STANDING ON THE CORNER

Have you let your belt out a notch?
 This year with Thanksgiving and Christmas coming so close together, and with all that turkey and trimmings, it might be wise to have the seams eased out a little instead.

Poem
 After the blessing and turkey with dressing
 And pie that is served a la mode
 Guest may rejoice to be given the choice
 Of coffee—or bicarb of soda.

Mrs. T. Hale brought in a copy of the Cardiff and South Wales Times and everyone down here has gotten a kick out of looking it over.

It's hard for us to realize how very different the Americans are from the English, and at the same time, how much alike.

The English newspaper has the same sob stories, same crime stories and much the same ads. One thing that is hard to become used to is the fact that prices are not marked in dollars and cents, but in pounds.

No coke ads appear in the paper, but ones that apparently take their place are those temptingly displaying "Corona" orange squash (whatever that is) and egg flip.

Many people think of the Federated Women's Club as hoity-toity stuff. However, the Phebe K. Warner Club of Tahoka, along with others over the state and nation, actually do a great deal of good.

Besides sponsoring many local activities, these clubs support and help support many worthy institutions and causes.

So, more power to the Federated women of Tahoka, and congratulations for being more farsighted than many who just consider it a social organization.

Incidentally, the motto is "Abundant Living Through Service."

Student: I don't think I deserve a zero.

County Teachers Meet In Tahoka

The Lynn County Teachers Association of the TSTA met in the school cafeteria here Monday night for the second meeting of the year, when about 80 teachers attended.

The O'Donnell teachers presented a skit on teacher etiquette and stressed the etiquette that should be used between teachers and between teachers and the pupils.

The Tahoka High School chorus under the direction of Don Wortham sang several numbers for the group before a film, depicting a typical grade school scene, was shown.

Mrs. C. A. Doss of O'Donnell, vice president of the Lynn county association, arranged for the program. J. B. Howell of Tahoka is president and Mrs. Nola Bolch of O'Donnell is secretary.

Following the program, a short business meeting was held when Mrs. Pearl Davidson of Wilson, chairman of the legislative committee, and Mrs. Doss gave reports of the recent workshop held in Lubbock.

Refreshments were served by Tahoka's fourth grade teachers, Mrs. Anna Jo Carter, Mrs. Tom Gill and Mrs. F. A. Wyatt.

The next meeting will be held February 25 in O'Donnell when Mrs. Elsie Parnell of Mineral Wells, present president of the Texas State Teachers Association, will attend. A new president is to be elected this week and in Houston at the late meeting, of which Mrs. Ruth Jolly, county superintendent, and Otis Spears, Tahoka school superintendent, are delegates.

State Plans Paving Newmoore-West Point-Lakeview FM Road

Plans have been announced by the Texas Highway Commission for paving of 9.8 miles of new farm-to-market road between Newmoore and West Point, in western Lynn county. Cost of the project is estimated at $98,000.00.

This road is in addition to the proposed eight miles of new road between West Point and Lakeview, scheduled for paving this next summer.

The Newmoore-West Point project is included in the first step to inaugurate a new two year farm-to-market road program for Texas with funds from the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1956, matched with State highway funds on a dollar-for-dollar basis, states E. H. Thornton, Jr., chairman of the Texas Highway Commission.

Announcement of the new Lynn county project was made by S. C. McCarty, district engineer of District 5 of the Texas Highway Department, Lubbock.

Resident engineer A. W. Partain of Lamesa will be in charge of planning the paving project, and County Commissioner Beatrice McLaurin of O'Donnell will be in charge of securing the right-of-way, which must be furnished by Lynn county.

County Judge W. M. Mathis says a 100-foot right-of-way will be required. According to present plans, the paving would begin at the Newmoore school corner of FM 213, the existing paving, and extend north three miles, thence west one mile, and thence north six miles to U. S. 380 at West Point.

However, ahead of this project is the proposed paving next summer of the same farm-to-market project, FM 2081, north from West Point to existing paving three miles south of Lakeview.

County Commissioner E. H. West has right-of-way easements for this project almost complete. This right-of-way will also be 100 feet wide. Paving extended north from West Point, which never was any good, will be completely rebuilt by the State, and the remainder of the road between US 380 and FM 211 at Lakeview paved, a total of 11 miles, including the three miles already paved from Lakeview south.

Contract is due for letting on this project in January, but it may become necessary to delay such a month or two.

Prizes Offered In Business, Homes Lighting Contests

Prizes will be given again this Christmas by Tahoka Chamber of Commerce for the best lighted and decorated homes and business institutions.

In the home lighting contest, cash prizes of $15.00, $10.00, and $5.00 will be awarded to first, second, and third places, respectively.

Also, there will be a $5.00 cash prize for the best decorated residence doorway.

Entrants in all three contests will have to register to make sure they will be judged, and registrations will be taken at the two drug stores, Wynne Collier Drug and Tahoka Drug. Everyone who has any decoration at all is asked to register, for simple decorations sometimes are judged the most attractive or most artistic.

Out of town judges will again judge the entries in the three contests.

W. T. Kidwell and Tom Gill are in charge of the home and doorway decorations contests, and E. R. Edwards and Winston C. Wharton are in charge of the business institutions contest.

Christmas Lights Will Be Turned On

Christmas lights in downtown Tahoka will be turned on next week, Herman Heck, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announces.

Helping Mr. Heck, Johnny Reasonover, and A. M. Bray with the project have been City employees, and electricians from Southwestern Public Service Co. and Lyntegar Rural Electric.

New 1957 motor vehicle license plates have been received here, according to J. E. (Red) Brown, county tax assessor and collector.

The new plates conform to the new standard plates being put in use by all states of the Union, and have black numerals on a white background.

Texas plates have a star for the Lone Star of Texas between the prefix and the numbers.

Heretofore, each state has had individual plates of varying sizes, colors, and emblems. In the future, the old individuality will be the wording "Texas" and the Lone Star emblem.

Merchants Planning Christmas Prizes

Pony League Officers Named

Officers for the Tahoka Post Pony League have been elected and plans are being made for the application of a charter.

At a meeting held in Post, James Minor of Post was elected president of the organization, A. M. Bray of Tahoka, vice president; Leo Aker of Post, secretary; and L. A. Forsythe of Tahoka, treasurer.

Schedules for the season will be worked out as soon as it is determined whether or not lights can be secured for the baseball fields to insure night games. If not, games will be played in the afternoons. The schedule will alternate the location of the games between here and Post.

Each town is sponsoring two teams which are yet to be named. Post sponsors are Collier Drug Store and Levi's Ranch House and Tahoka sponsors are Goodpasture Grain and Elevator Co. and Lynn County cooperative gin.

Pony League is for those boys who are just above the age for Little League.

Marion G. Bradley Post of the American Legion in Tahoka sponsored the setting up of committees from Tahoka to work with Post on the League. Members of the local committee have been Bray, chairman, J. E. Nance, Herman Heck, and Forsythe. C. W. Conway is chairman of the field committee, and Dan Brookshire is chairman of the sponsor committee.

A big Christmas Party on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 22, is being planned by Tahoka merchants at which scores of prizes ranging from cash to merchandise certificates will be given away.

Tahoka stores will stay open the two Thursday nights before Christmas, December 13 and 20, from 6:00 to 9:00 p. m.

During these hours, all people of Lynn county will be invited to make the rounds of the business area, and register at each place of business for the prizes each participating business is offering. Visitors may register either on both nights. No purchase is required to register. Only "strings" attached are that those registering must be at least 15 years of age and must not be members of immediate families of that particular store's owners, operators, or employees. Drawing for the prizes will be Saturday afternoon, Dec. 22, on the court house square. Holders of winning tickets must be present, or another ticket will be drawn.

No merchant is expected to give away more than $25.00, but each prize is expected to be worth while.

Tahoka merchants have two purposes in mind in promoting this big Christmas Party.

First, they hope to get acquainted with a lot of people who are not frequent visitors to their places of business, and for the buying public to get acquainted with them and their place of business.

Secondly, they frankly admit, they hope to hold some of the Christmas trade at home that sometimes goes to Lubbock.

Like the farmer, the average business man is pretty hard hit by the drought. His taxes and overhead go on day after day, regardless of the amount of business he does.

The business men of Tahoka certainly appreciate the business they get, but they need more to prosper in times of drought. Since they help support many public institutions by taxes, donations, moral support and an occasional boost, they feel it is not asking too much to seek the business of the people of the trade territory in return.

The merchants expect to explain the plan more definitely and list the large prize list in a large advertisement in The News the next two weeks.

A committee of business men will call on other business men to solicit their cooperation on the plan within the next few days.

The bands did not compete against one another, but were placed in divisions according to ability.

Today's MEDITATION

from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

© THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

I am sure that he who began a good work in you will bring it to completion at the day of Jesus Christ. (Philippians 1:6. RSV.)

Once a little girl taught her mother a wonderful lesson. Her mother had been a Christian for a long time, but something had gone wrong, and she was very unhappy.

Suddenly one day her mother was changed. Her eyes were smiling, and she was singing with joy all the day long; all because she had read something in the Bible. How happy they were!

But the day after, everything was gone; joy and smiles and songs, nothing was left of it all. No matter what the little girl did, her mother seemed unhappy.

The little girl went into the next room to bring the family Bible, and said: "This book says the same things today, doesn't it, Mummy?"

Indeed, the many promises of God our Father are the same however the days are, whatever our feelings. Let us therefore have faith in God!

PRAYER

O God, our Father, we thank Thee for all Thy promises, which Thou hast given us as a rock on which to build our lives. Grant us faith to believe, and in believing find joy; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
I believe God means what He says in His Word. —Thor Hall (Norway).

DO-IT-YOURSELF: GET THREE MEALS FROM ONE ECONOMY BEEF POT ROAST

If your family likes beef—and who doesn't—they will love this new design for living. Simply buy a full 6th and 7th rib pot roast, divide it, before cooking, into the several cuts illustrated above and prepare each in your family's favorite way. (1) Have your butcher saw through the rib bones above the eye of fat. Hold firmly to both ends to separate the rib-eye from the outside section. Cut rib bones free and trim lean meat off. Remove thin blade cartilage and backbone. (2) Then roll outside section, fat side out, into a pot roast and skewer or tie. Cook over low temperature with moisture for best results. (3) Slice the rib-eye into 1½ to 2-inch "country club" steaks which are tender enough to broil or, if preferred, swiss. Use bones for beef stock and lean meat for stew. Wrap or cover the cuts loosely if they are to be used within a few days; freeze them if longer storage is desired. At-home fabricating saves time and money, says the Texas Beef Council and provides three or four distinctively different dinners.

Bulldogs Win Double-Overtime Game Over Denver City Mustangs 51 to 50

Tahoka's cagers won its first game of the season in a real thriller against Denver City Tuesday night when the Bulldogs edged out 51-50 in a double overtime.

Mrs. Oliver Delegate To Cancer Meeting

Mrs. J. B. Oliver has been named as the official delegate to the 11th Annual Meeting of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society for the Lynn county unit, according to an announcement by H. W. Carter, president.

The ACS annual meeting is scheduled for December 7 and 8 at the Hotel Adolphus in Dallas.

As a voting delegate from the Lynn county unit, Mrs. Oliver will participate in the annual affairs of the Society's Texas Division in developing and shaping the program of cancer control in Texas during the coming year, Carter said.

With more than 9,600 deaths from cancer in Texas last year, the Lynn county unit president declared, we have only begun to really fight cancer locally. And, he added, we can only develop a strong program of fighting cancer through a well-informed and trained organization. Delegates attending this year's annual meeting will have an opportunity to discuss our local problems with both state and national cancer control leaders.

Local Men Are Draft Registrars

AUSTIN, Nov. 25.—Otis Spears of Tahoka and C. O. Head of New Home have been appointed registrars for the Lubbock-Garza-Crosby-Lynn county draft board.

Boys who reach the age of 18 can register in Tahoka by calling on Mr. Spears at the Superintendent's office, Tahoka High School and boys can register in New Home by calling on Mr. Head at the Superintendent's office, New Home School.

Perry W. Walker also acts as a registrar in the Tahoka area. Registrars are maintained in these areas so that men will not have to travel to the draft board office at Lubbock.

A local board is maintained for the four-county area because one board can take care of the work. The state director of Selective Service says that "a board in each county in many areas would prove to be a waste of government money."

Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state director of the draft system, expressed public appreciation of the service of Mr. Spears and Mr. Head.

"People of the Tahoka and New Home areas should appreciate the services they render to them," Colonel Schwartz said, "as they are doing this work without pay as a public service to their country. All males are required to register under the draft law on their 18th birthday or within five days thereafter. Maximum penalties that can be applied for failure to register are $10,000 fine, or five years in prison, or both.

Jerrie LeMond On McMurry Band Christmas Tour

Ablene. — Jerrie LeMond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy LeMond of Tahoka, will make a four-day concert tour with the McMurry College Indian Band Dec. 2-5, playing for church congregations and high school audiences in seven West Texas cities.

Raymond T. Bynum, McMurry director, said that the band will play in Big Spring, Odessa, Midland, Seminole, Andrews, Lamesa and Snyder on the winter tour.

The McMurrans will leave Abilene early Sunday morning and give their first concert at 7:30 p. m., Dec. 2, in the First Methodist Church of Big Spring.

Final concert of the tour is scheduled for 10:30 a. m., Dec. 5, at Snyder High School, after which the band will return to Abilene. They will travel in two McMurry College buses.

The McMurry band makes two concert tours each year. It has played in five southwestern states, Mexico, and in five European capital cities.

The band's church program, on the theme "Let us worship through music," will be presented in the Big Spring church.

Remainder of the concerts, all slated for high school assembly programs, will feature marches, symphonic selections, solos, specialty numbers, and Latin-American rhythms, Bynum said.

Mail Early For Quick Delivery

Pointing up the need for your cooperation on his 1956 "Mail Early For Christmas" campaign, Postmaster W. E. Smith says if you will follow these three simple rules, all of your gifts can be delivered before Christmas Day: Wrap them securely, address them correctly, and mail them early.

Amplifying these rules, the Postmaster said, "Avoid the risk of mailing poorly wrapped packages. Use corrugated mailing cartons, plenty of heavy brown wrapping paper, and be sure that every package is tied with strong cord. Cartons containing several gift packages should be stuffed with tissue or old newspapers to cushion the shocks." He also reminds us that size and weight limitations for Parcel Post packages vary according to place of mailing, and destination, and advises us to ask about them when we go to the Post Office to buy stamps.

Speaking about correct addressing of Christmas gifts and cards, the Postmaster said: "Be sure your Christmas mailing list is up to date and that you have the complete name, address, zone number, city and state for everyone on your list. Send all your Christmas cards by First-Class mail, because they will be processed and delivered quicker, and they'll be forwarded, or returned, if it becomes necessary." Only Christmas cards sent First Class mail may carry written messages, a custom everyone enjoys. Moreover, Christmas card envelopes smaller than 3-3/4" by 4" or longer than 9" by 12" require hand cancellation, and must carry First-Class postage.

Odds and Ends

(By W. I. The Elder)

This week I am going to ask you to go with me as Miss Jewell Ross tells us more about the great city of Jerusalem as it appeared to her in about 1940 when she wrote that charming little book entitled "Living Where Jesus Lived."

But before I do that I want to make some comments on the last chapter we published from her book. She had gone by way of Cairo and the Suez Canal, in Egypt, you will remember, and gave us a picture, briefly, of that old Egyptian city then and now inhabited chiefly by Arabs and descendants of the ancient Egyptians, most of whom religiously are Mohammedans. My purpose is to call your attention to the backwardness and the withering effects of the sternly fixed racial characteristics and religious beliefs and practices of these aged peoples.

In one of the articles from Miss Ross's book which we published she gave us a rather graphic picture of the irritating inefficiency of the Egyptians in the matter of passenger transportation; and in the second article she told about seeing Arabs in the "Holy Land" on Sunday morning ploughing with wooden ploughs and ox teams. This was in that part of the Holy Land now under the control of the Mohammedans.

But you doubtless, dear reader, have seen in the newspapers and magazines other articles respecting conditions in Egypt and Arabia and the Holy Land.

I have before me now an article written recently by an Iowa woman who has made a tour of inspection into that region. It is too lengthy to be published in this column except by piecemeal. From Cairo, Egypt, she writes:

"When I left home for Cairo, Egypt, the family was a bit worried that Middle East tension would break out into actual fighting, and we would be caught in it. But as I write this there are few signs of actual disturbance in the parts of Egypt we've seen . . . There's bitterness toward Israel, though, in every Arab country. This is the great burning issue now here in Egypt. The problems are poverty, ignorance, disease, and lack of water; but the people are thinking mostly of 'injustice' forced upon the Arabs whose land became the new Israel . . ."

Thoughtful people in the city seem to favor cooperation with the West; yet editorials in Egyptian papers are highly critical of U. S. policy. But most villagers, without benefit of radio or newspapers (which they couldn't read anyway) know nothing about what's going on.

"Just what is Egypt like? Well, not much like any place at home. First, you have to think of the land itself, which is sand and more sand—fertile when it has water, desert when it hasn't. There's little rainfall, so water must come from the Nile. A green strip 11 miles wide bordering the river supports three-fourths of Egypt's 22 million people.

"Donkeys or water buffaloes supply the power, for pumping water from the canals to irrigate crops, for washing clothes, and for bathing both people and animals. There is none to grow grass around the villages; so the housewife must always contend with dust. Her small house is made of mud-straw bricks with a dirt floor and no windows. The valued cakes of dung she has made are drying on the roof.

"Egypt can grow three crops of long-staple cotton in two years, but insects don't freeze or drown in this climate, so fighting them never ends.

"The average peasant (called a fellahin) has a half acre of land, works hard to raise wheat, cotton, or vegetables. If he works for a land lord he makes 30 cents a day. His family seldom has meat or milk. When he works in the fields, he wears a long white cotton robe like a nightshirt—you can imagine the laundry problem. Outside the home his Moslem wife wears a long black robe over her dress. It is sometimes pulled across the lower part of the face as a veil. In the cities most of the women dress like any of us.

"The amount of hand labor here is beyond belief. For instance, workers are excavating for Cairo's Hilton Hotel with picks and are carrying the dirt out in bushel baskets. Men are not slaves like those of the Pharaohs who built the Pyramids but they are not working any differently. For thousands of years there has been practically no progress—just the same old grind year after year and century after century in this land of the Arab and the Moslem.

If the Jew and the Christian had possessed and occupied this land instead of the Arab and the Moslem, it would have been a rich, productive, and prosperous country through all these unproductive, mis-spent centuries.

Soon after Abram, in accordance with God's instruction, came over into the Promised land, then known as the land of Canaan, a severe famine came upon the people of the Promised land, but Abraham heard that there was food plenty down in Egypt, and into Egypt he migrated. The Lord willing, he probably would have stayed in Egypt at that time, but he told a fib to the Pharaoh on the throne about his wife, and when Pharaoh found it out, feeling somewhat insulted because Abram has mis-trusted the morality of the Egyptian princes, he advised Abram to gather up all his party and all the livestock and all the household goods which he had brought into Egypt with him, and hike on back into the land of the Canaanites and the Phoenicians. So Abram hiked on out of there. He would not have gone down into Egypt in the first place if it had not been a prosperous country.

Then less than a hundred years later Joseph's brothers became envious of him, sold him to a caravan of Ishmaelites who were on their way to Egypt with camel-loads of goods which they were transporting to Egypt, told their father Jacob that his favored son had been killed by wild beasts and showed his bloody garments which they said they had found as evidence of the tragedy, and so Joseph was taken by the Ishmaelites on down into Egypt and sold to a somewhat distinguished gentleman named Potipher, some kind of officer of Pharaoh's Palace. After two years of trials and tribulations, spent a part of the time in jail, though innocent of any crime, Joseph began interpreting dreams, which won him favor with the King, who pretty soon made him Secretary of Agriculture. Another famine had hit the land of Canaan, and the people began to hitch up their donkeys to such trucks as they had and to hurry down to Egypt to buy corn, or wheat. So the Pharaoh appointed Joseph as manager and distributor of the big crop which had been raised on little patches of irrigated land in the valley of the Nile. It was a big crop for that day and time and Joseph out-Hoovered Herbert Hoover as a food and feed administrator. I guess he was the first one in the history of the world.

Yes, a lot of the land in northern Africa is barren desert land. But, even so, some real cities have been built by Greeks and Romans and Phoenicians at different times on those sandy, wind-swept shores.

Centuries B. C. Alexandria in Egypt had become one of the greatest cities in the eastern hemisphere and was noted as a seat of learning. It had one of the greatest libraries in existence, doubtless the very greatest one, and it was also one of the greatest commercial and political centers of the world. While it is still an important seaport, it rapidly declined in population and importance under the rule of Arabs and Moslems who captured it in 641

A. D. At the beginning of the present century its population had dwindled down to only a few thousand people, but since then the Mohammedans have swarmed into it and increased the population of the old city to almost a half million people, who live mostly in squalid conditions in crowded mud huts and other cheap and unsanitary houses. Europeans live on the opposite side of the Canal from the Mohammedans in much better homes and more sanitary and attractive ones. The old Mohammedan city and the rehabilitated city of Europeans have each grown rapidly since the beginning of this century. In ancient times, Carthage which flourished near the west end of the northern coast of Africa attained a population of some 700,000 inhabitants and became a powerful rival of Rome itself. Now only a few old ruins mark the site of the city, but that section of North Africa must have had some valuable natural resources; otherwise such a great city could never have been built.

Morocco, Fez, Tripoli, Tunis, and other cities of sizable populations are thriving at intervals all along the northern coast of Africa, built for the most part by French and British capital; and it is said that the valleys and rolling lands of Morocco are teeming with brightly tinted wild flowers throughout many months of every year, making the landscapes as gorgeous as a West Texas sunset. If flowers will grow there in such profusion without irrigation, I believe that a modern Texas farmer with up-to-date farm machinery growing maize and Kaffir corn, Indian corn, wheat and oats, Sudan grass, white-face cows, sheep and wool, and even un-pedigreed goats in North Africa would thrive and prosper as they do here on these arid plains.

As this is being written, it develops that France admits that she has been muddying the waters respecting the international relations revolving around Egypt and the Suez Canal. We are still glad that we have President Eisenhower and not Adlai Stevenson to represent and lead the United years if he lives that long. Jerusalem lies in the heart of that troubled section of the world. It also lies at the heart of the age-long homeland of the Jews, the "Promised Land," which the God of Abraham vouchsafed to him and his seed forever. It lies in the heart of the Holy Land, about which Emma Jewell Ross wrote so charmingly in her little book entitled "Living Where Jesus Lived" some fifteen or sixteen years ago. She tells us much about Jerusalem. I am going (Cont'd. on Next Page) to let her take over with another contribution from that illuminating book for the rest of this Column.

"In reading this history of Jerusalem, one learns it was founded nearly two thousand years before Christ was born and one thousand years before Romulus and Remus established the city of Rome; it was taken in the thirteenth century B. C. by Joshua, who slew its king. Four hundred years later, King David captured the city and made it his capital, and from that time, the history of the Hebrew people is the history of Jerusalem.

"In its earliest days, the city was known as Salem, and later in the time of the Judges it was called Jebus; a combination of these two formed the name Jerusalem. This combination was finally, for the sake of euphony, changed to Jerusalem. The city is in a position of natural strength, and for this reason, David made it the capital. No less than eight cities have been built on the site of the present-day Jerusalem, and as each city has been constructed upon the remains of its predecessor, the streets of the time of Christ are at a great depth below the present surface—in some places as much as eighty feet below. Jerusalem is built upon two important hills, Mount Zion and Mount Moriah, which are something more than 2,500 feet above the level of the sea. The old city is completely encompassed with an ancient wall which is about thirty feet high and has eleven gates, six of which are used. Within the walls two main streets, David Street and Damascus Street, divide the city into four sections or quarters; Christian, Armenian, Jewish, and Mohammedan.

"The present population of the city is about 125,000. The Y.W.C.A. is on the street of the Prophets, and outside the Jaffa Gate. One can spend hours watching the crowds pass through this gate. Bedouins are seen in loose hanging robes, with many types of headdress representing different tribes; then there are the Orthodox Jews, with long black Prince Albert-like coats, heavy wide fur hats and curls over their ears. One also sees camels, donkeys, sheep, motor cars.

"David Street, mentioned above is a narrow way leading from Jaffa Gate down into the city, and is only about ten feet wide. At the Jaffa Gate is the Tower of David, or Citadel, which is a square stone structure one hundred feet high, the base of which was undoubtedly built before the time of Christ, but the building itself was mainly constructed by Suleiman the Magnificent in 1542. (Therein lies another interesting historical story, but we can not go into that here.—Ed.)

THE AMERICAN WAY

"Life centers in and around the gates now as in Bible times. You remember how Prince Absalom each day rose early and stood by the city gate. When any man came by on his way to see the king, Absalom would call to him and say, 'Of what city art thou?' And the man would answer, 'Thy servant is of one of the tribes of Israel.' And Absalom would say, 'See, thy matters are good and right, but there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee. Oh, that I were made Judge of the Land... I would do thee Justice.' II Samuel 15:2-4.)

"He was quite a politician, wasn't he? The modern politician in Jerusalem still sits beside the gates and plans his campaigns as did Absalom. It is an easy way to see people, for if he just sits long enough everybody of any importance will be sure to pass that way. Much of the business, and incidentally, social life, is transacted near the gates. The reason for this is that the city streets are so narrow that many animals loaded with wares and produce can not be taken into the city, so they stop in the large square outside the city gates."

—The wise politician in Tahoka takes a stand in a crowded place or parades up and down the sidewalks where the people are and solicits votes, and some times, like Absalom, he will make promises which he knows he can not fulfill. E. I. The Elder.

ELMER BLANKENSHIP

Roy Lee Williams, north west of New Home, applied sixty pounds of amonium sulfate and 300 pounds of 60-60-0 fertilizer per acre on thirty-three acres of irrigated land and found that the fertilized produced about half more than land with no fertilizer. Roy Lee is applying additional fertilizer for next year's crop. In most instances the highest continued yields follow a combination of soil improving legumes and fertilizers.

Soil Conservation Service Personnel assigned to the District, assisted Bill Balch with soil and water conservation plans on two farms and on one farm for Glenn Evans. Both farms of Bill's include some irrigation where underground pipe is to be installed. Bill plans some level irrigation with varying widths that are to be reinforced with border ridges. This will make maximum use of irrigation water and aid in holding rainfall on the field. Terraces are planned on the west half of the farm at Lakeview.

Glenn Evans also has some irrigation on his farm southeast of Tahoka where border ridges are to be installed. Glenn may try some border ridges on dryland and if successful install additional borders rather than terraces.

The plans on both Bill Balch's and Glenn Evans' include legumes for soil improvement. Winter legumes can be used on the irrigated land while dryland will require summer legumes.

Soil Conservation Service personnel filled several requests for assistance on underground pipe for Roy Lee Williams, Durwood Hancock, Acie Bailey, Billy Timmons, E. S. Williams, A. J. and Carl Giecklehorn, and laid out one hundred acres for irrigation for Dwight Corbell south of Lakeview.

New Bulletin On Irrigation

College Station, Nov. —High Plains cotton farmers should find the information given in a new Texas Agricultural Experiment Station publication, B-838, Guides in Cotton Irrigation, most helpful in setting up their plans for another crop year.

Authors of the new publication are E. L. Thaxton, Jr., assistant irrigation engineer, at the Lubbock substation and N. P. Nelson, irrigation engineer, ARS, Lincoln, Nebraska but formerly of the Amarillo Experiment Station.

Covered in the bulletin are the results of studies conducted at Lubbock and Tulla on the use of irrigation water by cotton. The research workers found that cotton yields in pounds of lint per inch of water were about the same for all moisture levels studied but in general, the high moisture levels are the most profitable.

They say that because cotton can use varying amounts of water efficiently, it is an easier crop to irrigate than grain sorghums. They emphasize that the most important irrigation is the one done before the cotton crop is planted. Getting water stored in the soil for the upcoming cotton crop, they say, can go a long way toward supplying the moisture required for maximum crop production.

Recommendations are listed in the bulletin on water management, cultural practices, along with brief statements on methods of irrigation and fiber quality.

Copies of the publication are available from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

The word salary comes from "salarium" meaning salt money, since Roman soldiers received a part of their pay in salt.
