

Tahoka Man Who Was There Reflects On Pearl Harbor Attack

By DALTON WOOD

On Monday just before 8 a.m., Mike Cotter of Tahoka expects to be arriving for duty at his job at Poka-Lambro Rural Telephone Co-Op, just as he has for almost three years on work days.

Forty years ago Monday, on Dec. 7, 1941, Mike Cotter, 18-year-old U.S. sailor on board the battleship USS Maryland, had just climbed up onto the quarterdeck from a ladderway about 7:55 a.m. Honolulu time when the Japanese launched their infamous attack on Pearl Harbor, where the Maryland and seven other battleships were in port.

"I had just reached the top," Cotter recalled this week, "and the chaplain was there waiting to go down the hatch. We were standing on the quarterdeck and one of the searchlights above us broke from machine gun fire (as the first wave of Japanese planes came over low with bombs and machine guns). I turned around and went back down as fast as I could...the chaplain did, too, but I don't remember if he was ahead of me or behind me."

Goes Back Up

Cotter said he went to his battle station, which at that time was a 16-inch powder handling room. "But there were no ships to shoot at, so we immediately went back up to fight fires and try to help crewmen from the other battleships who had gone into the water."

The Maryland was docked next to Ford Island as the attack came from the east, and the Oklahoma was just outboard from the Maryland on Battleship Row. Since the Oklahoma was between the Maryland and the Japanese submarines which took part in the attack, the Oklahoma was hard hit and capsized, while the Maryland was not reached by any of the subs' torpedoes.

Cotter recalls that after he left home in Eastern New Mexico to enlist in the Navy in the spring of 1941 he had requested duty on the Oklahoma, "but it wasn't in port at the time, so I went on the Maryland...it was a good thing, I guess, because the Oklahoma capsized during the attack and lots of people (415) were killed."

Struck By Bombs

The Maryland did get severe bomb hits and was sunk as far as a battleship could sink in those shallow waters. But with all the battleships except the Tennessee sunk, only the Arizona and Oklahoma were lost permanently, with the others being repaired and sent back into action in the war.

The Arizona, which still remains as a permanent memorial in Pearl Harbor, was hit by a bomb which apparently went down the stack and caused the battleship's own munitions to blow up, killing about 1,100 Navy men.

Total casualties in the attack were listed at 2,403 killed and 1,178 wounded. This included 2,008 Navy officers and enlisted men killed and 710 wounded. The rest were Marines, soldiers and civilians. The Japanese lost 185 men.

Cotter's name really isn't Mike, or anything else, since his parents named him M.J., initials only, possibly because they ran out of names for their 13 children. He acquired the name "Mike" while in service, he said, not from any of his four sisters or eight brothers.

Move To Portales

M.J. attended school in Dora and Elida, N.M. before the family moved to Portales in 1940. After the war, he married the former Genella (Nell) Hutchison of Clovis. She formerly worked at the bank in Tahoka and now is employed by Robert Harvick Insurance Agency. They have two children, Michael, of Carlsbad, N.M., and Mrs. Wanda Faust of Amarillo.

Cotter says the rest of that Sunday in 1941 and the few days following are hazy in his memory now. The attack began at 7:55 a.m. and lasted until 9:45, just under two hours. "I can't remember too much of what we did immediately after the attack, except for fighting fires and trying to save people, but we were busy for several days preparing for a possible invasion (which never materialized)."

He said one reason the Japanese did not lose more planes than they did (29 aircraft did not return) was because "we were having an annual military inspection and most of our ammunition was locked up, it took awhile to get the anti-aircraft guns going."

Although Cotter was not hurt in the Pearl

Harbor attack, he did suffer an arm wound in a later battle, and has a Purple Heart to go with his war trophies. His arm was burned as the Maryland was bombarding Tarawa in 1943 in the Gilbert Islands. The Maryland was repaired and back into service in February after the Pearl Harbor attack and took part in numerous battles, and Cotter served on the Maryland throughout the war and afterward until the battleship was decommissioned.

Damaged In Battle

The Maryland was hit by an aerial torpedo at Saipan in June 1944, and was damaged when a suicide plane hit her off Leyte in 1944 and again by another kamikaze strike in April 1945 at Okinawa. The battleship was scrapped in 1959.

Cotter was discharged as a gunner's mate in July 1946. He commented on the Maryland's many battles that "we were lucky in that we lost fewer than 60 men in the entire war." He also noted that the Maryland veterans of WWII have their own reunion every year apart from reunions of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Assn. and the state meetings of the same group. The Cotters have attended Maryland reunions, and returned to Pearl Harbor five years ago, but not for the reunion of survivors held there every five years. The Pearl Harbor Survivors Assn. meets annually somewhere in the states, and every five years the reunion is at Pearl, including this year's 40th anniversary reunion. The Cotters said they hope to make the one in Pearl Harbor in 1986.

After working for General Telephone Co. for almost 31 years, Cotter retired in February 1979. He then began work at Poka-Lambro, where he will likely spend this Dec. 7, anticipating no major events.

But then he really didn't expect any that day 40 years ago either.

A SIGNIFICANT sign of senility, I have decided, is repeating the same story to one person with a very short interval between, completely forgetting that you already told it to that person.

A good story is worth repeating, of course, but it needs to be told to different persons. I have a friend who is always telling me something he just told me last week, the day before, or sometimes even earlier that same day.

He may not be forgetful, though. He may be just like certain members of my family who figure I need to be told everything at least twice in order for it to soak in.

SPEAKING OF BEING forgetful, I cooked a grilled cheese sandwich one night that really was well done. I put it in the skillet, turned the burner up on hot, and went back around to watch the TV. The show really wasn't that great, but I forgot to go back and turn the burner down and flip the sandwich until all at once I couldn't see the TV any more. And something smelled funny. I leaped up, dashed to the range and grabbed the skillet off the burner. Smoke was thicker than teenagers on Main St. at midnight, and I took the skillet and the charred remains of my sandwich out into the garage. Then I opened the front and back doors and turned on the ceiling fan until the smoke dissipated somewhat and I turned blue from the cold air.

The skillet was just about ruined, because the black stuff wouldn't come off it. The next day my wife said she got up three times during the night to hunt for the fire in the house (she was already sound asleep when I cremated my sandwich).

And the sandwich tasted terrible.

KNOTHOLES: I need a small, agile and intelligent person to go up into my attic and see why the smoke from the fireplace backs up into the house when the furnace comes on. Not too intelligent, though, or they'll never go up there...You've heard of successful people with messy desks who know exactly where everything is, so if anyone moves anything, they can't find what they want. Well, my desk is a big mess, but I can't find anything on it, so I'm only partly successful...I will make it some day, though. I'm now practicing on my signature so it will be totally unreadable.

WANT TO KNOW what kind of people we have out here on the South Plains of Texas? Different from a lot of folks around the country you can bet,

Library Read-A-Long In Fourth Week

The Lynn County Library Read-A-Long is now in its fourth week. Students participating in the Read-A-Long will be collecting donations to the Lynn County Library because of the reading the students have done. Lynn County Librarian Lennie Cox reports an increase in readers in this Read-A-Long. Since the goal of the Read-A-Long was primarily to encourage reading in our county, all indications are that this goal has been reached.

Read-A-Long envelopes which contain a list of books read and donors, will be collected by homeroom teachers in New Home and Wilson schools next Wednesday, Dec. 9. The envelopes and the lists will be collected by homeroom teachers in Tahoka and O'Donnell next Thursday. Awards will be presented around Dec. 14.

Prize for the outstanding participant in the Tahoka will be a $25 savings account and typified by an incident last week in the Draw area. A longtime farmer in that vicinity, Clarence Williams, had gone to Greece for a treatment of a serious illness, and on Nov. 25 about 20 or more cotton strippers were brought onto his land by friends and neighbors from all over the south part of Lynn County and in Borden County. It was not an organized event but a spontaneous one, started by a few men who just thought it would be a good thing to help Clarence out. Some others heard about it during the day, pulled their strippers out of their own fields and took them over to help.

It was a fine gesture on the part of a lot of folks who said they didn't want any special recognition. They just wanted to help, and that's the kind of people who make this country worth living in.

I HAVE decided that one sure sign of senility is telling the same story to the same people without remembering that you told it to them just a short time before. I would never do that, because I have a very good memory. I know, because the other day I stepped on the scales and my fortune card said "You have a good memory and like peanuts."

Anyway, I have a friend who is always telling me something he just told me the day before...come to think of it, did I tell you that already?

donated by the First National Bank of Tahoka.

Wilson State Bank will present a $25 U.S. Savings Bond to the outstanding participant in the Wilson school and also in the New Home school. The First National Bank of O'Donnell will present a $25 check to the outstanding participant in the O'Donnell school.

Lynn County Library Read-A-Long shirts will be presented to two participants from each grade in each school. These shirts have been donated by Huffaker and Green, Attorneys, and by Joe Hays, C.P.A.

Students participating in the Read-A-Long are encouraged to begin contacting those people who pledged to support this Read-A-Long and collect the donations. Any envelope turned in after Dec. 9 in New Home and Wilson or any envelope turned in after Dec. 10 in Tahoka and O'Donnell will be accepted, but will be ineligible for prizes.

Families of 100 Year Old Farms Honored

AUSTIN--Little Burke Ranch, founded in 1835 in Beeville has been recognized as the oldest property to qualify in the 1981 Family Land Heritage Program, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

Brown presented certificates to Mrs. Clara E. Wilson Ray, owner of the ranch, and to the 53 other families at ceremonies this month in the Capitol Rotunda. Sixty-one families qualified this year.

The Texas Department of Agriculture recognized families who have maintained continuous agricultural production on the same land for 100 years or more. So far 1,453 have qualified. The oldest property registered in the eight years of the program is the McAllen Ranch, established in Hidalgo County in 1797.

The Little Burke Ranch was started by Ann Burke, a widow from Tiperrary, Ireland. She received one labor and one league of land (4,616 acres) from the McMullen-McGloin Empresario Grant. Her husband died aboard ship on the way to America. Their only child, Patrick was born one hour after the ship reached American shores in Copano Bay on the Texas coast. Later Ann married Pat O'Carroll whose spouse had also died aboard ship.

As a young boy, Patrick drove an ox wagon carrying provisions from Corpus Christi to Fort Merrill in Live Oak County for army troops, receiving $30 a month for his work. He fought in Civil War, rode in cattle drives to Kansas, and was elected a county commissioner in Bee County in 1878. He ran the ranch until his death in 1912.

Later generations continued ranching and serving as city and county officials. Mrs. Ray now operates the ranch with her sons Robert and Wilson.

Another ranch honored this year, the Thousand Oaks Ranch near Devers, was established in 1836, also by a widow, Melina Whittington, Brown said. The present owners are Mr. and Mrs. Garth G. Andrews.

What's an average day worth?

On an average day you probably get out of bed, adjust the thermostat, make a pot of coffee, cook breakfast . . . perhaps use the dishwasher.

Later, maybe you do a load of laundry and listen to the radio. Then you cook dinner and put the leftovers in the refrigerator. You may turn on the television or settle down in your favorite chair next to a lamp to read.

For all of you, all of this and more adds up to one day . . . just 1/30th of your average monthly electric bill.

Knowing what electricity is worth is worth knowing.

SYMBOLS AND LORE OF THE SEASON

Evergreen Christmas Tree. The use of evergreens, the symbol of survival, probably dates back to the eighth century when St. Boniface Christianized Germany and dedicated the fir tree to the Holy Child, replacing the sacred oak of the god Olin.

Holly. The use of holly and other plants for decorating at Christmas dates back to the pagan ritual of hanging evergreens in the home, to provide refuge from the spirits who live in the forest from the harsh winter. In some areas of England, the prickly and non-prickly varieties of holly are distinguished as 'he' and 'she' holly. It's said that whichever type is brought into the home first will determine who in the household will be the master during the upcoming year... the man or the woman!

Candles in the Window. The Irish put lighted candles in the window on Christmas Eve to welcome the Holy Family, who are said to be traveling the roads of the world again. The candle stubs are then preserved all year as protection against evil spirits.

Stocking on the Mantel. Legend tells that this ritual began when St. Nicholas, a Dutch saint, dropped his bags of gold down the chimney of three dowryless girls on Christmas Eve. The gold landed in their stockings, which happened to be hanging on the mantel to dry.

Poinsettia. The use of the poinsettia as the traditional Christmas Flower comes from Mexico. Legend says that one Christmas Eve, in a small village church, a poor young boy knelt at the altar. He had nothing to offer the Christ child on his birthday, but he was so sincere in his prayers that a miracle sprang up at his feet... the poinsettia.

TAKE SOME TIME FOR YOURSELF
The holidays are a hectic time, even for the most organized person. Shopping for gifts, decorating the home, baking, planning a big holiday dinner, visiting friends and family...all this in addition to the everyday tasks and routine.

It's important for both health and mind to take a few moments for yourself. Sit down, assess what you've already done, then make a plan for what you still need to do. It's the perfect time for enjoying your own holiday decorations.

Girls Basketball Team Improving

A new coach who is accustomed to winning has taken over a girls basketball team which in recent years has mostly been on the losing side, and already there are some signs of better things ahead.

The Tahoka High School varsity Dogettes stand at 2-2 for the season after defeating Lorenzo here Tuesday night, and although the two losses have been pretty lopsided, new coach Diane Luckemeyer is expecting the girls to be increasingly tough this season.

Mrs. Luckemeyer came to Tahoka this year from Snook, a Class A team which she coached for three years and which went 25-4 last season, losing in bi-district. The previous year her team went to regionals.

The young coach played high school basketball at A&M Consolidated, then played guard and forward at Temple Junior College two years and at Texas A&M. She is married to Hunter Luckemeyer and they have a son, Butch, who will be 2 in January.

The main ingredient needed to turn around Tahoka's girls basketball fortunes is self-confidence by the players, she said. "The girls need to learn that they can win... they need self-confidence and more aggressive play."

She added that the team this year doesn't have much height, "so we have to play fundamental, sound basketball, doing the right things at the right time...the girls are working hard and do have a good attitude."

The team beat Seminole in the opening game of the season, then lost to Shallowater and Brownfield.

Starting for the Dogettes at present are seniors Lynia

Paynes and Danette Phillips, juniors Pam Ashcraft and Melanie Terry and sophomore Lela Bailey.

Coach Luckemeyer said that the team shouldn't be expected to do a complete turnaround in one year, but that improvement is evident and "we'll certainly be competitive." She added that "we hope the fans will come out and encourage the girls."

By DANETTE PHILLIPS

Tahoka High School's varsity girls and boys basketball teams will enter their first tournaments of the young season this weekend, as Coach Ben Blair's boys go to Plainview for the Wayland Baptist College Tournament and the girls of Coach Diane Luckemeyer will stay in the county, going to New Home for a tournament.

In addition, the junior varsity boys and girls teams will be in a tournament at Cooper and the freshman teams will enter a Frenship tournament.

Varsity Girls

The varsity girls upped their record to 2-2 with the defeat of Lorenzo 61-51, Tuesday, Dec. 1.

Lynia Payne, along with Lela Bailey, pulled down a total of 29 rebounds. Payne had 12, Bailey 17.

Scoring in double figures were Bailey with 22 points, Pam Ashcraft with 13 points and Payne with 10. Melanie Terry led in steals with 4.

Varsity Dogettes played Brownfield, Tuesday, Nov. 24. They were defeated 29-71.

Bailey and Yvette Paynes led in rebounds with 10 and 6 respectively. Bailey with 4 and Ashcraft with 3, led in steals. They also led in points with Bailey having 10 and Ashcraft 6.

Varsity Boys

Varsity roundballers did not start the season on a very good note as they fell to the Lorenzo Hornets 47-74 Tuesday, Dec. 1, in their season opener.

Top two scorers were Tracy Bryson with 11 and Rickie Graves with 7. These two also led in rebounds with Graves having 4 and Bryson 5.

Otis Pendleton led in steals with 3.

JV Girls

Junior Varsity Dogettes turned in another win Tuesday, Dec. 1, as they defeated Lorenzo 36-26.

Antifreeze Bargains May Leave You Out In The Cold

AUSTIN—Everyone loves a bargain, but cutting corners on your car's antifreeze is the best way to take all the fun out of cold weather driving, warns Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

"Sometimes the price on a particular brand of antifreeze seems too good to be true, and in some cases it is," said Brown, whose department is responsible for seeing that all antifreeze sold in the state meets rigid standards of performance. "If the price seems especially low, and you are not familiar with the brand, it would be wise to contact any Texas Department of Agriculture field office to see if the antifreeze meets minimum standards of freeze and corrosion protection, and is registered for sale with TDA," he said.

Before certifying any antifreeze for sale in the state, the TDA tests the product to make sure it offers the exact level of freeze protection as is stated on the label. Specifications also require that the antifreeze not foam excessively (which could cause the engine to overheat) and that it contain ingredients to inhibit corrosion in the cooling system.

"Most brands of antifreeze that we test are high quality products, but we have had cases of inferior antifreeze and even sea water being bottled and put on the market by a few unscrupulous operators," said Brown. "Our job is to make sure the consumer knows what he is buying, and gets what he pays for. Today's automobile prices being what they are, this job is more important than ever."

Brown added that methyl alcohol, which offers good freeze protection, also evaporates easily and that any product using methyl alcohol as its base must state on the label that it is not suitable as a summer engine coolant.

"Certain medications interact with natural and added chemicals in foods, and this can cause an unexpected effect," she says. "Ask your doctor when to take prescribed drugs—before, after or between meals, and ask about foods or beverages to avoid. Also be sure to tell the doctor of other medicines you're taking," she says.

SPECTACULAR MOVIE SCENE RECREATED FOR CHILDREN

If your child is like many other American kids, he or she has probably seen Star Wars: The Empire Strikes Back more than once. One of the reasons for the film's wide appeal was that it stirred the imagination. Now, thanks to a newly designed action toy that recreates one of the spectacular scenes in that film, young imaginations can be stirred again. Many youngsters will imagine they're Imperial Stormtroopers when they manipulate this 17 1/2" tall, 22" long replica of this giant walking mechanical monster shown here. Designed by Kenner, its legs can be posed by moving the hips, knees and ankles and a remote lever allows you to move the head up, down and sideways to search for Rebel forces. Two action figures can fit the cockpit and the side door can be removed to fit up to ten Stormtrooper action figures. The All Terrain Armored Transport even sounds "real" as two remotely operated "laser" cannons move back and forth pulsating with sound. Youngsters who loved the movie may really love the walking mechanical monster.

did you know?

"One kilowatt-hour costs about 6¢. Your electric bill is figured on the number of kilowatt-hours of electricity you use. A kilowatt-hour is 1,000 watts of electric power used for one hour, so if you use a hair dryer for an hour you have used a kilowatt-hour of electricity. (Hair dryers use an average of 1,000 watts.) Today that kilowatt-hour costs about 6¢—less than it cost in 1927! In those days, electricity was used for lighting only. Today electricity does many other tasks for you and saves you time . . . and that's money."

Diane Bim, Home Service Director, Amarillo

"Coal is decreasing the increase. Fuel is the biggest cost factor in your monthly electric bill and that cost would be much higher if Southwestern had not begun a move away from gas as fuel. Even figuring the costs of transportation, regulation and environmental protection, coal is still a less expensive fuel than gas. SPS was a 100% natural gas-fired system as recently as 1976. Now more than 40% of the electricity we generate is coal-fired, and by 1985 more than half will be by coal. In this way, SPS will be able to continue to 'decrease the increase' in your electric bill."

Erwin Glover, Industrial Services Engineer, Lubbock

"How a heat pump works? The heat pump does just what the name implies . . . it pumps heat into your home in winter and out in summer. The electric heat pump consumes less energy than any other electric heating and cooling system. There is warmth in the air in winter (even at 0 degrees F), and the heat pump squeezes out every bit of that warmth. Supplemental electric heaters are used in the heat pump for extremely cold temperatures, but in the generally mild temperatures of our service area, the heat pump simply takes advantage of mother nature. This means savings to you while you enjoy the clean comfort of electric heating or air conditioning."

Tommy Smith, Equipment Service Specialist, Roswell

Knowing what electricity is worth is worth knowing. For answers to your questions, call or write your SPS manager.

TIME TO CONSIDER CATTLE LICE CONTROL

It's the time of year when the nation's cattlemen need to put up their guard against a pest that annually pilfers their pocketbooks of $100 million.

Lice are the culprits, and they begin to reproduce rapidly with the onset of cool weather. They reach peak populations in late winter and early spring.

Uncontrolled, lice can soon infest a whole herd, because with cold weather, cattle tend to bunch up more and the pests can easily move from one animal to another. Heavy hair coats on animals during cold weather also afford protection for the parasites and allow increased reproduction.

Costs to the cattleman--both in control efforts and dramatic production losses--increase as lice populations build.

There are two types of lice--bloodsucking and biting--and both infest cattle. Sucking lice pierce the animal's skin and suck blood while biting lice feed on particles of hair, scale, scab and skin discharges.

Lice infestations irritate animals, causing itching, scratching and rubbing on fences or anything else available. This produces denuded areas, bruises and lacerations on the affected animal. Heavily infested animals will have an unthrifty appearance and will suffer weight reduction, decreased milk production, anemia or even death.

Lice infested animals may also be more subject to respiratory diseases such as pneumonia. Heavy lice infestations often stunt calves. Undernourished cattle of any age usually have the heaviest infestation.

Some cattle appear to be physiologically more susceptible to lice than others and thus have higher pest populations. Such animals are called "chronics" or "carriers" and are usually instrumental in reinfesting the herd annually in spite of repeated insecticide treatments. Culling "carrier" animals is a helpful management practice in reducing lice problems.

Insecticide control of lice is not difficult to achieve but there are some problems. Most insecticides don't kill eggs; therefore, retreatment is required in two to three weeks to prevent another buildup. However, if the initial treatment comes late enough in the season, there may not be enough time for lice to build to economic levels again before warm spring weather.

Spraying and dipping infested animals with proper insecticides is an effective means of controlling lice. However, control measures are usually required when winter conditions are most harsh--a time when cold stress is a good possibility and respiratory diseases prevalent. Some of this problem can be prevented by treating animals on a day when they can be dry before sundown.

Poor-on and spot-on grubicides labeled for lice are effective and considerably reduce the problem of cold stress associated with dips and sprays. However, the possibility of a host-parasite reaction is always a threat if the material is applied after the cut-off date for grub control.

Systemic grubicides labeled for lice control usually recommend a lower rate than that to control grubs, which would help reduce the host-parasite reaction. Use of nonsystemic dust applied by hand or in dustbags would eliminate the possibility of host-parasite reaction. But because of a lack of penetration of heavy hair coats, dusts do not provide as effective lice control as dips or sprays.

Self-treatment devices, backrubbers and dustbags, properly placed and maintained in a preventative program offer effective lice control. These devices should be placed early in the fall prior to lice buildup in order that cattle will become accustomed to using them. They should be placed in areas that cattle frequently use or

Cotton Prices Continue Down

High Plains cotton prices continued to plunge during the week ended Nov. 25, according to Mack Bennett, Area Director for USDA's Marketing Services Office in Lubbock. Growers sold mixed lots of mostly grades 42 and 52, staples 31 and 32, mike 35 - 49 at around 45.15 cents per pound, down 125 points from one week earlier.

New-crop supplies increased as the harvest expanded to peak proportions. Demand remained weak. Buyers bought only to fill current mill demand.

Field stored modules of seed cotton appeared in most areas as harvesting out-paced ginning capacity despite 24-hour ginning service in most communities. Sample receipts climbed past the 243,000 mark during the week; up from 170,000 the previous week, Bennett said. Lubbock's Marketing Services Office classed 154,000 samples during the week ended Nov. 25. This brought the season's total to 293,000 and compares with 671,000 graded by the same date last year.

About 51 percent was grade 42 and 31 percent was grade 52 for the week. Below grades accounted for one percent. About 24 percent was reduced one grade for bark.

Staples were 13 percent staple 30, 43 percent staple 31 and 32 percent staple 32. Average staple was 31.5 thirty-seconds of an inch.

Micronaire was 39 percent 35 - 49, 18 percent 33 - 34, 28 percent 30 - 32, 13 percent 27 - 29 and two percent 26 or below for an average of 33.

Breaking strength averaged 24 grams per test.

Gins paid growers $71 to $85 per ton for cottonseed.

Americans consume more than four pounds of potato chips, per person, each year.

placed in such a manner that cattle are forced to use them.

The spot-on formulation of chlorpyrifos is a new product that has been effective against lice. The product kills all stages of lice--eggs, nymphs and adults. One application is adequate for season-long control if the entire herd is treated and no untreated animals are later introduced into the herd.

Only a small amount of chlorpyrifos is required, thus eliminating cold stress from soaking animals with sprays and dips. The insecticide is not a grubicide, so it can be used anytime without fear of a host-parasite reaction. However, this product is not labeled for dairy animals, bulls over 8 months, or purebred exotic breeds.

No matter which lice control program is used, the cattleman should be certain to read label directions and pay particular attention to warnings, restrictions and pre-slaughter intervals.

Additional information on control of lice and other external parasites of cattle is available in the publication, "Suggestions for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry," at the county Extension office.

TOMATOES STILL GROWING--Herbert Watson shows off a bucketful of tomatoes he picked off his vines Thanksgiving morning. The tomatoes are growing on the south side of his garage north of the city limits, and were not covered. They continued to grow although the temperature on his thermometer has been as low as 26.

Bill Of Rights Suggested By Farmers Union

"The economic crisis in rural America is growing worse each day, yet the Reagan Administration is only aggravating the problems through their domestic policy," charged Mike Moeller, President of the Texas Farmers Union. Moeller spoke following a two-day session of the Board of Directors and county presidents of the Texas Farmers Union in Abilene last week which called on the Congress to adopt a Farmers Bill of Rights.

"The House-Senate Conference Committee on the 1981 Farm Bill is under severe pressure from the Reagan Administration to weaken farm programs which have been the historic base of the high productivity of American agriculture. Unfortunately, the committee appears to be yielding to towards setting low price supports which will make the 1981 Farm Bill the worst farm bill in history," Moeller stated.

"With the realization that we will effectively be stuck with a 'Farm Bankruptcy Act' next year, the TFU is calling for a Farmers Bill of Rights," Moeller declared.

In the Farmers Bill of Rights, the Texas Farmers Union is calling on the Congress to adopt the following:

*Family farmers and ranchers should be free of regulation under the anti-trust law.

*Family farmers and ranchers should have the right to bargain directly with prospective buyers of their products.

*Family farmers and ranchers should have the right to negotiate all exports of U.S. agriculture products.

*Family farmers and ranchers should have the right to democratic referendum and should be allowed, by referendum, to manage the supply of farm products.
