Garza county would be dropped from the 106th Judicial district if the statewide judicial redistricting bill is given final approval by the Texas Legislature. The House passed the redistricting bill Tuesday.

Counties which will remain in the 106th are Lynn, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum, and Terry. Garza would become a part of the 132nd district now composed of Scurry and Borden counties.

Last year 1,122 spindle-type cotton pickers and 14,270 stripper-type harvesters were used in Texas. Rotary hoe equipment was used on 26,000 farm tractors and pre-emergence chemicals and post-emergence spray were used to control grass and weeds in cotton fields.

Study Urged Cotton Raisers

COLLEGE STATION. — Cotton supplies have now reached the point where, if another large crop is produced in 1953, the carry-over could further depress markets and bring back control programs. Cotton producers are, therefore, being urged to study the present situation and plant in accordance with the expected demands for their product.

It appears now, says J. D. Prewit, associate director for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, that the demand for raw cotton in the United States this season and next will be only slightly less than used last season, however, exports are expected to drop at least 1 1/2 million bales below last season and maybe even lower next season. The carry-over on August 1, 1953, is expected to be, says Prewit, about 4.3 million bales, which will be 1.5 million bales or 55 percent more cotton than was on hand a year earlier.

Cotton advisory groups have met with Secretary of Agriculture Benson and after careful study and consideration of all factors, the Secretary has asked the nation's cotton producers to make an 18 percent reduction in their 1953 plantings as compared with those for last year.

This reduced acreage should produce between 12 and 12.5 million bales of cotton. Such a crop would meet the estimated domestic and export demands and leave enough surplus to take care of the reserve needs, points out Prewit.

Prewit advises Texas cotton producers to think in terms of balancing cotton with other farm crops and pastures. He points out that under the 7-step cotton program, fitting cotton into a balanced farming program is the first recommended step in making production of the fleecy staple more profitable. The present situation he explains, calls for this balance.

Unusually heavy demands for feed caused primarily by the drought and to some extent by increased livestock numbers, has reduced the amount of feeds and forages to a very low level and the acres left out of cotton this year could be profitably used, says Prewit, for producing grain and forage for rebuilding the supply of these needed feeds. Consideration, he adds, should also be given to increased plantings of soil improving crops in the areas where spring and summer planted legumes are adapted. Temporary pastures for livestock

UNUSUAL RECITALS SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT

Something new for Tahoka in the way of piano recitals will be the six-piano ensemble tonight at 8 p. m. at school by pupils of Mrs. E. W. Patterson and Mrs. Ira J. Hart.

Five or six pupils will play in each number, and only about ten compositions will be played.

KINGS VISIT OKLAHOMA

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. King recently visited two of their sons in Oklahoma.

At Rush Springs, they visited Rev. J. Paul King and family. Rev. King is pastor of the Methodist Church there. In Oklahoma City, they visited W. W. King and family, who also accompanied them home.

Plans are now being made by a statewide committee for the participation of Texas 4-H club members, their leaders and friends in the Share and Care Program for a National 4-H Club Center in Washington, D. C. The Center will become the permanent home of National 4-H Club Camp and the National 4-H Foundation. It will also be available to 4-H members, their leaders, friends and others for use throughout the year.

The four newest yellow corn hybrids, Texas 24, 26, 28, and 30, all developed and released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station made outstanding records last year in tests conducted at widely separated locations over the state.

or for the production of hay crops might also be used on the diverted acres.

It all adds up, says Prewit, to this fact. The nation needs only 12 to 12.5 million bales of cotton this year and the shift to other crops will pay in two ways. A smaller 1953 national crop should bring in more net profit and the grain, forage or soil improving crops grown on the diverted acres will help rebuild depleted feed supplies and the soil building crops will aid in keeping future production high.

WASHINGTON AND
"SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

Pressure grows for Congressional action on oil situation.

Several months ago the Federal Trade Commission's secret report on a world-wide oil cartel was forced into the open.

Many allegations were uncovered.

One was that the U. S. Navy was overcharged for Mediterranean oil during World War II. Another was that the Marshall Plan was overcharged for Mediterranean oil given to Europe. The latter is the basis for a present suit against several major U. S. oil companies.

Now in Washington independent U. S. oil producers, the National Coal Association, demand an end to current flood of cheap imported oil.

The problem, quite involved, affects the nation's economic welfare and national safety.

It is estimated 1,000,000 barrels of foreign oil land in U. S. daily. During 1952, 128,000,000 barrels of residual fuel oil were imported. This residual fuel oil is up-setting U. S. economy.

Residual fuel oil is a by-product of oil refining. In U. S. refineries this by-product amounts to only 18 to 19% of total crude refined. But in the Caribbean and South American oil operations of major U. S. oil companies, the by-products amount to 51 to 65% of the refinery volume, which is dumped on the American market at any price it will bring.

The result has been that foreign oil undercuts domestic coal for industrial users of fuel.

First Aid For Pre-School Child Discussed Here

In a second of a series of discussions on the pre-school child, Mrs. Glenn Woody, registered nurse and chairman of Nursing Services of Lubbock County Red Cross chapter, spoke to the parents of pre-school children Tuesday morning at 9:30 at the South Elementary school.

Mrs. Woody gave some general rules: Every home should have a list by the telephone of doctors, names of ambulance service, hospital, names of nearest relatives, special instructions for baby sitter, if small children are left in their care.

She gave special instructions in how to treat accidents such as: burns, cuts and wounds, hemorrhage, respiratory difficulty, fracture, dog bite; poisons, swallowing objects and head injury. Every family should have first aid training.

Mrs. Woody further stated that 20 of each 100 fatal accidents occur in the home. That in 1948, 10 million serious accidents happened and 100,000 died. The cost was $4 billion dollars, enough to give every 8th grade student $3,000.00. Most of these accidents are preventable. Most accidents she said are caused by carelessness, neglect, ignorance and recklessness.

All school children should have some form of identification tag on them so that if accidents should happen, parents or relatives could be notified.

Next weeks study will involve partnership activities that are enjoyed by both parents and children. A film, "The Family," will be shown to the group participants.

C. of C. Plans Year's Program

New officers and directors of Tahoka Chamber of Commerce met Monday night at the Legion Hall and discussed plans for the new year of the organization.

President Fred McGinty, who succeeds Clint Walker as head of the organization, presented three projects which the C. of C. will work on this year.

The body will ask the Commissioners' Court to do something about making the dirt road from Petty south to the Brownfield highway passable, and to get it paved if at all possible. The road would give the farmers of that area a better outlet to their county seat. If the Tahoka Pennsylvania Lakeview-Petty oil field develops, as it possibly will, there will be further need of the road.

The State Highway Department will be asked for more and better-spaced caution and stop signs, especially on farm-to-market roads, and some more center-stripe painting, to promote safety on these roads.

Help will be given Poka-Lambro Rural Telephone Cooperative, if needed, in solving some of its problems, especially in negotiations with General Telephone for extended-area coverage.

The C. of C. will also continue its anti-solicitations program. Business men are requested to refrain from contributing to causes not endorsed by a letter of authorization from the C. of C. committee. Such a policy has been in operation here a number of years. As a result, many of the grafters, promoters, and operators of questionable advertising schemes, pass up Tahoka. Most of the rest could be eliminated if each merchant would ask an investigation by a secret committee of the C. of C. before contributing to such solicitations.

During the past year, the C. of C. helped sponsor the Junior Livestock Show, on which it spent $400.00, gave a premium for the first bale of cotton, sponsored 4-H club boys to state encampment, installed new Christmas lights, sponsored home and business decoration contests and the coming of Santa Claus and his reindeer, had Lakeview-Petty oil field named Tahoka-Pennsylvania field, co-sponsored city wide clean-up campaign and helped spraying of city, and many other projects.

A committee composed of Alton Cain, Frank Hill, and O. C. Elliott was appointed to audit the books of Secretary Russell McGee.

The directors voted to change the regular monthly meeting night from the third Monday to the third Tuesday night.

Herman Renfro is the new vice president of the body, and new directors are Geno Jones, Otis Spears, Frank Hill, Mitchell Williams, and Alton Cain. Holdover directors are Walker, Renfro, O. C. Elliott, H. B. McCord, Jr., and Ross Smith.

McNEELY TO ALASKA

Leslie McNeely arrived Friday from Kelly Field, San Antonio, where he has been taking an Army mechanical course, to visit his wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McNeely.

The couple left Wednesday for California. He is en route to Alaska, where his "outfit" is due to see service.

Explosion . . .

was the fact that no one was hurt in these explosions, as flying metal and one of the butane tank heads were hurled 3-10ths of a mile from the wreckage and over the heads of the crowd.

Collier remained conscious almost up until the time of his death, and was able to give an account of the collision. A State Railroad Commission representative, a member of the trucking firm, firemen, and officers, together with Collier's story, were able to piece together the details of the accident.

Collier and Jenkins were driving the two huge transport trucks for Keystone-Fleming Transport, Inc., from Sundown to O'Donnell. J. R. Young of Lubbock, superintendent of the company, told The News the front truck, driven by Collier, carried 5,000 gallons of butane, or 2,500 gallons in each of two tanks. The truck was hauling 5,000 gallons of propane.

Collier said that he was driving east on Highway 380 and ran up on the farm-to-market road which runs south at a point just east of the Claude Wells farm. He possibly threw on the brakes a little quickly to make the turn. Immediately, he felt a seemingly light "bump" as Jenkins' truck hit his truck's rear. Instantly there was a flash of flame and Collier was burned from head to foot.

The Railroad Commission inspector theorized that Jenkins swerved his truck slightly as he threw on his brakes, his truck jack-knifed, and the right front propane tank of his truck hit the rear butane tank of the front truck. Butane was released from this tank and possibly the other butane tank on the front truck was released, and a spark ignited the highly volatile butane.

Collier in some way got out of his cab and started down the road east. In Tahoka, City Police Roy Wilhelm and Roy Heffner, and others, saw the flash. They, followed by Stanley-Jones ambulance drivers and Tahoka Fire Department with the No. 1 truck, rushed to the scene.

The officers picked up Collier on the road several hundred yards east of the fire. All his clothing was burned away except his belt. He was rushed to Tahoka Hospital suffering third degree burns from head to foot, but there was no chance for his survival and he died at 6:30 a. m.

In the meantime, the Fire Department and other rescue workers made a desperate attempt to extinguish the flames and retrieve the burned body of Jenkins from his cab.

Chief Jim Clinton had just given up the effort and moved back to the fire truck, parked possibly a hundred yards east. On the right running board was R. C. Wells, a fireman, and nearby were other members of the department. To the rear of this was a vast crowd of spectators drawn by the flames and fire report.

Then, suddenly, the propane truck tanks exploded. End of one of the tanks came hurtling along the ground toward the crowd, but hit the front of the fire truck, sailed into the air over the crowd, and came to rest in T-Bar pasture to the north, 600 yards from the crash site. Other wreckage and flames were thrown over a vast area.

Fully $1,500, possibly more, damage was done to the fire truck as the front end was crushed. Full extent of the damage had not been determined early this week.

The fire continued to burn slightly throughout Sunday. Wreckage was moved from the pavement early Sunday, and traffic allowed to proceed in the area. Thousands of people visited the scene during the day.

It was about four hours before flames had subsided sufficiently for Jenkins burned torso to be taken from the truck cab.

The two deaths brought the South Plains traffic accident toll for 1953 to 31, seven more than at the same time in 1952.

Funeral services for Cecil Collier were held Monday morning in Slaton with Rev. T. J. Boulding, pastor of Slaton Baptist Church, officiating, and burial

New Resident Died Sunday

Mrs. Lucille Clark, 78, a resident of Tahoka for only three months, died at 9:30 p. m. Sunday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Willis Kyle.

She was born at Mesquite on February 21, 1875. She came from Lubbock to Tahoka in January to live with Mrs. Kyle.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2 p. m. in the Stanley-Jones funeral chapel, with Rev. Lee-Ramsour, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery.

Survivors include two nephews, Tom Warren of Albuquerque, N. M., and John Warren of Lubbock; and four nieces, Mrs. H. B. Williams and Mrs. Emma Evans of Carlsbad, N. M., Mrs. Myrt Ballard of Lubbock, and Mrs. Willis Kyle of Tahoka.

was in Madisonville, where he formerly lived.

He is survived by his wife and three step-children of Slaton. His parents and other relatives lived at Madisonville and vicinity. Collier had worked for Keystone Fleming two years.

Billy Jenkins, who had been with the company only about six weeks, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jenkins, route 3, Brownfield. Stanley-Jones carried the body to Mt. Pleasant, where funeral services were conducted at the Church of Christ Tuesday afternoon.

Other survivors include two brothers, Jess and Melvin of Brownfield; and two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Shami of Lubbock and Carolyn Jenkins of Brownfield.

Junior-Senior Banquet Is Held

The annual Junior-Senior banquet was held in the Legion Hall at 8 p. m. Friday night.

Theme of the banquet was the "Stork Club," and the hall was decorated in accordance with the theme. White crepe paper with silhouettes of top hats, champagne glasses, and high heeled shoes hung over the windows and on the walls.

Card tables set up in "night club" fashion were decorated with candles and cardboard top hats.

Billy Tong acted as master of ceremonies, representing Bing Crosby, in the role of a radio announcer over Station THS.

Following was the program: "Stork Club is Honored," Bing Crosby (Tong); "Thank You, Our Hosts," Jack Benny (Earl Bartley); "Oa With the Show," Ginger Rogers and Shirley Temple (Thomas girls from Grassland); "Rhythmic Harmony," the Andrews Sisters (Jerril LeMond, Sue Sarant, and Sue Miller); "Keyhole peeping," Walter Winchell (Bobby Lehman); "Celebrity Guests," Loretta Young (Loretta Aldridge reads class history), also the Class Prophecy was read by Bobby Lehman and the Senior Will by Richard Carter; "Limelight Melodies," the king and queen of the Juke Box, Roy Sherrod and Carolyn Howell; "Utter Nonsense," Dr. I. Q. (Jerry King) and his assistants (Lou Ann King, Zuella Gray, JoAnn Fenton, and Joy Tomlinson); "Bits O' This and That," Betty Hutton (Bobby Draper singing "Ole Man River").

Following the program, the Junior mothers sponsored a dance for all who wished to participate.

D. C. Davis suffered a minor attack, possibly of nervous indigestion, Monday.

TAHOKA, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1953

Land Damage From Blowing Is Surprisingly Light, SCS Men Say

FORT WORTH, April 30. — The Soil Conservation Service, reviewing the blow season which should be nearing an end, today summed up land damage to date from the winter blowing in the western areas of Texas and Oklahoma this way:

Acres of severe wind erosion damage—118,800.

Acres of moderate damage—1,428,200.

The damage to land was held to be light in view of the extremely dry weather that has prevailed in the area. Areas of severe damage were mainly to the south and west of Lubbock and in the Big Spring area in Texas, and in the Woodward and Clinton areas of Oklahoma.

Regional Director Louis P. Merrill of SCS said that high winds still can whip exposed soil throughout the acreages of insufficient protection. These acreages, although growth of new crops is fast reducing them, still total well over 6,000,000 acres in the two states.

The regional SCS head expressed the hope that farmers in the areas in which wind erosion is a continuing problem will plant more grain sorghum and other wind-resisting crops this year.

"We have seen far less damage to land to date than we could justifiably expect in view of the extremely dry soil conditions," Merrill said. "Credit for saving many fields from damage must be given to the proper management of crop residues as well as to other good conservation practices."

The most pessimistic report on April blowing today came from SCS Area Conservationist Homer A. Taff at Lubbock who reported a 10,000-acre increase in land undergoing moderate wind damage.

"Soil movement has begun on a very large acreage," Taff reported to Merrill. "Dryland wheat is still effective in controlling blowing but has poor prospect of making grain yields. Legume crops under irrigation are good, but dryland legume plantings are a failure."

Taff said 276,000 acres in his 12-county area have been damaged to a moderate extent by blowing. A total of 26,000 acres have received severe damage, with removals of from two inches to plow depth or hummocks of six-inch depth or more.

At Perryton, Area Conservationist M. A. Kelly reported a sharp increase in wind erosion damage, with 8,200 acres in the severely damaged class. Kelly said winter grain is suffering from lack of moisture and will not mature unless rain falls within a few days. However, he added that the worst of the blow period has passed.

Kelly predicts large plantings of grain sorghums in the Texas Panhandle section.

In the Amarillo area emergency tillage greatly reduced winter wind damage. Area Conservationist George Taylor said. Grain crops have made progress but moisture lack is hurting both grain and range now.

In Northwestern Oklahoma wheat growth is at a critical point, Area Conservationist A. T. Elder at Woodward reported. However, in the eastern portion of his area conditions are less severe. Elder reported a 10,000-acre gain in moderate wind damage in April blowing.

April winds have caused more damage on sandy soils in the Big Spring area than in any previous month, Area Conservationist W. S. Goodlett, Jr., said. Lated lands in the sand areas are no longer holding and operators can do nothing to prevent soil movement until more rain falls. Goodlett said the most severe damage in his area is near Brownfield.

Ten large strawberries contain 60 milligrams of vitamin C (ascorbic acid). The total daily requirement of vitamin C for an active woman is 70 milligrams.

MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN FLASH!

FORD BEATS ALL IN ECONOMY!

MILEAGE MAKER "6" WINS SWEEPSTAKES!

Score a blazing victory for Ford's dollar-saving gas economy! Ford's high-compression Mileage Maker "6" with Overdrive beat every car entered in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run, regardless of size or weight, to sweep the sweepstakes! Ford's winning average was 56.70 ton-miles per gallon.* And Ford's high-compression 110-h.p. Strato-Star V-8 with Overdrive was right up there in economy, too, with a record of 48.55 ton-miles per gallon!

The winning Ford was a regular production car, just like thousands of other '53 Fords you see on the road today. This 1,206-mile trip from Los Angeles to Sun Valley covered all types of driving conditions. The route threaded through city traffic, where stop-and-go driving tests an engine's fuel economy under the toughest conditions... and out along the highways of four western states.

The Ford Mileage Maker "6" took all this in stride, maintaining a speed above the required 44.25 m.p.h. minimum, to finish 1st in the sweepstakes! What better proof is there that Ford is the thriftiest car of all? What better way to show why Ford is worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it!

TON-MILES PER GALLON*

Ford is the first car in its weight class... in the history of the Economy Run... to win top honors in ton-miles per gallon over all other cars regardless of size or weight.

*The AAA Contest Board determines the winner by a "ton-mile per gallon" formula to insure equal chances for all cars in each class regardless of size and weight. Ton-miles per gallon equals the car weight (including passengers) in tons, multiplied by number of miles traveled, divided by number of gallons of gasoline consumed.

ing about it these days. It certainly is a broad subject. It is ubiquitous, and in this particular area of the mundane sphere, it is also very temperamental and impulsive. Now that is a lot of big words to use about the weather but it takes big words adequately to describe it. We have heard men using profanity in talking about it. One never knows today what it is going to be doing tomorrow. Even the weather experts do not know. They make a lot of wild guesses. Of course one can guess most anything about what the weather will be tomorrow and hit the mark, for at this time of year we usually have all kinds of weather the same day. It can come a half-inch rain before sunrise followed by a whale of a sandstorm by noon. Mark Twain, you remember, once said that everybody talks about the weather but nobody ever does anything about it. He didn't know that anything could be done about it. They didn't have rain-makers in his day. The rain-makers can't start a rain but they can make the fall a little heavier—they claim—that is, for a price, a nickel per acre, for instance. Since nobody ever knows how much rain would have fallen without the shot, nobody ever knows whether the shot increased the rainfall or not. So, it is easy for the rainmakers to advance a high-sounding "scientific" theory as to how the rainfall may be increased and get by with it. A nickel per acre does not sound like much any way for the ordinary farmer to pay and so he pitches a few nickles into the hopper "just in case."

I remember that the Man of Galilee talked about the weather occasionally. Usually the subject was broached incidentally, suggested by some great spiritual truth which he wished to teach. One time after he had been healing the multitudes of divers diseases, some of the cures being so miraculous as to cause everybody to wonder, the Pharisees and the Sadducees teamed up and came to him and temptingly requested that he give them a "sign from heaven," to prove that he was what he claimed to be, as if his miracles and his wisdom and his sinless life and his care for the sick and the poor and the afflicted, and his marvelous teachings were not sign a-plenty.

So he proceeded to talk to them about the signs in the heavens a bit, signs which they and everybody professed to understand. We quote from Matt. 16:23-4: "When it is evening, ye say, it will be fair weather: for the sky is red. And in the morning, it will be foul weather to-day: for the sky is red and lowering. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky, but can ye not discern the signs of the times? A wicked and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign, and there shall no sign be given unto it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas." And he left them and departed. And thus he used weather signs as a means of giving those hypocritical and designing Jews a seathing but well-deserved rebuke.

Jesus talked about the wind that night when the learned Nicodemus slipped over to the pious Galilean's room to have a quiet talk with him about spiritual things.

Nicodemus was a member of the Jewish Sanhedrin, the great legislative and judicial body of the Jews. A man had to be learned in the law and in the history, customs, and practices of the Jewish people to become a member of the Sanhedrin. It seems to have been made up, in fact, of the chief priests; Elders, who were aged and experienced men; Scribes, who copied and kept the Mosaic law and the traditions of the Jews; Lawyers, men learned in the law and possibly identical with the Scribes in most instances; the so-called rulers of the Jews may have belonged to one or more of the above classifications, and may or may not have been rulers of synagogues. The Sanhedrin was at once the supreme court of the Jews in both civil and religious matters; the legislative council or body; and the Executive or Administrative department. In other words, it was the equivalent of our own Supreme Court, our congress, both houses; and our President and his cabinet; with jurisdiction over all church or ecclesiastical affairs and all civil affairs. Of course the duties and functions of the Sanhedrin, after all, were very limited as compared with the duties and functions of the members of our three departments of government—the legislative, the judicial, and the executive—for the Jews consisted of only a few million people at the most, while we have 150 million.

But the whole Sanhedrin consisted of only seventy-one men, and each of the 71 therefore was a very important individual. Most of them were exceedingly important in their own estimation.

Nicodemus knew that the other members of the Sanhedrin would have felt that he had violated the dignity of his position if it became known that he was condescending to discuss religious matters privately with an espised Galilean. But he evidently had been deeply impressed by the teachings which he had heard the man proclaim and by the marvelous things he had heard about Jesus, and was keenly desirous of learning more about him. Up to that time he did not know whether he would be convinced or repelled by a private interview with the lowly Galilean and was not yet ready to link up with him. But he was an honest seeker after truth and went to the right source to get it. He was no coward but he did not wish to incur the enmity or ill will of his associates unnecessarily. I do not think that it was to his discredit in the least that he went to see Jesus by night.

But what we started in to do was to talk a little about the interview itself.

And so after dark, Brother Nicodemus—I guess they would have called him Dr. Nicodemus if he had been living any time recently, for surely he would have earned and be entitled to a D. D. Degree, a Ph. D. Degree, or a LL. D. Degree, one or all, if he had been a twentieth century product. So, after dark this distinguished but honest Jew, minus his official robe, slipped out the back door and proceeded under the shadow of the trees to a room not far away which Jesus occupied and lightly tapped on the door. Or probably Jesus was seated on a shaded porch.

Any way, after greetings, the conversation immediately began. Dr. Nicodemus started it. "Rabbi," he said to Jesus—with all due (Cont'd. On Next Page) deference, "We know that you are a teacher come from God, for no man can do these miracles that you do unless God be with him." (Jesus' answer must have almost knocked his distinguished visitor over, for Jesus used no flattery, no soft-soaping, no Thank You even, in making reply. For "Jesus answered and said unto him, Except a man be born again, he can not see the kingdom of God." (That sounds rather frank, the Doctor must have thought, but) "Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? Can he enter a second time into his mother's womb and be born?" (It was an astounding statement that Jesus had made but he stuck to it, without wavering a hair's breadth. "Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except a man be born of water (the fleshly birth) and of the Spirit (the second or spiritual birth) he can not enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto you, you must be born again."

Just then there was a fresh shuffling of the wind through the tree-tops. It always speaks in serious vein. O how we have heard it moan! It makes one feel sometimes as if the whole world were weeping. To the ancients, the movement of the winds was more strange and unexplainable than it is to us moderns. Jesus was not concerned about teaching science to the world, though he could have done so, but he was greatly concerned to teach spiritual truths. So, as they listened to the rustling of the winds through the tree-tops, Jesus resumed his exposition of Divine truth. "The wind bloweth where it listeth," he said, "and you hear the sound thereof, but you can not tell whence it comes or whither it goes. So is every one that is born of the spirit."

Still perplexed, "Nicodemus answered and said unto him How can these things be?"

Seemingly amazed at his ignorance, "Jesus answered and said unto him, Are you a master (teacher) of Israel and know not these things?"

O how lacking we are in knowledge of spiritual truth! Some folks insist on taking literally everything they see in the Bible. They do not grasp at all the great spiritual truths wrapped up in parables and other figurative passages of Scripture.

Proceeding with his discourse to a single individual, who was a teacher of the Mosaic law, Jesus used the gently-blowing breezes to teach him spiritual truth, the necessity for a re-birth of man's spirit — regeneration—declaring unto this learned Jew that "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have eternal life. For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life," which is universally regarded as the gist of the gospel and possibly the greatest single sentence in all the New Testament.

A mighty sermon was suggested by the wind, which Jesus preached to a scholarly, but bewildered Jew. We are glad that we have the assurance that Nicodemus became a believer, a disciple, a defender, and eventually a bold confessor of Jesus as his Lord.

We could learn many other lessons from the winds, these violent winds, these dust-laden winds, these destructive winds that come sweeping almost every day now in this season of the year across these rich, fertile plains. But we will leave these lessons for others to dig out. We know that summer is just around the corner and will soon be here. We hope that it does not bring us too many hail storms and no tornadoes at all. And may the rest of Texas escape also.

We heard a gentleman who had just come in from California say a few days ago that he had now seen all the grand scenery between Los Angeles and Tahoka—the Grand Canyon, two or three other world-renowned gashes in the face of Mother Earth, tall and rugged mountain ranges, White Sands, Painted Deserts, and other marvelous works of nature, and that he was now satisfied and had no desire to see them again. That is not the kind of re-action at all that I have gotten from my little trips around over the scenic regions of Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Old Mexico. Every time I have gone to one of these places, I have wanted to go again. I just hope that some how or other heaven for me will turn out to be some such country. I know that the pearly gates and the golden streets and the sky-scraper mansions, and the jasper walls, and so forth, will be places and things of marvelous beauty, but I would much prefer sunny meadows, and gurgling brooks, and sky-scraper pines, and rugged lofty mountains, and placid blue lakes, and rose gardens, and lily ponds, and singing birds, and strutting peacocks and white swan, and cypress trees, and Colorado blue spruce forests and shrubs and vines and flowers of every kind ad infinitum.

Yes, I would like to see old Popocatepetl, and old Izaccubatl, and old old Orizaba, and Chapultepec Park, and the mountains and the bay and the beach and the ocean at Acapulco, and scores of other places that I have not seen yet—yes I would like to see all these and my Mexico friends again even before I migrate to my heavenly home; and on this side of the Rio Grande I should like to see the Davis Mountains and the Chisos Mountains and the Santa Helena Canyon, and the Rio Grande River clear up to its head in the Rocky Mountains in Colorado, and the Royal Gorge at Canyon City and follow the scenic Arkansas River clear up to its head in the same majestic Rockies—and everything, folks, that I have ever seen, I would love to see again and it would be fine to have a lot of my friends along with me. Yes, with multitudes of my friends in easy reach at all times, I think that I could spend Eternity gloriously in a country made up of scenes like these. I hope I can see a lot of these places again before I am called upon to cross the Jordan.

Social Security Card Important

Use it wisely. Guard it carefully. Yes, ladies, this means you, too. That social security card with a number on it that you carry in your purse may be very important to your family. It is important because that card shows the number of your Federal insurance policy. Your employer should have your correct name and social security number on his payroll records exactly as they appear on your card. Your family's survivors' protection, as well as your retirement insurance benefits depend upon the accuracy of your employers' reports. You can help him report accurately by making sure that he has your correct name and number on his records.

If you should change your name through marriage, or for any other reason, don't think for a minute that you need a new number. It is true, however, that you will need a new card with the same number and your new name. Advise your employer when you change your name, and advise the nearest social security office of the change immediately. If you lose your card visit the nearest social security office and apply for a new card which will show your original number. Guard your card carefully. Use it wisely. Don't lose it, but if you do, let your social security office know about it right away.

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be in Tahoka on May 7th at 9:00 a. m. at the Post Office to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.
