No Accidents Reported Here During Holidays

The people of Muleshoe and Bailey County, along with the people that traveled on our highways were very cautious during the holiday period, keeping their cars under control.

Also Deputy Wilkerson arrested a man in Muleshoe Sunday morning and charged him with DWI. He also was fined $100 and costs and the usual 3 days in jail, and his license revoked for 5 months.

Cotton Killing Blight About Run Its Course In County Crops

Bailey County cotton farmers have been hit very hard during the past weeks with a disease known as "wet weather blight" County Agent J. K. Adams reported to the Journal Wednesday. He says it is worse than it has been in any previous year since he has been here.

He reports that at the Jack Little farm one and a half bushels per acre of seed was planted, and now he has only about half a stand. All over the county, Adams says, at least half the farmers have as good a stand left as they would like to have. However, he thinks the disease has about reached its peak, and the warm, dry weather is rapidly healing the plants.

As a reason for so much dying cotton Adams quotes a bulletin sent out by Dr. L. S. Bird that "ascochyta blight of cotton is present in many areas of the state. The disease is also called wet weather blight and is caused by a fungus. The disease organism lives over winter on old infected plant trash and on seed that have not been treated. Plants 3 to 8 weeks old are very susceptible and may be killed during cool, wet weather. The disease has been responsible for a considerable amount of replanting and also has delayed normal growth. Control of the disease is accomplished by seed treatment and crop rotation."

Samples from this area were sent to the State Plant disease laboratory in College Station and results showed the plants were infected with "seedling disease and ascochyta blight."

Soil Conservation Notes

Improved Water Application Method Proves Economical and Beneficial

Improved water application has proved to be an economical as well as beneficial practice in Bailey County. Through this practice, the farmer tries to improve the use of the existing irrigation systems to more efficiently use available water for optimum crop production and to minimize erosion until a conservation irrigation system can be installed.

Some of the ways to improve water application is to shorten irrigation runs. A good example of this would be on the H. H. Brady farm and John Hartley on U-Bar Ranch. They decreased row and border lengths to improve water application. M. E. Hickman is a good example of improved water application by decreasing length of rows. Robert Blackwood improved his water application by changing row lengths and furrow cross-section according to infiltration rate of the soil. Morris McKilip improved his water application by border irrigation and row crops checking moisture prior to irrigation, and irrigating to meet the needs of soil and crop. Specifications on improved water application can be had by contacting the Blackwater Valley Soil Conservation District.

In Muleshoe THIS WEEK

We resent the fact that a bunch of experts can sit in their air-conditioned offices in Austin and tell us how many people will be killed in traffic accidents on any given day, or holiday—but it remains true that they can do it.

It's not that they have a crystal ball and can prophecy the future, but they merely base their predictions on records of the past, and on human nature.

Some of these days we would like to see the people on the roads get smart, and prove these guys to be a bunch of liars. By everyone who gets in a car being careful, alert and obeying the rules of the road it can be done.

We did a bit of driving over the holidays, down to the Hub city and back, and it was our observation that everyone we saw was being extremely careful and courteous. The efforts of traffic and safety leaders is definitely paying off. Statistics show that traffic fatalities are not going down—by number—but in proportion to the number of miles being driven, our guess is that the fatality rate is going down—traffic gets heavier and heavier all the time.

R. C. Cline, local photographer, was telling us a good one the other night. He traveled with a group of Bible salesmen a number of years ago. They were in an oil boom town, and one of the staff hit a cafe and made his pitch. A tough looking rough-neck approached him and said, "I bet you are a preacher." The man told him no, that he was a

Bible salesman. "Well, fine," the man said, and then added, "If you can tell me if a certain expression is in the Bible I will buy it."

The salesman checked his concordance, turned and read the expression from the Bible. "Good," exclaimed the worker. "How much is it, I will pay you." He was told that the Bible cost $29.95, and he really paid off.

"Now, I am going to show this to old So and So over yonder in that booth," he said grinning as he left. "He bet me $50 it wasn't in the Bible, and I'm going to make him pay off."

It seems that most newspaper editors have the same list of trouble. The editor of the Miami Chief, did a little moaning recently. Says he: We spend most of our time in the following way.

Explain to an advertiser why it is impossible to get him on page 3.

Explain to Mrs. Smith why Aunt Sarah's 85th birthday party was not on page 1.

Explain to an ex-subscriber why you had to cut him off the list when his time expired.

Explain deadlines 50 times a day and why you must have them.

Soothe a lady who called her party in too late.

Explain who some weeks you've got news running out your ears, and other weeks the paper reads like a report on Amalgamated steel.

Apologize to an advertiser for an error in his ad and smile sweetly when he tells you what an idiot you are.

Decipher scribbling that comes in written on check books, paper napkins, a corner of junior's history lesson, or the back of a letter from cousin Frank.

Explain to a customer arriving late with copy that if you get his story in, you will have to leave some one else's out.

and then explain to the one you left out.

You go out and work on a merchant for an adv., and then something happens and it does not get in the paper—then after the paper is out, you notice it, and have to leave town—there is no explanation.

—But with all the headaches, you enjoy it, and wouldn't trade jobs with anyone.

In Rochester, N. Y., a couple confined to wheel chairs by an incurable disease have become the parents of a baby girl. Doctors said they will have to decide whether they can keep the child or to place her in a foster home. The father 34, had had to use a wheel chair for the past two years, and his wife, Janice, 21, for eight years. They both suffer from muscular dystrophy. Doctors say the chances for the baby having the disease are greatly increased because both the parents have it.

Portales, New Mexico, is our neighboring city to the west, but how many people know where Portales, in Texas is?

Std News

News of the death of Mrs. Judd Gaddy of Progress was received here shortly after she was killed by her own automobile.

The accident occurred when she got out of her car at the mailbox and reached back inside the car. The car started moving, knocked her down, made a complete circle and ran over her again.

Mmes. Tommy Gait and Cass Stegall are relatives of Mrs. Gaddy.

The Gaddys formerly lived south of Stegall.

H. D. Club Clatter . . . Hot Weather vs. Overweight

Those extra pounds may add up to added discomfort during the hot weather months ahead.

Some careful planning now plus lots of will power will lighten the load a bit.

There is no safe way to rid of excess weight overnight. There are some important factors to consider in starting a weight reducing campaign.

First, check with your doctor before starting any plan to lose weight. Many factors play a part in whether a person should reduce and how fast he should lose weight.

Studies have shown that the most effective weight reduction diets are low calories, high protein and low carbohydrates. However, a variety and a balance of essential foods is still needed by the body.

Nutritionists point out also that it's easier for a person to stay on a reducing diet which includes a variety of foods as well as foods which are familiar to the individual.

A good breakfast is always important, even in a reducing diet. Each day's food intake should include two to three cups of milk (may be skim milk), one or more servings of meat, fish or poultry, one egg (or at least four or five a week) two servings of vegetables (one dark green or yellow), two or three servings of fruit including one citrus, at least one tablespoon of butter and two or three servings of bread or cereal.

If you're really concerned about losing weight, get a calorie chart and start counting your calories. Remember that you can reduce the number of calories amazingly by omitting rich desserts—like pie, cake, and doughnuts.

Balanced Budget and Diet With Milk

Milk will give you more food value per dollar than any other food. If you buy all your milk, your food dollar can be stretched even further by using evaporated and non-fat dry milk in cooking.

It's difficult to have a balanced diet without including milk. Research shows, too, that regardless of age, we all need the food value milk offers.

Studies show that women especially are not drinking the milk they need each day—neither are their teen-age daughters. This may be partly due to the fact that many people think milk is fattening. It isn't. A glass of whole milk has fewer calories than a serving of many other foods. There are only about 165 calories in a glass (eight ounces) of milk, and each ounce is packed with food value. A serving of lean beef has about 300 calories. Two buttered biscuits have about 350 calories and a slice of apple pie contains about 375 calories.

Drink skim milk, if you're trying to lose a few pounds. It has approximately half the calories of whole milk, but you will still be getting the important minerals, vitamins, and proteins.

When energy lags—in mid-morning or afternoon—try a cold glass of milk for a "lift that lasts."

Insecticides For The Garden Shelf

Summer brings a variety of hungry insects out of hiding. It's time to stock the garden shelf with ammunition to protect flowers, shrubs, grass and trees from damage.

There is one miracle insecticide. You will need at least four different packages on the shelf. Include DDT, Chlordane, poison bait, and malathion.

Malathion spray or dust will kill aphids, lace bugs and red spider mites. Use a spray for white flies and young scale in the crawling stage.

A 10 percent chlordane dust will kill cut worms, leaf-eating caterpillars, sowbugs, termites, flea hoppers, grasshoppers, cedar bag worms, and many kinds of beetles. It is our best control for red ants.

When energy lags—in mid-morning or afternoon—try a cold glass of milk for a "lift that lasts."

HOW HIGH IS YOUR STANDARD OF LIVING?

Can you guess how many ways you put electricity to work?

One good measure of your standard of living is the number of ways electricity is working for you. The more things you let it do, the more likely you are to live well and comfortably and get the most out of life.

Many people don't realize how many different jobs electricity does for them—all over the house. Do you?

Make a guess—how many ways do you put electricity to work? You can check your guess against the list below to figure how many appliances you really have. If you guess within 5 of the actual total, you're very observant.

What's more, you have a good measure of what an outstanding value you get in your low-price electric service.

Babson Forecasts . . . Great Future For 'No Rain' Lands

Babson Park, Mass., July 9—We all know that arid lands produce the finest crops when they finally get water. Our most beautiful lettuce and similar table vegetables which come from California are now grown from land which was absolutely sterile a few years ago. The reason is that these lands, which have had no rains during the past century, are very rich in vitamins and minerals, while our normally fertile lands have had these washed away down the rivers and into the oceans. When I was in Africa last year I was told that the Sahara Desert will "blossom like a rose" when it has water.

Present Irrigation Very Wasteful
The only way we are now able to give these "no rain" lands sufficient water is by irrigation. This usually means building an expensive dam, together with canals to the area. These canals are, of course, open and the water is subject to serious evaporation. As a result, all present forms of irrigation are very wasteful, even if the water is obtainable. I believe that very few new irrigation systems will be built. The lands, however, must have some equivalent of water, but this will be "synthetic" water. I am certain of this after my few weeks spent in New Mexico and Arizona, from which states I have just returned. There you can buy "no rain" land for $10 an acre; but to have it irrigated—even if that is possible—will cost you over $100 per acre.

How Water May Be Manufactured
Those of us who have studied chemistry know that water consists of two elements, hydrogen and oxygen. In the chemical laboratory we were taught how to decompose water into these two gases of hydrogen and oxygen; in fact, this is now being done in a commercial way by means of a beam light. I remember, however, that it was dangerous to reverse the process. It created much heat and sometimes an explosion. This in rough, is the process which will take the place of present systems of irrigation; but it will be greatly simplified and costs cut. This new process can be used for all land, however far away from water it may be in this country or in any part of the entire world. Oxygen gas can now be secured quite cheaply, but hydrogen gas is expensive and tricky. We may need a "trigger" to combine the two, but this will not long be true. Moreover, I am convinced that it will soon be easy to buy diluted hydrogen gas which will work with oxygen. This will be shipped directly to the farmer and he will make the mixture in his furrow. Furthermore, he will want a limited explosion so as to loosen the earth before he plants his seeds.

How These Gases Will Be Applied
The "no rain" farmer, after plowing and leveling the land, will disk or harrow it preparatory to planting his seed. The disk or harrow machine which he uses will carry two tanks, one containing the hydrogen and one containing oxygen. These gases will be led in very small tubes to be applied to the ground directly after the disk or the harrowing machine passes. If all goes well, after accompanying a small explosion, the hydrogen and oxygen will form water or its equivalent. This will be automatically covered with soil after the seed is dropped. This planting should result in marvelous crops.
Please do not write me for further particulars as I am neither a farmer nor a chemist. Write the company from which you buy the insecticides you use for spraying. They will be the manufacturers and distributors of these gases. Otherwise, write the company from which you buy your fertilizer. The simplest thing would be to cut out this column and send it to such manufacturer of insecticides or fertilizers, asking him if my forecast is crazy?

Washington News Letter From Lyndon B. Johnson U. S. Senator

Dear Friend:
Answering requests from the folks at home is one of the real pleasures of my job. But I've never had a request from a Texan that gave me more pleasure than the one contained in a letter that arrived the other day.

The letter came from Arles E. Howell of El Paso, a veteran and a recent graduate of Texas Western College. His appeal was one that I believe came from the heart. It's a request that I want to fulfill. And I believe the best way to do it is to let you read Arles' letter to me. It went like this:
"I am a recent graduate of Texas Western College in El Paso. As a student there I received a check for $135 every month from my government—a total of $4,455 over the years. This money was, of course, courtesy of the 'G. I. bill.'"

"As my Senator, please convey my thanks to the taxpayers. I have never heard of anyone doing this, but as a Texan I reserve the right to do things that other people don't do.
"My family is not wealthy—nor am I, and it would have been very hard for me to make it through school on my own. I promise you and the taxpayers that it was money well spent—for I will be a better citizen forever in their debt."

I am frank to say this letter made my day a little brighter. It made me prouder than ever to be an American—to say nothing of being a Texan.
That letter underlined anew what I've known all along: With young Americans like this coming out of Texas, the future is brighter than our past. And we can thank Arles Howell and thousands like him for making it so.

Sandhills Philosopher Finds . . . Ag. Department Confirms His Idea On Labor-Saving Devices

Editor's note: The Sand Hills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discusses work this week, which is about like a bankrupt talking about finance.

I have long contended that the trouble with labor-saving devices is they don't save labor, they increase it, and I am now happy to have this opinion confirmed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

According to an article I ran across in a newspaper yesterday afternoon I was reading to get my mind off the noise of droning tractors running on my neighbors' farms—personally I don't really don't mind listening to the tractors, it's the effect they have on my wife that bothers me, she hears the neighbors' tractors running and sees mine standing at the turnrow where I left it week before last and the consequent noise she makes is a nuisance—at any rate, according to this article, in spite of all the labor-saving devices which have been invented and sold to farmers, the average length of the farm workday has not shortened much. It's still better than ten and a half hours a day, the Department of Agriculture reported.

This bears out what I've been saying all along. When a man switches from a two-row tractor to a four-row tractor, you'd think he'd do the same amount of plowing in half the time, but what he does is do twice as much plowing in the same old time, ten or eleven hours a day. He finishes the day just as tired as he did when he had two-row equipment, and if you call this saving labor, you've got a different definition of the word than I have. The reason he does this, he has to plow twice as much to pay for the new equipment. Then on top of this, since he's working twice as much land as before, he produces twice as much surplus, which lowers the price, which causes him to come out about where he was when he had two-row equipment. And the only answer most of us can find to this is to aim at six-row equipment and work three times as much land.

It's the same thing in other lines. An electric typewriter may enable a secretary to type twice as fast, so what happens? She gets twice as many letters to handle. A bookkeeper with an automatic posting machine just takes on four times as many accounts as he had when he was doing it with pen and ink.
Most labor-saving devices, as far as I can tell, are actually labor-creating devices. I guess there's some satisfaction in finishing a week of eleven-hour days and looking back and saying, well, I've plowed as much this week as I used to plow in a month, but you've got to look mighty hard to find it.

Personally, I've never had to look to a machine to save labor for me. Those things will trap you. The way to save labor is to sit down and cool off. You wait for a machine to do it for you and you'll never get it done.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Today's Meditation

Read John 3:31-36.
Our Father who art in heaven, (Matthew 6:9.)
An elderly woman wished to join the church. She had never learned to read or write. As a part of her training, the pastor sought to have her learn the Lord's Prayer. "It starts this way," he said, "Our Father who art in heaven."
"Does that mean that God is my father?" the woman asked. "Yes," the minister said "that's what Jesus teaches us about God."
"Then, pastor," the woman

Ralph Yarborough's Report . . . Sponsors Bill To Benefit Post Korean Cold War Veterans

The Post-Korean or "Cold War" G. I. Bill which could benefit 213,000 Texas veterans, has taken another step on the road to passage. The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee has given a favorable report on the bill. The proposal next goes up for debate on the floor of the Senate and, if it is passed there, it will go to the House of Representatives for consideration.

I am author of the bill and was chairman of the Veterans Affairs Subcommittee which conducted public hearings on the measure. In addition, I replied, with tears upon her cheeks, "I don't need to learn anymore. Since God is my Father, that's all I need to know."

What a glorious blessing it is to know and believe that God is our loving Father! How wonderful to know that every moment of our lives He loves us and cares for us! He seeks us when we go astray, even as we do our own children.
We need not fear. In moments of doubt and discouragement, His eternal presence is ever near to give strength and faith. Never can we say that we face life alone, for God our Father is always with us. He will strengthen us when we open our hearts to Him.
PRAYER
We thank Thee, our Father, for the wonderful knowledge of Thy eternal presence. Help us always to know that Thou art not far from us at any time. Help us to trust in Thee through Jesus Christ Thy Son, our Lord, Amen.
THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
God our Father loves us and will care for us every day of our lives.
—John Ambler (Mich.)

will also be manager of the bill during debate on the floor of the Senate.
The bill now provides for educational and vocational training, including vocational rehabilitation for personnel with service-connected disabilities, and home and farm loan guarantees.
This program for the benefit of our Cold War veterans, who are often exposed to wartime hazards as we have seen in the attacks on unarmed airplanes and other incidents, is similar to the highly successful plans used for servicemen who returned from World War II and the Korean Conflict.
The program includes the period from February 1, 1955, when the Korean G. I. Bill ended, through July 1, 1963, the date of the end of the compulsory draft law. Also, under this program, a great many Cold War veterans will be helped to buy their own homes or farms.
Great numbers of our young people, many of them veterans, continue to leave the farms because of conditions beyond their control and to seek jobs in town. This program can help them prepare themselves for new jobs in town or they can receive training in agriculture, if they remain on the farms.
Because this education and training prepares the veterans for better jobs, they make more money and pay more taxes. The government has received an extra billion dollars a year from this source enough to pay off the cost of the entire World War II program in 15 years. What can in after the investment is off is extra money for government.
We are all familiar with part education plays in our nation's fight for survival. America retain her world leadership, and help improve condition for all of us here at home.

Criminal Case Jurv Should Have Facts

In Texas it is held to be illegal for a Corporation Court judge, in passing sentence upon a traffic offender, to have before him a record of previous offenses by that defendant.
It is held also that a jury in a criminal case cannot have information as to a defendant's criminal record in deciding upon the sentence in his case. Too, the rulings in Texas say it is improper for a jury to discuss or to inquire about the length of time a defendant will have to serve if sentenced to a given number of years in the penitentiary.
Though it is the responsibility of the jury to fix punishment in criminal cases, the law feels that it is not entitled to exact information as to the consequences of any penalty it might fix. The law places upon the jury the duty of exercising judgement, but denies it the knowledge it needs to judge intelligently. Though the jury is an agency of society to enforce justice, the law compels it to perform its function partly in the dark.
Certainly a jury can not sentence properly unless it knows what a prescribed sentence means. Certainly it can not do properly its job of protecting society and of dealing justly with the person before it for judgement unless it has knowledge of the defendant's previous record of performance.
In traffic cases, the objective is not so much to punish as to prevent. Except in the more serious cases, traffic offenses often are due more to ignorance, carelessness or lapses than to criminal intent. Often the penalty is intended chiefly as an admonition—a reminder to be alert against danger-causing infractions of the driving rules. But in cases of repetitive offenses, where an offender has proved himself oblivious to mere reminders, penalties must be stiff enough to be effective restraints. How can a judge know when he is dealing with an isolated instance of carelessness or with a confirmed violator and potential killer unless the record of the offender is before him?
The Legislature, at its regular session this year, missed a good chance to correct the prohibition against a jury having knowledge of the previous record of a convicted criminal. The bill was once recommended by the Texas Law Enforcement Study Commission. It was so drawn as to prevent the information from reaching the jury until after it had passed on the guilt of innocence of a defendant, thus precluding it from having prejudicial effect. Two years ago the Legislature declined to pass a measure permitting judges to be aware of the record of defendants in setting fines.

Undoubtedly the Legislature will get new opportunities to pass such legislation. In the interest of common-sense justice and the safeguarding of the public, it should do so.

Watch the Driver The Cause Of Mounting Traffic Deaths On Highway Is Pinpointed

AUSTIN, July 7—What is the leading cause of traffic accidents? Bad weather? Poor roads? Mechanical failure? "None of these in themselves," says J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association. "The No. 1 cause of traffic accidents is the man behind the wheel. "This is clear from recent Texas Department of Public Safety statistics which show that the three leading causative factors in rural fatal traffic accidents are: (1) Driving too fast for conditions, (2) Driving while drinking, (3) Disregarding warning or stop signs."

Plans For New Church Plant In Sudan

Construction is expected to begin soon on the new brick veneer building for the Sudan Baptist Church. The old building was destroyed by fire last spring.

To cost more than $100,000, the new structure will include an auditorium to seat 450 persons, and an educational unit, composed of four departments, the pastor, Rev. Perry said, recently.

Low bidder on the project is Hammack Bros., of Lubbock. The congregation has been meeting in the high school auditorium.

Musick said that other leading factors were: Driving on the wrong side of the road, did not have right-of-way, improper parking and following too closely. "Aggressive safety programs, good law enforcement and specially designed superhighways all make an important contribution toward greater safety," Musick said. "But the key to the traffic accident problem is really in the hands of the driver himself."

Spiritual Power of Christ's Teaching Sermon Topic

The spiritual power of Christ Jesus' teachings and example will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science services in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament."

One of the key statements of Jesus to be read from the Bible is this from John (6:63): "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing; the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."

Correlative citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (25:26-31): "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

people who are at home with QUALITY choose GAS appliances

Enter the home where choices are made strictly on the basis of quality, and the chances are excellent that you'll find a built-in Gas range in the kitchen. That's because people who are concerned enough to evaluate, discover that a Gas range offers superiority in two ways. The range itself combines precision accuracy with complete automation. And GAS, as a live-flame fuel, does important things that no other fuel can do. It consumes cooking vapors so that you can enjoy closed-door smokeless broiling. With Gas there's no warm-up wait when it's turned on... no lingering heat when it's turned off. And only an instantly responsive Gas flame permits perfect control of the subtle variations in temperature that mean so much to the taste and texture of foods. Gas is the choice of people who insist upon quality at any price... and it's incidental that Gas costs from five to eight times less than any other fuel! Where the finest is truly appreciated, GAS belongs.

Watch for Food Poisoning . . . Should Use Care In Handling Foods In Hot Summer Weather

Nothing can live without food, suitable temperature and an appropriate amount of moisture. This applies to man, animals, fish—and plants. It also applies to bacteria! The range of needs for bacteria is slim, but when they are present bacteria can be very prolific, multiplying themselves by the millions in mere minutes. That is why food poisoning is so much more common in warm weather—and why you need to be especially careful now about preparing food and storing it. The main rule to remember is that bacteria which are apt to cause food poisoning thrive best in lukewarm foods. Thus if you make it a habit to keep hot foods hot, and cold foods cold, the chances of bacteria getting a foothold are slim. However, there are certain foods that have proven to be more susceptible to bacteria's growth and the resulting food poisoning conditions. For instance, egg and milk mixtures, including custards and meats, either in salads or sandwiches, and potato salad —one of the popular picnic foods—are often quickly suspected when food infections occur in summer. Making sandwiches and wrapping them in wax paper to let stand for hours before eating is just asking for trouble. So keep them well refrigerated. Potato salad can give lots of trouble. The best way to avoid it is to chill all the ingredients before mixing, and then store the salad in SHAL-LOW containers in the refrigerator. Deep bowls retain the room temperatures in the center portions. Everyone loves a picnic. Enjoy them, but a portable ice box and a thermos bottle are musts if you are going to minimize the chance of summer food poisonings.

Conferences Called to Lower Death Rate on Highway Construction Jobs

Three departments of the Texas State Government and highway construction contractors have implemented a new program designed to reduce traffic deaths and injuries on highway maintenance and construction projects in Texas.

Both the Highway Department and the Department of Public Safety have issued instructions to their various area representatives that these conferences are to be held all over Texas just before work starts on any highway project which will disrupt or change normal traffic patterns. In addition to the three involved, units, press representatives and local officers are invited to attend.

The conferences are designed to provide cooperation between the highway department, law enforcement agencies, the contractors and the motoring public during construction periods.

A series of meetings resulted in agreements on the agenda for the pre-construction meetings and arrangements for cooperation between the agencies involved.

Smith said the mounting death toll on highway projects during recent years resulted in the committee's organization. He said 14 persons were killed in 1955 traffic on such projects, 28 died in 1956, 56 in 1957 and 70 in 1958.

The special committee will continue to function as needed, Smith said, to do everything possible to reduce this toll. Every phase of engineering, enforcement and educational problems involved are

It's The Law In Texas

What do we mean when we say that in the United States we have a "government of law" and not a "government of men"? Basically we mean that we have certain individual rights, guaranteed by our federal and state constitutions and laws, which may not be denied by any governing body.

The early American colonists had their fill of government by men, and the Declaration of Independence, signed 183 years ago, set out their complaints against that type of government and revealed their belief in a principle which we now accept as basic to our American way of life.

The indictments set out in the document against King George III of Great Britain charged him with numerous violations of that principle. Among the complaints enumerated are the following:

"He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people."

"He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent for laws for establishing judiciary powers."

"He has made judges dependent upon his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries."

"He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good."

"He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation: . . . For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury; For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses; . . . For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments; . . . For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever."

Our forefathers who subscribed to the principles of the Declaration of Independence were willing to fight for their beliefs. The Revolutionary War followed, dragging thru weary years of suffering and suspense. Each of us takes pride in their eventual triumph over gigantic obstacles. In 1787, when the framers of our Constitution met at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence had been signed 11 years previously, they set to work to create a system of checks and balances in government which was to perpetuate the fundamental theory mentioned in the preamble of the earlier document:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

"That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; . . ."

Some 5 years later, the first ten amendments to our Constitution were adopted at one time, specifically detailing various basic civil rights stemming from the underlying theory of the Declaration of Independence.

Our courts day by day guard these rights for us.
