Abernathy Game Is Feature Of Reunion

THS Homecoming Program Today

Homecoming activities will begin Friday at 1:00 p. m. with a program honoring ex-students and ex-teachers in the high school auditorium. Travis Shelton, district attorney from Lubbock, will be the main speaker.

Shelton is a 1939 graduate from Tahoka High School and is an ex-Bulldog letterman. Garland Huddleston, president of the student council which is sponsoring the program, will give the welcome to the exes and Mrs. Duane Carter will give the response. Dub Fulford will give the invocation. Musical numbers will make out the rest of the program.

Immediately following the program, a coke and coffee party will be held for the Exes in the school cafeteria. At 6:00 p. m. the Bulldog Mothers organization will honor ex-lettermen with a similar party also to be held in the cafeteria. Ex-football lettermen attending the event will be given free tickets to the evening's football game between the Tahoka Bulldogs and Abernathy Antelopes.

A free ticket will also be given to the oldest ex-student present and to the one that has come the longest distance to attend the occasion.

Preceding the football game, the football queen will be crowned by the 1954 squadmen. Candidates for the honor are Ann Reasonover, Susie Smith, and Sue Sargent. Identity of the queen will be kept secret until coronation ceremonies.

A business meeting of the Ex-Students Association will be held during the afternoon's reunion party, which will include election of officers, and the adoption of a constitution for the organization.

Cards are not being sent out this year because of insufficient funds and lack of addresses, according to Mrs. Jake Jacobs, president of the Association.

Other officers of the group consist of Ray Adams, vice president; Mrs. Gravel Ayers, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. O. C. Elliott, reporter.

Big Crowd At Grassland Meet

Fully one hundred people from Tahoka attended the annual Grassland community party Thursday night of last week held in the school auditorium for benefit of the Grassland school lunchroom. Tickets sold in Tahoka totaled 108, and several Tahoka people bought tickets at the door.

There were also, in addition to the big crowd of Grassland people a number from Post and other communities present.

A talent show had been planned as a part of the program, but was dispensed with because of too many conflicts, and the crowd enjoyed an evening of visiting.

Music was furnished by W. H. Norman's string band, which is composed of himself, John Fondy of Slaton, T. L. Weaver of Southland, and Joe Burkett of Draw. Miss Pearl Craig of the Garnolia community vocalized on several of the numbers.

Served cafeteria style in the gymnasium was a delicious meal of barbecue beef, ranch style beans, potato salad, onions, pickles, relish, home made pie, coffee, and tea.

The ladies of the community did a wonderful job in arranging and carrying out the affair, and a nice sum of money was raised to support the school lunchroom program.

Monticello was the name of Thomas Jefferson's home.

THS Homecoming Program Today

Abernathy Antelopes come to Tahoka tonight for a 5-AA conference game to determine which team stays in the race for the district title.

Having been tied 13-13 last week by Post, Tahoka's Bulldogs must win this one to remain in the running. Next week, Tahoka goes to Slaton, and then rests a week before meeting Spur here.

The Bulldogs, plagued by injuries for several weeks, will not be in to shape for tonight's game. Don Reed was added to the injured list this week with a bruised shoulder, and Garland Huddleston is badly bruised up.

L. W. Castleberry received a chipped bone in the foot at Post and will see no more football action. Tackle Duane McMillan, who missed the Post game because of an injured leg, may see limited action.

Today is Tahoka Homecoming day, and the Bulldogs hope to rise up to the occasion.

Abernathy, as usual, will be a pretty tough customer. The Antelopes had an open date last week, like Post the week before, to get ready for the Bulldogs, and Slaton is idle this week to prepare for Tahoka.

The Antelopes are opening their conference season tonight. They have won four games, over Tulsa 33 to 0, Mimmitt 6 to 0, Floydada 20 to 13, and Lockney 49 to 0. They have lost only to Olton 0 to 12 and Sundown 14 to 34.

The Bulldogs have won four, lost two, and tied one.

Coach Royal James of Abernathy has an experienced backfield in Lawrence Barron, halfback, 140; Roy Sons, fullback, 155; Fred Apperson, quarterback, 155; and George Willis, halfback, 155.

Linemen include: Leon Manley, 155, and Duane Reeves, 160, centers or guard; Dale Powell, 155, and Jesse Ramos, 150; Jimmy Lewis, 160, Larry Monk, 173, and Billy Deering, 170, tackles; Ralph Wolf, 160, Manny Connell, 150, and Mario Ramos, 155, ends.

Mahon To Talk At New Home

Congressman George Mahon will speak before a community meeting at New Home school next Monday night. The meeting is being sponsored by New Home Civic Club.

Everyone is cordially welcome. The program at 8 p. m. to be held in the gymnasium, is open to all. However, the Civic Club dinner at 7 p. m. requires a $1.00 admission.

Roberts Resigns Teaching Job

John A. Roberts, teacher of science in Tahoka High School for about ten years, resigned this week to devote his full time to farming, according to Supt. Otis Spears.

Arthur B. Tenney, the new teacher of history here this year, has taken over Mr. Roberts' science classes.

J. C. Koen of Lubbock, who taught at Morton last year, is the new history teacher. Mr. Koen holds B. A. and M. A. degrees.

FRATERNITY PLEDGES
Among the pledges in Sigma Nu fraternity at Texas Tech, announced this week, are Douglas Coffee and Noah Lee Cromer, both of Tahoka.

Miss Villa Phillips was a patient in the Tahoka Hospital two or three days the first of the week suffering from some minor ailment.

Tahoka Ginning Total At 10,000

Tahoka ginnings for 1954 totaled 10,003 bales up to 12 noon Thursday, according to reports made by the five gins to The News.

The News estimates that about 50,000 bales have been ginned to date in the county.

The price has gone down slightly the last two or three weeks, about $5.00 a bale, but farmers are receiving less than early in the season principally because of lower grades.

A light shower Wednesday delayed harvest of crops, but no frost or freeze of any consequence has come to this section yet. Tahoka's average frost date is Nov. 7.

TWO ARE INDUCTED

The Selective Service Board at Lubbock announced the following inductees from Lynn county: Sammy Charles Davis and Harrell Harvey Line.

Golf Club Meeting Is Tuesday Night

All Lynn county citizens interested in the formation of a golf and country club are invited and urged to attend a mass meeting Tuesday night of next week at 7:30 o'clock at the Legion Hall in Tahoka.

A centrally located 125-acre tract of land has been made permanently available to the citizens of Lynn county as a park, golf course, airport, and general recreation center.

Tentative plans for formation of a country club open to all citizens of the county have been formulated by a group of men who have been working on the proposition for several weeks.

Tuesday night, these plans will be discussed, other ideas heard, and a permanent organization formed to develop the plans.

In fact, work has already been started on the golf course part of the project.

Fairways for nine holes have been staked off, and locations staked for the bent-grass greens by a committee composed of J. E. "Red" Brown, O. C. Elliott, Lester Strech, Bill Griffin, Jack Alley Robinson, Rebel Thomas, and Jim Applewhite.

Fairways will be seeded to rye grass immediately, and Bermuda grass will be set out next spring. There will also be a driving range and a putting green, these men say. A temporary club house, trees and shrubs, and picnic units are also in the plans. Equipment has been secured for the drilling of some water wells, and technical advice is being given free by a golf course expert.

There will be sufficient space available for an adequate airport with two or three landing strips, and the northeast part of the tract is being set aside for possible development by other clubs and civic organizations, if they desire, such as women's clubs, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, veterans organizations, etc. At least one organization is already considering moving to the site.

Many people are expressing interest in projects although no campaign of any kind has been started as yet. These people include citizens of New Home, Wilson, Grassland, O'Donnell, and other sections of the county. Those making plans hope it will be a true county-wide project.

Officers will be elected and details of membership and finance will be worked out at Tuesday night's meeting. Everyone who is interested in more recreation for the people of Lynn county is asked to attend and bring a neighbor.

General Election On Tuesday, 11 Amendments Up For Vote

Halt Called On Sale Of Wares On Streets

Selling of merchandise on the public square in Tahoka will be prohibited in the future, and street-peddlers will be required to pay the city occupation tax.

The Lynn County Commissioners' Court passed an order on Monday "prohibiting the selling of used clothing and other merchandise on the court house square without first receiving a permit from the City."

The City of Tahoka occupation tax, which is required of street peddlers, is $50.00. The News is informed.

Several falls in years past, and even more so this fall, the court house lawn has become a public market jammed and littered with second hand clothing, and even vegetables, groceries, and hardware. Most of these sellers of merchandise on the square have been local individuals and organizations seeking to raise a little money by selling discarded clothing to the fall influx of harvest hands.

But, this fall, things have gotten out of hand and the court yard has become a junk yard on individuals from other towns bringing in merchandise for sale and paying taxes, rent or contributing anything else to the community.

The last two or three Saturdays, merchants from Lubbock and Amarillo even, have unloaded merchandise on the public square on tables and racks and hanging from trees and from wires stretched between trees. At night, when

Fire Damages Cotton House

Fire late Wednesday afternoon did an estimated $8,000 damage to a cotton house at Alex Sanders gin, at Wayside, 12 miles north of Tahoka.

Tahoka and Slaton fire departments went to the fire, but were hampered in fighting the blaze by shortage of water.

The cotton house is said to have contained about 25 bales of cotton. Most of the loss is covered by insurance.

Absentee Voting To End Today

Today, Friday, Oct. 29, is the last day for casting of an absentee ballot in the General Election of Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Only a very few had cast absentee ballots up until Thursday, according to Mrs. Beulah Fridmore, County Clerk, with whom such votes must be cast.

ATTENDS CANCER CLINIC
Dr. Emil Prohl returned home Thursday from Houston, where he attended a Cancer Clinic.

The Empire State Building is 102 stories (1,250 ft.) high.

Little interest has been generated in the General Election being held over Texas next Tuesday, when voters will elect officers and pass on 11 amendments to the Texas Constitution.

As far as the slate of officials is concerned, in most areas, the men to fill most of the offices was decided in the Democratic primaries, this still being a one-party state.

However, a little added interest has developed in Justice precinct one of Lynn county with two men running for the office of Justice of the Peace.

A few weeks ago, the Democratic nominee for the office, Dee Sanders, died. The County Committee met and certified the name of his opponent, C. A. Clem, as the nominee. Since that time, Sam Reid has become a write-in candidate for the office.

The 11 constitutional amendments should be of vital interest to every voter. They were reviewed in The News last week.

Very briefly, they are:

1. Four year term of office for all district, county and precinct offices.

2. Makes possible creation of county-wide hospitals in counties of 180,000 or more population.

3. State employee retirement pensions.

4. Would permit transfer of Confederate pension fund to a state building fund.

5. Permit women to serve on juries.

6. Allow legislature to fix salaries of state officers and raise Legislators pay to $25.00 per day.

7. Bars state from building or helping toll road projects.

8. Increased payments to needy aged, and blind children.

9. Allows legislature to pass law and appropriation for Social Security to state-employees.

10. Provides a vote for qualified men in military service.

11. Provides for tax assessor-collector in counties of less than 10,000 population.

WHAT IS COST

Did you ever figure the cost of employing a commercial engineer to stake your stock ponds, terraces, waterways, irrigation land leveling, etc.? A friend of one of your supervisors who owns land in a neighboring county did not know the county had a Soil Conservation District so he engaged the county engineering staff to stake out pond. The cost was $60.00 which covered only the original staking and did not cover checking after complete, neither did the engineer give any consideration to desirable location, water-holding capacity and numerous other important features necessary for a good stock pond. Please remember all this and more too is free to members of the Lynn County Soil Conservation District. We feel it takes experiences like this to make some of us place the proper value on our membership. Stubble Mulch Farming from wind erosion. Falling snow will be caught in the stubble and remain to add moisture instead of drifting up on the fence rows and in the roads. The bombardment fall of hard rain will be checked by the sorghum cover and will not break down the topsoil particles. Stubble should be left on top of the ground in order to increase the organic matter content of the soil. For we remember, that our soil was made by decaying organic matter collecting on top of the ground and decomposing to form our top soil.

There are so many things that the stubble can do for you, if left on top of the ground, that it seems to be a good management practice to maintain your stubble as cover. How many of the following advantages, which are associated with the practice of leaving stubble on top of the ground, would one expect to find where the stubble or other crop residue had been disposed of or turned under? (1) Covers up soil to prevent raindrop splash, (2) reduces velocity of wind at ground surface, (3) reduces velocity of runoff, or prevents runoff, (4) Maintains litter on the ground to reduce evaporation, (5) Keeps soil open instead of allowing crust to form which would stop air circulation in the soil. (6) maintains cover on the ground to control soil temperature. The above are some of the beneficial effects of proper stubble management which are often overlooked in the hur-

The Reformation

October 31 has come to be regarded as the birthday of the Protestant Reformation. It was on that day, in 1517, that Martin Luther nailed his 95 sentences on the door of the Castle Church in Wittenberg.

What was Martin Luther's great discovery? It was the cardinal doctrine to the Bible: "Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith, without the deeds of the law," Romans 3:28.

For hundreds of years the established church had taught that man was saved by faith plus deeds. Luther discovered that the Bible taught salvation alone by faith.

"By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God, not of works, lest any man should boast." Ephesians 2:8. Also Romans 11:16.

It was the Reformation of Martin Luther that once more brought this fundamental Bible doctrine into the light of day. Protestant America will have fallen on evil days, when once it surrenders one jot of this primary doctrine of the Christian faith.

ry to clear the land and turn under crop residue. The tilth of the soil, the nutrient availability, the organic matter content are all increased more by leaving the crop residue on the surface to decompose in nature's own good time instead of being buried under the surface to draw on the soil nutrients, needed by the plant, to aid in decomposition.

Suggestions for November
1. Plant winter-cover crops, vetch, peas. 2. Maintain terraces by proper plowing. 3. Level land for better irrigation water application. 4. Terrace before fall crops are planted. 5. Plant winter pasture crops, oats, rye, vetch. 6. Do not overlook planting cool season grasses. 7. Install concrete pipe for more efficient use of irrigation water. 8. Maintain stubble on top of the ground. 9. Stop by the local SCS office and talk over your plans with the SCS technicians.

NEPHEW OF OLIVERS ILL WITH THE POLIO

Glenn Oliver, 42, an Amarillo building contractor and a nephew of C. T. and J. B. Oliver of Tahoka, is now believed to be recovering slowly from the polio. He was stricken on Oct. 13, and was in a critical condition for several days. Doctors believe he has a good chance to recover completely.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Oliver visited him last week end. This is the third time polio has stricken a member of the Oliver family. The J. B. Oliver's son, Bobby George, died of the disease two or three years ago, and their daughter of Sgt. and Mrs. Joe Rainold, is still undergoing treatment and has had more than one operation as the result of a polio attack.

BOY SCOUTS TO TEACH WATERFRONT SKILLS

Included in this year's budget for the South Plains Council, Boy Scouts of America, are funds for providing equipment to teach canoeing and row boating, according to Joe T. Salem, Council president.

"Since no organization is teaching canoeing and row boating, the Executive Board of the Council has decided to set up aquatic camps for the purpose of teaching Scouts and Explorers how to handle canoes and row boats properly and safely," he said. The proposed budget includes $2,000 for the purchase of 8 canoes and 8 row boats. They will be made of aluminum, and trailers will be built so that these facilities will be portable and aquatic camps can be set up wherever sufficient water is readily available.

"Certainly every boy must know his swimming and life-saving, canoeing and row boating in order to take care of himself and others under all circumstances," Salem said.

The drive for funds for operating the 20-county South Plains Council will be conducted during the months of October and November. W. R. Sewell of Lubbock is Chairman of the Council's Finance Committee.

Supt. Spears Discusses Local School Finances

Tahoka school finances are in good shape, the cost of educating a child in Tahoka is much lower than in most surrounding communities, a report by Supt. Otis Spears shows.

In the article which follows, Mr. Spears presents a clear and concise statement of the Tahoka school situation in regard to cost, valuation and taxes, and transportation, and reveals that the lunchroom and athletics programs are entirely self-sustaining.

Cost Compared
For the biennium 1950-51, 1951-52, cost per student in average daily attendance in some of the schools in this area was:

Abernathy	$217.35
Andrews	367.85
Coahoma	531.01
Crosbyton	214.71
Crane	379.75
Post	228.53
Sundown	476.59
Whiteface	470.51
TAHOKA	199.48
National average	240.00

September 1, 1951, Tahoka Independent School district owed $9,200 to the First National Bank, and owed several hundred dollars more for supplies, September 1, 1954, the school owed no bills and had $2,672.39 in the Local Maintenance Fund in the bank.

Tax values for the past four years:

1951-52	$5,087,949
1952-53	6,080,151
1953-54	6,050,000
1954-55	6,678,030

Lynn County CHECKERBOARD NEWS

by Dale Thuren

YOUR HENS CAN FEED YOUR PULLETS

How are your old hens laying right now? In flocks we've seen 20% or 30% of the old hens could be culled without the owner missing a single egg. Don't you think it's time to cull out the loafers from your flock?

Those loafers are eating feed that your pullets need. If you don't know how to cull, we will be glad to do it for you. We do all kinds of poultry service work: culling, worming, vaccinating at a minimum charge. Come in and make an appointment for a time convenient to both of us. We will market your culls for you.

HEALTH HINT

We hate to think that some of the chows we sell go to feed worms. That can happen, though, if you don't have a good plan for worming pullets. And that's also why we say to worm those pullets at 10-12 weeks and again before they go into the laying house. Ask us for CHEK-R-TON granules or CHEK-R-TON next time you are in.

Some of you folks in the country may have been surprised to see Ronnie Browning, our "right hand man," out to visit you lately. We hope to visit you at your "place of business" more often in the future. We hope we can be of more service to you in this way.

Explains Tax Increase

The increase in Taxes this year was necessary for several reasons:

1. Because of the drought, the attendance for the 1953-54 term of school was down some 110 pupils. Because of this fact and because the quota of teachers is based on the average daily attendance of the year before, the school this year, 1954-55, would have had four fewer teachers than we had last year.

When the 1954-55 budget was made last spring, the prospects for crops were good. The board voted to include in the budget enough money to hire two extra teachers, in order to take care of the anticipated increase in enrollment which they felt certain would come with a good crop. Time has proven the board was correct in its assumption that extra teachers would be needed. The enrollment is now about 150 greater than at this time last year. The two extra teachers have been employed, but some classes are still over-crowded at least one room having an enrollment of over 50. The state will not assume the added cost of these two teachers until we hold this attendance figure for three months.

Law Increases Salaries

2. In a special session of the legislature last spring, a bill was passed increasing the salaries of teachers in the public schools of the state. Although most of the increase comes from state funds, the local district is still held responsible for a part. In the case of the Tahoka Independent School, the increase will cost $2,650.00. This is not much, considering the fact that 37 teachers are getting an increase in salary.

3. In 1951, the Commissioners Court of Lynn County found that it was necessary to increase the state and county values in order to have enough money to operate the county business. This increase in values affected schools of the county in this manner: State money for the schools depends on the state and county values in the county. In other words, as the state and county values increase, the state money for the school decreases. The first year after the state and county values were increased, the Tahoka Independent School received $13,000 less money from the state than it did the year before, as has been the case every year since. This $13,000 loss in state money has been absorbed by the

State Pays Transportation

When the Gilmer-Akin Laws went into effect in 1949, local schools were prohibited from, (1) allowing students who lived less than two miles from school to ride the bus, and (2) leaving the regular bus route to pick up a student who lived less than three-fourths of a mile off the route. These items are no longer directly prohibited by the schools, but the state will not pay the transportation cost on children so transported. So, in order to qualify for as much state money as possible, the local board has adhered as closely as possible to the original state regulations. Not only would it take local tax money to drive to the doorsteps of all bus patrons but the time element would be a pretty big factor also. If the buses made all the sidetrips off the regular route to pick up riders, it would take from thirty minutes to an hour longer to make the bus runs.

The transportation fund is in good shape at the present time, with all equipment paid for.

There is enough money in the fund to pay for a new 54-passenger bus ordered earlier in the year and to be delivered about the first of November. A new bus costs about $3200 and has a useful life of about five or six years. At the end of that time, repairs usually run so high that it is cheaper to buy a new bus. A six-year-old bus will bring from $200 to $500 on the open market.

Up to this time, the Tahoka Public School has not had to spend any tax money on the transportation program, it being entirely financed from state funds.

Athletics Pays Way

At the beginning of the season in 1951, the athletic department was $4,000 in the "red". When the 1954 season started, there was a bank balance of $359.54 and all bills were paid. During these three years not one cent of tax money has been spent on athletics. The department to date has been entirely self-sustaining.

Football receipts account for the greater part of the income, with basketball about breaking even, with tennis and track bringing in no income at all. This year about 150 boys and girls from the seventh grade through high school are participating in organized athletics.

The cost of outfitting these athletes for a game ranges from $1.90 for three tennis balls for a tennis player to $100 to outfit a varsity football player.

Lunchroom Pays Way

The school furnishes quarters for the program, and pays the utilities, but all the other expenses come from the sale of lunches and from Federal reimbursement of about 5 cents per lunch served.

All equipment used in preparing and serving the food is bought with lunchroom funds, and not out of local tax funds.

Participation has grown from an average of 400 per day last year to about 500 this year.

Huffakers Observe 50th Anniversary

On Sunday, Oct. 24, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Huffaker Sr. celebrated their fiftieth anniversary by holding open house in their home.

Over two hundred guests were registered by Mr. and Mrs. Huffaker and their family, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Huffaker, of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Calloway Huffaker and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Huffaker of Tahoka, and Mr. Peyton Reece, son-in-law, of Littlefield.

The house was beautifully decorated throughout with arrangements given by friends of the Huffakers.

Old fashioned pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Huffaker were flanked at mirror behind the serving table. These were pictures of them shortly before they were married.

A white cut-work linen table cloth with gold beneath was used on the serving table. The flowers were gold mums and snapdragons in old fashioned balancing scales with dark green velvet at the base with the dates 1904-1954 in gold. A beautiful three-tiered cake adorned the center of the table with a huge crystal-punch-bowl at end from which yellow punch was served by the following ladies at hour intervals: Mrs. Irving Stewart, Mrs. C. E. Woodworth, Mrs. Howard Ford of Lubbock, Mrs. Charles Walden of Lamesa, Mrs. Roy Edwards, Mrs. H. W. Carter, Mrs. Harold Green, and Miss Jane Morehead. Others assisting in the house party were the grand sons and granddaughters of the Huffakers and Mrs. Charlie Campbell of Wilson, Mrs. Jim Johnson of Lubbock, Mrs. Wilmer Vardeman of Lubbock, and Mrs. Presley Shaffner of Levelland.

S. S. Authority Will Speak Here

Dr. William P. Phillips, who for well over a quarter of a century was with the Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tennessee, will speak at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning. Dr. Phillips knows Sunday School work as well as any living man today. He went to the Sunday School Board when a young man, and has led in the forming of the Adult Department, Young People's Department, and Extension Department of Sunday School work in the Sunday School convention.

He is now retired and living in Tyler. We feel that he is very fortunate to secure him to help our workers, states Rev. Clifford Harris, pastor.

Monday through Thursday nights, he will speak at the church to all the Sunday School workers and any others who are interested in Sunday School on "Building a Standard Sunday School." The services will begin each evening at 7:30. The Nursery will be open. Sunday school workers from any other church in the community are welcome to attend.

The Plans committee, after working out some changes seemed necessary to provide for all departments of the Sunday school delivered them into the hands of Architect Brasher in Lubbock. Mr. Brasher said that in a few days he will have a drawing of what the building will look like ready for the church's approval. When the church approves these, working blueprints will be prepared from which the construction will proceed.

VOTE FOR THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

C. A. CLEM

For Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1

TO THE VOTERS OF LYNN COUNTY:

You will recall that C. A. Clem and Dee Sanders were candidates in the July Democratic Primary election for this office. Mr. Sanders, a respected pioneer citizen of this county, won out over Mr. Clem by a narrow margin. Unfortunately, he died a few weeks ago.

As provided by law, the Lynn County Democratic Committee, composed of one outstanding and respected citizen from each voting precinct, met to appoint a nominee from the party for the office of Justice of the Peace, Prec't. 1. Both Mr. Clem and Mr. Reid were applicants for the nomination. The County Committee voted unanimously to have Mr. Clem's name placed on the ballot as the Democratic nominee.

Now, Mr. Reid is seeking the office as a write-in candidate, which he has a perfect right to do.

However, we the friends of Mr. Clem, feel that Mr. Clem not only is the best qualified man but also that he deserves our vote. In the first place, He wanted the job bad enough to make a campaign for it in the accepted manner. Secondly, he was selected as the nominee of our party. And, third, If Mr. Reid had wanted the office, why did he not run for the office in the first primary as a Democrat or seek the nomination of the Republicans or Independents or something else?

We believe most of you will cast your vote next Tuesday for the nominee of the Democratic Party—C. A. Clem.

A. D. Bush, New Lynn, Mystery Farm Owner

A. B. Bush of New Lynn, eight miles east and a mile north of Tahoka, is the owner of Mystery Farm No. 16, pictured above.

Hubert Edwards of New Lynn was the first rural reader to identify the place, and Borden Davis beat out H. E. Mock for the first city reader to guess the place correctly.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bush were reared at Cooper, Delta county. Mrs. Bush's maiden name was Alice Wallace. They have one son, Thurman, who lives in California.

The couple moved out to Roscoe in 1928 and farmed one place, owned by P. A. Smith, there for 11 years. They had been hearing about what good country Lynn county was, and came out here in 1945 and bought the present farm home of 160 acres.

Mr. Bush also farms about 100 acres of irrigated land for Judge Tom Garrard. From this irrigated tract, he has already picked 49 bales from 64 acres and believes he will get close to 90 bales in the end.

His dry land farm was irrigated for about two years, but his well played out. This year, his dry land crop is much better than average and he expects to harvest about a half bale per acre from it. His feed crop also turned out pretty good.

Mr. Bush says that in 1947, he sold more cotton and cottonseed from his dry land place than the land cost him two years before.

He had a pretty good irrigated crop in 1950, following which he and Mrs. Bush built the nice farm residence shown in the picture.

He thinks Lynn county is a great country. Given just a little rain at the right time, the dirt farmer will do OK.

V. F. W. Program On November 11

Tahoka VFW Post is planning a special observance here on the courthouse square on November 11 with a Memorial program at 9 a. m. and retreat at 6 p. m., according to N. T. Conner, Post commander.

Henceforth, November 11 will be known as Veterans' Day instead as Armistice Day, this change having been made by act of Congress and by the President.

Originally, Armistice Day was in observance of the end of World War I on November 11, 1918. Now, it will become an observance of the end of all wars, for the promotion of peace, and more directly to honor the veterans of all wars.

Further plans for the program will possibly be made known next week.

Mr. Conner says the District Seven Comander, E. B. Blumberg of Post, and his staff recently inspected the local post and commented very favorably on its activities, membership, attendance records, etc.

Street Sales . . .

The poachers left, they left the court house lawn and the streets of Tahoka littered with trash trees scarred, grass worn off, shrubs damaged—all of which must be repaired at cost to all taxpayers.

But, most of all, the practice has been unfair to Lynn county businessmen, who are liberal in their contributions to civic enterprises, churches, and charity, who pay taxes or rent on buildings and must each tie up thousands of dollars in stock and fixtures in order to operate businesses on which the community must depend. The home merchant helps pay the cost of our schools, our county and city government, while the peddler helps none of these institutions that make Lynn county a decent place in which to live. They even pay taxes for upkeep of the ground and streets on which the peddlers display merchandise in competition to the legitimate merchant.

When Lubbock and Amarillo began to unload on Tahoka, local business men could stand it no longer. They appealed to the County Commissioners and the City of Tahoka, and the above mentioned orders were passed. Most merchants have no objection to charitable organizations peddling used merchandise on the streets and the square, but the thing has gone too far and they do not believe the court house or the public square was ever intended as a public market. Therefore, the County will prohibit the display or sale of merchandise on the square without a permit from the City, and the City has decided to close down on such selling unless the sidewalk merchant buys a $50.00 occupation tax permit. Even the local merchants who pay property taxes are not allowed to pile up their merchandise on the sidewalks, and no one in authority believes others should be allowed to do so.

Tahoka-Post Game Ends In 13-13 Tie

The fired-up Post Antelopes tied the crippled and over-confident Tahoka Bulldogs 13-13 before a home-coming crowd in the Post stadium last Friday night.

The Antelopes out-played and out-hustled the Bulldogs, and the tie was a moral victory for Post. Post has not won a game from Tahoka in recent years.

Although Post led in penetrations and in first downs, the game will go into the records of District 5-AA as a half game lost and a half game won by each team. This district has such an agreement on tie ball games, unless the two are tied for the district championship, in which case the penetration and first down rules may come into effect, contrary to reports elsewhere.

Since Spur and Slaton also tied 13-13 Friday night, these two teams are also in this category, and any one of the four may win the championship by taking its remaining three conference games.

Tahoka lost the ball four times on fumbles as compared to only one such loss by Post, and this was a big factor in the game.

The Bulldogs scored both its touchdowns in the first quarter, and appeared to have the game well in hand, but Post came right back to score once in the second and once in the third. The Bulldogs were never able to get a successful drive underway after the first quarter.

First Quarter

Post kicked off to Tahoka. Franklin returned the kick from the 7 to the 29, and the Bulldogs were unstopped until they reached pay-dirt. Williams and Melton alternated with Franklin in carrying the ball. Williams turning in one 29 yard run and Melton a 21 yard run. From the three yard line, Melton went over for the first TD, but his kick was no good. Score, Tahoka, 6-0.

Post's Murray took Huddleston's kick-off from the 12 to the 30, but the Antelopes were set back to the 15 on a penalty, and three downs later were forced to kick. Three plays and a 5-yard penalty lost from the Post 46 to the Tahoka 41, and Melton punted 31 yards. Post made a first on two runs by Norman and Murray to the Tahoka 47, but the Antelopes fumbled and Ware High covered to set up Tahoka's other TD. Two plays later, Smith went 50 yards to score, Melton's kick was good. Score, Tahoka 13-0.

Second Quarter

Post's first successful touchdown drive, started late in the first quarter moved from the Post 44 to the Tahoka 39, from this point, Murray passed to Gates, the play going for 39 yards and a score. Norman's kick was good, and Tahoka led only 13-7.

Tahoka couldn't go, hampered by three penalties in one series of downs, and lost the ball on a fumble. Post's Davis recovering on the Tahoka 34. Post made it a first to the 21, but drew a 15 yard penalty and three plays later was forced to punt. The fast charging Antelope line stopped the Bulldogs cold, and Melton punted from the 9 to the 45. On two first downs, Post moved to Tahoka's 18 with Murray, Kennedy, and Gates carrying, but there the half ended after three incomplete passes.

Third Quarter

Post couldn't go, then Tahoka lost the ball (Davis covering) on a fumble on its own 38 Norman made 20 to the 18, Gates added 11 yards, along with a thrust by Gary, and Gary went 5 yards for Post's second TD and the last of the ball game. Norman's kick was no good, and the game was tied 13-13.

Fourth Quarter

Post drove from its own 45 to Tahoka's 10, from which point a field goal attempt was blocked by Ware High. Tahoka moved out to the 42, but fumbled again and Post's Gates recovered on the Tahoka 39. Three plays lost ground, and Jimmy Williams blocked a Post punt on the Post 44. Melton, Smith and Elair moved down to the 22 to set up a threat, but here Tahoka fumbled again and Cato covered for Post. The Antelopes promptly moved out to the Tahoka 40 where the ball went over on downs on a fourth down attempt at running the ball. The Bulldogs had one more dim chance, but four downs only netted 7 yards, and Post was in possession as the final gun sounded.

Bulldogs Injured

Post deserved the tie it got, but it is true that the Tahoka team was badly crippled with injuries. Stalwart tackle, Duane McMillan, was unable to play at all

Odds AND Ends

(BY E. I. THE ELDER)

Yes, folks, I've been running around again, but this time I didn't go far.

My daughter Myrtle Rochelle and my grand-daughter Anita Jo Rochelle of Lubbock and I made another visit Sunday October 17 with our New Mexico friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Williamson of Pep, N. M. I don't know how that place got its name, but it is a small berg on a big ranch. In fact, I have never seen the berg, for it is several miles from the Williamson home which is situated on the big ranch. I think I told the few readers of this Column something about that ranch and its owners soon after a former visit I made with the Williamsons. The ranch itself is an interesting one but the Williamsons are far more interesting. If you remember, I told you following that first visit I made with them several months ago that away back yonder in the misty past Mr. Williamson and I were school-mates in the old Thomas Arnold at Salado for three consecutive years, and later we were fellow-students and room mates in Austin while attending the University of Texas. That does not mean, however, that we were on an equal footing as students. Not only was A. L. much more intellectual and studious than I ever was but he attended college longer than I did. He came out of the University a real scholar, an educational status that I lacked several flights of scholarship stairs of ever attaining. Nevertheless, we were fast friends even in those early days. Some time after his graduation at the University of Texas, he was head of the public school at Benpamin, a little county-seat town away down below the caprock, and a fine young lady was his assistant. Some years afterwards she became his wife. Soon after Mr. Williamson and I left the University, we went separate ways, and I never saw him again until last year. And it was then that I first met his accomplished and cultured wife. They are one of the finest couples I have ever known.

I never knew until last year that some time after his graduation at the University, Mr. Williamson went to the City of Mexico and spent three months in that city. So, he learned much about Mexico before I knew scarcely anything about it. I do not remember that I asked him what year he went to Mexico City but it must have been fully fifty years ago. I think he saw some of the great pyramids then—some fifty years before I ever saw them. If he saw old Popocatepetl, the "smoking mountain, and his bride, Izacacihuil, reclining at his side; the Maximilian Castle on Chapultepec Hill; Xocamilco, the floating gardens; the Cathedral of Mexico; Zocals and Alameda Park—and I am sure he saw most of these sights—he saw them fifty years before I did. I think he told me that he didn't see, Acapulco, the great pleasure resort on the shores of the Pacific; nor the scenic little city of Taxco, near which are rich silver mines of southern Mexico; nor the great pyramid and the little city of Cholula, where formerly there were 365 Catholic churches; one for every day in the year. I am not sure that the great Independence Monument had been erected fifty years ago, nor that tall, slender monument erected in memory of Cuauhtemoc, the last king of the Aztecs. I am not sure that he visited Cuernavaca, one of Mexico's most historic little cities; nor Puebla on the eastern range of the Sierra Madre Mountains, and the great irrigation system covering many thousands of acres of land built hundreds of years ago and still in use, producing immense crops of maize and fruits, and other field crops, with beautiful Mount Malinche raising her crown high toward the heavens to the northeast of the city, and the two companionate mountains of Popocatepetl and Ixcassihual rising majestic toward the heavens far to the southwest of Puebla the former piercing the snows with his pointed peak and the latter sleeping under a heavy blanket of snow at his side. I saw all these sights and many others, but I never did get out to the second largest city in Mexico, Guadalajara, nor to the new volcano, Paracutin, that broke loose in a prosperous hombre's field in Jalisco state several years ago, ruined his crops, buried a village or two, and scared the socks off of thousands of people in the vicinity.

If I were about ten years younger and a few dollars richer and had somebody to drive my car over the mountains for me, I think I surely would see Guadalajara yet—and also just a lot of other scenic places. I am sure that there are a few other countries on the face of this globe that are more scenic than Mexico, but I have never seen them.

I know that while my friend A. L. Williamson was in Mexico some fifty years ago he learned much about the religious beliefs and practices of the Mexican people of that day, but more especially of far more ancient days. He learned that Quetzalcoatl, the mysteryman and the chief god of the Toltecs, in time became the chief god of one time or another and by one name or another of all the Indians that had occupied Mexico. So far as known by civilized men today, the first herds of Indians that swept into Mexico were the Toltecs. Their first capital or headquarters was at Tula somewhere to the north of the present city of Mexico and not far away. Where they came from and when they came, nobody knows. But there was a legend which Indians accepted as true that Quetzalcoatl had come from the land of the rising sun. Whether he is supposed to have led the Toltecs into Mexico or to have appeared as their leader after they had come into the country, is too hazy a theory to be determined now. But it is generally agreed that it was the Toltecs who built the great pyramids at Teotihuacan thirty miles northeast of the present city of Mexico and the great pyramid at Cholula some seventy miles east of Mexico City. In Yucatan and probably in Tabasco and Guatemala, Quetzalcoatl was generally known at first as Ku-Kul-Kan, it seems, and in those states many shrines and small pyramids and teocalis (temples) had been built, but whether they were built by the Toltecs or the Mayas is still an unsettled question. There is one theory that the Maya civilization flourished earlier in Yucatan and Chiapas and Guatemala than did the Toltec civilization further north.

Regardless of the matter as to which of these civilizations, the Toltec or the Maya, flourished first, or whether they flourished simultaneously, the Toltecs seem to have been more numerous or more wide-spread throughout Mexico than the Mayas, but for some unknown reason, the predominance of each culture in its own special territory, seems to have come to a rather sudden end.

Quetzalcoatl was symbolized as a feathered serpent or "plumed serpent," bearing the plumes of a quetzal bird, which was regarded as sacred in Guatemala, the god of air and wind and water and life; also the god of Venus, of love and kindness and sympathy, and he was strongly opposed to human sacrifices practiced by many Indian tribes. He was represented as having long, white beard and a white skin and wore a white tunic. He was reputed to have come from the land of the rising sun. Then suddenly he made his departure, and immediately all sorts of misfortunes began to overtake the Toltecs, the worst of which was the appearance of the war-like Aztecs, who proceeded to drive out and to kill out the Toltecs. But in the meantime, the Toltecs succeeded in instilling into most other Indian tribes in the land that came to be known as Mexico the belief that some day Quetzalcoatl would return. And so it was that when Cortes did come in 1519 and proceeded to land in Mexico with his war horses—strange animals that the Indians had never seen nor heard of—and with great guns that would thunder on a clear day, spitting out fire and smoke and deadly missiles, many of the Indians believed that Quetzalcoatl had returned and was angry with his people and was determined to punish them. Hence it was easy for Cortes to subdue them by the thousands. It was a terribly cruel conquest that Cortes made of Mexico. Furthermore, if the order of priests who came over with Cortes or followed soon afterwards could not persuade the Indians to accept the Catholic version of Christianity through the preaching of the gospel, Cortes proceeded to convince them with powder and lead.

But I have gotten far afield from my original purpose to tell about the Williamson ranch over in New Mexico. It is a dandy good ranch, but the drought held on stubbornly over there just as it did here. They had practically no rain over there all this year until four or five weeks ago, and they were afraid that, even the grass roots had died, but a four and a half inch rain soon changed the looks of things, and one morning they woke up and in fancy heard the tiny herbs singing softly:

Here I come creeping, creeping everywhere;
By the dusty roadside,
On the sunny hillside,
Though there be no noisy brook,
Just here and there a shady nook.

Yet here I come creeping, creeping everywhere.
(Revised slightly to fit New Mexico)

"Here I come creeping, creeping everywhere;
You can not see me coming,
Nor scarcely hear my low, sweet humming.

For in the starry night,
And the glad morning light,
I come gently creeping everywhere.

"Here I come creeping creeping everywhere;
More welcome than the flowers,
In summer's pleasant hours;
The gentle cow is glad,
And the merry birds not sad,
To see me creeping, creeping everywhere.

"Here I come creeping, creeping everywhere;
My humble song of praise,
Most gratefully I raise,
To Him at whose command
I beautify the land,
Creeping, silently creeping everywhere."

This fine little poem, two verses of which I have omitted to conserve space, was in one of the McGuffey school readers of the long, long ago. I suspect that the Williamsons never taught it to their students but I will bet they read it many a time when they were little school kids, and I'll bet they remembered it recently when the grass began to make the New Mexico prairies verdant following that four and a half inch rain.

Up to now he has only shallow water wells, and wind-mills bring the water to the surface and keep the concrete tanks full; but the father says that he is responsible for the success of the ranch. He is a natural-born ranchman and knows his cows just like an ancient Israelite shepherd knew his sheep. But although up in the 'eighties, the father himself keeps a saddle horse and regularly rides the ranch, that is, when he doesn't strike out in his big Cadillac.

The other son, Jack, is a mystery story writer, whose stories are often published in one of the great New York daily papers. Jack and his wife just recently attended a nation-wide story-writers convention in San Francisco. The two daughters and their husbands live on near-by ranches near the Williamsons. We came back home down the Portales-Lovington highway to Tatum, thence southeast to Bronco, and thence through Plains and Brownfield to Tahoka. That brought us through a beautiful and apparently rich ranch country clear to the Texas line; and all our readers know that it is a rich ranching, agricultural, and oil-producing land from the Texas line on to Tahoka.

Now, I have another contribution from our Mexico correspondent, Senorita Aurora Gutierrez, who is still telling us about that strange mythical character, China Poblana. So here Aurora takes over where she left off last week.

But, in order to connect up with what has gone before, you will remember that the virgin Mary had appeared, according to the story, to the mother of Catarina, imploring the mother to rear Catarina aright.

"One day the little girl was lost," the story goes, "and after five days of searching, the frantic parents found her safe and sound on a raft of driftwood and debris which had been swept by the mighty waters of a turbulent river into the quietude of a tiny bay. It was then predicted that she would be swept by the forces of destiny across oceans and to strange-lands and here Aurora picks up the story again—"where at last she would find a peaceful death and an eternal resting place.

"When the little girl was nine years old, her parents, fleeing from some savage invasion, left Delhi (India) for a town which was frequented by Portuguese navigators. Who, while pretending to be simple merchants and sailors, were in truth pirates and slave traders. One day, while playing on the shore with her younger brother, she was kidnapped by these pirates and placed aboard a ship bound for Cochin, where she was baptized and Christened Catarina. From Cochin the pirates sailed to Manila to sell their slaves, and there they met an agent of the Mexican Captain, Catarina was sold to him, although the governor of the islands wanted her, having received an order for the purchase of several women slaves for the service of the Marquis de Galvez, then Viceroy of Mexico.

"The ship in which Catarina sailed from Manila met with fine weather, and in January, 1620, arrived at Acapulco, where Captain Sosa took charge of the girl and carried her to his wife at his mansion in Puebla.

"The child, even before this time, had seen various heavenly visions, and here, when she saw the "Facies Christi,"—Face of Christ—which was adored in the Temple of the Compania, she was astonished and overjoyed to recognize it as the same Divine Being who one night had appeared to her in her loneliness aboard the pirate ship."—To be continued.

LADIES FROM EAST TEXAS VISIT CAVENESSES HERE

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Caveness had as their guests the first of last week three of Mr. Caveness' nieces from East Texas, two of whom had never been on the West Texas Plains before, the third only once in attendance upon the Baptist Sunday School Convention in Lubbock two years ago. They were very pleased with the Plains.

The visitors were Mrs. Ed Foster, whose husband is a merchant in McKinney; Miss Lesta Caveness, who heads the loan department in the State Bank at Glade-water; Mrs. Ethel Barnes, full-

The visitors came up onto the Plains east of Crosbyton, thence on to and through Lubbock, and from that city to Tahoka; and on the return trip they went by Post; and thus had the pleasure of seeing many thousands of acres of South Plains irrigated cotton, and numerous fields of good maize. Mr. Caveness also showed them his and other farms in the immediate vicinity of Tahoka.

Motor Trend magazine shows Mercury is

LOWEST COST CAR IN ITS CLASS TO OWN

13-car test by leading automotive magazine covers all costs of owning and operating a car—shows Mercury has lowest cost per mile in its class!

What does it really cost to own and operate various 1954 cars? Motor Trend magazine decided to find out—in probably the most detailed study of true car cost ever made. All the costs that go into car ownership were covered, including depreciation. Thirteen cars in all price classes were compared on a 10,000-mile basis. It was a survey that duplicated "an average experience of a car-owner in the first year's operation and ownership of a car." The results:

Mercury beat all cars tested in its class for low ownership cost per mile—beat all cars in the test in every class except for one in the so-called "low-price" field.

And, remember, for all its economy, Mercury has a new 161-hp V-8 engine. You enjoy the easy handling of the only ball-joint suspension in its field. And you get a car that holds the "class championship" for resale value.

Best of all, you couldn't pick a better time to buy a Mercury. We are now offering special year-end deals that top any we have ever made. Come in and see!

Mahon Tells Of World Problems

George Mahon, congressman from the 19th district, was the speaker at Tahoka Rotary Thursday noon of last week.

He painted a rather gloomy outlook in regard to our national finances and the international situation, but was confident that the United States will come through its present troubles in the end.

Calling attention of the rising cost of government, he said our budget has risen from 29 billion dollars in 1947 to a peak of 73 billion in 1953. The budget for 1955 is being cut to 65 billion, and the debt limit raised from 275 to 281 billion, but still the budget will not be balanced because of the cut in taxes, and we may be expected to go another five billion in debt on the 1955 budget.

Purposes of this tremendous spending, he said, is to meet our obligations incurred by wars to prevent the occurrence of World War III.

Spending can not be cut materially without cutting our military preparation. Experts declare the Soviet Navy is already about to overtake our navy.

The outlook is gloomy on the international horizon. We lost or failed to gain much by the Korean war, lost on the Indo-China crisis, our overseas bases are becoming more in jeopardy all the time, and we are losing in the propaganda war. We have always been able to win wars on the field of battle, but the United States loses in the propaganda and diplomatic fields.

However, he does not believe we can defeat the idea of Communism with bullets, and another war could make the world or even our own country ripe for acceptance of Communism. Therefore, many or most of our leaders feel we should bide our time and do everything possible to maintain peace without surrender or backing off short of total war.

The object of the Soviets, he said, is to tear apart the free world, and our objective is to knit it together.

He is hopeful we are learning more about propaganda and that we will do a better "selling" job in the future, if we can stave off war sufficiently long. Though taxes are high, we are still on a firm financial basis.

Mr. Mahon said Democrats and Republicans are pretty well agreed on vital parts of our foreign policy, and he issued a plea for all good citizens to give the President, the Secretary of State, and the Congress their confidence and backing in these matters. After all, he said, Mr. Eisenhower is our president and is a capable man who knows world affairs, and we can only do our nation harm by petty and unwarranted criticism in all but purely domestic affairs.

The speaker was introduced by Skiles Thomas, program chairman.
