OUR NEW GOVERNOR

For lack of space and time. The News was compelled to leave out some news stories and other matters prepared for publication last week. One of these was a brief story concerning the death of Governor Beauford Jester. Just at press time we discovered that it was being left out for the reasons stated above, but there was nothing then that we could do about it. We regret that some other items had to be left out also. We presume, however, that most folks heard about the Governor's lamented passing even though they did not find even a hint of it in the News. They know also that a new governor is in the chair in the Capitol building, former Lieutenant-Governor Allen Shivers of Port Arthur. Shivers, however, did not take the oath of office until Saturday, even though Governor Jester was found dead in his berth in a passenger train in Houston early Monday morning; on his way to a Galveston hospital. Shivers, 41 years of age, was born and reared in the piney woods of deep southeast Texas, as had been his father and grand-father before him. After graduating in law at the University of Texas, making his own way through that institution, he was elected to the state senate at the age of twenty-six, and served in that capacity for twelve years. Then he was elected lieutenant-governor and was serving his second term as such when the death of his chief elevated him into the governor's office.

Shivers made a brief speech when he took the oath of office Saturday morning in the old home of his ancestors near Woodville in Tyler county, in which he said: "I realize I must be governor of all the people, and not of any segment, clan, or clique. This responsibility lies heavy in my heart. . . . As I accept the governorship of the great state of Texas, I do so humbly, asking for divine guidance and your counsel and prayers."

It is hoped that he will prove to be strong enough to be the governor of all Texas, the servant of all the people and not merely the servant of any powerful interest.

We believe that the people of this area generally approve the activities of state and county officers who are staging war upon the liquor law violators. When County Attorneys like youthful Mr. Carr of Lubbock and the veteran prosecutor B. P. Maddox of Tahoka, backed up by many of the peace officers, get on the trail of the bootleggers, something really worth-while is going to happen. County judges who will impose heavy fines are also very helpful in stamping out violations of the law. Judge Tom Garrard is to be commended for his work on the bench in this county. Let the good work go on.

Odds & Ends

(By E. I. The Elder)

We read an article the other day in which it was stated that many modern scholars, including some eminent professors in Divinity Schools and Theological Seminaries, are hooting at the possibility of the performance of miracles by any reputedly divine personage either in the present age or at any time heretofore. In other words, they claim that "there ain't no such animal" and never has been. Everything that is done in this world, they maintain, is done in accordance with natural laws and forces. Miracles are supernatural and therefore unreasonable and impossible, according to these leafy gents.

We should like to ask them a question or two. Who made these natural laws? Who set them up? Who devised these natural forces and set them to work? Is this limitless universe, that works with clock-like precision and has been so working through countless ages, just the result of chance? Just the child of hap-hazard circumstances? Isn't it reasonable to believe that there is a great Intelligence back of it all? There must be.

If so—if there is a great Intelligence who created this universe and established the laws and set up the forces that control it, couldn't he modify, change, or set aside these laws at will?

"It sounds absurd to me," one says. "Miracles are unreasonable. They are unnatural, and I don't believe the Lord ever performed one."

Did it ever occur to you, brother, that we live daily in the midst of miracles? Did it ever occur to you that these "Natural laws and forces" that you speak of constitute in themselves the greatest miracle in this universe?

The rain falls from the clouds in obedience to the law of gravitation, and it soaks into the earth and wets the soil. Nothing strange about that, you say. Yeah? But that very moment, trillions and trillions of little rootlets that trees and shrubs and maize stalks and cotton plants have sent downward into the soil begin to pick up this moisture, and in defiance of the laws of gravitation it begins to climb upward through the numberless little pores or tubes or interstices that lie between the woody tissues or fiber, bearing its load of salt or sugar or other soluble substances up and up and up from the ground and through the body of the plant or the tree, then up and out through the branches to the leaves, where other elements from the air are furnished, and these substances are taken on just to the right place and deposited so as to produce flowers and finally fruit on the trees, bolls on the cotton plants, grains on the maize heads—food and feed and fibers to bless the world.

Were it not for this natural force which the scientists call capillary attraction that works in opposition to and overcomes the force the scientists call gravitation, not a grain of wheat or maize, not a boll of cotton, not a peach, nor an apple, nor a nut, nor a banana, not a cabbage head, nor a tomato, nor a single pea pod could be produced in this world. The whole surface of the earth would be as barren as the pavement on our highways. There would be no human being on earth anywhere to raise his voice to the heavens, not an animal to neigh or to bray, not a bird nor a butterfly to flit about, not a bee to buzz nor a cricket to chirp; not even a bug to crawl.

Aren't the laws of Nature wonderful? Don't they work out miracles of blessing for you and for me every day?

Gravitation itself is a mystery. We should like to see the color of the eye of the man who can explain it. How can a body of inanimate matter exercise a pull on all other matter in its universe, so to speak? The strength of its pull depends upon its own size and density and upon the distance from the other body or bodies of matter involved. Yet scientists all agree and our knowledge of this earth and other bodies teaches us that the earth does attract or tend to pull to it all other matter in our solar system. Turn a body loose, unsupported, a foot above the earth here in Tahoka or 50,000 feet above Tahoka, and it will immediately fall straight down to the surface of the earth. Turn any object loose on the exact opposite side of the earth, which in this case would be somewhere over the Indian Ocean, and it will immediately fall to the surface of the sea, headed directly toward us here in Tahoka. It was brought down to the surface of the globe in each case by the pull that the earth had on it. How can that pull be explained if God be left out of the picture? If he is in it, why not accept the logical conclusion that he can do anything with it that he chooses to do?

Yes, if it were not for the force of gravitation, we literally could not keep our feet upon the earth. In fact the earth would not hold together one second. Its particles would separate and dissipate like vapor in the limitless spaces that surround it.

Isn't this pull that one body of dead matter has for every other body of dead matter a marvelous thing? Who can explain it? Who can understand it, As David of old once exclaimed, "Such knowledge is too wonderful for me; I can not attain unto it." It is just as marvelous as the Virgin Birth or the Resurrection. An all-wise, all-powerful Supreme Being is the answer and the only answer to these marvelous perpetual unexplainable feats of "Natural Law" being performed all about us every moment of our existence.

These very bodies of flesh in which we live, move, and have our being are miraculous pieces of machinery. Study the heart a little, automatically pumping away, second after second, without a stop, with hardly a quiver, hour after (Con'td. On Next Page)

AMERICANS KNOW HOW TO BANK THEIR MONEY

There are almost 50,000,000 thrift accounts in this country. In a single year, Americans added 1 billion, 100 million dollars to these accounts. This is future spending power in reserve. Meanwhile, these funds help provide new tools, new plants, new and better machinery—more jobs and greater opportunities for all. When you deposit regularly at the bank, you not only help yourself and your family—you help to make the American way of life even better than it is.

Odds & Ends . . .

hour, day after day, month after month, for ten years, twenty years, seventy-five years, sometimes for a century, sending the life-giving blood to every bone and every muscle of the body, even to the hairs of the head and the toe-nails on the feet. The digestion and assimilation of foods is scarcely less wonderful.

But more wonderful than any of these is the power of the mind over the body. The mind—that invisible, intangible, invaluable, incomprehensible thing that lives in the body and rules it, or should do so. I decide to go for a walk. The telegraph system—the nervous system—that operates in my body takes the message down to my legs and my feet and in obedience to my will they begin to walk.

Something you are reported to have said comes to my ears and registers on my brain. My mind becomes agitated and excited. In other words I become angry—mad enough to fight. That same telegraph system conveys my desire to my arms and fists like a flash of lightning, and I biff you on the nose.

Then probably your mind becomes agitated and you biff me on the nose.

The fact that mind thus controls matter is so obvious in everything that we do that we never think of it as being a wonderful thing. The exercise of this control may be voluntary or involuntary, but whichever it be, how can any of us really understand how this invisible, intangible thing that we call the mind, that has no substance, no weight, no dimensions, no physical existence, can absolutely control the body, that does have substance and weight and physical dimensions? Explain that to me, and I will explain to you how that Jesus could quiet the storm or could walk on the water.

Note again, that the mind not only controls the activities of the body but by a little conscious effort it can control its own activities. I have the power to "call off the dogs" as it were when my mind begins inwardly to bark and to bite at my neighbors—think evil thoughts about them—and to direct my thoughts and purposes into and along higher and purer channels, above the filth of the sewer. I have the power to determine whether I shall meditate about high and noble things, how that I may best serve my Maker and help my fellow man, or to grovel around mentally in the filth of the sewer. The mind can determine whether it is going to major on the study of Mathematics, Science, English Literature, law, the Bible and the fundamental principles of Christianity, Sociology and the welfare of the human race, or what-not.

MISS LENA WILLIAMS AND FRANKIE STEWART WED

In a double-ring ceremony read by Rev. C. T. Aly in the First Baptist Church here at 9:00 o'clock last Sunday morning, Miss Lena Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williams, became the bride of Frankie Stuart, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Stuart, all of this city.

The ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with arrangements of white gladioli and greenery.

The wedding music was furnished by Mrs. W. P. Hutchison, organist, and Sheldon Russell, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin dress with white lace trim. Her veil was of finger-tip length, and she carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mrs. J. R. Bueermann of Oakland, California, sister of the bride and matron of honor, was dressed in blue-green taffeta and carried pink carnations. Misses Wanda Faye Smith, Mary Walters, and Mrs. Joy Brookshire, bridesmaids, wore dresses similar to the matron-of-honor's thought that man is responsible for what he thinketh in his heart, and as Solomon observed, "he that ruleth his spirit is better than he that ruleth a city."

It is marvelous how the mind can thus choose good or evil and thereby, in a sense, determine its own destiny.

Our conclusion is that everything in this Natural world, from the atom to the universe, is too marvelous for the finite mind of man to comprehend it.

No such thing as Miracles? You, my brother, are yourself, soul and body, from head to toe, and from conception to dissolution, a living, walking, thinking, soaring, sinning major Miracle.

in colors of yellow, violet and rose. Billy Jack Warren served as best man, and Bill L. Williams, brother of the bride, Laylan McMahan and Weldon White were the ushers.

The flower girl, Patricia Ann Williams, sister of the bride, wore a light green dress.

A reception was held in the Williams home following the ceremony. The bride's table was decorated with white gladioli and a three-tiered wedding cake. Out-of-town guests were from Childress, Lubbock, and Oakland, California. Following a brief wedding trip, the couple are at home in Lubbock.

For travel, the bride wore a blue taffeta dress with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart are each graduates of the Tahoka high school and she attended the Tech and he attended Draughon's Business college.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gilbreath of California were here for several days visiting Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Adams and Jack Adams and families. Mrs. Gilbreath is a sister of Mrs. P. D. Adams.

CHRYSLER CORPORATION WILL HONOR LOCAL MEN

Two employees of Gagnat Motor Company will be honored by Chrysler Corporation July 22, 1949 for the successful completion of the first twelve sessions of a continuous course in factory-approved methods of servicing cars and trucks.

The mechanics will receive certificates from the Dodge-Plymouth home offices marking the completion of a year of participation in the school conducted here as part of the Chrysler Corporation Master Technicians' Service Plan.

Certificates will be awarded to H. M. "Happy" Nash and M. M. Liston. Nash has been a resident of Taboka for 5 years and has been employed by Gagnat Motor Company since 1947. He spent 5 1/2 years in the Army during World War II and 15 months of this time was spent over-seas. Liston has been a resident of Taboka for 12 years and has been employed by Gagnat Motor Company since 1947. Liston was in the Army for 5 years, 3 months, and 33 months of this time he was over-seas.

Planning of the program, which involves over 50,000 mechanics throughout the country, included counseling with selected dealer service managers and mechanics. The training course is built around a series of instructional kits, one of which Gagnat Motor Company received every month from the Dodge-Plymouth home offices. Each kit is devoted to a "tell, show and do" presentation of a basic service problem, selected from surveys of dealer requests for information. For the "tell" part of the training session, the first item in the kit is a 20 minute sound slide film, outlining basic principals of an automobile service operation, how to recognize the problem and how to make the necessary corrections. In the "show" part of the session, large blow-up charts and full information as to procedure for the instructor is supplied, together with a list of parts and tools required for a demonstra-

Burrough, Santa Fe section foreman, who suffered the breaking of one arm and of the thumb on the other hand in a recent accident, was reported to be recovering nicely from his injuries and it was expected that he would be released from the Plains Hospital and returned to his home either Thursday or Friday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Keyser of Huntington, West Virginia, arrived here Tuesday evening for a two-week visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Reese. She is the former Lorene Reese.

The mechanic is then allowed to perform the service operation himself, representing the "do" part of the session. Finally, a reference book summarizing the entire subject is supplied for the mechanic's personal reference.

At the end of each service session, the mechanic checks his progress by means of a series of questions. Questionnaires, when filled out, are returned to the factory for review, acting as a basis for future awards of certification to the dealer and mechanic.

PYTHIAN SISTERS HAVE FUN AND BUSINESS PROGRAM

The Pythian Sisters of Lynn Temple met Tuesday, July 19, at 7:30 p. m. for the second regular meeting of the month. Roll call revealed that each officer was present.

A business session was conducted by the Most Excellent Chief at which time more plans were made concerning the District Meeting, which is to be held in September.

Naomi Bell was reported ill and some discussed doing some things for her.

The secretary read a card received from Corine Dodson, P. C. of Amarillo Temple, telling about some cloths that are needed by the Pythian Home at Weatherford, and it was voted to send our part and also some napkins.

After the meeting was dismissed, the most unique program we have had in a long time was conducted by Elnora Curry. Most every one came dressed as a little girl and games were played in Little Girl fashion—games such as "Ring Around the Rosie." This was followed by pinning the tail on the donkey. Prize for this was won by Floyce Sherrod. After this, a song was given by a quartette of "Little Girls," these being Emma Halamicek, Elnora, Novice, and Ora Curry. This was all about a bossy little duck, and the applause called for and received an encore.

Then came the most fun of all. A parade was given in order to determine the one to receive the prize of the evening as the one best impersonating a little girl. This was won by Mary Louise Curry. She was truly dressed for the occasion, being barefoot and with ribbons galore.

A piano solo was given next by Mary Ellen James, entitled, "I dropped my Dolly in the Dirt." Songs were given in pantomime and much fun was had with this.

Then every one present formed a circle and each was given paper and crayolas and required to draw the picture of the one on her right, tell who it was, and then sign her own name. These were later gathered up and put together to form a book to be given to Naomi Bell. The party was enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served by Elnora Curry and Vera Inman. The table was decorated with bright colored balloons and there were more of them throughout the Temple.

There were 23 members present.

Mrs. Y. E. Adams of Gadsden, Alabama, who has been visiting here for several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. R. B. McCord, is leaving today for her home. While here, she and Mrs. McCord, visited the latter's daughter, Mrs. Lucille Looker, and husband, in Idaho Springs, Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fenton and daughter, Mary Louise, returned to Taboka Wednesday after having spent a week fishing in the mountains of northern New Mexico, in the Chama district.

Glenn Jackson and Buster Dulin of the Draw community, have recently returned from Nebraska, from the wheat harvest.

THE INSPIRING STORY OF A HEROIC JUNGLE GIRL

Mrs. Clay Bennett, Teacher of the Dorcas Sunday School Class, of the First Baptist Church, gives the following story which no doubt will be of wide interest.

Eunice Chaves, pronounced A-o-n-e-e-c-e Chaves, is the 18 year old jungle girl, receiving financial assistance from the Dorcas Class. Her last name would be Keys in English, symbolic of the work she intends to do "A Key to the Kingdom of God" for her people.

Her home was in Balsas, Brazil, and she was converted under the teaching of a missionary nurse, who was the only nurse or doctor in a radius of a thousand miles. After her conversion, Eunice's desire was to come to the Mission School supervised by Mildred Cox Mein of Mexia, Texas, who had been working and teaching there in Brazil for many years. Mrs. Mein is a cousin of A. E. Herring of Tahoka, and it was through the interest and generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Herring and Mrs. C. N. Woods that the Dorcas Class became responsible for the expenses of educating the little 18-year old jungle girl from the State of Goias.

She began a three months journey from her home by canoe, horse, back, walking and finally by steamer into Pernambuco. She arrived in the city thin, scrawny, never having any good nourishing food in her life. She had never seen milk before her arrival at the school. She had intestinal parasites as nearly all girls do who come from the jungle where they live on dirt floors. The worms live in the clay and it is hard for them to escape, especially so as they walk around barefoot at all times.

Following the first year of her stay at the school she had been placed out in the country near the city, as it was too far for her to return to her jungle home. Through the summer months, which were December, January and February, she worked with the children and even had a class of adults and taught them about Jesus and also taught them how to read and write. They wanted her to stay and not return to the Seminary, as she was doing much for the people who were starving for righteousness, but Mrs. Mein felt it was better for her to return and be better prepared before she went into the field.

There are many in Brazil who have not heard the gospel. Then there are many who ride fifty or sixty miles into an annual encampment of a Baptist School and then go back to their homes unable to attend another church service until the next year's encampment.

It has been possible to keep this young girl in the training school for nine months for $60.00. The Dorcas Sunday School Class has paid for one year's schooling for her with an additional $15.00 for uniforms and books. She remains a good student and a hard worker and in so helping this girl to prepare herself to lead her own people to the Lord Jesus the Dorcas Class feels a great blessing.

Turner Rogers, Wife, Attend Convention Held in Havana

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Rogers returned Monday from a trip to the convention of the owners and operators of Piggly Wiggly stores held in Havana, Cuba, July 4 to 8—a trip which they will long remember. They also spent two days in Miami Beach, Florida, and likewise visited many intermediate points. Most of their expenses were paid by the Piggly Wiggly corporation and major food manufacturers.

They made the trip to and from Miami, Florida, in their car, but the trip from the mainland to Cuba and return was aboard the USS Florida, there being about 450 representatives in the party, many of whom were from Texas and several of whom were from neighboring towns on the South Plains.

At Havana, they attended a brief business session, but most of the five days was given to entertainment and sight-seeing at the expense of the Piggly Wiggly corporation, packers, and manufacturers.

They were shown through sugar refineries, tropical farms, perfume and cigar factories, a Catholic Cathedral, Moro Castle, on a series of sight-seeing trips. They were royally entertained in the famous Hotel Nacional de Cuba, where they had a room overlooking the ocean, and at various shows.

Naturally, they got a great kick out of the trip, but were glad to get back to good old Lynn again. When W. T. Kidwell, owner of the local store found it impractical to attend the meeting himself, he delegated Turner and his wife to represent the local organization at the convention.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Wells and other members of the family spent most of last week up in Colorado vacationing and seeing the sights. With Denver and Colorado Springs as their headquarters, they visited many of the most scenic places in that state.

O. E. S. MEETING

The regular meeting of Tahoka Chapter Order of Eastern Star will be held Monday, July 25, at 8:00 o'clock p. m.—Omega Hensley, W. M., Era Stewart, Secretary.

Bob Ensor, who had been a resident of the Petty community in this county for many years until last fall, when he moved to Lubbock, was a caller at the News Office Thursday and reported that his sister, Miss Katherine Williams of Belton is here visiting him and her uncle C. Williams, who lives on the Tahoka-Post highway near the county line. She plans to take her father and visit the Carlsbad Cavern Saturday.

Ernest West, minister of the Tahoka Church of Christ and his family, h's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. West of Tatum, N. M., and h's sister, Mrs. Alton Phillips of Amarillo, returned last week end from a 10-day vacation trip to Colorado and Wyoming. Burtrum Hatchell, wife, and son, Billy, met them in Loveland, Colorado, and accompanied the party on much of their sight-seeing trip.

WE THANK YOU

We sincerely thank the Chamber of Commerce and the business men and other residents of Tahoka for the hearty welcome extended us, for the Barbecue and the entertainment given, and the many courtesies shown us at your Fair grounds here last Friday night. We appreciate it all very much.—Shell Geophysical Party No. 22.

GRASSROOTS

(By Bill Griffin, County Agent)
Spot checks over the county show that a heavy infestation is still present in early cotton. In some parts of the county boll worm eggs are present and some damage has been done by the first crop of boll worms. July showers usually produce a boll worm crop. If you had a heavy infestation of boll worms last year you should check your cotton every week to watch for an early infestation this year. The time to kill the boll worm is before they leave the terminal bud. Use

10% DDT 40% Sulphur dust at the rate of 10 lbs. per acre.

The mixing station for Grasshopper poison will be open next week on Monday, Wednesday, Friday.

Setting a standard for Chevrolet owners, the company's drivers have for the third consecutive year won industrial fleet safety honors in their home city of Flint, Michigan.

WILSON MAN EXPLAINS HOW HE CAUGHT THE WANDERLUST

Editor of The News:
I was in your office yesterday on a little business but since you were not in, the boys informed me that the Loan Department was closed until you returned. We regret very much that you lost an opportunity to turn some of the rust on your silver into interest, but you are not the first man that ever lost a good business deal. Probably the next best thing to do would be to continue the story that started in the paper several months ago. If I should give it a name, it would probably be called, "Wanderlust."

About fifty years ago I contracted a disease called "wanderlust" and this is how it all happened—. My granddady lived in Wylie, Texas, Collin county, and he planned a trip to Rector, Texas, Denton county, which was a distance of about thirty miles, and for some unknown reason he invited me to go along, and of course I went. That was in the good ole' days and our method of travel was by horse and buggy.

Granddady lived close to the Big Road and had a big red barn, and on the gable of this barn some one had painted the picture of a man in a cart driving a fast buggy animal, I remember that the spokes in the wheels had the appearance of making such dazzling speed that it made you dizzy to think about it. In those days ten miles per hour was something to brag about. At that time we never had highways, they were all called big roads.

Well, granddady had that fast animal and she was really fast; in fact nothing on the road was able to pass her. She was a pacer, her color was dark but not cold black, and she was tops when it came to speed. I remember that this mare was sold several years later and one day when she was getting very old, a boy in our community, who had a fast horse, tried to pass this old mare but was unable to accomplish the feat.

When it came time to start, old Fanny was hitched to the buggy, grandmother brought us our lunch that she had prepared, and we were off at once for the long journey ahead of us, which required about five or six hours. There was no use to talk about a cafe because I doubt if granddady ever spent a nickel in one and I was probably half grown when I saw my first one. This trip was one of interest all the way but about the only exciting thing that happened was when we ran up behind eleven buggies all going our way. Evidently granddady didn't like their dust, so he just tightened the reins, said let's go, Fanny, and we went around those fellows so fast that it would have made Cadillac look like a Model "T"; this is the way I saw it then. We arrived at our destination early in the afternoon, where we met all of our relatives and unloaded our luggage, which was not such a tremendous task because all that I had was a flour sack that contained a pair of overalls and an extra shirt.

The town where we arrived was a small one; it had only one store where they sold red striped stick candy, a gin where cotton was ginned, an ultra modern filling station where you simply went out to the well, took the rope off of the peg, let the bucket down into the water, drew it up, poured it into a tub and the horse filled himself.

I do not remember much about the details of what we did the first night, but I know we went fishing in a large surface tank that covered ten acres or more, which was the largest body of water I had ever seen at that time. I was never a very good fisherman and I had the same kind of luck that I always have wherever I go. I got only two bites, one was a mosquito and the other a big red ant.

Our return trip was rather uneventful but I had already received the impression that money spent on sight seeing was not wasted, even if I did spend a dime for candy. However, I would not advise spending all of your money for candy as our modern vehicles must have gas instead of water.

Some people travel for one reason and some for another, for instance I know a brainless wonder that travels to see how fast his car will run; his initials are Leon Tamplin; and another half-wit, who calls himself Tom Russell and who travels because his wife will not let him stay at home. If their wives will watch this column they may learn more about their husbands. That is all this time.

Yours very truly,
W. G. Boyd.

O. L. BLACKWELL, BROWNFIELD, WINS OIL COMPANY AWARD

For submitting the winning entry in Continental Oil Company's national monthly contest for "farm ideas," O. L. Blackwell, of Route 1, Brownfield, Texas, has been awarded a hand saw and given national recognition.

Blackwell's entry illustrating how to prevent a four-wheel trailer from "whipping" by fastening a coil spring from the tie rod arm to the axle, will appear in Continental's advertisement. The Tank Truck, in many of the prominent farm journals of the nation. Farm papers carrying the Conoco ad and Blackwell's winning idea include the July issue of Farm and Ranch, Capper's Farmer, and a dozen other periodicals.

August 4th, 5th, 6th has been set for the annual 4-H Club District Encampment. About 20 Lynn County 4-H Club boys will be selected this month to attend the 3 day camp.

Next session of the Southern Baptist Convention, apparently breaking with all tradition as a strictly Southern group, will be in Chicago, May 10-14, 1950. The 1951 session will meet in San Francisco.

2% IS A SMALL FIGURE

We were looking over our list of stockholders the other day and discovered something we thought you'd like to know. The largest holder of Southwestern Public Service stock owns less than 2% of the total shares!

To us it is reassuring that so many folks have invested their money to help us progress with the area we serve. It means also that ownership of Public Service is vested in thousands of folks right around here... teachers, ranchers, small businessmen, churches.

In other words, your Public Service Company belongs to the Panhandle-Plains-Pecos Valley. Somehow, that's the way things work best... free enterprise and sound business management... together... for a better way of life.
