Famed Speakers On C. of C. Program

All members, and their wives, of Tahoka Chamber of Commerce are urged to attend the annual banquet being held this Saturday night, March 22, at 8:00 o'clock in the new school cafeteria.

A fine program and dinner have been arranged for the event, according to A. Charles Verner, president.

Cecil E. Burney, Corpus Christi attorney and president of the Texas Bar Association, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Burney is an outstanding speaker, and is the youngest man ever to serve as head of the Texas Bar. He will be introduced by Truett Smith.

Joe S. Bridwell of Wichita Falls, cattleman, oilman, and promoter of a unique and successful Soil Conservation program in his area, will also appear on the program. Tom Garrard will introduce him.

Mr. Birdwell is probably Texas' outstanding citizen. He is the man who has financed the famous soil building award program in the Wichita Falls area. He has one of the biggest registered Hereford herds in the nation, and recently paid $80,000 for half interest in a bull. He designed the first big plot for destroying mesquites on ranch lands. He is a past president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, director of the American Hereford Ass'n., a trustee of Southern Methodist University, and gives freely of his time and money to many other worthy enterprises.

In addition, there will be a brief musical program, the election of new Chamber of Commerce directors, and a brief report from Secretary Russell McGee.

Special guests, in addition to the wives or husbands of members, will include officials of the Farm Bureau, Soil Conservation District committeemen, and New Home Civic Club officers.

Verner, A. M. Bray, and McGee are in charge of the program.

Other banquet committees are: Food: W. C. Wharton, chairman, Fred McGinty, J. D. Finley, and Hick Gibson.

Decorating: Clint Walker, chairman, Tom Gill, J. K. Applewhite Jr., and Wynne Collier.

Financial report: Wynne Collier, chairman, Applewhite, and Finley.

All members of the body are requested to notify Secretary McGee whether or not they plan to attend and the number of plates they wish reserved.

Storm Monday One Of Worst In Plains History

Monday afternoon and night's sandstorm was one of the worst which ever swept the South Plains, according to a number of old-time residents of this section.

Lubbock U. S. Weather Bureau station reported peak gusts ranging up to 76 miles per hour, and a peak sustained velocity of 60 miles per hour. Though the sand blew to some extent all day, the worst wind hit at about 4:20 and did not abate until after midnight.

Already suffering from one of the worst droughts in the history of this area, much topsoil was blown from farm lands and a great deal of damage was done to land in many spots.

Though land already listed suffered greatly, probably the worst damage, was to land not listed, and to land onto which sand drifted.

However, most farmers remain optimistic. For, as usually is the case, this country can promise less and make more than any place known. Last year was a good example, when, with practically no rain, Lynn county managed to produce fully 82,000 of the more than 95,000 bales of cotton ginned here.

Some farmers declare the land has listed better this year than it did last.

Some outbuildings over the county were demolished or damaged by Monday's high wind.

Here in Tahoka, the home of E. B. Gaither was damaged to the extent of about $600.00, when the roof of his garage was torn away and blown into the west wall of his home cutting a gash through the wall.

Congratulations:

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Sadona on the birth of a son, Manuel, Jr., weighing 6 pounds 4 ounces at Bronnenberg Clinic Friday, March 14.

Brotherhood Has Battle With Sand

During one of the worst sand storms in some time, fifty men gathered at the First Baptist Church Monday night for the regular monthly meeting of the Brotherhood.

The men enjoyed a fine fellowship and an excellent steak supper.

Following the supper, Lee Ramsour, pastor of the church, spoke to the men challenging them to do a man's job in the coming revival. The program was concluded with a showing of the film, "Creation."

E. H. Woods, a patient in Tahoka Hospital for more than three weeks, continues to show improvement.

Lynn Wins Top Show Honor

Records Set As Lynn 4-H, FFA Boys Place High

Lynn county 4-H and FFA club boys took more than their share of honors at the 19th annual South Plains Junior Fat Stock Show held in Lubbock Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Top honor of the show went to Jerry Cain, 13, Tahoka 4-H club boy, who copped the grand championship with his heavyweight fat Hereford calf, bred in Lynn county by George Claud Wells.

All previous records were broken in the show.

Jerry's calf brought the highest figure ever paid for a calf in that show—$2.05 per pound. It was bought by Furr Food Stores in the auction Wednesday. Record prices were paid for other animals, however, the sifted animals brought only the market prices, approximately.

The show set a new record in number of entries—1,107.

Dave Sherrill, general superintendent and Lubbock County Agent, said the hog show was "the hottest ever held on the South Plains."

Bill Griffin, superintendent of the fat calf division and Lynn County Agent, said the calf show was as good or better than any ever before held on the South Plains.

This was the first time a Lynn county boy ever won a grand championship in the calf division of the show, and it was the nearest winner to Lubbock in the history of the show. Of 238 entries, the sifting left 79 in show competition.

In the pig show, Lynn county boys carried away three of the six class championships. Of over 400 entries in barrows, this division was sifted to 253. Milt Draper of Tahoka FFA showed the champion Berkshire, Steve Dockery of Tahoka FFA had the champion Duroc, and John Mason of Wilson 4-H had the champion Hampshire.

More Nominees In Safety Event

Eight more names were entered this week in the "Courteous Driver" contest being sponsored by Rollin McCord, who is offering 34 cash prizes in the event which closes April 10.

"I believe Mrs. John Berry of Draw deserves recognition," writes one citizen. "She has driven all over the country working for the Red Cross, and other charities. She may not be the safest driver in the county, because of age and ill health, but I have noted she is a very careful and courteous driver."

Others nominated this week are Lawrence Harvick, Mrs. Enet Smelser, Happy Smith, Mrs. Rebel Thomas, and Mrs. Jim Clinton, all of Tahoka.

A. L. Shepherd of Grassland, Wayman Smith of New Home, Mrs. C. T. Tankersley, West Point.

Pete Dorman, Three Lakes. Nominated last week were: Red Brown, J. Mack Noble, Mrs. Condy Carmack, Jake Jacobs, Edith Aldridge, Joy Tomlinson, Wayne Martin, Mrs. Truett Smith, Joe Schooler, Fred McGinty, Mrs. Beulah Applewhite, Walter Mathis, C. T. Tankersley, Mrs. Carlice Edwards, Leroy Davis, and Mrs. Oscar Roberts.

Those who wish to make nominations, should write them to The News or Mr. McCord, and the nominations will be turned over to the judges.

The contest is designed to promote safe and courteous driving practices by our citizens.

Two Facing DWI Charges Here

Two local citizens are in trouble with the law here this week on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Sunday afternoon at about 4:00 o'clock a 1941 Ford convertible driven by R. W. Musick crashed nearly head-on into a 1939 Dodge occupied by Jesus Leando and his son-in-law, Fred Arregia, who live on the Cleve Littlepage place. The crash occurred on North Main street in Tahoka.

Musick received treatment at Tahoka Hospital, where it was found he had a broken pelvis and possibly other injuries, and he was transferred to Big Spring Veterans' Hospital.

Arregia was taken to Bronnenberg Clinic, where he received emergency treatment, and was sent on to Lubbock for further examination for a skull fracture and possible internal injuries.

Leando was taken to Tahoka Hospital, where he received treatment for broken ribs.

Arregia is the father of five children and also supports his father-in-law, it is said.

County Attorney Mitchell Williams said charges of driving while intoxicated will be filed against Musick.

Dalton (Doyle) Morgan, also of Tahoka, was arrested by City Police at about 2:00 a. m. Sunday and charged with driving while intoxicated. He pled not guilty, and his bond was set at $500.00 by Judge Walter Mathis.

Lions To Present Show Next Week

Banners will be awarded to schools winning in the one-act play, shorthand, typewriting, and volleyball contests. Individual winners in shorthand and typing will be awarded ribbons. Ribbons will be awarded to winners in all other events.

Hall Robinson Shows Improvement

B. H. (Hall) Robinson, seriously ill for several days, underwent major surgery in West Texas Hospital at Lubbock Tuesday morning.

He was reported Thursday morning to be doing as well as could be expected, and his doctor expects him to recover.

Mr. Robinson is a long-time citizen of Tahoka, and with his son, Jack Alley Robinson, operates the Lynn County Tractor company, dealers in Ford tractors and Mercury automobiles.

F. A. Wyatt of Ropesville was a visitor in Tahoka Monday.

Local Churches Plan Revivals

Several of the local churches will be having revivals at the Easter season.

Though they will not all have identical starting and closing dates, their proximity is hoped to encourage the entire community to participate in the services of the church of the individual's choice. The individual churches will announce their own schedules.

The churches of Tahoka urge you to "Give God A Chance."

Mrs. J. M. Noble Is Buried Here

Mrs. J. M. Noble, one of the real pioneers of Lynn county, died at her home in east Brownfield Tuesday after a long and lingering illness.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church in Brownfield Wednesday at 2:00 p. m., and her body was laid to rest in Tahoka Cemetery beside the grave of her late husband, Rev. George A. Dale of Lubbock, Rev. James Weathers of Brownfield, and Rev. Lee Ramsour of Tahoka officiated.

As all who knew her will attest, Mrs. Noble was truly a great soul, a kind mother, and a citizen of the highest type. Though quiet, reserved and unpretentious, her influence was greatly felt in the western part of Lynn county, which she and her husband pioneered and loved.

Mrs. Noble was born Rosa Lee Carter on December 19, 1872, in Louisiana. She came to Texas with her parents, and was married in Fisher county on August 24, 1893, to James Mack Noble.

The couple and their oldest children moved out to the West Point community in Lynn county in 1902, and made their home there until 1943, when they moved to 711 Tahoka Road in Brownfield. Mr. Noble passed away November 2, 1950.

Surviving are four sons: Terry of West Point, J. Mack Noble Jr., of O'Donnell, Levi of Post, and Robert of Brownfield; and several grandchildren.

Pallbearers were: Eldon Cornelius, George Claud Wells, W. A. (Dub) Fulford, Hubert Tankersley, W. E. (Happy) Smith, and W. E. Latham.

New City Well Is Drilled Here

City of Tahoka has just completed a new water well on its property two and a half miles north of Tahoka, according to Pat Hines, City water superintendent.

The new well tested 300 gallons per minute, and throws a 5-inch stream. It is 92 feet deep.

Mr. Hines said the well is not particularly needed at this time, but was drilled as insurance against a possible water shortage next summer or some time in the future.

In fact, he is pumping only one of the better wells at this time. The City now has 12 usable wells in the area north of town. They furnished sufficient water last summer but the City is taking no chances of running short on water again.

Mariann Doran of Pasadena, Calif. who is directing the local talent show, "Shooting Stars," sponsored by Tahoka Lions Club which will be presented in the High School auditorium next Thursday and Friday nights, March 27-28.

Dr. Eugene Slater, pastor, Polk Street Methodist Church, Amarillo, Texas, will be the guest speaker on the 179 station radio network of the Methodist Series of The Protestant Hour Sunday morning, March 23rd. Dr. Slater's subject will be "Where There's Faith, There's Hope.

Featured on this thirty minute public service worship program will be the Protestant Fellowship Choir under the direction of Hubert Vance Taylor with Raymond Martin at the organ. The choir will sing a special medley of the gospel songs "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone" and "Amazing Grace."

The theme for this 7th annual Methodist Hour presentation is being used as part of the nationwide promotion of "Tidings" and the General Board of Evangelism under the title "Give God A Chance."

A unique "singing commercial" by the gifted soprano, Frances Campbell Hughes, and the male quartet of the choir introduces each program with the theme.

Dr. Slater and the Protestant Fellowship Choir, may be heard over radio station WOAI San Antonio, at 7:30 A. M. Sunday.

Farmers Solve Bait Problem

COLLEGE STATION. —Where shall we go fishing and what about bait? That is a topic which will be discussed by many a fisherman during the next few weeks and months and R. E. Callender specialist in wildlife conservation for Texas Agricultural Extension Service, believes every farmer and rancher who owns a good pond or tank can solve the problem without leaving home.

He suggests first giving the pond a good spring cleaning. That is, clean up around the pond. Remove the trash that has accumulated and make the pond and surrounding area an attractive spot that can be enjoyed by the family and their friends. If the pond isn't now stocked with fish, he suggests contacting your local county agent for information on this very important item.

If the pond or tank is already stocked, he recommends a fertilization program. Farm ponds can be fertilized just the same as can farm crops and the results are equally as good. He likes to use a mixture of 400 pounds of cottonseed meal and 200 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate. The application of 300 pounds per surface acre of water should be made about this time of the year. Broadcast it on the surface of the pond and follow with a second, third and fourth application of 100 pounds each at three to four week intervals. The fertilizer program should be completed before hot weather arrives and before July 1, says Callender.

High grade commercially mixed fertilizers can be substituted for the above mixture says, the specialist and should be applied at the rate of 500 to 600 pounds per acre per year. The first application should be from 200 to 300 pounds per acre and 100 pound applications should follow at three to four week intervals until the total amount recommended is used.

Properly fertilized ponds, he points out, will have a greenish-brown color. When this color begins to disappear after each application, it's time to apply more fertilizer. Callender says a good test is to plunge the arm into the water up to the elbow, if the fingers and nails are visible, make the next application.

Here's why the fertilizer is so important. A given pond can produce only a certain poundage of fish each year and will consist of many small, stunted fish or a smaller number of larger edible fish—available food determines the pounds. The fertilizers increase the microscopic plankton and animal life known as plankton or "bloom." Plankton is the first link in the food production chain for the fish. Increase the food supply and the number of pounds of fish produced is raised in the same proportion, says Callender.

Now for the bait. He says produce it at home. A well-tended earth worm bed will furnish plenty of strong, frisky worms; the kind fish like to bite. Minnows can also be produced in a smaller pond or in tanks built for the purpose, says the specialist. Surplus bait, he adds usually finds a ready market in most communities.

And finally, Callender adds, a well-managed pond is a well-fished pond. Keep the number of fish in balance with food supplies and should undesirable species become too numerous in the pond, remove all fish; restock and start over. Such a program will make good fishing possible right at home and will provide recreation for family and friends to say nothing of the addition to family menu.

Farmers should plan to produce adequate feed crops this season, weather permitting. The use of adapted varieties of crops and liberal applications of fertilizers will aid in getting maximum yields.

Need Increase In Grain Sorghums

The recently announced increase in the 1952 production goals for grain sorghums again points up the need for continued efforts to protect and build the land as a means of meeting current and future food and feed requirements.

This challenge to the farmers of Lynn county is emphasized by S. L. Walter, chairman of the county PMA committee.

He points out that the revised national grain sorghum goal of 10,000,000 acres compared with 9,000,000 acres previously announced. The State goal is 6,000,000 acres as compared with the original goal of 5,200,000 acres. The 1952 production goal for grain sorghum for Lynn county is 110,000 acres.

The urgent need for increasing feed grain production to meet expanding requirements for livestock production is the basis for this increase in grain sorghum goals, the chairman explains. Production from a much larger acreage would be desirable if it were not for the reduction that it would mean in other needed crops and the ever present necessity of maintaining the fertility of the land for future production.

To help meet current needs for feed grain and at the same time take care of the land to meet probable greater requirements in the future is the real challenge for every farmer in Lynn county says Mr. Walters. It means using every practicable means of preventing fertile topsoil from washing and blowing away; of maintaining soil organic matter to check the breakdown of soil structure; and of building up soil fertility. It means organizing the cropping program on the farm so that necessary increases in such crops as grain sorghums and corn can be met in 1952 without robbing the land of its ability to continue to produce in the future.

WHAT ARE TODAY'S FACTS ABOUT NEW CAR ENGINES AND POWER STEERING?

LAST YEAR Chrysler introduced its new FirePower V-8 engine, and America's first passenger-car full-time power steering. Both new ideas "took hold" in a big way.

Today, others are announcing "new engines" and "power steering" . . . but with some basic differences worth keeping in mind if you're buying a new car.

First: about "new engines." The fact is, a really new engine design happens only once in a great while. It did happen in the FirePower V-8. Its 180 h.p. was only incidental to its basic new design. Its key idea is a hemispherical combustion chamber, which makes even non-premium gasoline develop more usable power than other designs can get from premium fuel.

Only Chrysler engineering has so far mastered this design. Several cars do have some power increase, in terms of previous designs. The important fact is that FirePower is not a "warmed-over" engine, but brand new in performance, construction, and efficiency.

In power steering, too, there are basic differences.

Chrysler uses hydraulic power, always in effect, to do two things. First, it does 4/5 the steering work as you turn the wheel. Second, we've cut the amount of wheel turn needed by over 1/3.

Parking or cruising, you get more and easier control than ever before. In sand, snow, or ruts, the hydraulic power is always there to keep the front wheels from "steering back" at you. You get the same amount and feel of control all the time . . . full-time ease and full-time safety.

Actually, the differences, both in engine performance and in steering safety and ease are impossible to put in words . . . but just as impossible not to feel the moment you get into a Chrysler and drive it! Why not see your Chrysler dealer and do that, soon?

Jerry Cain, 13, Realizes Dream Of Five Years In Taking Calf Title

When Jerry Cain's fat Hereford calf won the grand champion steer award Monday at the 19th Annual South Plains Junior Fat Stock Show in Lubbock, the youth realized an ambition he had held for five years.

Wednesday, Jerry's championship calf was sold at auction for a record price of $2.05 per pound to Furr Food Stores. The calf actually weighed in at 1028 pounds, but was sold on the basis of 3 percent shrinkage, or 997 pounds, which figures $2,043.85. He received $20.00 in premiums and a $10.00 merchants' bonus at the Lynn County show, $15.00 in premiums at the Odessa show, and $22.00 in premiums at the Lubbock show. Thus, the calf has brought a total income of $2,110.85.

The 13-year-old Tahoka 4-H club eighth grade student has been showing his livestock for five years, since the age of eight. County Agent Bill Griffin has been his instructor and advisor. He started his 4-H club work in 1947, and the next Spring the young boy was happy when he won second place on his Duroc barrow project in the Lynn County Junior Livestock Show. But he wasn't satisfied. He wanted to reach the top.

That summer of 1948, he grew a "back-yard garden, and won some ribbons on his tomatoes and sweet potatoes at the Lynn County Fair.

The next school year, he raised both a Duroc and a Chester White barrow. With a little more care and using what he had learned the year before, Jerry groomed the Chester White to take first in its class. His Duroc took first and went on to take the Grand Championship award in its class in the Lynn county show.

His third year in 4-H club work, Jerry wanted to learn something about sheep, and therefore took lambs for a project. In the fat lamb division, he, showed the grand champion, the reserve champion, and the best pen of three in the local show in the spring of 1950.

Then, last year, he went in for fat calves. He showed the grand champion calf of the local show

He took the animal to the Sand Hills Show at Odessa, where he won ninth place. He let his calf go into the sale, and it brought the third highest price among calves in that show.

Last spring, he decided he wanted a little better calf. After looking around a while, he found none better than a calf bred by Mr. and Mrs. George Claud Wells of Tahoka, route 5, raisers of fine registered Herefords.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells had given the calf Jerry wanted to their little daughter, Sarah, age seven. But Jerry made a trade with Sarah whereby he became majority-owner, and took the calf over for his 4-H project.

Three weeks ago, that calf won the heavyweight division and the grand championship of the Lynn County Junior show.

A little over a week ago, Jerry entered the calf in the Sand Hills Show at Odessa, said to be one of the toughest junior shows in the nation, and took third place in a very close contest between the top three.

When he won the grand championship award of the South Plains Show at Lubbock this week, Jerry's was among 286 head entered by 4-H and FFA boys from 26 South Plains and three New Mexico counties. And the show boosters declare it was the biggest (with a total of 1,107 entries) and the best ever held in that city.

Following the judging Monday, newsreel cameramen took pictures of Jerry and his calf for a television broadcast over Station WBAF-TV and possibly other stations. He was guest of honor at Lubbock Lions Club Tuesday, was interviewed over KFYO Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. and Wednesday at 6:30 a. m. and over KSEL at 7:45 a. m., and KCBF Thursday at 6:30 a. m.

The young showman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cain, sister, Lynetta, have likewise taken a great interest in the growth, development, and grooming of the championship calf.

Forward Skating

Let us now put lesson into practice at your rink. Try to get a partner to assist you at the start. Your partner can provide the momentum, while you can concentrate on balance and gliding. STRANGE is the starting position of the feet, both parallel to each other. To start off from this position by giving a little backward push with your "balance foot" and slightly bending the other knee as you take off. The strokes at first should be very short and the movement slow. Relax as much as possible, because nerve and muscle tension interfere with the smoothness of glide. The knee-action is used for raising or lowering the body. Do not bend at the waist, twist the shoulders or swing the arms, and don't exaggerate body poses. All such movements tend to slow you down and halt your glide. Adv.

McGinty Youth Wins Scholarship

The O. M. (Oscar) McGinty family of Spur, formerly of Lynn county, recently was in the limelight again as result of the achievements of one of its members.

Don McGinty son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McGinty, recently was awarded a $2,000 four-year scholarship to Texas A. & M. College by the First American Life Insurance Company, of Houston for his achievements as a 4-H club boy. He was selected for the honor from a large group of Junior stockmen participating in the Beef Calf Scramble division of the recent 1952 Houston Fat Stock Show.

His father, Oscar McGinty, formerly lived here, is a brother of Fred McGinty of this city, and now is one of the outstanding farmers of Dickens county.

His mother, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Draper of Tahoka, has long been an outstanding leader of the area, and currently is chairman of this area of the Texas Federated Clubs.

Dr. E. Prohl is in Dallas this week taking post graduate work at the Southwestern Clinic. He is expected back in his office Monday.

In America a carpenter works only 15 hours to buy an overcoat. In Russia it takes 340 hours. Communism takes a back seat in providing the needed things of life.

Now is the time to start the fertilization program for the farm pond. Such a program makes possible the production of fish by the acre and greatly improves the farm fish pond so far as fishing is concerned. A stocking program plus the fertilization program for farm ponds can solve the question of where to go fishing—right at home.

Rent Agreements On Farm Land

COLLEGE STATION.—Although several types of leases are used for irrigated farms on the Texas High Plains, the third-and-fourth share agreement is by far the most common. Such arrangements call for payment of one-third of the grain and one-fourth of the cotton as rent.

A study of farm leases on irrigated farms of this area was recently completed by William G. Adkins, sociologist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Cecil A. Parker, associate county agent, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Adkins and Parker found comparatively few straight cash leases—probably no more than 2 per cent. Share-cropping also is very limited.

This study shows that few tenants pay a cash bonus in addition to the crop share. Payment of cash rent for the dwelling or other buildings is a rare practice.

In spite of the added capital investment for irrigation, little difference was noted between crop shares on irrigated land and dry land.

Capital investment items seldom are shared. It is a general practice for the landlord to furnish facilities which are not easily detached from the land. And the tenant supplies the more easily moved items.

Adkins and Parker prepared a table of the most frequent arrangement of details for leases. However, they point out that custom is not a completely satisfactory basis for rental agreements. Every agreement should be worked out separately between the tenant and landlord, they emphasize.

One of the best tools for establishing a successful landlord-tenant rental agreement is a written lease form. Such a form should serve not just as a legal instrument, but as a basis for planning a farming program.

Results of this study are given in Progress Report 1434, available from the Publications Office, College Station, Texas.

Police in Madrid, Spain, shut down 14 dairies for mixing water with the milk.

Every Day Is Vegetable Day

COLLEGE STATION.—"Every day should be vegetable day" states Louise Mason, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. She says every homemaker should plan to serve three different kinds of vegetables each day. The Texas Food Standard, the Guide for good eating in Texas, suggests one serving of sweet or Irish potatoes, one serving of green or yellow vegetables and one serving of other vegetables.

Green and yellow vegetables are so named because of their color. Green vegetables include all kinds of green leafy vegetable young and tender English peas, string beans, beet tops, green asparagus, green celery, water cress and parsley.

Yellow vegetables are few in number. Among these are carrots, yellow squash, cushaw, pumpkin, and rutabaga.

The third group of vegetables is known as other vegetables. This group includes white squash, onions, beets, radishes, half man cauliflower, beached celery, and beached asparagus and cucumbers.

Miss Mason says vegetables furnish minerals, vitamins, some starch, protein and roughage. The minerals found in most vegetables are calcium, which is necessary for good bone and teeth development; iron which is an essential part of the blood and phosphorus, which works along with the calcium.

Green and yellow vegetables are very high in vitamin A. This vitamin is very important to the growth of children. It is needed by everyone for the maintenance of normal vision. It also helps keep the skin and lining of the nose, mouth and inner organs in good condition.

The Vitamin B group, known as thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, are found in many vegetables. Getting enough of these vitamins helps produce steady nerves, normal appetites, good digestion, good morale and healthy skin, says Miss Mason.

Good sources of vitamin C, known as ascorbic acid, are raw

Mrs. Jeannine Jones, homemaker teacher in Tahoka High, and two of her students presented the program at the Rotary Club last Thursday noon, on the invitation of Supt. Otis Spears.

Miss Josephine Raindl, one of the students made the principal talk, in which she told of the work of the department and the importance of such work in the training of a girl for a happy home life in the future. Her talk was an excellent one.

Bulldog Mothers Honor Basketeers

More than one hundred people were present at the fried chicken dinner given by the Bulldog Mothers for Tahoka High athletes Sunday evening at 6:00 o'clock in the school cafeteria.

Honored were members of the championship basketball and football squads and the girls basketball team.

Mrs. Elnora Curry acted as master of ceremonies during the brief program which followed the delicious dinner.

Coach Jake Jacobs made the principal talk, in which he praised the basketball squad for their fine spirit, clean living, and good sportsmanship in winning the district championship. He said their reputation meant more to him than winning games.

As evidence, he cited the fact that since he has been basketball coach, the Bulldogs have never entered a tournament that they have not been urged to return the next year. They have won several sportsmanship trophies, and citizens of Tulsa, one of the tournaments Tahoka has been playing in annually, habitually asks that Tahoka players be sent to their homes. Tahoka won two district championships this year, one in football and one in basketball, and lost only one game in gaining both titles.

He praised the parents for their fine support and Head Coach Bill Haralson and Assistant Tom Bartley for their fine assistance, and ended his talk by reading the

"Athlete's Prayer."

High School Principal R. T. Rich, who coached girls' basketball, complimented highly the girls for their fine spirit and hard play, and predicted that they would give some of the other teams a run for their money next year.

Injecting some fun into the program, five Bulldog Mothers represented the mothers of the five graduating basketball players in a mock meeting of the club. Mrs. Elnora Curry represented Mrs. Paul Halamieck, mother of Lynn Carl and president of the club; Mrs. Otto Carter represented Mrs. O. O. Tekell, mother of Wayne; Mrs. Frank Hill represented Mrs. J. T. Brice, mother of Don; Mrs. John Witt represented Mrs. L. N. Bartley, mother of Earl; and Mrs. Neely Brooks represented Mrs. I. L. Foster, mother of James. The crowd got a great kick out of their talk about their "sons."

Following this number, Mrs. Curry excused those who wished to go to church services, and those who remained were shown moving pictures of the bi-district football game with Anson and of two basketball games made and shown by Granvel Ayer.

Central Oregon's Wind cave, a lava tunnel some 12 miles south of Bend, is approximately a mile long and considered by "spelunkers" as one of the best specimens of this type of cave in the nation.

"Shooting Stars" Here Next Week

Rehearsals are underway for "Shooting Stars," the local talent show being sponsored by the Lions Club, which will be presented next Thursday and Friday, March 27-28, at the High School auditorium for the benefit of the Girls Scouts, Boy Scouts, and local charities.

The show is under the direction of Miss Mariann "Madree" Doran of Pasadena, California. She states that she is greatly pleased with the cast and anticipates a truly great show.

"Shooting Stars" is a spectacle smash hit which takes the audience backstage in a television studio and allows them to see all types of TV shows in the making. The revue and its variety of scenes is based on top flight TV shows that have received the highest popularity rating.

The cast will be composed of many Lions Club members, including Bill Griffin, John Hurley, Dan Lewis, A. R. Milliken, Albert Curry, and Harold Harvey. These men will be featured in a terrific comedy number entitled "Pretty Babies."

President of the Club E. B. Gaitner will undoubtedly long be remembered for his part as the "Singing Commercial," as will J. E. (Red) Brown as Milton Berle. Mrs. Dick Mitchell has graciously consented to act as pianist. Wives of the Lions will be seen and heard as the "Jubilee Singers," a fine production number. The chorus groups will consist of local high school girls.

Get your tickets now from any Lion member. Remember the dates: March 27 and 28, High School auditorium, curtain at 8:03 p. m. Ticket chairman is Albert Curry.

Odds AND Ends

(BY E. I. THE ELDER)

A fellow who can not speak Spanish is terribly handicapped in attempting to gather information to make his wants known down here in Mexico City. If I didn't have an interpreter with me in the person of my room-mate I don't know how in the world I could get along.

Another thing: I find that a one-armed person is also terribly handicapped in undertaking to carry on an ordinary conversation here and if both his arms were missing he just could not speak the language, that is all. The natives down here talk not only with their tongues and their lips but also with their arms. I never before saw such gesticulating in all my life.

Have you ever gone out under the trees in your yard and listened to a thousand sparrows as they chattered and fluttered about among the branches in the late afternoon?

Well that reminds me of what I hear and see every time I walk into the crowded cafe where I take my meals. Folks can hardly talk over the telephone down here without swinging their arms or pounding the desk or something near by that is handy. And they talk just about as fast as a sparrow can flutter its wings. I repeat that I never heard such chattering and gesticulating anywhere else in my life as I hear down here. Sometimes I just entertain myself by sitting and watching them even though I can not understand a word they say.

My room-mate, who is constantly studying Spanish and who speaks the language pretty well, has himself got the habit. He stays perfectly calm while speaking English, but let him lapse into Spanish and he immediately becomes as animated and fluttery as a South Plains sparrow.

There is another habit that these natives down here have fallen into, which I can understand perfectly. That is the matter of the afternoon siesta. I dare say Lynn county man to come down here and spend a week without becoming so sleepy in the afternoon that he just has to take a nap. It is the greatest country in which to snooze, I ever saw. You may go to bed at nine o'clock every night and sleep till seven the next morning, but I'll bet my ears that if you eat lunch at 12 or one o'clock in the afternoon you can't get a nap at three you will want it at four or five. I missed my nap last Sunday however and I'll tell how come. I went to church in the morning and went sight-seeing in the afternoon. Both events are worth writing home about, and I am going to do it right now. That matter of going to church involves two matters pertaining to this city, and I will tell about them in separate paragraphs.

In the course of human events, I met a lawyer here who is also a Presbyterian preacher. I also met his fine wife and brood of five fine children. He is the pastor of a little Presbyterian Church here and he invited me and my room-mate to attend services in his church Sunday morning. We did so and were thrilled by the services. That little church, to start with, has an interesting history. The man responsible for its existence and who is now the superintendent of the Sunday School was once a very tough guy, according to his own testimony. He drank and gambled and had personal difficulties with other Mexicans. I do not know by what means he came under the influence of the gospel, but he says that it dawned upon him one day that he was surely bound for Hell. He suddenly became terribly bothered about his spiritual conditions, and he talked to the Lord about it. I don't know the ins and outs of his conversion, but evidently he was thoroughly converted. He explains that the Lord did so much for him that he determined to do all in his power for the Lord from that day on out. So he fitted up a house he had and began to hold services in it, and he gave that house to the church, and that Sunday School superintendent is also holding religious services of some kind in it every night in the week.

It is a small house but it was jammed and crowded full of people Sunday morning. That S. S. superintendent not only did quite a bit of earnest talking himself but he also prayed one of the most fervent prayers I have ever heard. And when he was not doing something else, he was finding seats for the people or stepping outside and inviting somebody in. That lawyer-pastor presented the Sunday School lesson in a fine way. I know that Joe Heare and Joe Bovell and John Evans and Harry Roddy will hardly be able to understand how a Presbyterian minister can remain in good standing with the Synod and practice law at the same time but it may be that they do not require as high standards of their ministers down here in Mexico as they do in Texas. Any way, this minister seems to be a pretty good man even if he is a lawyer.

The other matter concerned with this trip, which I mentioned, was the fact that in going to his appointment we had to go through the slums of the city. I thought that I had already seen every phase of life conceivable down here in this "Land of Contrasts," but never in my life had I seen such slums as I saw that morning. Get out your Webster's Unabridged and hunt up all the adjectives denoting filth and poverty and degradation and ugliness and stench and raggedness and vileness that you can find and mix them all up together and you may get a faint idea as to what I am talking about. And then string along with that a filthy market place where vegetables and fruits and cookies and meats and trinkets and toys and floor mats and wearing apparel are being offered for sale, and thousands and thousands of people strung along, or rather jammed along, with all this stuff, at 9:00 or 10:00 o'clock in the morning, and you have a picture of the slums. I don't know where all those human beings came from or where they had slept the preceding night for nothing in the way of residences were visible but huts and hovels and pens and open filth spots, but there the crowds of humanity were in countless numbers. We gradually emerged from this cesspool of rottenness, and it was quite a relief soon to find ourselves in open country again. Passing through a rather thickly settled area of cultivated fields, we finally came to a well laid-out and reasonably sanitary settlement or village of fairly good homes and business houses. We had arrived at the little house which had been converted into a church; and although I couldn't understand much that the folks said, it seemed like drinking at a pure fountain in a barren desert. Yes, it seemed more than that for that Presbyterian preacher-lawyer had brought his accordion along, which both he and his wife play well, and they did play it well that Sunday morning. It sounded like Heavenly music in a raucous world.

I must mention this statement which that good man made to my partner and me, also. He said that they first had a piano, but they could not take that around with them to their services. So they sold the piano and bought the accordion. When they bought it he knew nothing about how to play it. So he got down on his knees and asked the Lord to help him to learn. He got up and went to work on it and in an hour's time he was playing tunes on it. He is sure that the Lord did help him; and He must have helped his wife too, for she is also an accomplished artist.

...complished artist with that instrument. On the morning that we were in his home, he played for us "Nearer, My God, To Thee." And he declared that nothing but sacred music had ever been played on that accordion. Yes, it was Heavenly music that we heard out there in the Presbyterian Church that Sunday morning after passing through the slums.

After taking lunch at the Air

Port, far from our boarding place but near the community in which my room-mate serves, we picked up four of our friends, two women and two men, and made our way out to Xoctemilco, or the so-called Hanging Gardens, more aptly called by some as the Sunken Gardens. Xoctemilco, pronounced as if spelled with a Z instead of an X, is a historic place, closely connected with the history of the city of Mexico; which I will go into briefly a little further along, but first I want to say something more about the present city of Mexico itself.

In spite of the fact that there are many veritable mansions in this city and innumerable other good homes, the great majority of the people do not live in their homes much. That is true as to every day but it is especially true as to Sundays. Of course thousands of the devout Catholics attend Mass on Sunday mornings in the hundred or more Catholic churches and Cathedrals in the city, but hundreds of thousands of others crowd into the parks or other places of interest in or near the city, and many thousands seemingly just race up and down the broad avenues and boulevards at break-neck speed going I don't know where.

On Sunday morning, in going out to the home of that lawyer-preacher, we first went out near the Air Port, which covers a lot of territory itself, and by a number of other parks. As usual, there were people by the hundreds and by the thousands everywhere. The Air field, as always on Sundays, was full of soldiers playing football, baseball, basketball, and of civilians watching the games; and all the other parks were swarming with people. It was just people, people, everywhere. Regular street cars run on tracks, with trolley wire contacts overhead, on many of the streets of the city; other street cars, for buses, without tracks but each with two trolley wires overhead, are likewise propelled by electric power over many of the streets; regular motor buses in uncountable numbers, and passenger cars too numerous to shake a stick at are running like mad over all of the principal streets all the time, and they run like mad, too; yes and scores and scores of taxis are mixed in with or are running around all the others; that's the traffic picture here in Mexico City every Sunday morning. It looks like they would have a thousand wrecks every day, for everything runs everywhere at a speed of 40 to 60 or 70 miles per hour—most of the time almost rubbing fenders; but seemingly not many wrecks occur. Why, if cars should come down 19th Street or Avenue Q in Lubbock with half the numbers and half the speed that they race over all the principal streets here, they would be a wreck every minute. How do I account for it? I don't; it's all a mystery to me. If there are 1,200,000 people living in Mexico City, I think I saw at least a million of them on the streets and in the parks last Sunday.

And so it was into and through a traffic situation like that that we drove out to Xoctemilco last Sunday. Now just a word about Xoctemilco. That was the name of a tribe of Indians who inhabited a portion of this city of Tenochtitlan, now-Mexico City, which the Aztecs and the Xoctemilcoans had built on an island in the lake that then covered all this vast area of flats and still covered it when the Spanish explorer Cortez came killing and subduing the inhabitants, planting the Catholic faith and collecting mountains of gold and silver. The Xoctemilcoans resisted Cortez with such courage and heroism and ingenuity as to almost destroy his army; and he never was able to completely subdue them; and so some of their descendants are living out there at the old town of Xoctemilco on the outskirts of this City of Mexico up to the present day.

After Cortez finally gained permanent control of the city of Tenochtitlan, he tore down all the Aztec and Xoctemilcoan shrines and temples and built Catholic churches on the sites, cut canals everywhere, and drained the lake. Then he built a new city, the City of Mexico, on the ruins.

But the Xoctemilcoans continued to occupy a portion of the old lake site, planted gardens in the rich soils that bordered the canals or lay between them, and they are raising a large portion of the vegetables unto this day that supplies the City of Mexico.

The Xoctemilcoans have learned long ago to capitalize also on the visitors, sight-seers, and pleasure-hunters who come now by the hundreds out to their old and dilapidated but famous town every Sunday and on many of the week days. A canal some 50 or 60 feet wide and two to four or five feet deep—the water in it is about that deep, I mean—runs through the town and vicinity, and some of the frugal Xoctemilcoans have built some 60 to 75 boats that will carry from a half-dozen to two dozen passengers, and they very successfully inveigle the pleasure hunters to take a boat ride. Some of the larger boats are motor-propelled, but all of the smaller ones are propelled by a native Indian, who uses a single oar or paddle for the purpose.

Our party of six took one of these smaller boats and the ride lasted for about an hour and a half. The Indian with his oar stood in the back end of the boat and propelled it by thrusting the flattened end of his oar into the mud in the bottom of the canal and giving the boat a shove forward, thrust after thrust. He was thus able to get up quite a bit of speed but also stirred up a lot of mud. Now imagine a half dozen or more boats thus propelled running along side by side and often side-swiping one another; and you may properly imagine that all that mucky water looked not a bit like the pure sparkling water that comes from a fountain in a park. But we enjoyed the fun just the same. Nosing in between the passenger boats at frequent intervals were little canoes propelled by women or girls offering the passengers some of the most beautiful bouquets of flowers for sale that you ever saw.

Down at the far end of the canal is a landing place, where there is a dancing pavilion and a market place where it is said that thrifty inhabitants have everything in the world to sell. But we chose not to land.

At that place the canal runs close up to the foot of a prodigious mountain, and it is said that the water in the canals comes from springs in the vicinity, but personally I didn't see anything that looked like spring water.

So that is Xoctemilco as she is at the present day. Old ruins around indicate that at some time in the past it was quite a little city. Even now it is a typical good-sized Indian town with one or more old Catholic churches; and I'll bet the whole vicinity has the deepest soil and the blackest muck in all Mexico. Tall slender poplar-like trees by the thousands grow along all the canals and back some distance from the canals; and many large trees line the highways out there. But I will tell more about the trees here some time when I undertake to tell about some of the parks. Xoctemilco must still have several thousand inhabitants, and most of them seemed to be out on parade last Sunday afternoon. The old town itself is situated 13 or 14 miles out from the heart of (Cont'd. On Back Page)

OLD-FASHIONED LIVING

MODERN LIVING

MODERN LIVING IS ELECTRIC LIVING!

There didn't used to be any choice on getting clothes clean. It was boil them or else. But that's all different under modern living — electric living. Wash day now is a matter of putting the clothes in the washer and turning the controls. One simple operation takes care of soaking, washing, rinsing, wringing. And then, if there's an automatic electric clothes dryer in your home laundry, clothes are dried just the way you want them—with more fluff than any other drying method known. Electric living is modern living. Electric living is efficient, economical living, too.

Cotton Varieties For Texas Areas

COLLEGE STATION. -Cotton varieties for the different areas of Texas are given in a new bulletin, "Performance of Cotton Varieties in Texas, 1948-50."

This bulletin, published jointly by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, gives information obtained in the first three years of a state-wide cotton variety evaluation program. Other bulletins will be issued at the end of each succeeding 3-year testing period.

Experiment station agronomists divided the state into three regions for systematic testing. And the Extension Service designated 10 production areas to provide a practical basis for variety recommendations.

D. T. Killough, agronomist in charge of the cotton variety testing program, points out that varieties recommended for a given region or area often do not include all varieties in the highest yielding group.

Varieties are recommended on basis of yield of lint cotton per acre, adaption to harvesting methods, fiber properties, disease resistance and maturity. Sources of seed of the varieties tested also are given in this bulletin, along with a list of the available publications on cotton production practices. Copies are available at county agents' offices.
