for use. Then poles went up, with wires, crossarms and hardware on them. Finishing work followed. Substations were built, too. Energizing the line-turning on the "juice"-is just about the last step in a long job.

It takes that type of planning, all the time, to furnish good electric service to our customers. We've been at this work 24 years. Our experience, know-how and manpower are your assurance of continued good electric service.
