Jerry Bartley Is Band Leader

Jerry Bartley, reared in Lynn county, is director of the Green Warrior Band of Lamesa Junior High School which "has experienced one of its most successful years in its history," according to the Lamesa Daily Reporter.

Jerry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Newman Bartley of New Lynn. He is a native of Lynn county, attended New Lynn school, and graduated from Wilson High School in 1956. After attending Tech three years, where he was an outstanding member of the Red Raider band, he began teaching and has just completed his second year. In the summer he continues work toward his degree.

Jerry's Lamesa band placed second three times in annual University Interscholastic League contests. Second division awards are rated high in UIL standards. The band placed second in marching, concert and sight reading.

In solo and ensemble contests, 17 members placed Division I, or superior; 30, Division II, excellent; 30, Division III, above average; and four, Division IV, good.

These honors, the paper says, came from diligent work and many hours of supervision Bartley has given the group. Bartley came to Lamesa from Amherst several weeks after opening of the school term, and as a result had to spend much extra time to achieve the desired results.

Since 47 members will move up next year to the senior band, he will hold a month of summer band sessions to overcome the lack of training of beginners moving up from the sixth grade, who have had no training.

He gives much of the credit to

We have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us. (II Corinthians 4:7.)

In the little country church where I worship each Sunday morning is an old manually-powered pipe organ, no longer used in our services. To the right of this organ is a small door, just large enough for a person to squeeze through.

For years, the organ boy entered there to pump air into the bellows during the worship services. It was his duty to keep the bellows full of air so that the organist could produce the power and beauty of sacred music.

During the services, I find my thoughts wandering to that little door and to the organ boy. They remind me of that if we are to live to the fullest, we must let the Holy Spirit enter our hearts to give us power—even as He gave it to the disciples on the Day of Pentecost when He came as a mighty rushing wind. It is through Him that we find our faith renewed and guidance given to bring harmony to our needy world.

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee that Thou hast taught us how to pray—alone, without repetition, and in faith believing. We thank Thee that through Christ Thou hast given us the perfect prayer: "Our Father who are in heaven... Amen."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY—The Holy Spirit makes possible the heavenly harmonies heard in a discordant world. —Bertha S. Armstrong, Social Worker (New York).

Farm Facts

Per capita consumption of processed vegetables (on a fresh equivalent basis) may exceed consumption of fresh vegetables in 1961, the U. S. Department of Agriculture notes.

Consumption of processed vegetables has been rising in the past few years and that of fresh vegetables has been falling. Fresh vegetable consumption fell off 15 per cent from 1947-49 through 1957-59. Use of processed vegetables increased 23 per cent.

Consumption of canned vegetables increased 13 per cent and that of frozen vegetables more than doubled. Per capita consumption of fresh vegetables totaled about 101 pounds in 1960 and that of processed vegetables was about 99 pounds (fresh equivalent).

The most striking change in the ten-year period was in the increased popularity of frozen vegetables. Use of frozen vegetables, excluding potatoes, increased from 4 per cent of total vegetable consumption to about 8 per cent, and all major frozen vegetables shared in the growth.

We soon may be eating more processed vegetables than fresh ones.

Over-all per capita consumption of commercially produced vegetables remained stable, at around 200 pounds a year.

County Livestock & Agriculture

Exhibiton Building

1. This issue in no way causes or affects the issue to raise the 15c special road tax.
2. This Livestock and Agricultural Exhibition building is sorely needed to further the agricultural education and interest of the young people of Lynn county.
3. The Lynn County Fair Association board has agreed in its minutes of record to apply any funds from sale of its property on the proposed US-87 Highway right-of-way to the County Sinking Fund to reduce the proposed $35,000 bond issue, thus reducing said bonds as much as one-third to one-half.
4. The Fair Association proposes to apply its present funds of about $9,000 to equipping the proposed building.
5. Such a building can be available to house other county-wide activities for which there is no present meeting place.
6. This is the cheapest and most economical method for Lynn county to obtain such useful property.

No. 8 In A Series of Stories About—

Businesses that Make Our Town "Tops"!

As hard-working townspeople, we are apt to overlook many personalities and programs that aid in making Tahoka a fine and prosperous place in which to live.

Among the folks who deserve recognition and reward for outstanding help in reaching our town goals are the businesses and business men that serve our town and area.

To acquaint you with the folks and firms that mean much to us, The Lynn County News is printing a series of stories about these people and places. We know you will be interested in the stories we tell. We also feel that when you have need for what these friends and their firms sell, you will reward them with your purchases.

(By Frederic de Vries)

BIGGEST BUSINESS INSTITUTION IN LYNN COUNTY IS— Tahoka Compress & Warehouse Co.

One of the largest business institutions from standpoint of volume, size of plant, and number of employees is the Tahoka Compress and Warehouse Co., located in northeast Tahoka and owned principally by Arch S. Underwood and sons.

The original plant was built in 1939, but since that time many additions have been made here, and warehouses have also been built at O'Donnell.

Today, the compress has Commodity Credit Corporation approval for 51,000 bales storage, plus about 30,000 at O'Donnell, plus almost unlimited yard storage on the 40 acres of yard, with paved roads, east of the compress and across the Santa Fe tracks.

Tahoka Compress is equipped to handle and keep all cotton at home, and this cotton stays here until sold.

It has handled a peak of about 100,000 bales of cotton in a single year.

Total number of bales weighed in here has passed the 700,000 mark, not counting O'Donnell and other transit cotton, which would possibly run to a million bales or more.

Work force during peak runs is from 65 to 100 men.

The main shed, which contains the press, is about two city blocks in length, or 600 feet, and it is 135 feet wide.

There are seven other major warehouses. Two are 130 by 250 feet in size, one is 120 by 260 feet, one is 120 by 200 feet, and three others are 50,000 square feet each in size.

The Compress owns its own fire truck and fire-fighting equipment, its own water storage tower, water lines and fire plugs, and has its own paved roads.

E. R. (Roy) Edwards has been the local manager ever since the compress was built here. A native of Holland, Texas, he was with a cotton compress at nearby Bartlett before Mr. Underwood selected him to manage the business in Tahoka.

Cotton is Lynn county's biggest crop. It is the basis of our entire economy on the South Plains. And Tahoka Compress has no small part in the development of industry right here at home that helps maintain a better community life.

Mr. Edwards and the Compress has a hand in almost every worthwhile community activity, and this business institution is one of Tahoka's biggest assets. This business is not only a big taxpayer, but it also contributes to many community projects. The manager is an active worker in numerous civic affairs.

HOME TRADE PAYS!

A community such as ours is built and maintained and prospers by trading that goes on within it; not by the dollars which we allow ourselves to be persuaded to send off or carry off to some other community.

Our schools, our churches, most of our homes and jobs or businesses, the number and sort of neighbors we have, the ability of our stores and service establishments to take care of our daily and emergency needs—all of these depend upon local trade—money spent here at home.

BUILT AND OPERATED BY THE CUSTOMERS IT SERVES— TAHOKA CO-OP GIN

Tahoka Co-op Gin has one of the better gin plants of this territory, owned and operated by its patrons and rendering the little added service for the benefit of these patrons and the community in general.

The gin is enjoying an increase in patronage which fact testifies to the approval by farmers of the quality and service rendered.

E. A. Hargrave, the manager, strives to give the kind of service the farmer wants, and members say he is doing a good job with the plant. He has many years experience in the ginning field, and knows every problem of the business.

Tahoka Co-op Gin has a plant that is kept modern and up-to-date, featuring the largest ginning and cleaning equipment, and many new improvements are now being made in preparation for the coming cotton season. It wants to help its farmer members in any way it can to get a better ginning job and thereby contribute to the well-being of its community.

A welcome is extended to all to come in and inspect the plant, get acquainted with the personnel, and get any information desired on the operations, progress, and objectives of the organization. Mr. Hargrave and the officers are anxious to inaugurate a "new deal" in ginning service, and also welcome constructive suggestions as to what the farmers desire most in better gin service.

Among the several services offered farmers, the gin has on hand quality planting seed in varieties such as Qualla 10, Lankart 57, Von Roeder Western Stormproof, Anton 99, Sam Little Mebane, etc.

Directors, all farmers, are C. E. Ford, Dan Curry, Olan Blair, Lester Miller and H. O. Hargett.

These men are elected by the membership and try to operate the organization in a business-like manner for the benefit of all.

The progressive businesses advertising in The News appreciate an opportunity to serve you at any and all times.
