WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

By an overwhelming majority (85% of the votes) the nationwide membership the National Federation of Independent Business has endorsed a bill known as H. R. 1823 permitting broader local control of labor disputes.

Under its provision, the National Labor Relations Board could turn over to local states with the proper machinery set up, some labor dispute matters.

Perhaps the bill does not go far enough. C. W. Harder, but to the nation's independent businessmen, it is a step in the right direction.

For about 25 years now, the National Labor Relations Board has been the power to step into labor disputes. Seldom, if ever, has the NLRB gone against labor, or decided against the union leader's demands.

That is perhaps understandable because the labor leaders who pay close attention to who is in this bureau, are not prone to be happy with impartiality.

But over and beyond all this is the fact that often the economy of a community, even a whole state, or a region, can be tied up in a labor dispute, and the local people being damaged by it can do nothing but sit on their hands and wait for wheels in Washington to ponderously move toward some solution.

Actually, the powers of the NLRB were all set up in the mid thirties on a rather fuzzy definition.

tion of the right of the federal government to regulate interstate commerce.

When the U. S. Constitution was written this clause was inserted to prevent individual states from levying tariffs against each other.

But when NLRB was set up, this clause was interpreted to mean that the Federal government has the right to step into any situation remotely concerned interstate commerce.

Thus a manufacturer may make a unit sold only in the state, but in all likelihood, some of his raw materials come across state lines, so voila, he's in interstate commerce whether he knows it or not. And this permits the NLRB to come into his plant and hold elections to determine which union he shall deal with, and to do a host of other things.

Now by an act, the NLRB suits the big labor leaders just fine. It is much easier for them to deal with the bureaucrats of NLRB than to try and sell their bill of goods to the local heads of the soon-to-be 50 states.

Obviously, it will be a long and bitter fight, because it is a certainty that the labor bosses will not endorse this bill.

Public opinion could not only be a powerful force in many labor disputes, but in most cases, in this day and age, public opinion would be quite fair on issues involved in a labor dispute.

But the NLRB is impervious to public opinion. It is only when affairs are handled at a local level that the common sense factor of public opinion can enter into such matters.

Texas Lags In Brucellosis Fight

College Station.—Half of the 3,152 counties in the United States and its possessions are not modified certified brucellosis areas, said Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian. This means that tests show less than one percent of all cattle and five percent of all herds within the county are infected with brucellosis.

Of this number, he said, only three counties in Texas—Jeff Davis, Brewster, and Presidio—are certified. Officials have noted that the program's greatest gains have been made in those areas where livestock producers have cooperated by using the two main features of the program simultaneously—blood testing of animals to identify infected herds, and protection of calves through vaccination, Patterson said.

In addition to the 1,576 counties already certified, another 546 are currently working toward that goal and are expected to be certified soon. Up to the present time, 18 entire states, plus Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands have been certified, the veterinarian said.

When the national program first began in 1934, more than 11 percent of the cattle in the U. S. were infected. However, as a result of the present program, the infection rate among all cattle tested has been reduced from 2.6 percent in 1954 to 1.3 percent at the end of February this year. This reduction in animal infection has also reduced the incidence of undulant fever, the form the disease takes in humans, from 6,321 known cases in 1947 to 802 in 1958. Contact with infected animals or animal products is the only source of human infection, the veterinarian added.

Experimental brush control plots have been treated on Clarence Church's pasture north of Tahoka and on Cleve Littlepage's pasture south of Tahoka. Dy-Bar, a new chemical developed by DuPont was applied by S. C. S. technicians on three plots. Tests are being run on both mesquite and salt cedar plots. The final results may not be available until the end of the growing season in 1960. DuPont has asked the Soil Conservation Service to assist in testing their new product which is in pellet form and is applied to the area immediately around the base of the plant.

Hall Robinson has applied for cost share assistance for a permanent conservation program to be developed under the Great Plains Conservation program on his land.

Taken from "Agricultural Research," July edition.

"Irrigation of land made level by grading, a development of USDA agricultural engineers in the Southwest, is giving farmers more efficient use and control of water.

ARS agricultural engineer, P. E. Ross at Weslaco, one of the developer of the idea, explains that the method involves leveling land and enclosing it in low ridges to confine rainfall or irrigation water.

Heavy rainfall is held until stored or evaporated, thus assuring maximum use. Irrigation water distributes evenly and percolates deeply to a uniform depth without adding water to the water table. This results in uniform seed germination and plant population and of course, heightened production. The system is very efficient. Up to 90 percent of the water applied is used in contrast to runoff and erosion losses as high as 70 percent with graded irrigation.

Leaching for salinity control also works well with level irrigation, because the water remains uniformly deep until it soaks in or evaporates.

The system takes less labor, too—with underground pipes, the only labor involves opening and closing valves. Precise stream size adjustments are unnecessary.

This type system is gaining popularity in Lynn county very rapidly. Among those who have already installed such a system are Glenn Brewer, N. B. Hancock, M. C. Thomas, E. A. Thomas, W. P. Thomas, Pat Patterson, Pat Swann, B. L. Hatchell, J. W. Moore, H. W. Smith, C. B. Eads, B. A. Morrow, J. D. Finley, E. C. Houchin, L. A. Coleman, Edmond Maeker, Walter Maeker, E. L. Short, W. L. Gribble, D. W. Gagnat, L. H. Moore, Howard Alford, Jim Bob Smith, F. J. Schneider and J. W. Fenton.

Delton Pemberton, Brownfield insurance and real estate man, was a business visitor here Monday. Delton lived here as a youth and attended the local schools.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McKee accompanied their two daughters, Mary and Margaret, and Dortha and Martha, Rector to Austin the first of the week where they saw the legislature in action.

IS YOUR CROP DOING ITS BEST?

G. C. SHULTS—farmer in the Union Community, southeast of Brownfield, had this to say about fertilizers: "This is my third year to use fertilizers and I am convinced that they help increase production. I'm farming 925 acres—305 acres of cotton under the "A" Plan, of which 150 acres is irrigated. The balance of my land is in grain," and he added: "I fertilized before planting, and after having a tissue test run I found that my cotton needed additional nitrogen. By side-dressing with 15 gallons per acre of 10-5-5 the plants should have sufficient nutrients to finish out the growing season." When asked what he thought about using liquid fertilizers, he replied: "I like the ease of applying and the great labor-saving. It's easy for me to put down 40 to 50 acres a day, by myself. If liquid solutions will do what they should, and I believe that they will, then it is the fertilizer for me."

Have you taken a good look at your cotton crop lately? How is it standing up in comparison to past crops? Your crop is now going into a critical period. It is at this time that most of your plant nutrient deficiencies will begin to show up. Don't take chances on producing only half of your potential. Have your plants tested and find out what you can do to increase your yield by adding the proper diet of balanced plant nutrients to your crop.

For instance: Phosphorus is usually a limiting nutrient in cotton grown in our locale. The symptoms of phosphorus deficiency in cotton are not so pronounced as those caused by a lack of nitrogen. The most outstanding deficiency is a weedy-type growth. A deficiency of phosphorus will result in delayed fruiting and maturity—a very serious problem where boll- weevil damage is likely to be heavy.

Also, the symptoms in cotton associated with a lack of potash may be very pronounced. A lack of potash often results in striking malnutritional symptom commonly called "cotton rust" or "potash hunger." The first symptom in the leaf is a yellowish-white mottling. The leaf changes to light yellowish green, and yellow spots appear between the veins. The centers of these spots die, and numerous brown specks occur at the tip, around the margin and between the veins. The tip and the margin of the leaf break down first and curl downward.

As the breakdown progresses, the whole leaf finally becomes reddish brown in color, dries, and is shed prematurely. The premature shedding of leaves prevents the proper development of bolls, which are dwarfed and immature. Potash-deficiency symptoms are most likely to occur on soils with an abundant supply of calcium.

These and other nutrient deficiencies play a big role in determining the yield of your cotton crop. Again we urge you to have tissue tests made and by following the proper recommendations you should be able to show a significant increase in the productivity of your soils.

We will welcome the opportunity to be of service to you and we will be more than happy to explain the many advantages of using liquid fertilizer solutions for side-dressing your crops

Changes Forecast In Farm Methods And Rural Living

College Station—The old distinctions between farm and city are rapidly disappearing, said Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist, Rural-nonfarm people now outnumber farm people by a ratio of 5 to 3 and it appears certain that more nonfarm people will live in rural areas.

More than a third of farm operators work off their farms 100 days or more per year. In 1957, about 40 percent of net income of farm families was from nonfarm sources, he said.

Family operated farms will increase in size since technological improvements are by no means complete. Agriculture, said Brown, appears to be only in the middle of revolutionary changes both in size and capital structure. Larger farms mean larger investments, not only for land and buildings but for all the machinery and non-agricultural supplies needed in modern farm production. Based on present trends, investment per commercial farm by 1975 may amount to over $80,000 in 1958 dollars compared to a little less than $40,000 now, he said.

Various new financial devices may be worked out to meet the need, some based upon methods now common in industry. One development already underway is the use of land-purchase contracts under which the title of the land remains with the seller until all or a specific percentage of payments have been made.

Commercial family farms will probably continue to be the dominant form of organization in American agriculture. Labor requirements have not increased with the size of farms except in some limited areas. For the bulk of farmers, efficient operation seems likely to require no greater labor force than had been needed in the past, he added.

FARM SAFETY

A state-wide study made last year through the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council on farm and ranch accidents showed that the number of accidents starts to increase with the step-up in production activities. Farmers and their families are urged by the Council not to take chances which can lead to crippling accidents or even fatalities. An accident now would cause a delay in farming activities and result in a crop failure and other serious economic losses. It is just good farm management, points out the Council, for every agricultural producer to practice farm safety.

One child in six starts the day with an adequate breakfast, recent studies show. Therefore, say extension service foods and nutrition specialists, an adequate lunch becomes doubly important.

Most popular topic of conflict during the current regular and special sessions of the Legislature has been the general sales tax.

Basically, the two sides are simple. Supporters of a general sales tax contend that it will solve the state's financial problem and spread the tax load fairly.

Opposition to the general sales tax counters with the argument that the tax may raise "too much money" for the state's own good. The opposers of the general sales tax are quick to illustrate their point that Texas government can have too much money by referring to previous surpluses as "the unhealthy condition for the state treasury."

The idea is that if the state gets money ahead, carrying a cash balance from one appropriation period to another, it is an irresistible lure not only to spend the surplus but to commit a rate of spending that will put the state right back in the hole.

One illustration of this argument goes back to Coke Stevenson's administration when a surplus of nearly $100 million piled up during World War II, because at that time there was nothing to buy and few people to hire.

The first session after war-controlled conditions had passed not only soaked up the surplus, but called for permanent spending that ate up the reserve in less than two years and started new tax demands and deficit spending worries.

Opponents to the general sales tax say that while the one percent general tax would cure the present financial situation, the potential revenues from the tax would encourage increased state spending from now on. They also predicted the rate of the tax would be increased time and time again.

Up to now, Texas government has not followed the federal government into astronomical debt, even though the state usually spends more than it takes in through its principal general revenue fund.

Highway Department Reports On Status of Lynn County Projects

Austin, July 16—The State Highway Department today released a status report on the highways of Lynn County. State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer stated that the increasing number of motor vehicles on Texas Highways makes it mandatory that newer and better highways be constructed.

"In Lynn county, for example, 6,827 vehicles were registered last year as compared to 4,758 in 1948, an increase of about 43.6 percent over the ten-year period."

The Highway Department currently maintains 237 miles of highway in Lynn County. Last year the Department spent $113,266 on maintenance compared with $27,428 in 1948.

In 1959 highway construction in the county amounted to $13,333. Currently, there is $649,364 worth of highway under construction. This amount represents one project on U. S. 87 from Tahoka, south to the county line at O'Donnell, a distance of approximately 12.8 miles. The contract calls for grading, structures, flexible base, and hot mix asphaltic concrete pavement.

In addition to this project there are other projects which are planned for future construction: which will cost approximately $1,611,000. All of these projects are under the supervision of District Engineer, Oscar L. Crain of Lubbock.

The following projects are planned for future construction:

1. On US 87 from the Lubbock county line to two miles north of Tahoka, a distance of approximately 13.7 miles; grading, structures, and base at an estimated cost of $750,000. This figure also includes the cost of surfacing.

On US 87 from FM 400 to one mile south of Tahoka, a distance of approximately four miles; grading, structures, and surfacing on four-lane divided highway and frontage roads on sections of the highway. This project is estimated to cost $765,000.

3. On FM 2081 from US 380 at West Point, south to FM 213 at Newmoore School, a distance of approximately 9.8 miles; grading, structures, and surfacing at an estimated cost of $98,000.

4. On FM 1317 from the end of FM 2081 east to the end of FM 1317 at Petty, a distance of approximately four miles; grading, structures, and surfacing at an estimated cost of $48,000.

Fertilizers Important To Crop Production

College Station—Determining your fertilizer needs will probably make the difference in whether your crop will show a profit or lose money, says William F. Bennett, extension soil chemist.

Several methods can be used to determine the fertilizer needs of the soil for a given crop. They are soil tests, plant tissue tests, field trials and deficiency symptoms. The ideal way is to use all of these methods together in determining fertilizer needs, said Bennett.

A soil test is the cheapest, most convenient way to determine fertility needs. It is also the most accurate way with the exception of extensive field trials. By determining nutrients needed and the proper ratio, soil tests can be used to determine how to make the most profit from money invested in fertilizers. Before taking samples of your soil, contact your county agent for information on how to take samples.

Plant analysis can be used to supplement soil analysis as a basis of fertilizer recommendations, he said. At the present time, plant analysis testing is still in the experimental stage.

Field trials are the final test in determining the value of the grade and amount of fertilizer used. Unfertilized strips of four to six rows or 20 feet in width should be left across the field. Double the nor-

IMPROVE PARSONAGE

Rev J. E. Thompson reports that a store room at the Methodist parsonage has been converted into a utility room. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hagood have donated a dryer to go with the washer to complete the room's equipment.

Farm value of milk produced in Texas last year was more than $167 million, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Texas had 27 of the nation's 2,062 butter manufacturing plants in 1957. Two of these produced more than 1 million pounds of butter that year, says AMS.

Texans can live better these days because milk is more abundant. Milk provides about 100 food nutrients—minerals, vitamins, protein elements and fats.

Deficiency symptoms often help diagnose a situation and aid in determining fertility needs. Deficiency symptoms often are similar to the effects of a lack of moisture or plant growth, he added.

Youth Activities Week July 20-25

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of Tahoka Methodist Church is planning its annual Youth Activities Week during the week of July 20-25.

Although the youth of the Methodist Church are sponsoring this event all the youth and adults of Tahoka and the surrounding communities are invited to attend. The program will start each evening at 6:00 o'clock and will consist of a meal, worship service, discussion groups and recreation.

The week of activities will be kicked off with a banquet on Monday, July 20. The price of the banquet will be 50 cents per person. Tickets may be acquired at the church or from Sunny Gibson. Rev. James Glasscock will be the speaker during the entire week. high school and was elected to deacon's orders in the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church during its annual session, in 1957.

This is the fifth summer that he has preached in revivals and youth activity weeks in his home conference and the New Mexico conference. Last summer he was evangelist in seven revivals and visiting minister for two youth weeks. This summer he will preach in Abernathy, Knox City, Colorado City, Tahoka, Floydada, Spang, Spang and Campbell, near Dallas.

During the week he meets with youth and adults in counseling sessions, speaks to civic and service clubs, and takes an interest in the community's total life.

This Youth Activities Week promises to be one of great spiritual value. Its purpose is to stimulate Christian growth in the young people as they move through the week and will climax in a communion service Saturday night.

Theme for the week will be "Practising the Presence," and the youth will seek to understand how they can practice God's presence in their everyday lives.

I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me; and they have received them. (John 17:8.)

Once I went to a police station to see an officer on a certain piece of business. I found him deeply absorbed in reading his Bible. Seeing me, he beckoned me to sit down.

After finishing the reading of the Word, he apologized to me for keeping me waiting. He told me that it was his habit to read the Word of God every morning before beginning the work of the day. It was his delight to read it for guidance in his work throughout the day. It shed light on his daily path. He could not neglect it, as he knew that it was of daily help to him.

He was known for his integrity and uprightness among the officers and men of the police force. No one could induce him to do wrong. His superiors entrusted to him the most urgent and confidential tasks. It was Christ's Spirit in him and his habitual reading of the Word of God which made him what he was.

PRAYER

Our gracious Father, create in us the desire to read Thy Word every day. Forgive us for neglecting its reading. May we daily dig deep in it to find the riches which are eternal. In the name of Jesus Christ we ask these things. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

To light my daily path, I make it a point to read the Word of God daily.—Jivan Das (India)

Dr. Joe Lehman Is Visitor In Tahoka

Dr. and Mrs. Joe Lehman and three children of Philadelphia, Penn., are here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Lehman. Joe was reared here and practiced medicine at O'Donnell several years.

He is now on the staff of the University of Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia in the skin disease department. He has nearly two years to go on his contract there, following which he hopes to return to the Southwest.

Also visiting here have been Bob by Lehman and bride. They left Tuesday for Galveston, where he will resume his studies as a junior in the University of Texas School of Medicine.

The Lehman's other son, Dr. Irwin Lehman, is on the staff of Parkland Hospital in Dallas doing surgery.

Up a steep mud-choked wash—Positraction pays off!

Through a mountain stream—deep in Avintaquin Canyon.

NO MOUNTAIN CAT, MISTER...

That's a Chevy with Positraction!

That 3134 Fleetside has the sure-footed ways of a big western bobcat. Roams through high brush country that would buck the life out of most trucks. Crosses streams without benefit of a bridge. Climbs talus grades where pison won't even grow. But that's all routine for this Chevy, equipped with Positraction* rear axle. It's hard at it every day for the Utah Fish and Game commission. Figure about 60,000 miles of mountaineering before this Chevy is traded. And yet the district officer who drives it would bet his badge the tie rods won't even need replacing!

Out in that wild, climbing Utah country, Chevy's suspension and frame and brakes, its Positraction rear axle and Thriftmaster 6 power are proving themselves under rougher conditions than most test engineers could dream up. They're proving that Chevrolet's advanced engineering and design ideas pay off—in spades—when the going gets especially mean and dirty.

Positraction, of course, is a big plus on this job, providing the sure grip needed to dig through mud, snow, loose sand, whatever comes along. Could be that a Positraction-equipped ½-ton pickup is the answer for your area of operation. Or maybe a 4-wheel drive Chevy. We've got trucks that specialize in getting in and out of any kind of country. Talk to your dealer about your needs. He'll show you what tough trucks are made of.

PRINTER'S INKLINGS . . .

By F. P. H.

Well, here goes. We didn't especially want to get into this column writing business, but there's so many things that can't always be said in news stories. Lately, we've been violating the rules of good journalism by doing some editorializing in the news columns.

Thought maybe Pat would come back with her "Standing On the Corner" column, but three little girls keep her too busy for such. Since the passing of E. I. The Elder, The News has been lacking in editorial material. Therefore, this column is being started (and we don't know how long it'll last) to fill a gap.

Don't look for this to be as cheerful as "Standing On the Corner" or as enlightening as "Odds and Ends." We won't try to compete with Charley Guy's "Plainsman" column or George Dolan's "This Is West Texas." We'll not try to straighten out the town and county a la Ernest Joiner in the Rally Banner, or even try to mimic H. M. Baggerly of the Tulia Herald.

So, if you like some of the space filler you find in this column from week to week we'll be happy. If you don't like it, don't waste your time reading it.

Tahoka lawns have never been more beautiful than they are this summer. Rains, fertilizer and more interest and work by home owners have done the job. New homes are filling up many of the vacant lots that have previously grown up in weeds and mesquite bushes. Take a drive over town occasionally. Such drives will make your chest swell with pride for our improving town.

Our town needs more nice homes occupying these vacant lots. Almost every day some one visits The News looking for a nice two- or three-bedroom home to rent or buy. We believe our town needs a housing development project—whereby young people seeking a start could buy a nice, new home with $300 to $1,000 down. If Idalou, Crosbyton, Lockney, Seagraves, Post, Slaton, Abernathy, and other small towns can get such projects, why can't Tahoka? We believe a little aggressive action would produce results.

With good schools and churches, a park and swimming pool, Minor, Little, and Pony League baseball, a grass-greens golf course, and practically no juvenile delinquency problems, Tahoka is an ideal town in which to live and raise a family. Several traveling salesmen living in Lubbock have told The News they would like to live in Tahoka if proper housing were available.

Will Humphries, 111 Warren Street, San Antonio, who was here during the recent Pioneer Reunion, sends a copy of the yearbook of the Old Trail Drivers Association. One of the interesting stories therein is "Cowboy's Life On The Baldies." Also, there's a "poem" by Mrs. Jim Wade, whose husband worked in this area in the early days on the C. C. Slaughter ranch, entitled, "My Lover Was A Cowboy."

And, here's a letter from Gerald Wayne Tippit, Tahoka native, who has been appearing occasionally as Jerry Ames on NBC's soap opera, "Secret Storm," which may be seen over KDUB-TV, Channel 13, week days at 3:15 p. m., in which he tells us we over-played the story a bit about his making the big time in the acting field. He says he is still "unknown" or at best a "semi-name." However, he and his wife Carole made Walter Winchell's column when they got married, and on July 26 he is starting a 13-week engagement during which he will appear in "Secret Storm" two or three times a week "if I'm not fired." His wife is an actress spending six weeks this summer directing "The Boy Friend" at Winoski, Vermont, and appearing in two leads in "Come Back, Little Sheba" and "Tunnel of Love" at Sharon, Connecticut. The Tippits live at 403 West 51st, New York 19, N. Y.

Man, roaring with rage: "Who told you to put that paper on the wall?" Paper hanger: "Your wife." Man: "Pretty, isn't it?" — Also Swiped.

Buel Draper claims he has planted one plot of feed land six times this year.

McLean News suggests the organization of the NAAPWT (National Association for the Advancement of Poor White Trash.) "After all, we've been completely left out—the forgotten man," the editor writes. Everybody else has an organization putting on the pressure in Austin and Washington.

Ernest Joiner says: A great debate nobody heard was held in Washington the other day. By unanimous vote of the Senate Finance Committee, the national debt ceiling was raised from $288 billion to $295 billion. It took only a routine roll call for it to pass the Senate. The same day Sen. Lyndon Johnson made a speech warning of inflation, and Sen. Ralph Yarborough expressed fear that wild spending will work greater hardships on fixed income citizens.
