Bulldogs Take Opening Game, Play In Denver City Tonight

Having won over Sundown 14 to 12 in an upset here last Friday night, the Tahoka Bulldogs have a prospective tougher assignment when they meet the Denver City Mustangs there tonight.

Denver City, always tough, is said to be "loaded" with fine material again this year. Last Friday night, the Mustangs lost to another powerful team, Seminole, by a 24 to 18 score at the latter city.

Tahoka High band and a number of fans expect to follow the team to Denver City. Next week, Tahoka goes to Seminole.

The Bulldogs are in good condition for the game, with only Fullback J. B. Ables still out of the line-up. He has a sprained ankle.

Though the Bulldogs showed extreme nervousness and committed costly fumbles last Friday night, they showed the old Bulldog fight and determination, which enabled them to come from behind and win over the more experienced and slightly heavier Sundown Roughnecks.

Coach Bill Haralson, who coached the Bulldogs to the District 6-AA championship last year, and his new assistant, Bill Sharpley, have only seven of 20 lettermen back from last year's team. Of these seven lettermen, five were playing positions Friday night they had never played before, which added to the inexperience of the group.

The stadium was completely filled with fans, and the Tahoka contingent was exceedingly well pleased with what they saw.

First Quarter

Tahoka's Willie Lee kicked off to Sundown, who took the ball on the 28. Three plays netted the visitors 7 yards, and Perkey kicked. (Cont'd. on page 3)

Baptist Meeting Here Thursday

The First Baptist Church here was host to the Brownfield Baptist Association for three sessions, one in the morning, one in the afternoon, and one at about 7:00 o'clock in the evening Thursday.

There are some 17 or 18 Baptist Churches in the Association and practically all of them were represented by messengers. Practically all of the pastors in the association and several district and state-wide leaders were here. The day was well filled with reports and discussions.

The local ladies served a sumptuous feast at the noon hour.

FINED FOR DWI

Julian King Lawson of Lubbock, arrested by Sheriff's deputies on the highway south of Tahoka Monday, was fined $200.00 and costs in County Court here Tuesday on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

See it first in The News.

937 Enrollment In Local Schools

Tahoka school enrollment for the new term had reached a total of 937 students, an increase of 52 since Tuesday two weeks ago.

High School Principal Jake Jacobs reported a total of 195 enrolled in High School, there being 63 Freshmen, 58 Sophomores, 33 Juniors, and 41 Seniors.

Elementary School Principal Archie Sims reported a total of 691 in the first eight grades. These are distributed as follows: First, 102; second, 99; third, 78; fourth, 80; fifth, 87; sixth, 80; seventh, 80; and eighth, 85.

At Dunbar school, of which British C. Daniel is the principal, the enrollment now totals 51, with 23 in the elementary grades, 20 in the intermediate, and 8 in the High School grades.

Band Presents Colorful Show

Tahoka band fans were pleased and proud of the performance of the 60-piece marching band on its first appearance of the year under the new director, Willard Edgett, at the football half-time show last Friday night.

Though having worked out only briefly, the band made an excellent showing.

THS Band won sweepstakes honors, the highest grade possible, in its class at the annual band contests at West Texas State College last spring. It thereby qualified for the annual Mid-Western contests at Waurika, Okla., and was selected as one of the two West Texas bands to represent this area at the State Fair of Texas.

For several reasons, the band was unable to make the Waurika trip last spring.

Supt. Otis Spears is hopeful some means may be found for sending the organization to the State Fair at Dallas. He thinks the kids deserve the trip in recognition of their hard work and honors received last year, and also appearance of the Tahoka band would be some advertising to the town.

The band has a new drum major, Miss Mariana McGinty, and three new majorettes, Wilma Scott, Sue Williams, and Othelda Freeman. These girls also made an impressive appearance with the band last Friday night.

James Hardy Eubanks, son of Mrs. Clovis Honeycutt, wife and baby have moved from Lubbock to Austin, where he will enter the University of Texas Law School. He was a Senior at Texas Tech when he transferred.

"Bub" Redwine Seriously Hurt

Vernon Jack "Bub" Redwine, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Redwine, was seriously injured at about 6:30 p. m. Monday, when he fell from his bicycle under a tank trailer being pulled by Clint Walker.

"Bub" received a broken left leg, between the knee and hip, a long ugly laceration of the scalp, and other cuts and bruises. He was taken to Treadaway Hospital in Brownfield, where he was reported improving nicely Thursday morning.

Late Monday, Walker was returning home from the farm in his pickup, pulling the water tank trailer. He stopped in front of the J. E. Brown home, diagonally across the street from his own home, and allowed a group of boys to get into the back of his pickup. He had moved about 40 feet, when he glanced in the rear view mirror and saw the rear wheel of the trailer pass over the body of the Redwine boy.

"Bub" was riding a bicycle. Some of the children said he was holding on to the pickup with one hand, while another version was that he was riding beside the pickup and lost his balance when he saw another bicycle coming toward him.

Cricket Invasion Cause Of Worry To Business Men

An unexplained invasion of crickets hit certain areas of Tahoka Sunday night and again Monday night.

Worst hit area was the west side of the square, where thousands of crickets piled up in front of Southwestern Public Service, Woods Jewelry, Carter Grocery, Levine Bros., and other business in that block, and to a lesser degree in other parts of town.

Some thought the fluorescent lights attracted the crickets. Mrs. Carter jokingly attributed the invasion to the fact that this was on Sweet Street, while Granvel Ayer jokingly theorized that the crickets came in on the Southwestern Public Service Company radio beam.

Anyway, the crickets certainly hit Tahoka. The City fogging machine was called into service, and a couple of bushels of crickets were killed.

New Building For Store At Wayside

I. L. "Pete" Foster has completed a beautiful new tile, stucco, and concrete building, 30 by 60 feet in size, for his grocery, market and service station building at Wayside on U. S. Highway 87, 11 miles north of Tahoka.

The 60-foot side of the building faces east on the highway, and plate glass has been used liberally to enhance the building's modern design and beauty.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster have been operating the business for five years.

The stores will also close one hour early for the coming Seminole and Tulla games to be played in those cities.

Rev. C. F. Carmack, 85, Pioneer West Texas Methodist Minister, Dies

Rev. C. F. Carmack, 85, pioneer West Texas Methodist minister, died late Friday afternoon in Tahoka Hospital, where he had been a patient for several days.

Funeral services were held Monday at 10:00 a. m. in the First Methodist Church, with Rev. J. H. Sharp, the pastor, assisted by Rev. George Maurice Small of Lubbock and Rev. Lee Ramsour, Tahoka Baptist pastor, officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery.

Columbus Faulkland Carmack was born March 1, 1867, on the old John Hamilton Ranch, three miles east of Stephenville, Erath county, Texas.

Erath county was on the wild frontier at that time, and Brother Carmack once recalled to The News writer that there were plenty of wild deer, turkey, bear, and panthers in the woods of the area. He also recalled many Indian raids in the area. In fact, the Indians raided some part of the settlement almost every full moon.

Brother Carmack went to school at Stephenville, and finished high school, or "academy" there under the pioneer minister-educators. (Cont'd. On Back Page)

Odds AND Ends

(BY E. I. THE ELDER)

Last week I was telling you some things about New Mexico and I whacked off right down in the bed of the Cimarron Canyon that runs down through a gap in a mountain range, and camped there, only figuratively speaking, for we did not even stop except to enjoy the scenery and to take a couple of snapshots of the Palisades. As a matter of picturesque scenery, I believe that the Cimarron Canyon and the Palisades that constitute its walls present the finest scenic display to be found in all New Mexico, in so far as my wanderings disclosed. I saw perpendicular and colorful stone walls similar to that while I was down in Mexico last spring, but the valley between the walls was wider. And I notice on the map that some of the neighboring peaks of the Sangre de Christo Mountains are nearly 13,000 feet high, but of course no one down in the Canyon anywhere can see any of these peaks over the Canyon walls. While the Palisades, of course, are virtually barren of plant life, yet the sides of the Canyon elsewhere are marvelously embellished with forest trees common to all the mountain region.

After passing the little town of Cimarron, the highway gradually passes out of the Canyon into a semi-prairie country with long vistas of rustic scenery to the east and southeast, punctured with scattered distant mountains here and there. Further away, apparently away down toward the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles on that afternoon were apparently heavy rain clouds, but the rain evidently was not as heavy as one could have imagined, though light rains did fall over a vast area that night. We drove on to Raton, got us a tourist apartment for the night, looked the town over a bit, and then decided to drive down to Capulin, an extinct volcano 33 miles down the road toward Texas, as the sun was still a little above the western horizon. Leaving the main highway at the little town of Capulin, we drove three miles out through a pasture to the foot of the Mount, which is said to rise to an elevation of 8,000 feet above sea level and 1500 feet above the level of the mesa from which it rises. Beginning at the base, the road ascends the full distance of 1500 feet as it encircles the mountain. That is quite a steep but not dangerous ascent to make in that distance. You stop your car at the rim of the crater and explore the bowl to your heart's content if you desire to make any explorations at all down into the interior, from which fire, smoke, and lava spouted forth thousands of years ago. The scientists believe that the last eruption occurred fully 2,000 years ago. So, we were not very fearful that the thing would get to cutting up again, suddenly, after having been quiet for at least 2,000 years. Well, if it had, I probably wouldn't be here telling this story. If I had had time, in clear daylight, to go down into the depths of that crater, I think I should have done so, but already twilight was coming on, and a flash of lightning in the distance now and then warned us that it might be raining soon, but we did linger up there long enough to make an interesting survey of the neighboring terrain, and Nature proceeded to stage a show seemingly for our special entertainment. Steam-like clouds as white as snow began to play around the sides and tops of some of the neighboring peaks, and it was beautiful—amazing! Streaks of rain also began to show up here and there in the gathering twilight. Several small streams carried trickles of water down through the marshlike valley to the north of us, and I am sure that the resulting stream was a tributary of the "other Cimarron" which I mentioned above, for the map shows its head-waters to be up some miles north of Capulin and east of Raton. The first Cimarron, which comes down the Canyon and by the Palisades, which I mentioned, had already joined the Canadian further to the west and the south.

We got back down to the foot of that volcano and back to the highway at the little town of Capulin, and from that point we raced on toward Raton, but the rain caught us not far down the road and when we got into Raton, little floods were running down the streets, and then for a few minutes it sure-enough poured down. After the girls did a little shopping at a drug store and all of us had enjoyed a lunch, we were glad to get into our comfortable apartment for another night's rest. New Mexico had shown us some real sights, and we were still in the state.

Raton is quite a beautiful little city, situated 6,400 feet above sea-level and claiming a population of nearly 8,000. It looks and acts more like a Texas town than any we had seen since leaving Clovis on the way out. It is situated only seven or eight miles south of the Colorado state line, and so we were eager the next morning to get started out. (Now all you many folks who have been over this route one or more times can just skip all this if it is "old stuff" to you, but I think I have two or three readers who have never gone over Raton Pass, so I am writing this for their benefit, if it can be of any benefit to anybody). Well, we started out going up hill—going up at least after crossing the Santa Fe railroad, and it was a gentle climb from there on for the next seven miles, the elevation of the Pass being 7,834 feet above sea-level. In negotiating the seven miles therefore we had ascended 1,434 feet, just a little more than 200 feet per mile. Not bad at all. But with one foot in New Mexico and the other in Colorado on or near the top of a mountain pass, one could get a good view of the borderland of each state, especially of the state of Colorado.

So, here we were, in Colorado, all of us, for the first time. Except for the distant mountains, the countryside from there on to Trinidad was not hilariously scenic. It is fourteen miles from Raton Pass to Trinidad, Colorado, where the elevation is given as 6,999 feet. We are sure that some portions of the town are at least a hundred feet higher than other portions, however, for it is situated in the foothills of Colorado mountain ranges, some of whose peaks are veritable skyscrapers. Trinidad is situated on a so-called river which bears the name of Purgatoire. It rises in the Purgatory mountains some 35 or more miles west of Trinidad, comes down through the town and then strikes off northeast for a full hundred miles to Las Animas, where it empties its waters, or its sand, into the majestic Arkansas. Strictly speaking, it empties whatever it carries into the Juan Martin Reservoir at Las Animas, a reservoir which has been created by a dam built across the Arkansas River. It impounds a lot of water too, for what must be a dry and thirsty land, where not irrigated. We did not go down to Las Animas, mind you, for from our highway the entire country to the east looked like parched earth, and I suspect that the Purgatoire River encounters much hotter sands than Purgatory before reaching the cool and refreshing waters of the Arkansas. Following the highway from Trinidad to Pueblo, it must be from 125 to 140 miles straight east to the Kansas line. Along this highway there are occasional irrigation belts made possible by streams that come down from the mountains and of course there are green crops and a degree of prosperity in these little areas, but as a rule the whole country east of the highway and extending far toward the Kansas line has the aspects at the present time of a desert country. At least it certainly looked unpromising down toward KaKsnas. Pueblo, apparently, is newer, fresher, more progressive, and much larger than Trinidad. As one passes through it, notes the attractive homes, the bright flower gardens and parks, the bubbling fountains and the green lawns, he naturally says to himself, "Well, I believe I would like to live here." I think that I discovered afterwards the secret of its beauty—the Arkansas River runs right through the town. I made no special note of the Arkansas at the time—thought it was just another River; guess I read in my school geography when I was a kid that the Arkansas River rises in Colorado and flows east through Kansas, the Indian Territory and Arkansas and empties into the Mississippi. Yes, in my school days I learned just about that much about a lot of rivers: the Penobscot, the Merrimac, the Hudson, the Delaware, the Potomac, the Ohio, the Missouri, the Red, the Columbia, the Colorado, the Rio Grande, and others. I learned also the location of some of the great mountain ranges: the Alleghenies, the Cumberlands, the Rocky Mountains, the Sierra Nevadas, the Cascades, the Coast Range, and possibly the Catskills, the Adirondacks, the Ozarks, etc. I could rattle off the capitals of the states too like nobody's business; and the teacher said that I surely did know my geography. But I never saw a mountain, nor a city, nor a river bigger than the Brazos until long after I had gotten my first grade certificate and had begun teaching school.

And so I went up to Pueblo without knowing very much about the Arkansas. And I never learned very much about it until we got over to Canon City. There I got some first-hand information. Of course I had heard of the Royal Gorge many times; had seen some pictures of it; and, truth to tell, I had learned ten times as much about the mountains and rivers, and forests, and cities of our country and of the world from pictures which I had seen in books and magazines and on the motion picture screen than I had learned as a school boy and as a school teacher in my younger days.

Sundown's Mann made five, Tahoka drew a 15-yard penalty to the 15; Mann lost two, made one. Then, Jones passed 16 yards to Spray for the first score. Perkey failed on the conversion kick. Score, Sundown 6, Tahoka 0.

John Foster, playing his first time in backfield, as were all the rest of Tahoka's backfield boys except Charles Hyles, brought the ball up from the 30 to the 33. Smith made 1. Foster 2, and Hyles carried 7 to the 43, where he fumbled and Sundown recovered. With Jones and McLeroy carrying, and a 10-yard pass to Bill Waygood mixed in, Sundown made two first downs and carried to Tahoka's 21, where two passes were incomplete and the ball went over.

Hyles made 7, Foster couldn't go, and End Richard Havens kicked a booming 62-yard punt down to Cooper's seven, but Cooper was able to capitalize on its scoring opportunities twice in the second half.

But, with only about one minute left in the game, and again on fourth down, Brewer threw a pass to Roy Lee Heinrich from 10 yards out to win the game. Wilson outplayed Cooper most of the way, rolling up 11 first

In the game at Cooper, the first half was scoreless, though each team had threatened to score twice.

In the third period, Cooper's Dallas Brewer, on a fourth down gamble, broke loose for 25 yards and a touchdown. The extra point attempt failed. Wilson came right back on a sustained drive with Jimmy Schneider, quarterback, climaxing the drive with the touchdown. He then ran across the extra point to give Wilson a 7-6 lead.

over the Sundown safety's head to the Sundown 12.

On the next play, Center Joe Brooks intercepted a Sundown pass on the 31 yard line to set up Tahoka's first touchdown. Hyles lost a yard, a pass was incomplete, and then Foster tossed a beautiful short pass to Smith, who lateraled to Hyles, and the latter carried the ball to the Sundown 13.

Second Quarter
Tahoka drew a 5-yard penalty, Smith hit Havens with a pass to the 6, Foster lost 3, and on third down, Gordon Smith went through right tackle, cut to the left, and went over the goal line standing up. A pass to Hyles was good for the conversion, and Tahoka led 7 to 6.

Following the kick-off, Sundown had another touchdown march started apparently, but Tahoka stopped them on the 41, and the visitors kicked over the goal line.

On Tahoka's first play, the Bulldogs drew a 15 yard clipping penalty, setting them back to the 5, but Hyles made 6, Charley Schulz added 2 yards. Then a pass to Havens, who lateraled to Hyles, carried out to the 30. Hyles reeled off 16 yards for another first, Smith added 4, then Hyles lost the ball on a fumble to Sundown on the Tahoka 46. From this point, Sundown again began to click, rolling up three successive first downs, and Jones went the last three yards to score. Perkey kicked the extra point, but a team-mate was guilty of holding. Sundown drew a 15-yard penalty, and then failed on the conversion attempt. Sundown 12, Tahoka 7.

Third Quarter
Tahoka received on the 15, with Schulz returning the kick-off to the 32. Three plays netted four yards, then Havens kicked 31 yards to Sundown's 33, but Sundown committed a costly fumble which Steve Slover pounced onto at the Sundown 43. On the next play, Charles Hyles went through left guard, eluded a couple of tacklers, and out-ran a couple more to the goal line 43 yards away. Blocking back Kenneth Earley carried the ball through the line for the conversion, and Tahoka had the game winning score of 14 to 12.

Sundown put on one more threatening drive, carrying the ball from its own 36 down to Tahoka's 15, but the visitors had weakened and the home boys had gained confidence and were growing stronger.

Hyles made 10 yards, Foster 3, Hyles 6, Foster 4, and Hyles 6, but the Bulldogs drew a 15 yard penalty, then a 5-yard penalty, and on third down, Sundown recovered a Tahoka fumbled lateral on the 18. Then Sundown drew a 15-yard penalty to end the quarter.

Fourth Quarter
The visitors carried to the 23 on four plays, each team drew a 15 yard penalty, then Charley Schulz went into action, making 8, 8, 9, and 6 yards in as many tries, while Foster and Earley added short yardage to carry the ball to Sundown's 33, where the visitors recovered another Tahoka fumble. A pass to Waygood was good for 26 yards, but two plays later Tahoka recovered a Sundown fumble on Tahoka's 39.

Three plays later Tahoka's Havens got off a 41-yard punt, and Sundown reeled off a couple of more first downs before Smith intercepted a long pass on the Tahoka 15. Smith made 9, and Hyles ran the ball wide as the time ran out to end the game.

Fumbles Costly
Sundown carried the edge in the statistics. Although the game was marred by fumbles and penalties, Tahoka losing the ball five times on fumbles, it was a thrilling exhibition from start to finish.

This week local coaches have been working the boys hard to iron out mistakes and errors in judgment.

Foster, Smith, Hyles, Earley, and Schulz all gave a good account for themselves in the offensive backfield. Joe Brooks turned in a great game at center. Billy Stice and John Foster, tack-

New Home Loses To Dawson Team

New Home Leopards lost a non-conference six-man football game to Dawson Friday night at New Home by a 32 to 20 score.

The Leopards go to Pettit for another conference game today, Friday. New Home opened the season two weeks ago with a victory over Southland.

"Big Bob" Smith, New Home halfback, caught a pass for the first score, and Tillman Carly, 190-pound end who played full-back on power plays, plowed down the middle three yards for the second score. End Gary Dean kicked both extra points, and the Leopards led 14-13 at the half.

During the second half, Back Eugene Keith got loose on a 60-yard gallop for New Home's third touchdown, but that wasn't enough as Dawson scored three more times to take the victory. However, two of New Home's players, ace Tailback Darrell Fletcher and Center Pat Claude did not play in the game. These boys will be back in the game this week, and Coach Bill Stephen son hopes to do better against Pettit in the conference affair.

Three Smiths
There may be a little confusion among fans at New Home this year, for there are three Smiths who carry the ball at times, and none of them is kin to the other.

There is "Big Bob" Smith, 160 pound halfback, son of Hugh Smith; "Little Bob" Smith, 130, defensive halfback, son of Thad Smith; and the third is Ronnie Smith, 150 pound quarterback and son of Floyd Smith.

Among the other players are Will Neiman and Jim Gannaway.

Bulldog Mothers Entertain Sons

Twenty-seven of the 40 Bulldog Mothers were present last Friday night following the Tahoka-Sundown football game, when the club entertained their sons who are members of the Tahoka football squad with a dinner in the school cafeteria.

The mothers brought fried chicken, beef, salads, vegetables, pies, drinks, etc., and the tables were loaded with good eats.

Coaches and school administrators, dads, and brothers and sisters of the Bulldogs, and in some instances their girl friends, are entertained by the Mothers following each home football game. Mrs. L. F. Hyles is president.

O'Donnell Loses To Iraan 40-21

O'Donnell Eagles fell victim to the Iraan Braves' passing attack in a game played at Iraan Friday night, and lost by a 40 to 21 score.

The game was a wide-open free-scoring affair in which Iraan's quarterback tossed four touchdowns, passes to the same team-mate. For O'Donnell, Bennie Clark scored twice, and Tommy Movesitte scored once.

Iraan is said to have one of the better teams in its class in West Texas this year.

Tonight, at O'Donnell, the Eagles will play host to the Post Antelopes, who lost their opener last week to a potent Floydada team by a 32 to 7 score.

les, the only players on the team playing the same positions they did last year, turned in good games; and Roswell Bartley and Garland Huddleston gave promise of making great guards. The same can be said for Steve Slover, Milfred Ratliff, and Richard Havens at the end positions. Others lending yeoman service included Richard Carter, Willie Lee, Duane McMillan, Jimmy Williams, and maybe one or two other boys. Several other boys on the Bulldog squad are due to see service in future games.

seen them know that it would be impossible for me to describe them if I were to try. Nevertheless, as for me, I am thrilled every time I look upon any of God's masterpieces in mountain, river, or forest, or sea, sky, cloud, sunset, rainbow, or flower. I was thrilled—I should say we all were thrilled—on that bright afternoon recently when we stood on that bridge that spans the Royal Gorge and looked straight down 1,053 feet to the little stream of water flowing through it. Little stream? From our dizzy distance above it, it looked to be not more than just a few feet wide, but the next day when we descended into the channel of the river ten miles upstream from the bridge, we found a surging stream of water 30 to 50 feet wide and apparently two or three feet deep rushing on down into the gorge to pass under that world's highest suspension bridge to amaze other crowds that we knew must be there just then to peer into the depths of the gaping chasm. Our highway led us close by the surging waters for many miles upstream; and once we stopped at a convenient place to enjoy a lunch which we were taking with us and which we ate as the waters lapped impatiently at our feet and at the water-worn rocks on which we sat. The girls could not resist the temptation to wade out two or three feet into the turbulent stream.

In some places the water flowed deeper and more peacefully as it went on its way, in other places it fought, violently with the uneven rocks that lined the bed and edges of the stream. The rapids thrilled us and the gently-moving deep waters gave us a sense of peacefulness and comfort. And thus it was for the forty miles or more over which our highway followed the river bed up toward Salida. In that 40 miles we all fell in love with the Arkansas.

But we left the river channel before reaching Salida. We never saw it above that point. But it has its rise further north and higher up in the mountains, in the haunts of the bald eagle, where the snows fall through the winter and melt through the summer and fall. It is these melting snows, the mountain springs, and the frequent summer showers in the mountains that furnish the head waters of the Arkansas, whose length is more than 2,100 miles. With the exception of the Missouri, it is the largest tributary of the Mississippi. That great but youthful explorer Zebulon Pike followed the River up much of its course, and it was from some point above the present city of Pueblo that he discovered the great mountain peak that bears his name.

We stopped in Salida a little while for refreshments, and then headed on out west for the Continental Divide. Up and up and up we went, be-flanked with breath-taking scenery, frequent roadside signs indicating that we were nearing the imaginary line that separates the waters that flow into the Pacific Ocean from the waters that flow into the Gulf of Mexico and eventually into the Atlantic Ocean. Finally the station hove into sight. Other tourists were parked there. We stopped and looked to the east and looked to the west—looked toward Jamestown and Plymouth Rock; toward Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Virginia; toward Independence Hall and the Statue of Liberty; toward the land of the Websters and the Lincolns, the Calhouns and the Lees; toward Yankeedom and Dixie, the Old South and the New South; toward the orange groves of Florida and the cotton fields of Texas. And then we looked to the west and saw the teeming cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco and Seattle; we saw great lumber camps, industrial enterprises, harnessed water power such as is seen nowhere else in the world, deserts converted into vast rose gardens and vegetable gardens and citrus fruit orchards; we saw great naval stations and military installations; we saw remarkable development in Alaska and numberless islands of the Pacific. But when we dared to look across either the Atlantic or the Pacific, we could see only a war-torn world, and dire threats of other wars impending. It took some faith, even on this lofty mountain pass, to lift us out of the shadows and out of the slough of Despond. Just then we lifted our eyes again to the tops of the mountains, "to the hills, from whence cometh our help." Near by to the east, the scenery was grand. Near by to the west it was even grander. Here we stood at Monarch Pass at the Continental Divide, and the sign by the roadside read: Elevation, 11,302 feet. For the moment at least we stood on top of the world. Then we all climbed back into the car and through gorgeous scenery we drove west, down into a rich irrigated valley, full of beauty and promise. That was a mountain-top experience that we all enjoyed. And I think our joy increased as we drove through that long valley gladdened by green fields and attractive little homes.

We spent that night in Gunnison. It was the furthest west we went on our entire trip. A brisk breeze was blowing from the north and the landlord lighted a gas stove in our apartment. It was the coolest weather we had encountered since leaving home and we enjoyed the fire. And we needed the blankets on the beds to sleep under that night. Since there was no grand mountain scenery traversed by a good highway anywhere near us to the south or west, we took the back track the next morning, went back over Monarch Pass and down to Salida, from which point we headed south, went over a pass that divides the Arkansas River Basin from the Rio Grande River Basin, and then on down into New Mexico again, but I will wait until next week to tell you about that interesting journey.

Just here I want to tell you a little more about our observations in and near Canon City which I have skipped thus far.

First, a word more about our observations out at the Royal Gorge. There are several buildings out there and an admission fee into the grounds is charged. But that little fee evidently doesn't keep many people away. They go out there almost every afternoon, I guess, by the hundreds.

PARDON MY GUST!

POWER STEERING on the Roadmaster and Super

BENEATH that big broad bonnet is the reason for this headline.

It's a four-barreled automatic carburetor—Airpower by name—which has a way of gulping in what the dictionary defines as "a sudden blast of wind" when extra power is needed.

And the way this gorgeous performer can step out as this occurs is something you'll always remember.

For ordinary driving, two barrels are all you need—and two barrels are all that are working. They give you an extra thrifty flow of fuel for round-town cruising.

When extra power is wanted in a hurry—the "reserves" swing into action—feeding extra fuel and extra air in an ever-thrifty mixture, which delivers the greatest horsepower in Buick history.

This is one of many distinctions that endear ROADMASTERS to fine-car owners.

It's a car as rich in finish as it is in power—a car of expansive room—restful silence—level in gait—beautifully responsive to your mood and will.

And it offers the effortless ease of Power Steering* especially engineered by Buick to save your strength in parking and slow-motion maneuvers, and still let you feel a proud sense of command and a sure sense of control on the highway.

There's just one question we'd like to ask: When are you going to come in and enjoy the ride of your life?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Optional at extra cost on ROADMASTER and SUPER only.

FARM SCIENCE AT BAT IN THE COTTON FIELD

Now that cotton picking time is here, let's have a look at a cotton field evolution. The familiar scene at the left is being replaced by the one on the right, as more workers leave the farms each year. Thanks to agricultural science, the mechanical picker now can do the work of 40 men. More cotton was harvested mechanically last year than ever before; a new high in mechanical harvesting is predicted this year, the National Cotton Council reveals.

Auto Picture At Rotary Club

A. M. Bray showed a sound color movie as the principal part of the program at Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday last week. The film told in an interesting manner the many products of the soil and the many services of man required in the building of an automobile. Rotarians declared the film one of the most interesting educational films they had ever seen.

President Tom Gill announced the annual inter-city meeting at Lubbock this Thursday night. Frank King of the Associated Press, who has been on the scene at many important world events, was the speaker. About a dozen Rotarians from Tahoka expected to attend the meeting.

Morgan Howle and Richard Carter are the Junior Rotarians for the month.

Hannah Nordyke filled the chair of Most Excellent Chief and the ballot march was practiced in preparation for the District Convention at Odessa October 9.

At this convention, Lynn Temple will execute the balloting at the School of Instruction. Nina Short will be Past Chief and Emma Halameck will be manager at the night session. Elvora Curry will assist other Temple Deputies in installing the District Officers.

The Ways and Means committee announced plans to quilt on Tuesday, September 23, and a "42 party" in the near future. They also have some beautiful costume jewelry for sale.—Reporter.

Pat Williams Had Cancer Of Brain

The sudden death of Pat Williams, age 7, at Pasadena, near Houston, Wednesday last week was from brain cancer, members of the family revealed on arrival for the funeral, which was held Saturday. The disease, rare in such a young child, was revealed by an autopsy performed there to determine cause of death.

Pat was the son of Lieut. and Mrs. Dale Williams, who had been residing in Pasadena only a short time. Dale had moved his family from Tahoka to that town so he could be with them while he is stationed at an airbase there. Two sisters, Joan, 6, and Donna Kay, age three months, survive.

Funeral services were held here Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. Lee Ramsour, pastor, and Rev. Jim Sharp, Methodist pastor officiating, and burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery under direction of Stanley Jones Funeral Home.

South Carolinans Are Visitors Here

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. V. Verner of Greenville, South Carolina, arrived here Sunday for a visit with his son, Charles Verner, and family.

Mr. Verner, who is in the textile manufacturing business, is a member of the State Legislature and is a prominent citizen of that state. He is a close friend of Governor Jimmy Byrnes, former United States Senator.

The visitor was scheduled to speak at Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday at noon.

TRAILERS MUST HAVE LIGHT, REFLECTORS

Farmers who use cotton trailers to haul their cotton to gins were warned by the state highway patrol this week that they are required to have two reflectors and a red tail light on the rear when they are on the highways.

Only one trailer may be hauled at a time—several hauled in a train are a violation of traffic laws. Highway patrolmen have been ordered to file on those who do not have required reflectors and tail lights installed. Penalty for violation is a fine from $1 to $200 and costs.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It can be done! Out in San Francisco two veterans whose business was almost driven to the wall by a near monopoly, have won a decision in the Federal Court after a 3 year fight.

Fresh from the naval campaigns of World War II, two discharged officers, Bernard M. Wolfe and Frederick J. Dannenfels, started a paint business. They decided to call their product Dutch Paint, and their company, started on very limited capital, the Dutch Paint Co.

But National Lead Company, with a near monopoly on processed lead and other paint materials, and who have a paint called Dutch Boy, immediately acted to stop the young company.

The 200 million dollar corporation found there was no copyright infringement involved. A letter from the patent department of National Lead to the West Coast advertising manager admitting the company had no proprietary legal exclusive right to the use of the word "Dutch" was entered as court evidence.

The advertising manager was instructed in the same letter to discourage use of the word by a "show of force".

Perhaps veterans just out of the wars don't respond too kindly to a "show of force". Perhaps the history they had helped write at personal peril had taught that a "show of force" was still it took for Hitler to annex territories without firing a shot.

The young veterans were not bluffed by the "show of force".

So when National Lead exhausted every weapon in its arsenal labeled "show of force" without holding the waterline of the young company, another tactic was tried.

Today paints require as an ingredient titanium pigment. In 1947 National Lead and Dupont was found by the United States Supreme Court guilty of conspiracy and violation of the anti-trust laws in restricting the sale and production of the pigment.

But despite this Supreme Court decision, National Lead then shut off all supplies of titanium pigment to the young company.

So the small Dutch Paint Company filed not only suit for declaratory judgment, but also a treble damage suit in the amount of $1,695,000 on the basis that at the time National Lead shut off their supplies of titanium pigment, National Lead increased their own consumption of the material ten times.

The Federal Court found that the Dutch Paint Company has every right to continue to use its own name.

Commenting on this decision, the two partners summed up the entire crux of the battle being waged today by independent business to survive.

"We are thankful," they said, "that our country's laws protect the little man against the predatory acts of giant corporations. It is evident from the decision that our courts will uphold the rights of the small businessman if he is willing to fight for them."

Without the nation's anti-trust laws, the Dutch Paint Company would have been destroyed.

This case illustrates why there is a concerted drive today to abolish the nation's anti-trust laws.

Youth Injured In Fall From Car

Clarence Roberts, son of C. R. Roberts and a Sophomore student in New Home High School, was badly "banged up" when he fell under a car Wednesday at about 12:30 p. m. two and a half miles west of New Home. He was brought to Tahoka Hospital by Supt. James Vaughn for examination, but hospital attendants found no serious injuries and he returned home.

Clarence and Morris Goad were in the act of bringing an old car to the school where they expected to do some work on it in a Vocational training class. Morris was driving, and Clarence was lying on the fender trying to coax the fuel pump to operate. In some way he lost his balance, and fell under the moving car.

Lois Ritchie Wins Scholarship

Lois Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Ritchie of Route 2, Post, Texas, is the winner of the District 2 4-H Girls Scholarship to Texas Technological College in Lubbock. This scholarship is given each year by the Home Demonstration Clubs in District 2 to an outstanding 4-H Club girl who plans to study Home Economics at Texas Tech. This announcement was made by Mrs. Aubrey W. Russell, District Agent for this area with headquarters at Lubbock.

Miss Ritchie has been in 4-H Club work for eight years and has been in the Post Senior Club the last few years of her work. She is a 1952 graduate of Post Senior High School and will enter Tech during the fall semester to continue her studies.

As a 4-H Club girl she received many honors for her leadership abilities and her club work. She was Vice Chairman of the 1952 District 22 4-H Girls Camp, was a winner of the 1952 Santa Fe Awards with a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago, was the winner of the Garza County Gold Star Award in 1947, won two trips to Round-up at College Station, and was winner of the Garza County Dress Revue in both 1948 and 1949.

Lois proved to be a leader. She held every office in her own club at some time during the 8 years; was vice president of the Garza County organization and then was Vice Chairman of the District Camp organization.

Mrs. Wesley Stephens of Post was the leader for Miss Ritchie's Club. The Home Demonstration Agents that served her county while she was Club girl were Jewell Strasser, Dorothy Harbin and the present Agent Jessie L. Pearce.

Lois was active in school work, too. She was editor of the 1952 annual and a pep squad member. She was art editor for the school annual before she became editor and has art as her hobby.

She is a good all round girl and does a good job in many fields.

Joyce Huey, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Huey, underwent a tonsillectomy at Tahoka Hospital Tuesday of last week. The little patient is reported doing fine.

Pvt. Joe Palmer Is At Fort Jackson

FORT JACKSON, S. C., Sept. 18—Private Joe S. Palmer, son of J. W. Palmer, Route 2, Tahoka, recently completed the clerical procedures and typing course conducted by the 12th Engineer (C) Battalion of the 8th Infantry Division's Specialist Training Regiment at Fort Jackson, S. C.

During the eight-weeks course he made an intensive study of forms and procedures used at company level throughout the Army and was trained to attain a typing speed of 45 or more words per minute. Graduation from this school qualifies a soldier to serve in an administrative capacity, the first step toward higher enlisted ratings in the Army.

Trainees showing a special aptitude for clerical work are selected to attend this school after they become proficient in the use of weapons, combat tactics, and an understanding of the Army in general.

James Foster left last weekend for Waco to enter Baylor University.

Carroll Edwards entered Tahoka Hospital Tuesday afternoon as a medical patient. He was believed critically ill Wednesday.

ANN BLYTH

ANN BLYTH WINS LUSTY TECHNICOLOR FILM ROLE

Hollywood, the pueblo of the publicized paradox, can point proudly to the career of luscious Ann Blyth, the gal whose career is about as paradoxical as a career can get.

The one irrefutable fact about Ann Blyth's real life is that she has the most unsullied reputation of any satellite dotting the cinematic sphere. And, paradoxically, she belies this reputation by being sought out time and again to play the most sultry roles being offered on the screen.

At present, Ann has a juicy role that more than a dozen top actresses drooled to play, the co-starring role opposite Gregory Peck in Universal-International's Technicolor adaptation of Rex Beach's "The World In His Arms," opening Oct. 19 at the Rose Theatre for 3 days.

Ann, gowned in the glittering low-cut finery of a Russian countess, breathes allure into every scene in the lusty adventure-story of early days in San Francisco and Alaska.

"Miss Blyth has a wholesome quality that no movie characterization can completely destroy," says Raoul Walsh, director of "The World In His Arms."

"She can make a love scene exciting without blasting its moral qualities," the director continues. "It's an art that is seldom displayed either on the stage or screen."

"The World In His Arms" was produced by Aaron Rosenberg. Top supporting roles in the new film are handled by Anthony Quinn, John McIntire, Andrea King, Carl Esmond and Eugenie Leontovich.

June Riddle, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Riddle, underwent minor surgery at Tahoka Hospital Wednesday morning.

Miss Dorothy Lee Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Foster of Wayside, and Charles R. Fulkerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fulkerson of Tahoka, were united in marriage at 6:00 p. m. Friday in Ford Memorial Chapel of the First Baptist Church in Lubbock. Rev. George Maurice Small, assistant pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ice blue nylon tulle and imported chantilly lace with lace bodice styled with stand-up collar and long fitted sleeves. A panel of lace extended the length of the bouffant tulle skirt, which ended in a short train. Her fingertip veil of ice blue nylon tulle fell from a Juliet cap over taffeta. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Ruth Hall of Lubbock was maid of honor, and Miss Bettye Hall of Perryton was bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of blue organdy over taffeta fashioned with fitted bodices of embroidered organdy, and full skirts. They carried arrangements of yellow Fujii chrysanthemums.

Geno Jones of Tahoka served his cousin as best man. Ushers were James and John Foster of Tahoka, brothers of the bride, and Thomas Fulkerson of Fort Worth, brother of the bridegroom.

Vows were pledged before an altar decorated with greenery, yellow chrysanthemums and white tapers in candelabra. Miss Imogene Webster of Lubbock presented a program of wedding music.

A reception followed the ceremony, at which Mrs. James Bowlin of O'Donnell, sister of the bridegroom, registered the guests; Miss Mona Trice of Lamesa presided at the punch bowl, and Mrs. H. D. Chiles of Lubbock served the cake.

The couple left immediately following on a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo. For traveling, the bride wore a blue iridescent shantung suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fulkerson are graduates of Tahoka High School. The bride is employed by O'Hair Manufacturing company in Lubbock, and the bridegroom is a senior in Texas Tech majoring in mechanical engineering.

The couple will make their home at 2208 16th street in Lubbock.

NATIVE MEXICAN RELATES VISIT TO HIDDEN CONVENT

While the senior editor of this newspaper was in Mexico City last spring he made quite a few friends and acquaintances down there regardless of their religious affiliations. One of these friends has written the following letter to the Editor of the News relating the story of a recent visit she made to an old abandoned convent at Puebla, a historic and important city situated about eighty miles due east of the city of Mexico. We gladly publish this interesting letter with a few explanations and minor changes in the verbiage made in order to clarify and make more understandable the contents of the letter.

To the Editor of the Lynn County News:

This article is not the result of a study but the result of a rapid (hasty) visit. Undoubtedly the details are lost; but the impressions gathered from a bird's eye view tell about something that remained in secret for a long time.

The Convent Santa Monica in Puebla, Mexico, is a place that attracts our attention. The Convent was hidden by a familia (family) that lived in the house immediately in front of it, from which they came and went without suspicion, but back of all this the Convent continued to function regularly.

The portal of entrance was secret and covered by a large clothes closet and would be opened at the sound of a bell, covered by a plant in a large jar. Immediately upon entering you found yourself in a large room of famous religious paintings of distinct schools and epochs. Then you entered a room that the dresses, of many colors, that the nuns wore were upon exhibition. After that you entered a long narrow room with benches on either side where the nuns went to inflict wounds upon themselves as a matter of penance, (Punishment self-inflicted as reparation for sin).

After leaving this room we entered into a large garden where the nuns were allowed to meet and talk for a few minutes after dinner but were prohibited from talking to each other again until the same hour the next day.

A small door carried the admiring visitor to the chapel, where there was a series of crosses, instruments of cruelty and crowns of thorns, which tell of the sacrifices that the nuns suffered (carrying the crosses with crowns of thorns upon their heads). Sometimes they stopped in an ant bed, chewing their tongues and looking to the sky; other times taking uncomfortable positions for several minutes, or meditating in front of a skull.

In another room there were large pictures in scarlet of the Lord's Supper; further on there were priestly robes, divers religious objects and books, which altogether give an impression of a record of sadness.

A large kitchen, various cooking utensils and the breakfast room tell us many things about their way of living.

We pass now to a semi-absure room, not modernized, without paintings or statues, in front of which lie the lifeless skulls of the nuns that died in this secret place. There was this circumstance that required them (to store away) the skeletons; It was impossible to find a place to bury all these early victims of mortal infirmities and they placed the skulls in a kind of basement upon whose walls were written the names of the dead and their principal qualities. After a certain time the body was destroyed but not so with the head, as it remained as a skull which was placed in a kind of square box covered with glass.

The Convent continued to function secretly for many years but in 1935 it was discovered and the nuns had to flee for a more secure place.

This building has been the object of study and observation. They have tried to conserve it in its original state—the rooms, the numerous objects exhibited to the visitor, such as sculptures, paintings, etc. The old decorations will continue to tell how many pains were suffered, how many sacrifices were made, and how much ignorance gripped the souls of them that passed their lives here desiring to praise or honor God.

But, in truth, God is a spirit and all that would worship Him must do so in spirit and in truth. —Una Amiga.

Editorial Note:

In 1917 the Mexican Government adopted a constitution and enacted laws confiscating all church property, suppressing and closing all Catholic Convents, expelling all foreign missionaries consisting mostly of those from the United States, and enacting other stringent anti-church measures. Under these Laws scores of convents were closed all over Mexico in 1917 or soon thereafter. This Santa Monica Convent at Puebla, therefore, according to the above letter, operated in secret for about eighteen years. The evidences still extant not only show that dense ignorance of the Bible must have gripped those nuns but reveal also the inhuman cruelties which were inflicted upon them by heartless priests and by religious system that can thrive only by means of keeping its votaries ignorant of the Bible.

 Rev. W. F. McElhane, superintendent, and Rev. Packard, principal. He attended one term of old Grandbury College under Rev. E. M. Sweet, and spent one year in Weatherford College under Rev. David Switzer, Prof. Post, and John A. Lomax Sr.

He taught school for 15 years in Erath, Comanche, Eastland, and Crosby counties, Texas, and also in New Mexico, and part of this time he was also serving as a minister.
 Rev. Carmack was a minister for 42 years and was a member of the Methodist Conference for 30 years.
 He was married at Gorman,

Hog Breeders Will Enter Fair Events

Several Lynn county farmers expect to enter registered livestock in the annual Panhandle-South Plains Fair which opens in Lubbock on Sept. 29 and continues through Oct. 4, according to County Agent Bill Griffin, who is general superintendent of the Fair livestock show again this year.

Those who expect to show hogs are: B. L. Hatchell, 11 head of Hampshires; Leonard Crawford, nine head of Poland Chinas; and Ward Eakin, five head of Chester Whites.
 Tom Garrard will also likely show some of his registered Herefords.

Texas, on May 5, 1895, to Miss Della Moats, daughter of pioneer farmers, and to this union was born seven children, four girls and three boys.

Mrs. Carmack shared the hardships of the pioneer circuit rider husband, and while raising the family helped out teaching school also.

He bought a farm 12 miles east of Tahoka in 1918 and another 7 miles east in 1921, both of which he still owned at the time of death.

Rev. Carmack retired in 1937, and since that time the couple have called Tahoka their home, although they have spent much time traveling around and visiting their children. Rev. Carmack had always been very active, never found time to do all he wanted to do, and was ever looking forward rather than backward. The influence of the couple was wide spread in West Texas, and the minister leaves a host of friends to mourn his death in a score of communities.

He was admitted to the Conference in 1907, and went to Dexter, N. M., as minister in 1908. He served successively at Black Tower, N. M., Silverton, Gail, Post Circuit, Woodson, Spur Circuit, Meadow, Sudan, Aiken, Welling ton circuit, Briscoe circuit, La mesa circuit, and Draw-Grassland before retiring in 1937.
 A great and good man has passed this way.
 He is survived by his devoted wife, three sons; Dr. James C. Carmack and Dr. Charles E. Carmack, both of San Bernardino, Calif.; and C. O. Carmack of Tahoka; four daughters, Mrs. A. B. (Leta) Swann of Albuquerque, N. M., Mrs. Tom (Dolpoia) Carroll of San Francisco, Calif., Mrs. Ben (Addie Mae) Wileman of Oklahoma City, and Mrs. Everett (Lucille) Dison of Amarillo; two brothers, Albert Carmack of Selma, Calif., and Bruce Carmack of Crosbyton; one sister, Mrs. "Eva" Dudley of Long Beach, Calif.; twelve grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.
 All the children, one brother, Bruce, and most of the grand children and "in-laws" were here for the services.
 Rev. Ben Hardy, critically ill in Tahoka Hospital, was reported slightly improved Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

ON THE AIR—The story of the Methodist Home at Waco actually told by the children themselves will go on the air again Sunday, Sept. 21 at 8:15 a. m. over fourteen radio stations.

The Home is dramatizing activities from the lives of its more than four hundred children again this fall on Sunday morning because of an enthusiastic response from radio listeners all over the Southwest last fall. Some of them wrote that they had contributed to its support many years with out ever having been able to visit its campus, and that radio programs gave them a vivid picture of its life.

 Students and ex-students have done most of the script-writing, and are acting out the incidents. Music by the Home choir will be a feature of the fifteen-minute broadcasts which are entitled, "The Are Your Children."

Radio stations which will carry the program include WFAA Dallas, WOAI San Antonio, KGNC Amarillo, KCRS Midland, KOSA Odessa, and KFYO Lubbock.
