Stock Show Rated Best Ever Held Here

A total of 445 animals were shown in the Lynn County Livestock Show held in the new show building Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week before a record crowd of spectators. It is one of the largest county shows held annually in the state.

Valton Maeker of Wilson exhibited the Grand Champion barrow, a lightweight Poland China, and Jack Edwards of Tahoka showed the Reserve Grand Champion, a mediumweight Duroc. A total of 325 swine were entered in that division judged Friday by Euell Linder of Lubbock.

Exhibiting the Grand Champion in the steer division was James Smith of New Home with a calf from the heavyweight dry lot division. The Reserve Grand Champion was exhibited by Phil Adams of Tahoka, a milk fed lightweight. Judge was Calvin Holcomb, county agent of Gaines county. About 45 animals were entered in the show judged Saturday.

Champions in the lamb division were Paula Beach of O'Donnell, Southdown; Bobby Caswell, O'Donnell, Hampshire; and Gary Beach, O'Donnell, Fine Wool. Kenneth Gregg of Edmonson was the judge when 75 sheep were shown.

Showmanship awards, presented by the Lynn County Farm Bureau, were won by Ronnie Wood of O'Donnell for overall showmanship; Valton Maeker, swine division; Bobby Caswell, lamb division; and Joe Emerson, O'Donnell, steer division.

Merchants of Tahoka, O'Donnell, New Home and Wilson paid a bonus of $4.00 for each swine registered; $3.00 for each lamb; and $11.00 for each calf. Bonuses paid out in the livestock show totaled about $2,050.00.

In addition, prize money was awarded the winners in the amounts from $1.00 to $10.00 from first through tenth places, the prizes varying in the divisions.

The livestock show was sponsored jointly by the Tahoka Rotary Club and the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce.

The new livestock building, constructed at a cost of about $45,000 and one of the finest anywhere, was attributed a great deal of credit for the success of the show. The pens, show arena, bleachers, concessions stands, etc. all housed inside allowed all spectators a view of the proceedings, as well as the boys and girls plenty of room for preparation for and during the event.

Detailed results of the show in all divisions may be found on an inside page of The News.

Student Council Elects Officers

Officers of the Student Council in Tahoka High School for 1962-'63 were elected Thursday following campaigns, which included speeches, handshaking, and all the elements that make up a political election.

Allen Cox, who will be a junior student next year, was elected president by the student body; Larry Price, a senior next year, vice president; Jerre Ann Wyatt, a senior next year, secretary; Louella Tomlinson, who will be a junior, reporter; and Johnny Long, also a junior next year, parliamentarian.

Tahoka Gets Cut In Fire Insurance Rate

New Brochures Now Available

A brochure folder advertising Tahoka and Lynn county has just been published by Tahoka Chamber of Commerce and may be secured from the secretary, Mrs. "Weesee" Carroll at her office in the City Hall.

The folder, printed in color, contains many vital facts about the town and county, its history, agriculture, recreation facilities, churches and clubs, and tries to sell the idea that Tahoka is a clean, friendly town in which to live and raise a family.

Pictures in the folder include homes, churches, business buildings, parks, public buildings, a cotton field, etc.

Seven Are Filed For City Office

Seven names have been filed for three places on the City Council for the election to be held on April 3, according to City Secretary J. M. Uzile.

James F. (Sonny) Roberts, who was elected to fill the unexpired term of Winston Wharton, has been filed for re-election and other names include A. R. Milliken, J. E. Nance, H. W. (Sam) Edwards, Jr., Ted Ratliff, Lawrence Harvick, and H. E. Smith. The terms of Ronald Sherrill, W. T. Kidwell and Roberts expire this spring.

Holdover members of the council include Mayor Meldon Leslie, Borden C. Davis and Charles Oliver. Deadline for filing was last Saturday.

Parents Attend Counsel Meet

About 125 parents of high school students attended a meeting in the school cafeteria Tuesday night when Charles Holmes, superintendent of the Vanderbilt schools in South Texas, was the speaker.

Purpose of the meeting was to explain the counseling and guidance program being set up in the Tahoka schools.

Holmes discussed the program being installed here and how the program in his school works, said to be one of the best in the state. He said Tahoka's program is set up much like Vanderbilt's and that Tahoka can profit by his mistakes.

Holmes cited cases where students need an adult other than their parents to talk with about their problems and the situations that can arise when this need is not met.

Mooney check sheets will be sent to parents and the local schools ask that parents will cooperate in helping the students fill them out.

ANOTHER NAME IS FILED FOR TRUSTEE AT NEW HOME

The name of N. B. (Billy) Hancock has been filed for school trustee at New Home, according to Judge W. M. Mathis.

Names previously filed were: E. M. Rudd, Cecil Keith, Carl Armes, Foy Swinson, George Sealy, and Richard Wyatt. Three are to be elected in the balloting on April 7.

Mrs. Tom (Jeanette) Cloe underwent emergency surgery in a Lubbock hospital recently. She is now doing very well and will come home this week, according to Mrs. M. F. Jones.

Mrs. Bob (Hazel) Connolly recently underwent surgery in West Texas Hospital in Lubbock.

City of Tahoka gained a five percent credit rate this year on fire insurance, states Fire Marshal Johnny Raindl.

During the past year, 1961, fire losses in the City were only a little over $7,000, which is a fairly good record, Raindl said, and since the City has now paid off large fire losses which occurred during the past six years, the rates will begin decreasing.

The credit rate is based on yearly losses. If the losses are low again this year, Tahoka will receive another five percent reduction. If losses are high, the credit rate will be increased five percent.

Mayor Meldon Leslie met with the members of the Volunteer Fire Department Monday night and complimented the department on its work. He announced the City has increased firemen's accidental insurance for the individual firemen from $2,000 to $5,000 in case death results from accidents occurring while a volunteer is on the job as a fireman.

In turn, the Fire Department has expressed its appreciation to citizens of the town for doing their part in helping keep fires at a minimum.

Raindl said that the inspections done by the fire marshal are inconvenient at times, but in the long run they have and will pay off.

Fire Department Given Praise

Tahoka's volunteer fire department received special commendation from the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce board of directors for the contribution it is making toward the welfare of the town and county.

In a resolution presented by A. M. Bray and passed unanimously, the C. of C. expressed thanks to the firemen for "the unselfish service they are rendering the community without thought of personal gain and many times at personal sacrifice."

Many times they suffer losses or damage to their own clothing; they are on call anytime, day or night, freezing weather or warm; they respond in spite of personal inconvenience and many times at the inconvenience of members of their families.

"Too much praise can not be given our firemen," the motion stated. "We urge other citizens to give them a pat on the back."

Printer's Ink-lings

By F. P. H.

Wasn't the stock show wonderful? Expressions of pride were heard left and right in the new building, the high quality of the livestock, and the manner in which the show was run. This is one of the largest county shows that can be found anywhere. The swine judge remarked that hogs were sifted out of the ten-hog winners circle that would have won first place in many shows.

We are proud of the showing made by Tahoka's basketball girls in the regional tournament. After winning the first round decisively over Alpine, the girls played Tulia, winner of the tournament, neck and neck until in the fourth quarter. Two girls fouled out in the third, two more in the fourth, and it was only because of these fouls that kept the girls from making it a close contest down to the final gun. This team went further in the state play-offs than any girls team in the school's history. They did their best—and that's all you can ask.

Bill Balch of New Home brought us a copy of "The Southwesterner," a newspaper published out at Columbus, N. M., that deals largely with history of the area, including stories about the Mexican bandit Pancho Villa, the Apaches, lost gold mines, and events, places, and characters of the old days on the Mexican border.

The Printer is old enough to remember Pancho Villa's raid on Columbus on March 8, 1916, when Villa's renegades killed a number of American citizens and destroyed a part of the town. This outrage caused President Wilson to order out the U. S. troops.

We were living down on the T&P at Roscoe at the time when General "Blackjack" Pershing and troop trains one after another for days passed through town loaded with cavalry, artillery, troops and equipment headed for El Paso, Deming, and Columbus. Pershing's expedition penetrated 500 miles south of the Rio Grande, failed to catch the bandit, but achieved some manner of success. Pancho four years later was murdered by his own followers. And that recalls to us something else—Wallace Beery's portrayal of the bandit in the movie, "Pancho Villa," which, in our book, was one of the best movies we have ever seen even if it wasn't historically correct.

From Marfa, Presidio county also down on the Mexican border, last week we received a copy of The Big Bend Sentinel, probably sent us by Courtney Mellard. Mr. Mellard homesteaded out in T-Bar pasture of Lynn county back in the early part of this century, then moved to Marfa in 1908, became a breeder of registered Herefords. Also a buyer and shipper, he has bought and shipped more than a half million head of cattle from there to the cornbelt states in the past 38 years.

The Big Bend Sentinel issue is a special edition noting the growth and progress of the area in general, new highways in the Big Bend which open up new scenic areas, Big Bend Park, Fort Davis, McDonald Observatory, and the newly opened Mexican railroad, Chihuahua al Pacifico, from Presidio-Ojinaga running across to the Pacific Coast.

Frank Gonzales, originator of the Lubbock "Project Good Neighbors" to promote better relations with Mexico and Mexicans, sends thanks for the write-up we gave of his talk at the Rotary Club and asks for several extra copies. Gonzales really has the right idea, we think, on improving relations between the two countries. Everyone on the South Plains—in fact, everyone in America, including members of the State Department, Labor Department, Congress and the President—needs to hear his talk.

By the way, Gonzales calls himself a Mexican proudly—and why shouldn't he? We have noted that many local Mexicans had rather be called Spanish or Latin-Americans, which is all right, too. There is no need for anyone to be ashamed of his nationality. We can understand why a person would not want to be called a "greaser" or a "nigger" or "poor white trash." We met an educated Negro man once who said Negroes should quit being ashamed of their race, quit wanting to be called Colored people, quit trying to make a place for themselves in White man's society and go to work doing something for themselves. He said there was all the room in the world for the Negro in his own circle. Even you White folks, he declared, are divided up into social and economic circles of your own, so why should we feel downtrodden just because we happen to be black.

Last fall, The Printer was carrying a local Latin-American football player home after a work-out. He was pretty upset because some other member of the team had had a word to say about his brogue. We told him, "Next time somebody makes fun of your broken English, why don't you tell him, 'Well, I can speak English a danged sight better than you can speak Spanish?'" And, the youth gleefully saw the light and replied, "I hadn't thought of that. Next time, I'll do that very thing." We need to encourage these Latin-American young people in every way we can to stay in school and get an education. If America is to survive, we've got to get along with other nationalities.

We read somewhere a few days ago that the recent Punta del Este Conference, called by our State Department and President Kennedy in an effort to line up 19 Latin-American nations in opposition to Castro and Communism, was doomed for failure the day it opened. The reason? The two top men our State Department sent to conduct the conference could speak not one word of Spanish or Portuguese. One of the men had never been in any Latin-American country before, the other had visited South America last year briefly. They knew little of the Latin-Americans, their customs, history, thinking. In fact, these 19 Latin-American countries were almost insulted that we sent two leaders to such a conference who knew little to nothing of the Latin-American mind, customs, history, and politics. In contrast, the article declared, Soviet Russia sends out diplomats to such meetings who have made long study of the language and customs of the nations involved.

Our State Department still has the same career men in it who held out to the very last that Castro was not a Communist and that Cuba was in no danger of going Communist. Now, they are saying the same thing in regard to Mexico. They are the same men who advocate aid to Tito, and other Communist and near-Communist countries.

It's better for the people to control the government than it is for the government to control the people.

Note to Anonymous Telephone Caller: If you've got the guts, why wouldn't you give your name? We put our opinions down in black and white, and you know who wrote them. We're waiting.

We've had a lot of callers the past week asking that their names be placed on our list favoring conservative government and approving part or all of the statements made in this regard in this column. Thank you! We appreciate your support. However, this is not our fight. It is your fight. If you wish this country to remain a republic, it would be well for you to write your representatives in Washington. We can fall from forces at work from within the structure of our own government.

Also, if you're concerned about the growing despotic attitude of our Secretary of Agriculture and our Secretary of Labor, you'd also better write your Congressman.

The Claude News asked a couple of weeks ago: "Where is our wandering Bobby, tonight?"

From Time: "Does the Secretary of State do What the Attorney General is doing When the Attorney General is doing What the Secretary should?"

Someone has said: It is better to know where our children are tonight than to know whether our parents were on the Mayflower.

THIS IS MATURITY: To be able to stick with a job until it's finished; to be able to bear an injustice without wanting to get even; to be able to carry money without spending it; and to do one's duty without being supervised.

Price, spice and everything nice!

Who ever thought a car that saves like this could have so much sizzle? Chevrolet engineers, that's who! Liveliness and luxury for a low, low price were exactly what they had in mind to begin with. And they began from scratch with a whole carload of ingenious new ideas designed to give you more for your money. That spunky 6 with gas-sipping stinginess is just one example. Another: a new unutilized Body by Fisher that's fit for a full-size family inside, easy to park outside. Still another: tough but gentle one-piece Mono-Plate rear springs that outdo many a bigger car for quiet comfort. Any wonder Chevy II won Car Life magazine's 1962 Engineering Excellence award hands down? Darwin Dykes Of Tahoka Is Winner Of Annual SCS Essay Contest

Darwin L. Dykes, Tahoka High School freshman and son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Dykes, was winner of the annual Lynn County Conservation District award, presented by D. M. Mauldin, work conservationist, Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce banquet. His essay, along with all those prepared locally, has been entered in the Fort Worth Press state and district contests.

Jean Flippin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Welch Flippin of Tahoka, was second place winner; and Arthur Airhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Airhart of New Home, was third. The following is the winning essay:

Conservation And The Population Explosion
(By Darwin L. Dykes)

We have only an average of ten inches of topsoil left in the United States!

All rewardable natural resources are linked into a common chain of relationship. We can have any of them, but only by sacrifices which will save them all. We are a part of the whole which must be conserved. (Paul Sears, Life and Environment.) Nature is never wholly balanced. There is a constant ebb and flow. Animals and plants alter environment. Man is more destructive than creative. It is necessary for man to control his usage and manage his remaining resources more wisely if he is to survive.

Environmental conditions, natural and artificial, affect the development of living things. These include soil type and composition, climate, plant and animal population, use and abuse. Good resource management is the best sustaining use of living things on any land or water area. We must increase and to maintain each area at maximum carrying capacity.

The generalization has been made that it takes two and one-half acres of good land to support one person on an adequate standard of living; and that there are now less than two acres of good productive land for each person on the earth.

Human population has increased fourfold on the earth in the last two hundred years. Today, every day, there are nearly sixty thousand more people to feed and house and clothe from the resources of the earth than there were the day before.

There it leaves us only seven inches from starvation. We must take care of the remaining seven inches of topsoil if we are to survive!

The increasing population and the diminishing resources in many areas make conservation the compelling issue that it is today!

Civil Defense Bulletin Out

A handbook titled "Family Shelter Designs," which contains practical instructions for building any one of eight types of home fallout shelters, is being distributed by the Division of Defense and Disaster Relief of the Governor's Office to local civil defense directors for redistribution to the public without charge.

The new publication issued by the national Office of Civil Defense supplements the booklet "Fallout Protection: What To Know and Do About Nuclear Attack" which was made available for public distribution in January.

The handbook explains that the eight shelters are "designed for construction in backyards and basements and for use by families who do not have access to community shelters or who prefer that their shelters be in their homes." The estimated cost of construction and complete bill of materials are given for each of the eight shelter designs.

Terraces have been completed on the W. E. Pierce farm located one mile south of Redwine. They were built on the level with closed ends so that, as much as possible, water will be retained on the surface. This in turn will permit more water to penetrate into the soil where it will be available for future crop needs.

Other farmers who have recently completed terrace construction are W. G. McCleskey of Grassland and J. S. Edwards of New Lynn.

A level border irrigation system will be developed on the T. D. Stuart farm located four miles north and one and one-half miles east of New Home. There are two lake areas which consist of approximately 90 acres on this farm and Mr. Stuart has not been able to irrigate them satisfactorily. Mr. Stuart's plan is to bench these areas and install underground pipeline to conserve water and prevent erosion. The existing diversion terraces will be rebuilt to protect the benched areas from outside water.

Along with the level border system Mr. Stuart plans to seed about 20 acres to a perennial grass and

WOODS ESCAPE INJURY IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT
Mr. and Mrs. Otha Wood and children were not injured in an accident this week end near Weatherford. The family had spent the week end in Waxahachie and were returning home. About three miles on the other side of Weatherford, a child on a bicycle ran in front of the car, they swerved to the right to miss the boy, lost control of the car and hit a telephone pole. Their car was badly damaged and was left in Weatherford for repairs.

Germination Test For Cotton Seed

College Station — There is one sure way to know whether cotton planting seed will germinate when planted. Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, says it is through the use of germination tests.

In recent visits with ginners and farmers, Elliott reports that many are finding the seed which was saved to plant this year's crop isn't measuring up to expectations. And, points out Elliott, getting a good stand on the first planting may have a lot to do with yields next fall.

Elliott reports the lowest germinating seed apparently are from fields which were harvested when the moisture content was too high. Research, he explains, has shown that seed should not be saved from cotton which is harvested when moisture content is above 8-10 percent. When moisture is above this level and the seed cotton is held for even a comparatively short time on the trailer, the cotton goes through a heating process which not only lowers the grade but also the quality of the seed.

The specialist strongly recommends to all growers who plan to plant cottonseed saved from last year's crop that they have a germination test run or use the familiar 'rag doll' test at home. The small fee for a germination test, he adds, could save replanting.

He also suggests that after the germination ability of the seed has been established that they be treated with an approved fungicide. Seed treatment will aid in the reduction of stand losses from seedling disease and also helps to prevent seed decay and damping off from soil and seed borne organisms.

The Lynn County News, Tahoka, Texas Friday, March 9, 1952

Elliott suggests a visit with the local county agent for more information on germination testing and seed treatment.

third, Arthur Airhart of New Home.

Huffman's crowd pleasing talk included a lot of humor, and then he got down to serious business in emphasizing the place of a chamber of commerce in a community, state and nation.

"On every side, the free enterprise system is being challenged in America," he declared. "We better get political in our thinking. There are big things that transcend all party lines. Your Chamber of Commerce should have a legislative committee and start looking after the interests of the free enterprise system."

"We've got to come together, each bringing his own light and each shedding his own opinion. That way, we will get somewhere," the speaker advised.

"A chamber of commerce is a collective gathering to do what cannot be done individually for your community. Important issues should transcend all political party lines in our nation. Agriculture is the backbone of this area. It is not an artificial profession. It doesn't need to be tinkered with by someone who doesn't know anything about it all—in Washington. Speak up, the best town necessarily is not the largest town."

Clint Walker, who served as master of ceremonies, introduced E. L. Short, president this past year who had been re-elected for another year. Jack Jaquess remains as vice president; and Mrs. Eldon (Weese) Carroll is secretary.

Incoming directors are: Charles Brock, G. H. Chestnut, Jaquess, Elbert King, H. B. McCord Jr., Wilton Payne, Harold Roberts, James F. Roberts, Turner Rogers, and Walker.

Holderover directors are: A. M. Bray, Frank Hill, W. T. Kidwell, Charles Townes, Charles Verner, Mitchell Williams, and Short.

Short made a brief report on the past year's work, one of the most active the C. of C. has had in many years, and called attention to the new brochures advertising Tahoka and Lynn County which had been distributed at the meeting.

Calloway Huffaker made a brief report on the progress of the new South Plains Boys Ranch being established here. He said several large contributions had already been made to the Ranch.

The Verner Sisters, Paige, Dean and Kay, entertained with two songs, accompanied at the piano by their mother Mrs. Chas. (Myrna) Verner.

The invocation was by J. B. Thompson, pastor of First Methodist Church, and the benediction was by Don Browning, minister of Tahoka Church of Christ.

Career Day's Held At School

The annual Career Day, sponsored by the National Honor Society, held here Tuesday was said to have been "the most inspiring" since its beginning several years ago.

About 45 senior students from O'Donnell and Wilson joined Tahoka High School students in the event when Dr. Beatrix Cobb, head of the psychology department at Texas Tech, was the keynote speaker.

She encouraged the young people to prepare for life in choosing their careers and to enter a vocation in which they could give something of themselves to others.

Fred Hegi, president of the NHS, welcomed the students, consultants and speakers. Dr. Cobb was introduced by Supt. Otis Spears. National Honor Society members introduced the consultants to the assembly.

Students attended sessions concerning various fields of work conducted by experts in their professions, when the pros and cons of vocations were discussed and weighed.

All girls attended a personal care session and the boys a session concerning the Armed Services in the afternoon.

The day was concluded with a brief address by Charles Holmes, superintendent of the Vanderbilt schools in South Texas.
