Heavy equipment insurance for each precinct of Lynn County has been renewed following a discussion of Lynn County Commissioners Court in a special meeting held in the courthouse Monday morning.

County Judge J.F. Brandon presided over the meeting with all commissioners present with the exception of E.R. Blakney who is ill. The group voted to buy a new air-conditioner for the O'Donnell Justice of the Peace office. Justice of the Peace at O'Donnell is Ben Morrison.

Commissioners discussed, but took no action on, a proposed order from the county to financial institutions permitting Panhandle Plains Higher Education Authority participation in student loans.

Repairs needed for sidewalks around the courthouse was discussed but no action taken.

The proposed 1984 budget will be reviewed at a later date, Judge Brandon said.

Man Held On Rape Charge

A 31-year-old Tahoka man was arrested and charged with aggravated rape Friday after a 21-year-old woman flagged down a police car about 4 a.m. Friday and reported she had been attacked.

The young woman said she and a companion had been riding around with the suspect in a pickup and that the driver had taken the other person home before taking her to a location on a road about 3 miles southeast of Tahoka around 2 a.m.

She said the man raped her twice after threatening her with a shotgun. He then brought her back to town, where she said she jumped from the pickup and escaped, then sighted the Tahoka Police patrol car. She was taken to Lubbock General Hospital. Sheriff's officers Friday arrested

WOODWORK

BY DALTON

I KEEP getting literature from people who want me to send them money for more literature that is supposed to make me money, or help me save, or tell me what is the best investment.

I have saved quite a bit already by not buying any of their stuff. Some of it, though, is tempting....and interesting. Somebody named Brian Smith, who I never heard of before, sends his "Latest Investment Predictions from the financial advisory letter with the most remarkable track record in America." One thing I liked about his letter was that he admitted that he has made some bloopers in the past, even mentioning a couple of them. But if this guy really knows what he is talking about, then a person with some funds to invest could really profit from some of his predictions.

One thing he predicted is that "cellular radio will be the biggest money-maker since the computer--an investment opportunity equal to TV in the 1940s or gold in the 1970s."

I had never heard of cellular radio or cellular telephone, and figured it must be more of the things the bleeding hearts are insisting on for people in jail. But he says it is a recent communications technology that will possibly render obsolete many present radio, telephone, TV, CB and navigation systems. "We do not exaggerate when we say that it offers those who get into it now the same or greater potential than did the railroads in the 1860s, the telephone at the turn of the century or TV in the 1940s."

He goes into some ways a person can invest in the industry. He doesn't say how to get the money to invest in anything in the first place. Holding up convenience stores is getting to be too risky and although we do pretty good printing, the money we print just doesn't look the same as the government's.

KNOTHOLES in the Woodwork: We noticed an ad in our paper for a "stable adult" to be a weather observer. We know of several guys who have horses they take care of, but they can't see much weather from under those big hats they wear....We read that to relieve tension, you might try the "shoulder shrug." Lift your shoulder high, hold for several seconds and gradually lower them. Repeat until you feel more relaxed (or someone comes up and asks what's wrong with you)...At an education hearing in Lubbock, someone complained that her child couldn't read because he was never taught phonics. I was never taught phonics either, but I do a right smart of reading. I tawk real good, too.

THANK YOU PRESIDENT REAGAN FOR MAKING THIS "The Year of the BIBLE"

YEAR OF THE BIBLE—Rev. Roy Love and his congregation at the University Church of God express their sentiments for the recognition accorded the Bible as a formative influence in American history, its contribution to the development of both private and public benevolent institutions and its impact on the development of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. 1983 has been proclaimed the Year of the Bible.

Churches Plan To Observe "Year Of The Bible"

Several area and local churches plan to observe the presidential proclamation of 1983 as the "Year of the Bible" by distributing "The New Testament in the Simple English Version," according to the Rev. Roy Love, pastor of the University Avenue Church of God in Lubbock.

Love is the Lubbock coordinator for the National Committee for the Year of the Bible, which was developed early this year to give attention to the emphasis and stimulate related projects by individual denominations, churches, synagogues, fellowships and other groups.

United by a similar spiritual heritage, the national committee includes a broad spectrum of backgrounds and viewpoints including Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergy and lay leaders. President Ronald Reagan serves as honorary chairman and co-chairmen are Sen. William Armstrong and Congressman Carlos Moorhead, who were the primary sponsors of the resolution calling for the proclamation. Col. Glenn Jones USAF, (ret.) serves as national director for the committee.

Encouraging the reading and study of the Bible is the second phase of the national committee's program, Love said. Resources will be provided by the committee for local participation in the celebration of the proclamation. Bible distribution planned by the local churches is a part of this phase as well as Bible reading and study emphases in the individual churches, Love continued.

A lawsuit filed against Reagan by the American Civil Liberties Union may help the committee reach its first goal, which is national awareness of the proclamation, Love said.

The suit, filed in Federal Court in California on behalf of the ACLU's Church/State Project, alleges that a joint resolution of Congress and Reagan's proclamation of 1983 as the Year of the Bible violates the First Amendment prohibition of the establishment of religion.

According to the plaintiffs, Public Law 97-280 and the proclamation "harm Christians and non-Christians alike because they single out the Bible from all other spiritual and religious teaching as the word of God."

Anyone interested in Bible distribution for this area is asked to contact Roy Love at 806-744-9423 or write him at 2423 26th Street, Lubbock, TX. 79411.

Chicken, for example, can be the basis for many delicious low-sodium entrees, when seasoned with spices and prepared with fresh vegetables. Unsalted nuts are also ideal flavor enhancers. They are high in protein, vitamins and minerals, and impart a special taste and texture to a variety of chicken dishes.

Nutty Baked Chicken, made with Planters® Unsalted Peanuts, oregano and garlic is quick and easy to prepare for casual family dinners or summer weekend picnics.

$3 Million Settlement Given

Consumers throughout the State of Texas who contracted for home improvements with National Sales and Service, Inc. won over $3 million of relief July 15 when a Travis County District Judge entered a judgment settling claims of 317 Texas consumers against the company. The suit, State v. National Sales and Service Company, et al., is the largest recovery of restitution for Texas consumers in the history of the Consumer Protection Division of the Texas Attorney General's Office.

The settlement cancels the debt and releases the liens on the homes of the 317 consumers on the list. The suit charged that National Sales and Service and other related companies conspired to violate the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act in the sale of home improvements, particularly vinyl siding, as well as debt collection practices.

The targets of these sharp sales practices were uniformly low-income Texans with limited educational ability. The typical case involved a home solicitation with extravagant promises of energy savings, increased value of the home, flexibility in payments, and other inducements. The majority of consumers were never told a lien would be taken on their home and if they stopped paying they could lose their homes.

Approximately 5,000 liens were created by National Sales and Service on homes before they went out of business in mid-1981. Persons who have been injured by misrepresentations or defective work on their homes by National Sales and Service may be in danger of losing their rights under the contracts because of the statute of limitations. Under the Deceptive Trade Practices Act the limitation period is four years from the time the deceptive trade practice is discovered or occurred (pre-August 27, 1979 law) or two years if the deception occurred or was discovered after Aug. 27, 1979. The limitation period for warranty claims under the common law is four years.

Affected consumers who are not on the list of 317 people with the Attorney General's office should consult an attorney to determine if the filing of a lawsuit is necessary to protect their rights.

Work At Home Scheme King Arrested

D.C. Strader, Postal Inspector in Charge, Fort Worth, and Edward C. Prado, United States Attorney for the Western Division of Texas, San Antonio, announced that Allen Louis Chavis, 45, of San Antonio and Lambert Daniel Slisz, 43, of New Braunfels were arrested on July 19 after a Federal Grand Jury at San Antonio returned a 20-count indictment against the two men on Monday, July 18, charging them with mail fraud.

The indictment, which is the result of a lengthy investigation conducted by Postal Inspectors, charges that between 1978 and now, Chavis and Slisz, together doing business as Homeworke's Job Opportunities (HJO), New Braunfels, TX; and the American Fidelity Company (AMIFCO), New Braunfels, used the mail to defraud people who were seeking employment addressing envelopes at home.

It is alleged by the indictment that the defendants induced victims to send a deposit/application fee to their firms in order to earn a specified income, knowing the representations and promises made in literature mailed to victims were false. After payment of the initial fee, homeworke's learned there were additional expenses required in order to participate.

In addition to operating

Aggie architect designing house with cheap utility bills

COLLEGE STATION—A Texas A&M University architect is designing a house that will be cool in summer and warm in winter with the goal of using less than $30 a month for energy.

Raymond Reed, professor of architecture and a member of the American Institute of Architects' Task Force on Energy Conservation, is drawing up plans for the house which will eventually be built in Fort Arthur as part of a project sponsored by Gulf States Utilities.

Although Reed has not completed the designs, he said the house will have a double roof that will be a shading device in the summer and a heating device in the winter.

When completed, Reed's design will be made available to the public.

Scanning Social Security

By BOOTH H. ROBBINS

Pre-Retirement Planning
Planning for retirement is an idea whose time has come. Today, more than ever, people realize that how they spend the latter part of their lives will depend largely on how they plan for it.

In terms of retirement income, the earlier planning starts, the better. It takes time to accumulate income unless you're a financial genius, and such sources as insurance, savings, pensions, and investments that have traditionally provided income for retirement generally look better over time.

Social Security continues to be the Nation's primary source of income in retirement. Recently, the Congress changed a number of Social Security provisions which ensure its financial soundness on into the next century. Social Security data show that 90 percent of people 65 and over receive Social Security and about 65 percent of them rely on Social Security benefits for at least half their total income. Thus, it's important to know such facts as how much your Social Security benefits might be, how benefits are affected by other retirement income, early retirement, and later retirement.

People may get an estimate of what their benefits will be at age 65 by writing the Social Security Administration. The Social Security office has a special form that may be used for this purpose. Estimates for younger workers are not as precise because of the uncertainties involved in the longer period over which the benefits have to be estimated. But, in general, people may expect their retirement income to equal from 2 1/2 percent to 55 percent of their monthly pre-retirement income. The percentage is higher for people with lower earnings, since the formula is weighted to produce a proportionately higher benefit for low earners. These percentages indicate the rate at which a person's earnings are replaced. Benefits increase automatically to reflect increases in the cost of living.

There is a limitation how much you may earn and still receive Social Security benefits; the limit increases each year with increases in general wages. For 1983, the limit is $6600 for people 65 and over and $4,920 for people under 65. Benefits are reduced $1 for each $2 of earnings above the limit. For people 70 and over all of 1983 the earnings limit does not apply. (Starting in 1990, the $1 for $2 withholding will become $1 to $3 for people 65 and over.)

Under present law, other types of retirement income that do not result from current work do not count against the Social Security benefits. These include pensions, investments, savings and so forth.

Benefits are payable as early as age 62, reduced for each month before age 65 to a maximum reduction of 20 percent for people retiring at age 62. Widows and widowers get benefits as early as age 60 reduced to 71 1/2 percent of what they would receive at age 65 on the deceased worker's record.

The benefit a person would receive at age 65 is increased by 3 percent per year for each year that he or she delays retirement. These delayed retirement credits are in addition to the annual cost-of-living increases that apply starting at age 62 whether or not a person retires. These credits will increase gradually starting in 1990 until they reach 8 percent by 2008.

For details on how Social Security provides retirement income to help you plan for your retirement years, you may call or write any Social Security office.

If people in the South Plains area are anything like those in other parts of the country, many of them do not know that Social Security pays monthly benefits to survivors of deceased workers who

He completed Texas Tech University School of Banking in 1980 and has had additional training in management and credit at Texas A&M University.

Goldston began his farm credit career in 1972 as loan officer of Plainview Production Credit Assn. In 1977 he joined the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas as assistant vice president. Before coming to farm credit, he worked in chemical and fertilizer sales in the Texas High Plains area.

worked in jobs covered by Social Security long enough to become insured. More than 7 million people receive survivor benefits. It is important for survivors to contact Social Security as soon as possible after the worker's death to make sure that no benefits are missed. In any event, a person should apply no later than the month after the month the worker dies.

Social Security survivor benefits can be paid to:

* A widow or widower 60 or over.

* A disabled widow or widower 50-60.

A child under 18 or 18-19 if a full-time high school student or over 18 if disabled before 22.

* A mother or father caring for an entitled child under age 16.

A parent 62 or older who was dependent upon the worker for half or more of his or her support.

Under a special rule, children and their mother or father can receive benefits if the worker had Social Security credit for only 1 1/2 years of work in

More and more consumers are beating the high cost of service calls by doing their own appliance repairs. "High costs and the increase in unemployed people who have the time to make repairs but not the dollars to hire the work done is one reason for the growth in do-it-yourself activity," says Mary Clayton, a home economist. More women and people with high-tech jobs are also entering the do-it-yourself market as they feel they have the skills to make home repairs. Even the availability of more how-to information contributes to the appliance repair boom, she explains. But, safety is the big question all manufacturers raise about do-it-yourself repairs, says Clayton. Most companies contend that only those consumers who are mechanically inclined should tackle major appliance repair.
