Soliciting Ordinance For City Considered

Problems which homeowners and business operators in Tahoka face with outside solicitors this week were discussed by Tahoka City Council and by directors of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, with the city authorizing the city attorney to write an ordinance relating to the problem.

Door-to-door salesmen are plaguing persons in their homes, and businesses are frequently hit by outsiders trying to sell things such as property, insurance and merchandise, and many persons have expressed a desire to see some kind of control over who can do such soliciting, city officials noted.

"We want an enforceable law that is fair to everyone," one official said.

One business operator at a meeting of chamber directors this week said she recently had a particularly obnoxious salesman of a cleaning agent.

City council met Monday evening with Mayor Pro Tem Jim Solomon presiding in the absence of Mayor Meldon Leslie. All other council members were present.

The council considered a policy on selling cemetery lots to the county for indigent burials and decided that since the city has to maintain the gravesites and cemetery regardless of who pays for the plots, the price would be the same to the county as to anyone else.

Also discussed were a travel policy for employees and a vehicle for the city administrator. No action was taken on the travel policy which involves the federal Housing and Urban Development agency.

Disturbance Calls, Wreck Investigated

Tahoka police arrested three persons during the past week for public intoxication including one incident on Saturday at 3:55 p.m. in a family disturbance call.

An officer answered a call on a Tahoka woman who was struck by her husband while she was holding her five month old infant. She and her baby were physically abused by the father as he had pushed them down on the ground and dragged them across their front yard.

The man was later arrested by police and she and her infant were taken to Lynn County Hospital where they were treated and released. The woman did not file charges however, and the husband was released on Monday, charged only for public intoxication.

Police investigated a two car accident on Sunday at 11:50 a.m. at the intersection of Lockwood and Ave. N involving a 1969 Chrysler driven by Ramon Flores Tijerina of Tahoka and a 1980 Datsun driven by John Mark Clark of Abilene. No injuries were reported.

District Clerk Joy Laws and County Clerk C. W. Roberts have begun plans to host the annual District Clerks Assn. Workshop on Thursday, Oct. 14. This will be the first time Tahoka has ever hosted this function which includes representation from 36 counties. Besides being an informative workshop on learning to run the offices more efficiently, there will be a special presentation to those persons who will leave the office this year.

The Workshop is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. at Lyntegar Co-Op meeting room. Those secured to speak will be Chuck Bailey and Donnette Smith concerning elections. Jo Phillips from Amarillo speaking on appeals, and addressing only the district clerks will be Shelburne Vasselka, an attorney from Austin dealing with tax suits.

According to Mrs. Laws, the Association's state officers will also be attending the workshop and participating in the program.

Museum Gets More Items For Display

Tahoka Pioneer Museum recently has received some additional items of historical interest.

Mrs. Ruth (Nevels) Sparks, 3301 46th, Lubbock, has given the Museum the saddle used by her father, W.D. Nevels, prominent pioneer rancher-banker, who came here in 1901 and died here in 1938. The Nevels family first ranched on the Lynn-Lubbock County line, and later he acquired the ranch near West Point. He was an officer-director of the original First State Bank, 1906, and First National, 1907-1938. The saddle is on display in the museum tack room.

Mrs. Sparks also has given the doll and doll clothing she refinished which belonged to her sister as a child, Mrs. Willie Lois (Nevels) Sparks, who died at Lubbock last June 18. Clothing and pillows for the doll were made by the girls' mother, Mrs. Annie Nevels. Also, Mrs. Sparks has given a colorful early day quilt.

Mrs. Auda Norman and Mrs. Meldon Leslie have given a "Sunday Bonnet", made of China silk that was worn by their great-grandmother, Mrs. Mary Jane Brown, the mother of Mrs. J.H. Cobb.

Mrs. John "Ma" Hill has given the museum for the Sam Sanford family collection a picture of Mrs. Virginia (Sanford) Bailey.

Placed in a filing cabinet and available to anyone interested by contacting Mrs. M. R. Stice, museum custodian, are a large number (58) historical editions of newspapers from 38 towns, most of them in this area of West Texas, given the museum by Frank Hill, local collector of Lynn County and Plains History.

Three other items on file are these rare collector's items: a 1907 copy of the El Paso Herald; Dodge City (Kansas) Globe; 1960 reprint of the January 1, 1878 paper; and the Cripple Creek (Colorado) Gold Rush, dated 1952.

Dayton Parker has given the museum a panel of shelving for storage of antique books.

New Signs Are Planned

New signs on U.S. 380 west and east welcoming visitors to Tahoka are to be made soon. Tahoka Chamber of Commerce directors Tuesday approved plans for the new signs being implemented by a committee including Tom Marrier, Nicky Summitt and Winston Wharton.

Chamber President Melvin Burks presided over the meeting of directors at Tahoka Cafeteria. Business matters and reports from other committees were discussed.

Several new businesses have begun operation in the city and others are planned, it was reported. Also tentative plans for next year's banquet were discussed.

A committee was named to look into the possibility of promoting a sale by merchants who would stay open later during the sale around Dec. 1.

It was affirmed that chamber-approved holiday closing days would include New Year's, Memorial Day, July 4th, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Terms of six directors are due to expire this year, and a committee was appointed to nominate new directors.

These are the days, my friend

by PERRY FLIPPIN
Class of 1962

Tahoka High's Class of '62, by staging its Homecoming reunion Sept. 24, proved that the old order dyeth not — though its ranks diffuse.

Neath thinning tops and thickening girths smoldered 20 years of friendship and sentiment bonded in cerebrums too deep to be erased.

Who wouldn't be impressed with those straight, smiling, bright 38-year-olds? Can we tell our kids what it was like to be a student at Tahoka High in the 1960s?

Gone are the bouffant hairdos and flat-tops of 1962. Nobody anymore says, "You've been had by the great doo-dad!" An unspoken code still forbids foul speech. But you can check out Gone with the Wind from the school library now — without your parent's written permission.

Back then, Willie Nelson was a crew-cut reject of Nashville and no hippie with beads or necklace would step foot in Lynn County.

The '60s weren't exactly bliss. Often, parents and children couldn't talk to each other. Our parents blamed it on dope and Communists and Lord knows what all, but it was really the war — always that damned war.

Maybe the most remarkable aspect of the class of '62 was the egalitarian spirit — then and now among the 42 graduates and assorted drop-outs who nevertheless belong. If there were any really pore folks, or flat-out rich ones, it has never been apparent — nor made any discernible difference in how we regard each other as people.

Most of our parents were modest, hard-working yeomen with little reason for pride except in their kids and the future. And while there was never much money, there was a genteel understanding that valued learning highly.

We saw the dawn of the '60s — full of tumult, fury and rebellion. The angriest I ever got at Tahoka High was finding my blue jeans soaking in the shower after a basketball workout one frosty January. The only thing we took seriously was football and dreaming up outlandish nicknames for each other, like "Crow-bait" and "Geechy."

The years seem to renew the cycle, but with surprising results. Nice cars, brick homes, California vacations, Dunwell suits ("Ain't ol' Fred Hegl dunwell?" mused my silver-maned sire while eyeing our valedictorian's spiffy sartorial splendor.)

As a group, the strict regimen that eschewed tobacco and spirits in '62 remains mostly intact.

A few of us drink too much. Some have quit and others need to. We have no dopers, and no war casualties. The few domestic casualties appear to be unscarred.

Friday's rednion produced no spectacular confrontations, like novelists and playwrights adore. Nobody cussed out anyone over some ancient grudge, or tried to complete an interrupted pass.

We don't need another class reunion right away, but the meaning of this one seems clear to me — we are nicer people now than we were then. I mean kinder, gentler, more tolerant.

If this little microcosm contributed by Tahoka High School is typical of other schools and other graduates, then we can quit singing Those Were The Days, My Friend. Indeed, have there ever been better days than now?

THE DISABLED American Veterans (DAV) has designated October as Handicapped Parking Awareness Month, and what all that means is they'd like for people to stop parking in places marked with a wheelchair and reserved for handicapped persons.

The DAV says abuses of parking zones reserved for handicapped people occur every day in every community, and after reading that I started watching the newly-designated wheelchair parking space in front of the Tahoka Post Office. I have to agree that most people pay no attention to the sign and park there anyway. Of course, there may be no wheelchair customers in Tahoka who use the space. But I personally would hate to think I was parked in the space if there ever should be someone needing it.

SECRETARY of State David Dean has become a bit of a controversial figure in state politics lately. He made some folks mad with a directive to county clerks having something to do with not allowing convicted criminals to register to vote, since his lists apparently included some people convicted of only minor violations. He backed off that one.

Then he said that a lot of people aren't registering to vote because they don't want their names on the jury list, and he is absolutely right about that. We've heard this comment numerous times.

He also promoted a registration drive to try to get everyone to sign up in time for the upcoming elections. Only his mailed material on the sign-up said the deadline was Oct. 3, which was on Sunday. This newspaper called his office in Austin for clarification, since the local county officials didn't know whether to cut it off on Friday, Oct. 1, or extend it through Monday, Oct. 4. The people at the office in Austin didn't know, either, and whoever was supposed to know didn't call back until the next day, which was too late for publication, and besides, they also didn't tell us.

Maybe nobody really wanted to register around here anyway.

GETTING USED TO BIFOCALS

If you can move your eyes, you won't have any problem getting used to bifocals. The eyeglasses have to be properly fitted so they are centered in front of your eyes. The rest is up to you. Your eyes will move up to use the vision correction in the upper part of the lens. That's for looking at objects beyond your reading distance, depending on your vision problem. Your eyes move down naturally when you're reading to make use of the lower part of the lens. Walking up or down stairs may be a problem at first. You have to look down to see where you're going. You may find it easier to use the upper part of your lens. All you have to do is bend your chin down a bit. The same goes when you're stepping off a curb. It just takes a little practice. Bifocals are convenient to use. You don't have to change glasses for different kinds of viewing. But if you'd rather have two sets of glasses, you have that option, too.

Enjoy vegetables for their flavor, eye appeal and versatility for mealtime and snacktime pleasure.

Their nutritional value is really an added bonus.

Vitamin A abounds in deep green vegetables such as spinach and collard greens and in dark yellow vegetables -- such as carrots, sweet potatoes and winter squash.

Broccoli, cauliflower and cabbage offer vitamin C. Eat them raw, or cook the vegetables quickly in a minimal amount of water so you don't destroy the vitamin C in cooking.

Fiber is another health benefit vegetables offer. Fiber adds bulk to the diet and provides good exercise and a cleansing effect for gums and teeth.

Because vegetables contain different amounts of cellulose, hemicellulose and lignin, they differ in dietary fiber value.

Eating raw vegetables such as cabbage, broccoli and cauliflower can give the diet a fiber boost.

Vegetables are naturally low in calories. For "super snacking" serve them with herbs and spices, such as in a vegetable medley, featuring bite-size raw vegetable pieces marinated in vinegar and spices of your choice.

Discovery by partners

"...one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind."
Neil A. Armstrong, 1969

When U.S. Astronaut Neil Armstrong made the first footprint on the moon, he and his partners Buzz Aldrin and Mike Collins fulfilled a centuries-old dream for all mankind.

The success of the Apollo 11 mission was more than a triumph of three crew members working together. It was a triumph of a great network of partners that spanned generations, uniting the discoveries of the past with the skills, courage and imagination of thousands of scientists, engineers and others.

The Apollo 11 lunar mission, which rocketed mankind into the computer age, pioneered the way to a new era of people working together as partners managing technology.

Today, you and Southwestern Public Service Company are partners discovering new ways to manage electricity. For instance, when you install a high-efficiency add-on heat pump to your present furnace, you and SPS work together to help save money. Because the add-on heat pump is a difference worth discovering.

You and SPS, partners managing electricity, make the difference.

Post Murders Dogs 79 - 0

By DALTON WOOD
What do you do when your football team is ranked No. 1 or 2 in the state and you play a team which hasn't scored a point all year and which is a bit crippled up and was pretty weak to start with? Well, if you're David Thompson, coach of the Post Antelopes, you kick your opponent as hard as you can, and then pour it on to score as many points as you can, especially if it's the Tahoka Bulldogs, who had beaten Post five out of the last six years.

After all, you've got to try to impress the sports-writers downstate, so you'll still be No. 1.

Post did pour it on last Friday night, running up a 79-0 score, possibly the worst defeat ever for a Tahoka team.

Whether the Bulldogs can ever recover from such a fearsome beating and salvage anything from this season remains to be seen. Things get no easier in the next two weeks, as Seminole comes to Tahoka this week and the Dogs go to Denver City the following Friday. Both are top-quality football teams. The Seminole game will be the first district contest of the year, so right now, Tahoka has as good a district record as anybody else.

Coach A.D. Shaver, who isn't accustomed to losing, said this week "We'll just have to start over and do the best we can." He noted that several players have quit the team, that some others are out from injuries and that senior center John Curry moved out of the district last week.

Three freshmen played against Post. Doug Lawson took over the center spot, Johnny Morin played fullback after starting FB Leonard Flores was hurt early in the Post game, and Trey Teaff played some at quarterback, as starter Tony Garcia was injured. All the freshmen show promise of being top-quality players if they can survive having to play against the older boys.

Milton Williams led Post with five touchdowns last Friday, scoring the game's first touchdown on a 52-yard punt return in the first period. Williams later scored on runs of 21 and 56 yards in the second quarter, and 33 and 45 yards in the second half. Will Kirkpatrick scored on passes of 51 and 66 yards from QB Tim Tannehill. Halftime score was 27-0.

Post rolled up more than 500 yards on offense. Surprisingly, Tahoka had 200 yards on offense, with running back Steve Pierce again doing a top job, rushing for 159 yards on a whopping 40 carries. Pierce is averaging almost 100 yards per game, having gone over 100 in the opener against Stanton also.

Morin, playing fullback for the first time, took a beating from the tough Post defense, but did gain 21 yards in 7 carries. He also punted six times for an average of 39.3. Tahoka lost the ball four times on fumbles.

Checklist Helps Farmers Decide Whether to Harvest Cotton

West Texas cotton farmers, beset all spring by disastrous weather and all year by difficult decisions, are facing another tough choice as harvest time approaches. With thousands of acres replanted following spring hail and rainstorms, lower than average yields and possibly reduced quality are expected. Many producers are wondering whether it will pay to harvest their crop.

Their decision is further complicated by considerations of the federal disaster and deficiency payment programs authorized for 68 Texas counties, four in New Mexico and four in Oklahoma, noted Dr. Gary Condra, agricultural economist and farm management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To help producers resolve their questions, Condra and two other Extension specialists have developed a worksheet for estimating the cotton yield required to cover the individual's cost of harvest. Working with Condra were Dr. James R. Supak, cotton agronomist, and Elston K. Grubaugh, agricultural mechanization engineer. Copies of the worksheet may be obtained from county Extension agents in the affected counties.

Basic Question

"The real question is whether the income from harvesting the crop will pay for the costs of harvesting and ginning, with some additional return for unpaid labor," Condra said.

Many producers are concerned about losing their costs of production up to this point if they abandon the crop, the economist said. "These costs are really not relevant to this decision," he stressed. They are "sunk" costs and won't change, whether or not the crop is harvested, he explained.

Likewise, depreciation, interest on equipment and other fixed costs won't appreciably change whether or not the crop is harvested, the economist said.

"This means the decision really boils down to whether the harvested cotton will cover out-of-pocket or cash costs of harvest," Condra stressed.

Condra, Supak and Grubaugh analyzed a number of different situations, using different cotton prices, costs and assumptions regarding ownership of land. They devised their worksheet so that these variables can be adjusted by the individual producer to reflect his personal situation.

The three specialists concluded that the sensitive range of yields in this decision is probably from about 50 to 100 pounds of lint. "If the projected yield is less than 50 pounds, it probably won't pay to harvest," they said. "If the projected yield is over 100 pounds, it probably will pay to harvest."

"If the projected yield is between 50 and 100 pounds, the producer should definitely use the worksheet to fill in his own expectations, costs and rental situation."

Hard To Project

Projecting yields in order to make the decision isn't easy, the Extension specialists agreed. But they offered some suggestions for doing this.

The old rule of thumb that one boll per inch of row on a 40-inch spacing will produce a bale of cotton will serve fairly well, they said. This means that it takes 100 bolls per three paces (100 inches), 157 bolls per 13 feet, or 1,570 bolls per 131 feet to make a bale of cotton.

"The key is to take an accurate sample and count only harvestable bolls," Supak said.

To estimate the yield potential of a given field, make five to 10 boll counts at various locations in the field, the specialists advised. If the stand is uniform, counts can be obtained from three-pace or 13-foot strips. However, if the stand is not uniform, boll counts should be made from 131-foot strips.

The checklist includes an example situation for a producer who (1) is renting his land, (2) has his own two-row, tractor-mounted stripper, (3) has his cotton custom modulated and hauled to the gin, (4) is located in a disaster county, and (5) expects to put his cotton in the loan with grade 42 (SLM, light Spot), staple 31, and micronaire of 3.0 to 3.2.

In this example, the out-of-pocket costs for stripping were estimated to be $8 an acre including hired labor. This includes fuel, oil, lubrication and repair. No allowance is included for depreciation and other fixed costs because these will be incurred regardless of the situation.

Rate Used

A custom rate for modulating and hauling of $85 per module was used. This is based on $50 for the modulating operation and $35 for hauling to the gin of each module. Each module was assumed to make seven bales due to expected low turnout (15 percent), instead of the more normal 10 bales.

Ginning, bagging and ties were charged at $2 per hundredweight of seed cotton, based on a 15 percent turnout. Seed credit was allowed at $70 per ton for 4-10 tons of seed per bale.

All of these costs and returns were calculated on a lint pound basis to allow calculation of the break-even yield.

The loan price for the example grade, staple and micronaire (42:31, 3.0 - 3.2) cotton in Lubbock is 44.8 cents per lint pound. "This value was used for the cotton price since supply and demand conditions don't appear to warrant a more optimistic assumption," the specialists said.

Disaster Aid

In the affected counties, the disaster program will pay

20 1/2 cents per pound for the difference between 75 percent of the established program payment yield and actual yield. The target price program will then provide a deficiency payment for the difference between the established program payment yield and the portion of the yield for which disaster payment was made. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has projected a deficiency payment of 12 cents a pound, but the final level of payment won't be determined until later this year.

The significance of these two payments, the specialists explained, is that the producer will give up the disaster payment and gain the deficiency payment for every pound of lint he harvests up to 75 percent of his established program payment yield. "Of course, if he expects to harvest that much cotton, he probably isn't faced with a decision of whether or not to harvest," Condra said.

Rental arrangements will also affect the decision because the renter normally has to pay for stripping all the cotton while he sells only his share. In this example, a traditional one-fourth share arrangement is used. Had this been a cash rent arrangement, the rent would have been included because it is also a "sunk" cost which is unaffected by the harvest decision, the Extension economist explained.

Break-Even Point

The worksheet includes a section for calculation of a break-even yield. This is the yield of cotton which will just cover the out-of-pocket stripping costs and costs for modulating, hauling, ginning, and other necessities.

In this example, the break-even yield was calculated to be about 41 pounds of lint--with 30 pounds net to the renter. The costs and returns per acre are:

Receipts
Cotton Lint	30# at $4.480	= $13.44
Cotton Seed	30# at .06	= 1.80
Deficiency Payment	30# at .12	= 3.60
Total Receipts		$18.84

Expenses
Stripping		$ 8.00
Modulating & Hauling	30# at .30	= 9.00
Ginning, Bagging & Ties	30# at .13	= 3.90
Disaster Payment	30# at .205	= 6.15
Total Expenses		$18.95

Net return from harvesting $-.11
This shows there is no return at this yield for unpaid labor, nor is there room for error in estimating the yield, quality or costs, Condra noted.

A number of factors aren't included in the worksheet, but should be considered by the producer, the Extension specialists cautioned.

First, a zero yield may affect a producer's established program payment yield for subsequent years. Thus there is some benefit to harvesting a yield which barely covers out-of-pocket costs. "This benefit will vary depending upon each producer's situation," Condra said.

Second, disaster payments can be received immediately if the crop isn't going to be harvested. This money would be available to reduce the operating interest costs.

Third, if the crop is going to be plowed under, it may be more beneficial to do so promptly to eliminate further depletion of soil moisture and retention of plants that serve as hosts for insects and diseases.

Pythian Sisters

Lynn Temple met in regular session Tuesday, Sept. 21, with Most Excellent Chief Emma Halamick presiding. All officers were in their chairs. Final plans for the District 9 Convention were made.

Ways and Means Committee reported on the sale of pecans. There were 17 ladies present. Hostesses were Teddie B Kelley and Dorothy Kidwell.

Lynn Temple hosted District 9 Convention Saturday, Sept. 25. District Deputy Helen Ellis planned and presided over the day's school of instruction. Several dignitaries attended the meeting; four Past Grand Chiefs were present also. Past Grand Chancellor of Knights of Pythias, Ed Glass, was in attendance. Registration was from 9 to 10. Hellen Ellis, District Deputy Grand Chief, gave the welcome address with Grand Chief Ada Lee responding.

The noon luncheon was served by Tahoka Cafeteria honoring the Grand Chief.

Several exemplifications were given. Ed Glass, Past Grand Chancellor, presented a talk in the afternoon.

Grand Chief Ada Lee's project is to reroof the porches on the girl's dorm.

Next year's district convention will be held in Lubbock. Friendship Temple will host it.

Seventeen ladies from Lynn Temple were present; two from Lubbock; four from Lamesa; two from Brownwood; two from Abilene; three from Fort Worth; and one from Weatherford.

Eagles Fall To Forsan

O'Donnell lost its fifth straight game 23-6 to Forsan last week, and this week faces rugged Seagraves.

Forsan led 23-0 before the Eagles scored in the last period on a 12-yard run by Anthony Olivan.

TUESDAY BRIDGE WINNERS

The winners at Tuesday night bridge, Sept. 28, were: First, Mrs. Clint Walker and Mrs. Sam Edwards; second, Mrs. Mattie Tudor and Mrs. Patsy Bailey; third, Mrs. Mabel Gurley and James McAllister; tying for fourth and fifth were Mrs. Arlys Askew and Mrs. Herman Maul; and Mrs. Olen Renfro and Mrs. Margie Maddox.

Mustangs Go Down, 35-0

Pre-season "experts" picked Ropesville to be one of the strongest Class A teams in the state, but the Mustangs lost their first four games of the year. It was unfortunate for Wilson that the Ropes team suddenly came to life last Friday, beating the Mustangs 35-0 in Wilson.

Wilson now is 3-2 for the year, having lost the last two games, both district contests. The Mustangs will try to regroup this week at Whiteface, which lost last week to Anton 40-0.

if farm equipment is exempt.

To me, the proposition has much farther reaching depths than just to exempt farm equipment and to correct an injustice in the taxing process. A small, rural school can not lose the tax revenue on farm equipment, unless the loss is made up in another area, and keep operating. Where but land and houses can the value lost be placed? Granted, many home owners qualify for the 65 and over Homestead Exemption, but this also transfers more value and tax on land. What Proposition 3 is trying to correct and eliminate in one area is placing the entire tax burden on the land and home owner. When farm organizations know the hardship farmers have already been placed under with low prices and high expenses, why would they support Proposition 3?

Rural-City Split Seen In State Senate Race

Montford representing the block vote in Lubbock County and Reese appealing more to the conservative rural and suburban voters.

Born in Fort Worth and raised in Hurst, Montford became a Lubbock County favorite when he successfully ran for District Attorney in 1978 defeating former D.A. Alton Griffin. Previously he was in private practice between 1971, when he came to Lubbock, and 1979 when he took office.

Prior to that time, Montford was graduated from the University of Texas in Austin with a bachelor of arts degree in 1965 and received his law degree in 1968 from the University of Texas Law School. Montford also attended Northwestern University School of Law, advance course for prosecuting attorneys in 1970.

Reese, a native of Comanche, was graduated from Gustine High School and later attended Howard Payne College, transferring to the University of Texas at Austin after two years. There he earned a bachelor of arts degree, graduating magna cum laude in 1951. Later, Reese was granted an M.A. from Northwestern University.

The 52-year-old senior vice president of Eppler, Guerin and Turner, Inc., an investment banking firm, entered the U.S. Air Force in 1953 for two years active duty, serving part of the time overseas. In 1954 Reese was stationed at Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock and became editor of the Reese Air Force Base newspaper.

Montford joined the Marines, spending three years on active duty from 1968 to 1971. During that time he was a trial and defense counsel before the General Court Martial and was appointed military judge by the Judge Advocate General of the Navy in 1969. In 1970 Montford was named as chief prosecutor for force troops of the Fleet Marine Force.

Reese, a former Mayor of Odessa from 1968 to 1974, was elected president of the Texas Association of Mayors, Councilmen and Commissioners during his term in office. He also was elected vice president of the United States Jaycees in 1965 and 1966 and was president of the Texas Jaycees in 1964 and 1965.

Marrier Discusses Mortuary Problems

Problems faced by the funeral director and the bereaved family were discussed in a talk at Rotary Thursday by Tom Marrier, a graduate in mortuary science and practitioner for a number of years before establishing Marrier's Furniture store here.

First concern of the mortuary personnel is the bereaved family, efforts to make the death situation as easy to bear as possible by the survivors, and to carry out their burial wishes.

But, he said, there are some touchy problems some people do not understand. For example, some do not understand the law which he said requires embalming, necessary because the process kills all living body cells to prevent any possible disease, for sanitation, and slowing of decomposition. Another is autopsies which are sometimes required.

He said mortuary science "is one of the two oldest professions in civilization," dating back to our earliest history. Even ceremonial rituals date back to the beginnings of history, and our present rituals date back to the 16th century.

Fred Curran, a new member of the club and of President Joe Hays' accounting firm, was program chairman and introduced the speaker, also a Rotarian.

Dear Mr. Wood:

May I comment on Proposition 3 concerning exemption of all farm equipment? When one first glances at this proposition, it sounds as though we are going to be given tax relief. But has anyone stopped to explain the effects the proposition will have on small, rural schools and on the land and home owner? Even in larger areas, such as Lubbock County, has anyone stopped to think how much revenue will be lost in the county and school district if this proposition passes? Has anyone explained where the lost revenue will be made up,

My question now becomes where is the justice and fairness in placing the entire tax burden in small, rural communities on the people who had the initiative to work hard enough to buy and own their own farms and homes?

Thank you for allowing me to express my opinion on this issue.

Yours very truly,
Shirley A. Smith
