FARMERS ARE BUSY
... as they have only a short time in which to make a crop but we have had some rain and trust the Giver of all good things that more will follow and a bountiful harvest may result.
I try to always have good farm land to offer worth the money asked for it.
If you have land for sale that is good and worth what you ask for it, list with me and I will show it to interested buyers.
If you anticipate buying a farm or property to rent or live in, in town see me as I may have what you want as I have good income properties listed.
If you can find a better bargain elsewhere I will expect you to buy it.
All I ask is a chance at your business either buyer or seller.

EISENHOWER INVADES TEXAS

If newspaper reports are accurate, General Eisenhower proved himself to be a vigorous and effective campaigner when he appeared before audiences in Denison, Denton, and Dallas last week. In Denison, the old Texas town of his birthplace, his audience and the paraders were estimated at 15,000; in Denton five or six thousand people crowded into the courthouse square and gave him an ovation; in Dallas he addressed a dinner meeting of the press and delegates from north Texas and Oklahoma. We do not know how many people had a chance to hear him but Dallas is known as one of the strong Eisenhower strongholds in Texas.

He didn't mince words, either, in denouncing political trickery, the flouting of majorities in recent political conventions, and dishonesty in high places in the Government.

In discussing the Mineral Wells convention, he dubbed the Republican leaders who controlled it as "Rustlers who stole the Texas birthright instead Texas steers." He declared that thousands of prospective Republican voters were disfranchised when "majority rule, the very basis of our free government, was flouted and overridden." He said that "we seem to have this year a new kind of bolters on our hands. They try to bolt the doors of entrance in our party to keep out disturbed and disillusioned Democrats." He called the Texas Republican organization a "small clique who look upon our party as their fenced-in personal preserve. On every post they have nailed up signs that read "Keep Out."

RELATIVES HERE FOR WEDDING ON MONDAY

Among those here for the Jo Anne Bennett-Rev. Tad Corbet wedding Monday were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Corbet, Shreveport, La.; a sister, Mrs. Murphy Shelton, husband and two children of Sterling, La.; another sister, Mrs. J. H. Skinner, Shreveport; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Jim Corbet, and two children, of Shreveport; Mrs. Forest Sartain and daughter, Peggy, of Kilgore; Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and daughters of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Rose and Miss Sac Hudson of Whitney, uncle and aunts of the bride's mother. Other relatives and close friends were here from Midland, Lubbock, Brownfield, Waco, and other towns.

In picturing the kind of party he wants the Republican party to be, he said: "When we have made sure of our moral and spiritual strength; when we have won the loyalty of youth; when we speak to all and for all the people, then, because we deserve to win, we will win."

If Eisenhower should win the Republican nomination this year, we believe that he would receive far more votes in Texas than any other Republican has received since the election of Herbert Hoover, and that he too would most likely win the Presidency.

Whoever may be elected President of the United States this year, we believe that he and other high-up officials should bring some pressure to bear upon our neighboring republic, so-called, of Mexico to induce that country to adopt as a part of its Constitution the four freedoms set out in our own Constitution, to wit: Freedom of Speech, Freedom of the Press, Freedom of Worship, and Freedom of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances. Yes, and a fifth one: The right of any person accused of crime to a trial by a jury of his peers. All of these and other important rights are forbidden to the people by the Constitution and laws of Mexico. We think it high time for the Inquisition methods of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries to be discontinued and for the inalienable rights of men to be recognized and protected in all so-called Republics, especially in Mexico just across the Rio Grande, where the rights of our own citizens are flagrantly and frequently violated. Furthermore, it is high time for our Government not only to practice the policy of good neighborliness itself but to exact it also from our neighbors who demand it of us. This is no criticism of the Mexican people, for many of them are among the finest people on our continent. It is intended as a criticism only of the leaders, political and religious, who have never gotten away from sixteenth century methods of government.

Hatchet Head Harriet, of Loney Ladies Lingerie Laundry, Harriet has made a product called "Begins," which will counteract products on the market now to eliminate perspiration and cut down cleaning costs. Harriet's product will make people "sweat like horses." Using this product, clothes will need to be cleaned twice a day.

This, another idea comes from two people, "Joe" and "Jo Jo" Jenkins. This happy couple have invented a set of Dribble Dishes, which will soon be on the market. Using these dishes one cannot possibly eat without spilling food all over their clothing and back to the cleaners they go. ADV.

sidered deep sand, but most of it is now deep broken. Many people do not like sand, but Mr. Morrison says it has made him a lot of money.

Chief of Police Sam Floyd (1916) and wife (Martha Slover—1905) and daughter, Shirley Faye, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer St. Clair were among those present from Lamesa.

Douglas Henderson (1906) of Burbank, Calif., and his dad, J. H. Henderson (1906) were meeting old friends.

George Short (1907) was seen hunting Matt Williams of Plains and George Duckworth (1910) of Justiceburg, and any other old bronc busters to do some horse talk.

A. H. Ash (1917) of Sylvester, who lived at Draw 12 years, was back. His son-in-law, C. W. Roberts, Andrews newspaper man and candidate for state representative, was also present. The latter was accompanied by Leonard F. Craft, formerly of Tahoka, and Guy McGill (1923), formerly O'Donnell.

Daniel Davis (1919), wife and baby of Amarillo were here for the reunions and visiting his mother, Mrs. Nettie Davis.

J. C. Milliken (1907) of Slaton was here.

A. H. Moyer (1905) of Post was here, but Mrs. Moyer was unable to come.

Harley Sadler of Abilene, C. C. Nettles (1908) and wife of Morton, A. L. Nettles (1903) of Ropes, Roy Nettles of Lakeview, and S. L. (Salah) Williams (1915) and wife, also of Lakeview, were all reminiscing over old times in Jones county. Salah said he and Harley used to pick cotton together, and Roy asked Harley if he still had the scar received while rick-racking a house when the two were kids.

A. L. Nettels said he and Matt Williams came to Lynn county together in 1903.

Durwood Gilmore (1902) and wife and his sister, Mrs. Lula Collins (1902) of Hobbs, N. M., were here. Their father operated an early day drug store here—the first drug store—but another man had opened the store a brief period before Gilmore acquired it.

J. N. Reid and wife and Robert Noble were among those present from Brownfield.

Dyer White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary White (1901) was here for the day.

G. G. Vaughn and J. M. Vaughn (1906) were present. They still reside between Tahoka and O'Donnell.

Mrs. E. E. Callaway (1913) of Abilene was here visiting Mrs. C. A. Thomas (1913) and other friends.

Ed Denton (1915), who lives a mile west of Hackberry, southwest of Southland, said he has 250 acres of good cotton irrigated by three wells. One well cost a lot more than the land originally sold for.

Theodore Nordyke (1916) and wife were up from Cross Plains.

Jack Blankenship (1906) of Brownfield returned again this year and brought his three daughters, Mrs. Nola Travis of Vallejo, Calif., Mrs. Clarice Perry of San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Lorena Houston of Tatum, N. M.

R. J. Maeker (1912) and J. H. Sander (1912), who married sisters, were down from the north part of the county.

G. M. Bartlett (1902) of Brownfield said he and George Small (1902) and the late Walter Forrester helped hold the election in 1903 at T-Bar ranch headquarters when Lynn county was organized. Bartlett first settled in the Nunn Ranch pasture just east of the old Scott mill in northwestern Lynn.

V. Wright (1902) of Fort Worth was back visiting old friends and his aunts, Mrs. George Small and Mrs. Claud Wells.

D. S. Lavender said his parents bought a half section of grassland three miles east of Wilson in 1916 for $14 per acre. They thought the price was high then, but that place has an irrigation well on it now, and it might bring $300 an acre.

Elmer Ray (1907) of Lubbock has a pretty good record of some years ago in a car accident.

Lee grew up at Tredway, Borden county, and later moved to O'Donnell, then Brownfield. He got a big kick out of meeting up with his former teacher at Tredway, Chas. Nunnally (1907). He and Frank Hill of The News attended West Texas State College together.

He made himself at home at the reunion, flew in and helped serve coffee to the other visitors.

Jeff Connolly, still a bachelor, was home from Midland for the reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Johnson (1916) were here from Hobbs, N. M., where they have lived for 22 years. One of his sons, C. C. Jr., is in Hardin-Simmons studying for the ministry; another, W. T. is with Shell Oil company; and the third, Billy John, is at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Clayton and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Clayton of O'Donnell were here. Mrs. Clayton brought along some old pictures of the arrival of the first train in 1910, one an early day interior picture of The News shop, and another of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Crie, early day publishers of The News.

The News will observe the fiftieth anniversary of its establishment on October 8, 1903, and Mrs. Clayton has promised some reminiscences of the early days in publishing this paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarrell Cox of the Lower Rio Grande Valley spent last week end here visiting their son, Paul Cox, and family. Mrs. Cox insisted that the writer of Odds and Ends should come down and see their country. She thinks that it too is worth writing home about.

Jackie Rawlins of Dallas is here for the summer visiting her cousin, Jan Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wynne Collier.

Juvenile Delinquency Problem Discussed

Mitchell Williams, county attorney, spoke on the juvenile delinquency problem in Lynn county at Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday noon of last week.

He said this county had fewer cases possibly than most counties of comparative size, but there is definitely a problem here of handling wayward youths.

He explained the legal set-up of the courts for handling juveniles, and stated that the county judge and county attorney usually try to work out each case without fanfare. Sending a youth to a reform school is the last resort.

Mr. Williams stated practically all juvenile delinquency starts in the home, and with children whose parents allow them to lay out of school. Just about every one of the cases that has come before him gets around to this kind of background.

The county attorney has had a surprising number of cases, about which the public usually hears little or nothing, and he has been studying the problem as it affects this county.

As a result, he has reached several conclusions. He thinks parents, schools, and citizens in general, should give more attention to requiring regular school attendance of all children.

He believes the community is very short on recreation facilities for children and young people. There is need for a supervised summer recreation program, a swimming pool, and other recreation facilities.

He suggested Lynn county might join with one of two neighboring counties in employing a juvenile officer and counselor to help youths with their problems, and a detention home might even be set up jointly with other counties.

He expects to appoint soon a citizens' advisory committee to work with him and to make recommendations in the handling of juvenile cases.

The talk was an interesting one, and showed the speaker had given much time and thought to the problem.

Harold Green was program chairman for the day.

President Clint Walker announced that the club was 13th in district attendance during May, and maintained a better-than-average record.

Lit Moore Farmed With Burros During His First Years In Lynn County

Mr. and Mrs. Lit Moore of the Lakeview community were among those who were here Tuesday attending the Pioneer Reunion. They had just returned home Thursday from Hye, Blanco county, where they had spent nearly fifty days camped out in a tent on the banks of the Pedernales River. Fishing was not as good as usual, Lit says, but he killed 42 squirrels, which kept them pretty well supplied with meat.

They also spent a week with their son, Medford Moore, who is a rural mail carrier in Wellston, Oklahoma, and has been in the service for 20 years.

Mr. Moore was reared at Hye in Blanco county near the Gillespie county line. He first came to Lynn county in 1907, but his wife didn't think she would like the Staked Plains, so she wouldn't come with him, so they compromised the matter by his going back to Blanco county. He kept making visits out here, however, and would go back telling her about the richness of the soil and the lakes as full of water, and so by 1916 he had succeeded in persuading her to come with him, since they hadn't gotten rich by any means in Blanco county. He wasn't able to buy a span of mules or horses, but he had a pair of old, poor mares and four burros, a six hoss team. He hitched all six of them to an old turning plow and succeeded in listing and planting a crop. Although the acreage was small the yield promised to be good, and then in September came a hail storm and wiped his crop out. So he was worse off than when he started.

But, he stuck to his little farm and his wife stayed with him. The year of 1917 and 1918 were just about the driest ever, and they made nothing. But they still had their four burros and those two old skinny mares. So, in 1919 they pitched in and planted another crop. That year they hit it lucky. They made a bumper crop, paid all their debts, bought some new farming implements, and made their start for prosperity. Lit says those burros saved the day for him and his family. He and Mrs. Moore have had a warm place in their hearts for the lovely burro ever since. He takes off his hat and bows and scrapes every time he meets one even to this day. He warned that Odds & Ends fellow that he had better quit making fun of the burro in those pieces he writes about Mexico. They didn't ride or drive a burro down to the pioneer reunion, however. They drove some kind of big shiny expensive car, that can greatly out-run any burro in Mexico or Texas.

Nephew Is Killed In Feed Grinder

Henry Carroll Leon, about 50, of Lubbock, a nephew of Justice of the Peace P. D. Server of Tahoka, died at about 2 p. m. Saturday in a Lubbock hospital from injuries received Friday afternoon at his farm near Idalou.

Mr. Server says Leon was at the farm, operated by his son, and was helping a Mexican operate a feed grinder. In some way, he got caught in a heavy belt and was critically injured. His death came just one day before he and Mrs. Leon were to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Funeral services were held Sunday at 4:30 p. m. at Asbury Methodist Church in Lubbock, Rev. Wayne Cook, pastor, officiating, and burial followed in Tech Memorial Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Server and Mrs. Florene Best and children attended the services, and Mr. Server says the crowd present was the largest he ever saw of a funeral.

It seems that in that interview

President Jackson suggested the purchase of Texas from Mexico, but Santa Anna refused. We have no information as to the terms or the amount of the consideration to be paid, if any was mentioned, but in refusing to consider such a settlement on the part of his Government Santa Anna again showed dense stupidity. Possibly he had heard rumblings from Mexico to the effect that the Velasco agreement would not be approved by the Mexican Congress and he was even then harboring secret hopes to start another fight to regain Texas as soon as he could get back to Mexico and the times should seem propitious.

But the Conservative Bustamante held on to his office as chief executive for the full term of four years, or nearly so. No other Conservative, it seemed, wanted the job. The Government finances were running lower and lower each year. Difficulties were constantly mounting. Those savage Indians in all the northern states of Mexico were finding out that the laws against banditry were being very loosely enforced, and so they were making more and more frequent raids on the prosperous Creole or Spanish settlements. Many leaders in those states were thinking seriously of starting a secession movement. Yucatan in the southeast was almost independent of the main body of Mexico already.

Whatever might have been his secret thoughts and intentions, he was permitted to go back to Mexico. He arrived in Vera Cruz on February 20, 1837, and received an ovation. He retired to his luxurious Manga de Clavo hacienda and there bided his time.

Events were already happening or were just in the offing that would give to Santa Anna the chance that he coveted. For several years, the relations between France and Mexico had been somewhat strained. France filed extravagant claims against Mexico for damages done to her citizens during the turbulent times that had beset Mexico ever since it had gained its independence from Spain. France evidently decided that this was a good time to collect her claims. So she sent her fleet over to Vera Cruz early in 1838 to do the collecting. But the response on the part of Mexico was not satisfactory. She seemed to be pursuing her reputed customary Manana policy—that is, the policy of putting off until tomorrow whatever does not have to be done today. Tired of throwing grass, France trained her guns one morning on fortress San Juan de Uluo and began a bombardment. The fortress had to capitulate. That left Vera Cruz and possibly all Mexico to the mercy of the enemy. In the face of the peril, Mexico had already declared war on France and had called Santa Anna to give his advice. But he didn't stop at giving advice, he assumed command of the Mexican troops. One morning, however, the French made a raid on the town evidently before Santa Anna had gotten up. He had to make a hurried escape and did so dressed only in his underclothes. The General must have been a very dignified figure darting around the first corner he encountered and heading down the first alley at top speed without any shirt-tail even to flop in the wind. This must have been a humiliating experience and so, before the day was over, Santa Anna appeared at the head of his army to give chase to the Frenchmen who were already returning to San Juan; and a cannon ball from one of the ships took off one of Santa Anna's legs—a terrible misfortune in a way but it made Santa Anna a great hero. It restored to him all the glory that he had lost at San Jacinto.

Then Santa Anna appeared as a mediator. He was ready to retire Bustamante but he did not wish for it to be done through Farias. That would place Farias in the driver's seat again, and Farias was no longer a stooge of his. So, he frightened both sides into submission to his suggestions. Farias and his sub-leaders were to go back into exile and Bustamante was to remain in office until somebody else could be agreed upon to succeed him. That was late in 1840, mind you.

Then Santa Anna got busy hatching up another conspiracy. He conferred with Paredes, commandant of Guadalajara, and General Gabriel Valencia, and it was agreed that Paredes should lead the revolt that they planned and the other two would join in. The three Generals and other followers then held a council at Tacubaya and then began a bombardment of the City of Mexico, which lasted for a week. In order to save the day, Bustamante then turned Liberal himself, but the change won him no support, and he retired into exile. That is the way Mexico gets rid of her numerous ex-presidents; she sends them into exile.

That brings us almost down to the Mexican War, which could have been avoided also, if Santa Anna and others like him had used a little ordinary common sense. But they bowed their necks and butted up against the brick wall that stood out before them as strong and impregnable as the adamant and precipitous walls of the tallest of the Sierra Madres that extend from sea to sea in their country.

Like a Roman Emperor, Santa Anna then made his triumphal entry into the City in a coach drawn by four white horses and assumed the role of a dictator.

But the very next year, 1842, the Conservatives elected a majority of the members of Congress, and Santa Anna retired to his hacienda, Manga de Clavo, to spend his time staging cock-fights while others conducted the affairs of state. That duty devolved upon Nicholas Bravo, one of the original disciples and followers of Morelos, possibly the ablest of all the leaders who had conducted the Revolution which resulted in Mexico's independence from Spain. Mexico also goes strong for Juntas, or at least it did back in Santa Anna's days. So, Mr. Bravo named a junta, and this junta in 1843, drew up a new Constitution. A Constitution that lasts ten years in Mexico is

White side-wall tires at extra cost

WHEN YOU TRY POWER STEERING... HERE'S WHERE TO COME FIRST!

You've heard about it and read about it. Now, if you haven't felt what Power Steering does for you, we invite you to try it first in a Chrysler New Yorker... where you will find full-time (not partial) Power Steering!

What happens is this... You handle the steering wheel in normal fashion. But 4/5 of all the work is done for you by hydraulic power, constantly at your command. Also, you turn the wheel 1/3 less distance now for every maneuver... the feeling you get of utter control is as wonderful as it is new.

Even at a standstill you can turn the wheel easily. Now, parking is shorn of its troubles (and fatigue!)... and you can negotiate traffic, awkward drives, and garage doors precisely and with ease.

You can double the longest day's drive you've ever known... end up free from arm and shoulder strain. Rough roads, soft shoulders, snow, mud?... the power that helps you steer now prevents the car's wheels from "steering back" at you. The course you set is held, at any speed, till you want it changed. Yet, with this 5-times greater control, "wheel feel" is always the same.

Why not come try it? Learn for yourself why growing thousands of motorists say they'll never be without Full-time Power Steering from now on. Drive a Chrysler... and Learn the Difference!

of Draw, was married to A/1c William Irving Dorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dorman of 1713 22nd St., Lubbock, Saturday at 4:30 p. m. in Ford Memorial Chapel of First Baptist Church in Lubbock. Rev. Abe Hester, Jr., pastor of College Avenue Baptist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Vows were pledged before an altar backed by arrangements of white and purple delphiniums and pink majestic daisies. Tropical foliage and tapers in candelabra were used.

A prelude to the ceremony was played by Mrs. Don Mitchell, organist. She accompanied Rex Webster as he sang.

Lewis Bonham gave the bride in marriage. The bride wore an original gown of white imported French lace and nylon tulle over satin fashioned with deep lace yoke with high neckline extending into small sleeves. The shirred bodice of nylon tulle terminated with a rounded line at the waistline. A voluminous ballerina length skirt was shirred at the waistline. She wore lace gauntlets over her hands.

Her veil of silk illusion was fingertip length and was joined of a matching lace cap embroidered with sequins and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white lace.

Miss Barbara Moss of Denver City was maid of honor. Mrs. F. A. Stuart of Lubbock was bridesmaid. Simulated pockets of ostrich feathers dyed to match the dresses were on the skirts. They carried Colonial bouquets of pink Esther Reed daisies and purple statice.

Junior bridesmaid was Miss Patsy Dorman, sister of the bridegroom. Lyn Smith of Odessa, niece of the bride, was flower girl. They wore identical dresses of orchid eyel embroidered organza over taffeta. Miss Dorman carried a bouquet of pink Esther Reed daisies and purple statice. Lyn Smith carried a miniature bouquet similar to that carried by the bridesmaids.

Donald Dorman served his brother as best man. Ushers were Dorrance H. Guy, Mabry Peel, Dudley Price, all of Lubbock, and Ronny Walters of Tahoka, nephew of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlor. Colors of orchid and white were carried out in the table decorations. The table was laid with a cloth of white organza inserted with lace. Attendants' flowers were used.

Members of the house party included Mesdames Lewis Bonham, Homer Moss, Lynn Moss, Bob Drake, G. C. Watson, Willis Pennington, Ray Adams, Rob Luttrell, Walter Florence, E. B. Gaither, Bob LaBrant and Mrs. Arvel Smith, sister of the bride.

For a wedding trip to Southern California the bride wore an ice blue shantung suit with white linen accessories. The couple will be at home after July 4 in San Antonio where the bridegroom is stationed at Lackland Air Force Base.

The bride is a May graduate of Texas Tech. The bridegroom attended Texas Tech two years before entering the Air Force. At Tech he was a member of Silver Key social club.
