Response Plan Can Give Help To Older Persons

Lutheran Social Services of Texas has begun a program called Emergency Response Service (ERS) which can be of assistance to older adults, their families and friends in enabling people to remain in their homes for as long as possible, even if they have some health problems.

A telephone hookup to a response center in Lubbock is available for persons in Lynn County, officials of the social service center said this week.

Explaining the need for the service, a representative said:

"Most elderly people wish to remain in their own homes or neighborhoods for as long as possible. Yet, some of them have serious illnesses or disabilities that may suddenly become critical. Some persons fall and are unable to get up or to call for assistance."

"Illness, disability and the inability to summon help are of deep concern to the elderly, their friends, and relatives. Consequently, some persons have been institutionalized or forced to live with persons outside their familiar environment."

Lutheran Social Service of Texas uses a device developed by Lifeline Systems, Inc. The subscriber is linked to Contact Tele-Ministries in Lubbock through regular telephone lines. By pushing the button on the main unit or the hand-held unit, the person sends a signal to the Response Center at Contact. Staff at the center then call the individual to see if they can be of assistance. If the phone is not answered, designated friends or relatives are called on to investigate.

A 24-hour timer, if not reset daily, sends a signal in the event a person is unconscious or unable to push the button to call for help.

The hand-held unit works within 200 feet of the main unit that is plugged into the telephone. Therefore, people are able to go about their daily activities and still have the security of emergency assistance without having to get to the phone.

People use their units in the event of heart attacks, strokes, falls, emotional stress, robbery, assault. For further information, interested persons may contact Lutheran Service, 2412 13th St., Lubbock, 806-763-7051.

The three reminded owners of property for rent or sale in Tahoka and surrounding area that they may list these free with the chamber, which often gets calls from persons wanting to rent or buy either business property or homes. Mrs. Fisher said several prospects have called in the last week.

County Runoff Vote Saturday

Lynn County voters will return to the polls this Saturday in a Democratic Primary runoff election to settle who will be Lynn County treasurer, commissioner of Precinct 4, and Justice of the Peace in J.P. Precinct 4, which is the same as county commissioners Precinct 3.

Seeking the county treasurer's post are two candidates who survived a five-woman race in the first primary. At that time, Cynthia (Cindy) Bryan led the balloting with 700 votes, and Margie Jester had 538 to also make the runoff. The other three candidates had a total of about 1,000 votes.

Traditionally fewer voters turn out for runoff elections, and even in the first primary only just over half the registered voters in the county (4,229) went to the polls. The total was 2,243.

Persons who did not vote in the first primary still may vote in the runoff if they are properly registered. Anyone with questions as to where they should vote should contact the Lynn County clerk's office.

In Precinct 4, incumbent commissioner E.R. Blakney trailed challenger Robert Edwards in the first vote by 258-225, with a third candidate getting 146 votes.

In the justice of the peace race at O'Donnell, Ben Morrison had 233 votes and David Smith 157, with a third candidate getting 115, so Smith and Morrison are in that runoff.

Several state races also are on the runoff ballot. Some interest has been generated in the attorney general nomination runoff race between John Hannah and Jim Mattox.

Former Tahoka Bank Official Is Indicted

Lusk, whose sudden departure from the bank spurred rumors of wrongdoing which were never confirmed by bank officials, was indicted last week by a federal grand jury for the Northern District of Texas.

The indictment alleges amounts ranging from $500 to $950 were misapplied on the eight occasions. Lusk now lives in the Houston area.

Wreck Kills Wilson Man

A 71-year old Wilson man was fatally injured in a collision of his car with a semi-trailer truck at the main intersection in Wilson Tuesday afternoon, and four other persons were injured in four other accidents on Lynn County highways during the last week.

Ernest Osborn Montgomery, a longtime Wilson resident, died of injuries following the collision of his 1978 Chevrolet with a semi-trailer driven by Pat Wayne Rhodes, 48, of Amarillo.

Investigating Department of Public Safety officers said the truck was headed north on FM 400 when Montgomery, headed south, apparently attempted to turn left at the intersection with FM 211. The truck struck the car in the northbound lane, officers said, and then also hit a parked 1972 Ford owned by Russell Moore of Wilson.

Montgomery suffered chest injuries and died after being taken by Tahoka Fire Dept. ambulance to Lubbock Methodist Hospital.

Services for Montgomery will be held today (Thursday) in First Baptist Church of Wilson at 3 p.m. with Rev. E.K. Sheppard of Brownfield and Rev. Mark Scott, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Green Memorial Park in Wilson.

Montgomery died at 7:30 p.m. in Methodist Hospital.

Survivors include his wife, four daughters; Patricia Hewlett of N.Y., Lauana Kischnick of Dallas, Sylvia Stoker of San Angelo, Cheryl Montgomery of Lubbock; two brothers, Ardis of Lubbock, Oman of Los Angeles, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Richard Taffe of Malakoff; eight grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

He was a member of First Baptist Church of Wilson. He moved to Wilson 51 years ago and married Viola Meeks July 29, 1932 in Hightown, Okla.

Pallbearers will be Randy Kischnick, Roger Kischnick, Brad Stoker, Randy Rinker, Gary Houchin and Ronnie Nettles.

Last Thursday on U.S. 87 south of Tahoka a 1980 trailer-tractor driven by Oscar G. Garcia of Bracketville struck a center median and a pole trailer being pulled broke in half. The driver was unhurt.

On Friday on U.S. 87 just north of Tahoka a 1980 Chevrolet pickup driven by Michael Leo Stone of Rt. 3, Slaton, and a 1982 Chevrolet van driven by Tommy Lynn Tipton of Lubbock collided. Both were northbound. The accident occurred when a rock rolled off a trailer being pulled by the Stone vehicle, according to investigating officers.

A half mile west of Wilson on FM 211 Saturday, drivers of two pickups which collided headon were injured, neither believed seriously. Lester Norris Gicklhorn, 29, Rt. 1, Wilson was driving a 1977 Ford and Larry Gene Dworaczyk, 31, of Lubbock, was in a 1973 Ford. Dworaczyk was taken by private car to Lynn County Hospital.

Van Overturns

Also Saturday, a 1978 Chevrolet van driven by George Jon Kioussis, 38, of Post, struck a median and overturned at Southland, injuring the driver and a passenger, Joy Roedel, 21, of Post. The extent of injuries was not known.

Lynn County Sheriff's Dept. investigated a burglary reported Saturday at Ellis Garage in O'Donnell, where tools valued at $465 were listed as stolen.

Mrs. Al Jolly of 1501 Ave. M reported to Tahoka police that someone had broken into her home by breaking a door glass to gain access. Officers investigated and it was believed that nothing was taken.

Police answered a couple of calls regarding stray dogs to be picked up, one call about loud music, one prower call, a family disturbance call, two calls about reckless driving in the city, and numerous calls from citizens about the weather and possibility of sighting of a tornado.

Two tickets were issued for consumption of alcohol by a minor.

In jail during the week were one person each for public intoxication and criminal mischief.

WOODWORK

by DALTON

EVERY MAN ought to grow a mustache once in his lifetime, because it generates so much comment. If you grow a mustache and you never had one before, from the very first couple of days when it becomes obvious what you're doing, it replaces even the weather as the main topic of conversation with those you meet.

For the last three weeks or so I have been growing a mustache, and unless you've done it yourself, you can't imagine the effect it has had on those with whom you come into daily contact.

Here are the main comments I have heard:

"What's that on your lip?" (From 58 different persons).

"I don't know if I want to get into a car with somebody who looks like that or not." (my mother).

"It looks tacky." (my mother-in-law).

"It's going to look good." (another guy who already has a mustache).

"A lip like thine will never touch mine." (my wife...actually she didn't say that, but I got the message).

"What did you do--bite a worm half in two and some of it stuck to your lip?" (uncouth city official).

"Well, it can't hurt your looks any." (bum down at the PCA office).

"Did you lose your razor?" (Eight different people).

"I think you need an ad on razors." (Funny female advertiser).

"It looks good--makes you look suave and debonaire." (Nice blind lady at the cable TV place).

"Well, if it isn't Adolf Hitler." (two former friends).

"Rough, rough!" (our two dogs).

"Shave it off--it looks terrible." (several unkind acquaintances).

There was one other lady who said she thought it looked good, but she's a very kind person who hates to hurt anyone's feelings.

Personally, I don't think it looks so bad, but it does itch like crazy, and with all the flak I've been getting, I think I am about to bow to the infinitive, as Jimmy Durante used to say. So all of you who wish to see me with a mustache (and the numbers are not overwhelming) had better come around pretty soon.

ARRANGERS FOR SHOW HERE TONIGHT—John Hartle (standing) and Ed Marsh have teamed up for six summers now to arrange the music for South Plains College's annual summer music road show. ## O'Donnell Cotton Growers Visit Research Center Producer Jerry Barton of O'Donnell: I figured there was a lot more than 182 people running this organization, but for all the work done, that's a small staff."

Producer Jarrell Edwards, Borden County: "I've learned a lot about where our money is going and the benefits that we're getting from Cotton Incorporated Research and Promotion."

Producer Raymond Wittee of Lamesa: "I have read about the research programs, but I like to see things first hand. It makes you feel a little better."

Cotton ginner and producer Tommy Woolam of O'Donnell: "I think Cotton Incorporated's Research and Promotion Program is the only way we've got to go."

These are only a few comments made by West Texas growers and ginners who recently visited their Cotton Incorporated Research Center in Raleigh, N.C., to learn more about their 'self-help' program.

The Texas group heard progress reports from staff members of the producer-funded organization in the areas of agricultural and textile research, advertising and international marketing.

During the marketing overview presentation, Marvin Grant, Director of Market Research, informed the Texas guests that "Cotton Incorporated's marketing efforts have resulted in the 'domino theory'. Renewed interest in cotton started with the natural blend shirt, spread to natural blend sheets and now the new Cotton Plus 85/15 shirt. Eighty-five percent cotton is a big jump from the 65/35 cotton shirt and, of course, is causing mills to spin more cotton," he explained.

Grant also related to growers the new "feel" advertising concept, which is expected to bring even greater awareness of the benefits of cotton. The new slogan, "Once You Get a Feel For Cotton, You Won't Feel Like Anything Else," will appear throughout 1982's advertising campaign.

Although the synthetics industry outpends cotton 11 to 1 for advertising ($70 million for synthetics compared to $5 million for cotton), Grant feels that cotton has one of the most aggressive advertising programs in the fiber industry.

J.K. 'Farmer' Jones, Vice President of Agricultural Research and Producer Liaison, outlined to the growers research into hybrid cotton, cleaner cotton and cottonseed research. He discussed Proteina bread, candy and 'peanut' butter, all developed from cottonseed.

Advancements with the mobile cotton trailer dumper were also outlined by Jones. "The trailer dumper was developed by Cotton Incorporated as a time-and-money saver for the cotton farmer who can't afford his own module builder," said Jones. "The unit, which is about the size of a small truck, can dump in a small truck, can dump into a module builder, gin feeder or another trailer."

The mobile trailer dumper is an advance for the smaller producer and, as Jones said, "an advance generated by producer dollars."

During the tour, growers were also informed of Cotton Incorporated's national and international marketing efforts by Wallace A. Blanton, Director of Technical Research Services. Here, Cotton Incorporated does basic groundwork for mills, researches fabric preparation techniques, develops new finishes and much more, all with the goal of increasing mill profits and therefore, cotton consumption.

Following these overview sessions, the group toured Cotton Incorporated's Fiber Processing Center and Dyeing and

An air conditioner can improve the performance of your furnace.

An air conditioner?

A very special air conditioner called the add-on heat pump. It cools in summer and heats in winter. And it works with whatever kind of furnace you have.

The add-on heat pump will improve the performance of your furnace by keeping it off completely during a good portion of the winter. The add-on heat pump can satisfy your home's heating requirements more economically when temperatures are above 30° or so. That's about 80% of our area's normal heating season.

Then, when summer comes, the heat pump becomes a cool pump, efficiently air conditioning the home. So, when you're in the market for air conditioning, look into the add-on heat pump.

EYE COORDINATION
When your eyes are working the way they should, they're both looking directly at an object with the same intensity and precision. But if they're not, there may be a problem in the muscles of one or both eyes. Each eye has six muscles that control movement and position. They must be in good working condition to give you proper eye coordination. If there's a weakness or defect in any one of these muscles, your eyes are not getting the help they need to see well. This can cause problems. Your vision won't be as clear as it should be. You'll probably be putting extra strain on the weak muscles to try to bring them into line. This can cause headaches, fatigue, and sometimes double-vision. It also affects your depth perception, your ability to judge the size of things seen at a distance. To be in good health, you should be able to control all of your muscle movements including the muscles of your eyes. If you've noticed any weakness in your vision, it's time to have an eye examination.

"When I get ahold of that jet pilot he's gonna think a herd of Brahma cattle run over him too!"

In campaigning throughout the county, I have often been asked: "What does a Justice of the Peace do?" I offer the following explanation in an effort to clarify any questions those of you who intend to vote in the June 5th runoff election might have as to the nature and duties of the office.
A Justice of the Peace Court should be the "People's Court". It has been established by statute as the first rung of the judicial and appellate ladder in our Texas legal system.
Though not a court of record, a concise docket is required to be kept, showing specific annotation and explanation of all proceedings held. At times it must follow the rules of formal pleading and procedure.
We all realize that Peace Justices hear traffic cases, perform marriages, and declare people legally dead. They must also rule on these deaths as to cause and circumstance; making decisions as to inquiries, the necessity of autopsies, etc.
They are responsible for setting bonds in criminal cases and civil appeals from their court. Being on call day or night, the Justice is usually the accused's first contact with the judicial branch of government upon arrest. They must hear testimony in lawsuits and preside over jury trials if the parties elect to take their cause to their peers for a solution.
Though one may choose to have counsel represent them, the Justice Court may be the only reasonable recourse for those people without sufficient means to employ an attorney to plead their grievance. In this less formal setting many people choose to act as their own attorney.
The Justice has authority to enforce his judgements and grant relief by attachment, fine, or imprisonment. A Justice of the Peace Court has both civil and criminal jurisdiction over certain lawsuits, forcible entry and detainer (eviction) cases, small claims and consumer complaints, and the issuance of search warrants. He holds examining trials prior to indictment, sets bonds in felony cases, tries misdemeanor criminal cases, holds inquests on deaths, and performs celebrations of marriage, in addition to numerous other responsibilities.

May One Of Most Turbulent Months For Lynn County

May, 1982, must go down on record as one of the most turbulent in Lynn County's agricultural history, starting with the very first day of the month and ending with the last.

Tahoka officially recorded 6.02 inches for the month, 3.12 on one day (May 27), but several areas of the county received much more. Rains prevented normal planting dates for many. Hail, hard rain, then drifting sand wiped out or damaged some cotton. Rain was recorded in Tahoka on 12 days of May.

Amounts Vary

Some areas, particularly the north west section and the southwest sections received much more than Tahoka, while other areas such as from old Midway to Draw community received barely enough to plant cotton. In fact, some farms over the county had not been planted as June arrived; some others must be replanted.

Playa lakes are full, and in many places there are lakes of water in fields where lakes of water have seldom been seen before.

The heavy rain and hail of last Thursday afternoon and night brought the most damage--flooding fields, hailing out cotton, breaking terraces, filling up low places in fields. Tahoka received 2.82 inches from 2:45 p.m. to 6:20 p.m. and another .20 that night. New Home area farmers reported up to five or six inches. Additionally, Tahoka received no rain May 13 through May 21, while many other areas were receiving showers.

Brighter Note

However, on the plus side, much cotton is being saved by farmers running scratchers over fields where cotton had just come up to prevent sifting sand from killing the plants. There will be a lot of June cotton and prospects are still good, weather permitting, for at least a fair crop.

Lawn-Garden Advice Is Given At Rotary Meeting

"Lawn and Garden Care" was the subject of a talk by County Agent Stanley Young at Rotary last Thursday in which he offered much practical advice on care of a wide range of plants.

A similar clinic open to all Lynn County people will be held here Wednesday, June 9, beginning at 9:30 a.m. in Lyntegar meeting room.

Among the many suggestions, Mr. Young gave information on control of bagworms in trees, importance of replacing zinc deficiency in pecan trees, borers in fruit trees, control of grubworms in lawns as well as dandelions, use of rain water or water from air conditioners for house plants, and many similar topics.

Young is a native of Kress, holds a bachelor's and master's degrees from Texas Tech, farmed two years, and was assistant county agent of Lubbock County from 1974 until coming to Tahoka in 1977 to succeed Bill Griffin as county agent here.

Rate On Gas For Irrigation Wells Raised

Irrigation customers served by the West Texas System of Energas Company are being notified that a 10 percent rate increase will be put into effect July 1, company officials said this week.

Letters explaining the rate change have been mailed to all affected customers. The area involved extends from the central Panhandle to south of Odessa.

"It has been three years since we last raised the irrigation rate," Charles K. Vaughan, Energas president, said. "In December 1981, the general service rate for customers on the West Texas System was increased by 10.6 percent replacing a rate that had been in effect for nearly three years."

The new irrigation rate is identical to the West Texas System general service rate through the first 50,000 cubic feet of monthly gas usage. Additional volumes will be at rates that are lower in price than the general service rate.

Vaughan said Energas historically has provided service for irrigation purposes at or below the general service rate in effect in communities it serves in the surrounding area.

Energas is the major supplier in the Texas Panhandle-South Plains region of natural gas to fuel engines used to pump water wells for farm irrigation. About 10,500 irrigation customers served by the company will be subject to the new rate.

Tech Med School To Honor Group

Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center School of Medicine will honor West Texas citizens in recognition of their support in its development Friday with an appreciation banquet and ceremonies awarding Distinguished Associate certificates.

The banquet will launch activities for a week-long celebration of the medical school's first decade in physician education and will culminate with graduation June 6.

The first students were admitted to the medical school in Lubbock in 1972. Over the next 10 years, campuses were developed in Amarillo and El Paso and teaching programs begun.

"Starting a medical school on one campus is no easy matter," said J. Ted Hartman, M.D., interim dean of the School of Medicine. "Development of a school on three campuses simultaneously is a real challenge."

"With the encouragement, support and assistance of concerned citizens throughout the state, but particularly in West Texas, we have grown from a school in a converted dormitory to a multi-campus institution serving the region," he said. "It is fitting that we give special thanks and recognition to the individuals who provided invaluable help during this period of growth as we mark a decade of physician education."

During its first decade, the medical school has expanded from accepting 40 students per year to admission of classes of 100 students. The school has graduated 278 physicians, 105 of whom have completed specialty training programs and have entered practice. In addition to medical students, the school has 210 resident physicians in 22 training specialties on its three campuses.

Individuals honored include publishers O.G. Smith of the O'Donnell Index-Press and Dalton Wood of the Lynn County News, and Tahoka residents Meldon Leslie, Dr. David Midkiff and Sen. E.L. Short.

A Visit With Your County Agent

By Stanley Young

Replanting Hail Damaged Cotton

A large storm accompanied by heavy washing rains and hail recently hit portions of Lynn County causing damage to cotton.

Many farmers in these hard-hit areas are now faced with the unpleasant task of replanting their crop, realizing that planting in June usually means less than average yields even with normal growing conditions for the remainder of the growing season. Their most important decision now is which cotton varieties to use and what cultural practices might be applied that will hasten the maturity of the crop.

Producers should consider varieties that fall into the very early or early range. Note list of varieties.

As for planting rates in late planted cotton, remember that germination and emergence will be enhanced by warm, moist soil conditions. Generally, seedling rates of 15 to 18 lbs. of good quality seed per acre--or 5 to 6 seed per foot of drill--are more than adequate for optimum stands.

Residues of preemergence herbicides can be a problem in replanting especially in sandy soils, the agent cautioned. Caparol and Lasso can be leached downward by rainfall and can cause seedling injury in replanted cotton. Normally, this problem can be avoided by replanting in the furrows (not in the original bed). The preplant incorporated herbicides are not a problem in replanting to cotton.

Later decisions concerning irrigation must also be considered after late cotton is up and growing. Because the yield potential for late planted cotton is reduced, fields having adequate moisture at replanting may not require additional summer irrigation. In fact, yields of late cotton can be reduced by too much water. Keep in mind that when yield potential is down the need for water and fertilizer is reduced, the Extension agent said.

Growers in the fringe areas of these storms also face a tough decision: should they try to save the

Harvick Receives Lone Star Leader Award

Membership in the Texas Leaders Round Table, an organization composed of the life insurance industry's most successful underwriters in Texas, reached a total of 668 for the year 1982.

More than half of the membership, 323, achieved the coveted Lone Star Leader designation. To receive this honor, a member must have produced $35,000 in first year business, $17,000 or more than required for TLRT membership.

Among those qualifying for Lone Star Leader is Robert E. Harvick of Tahoka.

For a lower price tag on that new home -- and to qualify for mortgage loans, home buyers may have to give up luxury frills, says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Eliminating such things as fireplace, patio, sunken tub and a bar will help lower the price, she notes.

Some builders are offering stripped-down model homes for less, too. The buyer can finish out or add onto these homes as money becomes available.

Stanley Musick Receives Degree

Stanley C. Musick, son of Betty and Gordon Musick of Snyder former minister of the Tahoka Church of Christ, will receive the Doctor of Medicine degree from Baylor College of Medicine in ceremonies to be held June 4 in Houston.

Musick completed undergraduate studies at Lubbock Christian College with a B.A. degree in biblical languages. At Baylor, he received the Houston Gynecological-Obstetrical Society Outstanding Student Award and was class representative for graduating class.

He will enter a residency training program in obstetrics and gynecology at Baylor College of Medicine Affiliated Hospitals.

Musick is married to Janet Susan Leavell Musick.

Rodeo Group To Meet

The Tahoka Rodeo Assn. will have a meeting Thursday, June 3, at 8 p.m. in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room. This is a very important meeting, so those involved, please don't miss it.

An estimated 75,000 volunteers serving at the 172 Veterans Administration medical centers provide more than 10 million hours of work annually. About 350 national and local organizations take an active part in this effort.
