

Handy Home Tool Chest

COLLEGE STATION.—Home-makers can save time and trouble by keeping a select number of household tools where they can be found. Gladys Darden, home specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, suggests a household repair kit or a tool board for every home.

A fishing tackle or similar box makes an excellent container for all small tools and supplies. Tacks, nails, hooks, screws, glue and other such articles may be kept in the small divisions in the tray of the box. In the bottom, store such tools as the hammer, pliers, screw driver, small wrench, putty knife, awls, files, assorted bolts, washers, friction tape, sandpaper and a spool of wire. Large tools such as the saw and plane may be hung on a tool rack or kept in a special place.

If you prefer a tool board, Miss Darden suggests there be a place for each tool. If one is missing, the empty space shows the tool should be found. The board may be hung on the wall and brass hooks may be used to hold the tools. The appearance of the board is improved by giving it a coat of stain or paint. A few essential tools can be hung on the board. A medium-sized claw hammer is a tool often used. A pair of pliers is needed, plus a pair of diagonal cutting pliers which are useful in cutting wire, string, rope and smaller nails and screws. Miss Darden has found that two sizes of screw drivers are convenient and that an icepick or awl will come in handy for punching holes in wood when starting screws. A semi-flexible steel tape in a case is handy for taking measurements. Have the board large enough, she says, for a dagger-shaped hack saw for cutting both wood and metal.

Tools should be properly cleaned before storing. Keep them bright with a film of oil. Miss Darden says that it is best to start with a few tools of good quality, and add others as needed.

A recent survey shows that 65 per cent of the perfume sold is purchased by men. So now, just before the gift season of Christmas be sure to drop a hint to the man in your life. And if you want to receive your favorite scent, subtly let him know the name.

Albert Curry and Fred McGinty returned Tuesday night from College Station, where they attended the two-day meeting of the Texas Flying Farmers at A. & M. College.

They were especially interested in the programs at the meeting dealing with poisoning cotton by plane, uses of insecticides, and eradication of mesquites, and received much valuable information from the discussions on these subjects.

Spring Football Work-Outs Start

Forty-five boys reported Tuesday for Spring football practice, Coach Bill Haralson reports.

Work-outs will continue throughout this month, and beginning next week there will be an intra squad game each week. Training will probably wind up with a game between next year's prospects and this year's Seniors.

Only eight lettermen and 12 squadmen are returning from last fall's District 6-A championship football team. There are about fifteen boys coming up from the eighth grade, and several other High School boys reporting who were not out for football last year.

Though the team will be short on experience, and some new backfield men will have to be developed, it is possible that the 1952 Bulldog team may round into a fair ball club. However, any team that loses twelve lettermen is badly hurt, and prospects for another district championship are none too bright.

Home Gardening Makes Progress

COLLEGE STATION. —With spring just around the corner, the recent rains in parts of the state should step up the tempo of the home gardeners. John E. Hutchison, horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says if the early sales of vegetable seeds are an indication of the amount of gardening to be done, chances are good that the 1952 goal of 600,000 home gardens in Texas may be reached.

In most sections of the state, points out the specialist, the time for planting cool season vegetables is about over and the warm season crops should now receive attention. Green beans are a favorite with most families and Hutchison suggests Tendergreen, Topcrop and Contender for the bush type. The 1952 All-American winner, the Wade snap bean, may be worthy of a trial planting. Stringless Blue Lake, Blue Lake and the old favorite, Kentucky Wonder are good pole snap bean varieties. Bean seed should be treated with a seed protectant to improve stands.

Stagger the planting date for sweet corn, says Hutchison, so the supply will last longer. Good home garden varieties are Ioana, Aristogold and Aristogold Batam Evergreen. Cucumbers may be planted in either hills or rows but shouldn't be crowded. Good garden varieties of the slicing kinds are A & C Straight Eight and Cubie.

Squash are easy to grow and are heavy producers. Hutchison says from six to twelve plants will provide plenty of squash for the average family. He suggests the Early Prolific Straightneck, the Yellow Crookneck, White Bush Scallop or the Zucchini as good home garden varieties.

It will soon be tomato planting time in most sections of the state and the specialist says, the plants should be hardened off before they are set in the garden. Pritchard, Rutgers and Marglobe are good home garden varieties for most sections of the state. However, in West Texas, gardeners may be more successful if they turn to the more heat-tolerant varieties such as Red Cloud, Porter or Summer Prolific.

Cutworms are always a threat to young garden plants this year. He says they can be controlled by applying 10 per cent chlordane dust to the soil before the seed are planted or in the case of plants to be set. Mix the dust into about a square foot area of soil surrounding the plant. The dust can be sprinkled on top of the soil after the plants are growing if it is then worked in to the soil. One application is sufficient for the entire season.

To give the tomato plants a fast start, Hutchison suggests the use of a starter solution. It is made by mixing two tablespoons of 5-10-5 or 8-8-8 commercial fertilizer in a gallon of water. It is best to make the solution a day ahead so the fertilizer will have plenty of time to dissolve. Use about one pint of the solution on each plant after they are set.

Plenty of fertilizer should be used to boost yields and after the plants are up and growing the gardener who keeps the insects under control will be the one who will keep the family table well supplied with top quality vegetables.

Letters To The Editor—

(The News welcomes letters from its readers on any current subject, not libelous, of course. All communications must be of reasonable length and must be signed. On request, the signature will not be printed. The Editor.)

To the Folks of Lynn County: Here is a message from one of the many Service men in the service of our country.

I, and everyone of us, wish to express our sincere appreciation for the many courtesies shown a service man. The free shows, the cleaning of our uniforms, and the warm welcome shown each and everyone of us as we return on our furloughs and leaves. There has always been a friendly and warm welcome for us.

People can never know how much we appreciate this. We leave our homes and families because we have always known freedom and love, and we are glad to be of service to our country.

We know, also, when we leave our homes, that if it were not for the people at home to keep up the work, we wouldn't have the freedom we do have.

So, to each and everyone, I say again, we appreciate it. Yours sincerely, Pfc. William E. (Billy) Rash, AF18410591, 4911th Air Police Sq., Kirtland Air Force Base, New Mexico.

The Lynn County News, Rollin McCord Safety Contest, Tahoka, Texas.

We the undersigned citizens of Tahoka nominate Wynne Collier as "Tahoka's Number One Safety Driver." One particular instance was noted when Mr. Collier stopped for a red light. In fact, he stopped so long that he was honked at by three cars behind him before he ever moved.

Mr. Collier observes all traffic hand signals. He does this very well by keeping both hands on the steering wheel at all times.

Furthermore, Mr. Collier has agreed to split all winnings with the undersigned.

Yours very truly, W. C. Wharton, Russell McGee, A. M. Bray, Clint Walker, Charles Verner, and Hap Smith.

Domingo Huerta received treatment at the hospital Wednesday after having received bruises and abrasions when he fell out of a truck Tuesday night.

PLANT PROPERLY TREATED COTTONSEED

The chance for a good stand of cotton with the first planting can be increased greatly when seed that has been treated properly with a recommended seed disinfectant is planted. The circles in the picture above illustrate the difference seed treating may make. Treated seed and seedlings are less apt to suffer from seed decay, damping-off or sore-shin.

PREMATURE BABY IS OUT OF DANGER

Jesus Arousa, now aged four months, the little pre-mature baby born at Tahoka Hospital at less than three pounds, again was sent home to its parents Monday after having been critically ill last week.

For the information of the many people who have expressed interest and concern in the tiny child, attendants at the Hospital say the child now weighs 9 pounds and 3 ounces, having gained nearly a pound during its last illness.

Garden Club Plans Activities

The sixth annual meeting, District One, Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., will be held in the Hilton Hotel, Lubbock, on April 9th and 10th.

Registration will begin at 9:30 in the Hilton Hotel with program continuing throughout the day. The afternoon session will be in the Club House, where Mrs. Fred Gealy, Dallas, will lecture on Flower Arranging. Mrs. Gealy lived thirteen years in Japan, where she studied under famous Japanese teachers on ornamental flower arrangements.

We return to the Hilton Hotel for the banquet honoring all Club Presidents at 7:00 p. m., where we will hear an address by John McCarty, concessionaire of Palo-Duro Canyon.

Thursday opens at 9:30 a. m., with a business session at the Club House, 1:00 p. m., Awards Luncheon at the Hotel.

Each Club is entitled to three voting delegates.

Registration fee is $5.00, including: brunch, banquet, and luncheon. First day only including banquet is $3.75. Plan to attend if possible.

The Tahoka Garden Club now has about $840.00 in the School ground landscaping fund. We would like to make this fund an even $1000.00. So if any one is interested in this project and would like to contribute to it, please contact Mrs. James Clinton, treasurer of the Garden Club.

There will be another Bake Sale Saturday, April 5th, in the Southwestern Public Service building. All club members are urged to get your cakes, pies and cookies in as early as possible. Mrs. Roy Edwards is chairman of the Bake Sale, so contact her for details. If you are not a member of the Garden Club and want to help on this worthy project, please feel free to do so.

We hope to start some action as soon as the weather permits. Reporter.

Crime Conference Is April 16-18

Attorney General Price Daniel announced today a second annual State-Wide conference on organized crime to be attended by the State's 315 prosecuting attorneys and other law enforcement officers. Daniel said he has invited every County Attorney and District Attorney in Texas to attend the meeting in Dallas April 16, 17, and 18.

"The fight against commercial gambling and organized crime is a continuing battle," Daniel said. "Our crime conference last year did much toward keeping racketeers and hoodlums out of this State. This year we must let them know that Texas is still on guard and will not tolerate their unlawful activities."

The first State-wide conference of prosecuting attorneys at Austin last year was attended by most of the State's prosecuting attorneys and has been credited with helping to bring about new legislation and better enforcement of laws against organized gambling in Texas, Daniel said. The Kefauver Senate Crime Committee gave special praise to the 1951 conference in its final report.

This year's conference in Dallas is jointly sponsored by the Attorney General and the Southwestern Legal Foundation at Southern Methodist University as a part of the annual Lawyers Week. Col. Robert G. Storey, President of the Southwestern Legal Foundation, and other business and professional leaders will join in the conference, discussing means to combat immorality in government, Daniel stated.

Prominent speakers include Senator Estes Kefauver, who will address a public meeting on the night of April 16; Mayor de Lesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans; D. A. Hulcy, President of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce; Virgil Peterson, Director, Chicago Crime Commission; Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of the Texas Department of Public Safety; Hon. Fred V. Meridith, Chairman of the Texas House Investigating Committee on Organized Crime; President M. E. Sadler of Texas Christian University; District Attorney R. L. Whitehead of Longview; Criminal District Attorney Henry Wade of Dallas; Criminal District Judge Robert A. Hall of Dallas; Sheriff C. H. (Charley) Meyer of Beaumont; Constable Kal Segrist of Dallas, Chief of Police J. W. Dellinger of Taylor; and representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

F. J. Byrd, school bus driver from Newmoore, entered Tahoka Hospital Tuesday for treatment of a fractured hand.

Tahoka Nominee Is Approved By Federated Clubs

"Americans Must Vote" was the topic of a talk by Mrs. Trueff Smith at the regular meeting of the Phebe K. Warner Club Tuesday afternoon, March 25, in the home of Mrs. R. W. Fenton, Sr.

The Club is taking part in a letter writing campaign to club women all over the world in an effort to promote good will toward the United States and democracy, according to Mrs. Chas. Stewart, club president.

Club members are also preparing boxes of clothing to be sent overseas to needy families.

Mrs. L. D. Ratliff, chairman of the Mother Craft committee, District 7, Texas Federated Clubs, has notified the Phebe K. Warner Club that their nominee, Mrs. L. M. Draper, for the honor "Woman of the Year" will be endorsed by the District for participation in the state contest.

Local club members are happy over this honor for Mrs. Draper, and hope she may be selected for the state "Woman of the Year."

County Attorney Mitchell Williams was in Austin last week on legal business.

Brownfield Fire Prevention Day

BROWNFIELD, April 3. — A blitz on blazes will be conducted here April 17 by a corps of expert "fire detectives" who hope to eliminate fire hazards in this community.

Every public and mercantile building in Brownfield will be inspected in a search for potential causes of fire. Trained inspectors from the Texas Insurance Fieldmen's Association, West Texas Division, will do the checking as a public service. The group, with headquarters in Lubbock, is composed of fieldmen representing capital stock fire insurance companies.

The inspection is being sponsored by the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce. Other civic groups, including the Fire Department and the Boy Scouts, are helping with the inspection.

Bright red "Fix Me" tags will be pinned by the Boy Scouts on all fire hazards discovered. The inspections will be made by teams consisting of a local fireman, two trained inspectors from the Fieldmen's Association and a Brownfield Boy Scout. Tenants will receive detailed reports on the hazards found, with suggestions on how to eliminate them.

Brownfield will be the 21st town to be inspected by the Texas Insurance Fieldmen's Association. Other Texas cities checked in the last three years are Gatesville, Wichita Falls, Littlefield, Pharr, San Marcos, Hearne, Bryan, San Angelo, Eastland, Texarkana, Beeville, Lamesa, Conroe, Hillsboro, Longview, Taylor, Ennis, Kerrville, McKinny, and Mexia. Other Texas communities will be inspected this spring.

German shepherds, Doberman Pinschers and Boxers are examples of the so-called "working" dogs as opposed to the hunter type or mere pets.

West Candidate

February, 1942, when I moved here.

Since I own land and personal property, I am a tax payer and am interested in County government. I am always for improvement and advancement for benefit and betterment of our living conditions, but not to the extent of burdening people with unbearable taxes.

Whether I am your Commissioner is up to the voters of Precinct No. 4. If elected I will try to make a hand, will always be ready to listen to any suggestions whereby we might better conditions in our county, and there will be no secrecy about any action I take or decision I make concerning County business.

I will try to see each voter before election, but if I don't see you and ask for your vote it will be no indication that your vote and support will not be appreciated. Keep Election Day in mind, talk about it with your neighbors. Of course I hope you vote for me, but if you can't do that, go to the polls and vote, it's our greatest privilege.

North Side Is Winner, 12 to 8

Tahoka North Side Junior baseball team scored nine runs in the first two innings and went on to win an easy 12-8 exhibition game from the Wallace Wayside team last Sunday afternoon at Tahoka Park.

North Side jumped on Wayne Tekell for four runs in the first inning, and added five more off Tekell and relief hurler Lynn Halameek in the second. Then James Foster came on in the second and quickly put out the fire.

Foster allowed North Side one run in the fourth, two in the fifth, and then held his opponents scoreless the remainder of the game. Tekell got credit for the loss.

Wayside collected five runs in the first five innings off Morgan Howle, two in the next three innings off Doug McNeely, and two in the ninth off Howard Brown Howle was the winning pitcher.

The game Sunday evened the exhibition season between the two teams at one-all.

Plans are underway for a five team Junior Baseball League. Southland, Tahoka North Side, Wallace Wayside, New Home, and Tahoka South Side are all expected to have teams.

This year, Wallace Buick Co and Bill Strange Motors are backing two of the Tahoka teams Wayside and North Side, respectively.

Next Sunday, April 6, New Home will meet Wallace Wayside at Tahoka Park at 2:00 p. m. Fans are invited to attend the game.

4-H Round-Up Set For June

COLLEGE STATION.—The annual Texas 4-H Club Roundup will be held at Texas A. & M. College on June 9-10. The statewide gathering, sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service for years has been recognized as one of the highlight meetings for 4-H Club members.

According to information released by Extension Director G. G. Gibson, each county may send as official delegates two boys, two girls and two local adult leaders. This number does not include members who will participate in the many judging and team demonstration contests. Only one team from each Extension district may participate in each of the announced contests. District winning teams are to be selected in district contests.

Since the annual Extension Conference will be held later in the year, only a limited number of county Extension agents will attend.

In addition to the contests, delegates will participate in recreation programs, assemblies, training meetings and visit points of interest on the college campus. The State 4-H Council will meet during the Roundup to make plans for other activities covering the remainder of the year.

Motorists Urged To Get Safety Inspection Now

AUSTIN, Tex.—Motorists are urged to have their motor vehicles safety inspected while there is a lull before the expected rush to inspection stations.

G. W. Busby, chief of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Division of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said 2,400 inspection stations have been certified to aid motorists in complying with the new state law. September 6 is the final deadline for having all motor vehicles certified for safe driving.

Busby said the movement of vehicles to inspection stations is lagging, with only about 40,000 being inspected weekly. If a bottleneck is to be avoided before the deadline, he said, at least 100,000 vehicles a week will have to flow through the stations.

Requirements under the new safety law have been modified considerably following an anticipated rush to inspection stations when the law became effective a few months ago. Safety Department officials said many new inspection stations are being certified weekly to aid in avoiding another bottleneck.

"We earnestly hope that motorists will take advantage of the lull we are now having and avoid a last-minute rush in order to comply with the September 5 deadline," Busby said.

The first patent for a system of wireless transmission in the United States was issued to Dr. Mahlon Loomis, of Washington, D. C., in 1872.

Look Out For Clothes Moths

COLLEGE STATION.—Officially its spring and soon it will be time to store winter clothing. Warmer weather means that more clothes moths will be on the hunt for food.

"Moths" like dirty clothes best. Every garment should be cleaned before it is stored states Mary Routh, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Dry cleaning kills all forms of moths at the time of treatment, but does not insure permanent resistance. However, garments placed in moth proof paper bags at the cleaners and sealed airtight will not become reinfested.

Most dwellings have clothes moths, regardless of location. For further protection before storing clothes, the specialist suggests "spraying closet walls, around the baseboards of the room and in drawers with a five per cent DDT solution. Garments may be lightly dusted or sprayed on both sides with DDT.

The small moths seen flying lazily in dark corners are the parent moth and do not eat fabric. The female moth deposits eggs on the clothes. The eggs hatch over a period of three or four days to about three or four weeks depending on the temperature. The newly hatched larvae immediately starts feeding and spinning a shelter of silken threads in which it conceals itself. Most of the life of the moth is spent in the destructive stage.

The clothes moth feeds on animal substances such as wool, hair, feathers, fur and a wide range of commodities made from these materials. For more information, Miss Routh suggests a copy of L-156, "Clothes Moths," which can be secured from your local county Extension agent.

Read The Label Of Insecticides

COLLEGE STATION. —The problem of controlling insects may soon become a major job on a lot of Texas farms. Never before in history have agricultural producers been asked to plant and harvest crops as large as those asked for in 1952 and Allen C. Gunter, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says the final production figures for the year will reflect just how well crop destroying insects were controlled.

He says there is a lot more involved in a good insect control program than buying an insecticide and applying it to the crop. First he suggests that farmers secure copies of bulletins and circulars from their local county agents that describe the insects and list the recommended control measures. The second suggestion is of prime importance. Know what insecticide is needed and then read the label on the container to make sure that it is the one recommended, says the specialist.

The great number of organic insecticides on the market today are offered in many different formulas and strengths and poor insect control will result if the correct materials are not used, says Gunter. He especially calls attention to the need for checking spray formula labels. In the case of cotton sprays, he suggests that the recommendations listed in C-182, "Guide For Controlling Cotton Insects In Texas—1952," be followed. Then to insure proper dosage, read the label and follow the manufacturer's instructions to the letter. A lot of failures have resulted, says Gunter, because the wrong formula was used or in other words, the material was not checked for strength—label was not studied—before it was applied to the cotton.

Gunter offered this word of advice regarding the mixing of spray materials. Use clean water and if necessary strain the water as well as the spray material. This precaution will prevent nozzle clogging and result in a uniform spray job. He points out that a more uniform mixture of spray material and water will be obtained if only enough water is put in the spray tank to get a good mixing job done. After the solution is mixed, add enough water to fill the spray tank to the desired level and then thoroughly mix the solution before applying the spray to the crop.

Gunter says farmers should remember that all insecticides are poisons and all precautions given on the labels should be strictly followed. Special precautions should be taken when handling TEPP and Parathion to avoid prolonged contact with the skin or breathing the vapors or drift from either spray or dust.

The specialist urges farmers to get their spraying and dusting equipment in top operating shape. Preparations made early may well be a determining factor in whether the insect control program on any given farm is a success or failure. It is good management, says Gunter, to be ready and waiting for the bugs. When they once go to work, time is on their side and successful control calls for immediate action.

TAHOKA, TEXAS, — FRIDAY, APRIL 4, 1952

JUDSONIA, ARK.—Their homes among more than 2,000 Arkansas and Missouri homes destroyed or damaged by March tornadoes, these men, like thousands of storm victims, turn to the Red Cross for help. After emergency needs for food, clothing, medical care and shelter are met, Red Cross workers will stay on the job until rehabilitation needs of more than 1,600 families registered for help in these two states are determined. Based on need, Red Cross will assist in repairing and rebuilding homes and providing furniture. Of the nearly 500 persons hospitalized by tornado injuries, many will need Red Cross help with medical bills. All this Red Cross help, expected to run into millions, is a gift given by the people through the Red Cross fund campaign.

These new officers will be installed at the next meeting on April 10, 1952, at 7:30 p. m. in the school cafeteria in the new

Grade School building. This is the last meeting of the school year, and it is hoped that all of the patrons of the Tahoka Schools will try to be present. An extra good program has been planned, including the following: Piano solos by Winston Redwine and Mrs. Ira Joe Hart and a vocal solo by Mrs. Harold Green; Clint Walker will speak on "Our Resources—Our Country."

Bill Strange, Jr., made a fine talk on "What Make Good Schools" at the last meeting, and those present also enjoyed the piano solos of Gordon Smith, Teddy Pridmore and Sharon and Linda Applewhite. Billy Jack Hancock showed some interesting rodeo and comedy pictures for the children.

of the City of Mexico, of the ancient Teletic Indians, who built these pyramids and who developed a civilization that was truly remarkable in many respects; but I said nothing about the Maya Indians who about the same time, probably, were building pyramids in Yucatan and developing a civilization on that peninsula that was even more astounding than that which the Toltecs developed in and about the present City of Mexico and its environs. I am going to tell you a little this week about the Maya Indians and the civilization—or rather the astounding knowledge of material things which they acquired and the hideous, blood-curdling paganism which constituted their religion. I have not visited Yucatan myself but I have heard and read much about the country and the people of that part of Mexico. Recently I met in one of the parks here a man from Meridia, Yucatan, who could speak English and he told me quite a bit about Yucatan of the present day and made some striking allusions to its past history and religious practices. I have read much also in the years past of that wonderful ancient Maya civilization; and I remember that it was astounding to me when I first read it. And so I think it will be of interest to many of the people who read this newspaper. After that, I will probably leave off all mention of the hideous things that one runs across down here.

First, a word about Yucatan itself. Probably few Lynn county newspaper readers realize that a major portion of the peninsula of Yucatan is a part of the so-called Republic of Mexico. But the entire peninsula with the exception of Guatemala and British Honduras are still a part of Mexico. The peninsula juts far out into the sea toward Cuba, separating the Caribbean Sea from the Gulf of Mexico. The capital of the State of Yucatan is Meridia, a city of 96,000 population situated about 17 miles south of the Gulf coast. It was at and near Meridia that most of the excavation work was begun, which has since spread to other parts of the peninsula, unearthing the ruins of many ancient cities and pyramids.

We do not know whence the Maya Indians came to Yucatan, nor when they came. They evidently were closely related either to the Toltecs who built the pyramids at Teotihuacan 30 miles northeast of Mexico City or to the Aztecs who drove out or killed out the Toltecs and took possession of their country, their cities, and their shrines.

Corner stones of buildings unearthed recently in Yucatan date as far back as 530 A. D. We do not know anything about how long the Mayas had been there and in possession of the land at that time. But like the Aztecs and unlike the Toltecs, the Mayas practiced the offering of human sacrifices to their gods. That would seem to indicate that they came into the country with the Aztecs rather than with the Toltecs. Whether they came down the Pacific coast along with the Aztecs or drifted into Central America and Yucatan from the countless islands of the South Pacific, nobody knows, and probably will never know. But it makes little difference, for nobody knows yet where the millions of inhabitants of the South Pacific islands themselves came from. It might have been from some Asiatic land of Nod, where Cain got his wife, or it might have been from some imaginary "Sangri-La" of the South Pacific, or even from Mongolia in northeast Asia. There is no use to speculate as to racial origins.

Quetzacoatl, it seems, either in the days of the Toltecs or later in the days of the Aztecs, had been the chief god of the Mayas, but they called him by a different name. The Maya name for Quetzacoatl was Kukul Kan or Kukulhkan—sounds like an ancient Asiatic name, all right—who corresponded somewhat to the Greek god Zeus, the Roman god Jupiter, or the Babylonian god Baal.

Like other pagans, the Mayas had many gods, a few chief gods and many minor gods. Their god of the wind and of storms was Hura-Kan, and when he became angry and went on a rampage, Hura-Kan lashed the waters of the Caribbean and the Gulf and swept over the neighboring lands, and that's how we got our word "hurricane," it is said.

When he got on a rampage, he had to be appeased by offering to him a human sacrifice.

There was another important god that the Mayas worshipped Yum Chac, the god of rain. He could withhold the rain and thus bring on a destructive drouth or he could send the rain and water the corn and the bean crops of the Mayas and cause their land to prosper. He is supposed to have dwelt in the depths of a natural well or cistern which Nature had hewed out in the earth at Chichen-Itza not far from the city of Meridia, and that gentleman from Yucatan whom I met in the park here indicated to me that that "sacred" well is still one of the sights for the tourists that visit his town.

Lowell Thomas, world traveler and a graphic writer, was one who visited this "sacred" well some 15 years ago, and I am going to take the liberty of quoting from him at this point. If you haven't his little book entitled "Seeing Mexico with Lowell Thomas," you should procure one from your library; it should be worth many times the cost. Now I quote.

"The Sacred Well that gives Chichen-Itza its name draws each visitor today to its vine-draped brink where orchids hang in gorgeous festoons above the jade-green water. This is a well such as a giant would build, though in this instance the giant was Nature. It is one hundred and sixty feet from rim to rim. Its perpendicular sides are weathered from soft limestone and drop sheer seventy-five feet to the surface of the water.

"The well was sacred because the Mayas believed that the Rain God, Yum Chac, dwelt in its depths—Yum Chac, who must be pleased if the corn fields on which the Mayas depended for their food were to be saved from drought and the searing tropical sun. The priests of the Mayas who had invented a written sign language, who calculated the movements of the sun and moon with absolute exactness, who fashioned gold with perfect artistry, who had developed a civilization that was comparable to any in Europe of the same period—these priests yet insisted that Yum Chac could only be appeased by the sacrifice of a human victim and that must be the most beautiful maiden in all the land of Maya.

"On the gruesome days of sacrifice a procession of priests and nobles, adorned with gold and capes of featherwork, marched from the towering temple of Kukul-Kan, up the broad paved avenue to a sculptured temple that stood on the very edge of the well. A few carved stones and scattered remnants are all that is left for us to see.

"In the midst of the procession a body of stalwart men bore up on their shoulders a magnificent throne, flower-decked, crusted with gold and jewels. Seated upon the throne was a young woman, a girl in her early teens, sweet and lovely, dressed in the wedding robes of a royal princess. The thump or drums, the wail of flutes, the tinkle of myriad gold and copper bells sounded her wedding march. Thousands of spectators lined the rim of the well, chanting her wedding prayers. This was no ordinary wedding. The lovely, frightened girl was to be the bride of the god Yum Chac.

"The throne is carried to the brink of the well, to the little temple. The high priest takes her hand, assists her to the stone platform. She staggers. Involuntarily, she shrinks back from the edge, back from the pit and the jade-green water. Terror grips her heart. But the little scream that passes her lips is drowned in the swelling din of drums.

"While the chief priest makes offerings of incense to Yum Chac the bridegroom, and chants the mystic service, two handsome warriors sweep the maiden from her feet and cradle her in their sinewy arms. Slowly they swing her little body, back and forth—higher, higher with each swing. The priest raises his arms in supplication. The drums crash with a final burst. The tinkling

"Jane kept harping about not having hot water enough for her new automatic washing machine. I said nonsense—we have a good water heater! But to keep peace I called our plumber. 'Only ONE automatic water heater heats fast enough to run these modern appliances,' he said, 'and it's Gas. It's 3 times faster than any other all-automatic fuel.' He said also a Gas heater would be cheaper to buy, install and run. Must say I've got hotter water for shaving, too! Ask your plumber—he'll tell you there's nothing like Gas for automatic water heating.

This is a Coleman automatic Gas water heater... one of several fine brands on the market today. Your merchant plumber or Gas appliance dealer will gladly advise you about the right size for your family.

bells are hushed. And with a mighty sweep the bride of Yum Chac is hurled from the platform. A last stifled wail breaks the silence as she falls headlong down, down. The jade-green waters part. Yum Chac folded his bride to his breast.

"The little wedding bells are stilled, crushed under sandaled heels or clappers wrenched out their souls also are sacrificed to the god and his bride. And as each person turns away from the well he tosses in his broken bell, a tiny tribute to the valiant maiden."

And that is the kind of paganism that was being practiced in America, folks, when the conqueror Cortez landed on these shores and for several years thereafter, less than a hundred years before the Pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth Rock. Ugly images of these gods, especially of the chief god Quetzacoatl, are yet to be seen on the pyramids.

of Mexico and Yucatan, and horrid pictures of them are still to be seen in many public places and even in the homes of many people.

Send to the Saalfield Publishing Co., of Akron Ohio, and New York for a copy of Lowell Thomas' book containing the above quotations, or you might yet find the book in some good bookstore.

Teotihuacan, Mexico City, Cholula, and Chichen-Itza are not the only places in Mexico where pyramids were built and where human sacrifices were offered to pagan gods. They were built also at other places. I have before me as I write now a post-card picture of the ruins of a pyramid that was erected at Oaxaca some 230 miles southeast of Mexico City, which shows it to have been a magnificent structure.

The cruel, corrupt, and blustering Cortez never did a better thing in all his life than that which he did in suppressing the practice of making human sacrifices.

The tragedy is that with all of her gold and silver found in such great abundance, Mexico has used very little of it during these four hundred years for the education and enlightenment of the descendants of these benighted pagans and there is much evidence that many of them in their hearts still cling to these old pagan gods.

We still insist that the greatest need of Mexico today is absolute separation of Church and State, freedom of worship, freedom of speech, and freedom of assembly, and a million open Bibles with encouragement for the people to read and study them. There should a little red schoolhouse in a thousand rural communities, and little Mission stations wherever free church bodies see fit to establish them. I will probably have occasion to refer in greater detail to this matter of perfect religious freedom later, but just now I want to tell you a little about the work being done by a little B. M. A. (Baptist Missionary Association) church here, with a native Mexican as the pastor.

This church is hampered in its activities in many ways, one of which is the fact that it does not yet own a house of worship.

Another hindrance is that no foreign minister is allowed to do independent evangelistic work in Mexico under the laws of this Government. That matter I also expect to discuss in more detail later.

For the benefit of any who may know, a B. M. A. Church in the United States is one that does not cooperate with the Southern Baptist Convention forces, but carries on its missionary work through the Baptist Missionary Association. There is practically no difference in the doctrines which the two bodies proclaim. Baptist churches in Mexico have their own organizational bodies. There is one organization of Baptists in Mexico that corresponds to the Convention Baptists in the United States, and there are one or more churches in Mexico City that affiliates with this body. But the so-called 'B. M. A. Church which I have been attending since I came down here corresponds to a B. M. A. church in the United States. I started in attending it for the reason that the gentleman who brought me down here is a B. M. A. Baptist and can speak both English and Spanish, while there is no one in Mexico City connected with a Convention Baptist Church, that I know of, who can speak both languages. I would be an utter stranger, incapable of participating with any degree of intelligence, in any of the services in one of those Convention churches.

But I have greatly enjoyed portions of every service I have attended in the B. M. A. church here. I have gotten acquainted with every member of this church and the kids in it have become more chummy with me than most of the kids at home. The church is small as yet, but never in all my life have I seen a church anywhere whose members were as consecrated and active as these seem to be here. In addition to the pastor, the church is fortunate in having three members whose services are almost indispensable. There are only two classes in the Sunday School, one for the adults and one for the children. The Sunday School superintendent is a lady teacher in one of the public schools here, and she also teaches the adult class in the Sunday School. She is very talented, very consecrated, and very enthusiastic in the work, and I do not see how the church could well get along without her.

Her niece, who is a private Kindergarten teacher, is the teacher of the children's class in the Sunday School, and although the church has practically no equipment generally used in children's classes, she is doing the best job in leading the children to memorize New Testament Scriptures I have ever seen anywhere. Her services are invaluable. Furthermore, she has the children trained to vie with one another in quoting the Scriptures they have learned when the School meets in general assembly.

A young man who works in a store is the song leader. He has a good voice and is one of the most devoted and faithful Christians you may find anywhere. I do not see how the church could dispense with the services of either of these three.

Now all you Lutherans and Methodists and Presbyterians and Disciples and Nazarenes and Pentecostals, etc., may skip these last few paragraphs if you want to. It is one of the glories of our country that a person is at liberty to read or not to read any printed matter that may come into his hands. Even the Bible may be read by any one north of the Rio Grande if he wants to read it, though some even in Free America are encouraged and even instructed by their religious leaders not to read it. Yes, there are priests up there who contend that the ordinary person is not capable of understanding the Scriptures and should depend on said priests to explain the Scriptures to them. That policy, which has been followed largely down here in Mexico, has kept the people almost whole races of people, in the direst ignorance as to what the Bible is all about. I will give you more of that later, too, folks. But I will tell nothing but the truth and will try to do that in a gentlemanly way, so keep sweet and don't get mad, friends, not a one of you. Goodnight.

THE LYNN COUNTY NEWS,

Friday, April 4, 1952

Want a lot of mileage for your money?

WE'LL admit that the price tags of automobiles—all automobiles—are not what they used to be.

But it's just as true today as ever before that some price tags are lower than others, and some cars cost less to own than others.

So let's see how a Buick SPECIAL fits into the picture.

Take first cost. If you put the price tag of this Buick against price tags of cars that have always been tagged as belonging in "the low-priced field"—you'll find that, in actual dollars, a Buick's surprisingly close to these cars of lesser size and horsepower.

But that's just the beginning.

What you're getting here is Buick quality—this SPECIAL comes down the same assembly line as SUPERS and ROADMASTERS.

Its heft tells you it has extra sturdiness in frame and structure.

Its Fireball Engine delivers extra power. It is an eight, a valve-in-head, with high compression, and the miles you can get from a gallon of gas make it a thrifty performer.

You get Buick's Million Dollar Ride, which protects you—and the car—from jars and jolts.

Even the tires are bigger—which, any tire man will tell you, lengthens their wear.

And if you pay a bit extra for Dynaflo Drive* you're easing the strain on the engine, the rear end, the tires—and eliminating clutch repair bills.

So when we talk about "mileage for your money" we're talking about the miles you'll get from your car—including the unused miles that are what you have to sell when you trade it in.

Maybe that's why Buick's doing so well in the present market. Why not come in and see what a great car this is for you?

Equipment, accessories, tires and models are subject to change without notice. Wheel Covers standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series. White sidewalls optional at extra cost when available. *Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Perfume should be as suitable to the occasion as the hat you wear. Think of your fragrance as an accessory. If your clothes are crisp, wear that kind of scent. When your clothes are softly feminine, be sure your perfume expresses the same thought. The fragrance you wear should complement, be compatible with your clothes and with the "front" which you present to your world. Some perfumes, like your classic pearls, are suitable for all occasions.

MODERN LIVING IS ELECTRIC LIVING!

Nothing is quite as stiff as a line full of frozen clothes. There's nothing soft or fluffy about clothes dried in a freezing March wind. But there's no need for this old-fashioned drying method any longer. Automatic electric clothes dryers dry the clothes the way you want them — soft and fluffy — ready to put away or damp-dry for ironing, whatever your choice.
