STANDING ON THE CORNER

With P. J.

Castles in the air are all right until we try to move into them.

The above is a statement that many a Tahoka citizen has found to be true. During the past 10 years or so it has become increasingly difficult for a middle-income family to build or purchase a home.

Reason? It is practically impossible to secure a good loan in Tahoka, either through FHA or other lending agencies, with the result that construction here is not keeping up with that in neighboring towns.

More than one family has asked why FHA doesn't seem interested in loaning money for home construction in Tahoka, but at the same time the Internal Revenue considers our money good enough.

Let the FHA loosen its pocket strings for Tahokans, and the town would have a chance to grow. The way it is now, the average person must have from five to ten thousand cash before he can begin to talk business—and how many of us can do that?

As a local contractor pointed out, a person can buy a ready-built house in Lubbock, get a loan and move it to Tahoka. But he can't move it to Tahoka and then get the loan. Odd, ain't it?

Helping the situation would sure be a good way for a representative, senator or some one else to pick up some votes.

Mr. Smith: What, buy a new car? Do you think cars grow on trees? Mrs. Smith: Of course not—everybody knows they come from plants.

The Lynn County March of Dimes received a $2.00 contribution this week from Mrs. Raymond Clark of Ruidoso, N. M. She sent her donation in memory of little David Newsom, who died last October as a result of polio. We know his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Newsom, Jr. and his many friends will be very grateful to know that David was remembered in this way.

Mrs. S. W. Sanford Dies Wednesday

Mrs. Sam W. Sanford, 82, pioneer Tahoka citizen and wife of a former Lynn county sheriff, died Wednesday at 3:15 a. m. in Seale Hospital in Lamesa. She had been in ill health for several years.

Funeral services were conducted at Stanley Funeral Home Thursday at 2:00 p. m. with Rev. W. A. Brooks, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Rev. George A. Dale of Lubbock, former pastor here, officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery.

Mrs. Sanford, the former Eva Emma Hale, was born at Lockhart on January 5, 1876. She moved to Gail, Borden county, with her parents in 1899. Her parents farmed and operated a hotel there. At Gail, she met Sam Sanford, who came there in 1900 and worked as a cowboy. The couple married at Gail in January, 1901.

They moved to Lynn county in 1912. Mr. Sanford served as sheriff and tax collector of Lynn county for eight years, six of them from 1918 until 1924 and then another term a few years later. Following this, he retired and since has been looking after his farm property. Mrs. Sanford was a member of the Baptist Church, and in her earlier years was active in the Eastern Star.

She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Ralph (Virginia) Bailey; one grandson, Larry Sanford of Anton; and one sister, Mrs. S. R. Simpson of Lamesa. An only son, Lawrence, died in December of 1950.

Dean Taylor New President C. of C.; Directors Named

Dean Taylor is the new president of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Granvel Ayer, head of the body for the past year. He was named at a meeting of the new and old boards early this week.

Taylor is manager of Pioneer Natural Gas Company in Tahoka and has been very active in local civic affairs since coming here a few years ago. He was reared at Portales, N. M. and is a graduate of Texas Tech.

New directors elected by a mail ballot among members are: Jack Jaquess, Fred Shipley, Herman Renfro, and Garland Pennington. Re-elected to the board were: W. T. Kidwell, Herman Heck, Clint Walker, and E. R. Edwards. Holdover directors are: Granvel Ayer, who automatically becomes vice president, Taylor, C. W. Conway, Dale Thuren, Frank Hill, A. M. Bray, Wmne Collier, and Johnny Reasonover.

Retiring directors are: Elbert King, Tom Gill, Hick Gibson, and Grady Lankford.

The new officers and directors were to be installed at the annual Farmer-Businessman banquet Thursday night.

Louis B. Reed Not Candidate

Louis B. Reed of Lamesa, district judge of the 106th Judicial District for 20 years, will not be a candidate for re-election, he announced this week.

"I am very grateful to the citizens of the district," Judge Reed says in his statement, "not merely for political support, but for the splendid cooperation which they have given when serving as grand jurors and petit jurors in the court."

"Upon the expiration of my present term on December 31, 1958, I will engage in the private practice of law at Lamesa, doing a general civil office practice."

Judge Reed began his tenure of office April 1, 1937, and has served in the office since except during a period from January 12, 1942, until March, 1945, when he was absent serving in the U. S. Army. During this absence, the late Judge J. E. Garland of Lamesa served as special judge.

He says the 106th district, composed of Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum, Terry, Garza, and Lynn counties, is one of the largest districts in Texas in size, wealth and population presided over by a single judge.

Truett Smith, Tahoka attorney and a former district attorney, announced a few weeks ago as a candidate for the office of district judge.

College Head At Church of Christ

F. W. Mattox, president of Lubbock-Christian College, will preach at the Sunday evening services at 7:00 o'clock in the local Church of Christ. His lesson will be based around the value of Christian education.

Leroy Cowan, local minister states: "No education is really complete without a working knowledge of the Bible. Many people are educated without the proper respect of God. Our nation is founded around a phrase, 'In God We Trust.' This trust can be cultivated in education under Christian influence and our nation and world will be stronger."

JOHN EVANS IN HOSPITAL John Evans, 85, is seriously ill in a Lamesa hospital, which he entered Saturday, with an obstruction of the throat. Mr. Evans is a pioneer citizen of Tahoka, and has been enjoying excellent health in spite of his age.

Essay Winners Are Announced

Three New Home students were announced Thursday as winners of the essay contest on the subject, "We Are Stewards of the Land," sponsored by Lynn County Soil Conservation District and Tahoka Chamber of Commerce. The winners were to be honored at the Farmer-Businessman banquet Thursday night.

First place winner was Miss Garene Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Harris; second, Walter Gasper Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Gasper; and third, Bob Nunley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nunley of Lakeview.

Winner of the essay will be entered in the state contest. The three will be published in The News in coming issues.

School Election Called At Wilson

Citizens of Wilson Independent School District will vote on two propositions in an election set by the school board for Saturday, Feb. 15.

The No. 1 proposition would put the district under provisions of a new law, Senate Bill 118, which permits a school district to set the maintenance tax up to as much as $1.50 on the $100 valuation, whereas the present law is $1.50 maximum for both maintenance and bonds retirement.

No. 2 proposition is for the issuance of $80,000 in bonds for building a homemaking cottage, remodeling the present homemaking department into science laboratories, remodeling the gymnasium, and erection of four or five new teacherages.

Supt. J. P. Hewlett said the district is faced with the problem of raising more finances if it is to maintain a school equal to others and to keep up with the demands for expanded curricula.

The board in its meeting last week re-elected the entire faculty for the coming school year.

Plains Man On State ASC Board

A Plains farmer, Millard Allen Webb of Dimmitt, has been named by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson as the new member of the Texas State ASC Committee. He succeeds Robert G. Schrauner of Pecos, former chairman of the state committee.

Webb is a young man, a former lieutenant colonel in the Airforce, is a former county ASC committeeman in Castro county, a former county Farm Bureau president, and is reputed to be familiar with Plains agricultural problems.

Other members of the State committee are: Searcy M. Ferguson of Dallas, who succeeded Schrauner as chairman; Clarence A. Daniels, Rosenberg; Baldwin P. Devenport, Jr., Stamford, also in West Texas; and Carlton E. Wertz, Jr., Raymondville, who was named to the board when Gaylor F. Osborne of Harlingen some time ago resigned to become State administrative officer.

It is no secret that the outgoing member, Mr. Schrauner was no friend at all of Plains cotton growers, and local agricultural leaders in touch with the situation were extremely well pleased with the appointment of Mr. Webb.

UNCLE IS BURIED Mr. and Mrs. G. H. (Shorty) Chestnut and Buddy attended funeral services in Mount Pleasant Sunday for her uncle, C. M. Smelser who had died on Friday. He was a brother of M. S. Smelser of this city.

Business, Professional People Give Guidance To Students on Careers

What does my future hold? Many Tahoka High School students found the answer to that question at the first annual Career Conference here Wednesday when professional business men and women talked to them about the pros and cons of their choice vocations.

Sponsored by the National Honor Society, students attended a general assembly at which Dr. Morris Wallace, head of the department of education at Texas Tech, was the principal speaker. Classes were held for two periods so that students could attend both their first and second choice vocational clinics.

was to instigate the students to begin to think and prepare now for their future careers, to help them choose those to which they are best suited, and to help them discover whether or not they are interested in vocations that they now favor.

In his speech to the student body, Dr. Wallace said "the place to start when you are choosing a vocation is between your ears." He emphasized the fact that young people should think about their future and investigate various vocations.

In an effort to find each student's suited vocation, Dr. Wallace laid (Cont'd. on Back Page)

2,315 People Pay Poll Taxes Here

Total poll tax receipts paid in Lynn county qualified 2315 voters to participate in the 1958 elections, J. E. (Red) Brown, county tax assessor and collector said.

This number is about 500 lower than that of 1956, the last major election year. However, it does not include the well over 1,000 citizens who are qualified to vote because of their ages being over 60 and are not required to pick up their receipts at the tax office in this county.

Brown said that voting citizens are being exempt at a rapid rate in Lynn county because of reaching the age of 60, amounting to 200 to 300 people each year.

Housing Project Election Planned

Mayor H. B. McCord has announced that citizens of Tahoka will be asked to vote whether or not they wish a housing project for low income families to be built here.

The election will be held in April on the regular city ballot and will be of no added expense to the City. Although the election is not necessary, the City Council and several local business men desire to know the wishes of the citizens in regard to the project.

In the meantime, a local Housing Authority has been set up to govern the project if it is approved and is composed of A. M. Bray, chairman, Charles Verner, Harold Green, J. E. Reasonover, and Dean Taylor. Two of the committeemen will serve for two years, and three will serve for three years. Their job will be to determine who is qualified to rent the dwellings, to oversee, supervise, and if necessary, to evict tenants. At the time

March of Dimes Drive Continues

Lynn county is still about $1,000 short of its quota in the annual March of Dimes for the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, according to C. W. Conway, county drive chairman.

Only about $2700 has been raised in the county and O'Donnell alone has contributed over half this amount, or near $1600.

The drive was extended into February in an effort to raise the needed amount. Last year the county raised $3700 and has been asked to raise a like amount this year because of the very heavy county expenses during 1957, which used up all of the local fund and about $3500 out of the National Foundation fund.

No further plans for the drive are being made, except that all churches are asked to take collection this Sunday for the March of Dimes if they have not previously done so.

Other citizens who have not contributed are asked to deposit their donations at the First National Bank in Tahoka, mail them to March of Dimes in Tahoka, or hand them to C. W. Conway.

SHIPLEY HAS OPERATION

Fred Shipley, owner of Shipley Motor Co. here, Ford dealer, underwent major surgery in Methodist Hospital at Lubbock Monday, about three-fourths of his stomach being removed because of ulcers. He is reported to be doing nicely, but can have no company for a few days.

Copyrights extend for a period of 28 years.

Lynn county had gained 136,766 bales of 1957 cotton prior to January 16, according to the Bureau of Census, U. S. Department of Commerce.

Lynn was fifth on the Plains and also fifth in Texas for the year's production. Lubbock county led the state with 203,290 bales gained. In fact, the first five counties in the state were all South Plains counties, the other three being Hockley with 164,247 bales, Lamb with 139,925, and Hale with 137,793.

Hidalgo county with 133,347, Reeves with 115,385, and Cameron with 93,113 were the only counties off the Plains getting in the "high ten." Dawson and Crosby were the other two Plains counties making the "high ten," but contrary to prediction of the cotton "experts," Dawson fell far behind Lynn this year.

Lynn county, as did most Plains counties, still had several thousand bales yet to gin when the census was taken on January 16, but final figures are not expected to alter the standing materially.

Following were the ginnings on January 16 for most Plains counties; compared with the year before on the same date:

Lubbock	203,290	225,612
Hockley	164,247	174,067
Lamb	139,925	172,222
Hale	137,739	190,574
Lynn	136,766	90,457
Dawson	117,803	31,833
Crosby	94,878	104,856
Terry	73,448	93,447
Floyd	72,551	92,433
Bailey	70,266	72,867
Cochran	46,936	55,734
Gaines	30,432	31,910
Garza	18,332	10,414
Yoakum	18,280	26,815

Salvation Army Drive To Start

Milton Uzzle, campaign chairman for the 1958 Salvation Army campaign, states that this year's drive will get underway with a kickoff meeting for all workers at 9:00 a. m. Tuesday, Feb. 11, at the Club Cafe in Tahoka.

The following are team captains in Tahoka: Mrs. Winnie Spruiell; Mrs. C. S. Thomas, Billy Ed Ware, Mrs. W. H. Eudy, Mrs. K. R. Durham, Dub Kenley, Urban Brown, Charlie Reid and Wilton Payne.

Campaign chairmen for the rural areas are: Mrs. Wilmer Smith, New Home; Mrs. Roy Lemon, Crossland; and Rev. Billy Wilkinson of Wilson.

W. T. Kidwell, Service Unit Chairman for the year-around work of The Salvation Army requests that all citizens in the Tahoka area give as liberally as possible to help continue the work of The Salvation Army both at home and throughout the state of Texas. Kidwell states that the local committee gave emergency assistance in Tahoka last year with grocery orders, clothing, shoes, medicine, hospitalization care and transportation of local families. Help was also extended to transients with lodging, meals and transportation.

Last year two worthy boys were sent to The Salvation Army summer camp for boys for one week. The camp that these boys attended is one of the finest in the Nation and plans are now being made to send three boys this year.

Kidwell states that all Salvation Army work in the Tahoka area is administered through the local committee without any "red tape" or fanfare and that all decisions are made by the committee. Kidwell states that we can call on the Salvation Army to help with any problems that we cannot handle and that all of the many state services of The Salvation Army are available to us when needed.

W. A. Reddell is a medical patient in Tahoka Hospital. He was admitted Tuesday.

Railroads Are Not Subsidized

Tom Gill, local Santa Fe agent, calls The News' attention to a glaring error in last week's issue of the paper.

In reporting a talk by Charles Verner of the First National Bank at the Rotary Club, The News erroneously listed the railroads as being one of the "benefactors of government subsidies. Charles did not include railroads.

In fact, subsidies to competitors of railroads is one of the big "gripes" that railroads have against present day government policies. Tom correctly points out that airlines are subsidized, truck companies get virtually free use of the highways, and barge lines and shipping are benefitted by the government, while the railroads are having a hard time meeting the competition.

Gill handed us the following clipping which describes typical instances of injustice to railroads and the public:

"The Union Station in Chicago last year paid $913,000 in taxes. But the municipally-owned airport pays no taxes. The Washington National Airport, built with tax money at the cost of $36,000,000, runs a deficit each year of $4,000,000 which is paid out of public funds. No taxes are collected on it. But Washington's Union Railroad Station last year paid $3½ millions in property taxes.

"The barge-canal lines are tax-built. They are tax maintained and are tax-free. The throughways are built with public authority, are tax-free from proceeds of tax-free bonds.

"The railroads are privately built, privately maintained, are taxed to the hilt by federal, state, county and municipal governments."

Today's MEDITATION from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room

THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Come, follow me. (Luke 18: 22.) The great Filipino martyr, Dr. Jose Rizal, once expressed his disappointment over the aimlessness of many of his countrymen. In face of a national crisis, he referred to them as "stones wasted in the fields without becoming parts of any edifice."

Leave a stone alone by itself in the field, and it is trampled under the feet of men, or perhaps becomes lost in dust or mud. Pick it up and make it part of a floor, or wall, or house, and as long as that house stands, that stone has usefulness.

If we take our seemingly insignificant lives and build them into the cause of the kingdom, our lives will have meaning.

In the face of today's great opportunities for investing our lives in this worthwhile cause—seeking to salvage humanity from hate and fear—we are so often found floating aimlessly around. We are overburdened by the petty problems of our personal existence. God helping us, let us forget self and deepen our discipleship.

PRAYER

Our Father, we thank thee for calling us to be disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ. Help us to hear His call and obey. Open our eyes to the wonderful opportunity to become part of Thy eternal kingdom. Grant us the will to learn of Christ and the courage to follow Him. In the Master's name. Amen.

50 School People, Laymen Meet Here For Study of Public Schools Needs

About 50 members of the Lynn county Hale-Aiken school "grass roots" study committee held its second joint meeting Monday night at the school cafeteria in Tahoka and studied various phases of the school programs in this county.

Dividing into groups, consisting of representatives from Tahoka, O'Donnell, New Home and Wilson, committee members delved into the problems of school program, teacher demand and supply, and financing.

Preceding the discussion superintendents of the four districts, Otis Spears, Weldon Skinner, J. P. Hewlett, and C. O. Head, reported on the local committee meetings held during the past month.

Mrs. Pearl Davidson reported the findings of the school program group discussion, which asked for a requirement of 20 credits for high school graduation, more teachers to offer additional needed courses, textbooks for elementary schools that convey moral, spiritual, and patriotic values, and foreign language in the grade schools.

W. P. Jones, in his report on the findings of the teacher supply and demand, said the group agreed that more and better qualified teachers are needed and must be enticed to enter the field by better salaries and for the personal satisfaction gained from educating future leaders.

Because of the fact that all people are not suited to the teaching profession, students in high school should be screened and those with the desirable personalities and qualifications encouraged to prepare for teaching. The group also suggested that teacher preparation in the college level should be directed more to subject matter than to so many education courses that are more general in preparing a person to teach school.

The report on finance, given by J. W. Gardenhire of O'Donnell, said that the State should take into consideration the cost of transportation in small schools in its allotment to school districts. He said the group, in finding that the general school fund of the state is being depleted, recommended the spreading out of natural resources over the state rather than being spent entirely on the local level.

One local problem that emerged from the discussion is the fact that the economic index seems unfair to Lynn county. The index is supposed to reflect the wealth of the school district, and yet every district in the county is evaluated at several times the amount of many other schools its same size, some of which are located in rich oil and irrigation districts. Further investigation into the problem is forthcoming.

Mrs. Ruth Jolly, county chairman of the Hale-Aiken Lynn County Committee, presided at the meeting when the group made plans to meet at least three more times before a final report is made to the State committee of 24 on May 1. Mrs. Billy Hancock of New Home is secretary.

In the meantime, local committees plan to meet together to go into problems more thoroughly.

By so doing, facts on such things as tax rates, evaluation, etc. can be boiled down to specific needs and recommendations.

These studies being carried out by counties over the state are expected to set the pace for school programs for the next 20 years and the Hale-Aiken State Committee will make its recommendations to the Legislature based on the findings of the county studies.

Newspaper Advertising Effective

More than ten billion dollars was spent on advertising during 1957, according to the best estimates now available.

As in past years, approximately one-third of all advertising expenditures was made for newspaper advertising. The combined investment in TV, radio, magazine, and outdoor advertising did not equal the total spent by American business for newspaper advertising.

Each year, for several years running, total advertising expenditures for the nation have increased a billion dollars over the previous year. The cause of the increase has been diagnosed by economists. It is a reflection of a dynamic economy and an almost unlimited capacity to produce consumer goods.

American business men know that prosperity and healthy commercial activity are not assured by low cost production alone. The processes of prosperity are not complete until distribution and consumption occur. Unused products do not add to the wealth and prosperity of peoples and nations. Labor can not be employed to produce goods for which no market exists—no matter how fine the products are.

Most excellent new products remain unsold and unused unless the public is stimulated to purchase the new products. Only advertising can provide the necessary stimulation. It is the fuel of prosperity.

Increased advertising throughout the century indicates that our economy is capable of producing a growing variety of goods and services at a lower cost. It is a sure measure of a mounting standard of living.

The new and better products have to be sold like meat and bread—at the local level by a local dealer. This means that the basic retail medium, the newspaper, remains the dominant advertising medium in America.

Jack Knitgen, left, business executive of Waco, has been elected president of the board of directors of the Brazos River Authority. He succeeds Herbert S. Hillburn, right, Plainview editor and publisher, who has been a member of the board since 1935 and its president since 1953.

Bible Topics

By Leroy Cowan
ADORNING—The world is fashion conscious. Some think it is fashion crazy. Styles change from one extreme to another. People want to be dressed in the best they can afford. All too often they do not know what the best is.

The Bible speaks often of the dress of men, first of man's efforts to dress himself and how God made them coats of skins to clothe them properly. Jesus referred to the beautiful attire of Solomon and at the same time said that the lilies of the field were more beautifully dressed than he. The Bible requests that apparel be modest or decent. I Tim. 2:9. Cleanliness and care in dress is urged. However undue anxiety for raiment is forbidden. Matt. 6:29-33.

But there is an adorning that is greater than that of the body. The inner man must be dressed properly. Surpassing outward adorning, Peter says, "but let it be the hidden man of the heart, in the incorruptible apparel of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price." I Pet. 3:3-4. People do not have to be richly dressed to be beautiful. The true Christian life will adorn and make beautiful even the poorest people. Clothes do not make the man, the man makes the clothes.

The best is yet in the future. "He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father, and before his Angels." Rev. 3:5.

At various times in history counterfeiting has been punishable by death.

Fisher Speaks At New Home Club

Charles Fisher of the Lubbock Experiment Station was the speaker at the monthly meeting of New Home Civic Club Monday night.

Mr. Fisher, with the Spur Station for about 20 years, recently succeeded Don Jones, head of the station for many years.

His interesting talk dealt with a number of subjects, including a brief history of agriculture, conservation farming, grain varieties suitable for both dry land and irrigation on the Plains, and other pertinent topics.

He said early maturing cotton raised on the Plains was developed in North Carolina. Such is the case with a number of our crops and varieties. The Plains has become a sort of outcast area agriculturally, neither South nor West.

This area could profit by developing its own crop varieties suitable strictly to this area and yet develop for a needed market or purpose, then we should promote these crops in order to show and prove them to the rest of the country.

John Edwards was winner of the door prize. Robbie Gill presided over the business session, during which Dick Turner made a report on progress of improving the football and baseball fields. Lights have been moved, more will be added if needed for night Little League baseball, and a basketop will be installed.

If funds are available, a concrete tennis court will be built. Joe D. Unfred and Morris Renfro are in charge of this project.

The dinner was served by the Home Demonstration Club ladies. Leland White reports the crowd was not up to usual standards due to conflicting meetings, but possibly 30 or 35 men attended.

How Valuable

... IS LOCAL NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING TO LOCAL BUSINESS PEOPLE.

Here's What The Banker's American Magazine, a publication which represents a traditionally hard-headed profession has to say.

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business mentioned somewhere in its columns.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town ... it's the best possible town advertiser. The man or woman who does not advertise does an injustice to himself or herself and definitely to the town.

John White Advocates Increased Cotton Acreage In Talk At O'Donnell

Agriculture Sec. Ezra Benson's insistence on holding down cotton allotments this year is going to force the U. S. to import cotton from foreign countries. Texas Agricultural Commissioner John C. White declared at the annual O'Donnell Rotary Club's Rural-Urban day dinner in the school cafeteria Tuesday night.

"At a time when our farmers must plant to prosper, the current allotments will not produce enough top quality cotton to meet our domestic demand," White said.

"If Benson would increase the 1958 cotton allotment by 25 per cent, it would provide some much needed strength for our farm economy."

"We have an excellent chance to produce high quality cotton this season for the first time in eight years. While we have about 7 1/2 million bales in storage, there is actual shortage of strict middling grade cotton. An active demand exists for the better grades but present allotments will not meet the coming need."

"As a result, we find ourselves in the absurd position of bringing cotton into this country from Mexico, Brazil, and possibly even countries friendly to Communism such as Egypt."

"Current allotments are based on an estimated production of 11 1/2 million bales for 1958," the state commissioner continued. "Much of this has been placed in the soil bank, however. A 25 per cent increase would permit enough actual plantings to produce this 11 1/2 million bales. And our annual use of cotton would rapidly absorb this amount if the quality is good."

"Obviously, some of our government planners are suffering from a bad case of statistical astigmatism. Their allotments are based on the estimated production and they have disregarded the fact that much of this land went into the soil bank and will not produce any cotton."

"Weather and soil conditions now are extremely favorable for the cotton farmer. Last year's rains, coupled with normal moisture this spring, can result in the best crop since 1950."

"Our farmers have a chance this year—and they sorely need it. A larger allotment would not be the go-ahead for producing more surpluses. Instead, it would provide an opportunity for growers to meet the needs of the nation and the world."

White said the move also would give encouragement to a badly discouraged segment of the nation's population, which has been diminishing for the past several years.

"Adverse weather conditions and unsympathetic government policies in recent years have forced thousands of our rural people off the land and into the unskilled labor pools of industrial centers."

"In the past seven years, our farm population dropped from 25,058,000 persons to 22,257,000—a loss of 2,801,000—one of the most rapid declines in history."

"On the Texas scene, we had 149,000 unemployed persons in the closing weeks of 1957. But since 1950, we have lost 231,000 persons off the farms."

"Many of these people found unskilled jobs at a time when production, business and government spending levels were high. Now that production and business is leveling off, these unskilled laborers are the first to join the ranks of the unemployed."

"If we could re-absorb into agriculture those nearly three million persons lost from farms, it would take a tremendous cut out of our unemployed rolls. There is still room on the farm for our people provided agriculture is given an even break in planning."

"The prevailing attitude of 'Get rid of the small farmer' has done a lot of unnecessary harm. Actually we can profitably utilize 30 million persons on farms instead of the present 22 million, but government policies will have to be more friendly to the farmer than they are today."

"After all," White asked, "which is better—pay out millions of dollars a month in unemployment compensation benefits—or allow those workers to become effective producers on the farm?"

"The fact still remains that agriculture is the basic pillar in our national economy—and in our national defense. A healthy agricultural outlook and a strong defense system are both dire necessities of today. And a strong farm economy is fundamental to victory in war and to prosperity in peace."

About 200 Rotarians, farmers and guests attended the meeting. Weldon Skinner, president of the club, presided, and Dr. Noble Rumbo was in charge of the program. John Saleh introduced the speaker.

Attending from Tahoka were Happy Smith, Herman Heck, Bill Griffin, and Lester Adams.

Light Leads Our People

Each day a new door opens. What it reveals on the other side, for the people who must pass over its threshold, depends upon the conditions under which they lived their yesterdays.

Those in some countries look through the door upon a new day shadowed with oppressions, where there are few freedoms, tyrannies abound and living is hard and cold.

Those of us in America are more fortunate. Opening the door each day, we are met by the light of freedom which has led our destiny for many years. Protecting that freedom has been — and always will be — a Press that will not succumb to dictation or overpowering despotism.

For the light that leads to all freedoms is Freedom of the Press: Education . . . information of all kinds . . . news of all that transpires . . . and the open discussion of opinions and ideas that sharpens understanding.

Complete freedom of speech and of the press is the light that builds understanding, helping all mankind to advance onward and upward through the opening door of each tomorrow.

RAISES FINE TURNIPS

C. J. Miller, who farms on the R. A. Kalich place northeast of Wilson, has sent The News two sample turnips he raised this year. The turnips, each of which weighed six pounds, were brought in by Pete Ware of the SCS office, who said Miller had a large patch of about as fine turnips as he had ever seen.

Everyday Religion

By J. B. Thompson

In the early days on the vast open ranges of the west the ranchers built what they called the drift fence. The writer has been shown the location of some of them in the high plains country. Cattle tend to drift before the onrushing storm or in search of greener pastures and the drift fence kept them from wandering too far from the owner's range. When round up time came the drift fence was a great help in bringing drifters home again.

There is need in life for the drift fence. The writer of Hebrews sounded just such an admonition when he said, "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things that we have heard, lest at any time we drift away from them."

Drifting is such an easy process. Rambling about; following the line of least resistance; drifting farther and farther from the range of life's responsibilities. No effort; no thought of direction; just drifting—along. Sounds good, doesn't it? But just because it is easy doesn't mean that it is good.

The Greek words for "easy" and "evil" are almost identical. To "take it easy" is to invite trouble. Life demands effort: Drifting is easy, therefore drifting is not good.

Drifting is also an unconscious process. We wander farther away than we think when we drift. It is also a downward process. We never drift upward. We never drift up stream; it is always downstream. It is always with the current; with the wind; not against them.

We need to face the storms of life and stand our ground with stubborn determination if we would avoid the dangers of drifting.

Housing . . .

of each member's expiration of service, the Housing Authority will elect the successor.

This Monday, F. Olen Smith, engineer for the Public Housing Administration, will be in Tahoka to confer with the local Housing Authority and to help them with detail work, as well as lay plans for the possible building of the duplex structures in Tahoka.

Mayor McCord and members of the City Council invite any or all citizens to give the project considerable thought and to talk with any of them on questions or angles they do not completely understand.

They also point out that the project will in no way be in competition to standard rental property, that is, those who have plumbing and modern conveniences.

At Monday night's City Council meeting in addition to discussion of the housing project, councilmen made plans to erect rest rooms at the City Park to benefit both the park and the Little League park area. The construction will probably be completed before summer.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The U. S. State Dept. it must be said, is a resolute, tenacious stubborn organization. Well, perhaps not when dealing with other nations, but when it comes to shaking dollars out of the U. S. taxpayer it is pretty persistent.

C. Douglas Dillon, deputy under secretary of this governmental agency, has asked that Congress now give State Dept. the full $625 million to add to a fund of $300 million voted last session to engage in making C. W. Harder loans to foreign nations.

But there is just one tiny hitch to this idea. Although since the last session of Congress, the boys at State have had $300 million to loan to nations requesting same, there have been no requests.

It very much appears that the U. S. can easily give away all the money that the bureaucrats in Washington can write out of the taxpayers, but as for borrowing, the attitude appears to be "thanks a lot, but no thanks."

And this does seem strange, as Uncle Sam seems to be a most liberal creditor. Recently the British had a little note coming due to U. S. of some $137 million in principal and interest.

But Britain put up a hard luck story, so entire matter was postponed for at least 43 years.

Thus, it is hard to see why any nation would be hesitant about borrowing from the U. S. But so far, nobody wants any part of the $300 million foreign loan fund.

Now, of course, it may be possible that State Dept. is pouring and not taking any applications.

They actually asked last Congress for a billion dollar fund.

In one of those often forgotten exercises of Congressional prudence, it was decided to go easily, see what happens. Instead of letting loose of a cool, round billion, Congress decided to split this between two fiscal years, voting only $300 million for first year.

Now, despite the fact that there have been no takers for any part of this sum, State Dept. still wants the balance.

In the meantime, back on Main Street, as evidenced by the round robin of meetings held last summer and fall all through the United States by the Senate Small Business Committee, under Sen. John Sparkman, chairman, independent enterprise in this country needs capital to expand, and to compete.

In addition, loans to American free enterprise, as evidenced by the record so far of the Small Business Administration, are a pretty glib edge investment.

But above and beyond this point, it is interesting to see that while foreign nations line up at Uncle Sam's free gift window, they are not interested in any loans. No, sir, loans, they feel, are bad business.

And this is just one more reason why the nation's independent businessmen have gone on record so many times through the National Federation of Independent Business for abolishing foreign give-aways. Of course, the bureaucrats spend a lot of their waking hours explaining that a give away is not actually a give-away, but as any Main Street businessman knows, no matter what you call it, throwing money out into the street is still throwing money out into the street.

Theo Campbell . . .

ing 467 acres, 80 of which is under irrigation.

"I started the soil building program after seeing during the drought in 1952 and 1953 that I needed to do something to make the land hold more water," Theo states. "I read about what Clint Harber was doing down in South Central Texas by growing soil improving crops, and decided that if this would work for him down there perhaps it could also work for me out here."

Campbell is using legumes and high residue crops of grain sorghums and perennial grasses to build up his land.

In 1956, he planted 22 acres of sesbania and 24 acres of blue panic. In 1957, he planted 125 acres of grain sorghum with mung beans inter-planted, 60 acres of sorghum alnum, and 60 acres of Blackwell switchgrass.

All of his cotton is overseeded with rye, this being done at the last cultivation. The rye is left on the land until it starts pointing, which falls somewhere from March 1 to April 1, and then it is cut off with wide sweeps to keep from using his underground moisture.

Campbell states that the rye uses the moisture that is normally lost by evaporation due to having to carry out plowing to keep his land from blowing. With this type of system, machine harvesting works well because the land is protected by the rye cover crop. He declares he was able to realize $100.00 per bale of cotton after paying rent, ginning and harvesting costs.

He is planning on overseeding 70 acres of the rye with hubam clover, and will manage the clover for a seed crop.

"Not only is cotton easier to machine harvest where rye is overseeded in the cotton at the last cultivation," he says, "but the ginning cost is less because the weight of sand in cotton is not there. Another reason, it is building my land and not letting it blow."

"Fertilizer can be applied out of a bag, but organic matter that we need can't. It has to be grown. The land that is in grass is my wettest land, or at least the moisture has penetrated deeper. You can find earthworm activity every time you dig a hole."

Campbell came to Lynn county with his father, Pat Campbell, who is postmaster at Wilson. He received his education at Wilson, where he took four years of vocational agriculture. His wife is the former Elner Shambeck, daughter of Mrs. Elsie Shambeck and the late Louis Shambeck, and grew up on the farm where they now live.

They have three children, Kerry, 7, Dana, 4, and Kimberly, 2. The family attends the First Baptist Church at Wilson, and Theo belongs to Wilson Lions Club. Theo saw service with the Merchant Marines during World War II.

As a hobby, Theo raises Shetland ponies, and now has seven head. He also does oil painting, and has some good pictures to show. He likes fishing when he can find time and is now getting a recharge pit in a play-lake fixed up to raise minnows.

Mrs. Campbell is sold on the grass and cover crop planting because it has eliminated some of the housecleaning that follows every sandstorm. She says they are able to use the west part of the house now.

The Campbell place is a pretty sight to look at with all its green fields, field borders and turnrows.

Standing . . .

paid off in 10 years. But—local taxpayers at that time will have paid an additional $125,000 in interest, or a total amount that would have paid for two buildings.

The local school board is faced with the fact that more building must be done in the near future, and wishes the district could in some way get out of paying the terrific interest.

There is a solution, but it is strictly up to the taxpayer as whether he wishes to go along with it or not.

If taxes were doubled for one year—just one year—a $100,000 building could be constructed and $125,000 saved.

Don't make up your mind now—investigate the situation and think it over.

"I am sorry," said the dentist, "but you can't have an appointment with me this afternoon. I have 18 cavities to fill."

Then he picked up his golf bag and went out.

Boy, did I put my foot in my mouth last week! So, to keep the record straight—

Yes, Vicki and Becky, I think you are very pretty little girls, as well as all of your friends that I didn't have room to mention. Every one of you have an adorable smile, beautiful eyes, and are absolutely the sweetest bunch of little angels ever created.

And, thank the good Lord, we have the privilege of loving you.

I don't know whether my sense of humor is getting dull or what—but it is becoming extremely difficult to dig up amusing local incidents. Would appreciate your contributions in this regard.

In the meantime, have fun figuring your income tax.

Amazing Developments In Telephone Service For Future Are Related

Forthcoming amazing developments in the telephone field were revealed in a talk before Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday noon of last week by Billy Bray, younger brother of A. M. Bray who is the new district manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company at Lubbock.

He prefaced his remarks with the statement that four months ago we would have thought the "Sputnik" fantastic, and not many years ago we could not conceive of television.

He said recent new developments such as the transistor radio tube have already made the latest dial system out of date.

Although many new developments are now possible, such will not come into being immediately because of the tremendous amount invested in present equipment and because of cost of the new.

He then proceeded to predict some of the telephone services that may be available in the future. In fact, some of these are already in use on an experimental basis.

For instance, in certain areas, one may dial any number in the nation without first calling "long distance."

Radio, telephone and television will permit the calling of London as quickly as a Tahokan can call Lubbock now.

Television may be adapted to telephone, already possible, and two persons talking to each other may also see each other on a small screen about the size of a teacup.

The transistor will permit the going away of the telephone cord and allow one to carry the receiver about the house anywhere he desires. Even a telephone transmitter may be carried on the wrist much as one wears a wrist watch. Already in use in some areas is an answering recorder which takes your message when there is no one present to answer the phone. Not only can it take down your message, but it is also possible to have the recorder relay the message to another number. Eventually, one may tell the telephone what he wants or who he wants and the impulse will cause the equipment to carry out the orders.

Eventually, a person may be issued a number at birth similar to his Social Security number, and that number will become the individual's telephone number to be called by anyone from any place on earth.

He also told of the wonders of the coaxial cable and the relay or repeater stations along them, making possible the carrying of as many as 1800 telephone conversations on a single pair of wires at the same time. Now, these coaxial cables are taking the place of many wires on poles across the nation and under the oceans. The relay stations (the little white buildings now seen periodically along the cable lines) pick up the voice of the speaker, amplify it and send it on along the long journey as quickly as an electrical impulse will allow.

Some solar batteries are already in use, these being little silicon

L. H. Moore Jr., Gets Picture In Magazine

The picture shows a boll puller being operated on the farm of L. H. Jr., and right along and beside the bollpuller another vehicle is spreading cotton burs on the land.

The story features the moisture conserving effect of cotton burrs spread on the land and asks the question: How long can the irrigated High Plains keep on wasting its water?

W. L. Broadhurst of the High Plains Water Conservation District and other irrigation experts have frequently made the statement that Lynn county farmers are making the best use of their water available of any county on the Plains.

discs atop telephone poles which pick up the sun's rays and convert them into electricity to operate the telephone impulses.

These and many other possibilities he described seem fantastic now, he said, but most of them are already possible through the development of electronet although not yet practical.

The program was arranged by Otis Spears.

The meeting completed 18 months in which the Tahoka club has had 100 percent attendance of its membership, a phenomenal record equaled by few if any of the more than 5,000 Rotary Clubs of the world.

Odds and Ends

(By R. I. Elder)

It may be that some of the readers of this column will tire of reading it because so much of it consists of quotations from illiterate Negro children who do not know how to speak the simplest kind of good ordinary English. But the fact that they can not express themselves in any but the crudest forms of Negro dialect is one proof of the depths of ignorance and depravity from which they were gradually lifted by the lovable and saintly white woman, Mrs. Lee, known throughout this story as "Miss Rossie." So, I must continue to quote these little underprivileged Negro girls in their own native dialect in my contribution of this Column this week. Some may feel that I have chosen an inopportune time to present this story involving the race problem, when feeling of so many good citizens—and bad ones too—are already ruffled almost to the breaking point all over this country of ours.

The story as written by Veanie, one of the little Negro twins, many years later, reveals a continued and almost incessant period of injustices, malice, and persecutions heaped upon these two little helpless twins, by the white people of Florida, that surely has not been surpassed by the people of any other state in this Union. In order to find confirmation of the story as written by Veanie after she grew up of evidence if any that would discredit or materially modify it, I consulted the history of Florida as contained in the World Book, just this past week, and I found not one thing that would discredit or weaken Veanie's story in the slightest degree. On the other hand, I found in the World Book the recital of historical, geographic, and educational facts and conditions that strongly tend to support Veanie's tragic story.

I closed this Column last week, or practically closed it, with the remark that this was the first crisis in Mingie's new world, but she was to have another one that very afternoon, and others were to follow.

Well, another crisis did come that afternoon. So, right here I return to Veanie's account of the incident and others to follow. Mrs. Lee, it will be remembered, had led Mingie back to the kitchen. Mr. Lee, who came home for his noon-day meal, was surprised to find Mingie in the kitchen. Mingie listened as they discussed her in the next room, and she heard Mr. Lee say, "Surely you don't intend to let her fool around with the baby, Rossie." But a few minutes later, when Mr. Lee saw Mingie in the kitchen lapping up her food like a starved puppy, he said to his wife, "Give her something else to eat, honey." Mrs. Lee told Mingie to go to their table and eat as much as she wanted. Then she went to the front porch to say good-by to her husband. When Mrs. Lee came back, the empty dishes surprised her. Only two rolls remained, and they were in Mingie's fists. Four other rolls had disappeared, together with a large portion of steak, a half bowl of string beans, potatoes, and tomato salad. Mingie's dress was bulging oddly, and the greasy, tomato-colored stains indicated much of the food had been stowed away. Mrs. Lee began to question her, and Mingie at first denied but later confessed that she was taking the food to Veanie. "I'd have given you that food for your sister if you had asked me, Mingie. Nobody likes people who take things on the sly. It's really stealing. Don't ever do that again. Understand?"

Then Mrs. Lee got paper sacks and put the food into them. After helping Mingie clean her new dress, she said, "Don't you think you'd better go home? Your papa and sister must be wondering about you." "Is um comin' back tomorrow?" It seemed to Mingie that Mrs. Lee hesitated a moment, and the world grew dim. Then Mrs. Lee said, "Yes, you come back tomorrow. Now come along. I'll leave Edie at Grandma's and then I'll drive you home."

Ed. Note: Please note that Mrs. Lee has already begun to teach these underprivileged children two stern lessons. She has positively instructed them that they must not lie and must not steal if they are going to work for her. These, of course, are just the beginning lessons. Now Veanie takes over.

When a shiny new car appeared and kept on coming toward our shack I was seized with fear. A car in our wasteland where no car ever came—what could it mean but trouble? Mingie had been gone so long—something terrible had happened. The car stopped. Yes, whatever bad thing it brought was meant for us. Shaking, I kept out of sight, inside the cabin.

Mingie jumped out of the car—a different Mingie. She had on a beautiful dress, and her face shone as new as her dress. A strange white woman got out too, and came with Mingie to the cabin.

Mingie was calling me, "Veanie, come an' look what I got for you! An' see, I got on a new dress Mrs. Lee give me—an' bloomers with trimmin' on 'em, Veanie!"

I didn't move, and I didn't answer. Mingie and I looked exactly alike; nobody could tell us apart. But we weren't the same inside. I heard my sister out on the porch explaining me to the white lady. "She kinda shame, Veanie is. She don't like to talk to nobody strange at first." Then Mingie called again. "Come on an' git eatin' Veanie—'aters, an' meat, an' beans, an' biscuits Miss Rossie here give us."

I darted out, snatched up the sack, and ran back into the cabin. As I tore open the sack and began eating, I kept staring out at the strange white woman. Mrs. Lee was silent as she glanced about, gathering courage. A realize now, for her next step. At last, she asked if she could go into the cabin and see Papa.

Forever I see my home as it was when Mrs. Lee first visited it: the termite-eaten walls, the paneless windows covered with torn, yellowing newspaper, the mice running boldly about, the kerosene lamp with its broken smoke-streaked shade resting on a splintery, unpainted table, the seatless chair in one corner of the front room, the sway-bellied cot which Mingie and I shared.

I had retreated in fear to the back room—Papa's room—when Mingie and Mrs. Lee entered; but now Mingie was leading our visitor in there. Mrs. Lee had to get used to the darkness of the room and also—as I, even on that day realized—to adjust herself to the heavy, sour smell. Then she heard the coarse raspy mumble of a paralyzed man attempting to speak, and she walked to the sagging cot where Papa lay.

"Hello," she said, trying to force brightness into her tone. Papa could only mumble as he dragged his better hand, trembling, from the edge of the cot and tried to reach out toward his visitor. Mrs. Lee gently took Papa's wasted brown hand in her own and looked into his face. He mumbled again, his left eye half closed, his right eye staring, wide and wretched, beneath his black brow and his head of mixed-grey, linty hair.

"It's all right," Mrs. Lee said. Don't try to talk. I think I understand." At her side, Mingie reminded her, "He can't talk none."

included most of the household furnishings) and left. We never saw her again.

It was then that we moved, with the help of a neighbor, to this shack renting for 50 cents a week. After Papa as best as we could. And Mingie and I began looking for food. Sometimes we stole vegetables from near-by fields. We gathered wild berries and guavas from deserted groves. We took turns walking the three miles to the town-dock packing house for the cull oranges and grapefruit given away free. We baited fish hooks with corn to catch pigeons and wandering chickens.

Our position improved somewhat after we met Aunt Tiller, an old woman crippled by rheumatism who lived alone in a little house not far from ours. On some days, we noticed, she would hobble out and be gone for hours. Mingie and I began taking turns going to her house—and stealing her food. But one day we found her at our steps. We were caught. Leaning on a stick which might, we felt, become a weapon, she looked us sternly in the eyes and said, "Child'n, I don't like nobody to take nothing' from me. If I got anything ya want, as' me for it, an' if I got it to spare, I'll give it to y'all. She started away then but turned on her cane. "Who stay here with ya?" she asked. And that was how Aunt Tiller met Papa. But that begins another episode in the lives of these little twins, and all of it occurred, of course, before Mingie started out that notable morning looking for her first job.

First education of women in the U. S. was in the "Dame Schools" where they were taught to read and sew, but not always to write.

If You Can't Go South

If you can't go South for the Winter—and most of us can't—then you'd better be sure your car is in trim for several months more of cold weather driving.

Drive in to your nearest Phillips 66 Station now and have done what needs to be done. You ought to have your battery tested and serviced. You'll want plenty of Phillips 66 Anti-freeze in your radiator. And how about your tires? Do you need a new set of Phillips 66 snow treads?

Our mid-winter check-up also includes getting the right winter greases in the right places, and a change to fresh Phillips 66 Troop-Artic Motor Oil. Come in now. Don't risk a "freeze-up."

Theo Cook is constructing terraces on his farm south of Draw. He has also bought a whirlwind terracer and plans to rebuild the old terraces on his other dryland quarter.

Clayton Baird plans to terrace his farm. His land was first terraced in 1926, probably among the first in the county.

Buster Phipps has developed a conservation plan on his farms. Mr. Phipps is a new district co-operator who farms near Wells.

O. E. Heinrich, who lives near Wilson, plans to bench about twenty acres of his farm as a means of irrigation water management.

Terrace lines are being run this week for Glenn Brewer north of O'Donnell. Brewer is terracing the entire section.

Contour lines were run this week for Sam Singleton on his place north of Newmoore.

Concrete pipelines have been installed on the Sally Godfrey farm southwest of Lakeview and the A. J. and Clarence Gicklehorn farm west of Wilson.

Early Tillage Gives Weeds A Boost

Discing or harrowing plowed ground before the final seedbed preparation will not help control such weeds as wild mustard, wild buckwheat, lambsquarters, pigweed, smartweed, black nightshade, speedwell, and purslane. This practice might even increase green and yellow foxtail infestation.

R. G. Robinson and R. S. Durham of the Minnesota Experiment Station say that early tillage usually leaves a lot of clods. Weed seed trapped in these clods won't germinate until rains have settled the soil again. They also found that pre-planting tillage in their experiments failed to make any difference in soil temperature or moisture which would hold weed seed germinate.

Late planting (June 25) gave excellent weed control as compared to early plantings in May. With late planting, the two agronomists say one early tillage may be needed to prevent a heavy weed growth which could hinder seeded preparation and cause considerable moisture loss.

Reduce Delinquency

V.
INCREASE FACILITIES
(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

Our good Texas program for re-training juvenile delinquents into worthwhile citizens is today imperiled by too little space in our very good institutions and too few probation and other personnel for adequate supervision and training.

The last regular session of the Legislature did something to relieve the situation but not enough.

Extremely Overcrowded
The State Training School for Boys at Gainesville is designed to handle 575 boys. It now has about 850. The girls' school at Gainesville was built for 180; it has 220.

The last Legislature provided dormitories for 160 boys, a school building, kitchen, and dining room.

Release Too Soon
No more boys, however, will be accommodated. The new buildings will simply serve to relieve the present overcrowding. Many boys who already need to go there can't be sent; many boys sent will be released before their training is sufficient. And with our ever-increasing delinquency rate, even more offenders will be free who need to be confined and trained.

At Gainesville three new dormitories and a security treatment cottage were provided to replace existing ones considered extreme hazards. But they will not provide room for more girls.

Increase Facilities
With present facilities so inadequate, whose responsibility is it for failure to rehabilitate? Isn't it ours? We are the people whose elected representatives carry out our wishes. What can we do to remedy the situation? We can make our legislators and our county officials (for county-level facilities) understand clearly what we want.

Wilson Farmer On Water Board

"The Cross Section," monthly publication of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, features in its January issue a story on Elmer Blankenship of Wilson, one of the five directors of the body.

Precinct No. 1 consists of Lubbock and Lynn counties and is represented on the Board of Directors by Elmer L. Blankenship of Route 2, Wilson. His home is located 1 1/2 miles southeast of Wilson.

Mr. Blankenship was born in 1914 at Vernon. His parents, the P. H. Blankenships, were farmers. After graduating from Vernon High School in 1934, he began attending Texas Technological College in Lubbock. He left in 1936 and started to Draughon's Business College in Lubbock.

This same year Miss Natalie Crosby a history major at Tech, became Mr. Blankenship's wife.

The next year, 1937, they moved to Farwell in Parmer County and entered into a farming venture with a cousin, Keith Pigg. After one year, Mr. Blankenship bought a 123-acre farm at Wilson. The family lives on this original tract at the present time.

In 1938, the first of the Blankenship's two children was born; Judy is now 19 years old and is a sophomore at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene. She is a Home Economics major and plans to transfer this fall to Texas Tech. Jimmy, 17 years old, is a junior at the Wilson High School. He has been active in FFA work. His entries have won numerous awards in livestock shows throughout the area.

During the spring of 1948, Mr. Blankenship drilled his first irrigation well. He now operates three wells on his home place; four wells on 320 acres near the New Home community in Lynn county; and six wells on a section of land in Yoakum County. The Yoakum county land is watered by using sprinkler systems.

Aside from Mr. Blankenship's duties as a member of the High Plains Water District's Board of Directors, he serves on the Lynn County Soil Conservation Service Board of Supervisors; is a member of the Lynn County Farm Bureau; Wilson Lion's Club; Wilson Methodist Church; and Masonic Lodge at Slaton. Before being elected to the High Plains Water District Board he served as a member of the Lynn County Committee.

For relaxation during the summer, the Blankenships usually camp out for a week or so in New Mexico or Colorado. They also have a boat at Lake Thomas near Snyder. Mr. Blankenship is not a fisherman, but he does enjoy boating, sight-seeing and taking pictures with his 35mm camera.

Mr. Elmer Blankenship is well versed on the water problems of his Precinct and of the High Plains of Texas, and he is a great asset to the Water District Board of Directors, and to Lubbock and Lynn County resident.

New Operator At O'Donnell Hotel

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roper from Winters have bought the O'Donnell Hotel from Mrs. R. E. Golightly, and are now operating the business, featuring family style meals and catering especially to the Sunday dinner crowd.

Mr. Roper says the dining room has been enlarged, and they can now handle 75 or more people. The O'Donnell Rotary Club has also moved its meeting place back to the hotel.

Mrs. Golightly expects to remain in O'Donnell at least temporarily, but expects to spend the spring in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

KIRKLAND IS PASTOR OF CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST

Elder L. B. Kirkland is currently the pastor of the Church of God in Christ (Colored) in Tahoka. The News is informed, and the pastor has a certificate to prove his appointment from Bishop J. E. Alexander, state overseer.

The News had been informed erroneously a few weeks ago by a local member that Kirkland was not the pastor. He preaches at the local church each first and third Sundays and also pastors a church in Lubbock.
