STANDING ON THE CORNER

With P. J.

Our desires always increase with our possessions. The knowledge that something remains yet unenjoyed impairs our enjoyment of the good before us.—Samuel Johnson.

A great deal of talk about unemployment has been going on in recent weeks, and Lynn county probably has its share of the national figure.

However, I do not agree that a depression is upon us but am convinced we must have faith that our government can and will avert one. I do agree with the man who said that the more we talk about a depression, the more we are likely to have one. Let's not ignore the unemployment situation, but let's look to the future optimistically.

One amusing sidelight to the situation was relayed the other day. After reading about national unemployment and economics a somewhat confused Mrs. Belton Howell asked her husband what the difference is in a recession and a depression.

He gently explained to her that when the Democrats are in office, it's called a depression, but when the Republicans are in office, it's a recession.

But whoever is in office, three cheers for the administration for turning thumbs down on the organization of a WPA or PWA, and turning to other means of providing work for those who need it.

A tourist traveling on the back roads of Kentucky got confused on his directions and stopped several times to inquire his way to Louisville, without success. Spotting a young hillbilly lounging beside the road, he stopped to inquire again.

Tourist: Say, young fella, how do I get to Louisville?
Hillbilly: Don't reckon I know.

Tourist, somewhat exasperated: You people around here are certainly ignorant.
Hillbilly: Mebbe so, but we ain't lost.

Heard some local people reminiscing the other day after learning that Alton Cain was buying the D. W. Gagnat furniture and hardware business, which has been in the family for many years.

Remember when Gagnat began selling a new-fangled machine called a tractor? To get the machines on the farms, Gagnat took mules as trade-ins. And then came it.

Howle Candidate For County Clerk

E. A. Howle is a candidate for the office of County Clerk of Lynn county.

Actually, his announcement was made for him by several friends, but now that he is in the race he expects to go all out in seeking the office.

Mr. Howle has lived in Lynn county 10 years. Born and reared in Cleburne county, Alabama, he came to Tahoka in 1948. He worked for West Texas Gas Co. and later farmed at Redwine for six years, 1950 through 1956. He is employed by Dale Thuren Farm Store since leaving the farm, and had worked at the store periodically while farming.

He is married and he and his wife have five children; two of whom are in college and three of whom attend school here. He says, if elected, he will do his dead level best to make Lynn county as good a clerk as it has ever had. He asks the voters to give his candidacy their careful consideration.

The friends who implored him to enter the race state: "Emory Howle is a good, honest, hard-working man, and we know he will make Lynn county a good county clerk. If you don't know him ask anyone who has been associated with him."

Church of Christ Buys Building Site

Tahoka Church of Christ this week announced purchase of a building site in West Tahoka, and is making plans to erect a new church structure, possibly within the next year.

The new site is on Lockwood street, the Brownfield highway, in the 2300 block. The church has acquired a site 297 feet by 300 feet from Clay Bennett, west of the Mrs. Cora Bennett home, extending north to North First Street. A street on the west is paved.

Members state the Church of Christ has been considering a new building in a new location for some time. The present church is one block east of the square on South First, and will be adjacent to the proposed new four-lane highway which will almost nich the minister's home. More than $20,000 has already been raised for future building need of the church.

James Phillips, who is on a committee making the lot deal along with Cecil Hammonds, Clint Sikes, Cleve Littlepage, and Roy Ford, says it is entirely possible construction will start within six months.
Leroy Cowan is minister of the church.

O'Donnell Wins At San Angelo

In sheep judging a score of 628 was made by the team out of a possible 750. Only a difference of 29 points was made between the high and low man. Lanny Brewer was third place in the sheep judging with a score of 212. The team will also take third in the overall contest with a total of 431 points out of the possible score of 500. ### Plan Potential On Oil Well At Wilson

Herman Brown Drilling Co. of Houston has installed smaller pump tubing and will establish permanent pump for a potential of 17 to 20 barrels of oil daily on their discovery well four miles east of Wilson on the Walter Savell farm, Mr. Savell reports.

Although tanks and separators have been established for a couple of off-sets to the well, no orders have been issued for additional wells, Savell said.
"At least we know there is oil around here," Mr. Savell told The News. "And of course people around Wilson are quite interested to know where the thing will go from here."

"Great game!" says Mr. Savell.

Tahoka C. of C. Plans Program

Tahoka Chamber of Commerce held its first meeting Thursday night since the installing of new officers, and several new projects were proposed by the incoming president, Dean Taylor.

Among the items was the possibility of organizing a building and loan association in Tahoka, and a committee was named to investigate the operation of such an organization.

The Highway 87 Association was discussed, and the president was authorized to attend the meeting of the organization in Big Spring Friday night and Saturday.

Securing of a tourist court was also discussed, but nothing will be done on this other than to contact interested parties until highway contracts are made through Tahoka.

Harry Ellis of the Texas Tech Stadium Expansion organization was present and explained the expansion plans and set option plans.

Meeting date of the monthly directors meeting was changed from the first Thursday night until the second Thursday night in each month because of a conflict.

Glenn Wells Is Aboard Carrier

(Ed. Note—The following is the first of a series of weekly articles by Ensign Glenn Wells, son of R. C. Wells of Tahoka, on board the USS Shangri-La (CVA-38) Attack Carrier of the Pacific Fleet. Although space may not permit the appearance of the articles each week, it is hoped that those of greatest interest will appear in the News.)

Tomorrow We Sail

Tomorrow, 8 March, 1958, the USS Shangri-La will leave San Diego Harbor for Pearl Harbor T. H. With her will be a crew of 2803 men of the United States Navy. She and her crew, under the command of Capt. Wallace C. Short, will deploy on a cruise that will last approximately seven months. Details as the exact operating schedule and ports of call are confidential information and cannot be mentioned at this time. However, yours truly, will describe the port of entry upon our arrival.

First a little informational and historical data on the Shang. She is a large attack carrier with a water displacement of 35,000 tons. She has a canted deck and steam catapults that shoot the jets off her bow rather than the plane ascending on its own power. She has a complement of 2803 men with some 800 being attached to the air group that will bark with the ship. The primary purpose of the ship is to act as a mobile landing base for her jet aircraft which strike the enemy and return. Such was her purpose during WW II and the Korean Conflict and such will be her purpose in the event of WW III. During peace time her purpose, as is the case in all military organizations, is to train men in their jobs so that they will be ready to

Everyday Religion

By J. B. Thompson

The farther we go down the road of life the more we value friends. They enhance the passing years. Through the long journey and into the sunset of life, friendships will sweeten your days and bless the lonely hours. More and more, like golden coins filling a treasure chest, friends become life's most precious possession. Old friends become life's most precious possession and new friends, in gracious accumulation, encircle your soul as the fleeting years leave their frost upon your heads; a sweet recompense for age.

One literary bard said, "That friend whom thou hast in thine adoption tried, grapple to thy heart with a hoop of steel." And another asked, "Is there a dismal day noted in your diary in which you lost a friend?" Indeed, what a happy day it is when one can say, "This day I have found a new friend."

I once received a book from a friend with the following inscription: "Oh the comfort—the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person—having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words—just as they are—chaff and grain together—certain that a faithful hand will take a sift then—keep what is worth keeping and with the birth of kindness—blow the rest away." (From "Friendship," By Dinah Maria Craik).

Keep every friend you have and make every new one you can; they are life's greatest endowment for happiness.

meet a war properly prepared. Such training is both expensive and dangerous, even in peace time. Joining the ship July of 1957, she was in overhaul at the Bremerton Naval Shipyard.

The overhaul cost you taxpayers on this ship alone two and one half million dollars. Since the overhaul we have been engaged with under-way training and air operations off the coast of California and Mexico. Training, that has already cost the lives of three of our crewmen and seriously injured two more. The accident occurred about two weeks ago when F11F Gruntan Tiger's landing gear collapsed and exploded in flames plunging into the sea taking her pilot and two deck crewmen to their death.

So tomorrow we sail with three less men who gave all they had to their job and their country. Quarters for leaving port will be in Navy Dress Blue Bravo on the flight deck. Wives and loved ones will wave a tearful farewell from the deck as the bands play Anchors Aweigh and the Shang is on her way.

See you next week in Hawaii. Glenn D. Wells.

In the world you shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world. (John 16:33.)

Some years ago, two of us were walking in the city of Nuremberg, Germany. A guide identified for us some of the historical buildings. He called our attention to the large St. Sebald Church. Over the door was a statue of Christ.

"You will notice," he said, "that Christ is there represented as a strong man; prominence is given to His strength. We like to think of Jesus as a strong Savior as well as a teacher."

Thinking on this idea, I remembered that the power of Christ is available to each of us today, even in situations where there are problems too difficult for us to solve or burdens too heavy for us to carry. He promises us that He will be with us always, even unto the end of the world. He bids us not to be afraid of tribulations since He Himself has overcome the world.

PRAYER

We thank Thee, our Father, for the power offered to us in our Savior, Jesus Christ. Help us to open our hearts to this power, that we may be able to withstand temptations and to be more than conquerors through Thy grace. We ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

ELMER BLANKENSHIP

The Lynn County SCD board of supervisors met last Wednesday, March 5. Routine business was carried out and plans were made for the observance of Soil Stewardship Week.

Board members attending were W. L. Rowe, Ellis Barnes and Elmer Blankenship. Others present were Nan Adams, clerk; Allyn Cox, SCS; Thad Smith, custodian of district carryall; and Perry Walker, FHA.

Did you know that the Lynn county SCD has the following equipment on hand in the district for the advancement soil and water conservation: Two dirt mowers, four land levelers, fertilizer equipment, water level tester, two 4-row grass seeders, two measuring wheels, two grass drills, four Hancock row seeders, two water meters, one Hancock 5-yard carryall. The purpose of having this equipment is to assist farmers by furnishing this special equipment to establish conservation practices in the district. For most of the equipment there is a small rental charge. Contact the supervisor in your part of the district for assistance on special equipment. Benny Pryor of New Home, Dale Price of Wilson, LeRoy Davis of Grassland and Ellis Barnes of Wells are the present custodians of the equipment.

Now is a good time to plant sweet clover, huban or madrid for soil improvement and grazing.

Those acres going into the Cotton acreage reserve of the Soil Bank Program is a good place to start an intensified soil building program. For more information about seeding and seeding equipment contact the Soil Conservation Service, Tahoka.

written for Elmer Schoppa. Schoppa farms approximately 480 acres northwest of New Home. A conservation irrigation system is being planned. Mrs. Schoppa also plans crop residue utilization and conservation crop rotation.

Miss Echo Milliken is planning to have terraces constructed on her farm near Draw.

Theo Campbell plans to construct borders on his farm. These borders will support the terrace system already in operation on his farm.

A conservation plan is being processed for the Tahoka Country Club.

The Country Club is planning trees on the south, west and north sides of the acreage. Blue gramma grass is to be planted in the roughs.

INSTEAD OF "THINGS"

(A distinguished Texas judge offers pointers on combating our rapidly increasing juvenile delinquency problem.)

By JUDGE SARAH T. HUGHES

A girl recently answered a newspaper inquiry on what young people want from their parents with the statement that her father gave her material things—money for shows, clothes, travel, even a car; but what she really wanted most was his attention.

"He doesn't listen to me," she wrote. "He doesn't even know the name of my best friend. When I try to talk to him he just gives me a $5 bill and says he has to meet a business friend. Surely his children should be more important to him than his business friends."

Big Change in the Times

It used to be easy for parents and children to do things together—many tasks around the house or farm called for joint effort, and the times made joint recreation easy. But today, with home chores limited and so many outside distractions, it is easy to drift apart.

A young boy brought before me had become delinquent largely because his father, busy making money, thought to retain his son's love by giving him THINGS.

Best Gifts Don't Cost Money

He failed to give him time and understanding. The boy sought significance elsewhere, fell in with the wrong crowd, and stole tires and gadgets for the car his father had given him.

The need to feel important in the lives of their parents is basic in a child's development. Next: Striking a Balance.

"There are only two kinds of people in the world—those in the swim and those in the soup."—F. P. Madison.

AN AIRPLANE IS TO USE

(Tradewind Short-Sorter)

Immediately following World War II (1946 etc.) some 37 manufacturers jumped in to gobble up the huge potential for airplane sales—a plane in every back yard.

They made the aircraft, CAA certified them, but Mr. and Mrs. Buyer didn't go for it . . . and after all, Mr. and Mrs. are the only yardsticks that count. So, most of the fabricators dropped by the wayside . . . some went broke, others diversified themselves clear out of the fly-in-the-sky business, others turned back to Uncle Sam for that good ole rocking chair of military contracts. Some peddled their designs and jigs to others (Navion, Luscombe, Bellanca, Stinson, Swift, Ercoupe, etc.) so that parts remained available and a few of such planes are still being built.

A few, six or seven, stayed in the business. They improved their models each year, strengthened dealer organizations, backed up their product. Today, the big three (Beech, Cessna, Piper, plus Aero Design, Mooney, Aeronca) remain in business because, in common, they learned one thing: "It's not enough to teach a person how to drive an airplane. They should also know how to use it."

Registered aircraft in our West Texas, Eastern New Mexico and Oklahoma Panhandle area have doubled in members since 1904—totals about 800 today. For every hundred miles a Braniff Convair wings over West Texas, this fleet flies four thousand miles—without the necessity of timetables, cost of ground personnel, or having a hostess remind them to fasten their seat belts.

Reliability has become a religion in every part of the aviation business. No manufacturer of aircraft or accessories can knowingly afford to sacrifice reliability in his product because no reduction in price—no matter how much more sales this would mean—is worth failure in service. The manufacturer must test and evaluate, develop and refine, always striving to improve the weak links in the complex chain of hardware that go to make a complete functioning aircraft.

 Actions that must be abided by. Each night that the club is open, sponsors or chaperones must be present. Adults other than these will be permitted, but will be encouraged to visit not over 15 minutes.
 The conduct rules state that "there will be no conduct allowed which the council considers ungentlemanly or unladylike. There will be no smoking except in the lounge area, and absolutely no drinking on the premises. Girls in slacks, shorts or blue jeans shall not be permitted to dance."
 Members must "sign in" upon entering and "sign out" when they leave for convenience of parents wishing to know their whereabouts.
 Various projects other than the recreation in the building will be planned, including swimming, golf, table tennis, and other games.
 Teen-Town will operate an employment center for teen-agers and those needing part time help are requested to telephone 298.
 An adult council member, Mrs. Ware, will serve as treasurer and is the only office to be held for one year. The treasurer will handle all financial matters of the club.
 Ready cash, it seems, is able to out do magicians in a disappearing act.

COUSINS VISIT FIRST TIME IN THIRTY YEARS

Captain and Mrs. F. Theron Willson of Tacoma, Washington and their three children visited Mrs. D. S. Waldrip last week. The Captain is Mrs. Waldrip's cousin, whom she had not seen for 30 years.
 A retired Army officer after 22 years of service, he has been stationed in Germany, France, Italy, Japan and Korea, as well as several points in the United States. He and his family only recently returned from overseas and received his discharge Feb. 28 in New York.
 Willson's wife, El Freida, a native of Germany, received her citizenship papers in 1952. They will live in Tacoma until September, when Captain Willson will enter the University of San Francisco, Calif. He is the nephew of Mrs. W. I. Lemon of Tahoka.

 days of getting the animals out of the country.
 My, how times do change! It won't be long before they'll be taking antiquated automatic equipment trade-ins on atomic powered buttons that will do any and every thing. Then we'll remember the day so long ago when we owned refrigerators that had to be automatically defrosted and had to automatically wash clothes with water! But, that's progress.
 Many of you parents will be glad to read this week about Tahoka's new Teen-Town. This is something the young people have needed here for a long time now.
 For several years there has not been much in the way of recreation for the young people to participate in. Many of them attend their church activities, go to a movie or ball game, but there is always time on their hands following these events.
 Thus, it is no wonder that there are occasional drag races and other such things going on. The amazing thing is that Tahoka has had a good bunch of kids for so many years. They certainly have had the time and opportunity to get into all kinds of trouble.

 Of course, the fact that they haven't goes to prove one thing—the homes, churches and schools have done their jobs well.
 A pat on the back to those who have been sufficiently interested in Tahoka's youth to provide chaperoned clean recreation for their leisure hours.

The smallest actual good is better than the most magnificent promise of impossibilities.—Macaulay.
CARD OF THANKS
 May God bless all of our wonderful friends for your kindness and help in the Tom Reid home during our recent sorrow and for the lovely flowers and cards sent in sympathy at the time of Helen's death. It is friends like you that make living worthwhile and we express our deepest gratitude for your sincere thoughtfulness. The Reid families.

Science Program At Rotary Club

Principal Jhon Shepherd and Benny Thorpe, science teacher, presented a program on the work of the science department in Tahoka High School at the meeting of the Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday afternoon of last week.

They exhibited some of the equipment used in teaching science, including a bioscope, which substitutes for a microscope in throwing a picture on a screen so all the class may see; a plastic model of the human body, which may be taken apart to show the component parts, including the brain, large and small intestines, stomach, lungs, liver, gallbladder, eye cavity, and mouth, etc.; and other devices for demonstrating conservation of energy, steam turbine operation, generation and other marvels of science.

The program was arranged by Wynne Collier and Hubert Eudy. The club voted to send Scoutmaster of Troop 21 to the District banquet.

Taylor Is Officer In Hwy. 87 Body

Dean Taylor of Tahoka was elected vice president of the northern district of the U. S. 87 Improvement Association in a meeting held at Big Spring Saturday.

Marshall Formby, chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, was the principal speaker and pointed out the importance of U. S. 87 in the state's highway program. About four and one-half million dollars is being spent on construction on 87 in Texas at the present time. The highway is the longest in the state.

Clyde Brannon of Lamesa, outgoing president, said that the association is not a pressure group, but one that cooperates with the highway commission with the objective of upgrading the route on "which we live."

Representatives from towns along the route attended the first annual membership meeting of the association from San Antonio, Fredericksburg, Sterling City, Lamesa, O'Donnell, Tahoka, Lubbock, Hale Center, Abernathy, Plainview, Tulla, Amarillo, Dumas, Clayton, N. M. and Raton, N. M.

Elected president of the association was Allen Keller of Fredericksburg, who is a general highway contractor, vice president southern district, J. W. Francis, a truck dealer from San Antonio; Taylor of Tahoka for the northern district, manager of Pioneer Gas Co. and president of the Chamber of Commerce; Lloyd Wilins, re-elected vice president of the New Mexico district; and Ed Patillo of Fredericksburg, secretary-treasurer.

Herman Renfro of Tahoka also attended the meeting.

An electric grid supplying 25,000 kilowatts has been opened for service in New Delhi, India.

Allegro is an Italian musical term meaning lively.

Odds AND Ends

(By E. I. The Elder)

I have been sending in this column at very irregular intervals for the past two or three months or more. As a general thing, I can charge it all on the weather. But I guess I should be more specific than that. For weeks I suffered intensely either from an attack of arthritis or from a sprained back. As I began, finally to wear out that pernicious malady, I began to feel gradually the encroachments of another stubborn and most irritating disease, that of asthma. I am suffering from it even yet. The snow and the continued cold and sloppy weather have kept me in the house, and about all that I have felt like doing for many weeks is to go to bed and just lie there.

The story of these two little Florida Negro girls, has proved to be a most enchanting one. They were really growing up, too, you will remember, when I finished the last chapter for publication. Mingie had developed rapidly and somewhat prematurely into the state of womanhood; and she had married a seemingly worthy colored man who was holding a white man's job in a white man's concern.

"Her and that sister of hers that done runned off and had them babies and come hubbin' 'em back—They bastards, that's what they is." "Yeah, those girls ain' nothin'—nothin' but sluts."

I was furious. I kept control of myself, but beads of perspiration broke out, and I started to run home. Mingie saw the state I was in. I told her what the women said about Miss Rossie. I didn't mention the lies about Mingie. But I might as well have told her. She heard it all.

For those tongues didn't stop, and others joined in. Aunt Tiller heard too, and came to us deeply concerned, to warn us that she felt sure that the person starting the stories was a girl whom we had always regarded as one of our best friends. I wanted to go to the girl and have it out with her. Mingie deterred me. What I did instead, was far more foolish. I waited one night until I was sure Mingie was asleep. Then I got paper and pencil and started a letter to the girl. I had it all planned in my mind—a cold, controlled, biting letter. But after I began writing I became angrier and more reckless. I kept on, filling page after page, and with each I became more abusive, more profane, more insulting. To this day, I'm haunted by some of those penciled words of mine. When I had finished, I crept out of the house and mailed the letter at the nearest mail box. Even before I reached home again, I was beginning to regret it. I woke Mingie and told her about it. I was wretched.

My letter was delivered—and brought to the attention of the postmaster. He drove to our cabin and confronted me with the letter. I could not deny it. I'd written it. "Do you know that you were committing a serious offense by sending such a thing through the United States Mail?" He asked. He read a portion of the postal regulations which stated that the penalty was a $5000 and-or five years in prison.

I can still feel the fear that seized me. "Will I have to go to prison?" I asked him. "What to do in your case, I don't know," he said, and without another word drove away.

"When Mingie heard what he (the postmaster) had told me, she said, 'Oh Veanie, you've got to tell Miss Rossie; you've just got to.' I knew that and was overwhelmed by shame. 'You tell her, Mingie, please.'"

"All right, I'll go right now." I covered in the house with the children. At last I saw Miss Rossie's car. I wondered whether, while driving here, she'd counted—as I had the years she'd been caring for us, and how, whenever things were very bad she'd come. Eight years of never failing me; after the hurricane; when Papa was dying; after the lynching; through the pneumonia. But my trouble today was different, I had committed a crime!

She came into the bedroom where I was sitting, my head bowed on the window sill, crying. "Oh Miss Rossie! Please! Please ma'am, forgive me, I was too mad, Will I have to go to jail?" I was looking up at her now. Her face was thoughtful, but it was kind. "I know the postmaster quite well, and I think that I can talk with him about it, Veanie," she said in her calm way. "Maybe he will let you off with a warning."

"Oh Miss Rossie, do you think he will?"

"I'll tell him, Veanie, how unlike you that latter is, and about our exceptionally good your school record and how you're planning to go to college."

"College! How far away that seemed now. One had to be worthy of such ambitions, and I had proved myself unworthy. I had sunk back to the ragged savage little girl of the palmetto scrub."

"But Miss Rossie, you have not seen that letter yet. When you do—you will hate me."

"Will I, now Veanie?" Through my tears I saw that she was smiling. It was a gently teasing smile. Actually she was laughing at me for having such a crazy notion.

When Mrs. Lee spoke with the postmaster, she found out that I, as a minor, would not be penalized for what I had done. But I went to the postmaster for his reprimand.

I then did something else for Miss Rossie—and for myself as well. I went to the girl to whom I had written, and apologized. I'd never had proof that she had started those stories about Mingie and me—only Aunt Tiller's word, which, though well meant, could have been ill-founded. Almost crying, the girl denied she'd had anything to do with the affair. Later, we went together to Mrs. Lee to let her know we were again friends, and nothing could have pleased Miss Rossie more.

And now with humility and determination, I can go on.

ERRORS IN NEWS STORY

The News made two errors in last week's issue in the story about Lewis Construction Co. Instead of a payroll of $10,000 to $12,000 weekly, the story should have read monthly. Also, The News said Lewis had flown employees 10,000 miles to and from work in the past year when the story should have read 100,000 miles.
