New officers of Tahoka Rotary Club were installed last Thursday evening at a meeting of club members and their wives in the back yard of the incoming president, Dr. Richard White, and wife, Bill Sewell of Slaton, a former Tahokan, was the installing officer as representative of the new District 573 Governor, John R. Seay, Midland oil man. Sewell reminisced about some of his experiences in Tahoka while with the First National Bank, and tied his talk into Rotary service.

New club officers are: Dr. White, president; Joe Hays, vice president; Rev. Lloyd Hamilton, Charles Louder, and Jesse Dorman, new directors; Miss Denise White, club sweetheart; and Don Dawes, song director.

Many Closing For Holiday

State, county and federal offices and financial institutions will close Friday and Saturday for the Fourth of July holiday, and some businesses will close one or both days.

Tahoka Chamber of Commerce officials said most businesses which normally are open on Saturday will close that day, while some which don't open on Saturdays will take the Friday holiday as well.

Johnny Wells, secretary and George McCracken, treasurer, remain in these offices, as does Jim Marcus, director. Carl Reynolds is the outgoing president. Miss Rajeania House has been club sweetheart the past year.

Preceding the installation program, a food feast was served to about 65 Rotarians and Rotary Anns. Gerald Huffaker prepared the meat and the ladies brought salads, vegetables, etc.

THAT OUGHTA WORK--Kirk Pierce, 13, eyes a Roman candle and holds an even larger piece of fireworks as the Fourth of July nears. Shooting fireworks in the city is illegal, but it's okay in the country and is a traditional part of the holiday. This fireworks stand operated by Mrs. Bonnie Trammell is outside the city limits of Tahoka, as is another stand along the highway. (LYNN COUNTY NEWS PHOTO)

Commission Hits Snag On Pay Raise Question

Lynn County commissioners Tuesday spent several hours looking over tentative proposals for the coming year's budget and wound up with members still divided over the question of whether to grant raises to county employees.

Burks, and Tuesday's meeting was called primarily as a "work session" to go over the figures. And although no action on the budget ever was intended Tuesday, it appeared there still would be some matters to iron out before the budget can be offered up for public hearing and then adopted for the next year.

Some commissioners apparently favor no increases in salaries for county workers and elected officials, and would prefer instead to put more money into precinct funds, specifically a larger contingency and equipment replacement fund than had been suggested by the judge.

The commission Tuesday also authorized a $22,270 payment to Bruce Thornton Air Conditioning of Lubbock for air conditioning the county jail as required by the state commission on jail standards. Another $5,000 is to be paid to Thornton upon completion of the job and when he supplies the county with a service policy.

The group also approved purchase of a room unit air conditioner for the district clerk's office, and voted approval for Precinct 2 Commissioner J.C. Gandy to renew an equipment note in the amount of $20,000.

All commissioners were present at Tuesday's meeting.

Tonda Klaus Elected Officer At Girls State

Tonda Klaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Klaus of Wilson, was elected County Chairperson, Pecan County Nationalist Party at Bluebonnet Girls State held at Texas Lutheran College in Seguin. She was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary #438 of Slaton and Wilson State Bank.

Girls State was organized as a national Americans activity in 1937 by the American Legion Auxiliary. The purpose of the Girls State program is to provide citizenship training for girls of high school age; to afford them an opportunity to live together as a self-governing group; and to inform them of the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities which they will assume when they become adults. Each year citizens are selected at local levels from students who have just completed their junior year in high school. The selection is based principally on leadership, character and scholarship.

Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court administered the oath of office to the elected state officials of Bluebonnet Girls State, Monday, June 22, in the Rotunda of the State Capitol. The Honorable George Strake, Secretary of State, was guest speaker at the inauguration.

WOODWORK

by dalton

WE'RE EITHER GOING to have the Fourth of July right away or we just had it, depending on when you read this. It's a great American holiday, and I am one who doesn't think it is corny to be patriotic once in awhile.

We take a lot of our freedoms for granted because we have always had them. But we still have by far the greatest country in the world, the very best place to live and raise families, despite all our problems.

The United States is not all that united in many areas, and we in the south and southwest often feel we'd do a lot better as a nation separate from all those weird folks up north and in the east who have entirely different standards from ours. But there are good people in every state, and this truly is a beautiful country.

We are celebrating our independence from Great Britain. Now if we would only have the guts to be independent of the arrogant Middle East oil countries. We're told by our own leaders that we can't make it without Mideast oil. I think we could, and I'd like to see us tell Iran and those other Arabs to pour their oil in their ears--we'll get by on our own oil.

I don't know how I got off on that. Anyway, I hope you have (or had) a happy Fourth of July, with lots of ice cream, barbecue, sunburn, etc.

I WONDER if anyone ever went to a doctor because his eyeballs wouldn't stop rolling around madly, a condition brought on by trying to watch one of those commercials which tries to scan 500 scenes in a minute of commercial time. A lot of TV commercials make me angry enough to try to remember the sponsor so I'll be sure and never spend a penny with them, but those kind irritate me the most.

I just can't bear watching one of those where the camera rapidly flips through a whole bunch of different things and you don't have time to look at any of them. If they're gonna show something, they oughta show it, not jump around like crazy to where you get an instant headache trying to watch it.

Incidentally, some piece of literature which turned up in the office recently says that in the average home the television set is on 46 hours a week. It also said that the average husband and wife talk to each other just 27 minutes a week.

She talks 26 and he gets in 1. No, I made that up; the article only said they talk on the average of 27 minutes each week.

In some homes this may be true. They talk all 27 minutes at once, get mad at each other and don't speak for the rest of the week.

At our house, we probably spend more time than that talking to each other. And our television set isn't on any 46 hours a week. Most weeks we're not even home that long, if you don't count sleeping time.

Mantooth Selected Superintendent

Ricky P. Mantooth has been selected as superintendent of the New Home I.S.D. to succeed James F. Blake who has accepted the position of superintendent of Sands I.S.D. in Ackerly, Texas. Lynn Johnson, graduate of Corpus Christi University, has been moved to high school principal. He has been in the New Home I.S.D. school system since 1972 as teacher and junior high principal during that time. The positions of head football coach and head basketball coach and special education teacher are still open.

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Few federal agencies have proven to be as big a disappointment to the American public as the Legal Services Corporation (LSC).

The LSC was born out of a sincere effort on the part of Congress to provide basic legal assistance to those who could not afford it. Since its creation seven years ago, the LSC budget has gone from $71.5 million to a requested $399 million — a 360 percent increase. And just what have we been getting for our money?

This program was designed to help individual low income citizens with legal problems ranging from eviction to divorce, but the LSC has instead concentrated on "social impact" cases and has flooded the courts with class action suits, many times against the very government that signs its checks.

The record of the LSC shows a clear preference for high visibility cases over individual cases, and in many regional offices, such individual casework is not accepted at all. The General Accounting Office has further documented the LSC's ineffectiveness in a study which shows that 60 percent of those eligible are not even aware of the services available through the LSC.

The record of the agency is littered with gross and flagrant violations of its authorizing legislation, despite repeated legislative attempts to limit the agency to legitimate activities. For instance, the law prohibits lobbying by any publicly funded group, and yet, the LSC has been actively involved in major campaigns to influence legislation, including their recent attempt to save their own agency.

LSC funds have been used to support political causes such as rent strikes, prison reform, homosexual rights and utility rate protests. There have been repeated allegations connecting the agency with labor disputes, as well. None of these activities were authorized by Congress.

I thought the LSC issue had been laid to rest when Congress eliminated agency funding from the recently approved budget. Despite intense opposition, my own included, the House voted last week, however, to reauthorize the LSC for another two years.

Amendments were passed, granted, that would tighten some of LSC's more free-handed activities, including a ban against federally funded LSC lawyers bringing class action suits against local, state or federal governments. Another amendment would restrict cases involving homosexual rights and another on lobbying by legal aid lawyers.

Legal assistance for the poor is a very real need that should not be held hostage to the political and "social-impact" ambitions of a relative handful of LSC workers. But I seriously question whether those needs can be met by an agency that is constantly immersed in the types of controversy that have thrown a smoke screen around the original purpose of the LSC. Rather than let those needs be lost in the smoke, let's concentrate on saving the best aspects of the program, but give legal services responsibilities to the state and local governments where they can best be administered.

How To Raise Your Parents...

- 1) Do not be afraid to speak their language. Try to use strange-sounding phrases like "I'll help with the dishes" and "yes".
- 2) Try to understand their music. Play Andy Williams "Moon River" on the stereo until you are accustomed to the sound.
- 3) Be patient with under-achievers. When you catch your dieting mom sneaking salted peanuts, do not show your disapproval. Tell her you like fat mothers.
- 4) Encourage your parents to talk about their problems. Try to keep in mind that to them things like earning a living and paying off the mortgage seem important.
- 5) Be tolerant of their appearance. When your dad gets a haircut, don't feel personally humiliated. It's important to him to look like his peers.
- 6) If they do something you consider wrong, let them know it's their behavior you dislike, not themselves.

PROVING YOUR DATE OF BIRTH

It seems that the older we get the greater the pressure to prove how young we are. The late Jack Benny drew endless comic payoff from this phenomenon by always giving his age as 39.

However when it comes to applying for social security benefits, everyone is required to prove his or her date of birth. Eligibility for benefits is generally based on one's date of birth and the amount of work covered under social security.

In addition to proving your date of birth in applying for benefits, under current law you also have to establish date of birth as well as identity when you apply for a social security card.

Proof of age continues to be the problem that plagues more social security applicants than any other. The problem generally surfaces when they discover that the date of birth they are currently using is different from that given to social security many years ago when they applied for a social security card. When this happens, social security requires additional evidence.

The preferred proof of age is a birth certificate or baptismal record dated before a person's fifth birthday. Other proofs may include a delayed birth certificate, insurance policy, census records, bible or other family record, religious record of confirmation or baptism in your early adult life, military record, marriage record, vaccination record, physician or midwife's record of birth, or passport. The list is not exhaustive. Social security evaluates such documents in terms of how old they are and the circumstances under which they were made.

Social security officials urge people who are not sure that they are using the correct date of birth to take steps now to set the record straight. People should apply for benefits at least 3 months before they want benefits to start. This gives them time to clear up any proof of age problems and insure that benefits will start on time.

People born in this area may get copies of their birth certificates from your county clerk. But if you have any trouble, contact us. We can probably help. Our number is 762-7381.

Felons will no longer be paid social security disability checks while confined in jail or prison. On Oct. 19, 1980, President Carter signed Public Law 96-473 which provides for nonpayment of checks to prisoners confined for felonies. Effective date of this provision was Oct. 1, 1980, and went almost unnoticed as it was not given much publicity.

No checks will be paid for the period of time the prisoner is confined even if the person was eligible for the checks at the time he went into prison, and remains eligible after his release from prison.

In addition to nonpayment while in prison, there are three other provisions affecting those whose checks are withheld because of these provisions.

No longer will physical or mental conditions occurring while in prison be used to establish a disability.

The same provision applies if a disabling condition occurs while committing a felony.

Finally, no student benefits can be paid to prisoners even though they may be attending school full time while in prison.

Lawn Watering Could Be Harmful

Much of the water going onto area lawns and shrubs is being wasted. It's lost to overwatering, high evaporation and poor application patterns. Since the lion's share of household water use goes out to the yard, it becomes a real waste of money as well.

You can have a healthy lawn and garden without wasting water, and it is not difficult. The biggest improvement you can make is to begin a careful program of home lawn irrigation...if you can figure out when to sprinkle, how much to apply and for how long.

The High Plains Water District has a few pointers for practical, efficient grass watering tailored for the individual lawn that can save you several hundred gallons of treated, fresh water and save you money on your monthly energy bill. They'll help you make it through the summer without sacrificing your turf while saving water.

A REMINDER
Water alone will not make grass healthy. In fact, too much water can be as harmful as too little water. Excess watering will drain away valuable plant nutrients stored in the root zone, decrease root zone aeration necessary to plant growth and may even inhibit root growth.

Overwatering can promote the growth of disease. It is a waste of water, fertilizer and energy expended on pumping.

You don't need to water every day. Most High Plains soils can store enough moisture to last seven to ten days. Watering a small amount every day or two only serves to wet the top few inches of the soil and cause the plant roots to concentrate there. Plants will be healthier if they are watered long enough at one time to moisten the deeper zone thereby encouraging deep root development.

OK--BUT HOW LONG?

Try this experiment to learn your sprinkler's habits. First, place a few empty topless cans at various distances from the sprinkler making sure they don't lean. After sprinkling for an hour, measure the depth of water caught in each can and average the amounts. Then divide the number of inches needed for your soil type by the average amount of water needed to effectively irrigate your lawn.

For example, assume that you've placed several catch cans, sprinkled for an hour, and arrived at an average depth of 3/8-inches of water in the cans. If the total depth of water needed for lawn is one inch, then the total sprinkling time needed is found by dividing one inch (the total depth of water needed) by 3/8-inch (the average one-hour catch)--and the answer is 2 hours 40 minutes. If you needed to apply 1.5 inches of water to sufficiently irrigate the grass and root zone, you'd need to water for about four hours.

Of course, other factors will have a bearing on your irrigation schedule, but this is a good rule of thumb approach of establishing a lawn-irrigation schedule. Combined with careful observation, it should lead to a healthy, resilient lawn as well as to an appreciable savings of water.

SO WHEN DO YOU WATER?

At the first sign of real wilt. Wilt doesn't mean that the grass is dying, only that it's "thirsty," but don't look for it in the middle of the afternoon. Despite plenty of available moisture, many plants will tend to show considerable wilt on a hot afternoon. It's usually temporary. The grass normally will regain its vitality in the evening. Look for signs of real wilting then; its time to water.

Most likely you'll discover signs of wilt only after five to ten days of little or no rain or irrigation. During cooler weather, this period will be even longer.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WATER?

Most lawn grasses used in the High Plains have a potential root zone depth of about three feet. This means that with proper irrigation, the grass roots will penetrate and efficiently extract water and nutrients from the soil to a depth of about three feet from the surface.

How much water you'll need to apply to adequately irrigate this three foot zone depends on what type of soil you have. If it is totally dry and sandy soil, you will need to apply about three inches; if it's loam (a mixture of clay, silt and sand) apply about four and one-half inches; and if it's a heavy clay soil, about six inches. It will be a rare occasion that your soil will be totally dry to the three foot depth. Normally half of the amounts given above will wet your soil adequately.

MORE TIPS FOR EFFICIENT IRRIGATION...

To avoid as much evaporation loss as possible, water you lawn early in the morning. Picking a calm, windless day will help, too.

Overlap your sprinklers just enough to supply water to the outer fringes, but not so much as to double-water large areas.

Be certain that your sprinklers are placed so as not to water sidewalks, streets, driveways, walls, etc. It wastes water.

If you have an automatic sprinkling system, make sure it has an override to compensate for rainfall and for the lawn's reduced water needs during winter months. Make doubly sure that it's not on a 24-hour cycle. Your grass really only needs irrigating every five to ten days--daily watering is wasteful and may even prove harmful to your yard.

Keep in mind the plants or lawns adjacent to pavement or unglazed roofs sometimes need less watering because of increased runoff.

And speaking of runoff: a 2,500 square foot roof receives about sixteen hundred gallons of water from a one-inch rain. Rather than allow this water to flow into a storm sewer or ditch, why not divert it to irrigate shrubs or lawns?

Help For Mentally Disabled

The gradual increase in public perception of the plight of people who suffer from a mental impairment is reflected in the social security and supplemental security income (SSI) programs which provide financial help for the mentally disabled.

Social security and SSI benefits are paid to people who suffer a mental or physical impairment which prevents them from working for a year or more and is expected to last 12 months or longer or to result in death. More than 10 percent of the 5 million people receiving social security or SSI disability benefits do so because of a mental condition.

People who haven't worked under social security enough to qualify for a benefit may qualify for assistance under the SSI program. SSI pays benefits to the mentally and physically disabled, as well as the aged and blind, on the basis of need rather than past work. The SSI medical eligibility standards for disability benefits are the same as those for social security disability benefits. A person, of any age, including children, can receive SSI payments.

When a person applies for disability benefits, eligibility for both social security and SSI is considered.

Adults over 18 who were disabled before age 22--mentally retarded children, for example--may qualify for disability benefits under social security. A child may qualify for social security benefits if a retired or disabled parent is getting benefits or if a deceased parent worked long enough under social security. It makes no difference how old the person is when he or she applies as long as the disability began before 22. Others include organic brain syndrome or brain damage, acute psychosis, and psychoneurotic disorders.

It should be noted that establishing the severity of a mental disorder is somewhat more difficult than determining a physical condition, although the process is similar. Reports are required from any institution where the applicant has been a patient, as well as reports on any examinations by psychiatrists, psychologists, or medical doctors. Social security works with the Vocational Rehabilitation Commission in reaching a decision on the extent of the emotional and intellectual impairment, with the State agency having the major responsibility for the medical determination. Additional examinations may be required by doctors selected

Texas Not Producing As Much Oil

Despite a ninth consecutive year of maximum production schedules (the maximum efficient recovery rate) in nearly all of Texas' fields, the state's annual output of crude oil and condensate last year fell below the one-billion barrel mark for the first time since 1965. Moreover, a downward production trend continued for the eighth consecutive year since Texas' output peaked in 1972.

The total of 960-million barrels included more than 931-million barrels of crude oil. Also produced was 29-million barrels of condensate, according to figures compiled by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

Last year's production level showed a drop of more than 46.5-million barrels from 1979 output and was more than 330-million barrels below 1972 production of almost 1.3-billion barrels. Nevertheless, production in 1980 pushed the all-time cumulative total since 1889 to almost 45.6-billion barrels of crude oil and condensate.

Edwin L. Cox, president of the Dallas-based Association, noted that despite the drop in output there is a very encouraging trend in one aspect of industry activity: Since Ex-President Carter began a gradual phaseout of crude oil price controls on June 1, 1979, a phaseout accelerated by President Reagan, the number of wells drilled in Texas has skyrocketed.

Last year's total of 18,697 wells completed was the largest number since 1957, Cox noted. This compares with 16,149 drilled in 1979 by social security or the State agency.

Generally, a representative payee is selected to receive the social security or SSI benefits on behalf of a mentally disabled person. The representative payee may be a relative, friend, or other responsible person or institution.

STATEMENT OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATES

General Telephone Company of the Southwest, in accordance with the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of rates in Texas effective October 1, 1981.

On April 28, 1981, the Public Utility Commission of Texas issued its order in Docket 3690, creating a separate Docket 3861 to consider the impact and effect of the accounting changes ordered by the Federal Communications Commission (CC Docket 79-105).

The Federal Communications Commission has changed the method of accounting for inside wiring costs associated with the one-time station connection, move, or change activity. The new rate schedule will increase the Company's gross annual revenue derived from local service by no more than three percent. The schedule of rates and charges is available for inspection at each Company business office in the State of Texas.

Bumper Peach Crop Fills Texas' Markets

AUSTIN--A peach bumper crop, estimated at 140 percent above 1980's production, is causing a glut of peaches on the Texas market. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

Brown is appealing to Texas consumers and retailers to help ease the surplus, which is being further aggravated by out-of-state producers dumping their product on the market at bare cost of production.

"Apparently, every peach tree in the nation has a bumper crop on it, and they're all coming off the trees at the same time," said Brown. "I urge Texas consumers to eat them, can them, preserve them, freeze them, but just buy them," he said, adding that Texas peaches are "miles fresher" than those shipped in from out of state, and offer the consumer better flavor, texture and overall quality.

"Several Texas peach growers have contacted our marketing division asking us to help move this huge Texas crop, and we are doing everything possible to assist them," said Brown. Brown said that tremendous quantities of peaches from California, Georgia and South Carolina are being offered for sale in the state at lower prices than Texas producers can afford to sell their peaches. "The out-of-state producers are absorbing all transportation and processing costs just to get rid of their peaches," Brown said.

Texas peach production for the 1981 season is projected at 625,000 bushels, 140 percent above the 1980 crop, and 30 percent above 1979. Nationwide, production should hit 13,678,000 bushels, up from 12,271,000 bushels last year.

Some 33 varieties of peaches are grown in Texas.

Rural sociology chosen to receive census information

COLLEGE STATION -- The Department of Rural Sociology at Texas A&M University has been selected by the Texas 2000 Agency in governor Clements' office to play a key role in disseminating 1980 census information.

The department, along with the Texas State Library and the Texas Natural Resource Information System, will be the primary disseminating agencies of the State Data Center Program. The program is intended to increase the availability and accessibility of the 1980 census data. The three agencies will be responsible for providing information on population changes, characteristics and trends in Texas.

FIREWORKS SAFETY

With the Fourth of July drawing near, there are certain firework precautions that can help ensure a safe celebration.

For years fireworks have been recognized as a serious safety hazard particularly for children, says County Agent, Stanley Young.

Deaths, blindings, amputations and severe burns are results of fireworks misuse. The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that last year about 8,000 persons were treated in hospital emergency rooms for fireworks injuries.

The following safety precautions regarding fireworks as set forth by the Consumer Product Safety Commission are:

--Before using fireworks, make sure they are permitted in your local area.

--Do not allow younger children to play with fire-

4-H REACHES YOUTH IN MANY WAYS

Today's 4-H program is noted for its flexibility, a feature that makes it the largest youth-serving organization in the country.

4-H is flexible because it's organized in different ways, for different needs, in different places. Organization may take the form of community or neighborhood clubs, project clubs, special interest groups, television, and special activities. Young people may take part in 4-H through any or all of these, points out Brent Drennan, County 4-H Program Coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The community or neighborhood 4-H Club is associated with an area known to local people, such as a crossroads, a small village, a township, a section of a suburban community, a city block or blocks, or a housing works under any circumstances. The sparkler, considered the ideal safe firework, burns at high temperature and can easily ignite clothing. Young children can't appreciate the danger involved and act correctly in case of emergency.

--If older children use fireworks, be sure they are under close adult supervision.

--Before using fireworks, read and follow all warning instruction printed on labels.

--Light fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from houses and flammable materials.

--Keep buckets of water nearby for emergencies and for dousing fireworks that don't go off.

--Don't relight or handle malfunctioning fireworks. Soak them in water and throw away.

--Be sure people are out of range before lighting fireworks.

--Never ignite fireworks in a container, especially glass or metal container.

--Store fireworks in a dry, cool place. Check instructions for special storage directions.

complex. The number of 4-H members in a club may range from five to six to more than 100. This type of 4-H Club continues from year to year. Usually both girls and boys belong to the club, enrolling in projects according to their interests.

In many areas, 4-H is organized on a "Project Club" basis. Young people are encouraged to form these clubs for a year or less. Examples include clubs for gardens, clothing, dairy, automotive, horses, tractors and small engines. These 4-H Clubs vary in number of members and their territory may range from a neighborhood cluster of a few families to a city block or two or three towns or an entire county. In many counties, members of community or neighborhood 4-H clubs may belong to a larger area 4-H project club. Teenagers especially like this system.

In special interest groups, subjects taught depend on special interests and ages of girls and boys and how these relate to community needs.

Young people may take part in this kind of intensive short-term group if they do not wish to be members of a 4-H club. They may get training in bicycle safety, health, first aid and firefighting or for jobs on local businesses.

In the late 1950s a State Cooperative Extension Service produced the first 4-H TV series. That series of 13 half-hour programs about electricity was designed for 9 to 11 year-olds. Since then, several states have developed and shared 4-H TV. Television films or video tapes and educational materials for members and leaders are used in groups or individually. Many have been programmed through school systems. More than 6 million youth enrolled in "Mulligan Stew," the 4-H nutrition television programs developed by Extension Service-USDA in the early '70s.

Special educational activities often supplement 4-H programs. These include tours, 4-H junior and teen leader training workshops, achievement programs, camps, state conferences, seminars, recreational leadership training, share-the-fun festivals, career exploration, and exhibitions, fairs and shows.

Two major nationwide events are held for 4-H members each year, National 4-H Congress in late fall in Chicago and National 4-H Conference each spring at the National 4-H center in Washington, D.C.

Among key events in Texas are State 4-H Roundup each June at Texas A&M University and State 4-H Congress in July in a major city.

Whichever method suits you best, 4-H has a way for you to learn and have fun in an exciting youth program.

Official figures just released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service (TCLRS) show 1980 cotton production in the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, at 2,017,300 bales of 480 pounds net weight.

The 1980 crop-year yield was 733,300 bales below the 2,750,600 bales produced in 1979 and almost 1.2 million below the all-time record of 3,215,400 grown in 1977.

Planted acreage according to TCLRS was 4,523,900, almost equaling the previous high of 4,565,000 seeded in 1979. But after about 12.5 percent of the crop was lost to drought and other adverse weather, only 3,959,900 acres were harvested in 1980. Yield per harvested acre came to 244.5 pounds in 1980, the lowest yield per harvested acre since the 199.9 pounds harvested in 1952 and well below the average of 356.3 pounds per acre for the ten-year period 1970 through 1979. The highest average per-acre yield ever achieved on the Plains was 513.2 pounds, recorded in 1965.

Hale County's 243,000 bales led the area in production. The second, third and fourth places were taken by Lubbock (213,200), Lamb (184,200) and Floyd (173,800). Per-acre yield leaders in 1980 were Farmer County (450 pounds), Hale (430), Castro (414) and Lamb (394).

The chart below shows planted and harvested acres, yield per harvested acre and total production in 480-pound net weight bales for each of the 25 PCG counties.

Bakersfield and Fresno by Cotton Council International. For the large Asian market, John Maguire, CCI Far Eastern director, said U.S. cotton will be in an excellent trade position if textile demand and prices improve.

"Generally speaking," he said, "Asia is reeling from the on-again, off-again 1979-80-81 recession. But these nations' economies are closer now to stabilization, and that is crucial to their fiber imports."

Paul Lewis, CCI European director, reported that Russia will continue to be U.S. cotton's strongest competitor in West Europe. He added, "But Soviet domestic consumption is rising while its cotton production holds steady, leaving a supply void that U.S. cotton could fill."

Lewis explained that, although European consumers prefer natural fibers, blends are making inroads into traditional cotton strongholds such as bed linens and towels, and men's underwear and workwear.

GIN DUST STANDARD DELETED: The Occupational Safety and Health Administration has announced it is removing the dust standard for cotton gins from the Code of Federal Regulations. The action was in accordance with a Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals decision last fall which vacated the final standard for gins.

Just in case you forgot, the average price per gallon for unleaded regular gasoline back in the good old days, June, 1972, was 36 cents. By 1974, and the OPEC oil embargo, it had shot up to 53 cents. Bet you thought that was high, didn't you?

44 Estimated To Die July 4

The Department of Public Safety estimated that as many as 44 persons may die in Texas traffic accidents during the upcoming July 4th weekend unless drivers exercise extreme caution.

Colonel Jim Adams, DPS Director, urged motorists to maintain safe driving habits during the holiday to help minimize the loss of life.

"Texas is well on its way to yet another record year for traffic fatalities," Adams said. "We can put a stop to this dangerous trend if more motorists will slow down, refrain from drinking and use the most readily-available safety precaution—seat belts."

"In Texas, the chances of being killed in an accident during 1980 were four times greater for persons not wearing seat belts than for those wearing the belts," Adams pointed out. "The odds are clearly in the motorist's favor when everyone in the vehicle remembers to buckle up."

The DPS will be conducting "Operation Motorcade" during the holiday period to call attention to the dangers of holiday driving.

Adams said DPS Regional Commanders will deploy additional troopers where heavy volumes of traffic are expected.

Sherry Etheredge Says...

Do you know that buttermilk has less calories than whole milk? A cup of buttermilk contains only 99 calories while a cup of whole milk contains 150, say U.S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists.

In days gone by people enjoyed buttermilk more often because it was a natural byproduct left after cream had been churned into butter.

Today all commercially sold buttermilk is cultured. It is made by adding lactic acid-producing bacteria under laboratory conditions to freshly pasteurized skim or partially skimmed milk. It is much thicker than skim milk.

What better season to provide your family with some good old time recipes flavored with buttermilk? Milk production in June reaches a seasonal peak and supplies are greater than they were at this time last year, says USDA's Agriculture Marketing Service.

You don't have to drink buttermilk plain. Make a spring party punch. Blend together four parts chilled buttermilk, three parts chilled orange juice, some lemon juice for tang, sugar to taste and a little cinnamon and salt. Beat until foamy in a blender or electric mixer or shake well in a tightly covered jar.

Keep buttermilk covered in the coldest part of the refrigerator. If it gets warm, it may separate. If it does separate, just stir it. What a variety of treats you can provide.

about 11 calories per tablespoon.

Strawberry-Buttermilk Sherbet

1 pint fresh strawberries or frozen
dash lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups buttermilk

Wash fresh strawberries, slice into a bowl, sprinkle with sugar and marinate 1 hour at room temperature. Then crush and drain the berries reserving the liquid. Add water to the juice, if needed, to yield about 1 cup. Soften unflavored gelatin in a third cup of the strawberry juice. Dissolve over hot water and pour into buttermilk. Add a half cup more of berry juice, a half cup of sugar and a dash of lemon juice. Pour mixture into a refrigerated tray and freeze until mushy. Spoon icy mixture into a bowl, beat until smooth, and fold in the crushed strawberries. Return sherbet to the refrigerator tray and freeze until firm. Garnish with whole strawberries.

Buttermilk Biscuits

2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup buttermilk

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda. Cut in shortening; then add buttermilk and blend lightly until well mixed. Knead gently for half a minute on floured board, roll until 1/2-inch thick and cut with a floured biscuit cutter. Bake on a cookie sheet 12 to 15 minutes at 425 F. Makes 1 1/2 dozen biscuits.

Taking a Cool Look

If the cost of cooling your home has become a burning issue, here are comforting ideas.

If you don't need central air conditioning, consider using individual window or through-the-wall units in rooms that need cooling from time to time.

Install a whole-house ventilating fan in your attic or in an upstairs window to cool the house when it's cool outside—even if you have central air conditioning. It pays to use the fan rather than air conditioning when the outside temperature is below 82 degrees. When windows in the house are open, the fan pulls cool air through the entire house and exhausts warm air through the attic.
