Frank P. Hill Memorial Hall Dedication Held Saturday

A large crowd was present at the Lynn County Pioneer Museum Saturday, June 22, at 2 p.m. as Harold Green, president of the museum board, formally dedicated the new annex on the north side of the museum building as Frank P. Hill Memorial Hall. Mrs. Mae Hill was presented a resolution naming the hall in honor of her late husband. Also attending were granddaughters, Fran DuBose and Vicky Taylor of Pampa.

Green paid tribute to the late Frank Hill, one of the founders of the museum. Hill came to Lynn County in 1924, and served this community as a newspaper man from 1924 to 1968. During this time, he was writer, editor, and publisher of the Lynn County News, and was known throughout the South Plains for his ability and integrity in that area.

Green pointed out that Hill was an outstanding citizen, who served with distinction as an officer and member of numerous organizations, some of which were: Board of Trustees of Tahoka Independent School District, Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce, Lynn County Library Board, T-Bar Country Club, and Lynn County Pioneer Museum. His interest in history, and particularly the history of Lynn County and surrounding area, led him to accumulate a vast amount of information regarding the early pioneers and the events which form the history of this town and county.

Hill did most of the labeling and recording of all the items in the museum today, and a great deal of the credit for the existence of the museum is due to him.

As part of the dedication service, a history of the organization and activity of the museum was given by Dr. K.R. Durham; preliminary work by a group of interested citizens was done in 1978, and a charter was granted by the State of Texas on May 11, 1979. Many articles were donated by local people for exhibition in the museum, and the number and variety of displays have grown steadily through the years since its opening.

THE WOODBOX

BY TERRY WOOD

I'm glad it's Monday. A few weeks ago, a close relative of mine (his office is about 20 feet from mine) wrote how bad it is to drive in Lubbock and how people should have to pass an idiocy test for putting up with Lubbock traffic.

I feel I must retaliate because I happen to live in Lubbock and I seldom find it a hassle except when leaving Tech football games or getting onto the Tahoka Traffic Circle at 5:15 p.m. If you put Lubbock into perspective with other cities, it's really an easy task. I was in Dallas during the Memorial Day weekend and it took me over two hours to drive 30 miles from Bedford to Carrollton. I can go anywhere in Lubbock in 15 minutes even in heavy traffic. Let's face it—there are idiots driving in every town in the U.S.A. There's nothing worse than to let some one who thinks they own the town drive around as he (she) pleases and to treat everyone else as being in the way.

After glancing through this morning's A-J, it's hard to think of a good topic to write about. Today's headlines include "329 Lost in Jet Crash", "Toxic Fires Force Evacuation", "Workers Warned To Beware Of Possible Spies", and "Luggage Explosion In Japanese Air Terminal Kills Two."

It was a long weekend for me. I mowed and edged two yards, played tennis three times, went to a swimming party, washed two vehicles and played Trivial Pursuit and my partner was my mother-in-law. Now I am looking at my new bank statement and bills that have appeared on my desk. I'm glad it's Monday.

EASIER WAYS WITH MICROWAVES

The picnic season has arrived. It's time to enjoy the great outdoors with family and friends. Why spend hours in a hot kitchen, when your microwave oven can cook an entire meal in a cool 30 minutes. This recipe for Picnic-Style Chicken Supper from a Whirlpool microwave oven cookbook features crispy chicken, hot German potato salad, sweet corn on the cob and strawberry sundaes for dessert. Quick and easy, too, are the special sauces for corn on the cob. They'll add an extra zest to your in-home summer picnic.

IT'S TIME FOR CHICKEN BARBECUE

Chicken barbecue is an all-time favorite and long summer evenings are ideal for polishing up the fine art of barbecuing, says a poultry marketing specialist. For great-tasting chicken barbecue, follow these steps: split birds in half and sprinkle generously with salt and black pepper before placing on the pit, make sure coals are white-hot before barbecuing, use a basting sauce during cooking that contains no tomato or sugar product because such sauces burn easily, and apply a finishing sauce during the last 20-30 minutes before cooking is complete.

Jones

RALPH EDWARD JONES

The odds appear to be running out for Ralph Edward Jones.

Police in Texarkana say Jones is a prime suspect in two robberies last year to Piggly Wiggly food stores in their area. And police in Tom Green County, Bryan and Wills Point have outstanding warrants on him.

Since one out of every three armed robberies was solved last year in Texas, according to the Department of Safety, detectives figure that they might have an opportunity to meet Jones up close and personal in the near future.

Jones is described as a white male, 32, 5-10, 175 pounds with brown hair and blue eyes. The pupil in his left eye is discernibly dilated.

This week Jones has been added to the Texas Most Wanted list. A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered for information leading to his capture.

Texarkana police want Jones for the Jan. 29, 1984, armed robbery of the State Line Piggly Wiggly in Texarkana.

Police reports indicate a white male entered the store and asked the manager for an employment application. When the manager was distracted, the offender pulled out a four-inch Smith and Wesson revolver and said, "I want money."

The manager told the gunman he didn't have any money in the cash drawers and opened them to show him.

However, the offender persisted and told the manager to open the safe. The robber pulled out a brown bag and forced the manager to fill it with money from the safe.

The offender then walked to the rear of the store with the manager and said, "I'll check you later." He was last seen fleeing from the store on foot.

Detectives say a similar offense occurred on Feb. 28, 1984, to another Piggly Wiggly store in Texarkana. Jones is the prime suspect in that case.

In addition to the warrant charging him with aggravated robbery out of Texarkana, Jones has also been charged with aggravated robbery by the Tom Green County Sheriff's Office, robbery of a business by the Bryan Police Department and theft over $750 but less than $2,000 by the Wills Point Police Department.

Jones, who has served prison time in Texas and California, sometimes uses the alias "Rusty Jones", detectives say.

Anyone having information is asked to call Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council 1-800-252-8477. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

DEMETRIUS LAVERN ELKINS

Two Midland motels were victimized by robbers in July and August. On July 29, 1984, around 1:20 a.m., a black male and female robbed the Lexington Motel, while an accomplice waited in a vehicle outside. The offenders escaped with about $100 in cash from the motel's cash register and another $100 from the night manager's wallet.

Then on Aug. 4, the Best Western Motel was robbed. This time a lone black gunman escaped with $251 in cash after locking the night manager in a storage room.

However, within two weeks of the second robbery, Midland police were hot on the trail of the suspects. Two of them were arrested and eventually convicted of aggravated robbery.

However, the main suspect in the robberies, Demetrius Lavern Elkins, remains on the run.

Elkins, 30, 5' 10", 165 pounds, with black hair and brown eyes, is wanted on two counts of aggravated robbery in Midland. Detectives in nearby Odessa also want to talk to Elkins about some robberies in their city.

Detectives say Elkins uses a number of aliases, including Ross Elkins, Demetrius Ross and Mickie Ross.

He is believed to have left the Midland area, but probably has remained in the state, detectives indicate.

Elkins has been added to the Texas Most Wanted list and a reward of up to $1,000 is being offered for information leading to his capture.

Law enforcement officials stress that Elkins is considered armed and dangerous. Citizens with information about his location are asked to call the Texas Crime Stoppers at 1-800-252-8477. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Texas A&M center focuses on international business COLLEGE STATION — Increasing international competition in historically U.S. dominated business markets has spurred the creation of the Center for International Business Studies at Texas A&M University.

Dr. William Mobley, dean of Texas A&M's College of Business Administration, said a major objective of the new center is to develop a research program that will make significant contributions to knowledge in international business and to conduct management and executive education in international business in connection with the college's Center for Executive Development.

"The economic vitality of Texas and the nation is increasingly dependent on international trade," said Mobley, "and contemporary higher education in general, and business education in particular, must infuse a greater international emphasis into the curriculum and in student development."

He said American firms will focus more on international markets in the future, and the change will bring about an evolutionary change in business schools' curricula.

"While the overwhelming majority of students won't be working abroad, they will be working for companies for which foreign trade is absolutely essential," said Mobley, "and they'll need to be informed about the international nature of business, in addition to knowing business tools and techniques."

Social Security... OUT WEST

By Bill West

Update Earnings Report

People getting Social Security benefits who made a report of their estimated earnings for 1985 early in the year should be sure to report any changes in their estimate that has taken place since the report was filed. Or, if they did not make a report because they did not expect to earn over the annual earnings limit but their circumstances have changed, they should also report this to the Social Security office.

The monthly benefits of working people are based on their estimate of earnings reported on their annual earnings report to Social Security, due by April 15 of each year. Failure to report expected earnings over the limit could result in overpayment. The law states that overpayments must be repaid either through deductions from future checks or through refunds.

In 1985, the earnings limits are $7,320 for people 65 through 69 and $5,400 for people under 65. People 70 and over during all of 1985 are not affected by the earnings test.

Failure to report changes in earnings in one of major causes of overpayments.

Motorists Urged Caution Near Playgrounds

School's Out! The Texas Department of Public Safety wants to remind motorists to be especially watchful all day long for children playing in or around the public streets and highways.

"School's out, warm weather is here and longer hours of daylight all signal the start of summer fun for the kids," warned Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety in Lubbock. He said, "Kids will be out from early morning to late at night and drivers must be especially watchful in areas around parks and playgrounds for a child to dart into the street after a ball or frizbee."

Bicyclists need to be aware of laws regulating their using the public streets or highways. As more bicycles than ever will be on our streets or highways now that school is out. Bicyclists are required to obey all the laws that drivers of cars have to obey. They must stop for stop signs, and red lights, yield at yield signs, make legal turns, and ride in the same direction as vehicular traffic.

Major Cawthon cautioned, "Motorists should be on the lookout for the kids on bicycles and be prepared to give the bicyclist the right of way to save a life."

Letters will go out next month to people in target groups most likely to be overpaid because of excess earnings. The letters ask people to update their estimates of 1985 earnings, if necessary, to avoid overpayment problems.

Many people wait until after the end of the year when they file their annual report to notify Social Security of earnings over the annual limit. However, by this time the overpayment may have accumulated to the point where repayment may create a hardship.

A change in earnings may be reported to any Social Security office by phone, mail, or in person.

Farm Trail opens for second year

(AUSTIN)—The Crosstimbers Farm Trail and Crafts Project—a first for Texas—has opened for its second season, northwest of the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower is urging consumers throughout North Texas to take advantage of the fresh farm produce it provides.

"The Crosstimbers Farm Trail and Crafts Project is one of the most unusual outdoor experiences the state has to offer," Hightower said. "The Farm Trail was organized last year by farmers in Wise and Montague counties to offer their berries, melons, corn and many other varieties of fresh fruit and vegetables directly to the public. This is also a wonderful opportunity to buy fresh farm eggs, honey, jams, jellies, pickles, sauerkraut, baked goods, bedding plants and hanging baskets."

"Traveling along the trail, you can also visit commercial vineyards, watch crystal being custom cut, and observe local residents making everything from sorghum molasses to lye soap," Hightower said.

Producers are enthusiastic in expecting a better year than last. "We've had a large number of phone calls and visits already, even without publicity," reports Trail President Rex Bearden. "Consumers who bought from us last year are really planning to come back and say they'll bring their friends."

There are 14 stops along the two-county Farm Trail, which winds from Aurora through Paradise, Bridgeport, Chico and Sunset to Bowie, Alford, Oak Grove and Decatur. Also located along the Farm Trail are numerous historical markers.

Participants have again produced a map showing the various stops along the 40-mile trail. Copies of those maps are available at businesses throughout Montague and Wise counties, or from Trail President Rex Bearden, Route 1, Box 184, Bridgeport, 76026. Copies of the map are also available from the Texas Department of Agriculture's district office located at 1801 North Lamar, Dallas, 75202.

NON-QUOTA PEANUTS RISKY

Planting peanuts outside allocated quotas appears risky this year due to low prices, says an economist. Quota peanuts are supported by a government loan rate of $559 a ton for basis grade peanuts, up $9 from last year. However, additional acres of peanuts only have a government loan rate of $48 per ton compared to $185 last year. Additional peanuts designated for edible use in the export market only are supported by a loan rate of $425 per ton, the same as in 1984. Because of a record peanut crop last year that pushed stocks to high levels, overall U.S. peanut acreage will likely be down this year at about 90 percent of the allocated quota.

Employers should give working mothers more 'board room' opportunities

COLLEGE STATION — Dads are getting more involved in the nursery and the laundry room, and that means employers should give moms more opportunities to get involved in the board room, says a Texas A&M University sociologist who studies the changing patterns of married women's responsibilities.

Dr. Elizabeth Maret's studies have shown that working women less and less frequently shoulder sole responsibility for child care, laundry, grocery shopping and other responsibilities associated with running a household.

"There is a conviction that women are first and foremost wives and mothers and that their responsibilities within the family prevent or inhibit them from a wider range of responsibilities outside the family and in society at large," she said. "Increasingly, that is a false conviction."

Cotton Today

Cotton's Market Share Holds Firm: Cotton's share of the U.S. apparel market held firm at 38 percent in 1984, according to the National Cotton Council. James T. Howell, the Council's senior market analyst, said apparel continued to be the major end-use for cotton, accounting for almost 56.6 percent of its total consumption. He attributed cotton's continuing strength in apparel to the increasing number of items that are made from either 100 percent cotton or from blends that are predominately cotton. "Had it not been for serious drops in denim and corduroy jean production-- major markets for all-cotton and cotton-rich blends -- cotton likely would have made a competitive gain in apparel," Howell said. Despite the decline in jean production, the men's and boys' slacks and jeans category again was cotton's No.1 end-use. It consumed some 811,000 bales. Other major apparel-end-uses included men's and boys' shirts--615,000 bales; women's slacks and jeans--356,000; men's and boys' underwear--311,000; and women's blouses and shirts--168,000. Over-all, cotton's competitive share of total fiber consumption was 25 percent, a decline of one percentage point from 1983. Last year's total U.S. consumption of cotton in all major end-uses was 5.90 million bales compared with 4.91 million in 1983 and 5.30 million in 1982. Howell said the decline was not totally unexpected due to anticipated gains in home furnishings and industrial sectors --categories in which cotton is weakest competitively. Preliminary data indicate total fiber volume increased about 2 percent in home furnishings and 7 percent in industrial uses while apparel uses dropped about 1 percent.

In the home furnishings sector, which accounted for 30.9 percent of cotton consumption, towels were the main cotton-consuming product. They used some 690,000 bales -- the second highest overall. Other major home furnishings uses for cotton were sheets--375,000 bales; drapery, upholstery and slipcover fabrics -- 305,000; and retail piecegoods -- 141,000. Industrial uses accounted for 12.5 percent of cotton usage,

Along with hot temperatures, the summer season in Texas may bring special lawn problems--drought, weeds, insects and disease. These lawn problems can cause concerns for homeowners unless accurate diagnosis and proper treatment takes place before they become severe. Dry spots, thin turf and weeds can result from improper watering, fertilizing and mowing practices. Follow recommended cultural practices before applying a chemical to correct lawn problems. Drought stress most often occurs in mid-summer and shows up as wilted, discolored turf. Adjust watering scheduled to wet the soil to a depth of four to six inches, and water only when grass shows symptoms of moisture stress. Also, raise mowing heights one-half inch to improve drought tolerance in mid-summer. Lack of nitrogen or iron often creates a lawn problem. Grass with a nitrogen deficiency may have a pale color and be heavily infested with weeds. A light application of a nitrogen fertilizer will improve the lawn's appearance. Grass leaves that have yellow stripes parallel to the leaf margins may be deficient in iron. A foliar application of iron sulfate at six ounces per 1,000 square feet will usually solve this problem. Leaf spot diseases are generally a problem when lawns are under stress and increase with high temperatures, drought, heavy shade and close mowing. While proper mowing and watering will reduce these problems, fungicides may be required to prevent serious damage. White grubs feed heavily on lawns during mid-summer, and their damage resembles drought injury. If turf does not respond to applications of water, suspect these insects. White grubs can be controlled with insecticides. Young advises drenching the lawn after an insecticide is applied for grub control, since grubs feed in the soil.

with the major end-use being medical supplies which consumed 166,000 bales.

WATCH WORK DURING HOT WEATHER--Hot, humid weather can be hazardous to your health, particularly if you work outdoors. Outdoor workers often suffer from such physical disorders as heatstroke, heat exhaustion, heat cramps and fainting when they do not take time to adjust to the heat, notes a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. To avoid heat-related problems, workers should take frequent rest breaks, drink fluids every 15 to 20 minutes, wear loose garments of thin cotton fabric to enhance air circulation near the skin, and slow down work speed. Workers also need protection from equipment heat sources and need to work in well ventilated areas.

Scanning Social Security

BY BOOTH ROBBINS

One of the main goals of the Supplemental Security Income program is to provide the blind and disabled with the opportunity to attain or regain the ability to become self-supporting. As a method of assisting the blind and disabled individuals under age 65, Social Security developed the PASS or Plan for Achieving Self-Support. The PASS allows income and resources which might otherwise preclude a recipient from receiving SSI to be excluded from countable income and resources while the recipient works toward a predetermined occupational objective.

Under the PASS provisions, the recipient in conjunction with vocational rehabilitation or a similar agency prepares a plan for the individual to achieve an occupational objective. Before the plan is effective, it must be approved by the Social Security Administration. For instance, an individual may desire to become a television repairman. While the disabled person is under the plan for self-support, any income and resources which are directly used to help him achieve his goal of television repairman, which is his occupational objective, may be excluded. Resources such as the equipment and tools which he will use in his training as a repairman will be excluded. In addition, income used to assist him in this goal will be also excluded until the individual meets the occupational objective.

The plan for self-support is important to many blind and disabled students as it offers a real chance to train or retrain for a new profession. The main bonus to this plan is the fact that the student is able to retain SSI eligibility while he attempts to learn the new trade in spite of the assets he may acquire.

NITROSAMINES
If your diet contains bologna, frankfurters, salami, and other cold-cut type meats containing nitrite preservatives, vitamin C can prevent the nitrite additives from forming cancer-causing nitrosamines in your stomach, reports Dr. S. Mirvish of U. of Nebraska. Some meat processors are adding vitamin C to nitrite-containing meats, however you may protect yourself by taking vitamin C supplements along with any meals that contain nitrite.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO IMPLEMENT RATES

General Telephone Company of the Southwest in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas gives notice of its intent to implement new exchange access rates for the provision of shared tenant and tenant resale services.

These proposed rates are applicable to customers of General Telephone Company of the Southwest, excluding hotel/motel customers, who provide local exchange telephone service of General Telephone Company of the Southwest to their tenants or patrons on a resale or shared use basis. This resale or sharing arrangement is normally provided utilizing a customer-provided PBX or other similar stored control switch capable of common control processing or other features commonly associated with a PBX "Smart" switch.

These proposed rates are designed to recover costs on a usage basis for local exchange telephone service access and are identical to General Telephone's "Optional Measured Service" rates. The monthly access rate will be $28.95 per trunk line and the usage rates are as follows:

Over	Up To and Including	Band	Set Up	Full Rate Period Each Minute
0	7 miles	A	$.025	$.015
7	14 miles	B	.035	.021
14	21 miles	C	.050	.030
21	28 miles	D	.070	.042
28		E	.090	.054

As this is a new service offering, we are unable to determine the number of customers who may be affected. Currently, there are no known prospective customers. Until any customer utilizes this new offering, there will be no effect on the revenues of the telephone company, and in any event, the telephone company does not expect revenues to be affected by more than 2 1/2 percent. These proposed rates, where applicable, will provide tariffed local exchange access to customers who then will provide shared or resale services to tenants.

These proposed rates have been suspended by the Public Utility Commission of Texas and will become effective as proposed or modified by order of the Commission on a date to be determined by the commission.

The proposed rate schedule is on file with the Commission for public inspection and is also available at any business office of General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumers Affairs Division at (512)458-0223 or (512)458-0227, or (512)458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Scenes From The Tahoka Rodeo Parade

Citizens lined the streets of downtown Tahoka Saturday, June 22, in anticipation of the Tahoka Rodeo Parade at 5 p.m. Many enjoyed homemade ice cream while they waited, sold by Chamberettes. Police sirens announced the coming of the parade, which included floats and several riding clubs. Children from the First Baptist Church Vacation Bible School enjoyed a ride on their float and Tahoka High School cheerleaders "whooped it up" as they rode by, and some parade entrants rode their own horse-drawn carts or motorized buggies.

GRAND ENTRY — Horses and riders lined up Saturday for the Grand Entry on the last night of Tahoka's three-day Rodeo. The annual rodeo was held June 20-22. LYNN COUNTY NEWS PHOTO

Children Lacking In Physical Activity

Do your children sit on the sofa watching television instead of playing ball or riding bikes on a nice day? If so, they're not alone.

A recently released government study shows that about half of young people today don't receive appropriate physical activity to maintain effectively functioning cardio-respiratory systems.

The "National Children and Youth Fitness Study" found that 50 percent of youth do not get the generally accepted 20 minutes of vigorous physical activity at least three times a week. The report also finds that average measurements of body fat for youngsters are significantly greater than those collected by the National Center for Health Statistics in the 1960's.

There are many causes for this lack of physical activity. But the report expressed special concern that school physical education programs still tend to use competitive sports and other activities that do not translate well into activities for adult life.

Parents need to take more responsibility for insuring that children get the physical activity they need for a healthy future. Parents and children can walk, jog, play tennis, swim and bicycle together. These are activities a child can carry on into adulthood along with special memories of doing them with mom and dad.

TDA report shows Panhandle residents reject nuke dump

(AUSTIN)—Scientific surveys show Panhandle residents strongly oppose location of a high-level nuclear waste repository in the area, according to a report released by Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower. The report, Panhandle Residents' Views of High-Level Nuclear Waste Disposal, was submitted as part of the official state review of U.S. Department of Energy Draft Environmental Assessments for the proposed nuclear repository sites in Texas.

Draft Environmental Assessments released last winter are the basis for DOE's ranking of the proposed Deaf Smith County site, in the Texas Panhandle, as one of three national finalists for the first repository. A proposed site in Swisher County could still be considered, too. Other finalists are in Nevada and Washington.

"While DOE paperpushers fussed over some fancy computer model they use to count cows, we got on the phone and talked directly to hundreds of Panhandle residents," Hightower said. "Our results are the only information available about how a representative cross-section of local residents believes a nuclear dump would affect their communities and their families."

"The message from our surveys is as clear as the good water from the Ogallala Aquifer through which DOE wants to punch holes to dump their hot wastes: Four out of five residents of the site counties said they would not allow construction of a nuclear waste repository in their area—if it were up to them. In Crosby and Moore counties, a little farther away from the proposed sites, the proportion of residents who oppose the repository is almost the same."

TDA's report details results of three surveys: (1) a telephone survey of residents of Deaf Smith and Swisher counties and southern Oldham County, the areas nearest to the proposed repository sites; (2) a telephone survey of residents of Crosby and Moore counties, two Panhandle counties somewhat farther from the proposed sites; and (3) a mail survey of farm operators in Deaf Smith and Swisher counties. The research, sponsored jointly by TDA and the Governor's Office, was supervised by Dr. Julie Brody of TDA's Office of Research. Funds for the project came from the DOE, which is obligated by federal law to help states review the site-selection process.

Results are based on interviews with 605 residents of the Deaf Smith, Swisher and southern Oldham county areas and 236 residents of the Crosby and Moore county areas, and written questionnaires from 564 Deaf Smith and Swisher farmers. This final report by TDA supplements preliminary results released last fall.

Pesticide regulation stays at TDA

(AUSTIN)—"Thank God and Greyhound, it's gone," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower after the House voted against creation of a new, million-dollar state board to regulate pesticides. The bill failed on a 77-60 vote.

"This bill has been tough on everyone involved, with a lot of strong feelings and intense effort coming from all parties. I'm extremely grateful to the House majority for their vote," Hightower said.

"Now that we have this emotional vote behind us, I look forward to working closely with House Agriculture Committee Chairman Robert Saunders and others to satisfy their legitimate concerns about the way Texas pesticide regulations are proposed and implemented," Hightower said. "With the compromises we had agreed to in the bill passed in the Senate by Senator Buster Brown, we have shown our commitment to approach this critical issue of public health in a way that is reasonable and fair to all Texans."

All treatment is approved by the attending physician. Treatment is available to anyone who needs it regardless of race, creed, color, sex, national origin

FOR POWER LINES

Out on the job, power lines bring needed electricity to the site. But they can be dangerous . . . if you don't watch up! You need to be especially careful when you are handling re-bar, pipes, scaffolding, or tools that are long enough to contact overhead lines. Contact with power lines is also a potential danger to operators of front-end loaders, dump trucks and any other equipment of unusual height.

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

STRESS ON FARM AND RANCH FAMILIES--The bitter economic realities of low prices, high debt loads and increased bankruptcies translate into stress for farmers, ranchers and their families. "Even a strong family can be temporarily disorganized under stress," says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service family life specialist Dorothy Taylor. "When pressures become greater than the strength of the family, or stress uses up all the family's resources, devastating effects like alcohol and drug abuse or suicides result."

Developing communication, decision-making and planning skills may help families better cope with stressful situations, Taylor says. But if farmers or ranchers notice the signs of severe stress in themselves or other family members, they should seek professional help, she advises.

STRESS SYMPTOMS--Stress in farm or ranch families is not unusual, considering their close working relationships and the overlap of their personal, family and work lives, says family life specialist Dorothy Taylor. She says that early signs or symptoms of too much stress are dreading to go to work, feeling tired all the time without cause, a change in sleeping habits and problems with digestion. Becoming extremely critical, developing negative attitudes about everything and everybody, withdrawing from people, becoming self-centered, being unusually worried about your health and losing faith in other people and yourself are also signs of stress. While farm and ranch families can develop some skills to better cope with stressful situations, in cases of severe stress, professional help may be needed, Taylor cautions.
