Motorcycle Rodeo Set Here July 18

Lynn County Rodeo Assn. will sponsor a rodeo without horses Saturday night, July 18, as what sponsors described as a night of family fun is planned in a motorcycle rodeo.

There will be events for three-wheelers and cycles, with classifications according to size, said Rodeo Assn. spokesman Dan Taylor. There will be events for riders of all ages and with admission price just $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12 there also should be a good turnout of spectators. The events will begin at 6 p.m. at the rodeo grounds.

There also will be a concession stand and announcer, and riders of all ages are expected.

Six events are planned, with entry fee of $5 per event, and all entries must be made by noon July 18. Entry may be made at Flanigan Auto Parts.

The events will include pole event, barrel racing, flatland race, jumping, wheelie contest and keyhole event.

Trophies will be awarded for first place winners, with ribbons for runners-up.

WOODWORK

by dalton

I'M NOT SUPPOSED to write about this because my wife already told me she didn't want to hear about it any more because I was making a big deal out of nothing. But that's the way I get some of my best material.

I may not take a copy of the paper home this week, so perhaps she won't read this. Her subscription has expired anyway.

The topic she said she was tired of hearing me talk about is eating wilted lettuce. We were on this trip with another couple and the guy said something about how tasty it is to wilt some lettuce with hot bacon grease and then pour sugar on it. "And eat it?" I inquired incredulously. "Of course; it's good," he said. And when I said I never heard of such a thing, all three of them lit into me as a big dummy who couldn't possibly have led such a sheltered life that I'd never heard of eating wilted lettuce. They all said their mothers had fixed it often, and one said my own mother probably had prepared some.

I told them maybe so, but she never tried to feed me any of it. I kept telling them that when lettuce is wilted you throw it away, and that it sounds about like mixing ketchup and peanut butter, and they kept telling me that everybody in the world except me knows all about that particular way of fixing lettuce (leaf lettuce, they explained).

At the time of the discussion, we were in Laramie, Wyo., and this guy had the nerve to ask the unknown couple at the next table if they had ever heard of preparing lettuce that way. And they had, which made my position worse. But later I asked several people and none of them had ever heard of it.

Maybe one of these days somebody will set some sweetened and wilted leaf lettuce on the table in front of me. If so, I hope I don't have to bless the food. I might say something like "Lord, lettuce be thankful for thy wilt in our lives."

Now you know why Lenda would just as leaf forget the whole topic.

City Acts To Implement Federal Grant Program

Tahoka City Council Monday night voted to employ the firm of Barber-Traylor to provide administrative services related to carrying out a three-year federal grant program which is scheduled to include a total of $2,225,000 in the city.

Gary Traylor of the company was present. The firm's services, taking care of all the details and paperwork required to administer a federal grant, will cost the city $26,500 per year, which comes out of the federal money.

The council also voted to employ consulting engineer A.C. Bowden of Lubbock for engineering services on the three-year program. Bowden has been working with the city as a consulting engineer for more than 25 years. His fees are not set in advance, but also are paid out of the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) which proposes to resurface streets, put in water and sewer improvements, eliminate dilapidated buildings and rehabilitate homes, all in the south and east sections of the city designated by the federal government as qualifying for the work.

Traylor told the council the city needs to hire a coordinator and inspector for the demolition and rehabilitation programs.

Chamber of Commerce representatives Frank Barrow and Winston Wharton met with the council to request city cooperation in a cleanup drive and details were discussed. City Manager Carl Reynolds said a city shredder would be available later on for the lot mowing. More details of the campaign were to be worked out and announced next week. At a Wednesday meeting of Chamber directors it was decided to have the cleanup week July 20-24.

A resolution authorizing the city to borrow $10,000 from First National Bank of Tahoka was approved.

On a sodium-restricted diet? -- and so you wash off regular tuna to get rid of the salt?

Forget it. Washing regular canned tuna or other fish will not reduce the sodium content, says Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist.

On the other hand, buying dietetic pack tuna or salmon prepared without oil or salt will allow you to have those items without the sodium, she says.

PRaise THE LORD

BY LENDA WOOD

It's refreshing to know that there are still lots of honest people around. While we were vacationing in the state of Washington recently, I left my purse at a restaurant one night, and didn't realize I had left it until the next morning. Still a long way from home, and I was carrying our vacation money in that purse - it was time to panic!

Well, the next morning we had to wait around for the restaurant to open, and when we finally were able to phone them to ask if they had found the purse, the manager answered and said yes the purse was there. We drove down to the restaurant, found the purse and all contents still intact, including the vacation money! We were thrilled! Most thrilling of all was to realize that there are still honest folks, and not only in West Texas, but everywhere in this world.

The person who found that purse and turned it in to be reclaimed will be blessed. Any honest person's actions will be blessed. That's like planting good seed, and when we plant good seed, the Lord multiplies and blesses every time.

Everybody likes to get blessed - and when we give of ourselves, of our money, of our time and talents to the Lord he multiplies and blesses it back to us. The Bible says it is multiplied back, some thirty fold, some sixty, some a hundred fold.

But this one important thing we need to remember: 30 times 0 is nothing, 60 times 0 is nothing and 100 times 0 is still nothing. So if we're giving 0 to the Lord and He blesses it 30 times, it's still nothing. The more we give to the Lord, the more it multiplies.

FABULOUS FORECASTS

Nostradamus, a French astrologer and physician who lived from 1503 to 1566, gained fame for a series of prophecies in verse in his book, Centuries. While some historians consider his prophecies vague and open to many interpretations, others contend his predictions were amazingly accurate.

Today, predictions are being made about modern trends in an age-old beverage - beer. A new breed of beer drinker is on the rise in America, changing notions that had prevailed about the beverage for decades. A modern-day prognosticator of the beer industry is Frank J. Sellinger, chief executive officer of Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company. He's a master brewer who has also become the television spokesman for his company's products. He predicts:

"Beer drinkers will gradually become more discriminating. People will learn that good beer develops a full head of foam when poured and keeps that head without the aid of chemical additives."

4-H'ERS "SIZE UP"

Kids can outgrow their bicycles just the way they do their shoes and clothing. But a bike that no longer "fits" a child can be a real safety hazard, notes Brent Drennan, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To judge whether a bike is the right size, young people in the National 4-H Bicycle Program can follow some tips from Barbara Schilde of the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service, who says:

1. The ball of the foot should just touch the ground when the cyclist is astride the bike saddle. The knee will be slightly bent when the pedal is at the bottom of the pedaling stroke.

2. When the saddle is properly adjusted, the legs will be slightly bent, giving more power as the cyclist pushes down alternately on the pedals. The saddle can be adjusted by raising or lowering and should be parallel with the ground.

3. Handlebars also can be raised or lowered. They should turn without hitting the knee.

4-H members 9-19 can improve their bicycle knowledge and skills in a variety of learn-by-doing projects supervised by the cooperative Extension Service and supported for the 10th year by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. Learning how to choose a bike, how it works, and how to keep it in top operating condition can be both educational and fun.

Bicycle safety activities stress understanding and obeying "Rules of the road" as they apply to bike drivers. Junior and teen 4-H bicycle leaders plan and conduct community service activities that include safety checks, skill driving events, and bike-a-thons for charity.

Goodyear provides membership cards for some half a million boys and girls enrolled in the program. The company also offers awards to outstanding program members at all levels of participation.

Six national winners receive $1,000 scholarships each year and are honored at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. Eighteen sectional winners attend the Congress on expense-paid trips, and one 4-H member per state receives a $50 U.S. Savings Bond. Up to four 4-H'ers per county can earn medals of honor. Winners are selected by the Cooperative Extension Service, and awards are arranged and announced by National 4-H Council. More information on the 4-H bicycle program is available from the County Extension office.

Singer Mac Davis Promotes Soil And Water Conservation

To promote the wise use of soil, water and related renewable natural resources in Lynn County, Harold Sanders, chairman of the Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District announced the support and assistance of Texas-born and raised singer-songwriter-actor Mac Davis.

"Mac's concern for the conservation of this state's renewable natural resources has recently caused him to lend his talents in narration and music through recorded radio public service spots to the need for conserving these resources," added Sanders. "Mac's interest in assisting Texas soil and water conservation districts promote a strong conservation ethic which stems from the fact that he is personally acquainted with our problems. As a youngster growing up in Lubbock he saw what devastating high winds and hard driving rains can do to the land," said Sanders.

The entertainer has expressed his interest this way. "When I was growing up in Lubbock it seemed like we had a sandstorm everyday. My daddy had a little motel and it was my sister's job and mine to haul the sand out of the flower beds. We'd fill a wheelbarrow and dump it on a vacant lot across the street. The next day the sand would blow back and we'd have to do it all over again."

In response to a question relative to the economics of conservation and the fact that the costs of soil and water conservation measures are difficult to recover in the market place Mac said, "I don't care whether a person lives in a city or on a farm. People depend on the land. So we all ought to be willing to share in the cost of conserving it and still leave room for the farmer and cattlemen to make a decent profit in the same way as anybody on the street has to."

White Opposes Windfall Profit Tax Act

Attorney General Mark White said that he is shocked and amazed that the U.S. Department of Justice has filed a strong opposition to Texas' motion to intervene in the lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980, styled Independent Petroleum Association of America et al. v. United States of America.

During his campaign for the presidency, President Reagan made numerous promises to bring an end to this unfair tax which principally affects a group of people who cannot afford a reduction in income. Over 650,000 Texans alone rely on their small royalty checks as a supplemental source of income to survive in these inflationary times. Three-fourths of those checks amount to less than $200 a month. The windfall profit tax currently is an unfair hardship on these people, many of whom are elderly and retired and who otherwise subsist on social security.

"The Windfall Profit Tax Act adversely affects millions of Americans," White said. "I assumed that the Reagan administration would take immediate steps to call for the repeal of this onerous law. To my dismay, not only has no attempt been made to abolish the tax, the people affected by this law are now giving up more of their income than at any time since the law was passed. Furthermore, the administration now seeks to prevent my office from directly supporting the lawsuit filed to challenge the tax."

"I strongly support legislation introduced by Senator Lloyd Bentsen (D., Texas) to allow independent oil producers and royalty owners to exempt from the 1980 tax the first 1,000 barrels of daily production. It is an attempt to provide an alternative solution to this problem, and to give some relief to those persons most affected by the tax", added White.

GOOD GOLF

Tips On A Low Score At A High Age
By Jay Hebert

Jay Hebert, touring pro and tournament winner for 30 years, has been commissioned by Standard Brands Incorporated to assist senior golfers by preparing these tips.

Playing the irons shouldn't be difficult for the senior golfer as long as he's willing to settle for shorter distances. But instead of using a five-iron he should switch to a four-iron.

There's a tendency among older golfers to practice less. No matter how long you've been playing, or how skilled you've been in the past, practice still makes—if not perfect—a better golfer. The short game can always use a little tuning-up.

As important as practice is, don't overdo it. A half hour on the practice tee is long enough. Before playing a round, it's a good idea to warm up by hitting 20 or so balls. This loosens the muscles and revs up the thinking process.

Scanning Social Security

By Jim Latimer, Field Representative
Social Security Administration
1205 Texas Ave., Room 102

WHEN TO CONTACT SOCIAL SECURITY

It is important for the people in the local area to know when to contact a social security office, a social security representative said recently.

A person should contact social security:

Before getting his or her first job, because social security number is required to get proper social security credit for earnings. This should be done at least six weeks before the number will be needed.

After a death in the family, to see if survivor benefits can be paid.

When someone in the family is disabled, to find out if disability benefits can be paid.

At retirement age - at 65 for full rate cash benefits, or as early as 62 for reduced payments. Sign up for Medicare two or three months before 65, even if there are no retirement plans.

Any time there is a question about social security.

When a person calls a social security office, the people there can tell him or her:

How much work credit is needed to be insured for benefits.

Who can receive benefits.

How to replace a lost social security or Medicare card.

How to get a free statement of the earnings reported to a person's social security record.

What documents a person applying for benefits needs.

For more information about social security get in touch with any social security office. The address and telephone number of the nearest social security office can be found in the telephone directory.

without having their monthly payments reduced. When earnings exceed $65 a month, the payments are reduced by $1 for every $2 in earnings above $65. SSI payments also may be reduced if the eligible person resides in someone else's household - for example, recipients living with their children.
If a child under 18 years of age and living at home is a potential SSI recipient, he or she is considered to share in the parents income and assets. But allowances for parents' work and living expenses as well as for other children that might be living at home are excluded from such income.
The income remaining after these allowances is used to determine if the child is eligible.

In general, people living in public institutions are not eligible for SSI payments, although they may be if they live in a publicly operated community residence serving no more than 16 people. In addition, if Medicaid pays more than half the cost of a person's institutional care, he or she may be eligible for an allowance of up to $25 a month for personal use.

Individuals living in private institutions may be eligible for SSI, but their monthly payments may be reduced depending upon who is paying for their care.

The extent of a person's mental retardation is determined by an agency in the applicant's state, usually the vocational rehabilitation agency. State personnel may evaluate reports from psychologists, psychiatrists, and other professionals, and may review other evidence describing the person's condition. Social security will pay the cost of any additional examinations.

Additional information about SSI for retarded individuals can be obtained from any social security office. In addition, the local chapters of the National Assn. for Retarded Citizens are available to provide information and needed services.

SSI FOR RETARDED PERSONS

Mentally retarded children and adults may be eligible for supplemental security income (SSI) payments as disabled persons. Under the program, disabled individuals may receive monthly cash payments if their assets and income do not exceed specified levels.

The limitation on assets is $1,500 (or $2,250 if you live with your spouse). This includes savings and checking accounts, cash and valuables such as stocks and bonds. For SSI purposes, a person's assets do not include the value of a home, personal and household goods, and, depending on their value, may not include insurance policies or an automobile.

Similarly, a person may have some income and still be eligible for SSI payments. The first $20 of income a month generally is not counted. Except for earnings, income above the first $20 a month reduces the amount for the SSI payment. Included in such income are social security checks, veterans pension and compensation, worker's compensation, pensions, annuities and gifts.

Income for employment is treated differently for SSI purposes. Recipients can earn as much as $65 a month

New Exercise Idea Presented To Rotary

One does not have to leave his own home to get the same or better physical exercise results from jogging, was the theme of a talk by Mrs. Donald (Carolyn) Klaus of Wilson at the Rotary Club last Thursday.

She made her talk and demonstration of "rebound exercises" while bouncing on a "Vitalizer", a sort of miniature trampoline.

Advantages of the exercise program, she indicated, include: Convenience of taking the exercise in your own home, muscle tone for the entire body, weight reduction coupled with cutting down on diet in use of fat, sugar, salt and stress.

The bouncing exercises, she said, can be practiced three times a week to "maintain what you now have", or five or six times a week to "improve your physical condition."

She made her program entertaining as well as informational.

Mrs. Sherry Etheredge, county home demonstration agent, introduced Carolyn.

Rotary's new president, Dr. Richard White, presided for the first time this new club year.

Failure Of Medical Practice Act Will Not Affect Doctors

If Texas does not have a Medical Practice Act on Sept. 1, you wouldn't be able to notice the difference, the Health Freedom Council believes.

"People would continue to go to their usual doctors. Hospitals, clinics and physicians' offices would continue to function normally. There would be no 'panic in the streets,' despite what the Texas Medical Association has been saying," declares Gene Mitchell, president of the Austin-based, consumer group.

The medical association has stated that "hospitals will not be able to write prescriptions" if a special session of the legislature does not pass a new licensing law by Sept. 1. "This is not true," said Mitchell. "The TMA is just using 'scare tactics' on the public in hopes of pressuring passage of the same law that was rejected by the legislature last week."

"Doctors' licenses would not automatically expire just because the Board of Medical Examiners, licensing agent for the state, had ceased to exist," said Mitchell.

"Also, if any problems were to develop, we could expect the courts to make a reasonable interpretation of the intent of the legislature (in allowing the medical board to die) and therefore the courts would provide for continuation where needed of vital medical services," he said. "If there is no longer a state board to license doctors after Sept. 1, Mitchell believes that a new, private system would soon take its place."

"The mechanism is already proven," said Mitchell. "Some 22 or more private medical specialty boards now operate very successfully throughout the U.S., certifying the training and competence of the physicians who qualify. There would simply be another such board, this one certifying basic Texas medical practitioners."

The public would greatly benefit, he said, because quality assurance under the new, private system would be based on consumer acceptance and satisfaction, compared to the present method which, based on the police power of the state, is subject to discretionary enforcement and abuse.

"Consumers could then be assured of the training and competence of any health practitioner they might want to choose--yet they would also have a broader choice, unrestricted by government, of any therapy that seemed to work for them," said Mitchell.

"Another big plus would be that practitioners specializing in prevention of disease would be on an equal footing with those who specialize in the cure of disease."

As for "quacks" and "frauds"--those who might try to take advantage of the new freedom by, for example, posing as a "certified physician"--those people could be prosecuted for fraud under already existing Texas law.

The reason the Council fought the re-approval of the medical board, which was going through the state's "sunset" process--is that the proposed legislation failed to outlaw several abusive practices and failed to apply standard checks and balances required of all other state agencies, said Mitchell.

"And if the TMA is concerned over what might happen if they fail to get the law they want by Sept. 1, they should also worry a little about what would happen if they were to get such a law--a law that I believe would be sure to come under attack in the courts on constitutional grounds," Mitchell added.

In anticipation that the battle over a Medical Practice Act will be re-fought in a special session of the legislature later this summer, the Council is gearing up to carry its "freedom of choice in health care" message to the public in a series of informational meetings that will be held in cities throughout the state in the next few weeks, including Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Tyler, El Paso, Amarillo, Beaumont, and many others.

INSUR-MATION

With Social Security benefits getting more "lffy" every day, private pension plans sound better all the time. How extensive is this involvement?

An estimated 30 million persons, nearly one-half of the private nonagricultural labor force in the U.S., were enrolled in about 300,000 private pension plans having total assets of approximately $150 billion as of 1972. In 1980, the figures in so far estimate over 42 million people, 500,000 plans and $225 billion are in assets. The HR-10 and IRA plans are particularly applicable to self-employed individuals, with or without employees. Prime examples being: professional men, service-oriented businessmen and farmers and ranchers.

Sherry Etheredge Says...

Home Canning Equipment
A few dollars spent now for canning equipment will enable you to enjoy garden-fresh fruits and vegetables next winter. Proper equipment for home canning is an absolute necessity. One of the major reasons for spoilage of home-canned foods is faulty or improper equipment.

Jars
Use only standard jars imprinted with the manufacturer's name. Canning jars are available in half-pint, pint and quart sizes and with narrow or wide mouth openings.

Check tops of jars for cracks, chips and dents. Discard those with defects that would prevent an airtight seal.

Danger: Do not use mayonnaise, peanut butter or other commercial jars. These are not tempered to withstand the heat treatment and may not seal properly in home canning.

Lids
A two-piece, self-seal lid is the most commonly used lid. It has a metal disk and a metal ring and is self-sealing as the jar cools after processing. The top of the jar must have a smooth edge to make a seal. The metal disk can be used only once, but the ring may be used more than one time.

Reminder: New types of lids and lid manufactured by companies new to the business have entered the Market. Lids should meet home canning requirements for sealing properly and holding a seal in handling and storage. Follow manufacturer's instructions to insure proper seal.

Cracks in lid seals and mildew on lids may result from improper storage. For mildew, wash lids in soapy water and boil 5 minutes. Lids with cracked sealing compound should be returned to the manufacturer.

Blazers and jackets -- wear them buttoned or unbuttoned?

Buttoned, they create a dressier look, says Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Unbuttoned jackets are less slenderizing as they often reveal a horizontal belt or waistband, she adds.

Superstition is that if you use the same pillow your dog uses, you will dream what he dreams.
