Miller Winner Of Close Race

J.T. Miller was the winner of a close race last weekend as he edged out Leland White by 53 votes in the Democratic Primary runoff for the nomination for county commissioner of Lynn County Precinct 4.

A good turnout of voters was recorded in the county, almost as many as voted in the first primary, as county residents showed interest in the commissioners race and also gave a heavy margin to Kent Hance of Lubbock in his statewide race for the nomination for U.S. Senator. Statewide, Hance lost by just 509 votes and is calling for a recount in his contest with Lloyd Doggett, an Austin attorney.

A total of 679 votes recorded in voting boxes in the county precinct 4 was more than the total of 600 cast in the first primary in that commissioners precinct. Miller received 366 votes to 313 for White. Miller had heavy support in the West Tahoka box, with 230 to 45 for White, but White carried New Home 145-52, Lakeview by 65-12 and North Lynn box 37-30. Miller topped the absentee total with 42 to 21 for White.

A total of 1546 persons voted in the county, compared to 1618 in the first primary.

In the other races on the county runoff ballot, Hance received 1365 votes to 154 for Doggett. W.C. Davis had 769 to 475 for Roy E. Greenwood and Bill White scored 808 to 446 over Thomas B. Thorpe in court of criminal appeals contests.

Nomination on the Democratic ballot means election for Miller, since there will be no Republican candidates for the county offices on the November ballot.

White congratulated Miller on running a good race and winning the contest.

County Rains Bring Smiles

Good rainfall throughout Lynn County averaging from about an inch up to 2.5 inches last weekend brought smiles to the faces of farmers and businessmen in the county.

Most of the rain came Saturday, with generally lesser amounts falling the following day. For the weekend, the official measurement by the U.S. Weather Service in Tahoka was 1.61 inches.

"If we hadn't received the rain when we did, the outlook for business in this area would be pretty bleak," said the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce President C.T. Louder Tuesday. As it is, most farmers who hadn't already planted were getting into the fields this week to get their cotton crops started. Some, especially those with irrigated acres, already had planted, and the rainfall was very good for those producers too.

Heaviest rainfall reported was in the general area of O'Donnell. On the Fred Martin farm toward Draw from O'Donnell there was a report of 2.5 inches measured, with a like amount reported about five miles west of O'Donnell. A gauge near the north county line, between FM 400 and U.S. 87 measured 1.5, according to ASCS officials.

Some areas near New Home and in the vicinity of the Wells community in the southwest part of the county had lesser amounts than others, but still reportedly got around an inch. However, the Jacky Henry farm 10 miles south and 3 miles west of Tahoka had a measured 2 inches of rain. Dean Daniell, who lives about four miles northwest of New Lynn gin, measured 1.9 inches of rain.

Windshields Broken, Man Is Charged

Tahoka police investigated a case in which several windshields were broken at 1313 Ave. K late last Wednesday night. A Tahoka man was charged for criminal mischief in connection with the breaking of windshields of a 1978 Oldsmobile belonging to Mamie L. Beard, a 1973 Dodge owned by Carl Beard, and a 1965 Chevrolet owned by John Harvey Jordan. Total damage to these vehicles was set at $1765.52.

Also last Wednesday, Dwain Jones of 1705 Ave. K reported to police that a neighbor had destroyed his front screen door valued at $34. A subject was arrested and charged.

Officers in Crosby County recovered from the west part of that county papers and costume jewelry items which had been stolen from the Lynn County home of Norvin Nieman in March. Taken from the Nieman home 1.5 miles south of Gordon at that time were guns, knives, tools, TV, jewelry and other items valued at a total of $1750. However, the items found in a culvert last Thursday, including a coin lock box, were of little value.

"We're a little nervous about the homestays," they both say, adding, "There is supposed to be at least one member in each family who is supposed to speak English."

Michele says, "I hope we like the food over there." Stotts adds, "I'm going to carry Carnation bars in my suitcase just in case."

"Yeah," Michele laughs, "thirty-six of them!"

They both are looking forward to seeing the sights and major landmarks in all of the countries. Stotts is especially interested in seeing the Great Wall of China.

Before departing from the United States on June 10, Stotts and Miss Terry will attend two full days of orientation in Lubbock, along with other Student Ambassadors, to help them know what to expect and things to look for in the countries they will visit.

WOODWORK

BY DALTON

I HAVE THIS big problem of not being able to get anything open, and it has given me a complex which has destroyed any slight feeling of self-confidence I may have ever had.

When we go out to eat and I get one of these little sealed triangular things with sour cream inside, I simply can't find the place where it opens. I hand it to my wife, who says it is very simple and my problem is that I have a negative attitude about such things.

She knows that I can't open child-proof aspirin bottles, little sealed packages of ketchup or jelly, zip-lock plastic bags, milk cartons, or these little things full of screws, nuts and bolts you get at hardware stores, where they package them so nobody can steal one or two of them and get out without paying for them.

So I tell her that the reason I have a negative attitude about opening such things is simple: I can't open them. It reminds me of the guy who is lying down on the couch in the psychiatrist's office and the psychiatrist is telling him: "The reason you have an inferiority complex is because you are inferior."

The other day I was trying to open something contained in one of those tough plastic packages, and I was almost foaming at the mouth before I got it open. I yanked at it, stabbed it, stomped on it and spoke to it, until my wife said I'd better take it easy or

I would tear up whatever was in it. I grumbled that whoever designed that package should have sold it to the military to deflect bullets with.

TWO WOMEN who really don't care for each other met for the first time in a long while. The first one remarked: "Why, you look so much older I almost didn't recognize you!" The other woman replied: "I wouldn't have known you either, it's been so long. But I recognized that dress."

TABS Hearing Set

A public hearing concerning the results of the Texas Assessments of Basic Skills Test for the Tahoka ISD will be held in the board room on June 14 from 7 to 8 p.m.

The principal of each school will be available to explain the results and answer any questions. The TABS test is given to every 3rd, 5th, and 9th grade student in the state of Texas each year.

Two THS Students Set For Trip To Far East

HEADING EAST — Tahoka High School students Shawn Stotts and Michele Terry are all packed and ready to go with a group of other students and teachers on a 36-day trip to the Far East. They leave Sunday. Also going will be THS Counselor Paulette Brownfield. (LYNN COUNTY NEWS PHOTO)

BY JUANELL JONES

"I got the camera that talks to you. I don't want to miss any good pictures," says Shawn Stotts, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymon Stotts of Tahoka. He and Michele Terry, 16, daughter of Sharon Terry of Tahoka, are heading to the Far East and Asian countries this summer as student ambassadors in the "People to People High School Student Ambassador Program."

Both have just completed their junior years at Tahoka High School and were chosen for Student Ambassadors by high school counselor Mrs. Paulette Brownfield, who will be accompanying them on the trip. Maturity, well-rounded interests, and the ability to adapt are more important to a Student Ambassador's selection than just good grades, according to People to People requirements. Students are responsible for financing their own trip, and receive no monetary help from school or state funds.

The 36-day trip includes visits to Honolulu, Hawaii for a two-day orientation with People to People representatives; Tokyo, Japan; Beijing, and Shanghai in the People's Republic of China; Hong Kong; Taipei, Taiwan; and Seoul, Korea. The trio from Tahoka will join about 30 other students and teacher-leaders from the Texas area and will travel as a group. Students will be able to learn first-hand the culture and economics of the countries they will travel in, and will have 4-day homestays with the local people in

Her shirred Poiedeslie satin and lace hat featured a trailing six foot chiffon veil fastened to the crown with a chiffon flower. She carried a nosegay of wild flowers in shades of mauve, green and yellow with touches of bluebonnets.

In keeping with tradition, the bride wore as something old, her maternal grandmother's antique diamond earrings; something new was her dress; something borrowed was an English six pence and a strand of pearls. She wore a blue garter.

Helpful Information From Experts

Additives Not General Cause of Hyperactivity

Careful scientific work has found that food additives are not the general cause of hyperactivity, according to Drs. Richard Mailman and Mark Lewis of the University of North Carolina.

Many people in the medical and nutrition professions once thought that certain food additives could somehow cause hyperactivity. According to Mailman and Lewis, several early studies suggested that when particular additives were eliminated from the diet of hyperactive children, an improvement in the behavior of some of them occurred. Today scientists question the methods used in these studies.

Improvements in the earlier studies may have resulted from factors unrelated to the chemical makeup of their food. Drs. Mailman and Lewis pointed out. More recent, carefully controlled studies indicate that additive-free diets may help only a very small number of hyperactive children, but they do not aid the majority.

Few Are Hyperactive

Most children are not hyperactive. In fact, fewer than five percent of American school-age children suffer from hyperactivity. Subjective factors cloud a clinical definition. Its symptoms include an unusually short attention span, impulsiveness and over-activity. When all of these behaviors occur before age seven and last longer than six months, and no other specific medical problems are present, a child may be properly termed hyperactive.

Scientists have found no single physical cause for hyperactivity. It could result from physical damage to the central nervous system, infection, certain toxic agents or from prolonged lack of oxygen during birth. Specialists continue to test possible causes and cures, but more research is needed before parents can be given definitive answers to their questions. The best recommendation for parents of hyperactive children is to seek professional advice, beginning with the family physician.

Drs. Mailman and Lewis reported that eliminating certain food additives may aid a very small number of hyperactive children. But for most, subtracting the additives will not add up to a cure. And an additive-free diet may deprive the child of foods containing nutrients important for growth and health.

Drs. Mailman and Lewis reported this finding in a recent article in Contemporary Nutrition, a newsletter for health professionals published by General Mills, Inc.

HANDLING WHEAT RESIDUE

Among wheat residue management options are burning, clean tillage, conservation tillage and chemical fallow, says an agronomist with the Texas A&M University System. Burning is the least desirable option because it leaves the land unprotected and subject to erosion. With clean tillage, most wheat straw is buried, but conservation tillage leaves desirable levels of wheat straw on the surface. Chemical fallow involves using herbicides to control weeds and grasses between crops. A farmer should select an option based on the amount of wheat stubble, perennial weeds, compaction pans in the soil, type of tillage and planting equipment available, and cost of herbicides.

LUBBOCK, Friday, June 1, 1984
 Official figures just released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service show 1983 cotton production from the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, at 1,346,450 bales of 480 pounds net weight.

That is slightly above the 1,285,600 bales grown in 1982, but far below the 2.3 million bale five-year production and just over a third of the record 3,522,000 bales harvested in 1981.

The payment-in-kind acreage reduction program reduced planted acres for the year to 2,486,800, the lowest since 1970 when the 25 counties seeded only 2,277,000 acres. Subsequent abandonment in 1983, the result of both drought and hail come to 371,300 acres or almost 15 percent of planted acres.

Average yield on the remaining 2,115,500 acres comes to 305.5 pounds per harvested acre, considerably better than the 259 pounds per acre average recorded in 1982. The ten-year average yield on the Plains through 1983 is 314.3 pounds per harvested acre, down almost 120 pounds from the ten-year average through 1973 and the lowest 10-year average since 1958. The all-time record for the 25 counties, 513 pounds, went on the books in 1965.

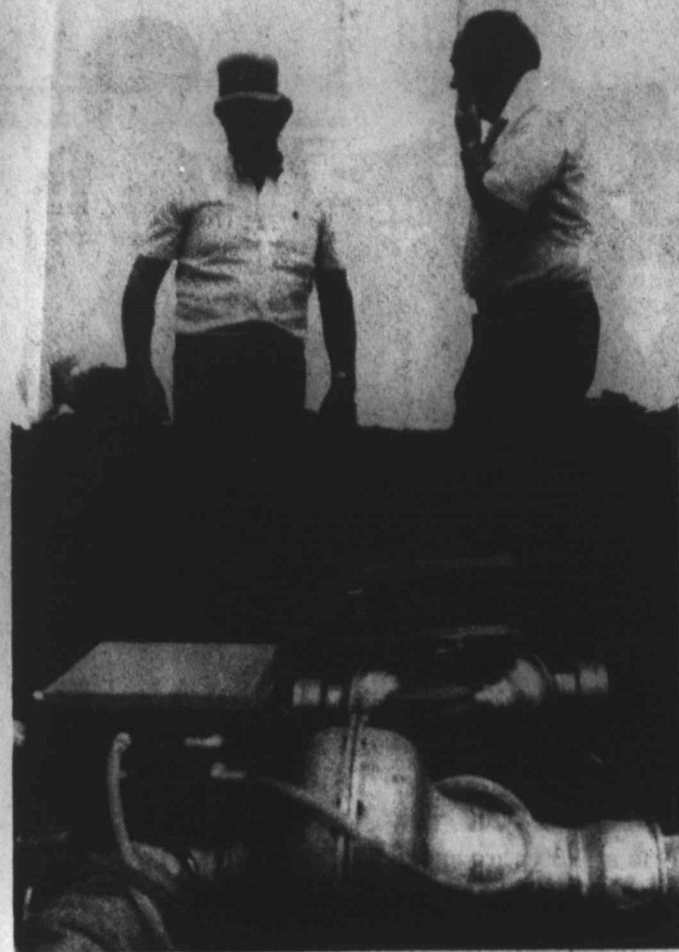

Gaines County, with 164,800 bales, led the area in total production for the third consecutive year. The High Plains yield per acre title in 1983 goes to Castro County where farmers averaged 413 pounds.

The chart below shows 1983 planted and harvested acres, yield per harvested acre and total production in 480 pound net weight bales for each of the 25 PCG counties.

SURGE IRRIGATION—Jimmy Woodard, (left) ASCS office manager, and Jay Dee House, Federal Land Bank, discuss surge irrigation equipment and its potential for Lynn County irrigation. A new technique of graded furrow irrigation—called surge irrigation—may be able to save you valuable water and energy. But the system does have some definite limitations or disadvantages, especially on tighter soils during the crop's peak consumptive use. Before you invest in surge irrigation equipment contact personnel with the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, or the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

Student Loans Are Readily Available

Students and parents who have tried unsuccessfully to borrow money for college expenses may be surprised to learn that there is actually an abundance of long-term, low-interest money available for that purpose. The trick is to find a banker interested enough in making such loans to go through the paper work involved. Jim Bullock, senior vice president and head of the consumer loan department of Texas American Bank of Amarillo says his department is "quite active in making student loans and would like to make even more."

Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Program, he said the bank will lend qualified undergraduate students up to $2,500 per year or up to $15,000 total in student loans. No interest is charged on the loans until six months after the borrower ceases to be enrolled as at least half-time student. Then repayment at 8 percent interest may be made over five to ten years, depending on the amount borrowed.

For more information contact Traci Layman, Texas American Bank's student loan coordinator.

4-H College Scholarships Available
 Present and former 4-H members can qualify for national scholarships totaling more than $20,000 if they meet requirements set by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Most of the grants of $1,000 each are for young people planning careers in agriculture or related fields, such as forestry, veterinary medicine, dairy goats or animal science, says Greg Henley, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Another scholarship for $3,000 is provided for a youth planning a career in the fashion industry. Three other scholarships have no limit placed on choice of study.

All these scholarships are provided by private sector donors and arranged by the National 4-H Council, a not-for profit organization supporting the 4-H program with private resources.

The $3,000 scholarship is provided by the Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers, New York City, for a youth interested in a career in the fashion industry. The recipient will enroll, during 1985, in a 10-month program at the school. Selection will be based on the applicant's expressed interest in a fashion career, leadership abilities, 4-H experiences, scholastic record and financial need.

Six $1,000 scholarships, provided by DeKalb AgResearch, Inc., DeKalb, Ill., are available to current 4-H members interested in agricultural careers. In addition, the recipients will attend the 63rd National 4-H Congress, Nov. 25-29 in Chicago, Ill., as guests of DeKalb.

A $1,000 scholarship, donated by the Education Foundation of Alpha Gamma Rho, Des Plaines, Ill., goes to a current 4-H member who will be enrolled as a college freshman this fall. The recipient must be planning a major in agriculture, forestry, veterinary medicine or a closely-related field.

Wayne Feed Division, Continental Grain Company, Chicago, Ill., donates two $1,000 scholarships to present or former 4-H members who enroll as college juniors this fall with a major in animal science.

Two former 4-H members currently enrolled in a college of veterinary medicine can receive a $1,000 scholarship provided by Champion Valley Farms, Inc., Camden, N.J.

Three career scholarships, including two new $1,000 awards and a $750 scholarship, are available to present and former 4-H members enrolled this fall at an accredited college, university, technical or trade school.

Who's Who Among American High School Students, Lake Forest, Ill., is providing the two $1,000 scholarships. The $750 scholarship is provided in memory of Gertrude L. Warren, a pioneer 4-H leader often described as

Check Labels On Fortified Foods

If you buy iron-fortified foods, check the nutrition label for the percent of the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) it contains, says nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten. Preschool children, women of childbearing age and pregnant women are at the greatest risk of developing iron deficiency. Adding iron to some foods can help assure that people get adequate amounts of iron, but can also mean that others may get too much, she cautions. The Food and Drug Administration has established some product standard for iron. However, many products such as breakfast cereals do not have standards and may contain amounts of iron ranging from a trace to 100 percent of the RDA. Sweeten advises consumers to consider their individual need for added iron and use the nutritional label as an important shopping tool when buying fortified foods.

New General Land Office In Lubbock Opens

South Plains veterans may receive information and guidance on various programs of the General Land Office at a newly opened office in Lubbock, announced Gary Mauro.

Lorenzo Sedano of Lubbock, field representative of the Veterans Outreach Program, will be manager of the office in Room 102 of the County Annex at 800 Broadway.

"Veterans may participate in the land purchase, housing assistance or other programs of the Veterans Land Board," Mauro said. "We urge them to contact our new Lubbock office and receive help in obtaining the expanding benefits for veterans."

Mauro appointed Sedano to the Veterans Outreach Program staff in January 1983.

DROUGHT MANAGEMENT FOR RANCHERS

During drought conditions, a rancher needs to reappraise his entire operation to look for ways to improve overall efficiency, says a livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. To reduce stress on lactating cows, a rancher might wean the calf and sell it early. With heavy culling, a rancher could easily move from year-around calving to a spring or fall calving season and might also consider cross-fencing large pastures so as to set up a rotational grazing system. Other important practices are to eliminate non-breeding and late calving cows and to make sure a good herd health program is in place.

FAMILY HEALTHCARE COSTS AND LIFESTYLE LINKED

Many people worry about the cost of major illness or accident in the family, but often fail to consider what influence they can have on potential medical expenses, says health educator Dr. Mary Ann Heussner. Many major illnesses and premature deaths are linked to lifestyle habits, she explains. Changing these habits can help create a healthier family and control medical expenses. For example, you can stop smoking; you can eat a balanced diet and lose extra pounds if you are overweight; if you drink alcohol, you can drink in moderation; you can learn to deal with stress through relaxation, exercise regularly to stay in good condition and get adequate sleep; you can wear seat belts and make sure that your young children ride in safety seats.

The coastline of Alaska is longer than the entire coastline of the lower 48 states of the United States.

Only about three percent of the earth's water is fresh. About three fourths of the fresh water is frozen in glaciers and ice caps.

Hearing Tests Set For Tahoka On June 21st

LARRY LINDSEY Tahoka — Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Senior Citizens Center on Thursday, June 21st, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Larry Lindsey, licensed hearing aid specialist, will be at 1600 S. 3rd to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding speech clearly is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which can be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out whether the latest methods of hearing correction can help them hear better.

The free hearing test will be given Thursday, June 21st from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Senior Citizens Center. If you can't come in, call 998-5264 and arrange for an appointment at another time. In home testing is also available.

It's The Most

The most serious vision problem among preschoolers is called "lazy eye." It is most effectively treated if detected before the age of six.

The most avoidable cause of blindness is probably eye injury. Experts say that if safety eyewear is used and proper precautions taken in schools and industry, up to 90 percent of eye injuries need not occur.
