No decision was made on General Telephone's petition for another increase in telephone rates here when officials of the company met with the Tahoka City Council Monday night.

In fact, the General Telephone representatives asked that a vote not be taken at this time pending further study of the proposed rate structure by company officials.

This request came from J. E. King of San Angelo, revenue requirements manager for General, after Mayor E. R. Edwards had made the statement that the rate raise request would be rejected.

He indicated that the Company, after all, may shave the stated rates from $13.50 to $12.50 for one-party business phones, including EAS (extended area coverage to Poka-Lambro phones). The present rate is $11.25, plus Federal Excise Taxes. One-party residential service is now $4.50, and the Company is asking a raise to $5.00.

General Telephone had previously submitted a brochure of facts and figures on the local exchange plant and its income and expenditures which showed the company had a net operating profit of $3,775.76 for the year ending June 30, 1953.

King claimed the company could not pay dividends, pay interest and premiums on bonds, and maintain adequate service on such a narrow margin.

He could make no promises as to when dial service will be installed here.

The City has contended that rates are already high enough, and the local officials have said they do not intend to grant another raise now.

Business telephone rates were increased on Feb. 1, 1954, to take care of costs to General for extended area service to Poka-Lambro customers. At that time one-party telephones were increased in price from $7.75 to $11.25, and two-party from $6.25 to $9.50, less tax. No increase in rate was given for residence telephones.

However, a general increase in rates was granted on Dec. 11, 1951, and the Council was led to believe that a dial system would be installed late in 1952 or early in 1953.

Tahoka telephones have increased in number from 332 in 1940 to 824 at present, with another 300 to 400 on Poka-Lambro lines.

As a comparison, one-party business telephones at Post are $7.75; Brownfield (dial), $8.50; Levelland, $10.50; and Snyder, $10.50.

Last week, Tahoka Chamber of Commerce directors assured the City of its backing in the fight with General and president Fred McGinty attended the meeting Monday night to protest the proposed increase.

Those here representing General were: Mr. King, J. L. Kemper, division manager, and V. Fleming, division traffic superintendent, both of Brownfield; and Bob Saunders, Lamesa, district manager.

Several interested Tahoka citizens also attended the hearing.

Two Are Fined On Liquor Charges

Two transporters of illegal liquor were nabbed by Tahoka officers within the last week.

Early last week, Deputy Sheriff Tom Hale arrested Joe Rivera of Lubbock, in possession of 30 cases of beer. He was fined $250.00 and costs in County Court.

Over the week end, Policeman James Tippit arrested Ezereno Zavalla Venegas, of Lubbock, who was transporting 40 cases of beer. He was fined $400.00 and costs in County Court.

Mrs. David Massey underwent an appendectomy at Tahoka Hospital Friday.

Woods and Ends

(BY E. L. HILL, ELDER)

Well, folks, I am leaving Christopher Columbus and Ferdinand and Isabella, Spain and Mexico, and the discovery of America, for a little while this week to brag a bit about the very best part of America, the grand and glamorous state of Texas.

It is true that a lot of it has been up in the air lately as the result of some kind of conflict apparently between some old mythical god of Winter who is about to be pushed off his throne by the mythical goddess of Spring assisted by her angels of light and flowers and beauty who are seeking to usher in an era of new life and happiness for the remainder of this year at least.

Like George Parr, the Duke of Duval, the old King of the Air does not want to give up his throne and is fighting literally like the devil to keep it. We hope that the good Shepherd and the good men and women are successful in each case.

The battle that is being waged between the spirits of good and the demons of evil, apparently from the ground on up to the highest reaches of the atmosphere is stirring up all this dust, but we are sure that nobody wants the forces of Old Winter to win and thereby prolong his reign longer, even though it takes a battle by the forces of light and life to dislodge him at the expense of being bothered by the dust nuisance.

All of us want Spring, and rain, plenty of it—and then clear skies and warm sunshine.

And in the meantime, or pretty soon after the "meantime," we want the water problem settled in a way that will be most beneficial to all the people. A lot of folks out here in the west seem to have an abundant underground water supply for irrigation and other purposes, but engineers say that already the underground water level has been considerably lowered.

A few days before I left Waco early this month some of my relatives and I drove across the Brazos River on the fine new bridge that spans the stream, and I saw far less water flowing down the bed of the Brazos through Waco than I ever saw before in my life. There are two reasons for the reduced flow. One is the long-continued drouth that has prevailed throughout the Brazos River watershed above Waco for the past three years, and the other is the fact that the recent completion of the Whitney dam has impounded an immense amount of the water that has come downstream since its completion.

Speaking of the drouth (or drought according to the hard-headed Mr. Noah Webster, but drouth according to the people of Texas), the McLennan county rainfall up to now since January 1 is considerably more than three inches below normal. I told them that our rainfall out here in Lynn county is short of normal about three years and three inches. Of course that is not exactly true but it is not far from the truth. The Waco people do think that central Texas is undergoing a terrible drouth. Up to the time I left there, however, farmers were still grazing their cows on their wheat fields and most of the wheat was still looking fine. Some of it was beginning to show the damaging effects of the dry weather.

And most of central Texas harvested a good cotton crop last year; but that portion of Brazos is no longer a strictly cotton country. It has become quite a cow country. Both white-face beef cattle and dairy herds are numerous today all over central Texas.

A little while ago I mentioned the new bridge across the Brazos River that was recently completed and opened to traffic. It is a four-lane bridge and is designed to take care of much of the through traffic that comes over the main highway from Dallas and Fort Worth on the north and from Temple, Austin, and San Antonio and intervening points on the south, and practically all of the traffic over the highways that come into Waco from Brownwood, San Angelo, Abilene and numerous other cities and towns in West and Southwest Texas and from numerous East Texas points, such as Mexia, Palestine, Longview, Lufkin, Nacogdoches, the East Texas pine belt and oil fields, etc. To take care of this traffic a four-lane highway is being built from west to east through the main residential section of Waco to the new Brazos bridge just mentioned. The building of this highway necessitated the widening of the streets over which it passes and the removal or tearing down of many residences. It takes a strip off of the south end of the block on which one of my sisters lives and leaves her residence and apartment house less than half a block away. It can be seen that this highway will carry an enormous amount of traffic.

For, also, the Dallas-Temple-Austin highway is being rebuilt and widened into a four-lane highway both north and south of Waco. This highway already carries heavier traffic than most other highways in the state, and it seems strange that it was not widened into a four-lane highway long ago. Work is now proceeding slowly on the rebuilding of this highway from Waco to Temple and through the most of Bell county.

But undoubtedly the most important and most expensive road project now under construction in Texas is the rebuilding of the "Broadway of America," at least that portion of it extending from Fort Worth via Abilene, Sweetwater, Big Spring, Midland, and Odessa to El Paso. This is a transcontinental highway extending from Washington, D. C. to Los Angeles. Coming by way of Shreveport, Louisiana, it enters Texas just east of Marshall, thence by Longview, Terrell, Dallas, and Fort Worth. We really know nothing as to how the road has been improved east of Dallas, but since it is a transcontinental highway, we presume that it has been given the same attention by the State Highway Commission east of Dallas as it is being given west of Dallas. We came upon it from highway No. 36 at Abilene some three weeks ago as we were returning home from Waco. So, we know that west of Abilene it is right now being transformed into a real Broadway, a divided roadway with four lanes on each side of the dividing narrow strip. Although a fierce sandstorm was raging when I reached Sweetwater, I decided to follow on to Colorado City to see what was being done out there. Between Roscoe and Colorado City, apparently a six-lane divided highway was being built, and I am sure that it will be no less than a four-lane highway anywhere in Texas west of Colorado City. This warm southern route is being built to accommodate a tremendous amount of transcontinental commercial and tourist traffic. It will bring to Texas annually, no doubt, many more million dollars of eastern and western money than it has ever brought heretofore. These sandstorms are going to let up after awhile, folks, and then again we will begin raising more cane and less Cain, than ever before and when that happens we can quit bragging and begin showing people what a wonderful country we have out here in West Texas.

For the first time in years we came over the good two-lane highway from Colorado City to Snyder, where again we took lunch with relatives. We came in the face of one of the sandiest sandstorms we ever faced in our brief life, but this side of Snyder it got worse and worse. If I had not been a heavy man, I believe it would have blown me away, Ford car and all.

There was one little error in this column last week that I want to correct. Our Linotype made me say that on my way home from Waco recently I made a brief visit in Hamlin. I said Hamilton, not Hamlin. The two towns are far apart. I never did get closer to Hamlin on that return trip from Waco than Sweetwater. Of course the error was not important, for the history of Hamilton was not changed by my visit there and I do not think that anybody in Hamlin was disappointed by my failure to show up there. In fact, I think that very few people there even know I exist. It was just a matter of keeping the record straight, as most country weekly newspapers are bent on doing. So that's that.

Another water project that has been enlisting much interest on the part of Central Texas for the past three or four years was practically completed a few weeks ago. That was the construction of the Belton Dam across the Leon River, a tributary of the Brazos. The Dam is situated some three miles northwest of Belton. Finishing touches are to be made not later than June and already the flood gates have been closed and the resulting lake is slowly filling with water. The dam is expected to back the water 15 or 20 miles up both the Leon and the Cowhouse and their tributaries including Stampede and other creeks. Quite a few families were compelled to sell their farms and move out to higher ground. It is a part of the great system of water conservation and flood control undertaken by the Brazos River Authority. It has been constructed by Army Engineers and will impound more than a million acre-feet of water in addition to the purposes for which it has been constructed. Belton people are expecting it to become one of the best and most popular fishing and recreation centers in Texas.

Now I am going to let the ex- (Continued)

Texas Indians Are Project of Clubs

The Alabama-Coushatta Indians are on Texas' only Indian Reservation at Livingston, Texas. There are some 400 Indians of which 117 are school age children, on 4,280 acres of pine forest land in Polk County, 90 miles northeast of Houston. The reservation is called "Indian Village," but it is not a village, just a few small houses scattered through the woods.

The Community Center situated on the old Council grounds consist of school buildings, hospital, cemetery and two churches. The home of their missionary, Dr. C. W. Chambers is also on the reservation.

The first accurate record of these tribes in Texas shows that the Coushattas in 1799 were on the east bank of the Sabine River 80 miles south of Nacogdoches. The Alabamas also lived here and traded at Nacogdoches, and were thought to be close kins men of the Coushattas. These two tribes which had migrated early into Texas from their homeland across the Mississippi are the only tribes that have continued to exist in Texas.

They have clung faithfully to their own language. They have never intermarried with the whites or Negroes, but have kept their racial integrity intact. They are peaceful, retiring and sincerely devoted to Christianity.

Efforts are being made to help these people become more self-supporting. The Texas Federated Women's Clubs are starting a project to help build a community house. The Federated clubs of 7th District are starting a scholarship fund for an Indian girl to attend College or get Nurse's training.

The Phebe K. Warner Club is now collecting good used clothing and costume jewelry to send to these Texas Indians.

New Home P.T.A. Elects Officers

The New Home PTA met Thursday evening, March 18, in the High School building.

Officers elected for the coming year were: president, Mrs. C. B. Nowlin; vice-president, Mrs. N. B. Hancock; secretary, Mrs. J. D. Unfred; treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Edwards; historian, Mrs. Marvin Phelps; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Clifton Ashcraft.

The main speech of the evening was given by Superintendent C. O. Head on the allocation of our school taxes. He stressed the importance of just what we, as parents, want for our children in the school.

Those in attendance found the talk informative and hope a similar talk will be made again, as everyone interested in the education of their children should have an opportunity of hearing this talk.

Odds & Ends

plots of Columbus rest a little longer and turn the rest of the column over to our Mexico friend and correspondent, Senorita Aurora Gutierrez, who will proceed to tell us more about the land that Columbus discovered and that his fellow-countrymen soon thereafter exploited and cruelly ravaged.

She wound up last week with a reference to the sea pirates and brutal buccannery who sailed the Spanish Main and dealt misery to those engaged in legitimate commerce. So that is where she begins this week, but her story deals with the land and not the sea. Her subject is the "Explorers Delight."

For the explorer seeking adventure, Vera Cruz state is a Heaven indeed. Those accustomed to riding on freight trains or mixers and seeking shelter in a new location each night will find the southern part of the state most fascinating. Those who love to meet the sunrise in the saddle may prefer the northern wilderness. The state is literally splattered with archaeological zones, most of which are either unexplored or only very partially explored, as yet. Of these the best known are Cempoala, El Tajin, Santiago, and Huatusco, though quite recently astonishing Maya cultures have been unearthed in the Papaloapan River basin not far southeast of Alvarado. (The Maya civilization was formerly not thought to have extended as far northwest as the state of Veracruz.)

San Anders Tuxia, Lake Catemaco, Tehuantepec—Every day in the year, a long train of box cars with a few passenger coaches trailing behind steams out of Veracruz bound for the Guatemala border. The way leads through the mahogany country. Even before you're well out of Veracruz, a parade of vendedores (peddlers) begin offering through the open windows of your car a variety of fruits, tamales, and other viands of the tropics, and the young, tender "cocos de agua" that are unfailing, safe, delicious thirst-quenchers.

As you swing into the Tierra Blanca, an attractive bronzed young woman may offer you fried chicken while her little brother balances a tremendous load of pineapples on his head. At Tres Valles and Papaloapan bananas and mangoes are both plentiful and cheap. At Loma Bonita you buy one or two juicy papayas, which you divide with every one in the coach, for you're all long since old friends. At Rodriguez Clara you wrestle with your luggage and look for a place to stay. This is the junction from San Andres Tuxtla over in the Tobacco country. If the little "hotel" is full, you try to find some one with an extra cot or hammock.

Next morning after an interesting climb through hilly jungles on a branch rail line, you are in San Andres. Bananas are five cents an armful; chichozotes, mamellas, and other tropical fruits abound. Your chambermaid comes in her bare feet to ask if you want your dinner now.

Beyond San Andres a few miles is the strange Lago de Santiago (Santiago Lake), the water level of which curiously rises several meters in the dry season and recedes during the summer rains. Still further out, perched a thousand feet above the Gulf of Mexico is the gem-like Lago de Catemaco, one of Mexico's most beautiful bodies of water. The region produces wonderful, mild, cigar tobacco.

Then you whip through jungles and over rivers as the natives stand in their thatched huts and wave at you. If your grandfather went to California in the days '49 by the way of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, you may want to change trains at Jesus Carranza Santa Lucrecia to see where he disembarked at Coatzacoahuas Puerto, Mexico, otherwise you will stay on the train until, crossing over into the state of Oaxaca, though a long way from Oaxaca City, you arrive at Ixtepec or Juchitan, from which you will continue a sort distance by rail or bus to the fabulous city of Tehuapetec, home of those handsome brown-skinned Tehuanos, as famed for their queeny bearing as for their attractive costumes. When and if you can tear yourself away from el istmo, as this region is called, you may either proceed south to visit Chiapas and Guatemala or return to Veracruz.—Aurora.

If you have the money and the time and can speak the Spanish of Mexican language, a trip to the Veracruz region, to Mexico City, and the Isthmus of Tehuantepec would give you more thrills and more useful knowledge than almost any other trip of equal length that I can think of. But you should scan through some good, if brief, Mexican history before you start.

The Pan-American highway runs through the country from Laredo to and through Mexico City and on to the Isthmus, but does not touch Veracruz, but a side trip over a good paved highway could take you from Mexico

Korean Veterans Are Eligible For School Benefits

Korean War veterans who may wish to take advantage of educational benefits under the Korean Veterans Bill, Public Law 550, are urged to start enrollment proceedings at an early date.

In fact, such proceedings must be started at least three weeks prior to next August 20, 1954, according to Mrs. Lenore M. Tunnell county school superintendent, who attended a meeting in Lubbock at Texas Tech Thursday of last week on the State Education and Veterans Administration program.

She was informed at this meeting that August 20 is the deadline for enrolling. However, boys who served during the Korean war have at least 15 papers that constitute their Korean document, and 23 days are required to process these through the Educational Agency and the Veterans Administration prior to enrollment date.

Any Korean service boys who can not farm, either because of lack of money or because of lack of a farm, and who are interested in taking advantage of their educational benefits should contact Mrs. Tunnell's office soon.

An attempt will be made to institute a new agricultural mechanical program so that such ex-service men can take advantage of the benefits they are eligible for.

The Look of Tomorrow lets you see better today

This low-lined glamor car is the stunning new 1954 Buick SPECIAL—now V8-powered to a record high—and priced just a few dollars above the "low-price three."

BUICK
the beautiful buy

NEVER before its introduction by Buick did you see a windshield like this on a standard-production automobile. It comes from the experimental "dream cars" you may have seen pictured from time to time—but it's on every 1954 Buick today.

As you can see, this broadly arching sweep of glass adds new beauty and a definite look of tomorrow to the glamorous new Buick.

Even more, this stunning new windshield treatment gives you 19% more visibility—because it pulls back the corners, lets you see as a pilot sees. But there's a lot more than "dream car" windshields to the new-day 1954 Buicks. For these are really new cars—with new bodies, new interiors, new ride features, new handling ease—and, above all, new record-high V8 horsepower.

Come in and look them over—sit in, sample and price one of these breathtaking new glamor Buicks. It's the only way to know what beautiful buys they are in every way.

Letters To The Editor—

(The News welcomes letters from its readers on any current subject, not libelous, of course. All communications must be of reasonable length and must be signed. On request, the signature will not be printed. The Editor.)

When I arrived home on Wednesday, March 10, after an absence of five weeks, I found the following letter dated February 22 awaiting me here. So this is my first opportunity to publish it in this column. I hope that my fine friends the A. L. Williams of Pep, New Mexico, have not concluded that I did not appreciate it, for the Williams are among the best educated and best informed people that I have ever known, and letters like this from people like this are calculated to give a poor newspaper columnist the "big-head". Mrs. Williamson herself wrote the letter, but like Queen Isabella and King Ferdinand, about whom I have been writing more recently, they do all things in unison. I thank you, folks, and will continue trying to do my best, considering my mental and educational limitations. I am also glad to inform you that my sick sister was still improving most satisfactorily when I left Waco.

Now The Letter
Having just read your Odds and Ends in the February 19th issue, I want to tell you how much we enjoyed them. The dating of the Bible has worried me. You have given a very clear solution. I sat in a religious discussion once where one of the questions concerned this very fact. The minister to whom the question was addressed said, "um - ah - yes, that used to bother me," and then he rambled smoothly away from the subject without one word of information! I thank you for delving into the matter for an accurate solution.

Your writings of Mexico back in the dim ages are very interesting, also. I had no idea that Mexico had been so lived in for such a long time.

Your writing about Phoenicia is fine too.

Keep digging away for us. We know too little about those olden times.

We are sorry to learn about your sister's illness.

Best regards to you and yours. The A. L. Williams, Pep, New Mexico.

Garden Club Has Raised $1,200 For Landscaping Projects In Tahoka

Friday evening, March 19, in the School Gymnasium the Tahoka Garden Club presented the annual Style Show. The proceeds will be used to beautify the school grounds. The Garden club has had the beautification of the school grounds as their project for the past 3 years. The new Home-making house is the central interest this year. Work will soon start on the part of the city park that was assigned to the club. In the three years the club has worked on the school project over $1100.00 has been spent.

The script for the style show was written by Mrs. Charles Verner, who was the narrator. Much credit goes to Mrs. Verner for the success of the show and the club members are very grateful.

More than 50 models represented the following stores that furnished the clothes: Marshall-Brown Dept. Store, Robinson's Ready-to-Wear, Abbie's Fashion Shop and Ayer Way Cleaners. Hair styles were by Dutchess Beauty Shop and Modern Beauty Shop. The House of Flowers contributed flowers and pot plants.

A mixed quartet, composed of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Elliott, Mrs. Dale Thuren and Charles Verner added a note of gaiety with the theme-song of the show, "Let's Get Away from It All," and others. Mrs. Gynn Patterson furnished piano music throughout the show.

The Gymnasium was transformed into an atmosphere for vacationers to dream about. The entrance was a rock wall covered with ivy and a new red car was parked, ready to carry the models to far away places as the sea shore with the blue water, sandy beach and miniature palm trees. The mountain scene was a multi-plane picture of blue sky, snow capped mountains and pine trees. The city scene was a Paris street with the side walk cafe, stores, hotel and the little flower vendor. The French signs were painted by Mrs. Dale Thuren.

The total expense was less than $20.00. When all money from ticket sales is turned in the club will clear over $200, which will go to buy more plants for your school and city park.

The various committees that have worked to help make this show a success are the following: Mrs. John Witt, president of the club, and Mrs. Charles Verner general chairman, who worked long and tirelessly on general plans and the script.

Thought for the month, "The progress of truth is slower than the growth of oaks, and he who plants need not expect to gather. It is our duty to work and plant today that others may gather the fruit tomorrow."

THANKS WORKERS IN RED CROSS DRIVE

The help of many people over the county in the recent Red Cross drive was greatly appreciated. Without such fine cooperation, the drive would not have been possible. Though we are yet a little short of our quota, our people did pretty well in view of the drought.—Mrs. John Witt, Roll Call chairman.

CARD OF THANKS

The words of sympathy, flowers and cards, and many other acts of kindness during the last illness and on the death of our loved one, Travis Harper, are greatly appreciated. The kindness of our friends in time of sorrow is much comfort. May God richly bless each of you, is our prayer.—The Travis Harper and Claude Harper families.

Why Mercury's New Ball-Joint gives you easier, safer control on curves

Ball-joint front wheel suspension is the newest, most advanced method known to engineers of connecting the front wheels to the chassis.

Instead of stiff "double-hinge" kingpins—used by all other cars in Mercury's price class—Mercury uses ball-and-socket joints, much like those used on rearview mirrors, to permit unrestricted movement in all directions.

They result in virtually friction-free front-wheel motion, up and down over bumps, back and forth around corners. There's no binding or sticking. You have matchless hug-the-road stability on curves, finer control at all times.

And this is just one of the new Mercury features. There's an entirely new 161-horsepower, overhead valve V-8 engine, a complete line of optional power features, new styling front and back, and stunning new interiors. Preacher Speaks At Rotary Club

Rev. Clifford Harris, pastor of the First Baptist Church and a new member of Tahoka Rotary Club, was the speaker at the club luncheon Thursday of last week. Rev. Harris made a very interesting talk on "Our Heritage." He warned against the undesirable influences trying to gain a foothold or to discredit our teachings and our way of life in our schools, government, homes, and churches. He emphasized that we should take pride in these phases of our American heritage, and work against all efforts to infiltrate our institutions with the wrong ideals. Maurice Bray and Calloway Huffaker made brief but enthusiastic talks on the recent Rotary district conference at Childress, which they attended.

President Winston Wharton announced that the club attendance for February was a high 96 percent. Herman Heck was program chairman.

Bureau Backing N. Plains Farmers

Lynn County Farm Bureau last week gave its backing to North Plains farmers who have become the victims of an unusual circumstance, and has asked local representatives in the Legislature to give them relief legislation. During the past few years, North Plains farmers have turned to deep well irrigation. It had become the custom for gas companies having wells on farms to furnish these farmers, many of whom own part of the minerals, gas for operation of irrigation wells. But, last September the gas companies notified farmers they could no longer have the gas.

The gas companies claim all gas now produced has been dedicated to pipeline companies serving Eastern states, and 49 percent of all gas produced in Texas goes for out-of-state consumption. In view of the fact the gas is still being taken from under their own land and in view of the heavy investment these farmers have in 225 to 275 foot water wells, and other wells that may be drilled, and in view of the hardships of the drought, farmers believe they should be allowed sufficient gas to run irrigation wells at a reasonable price. Guy Smith, president, said the local Farm Bureau is backing their efforts to get some kind of settlement by legislative action, or otherwise.

COLORED WOMAN DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Lillie May Gipson, 39, died a little before seven o'clock Thursday morning while being taken to the Tahoka Hospital for treatment for an attack of heart trouble. She had suffered several light attacks previously but her condition was never thought to be critical. A kinsman, T. B. Taylor, started to the hospital with her when the last attack struck her but failed to reach the hospital before death came. For the past few months she had been receiving occasional treatments. Lillie May lived in a little trailer house in the Colored residential district. Funeral arrangements are pending. E. M. Guthrie underwent surgery at Tahoka Hospital Sunday.

Baptist Men Hold Banquet Meeting

The Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church observed "Ladies Night" with a banquet in the school cafeteria on Monday night, which is believed to have been the most largely attended and successful meeting of its kind in the history of the organization.

Dub Fulford, the president, who presided, states that there were a few more than 200 persons in attendance, which included the wives of other relatives of the Brotherhood members and other women of the Church and a few visitors.

The meal was prepared and served under the direction of Edd Hamilton and he was given a vote of thanks for the fine service which he rendered in this respect.

Following the meal, Dr. K. R. Durham, in a speech punctuated with much humor, welcomed the women guests of the Brotherhood, and Mrs. Dub Kenley happily responded.

Piano music was furnished by the Brotherhood pianist, Gordon Smith, and Mrs. Clay Bennett during the meal.

Grady Lankford, the activities vice-president was called upon by President Dub Fulford for a report, and he presented the following recommendations: 1. That posters be printed and distributed throughout the town giving publicity to the Revival services to be conducted in the Church beginning next Sunday; 2. That the Brotherhood promote the holding of All-Night prayer services; 3. That it sponsor a Men's Night; and 4. That it sponsor a Visitation program. These recommendations were adopted.

The pastor, Rev. Clifford Harris, was called upon for a few remarks. After indulging in a few pleasantries which highly entertained the assemblage, he made a very earnest appeal to all the men and women present to give themselves fully to the service of the Lord in the approaching revival campaign.

The president then introduced the program chairman, Urban Brown, who proceeded to introduce the speaker of the evening, Rev. Levi Price, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Monahans and a former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tahoka. The speaker was in a happy mood, as usual, and spent several minutes in relating numerous humorous jokes and stories that were very appropriate to the occasion.

Taking for his subject that strange and striking character of the Old Testament, Elijah, he told the story in truly dramatic fashion, ringing the changes on each peculiar episode and applying the truths to the moral and political conditions of our times. He placed great emphasis on the matter of wickedness in high places and repeatedly asserted that the corruption and flagrant, discreditable practices that prevailed in the palace and the courts of King Ahab have their counterpart in the corruption and wickedness that prevailed in Washington during the administrations of two of our Presidents. Many present thought it the most powerful address ever delivered before the Tahoka Baptist Brotherhood.

The former Tahoka pastor was accompanied by his wife. They left out early Tuesday morning.

Pioneer Citizen Is Back For Visit

Howard H. Harrison of Kalispell, Montana, who worked as a printer for The Lynn County News 48 years ago, was an interesting visitor here this week.

Mr. Harrison was here visiting his cousins, Mrs. Gladys M. Stokes, Mrs. G. R. Milliken, and Mrs. Ward Eakin, and Miss Attybella McGonagill. He remembered only a few oldtimers still living here, among them a couple of fellows who were then "young bucks," Walter Slaton and Hall Robinson.

He recalled that he came to Lynn County in 1906 and lived here about a year and a half, farming east of town and working on the side at a typesetter hand-spiking type for The Lynn County News, which then occupied a little frame building.

The late Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Crie and Mrs. Crie's brother, Chris L. Adair, were then operating the paper, which had been started on Oct. 8, 1903 by Inez and Otis Lilly. After publishing the paper for a while, the Lillys sold out to another man, who abandoned the plant. After a suspension of a few months, the Cries and Adair gathered up the type, which had been piled, and the equipment which kids had scattered over town, and revived the paper.

After leaving Tahoka, Mr. Harrison wound up in Montana, and became publisher of his own news paper at Bridger. He was appointed postmaster at Bridger in about 1935, and his late wife continued to operate the newspaper for another five years. Mr. Harrison served as postmaster for 17 years, retiring two years ago and moving to Kalispell.

Since moving away, he had visited in Tahoka only once, that being in 1935.
