Council Hears About Phones And Zones

Tahoka City Council Monday night heard an explanation from General Telephone Co. district manager O.D. Hearn of Brownfield about a new $1 charge on basic service for single-line residences. The group also was briefed on a zoning case which was handled earlier in the day by the zoning commission, and heard a report of the last month's activities of the Tahoka Police Dept.

Hearn told Mayor Jim Solomon and council members that he was appearing only to give information about why the $1 charge has been added to the base telephone rate. He said the charge is mandatory; that telephone companies have no choice under directive of the federal government deregulation order except to institute this "access charge". He also noted that the charge would double, to $2, next year.

Hearn said there is a corresponding reduction in rates for calls going outside the state starting at the same time as the

$1 increase, and for persons who normally make about $18 worth of out-of-state phone calls, their bills would be about the same as always. For those making many interstate calls, bills should be lower, but for persons who make almost no long-distance calls or who normally call places in Texas, the $1 access charge will

4-H Horse Club District Results

The 4-H District Horse Show was held June 25. Lynn County participants were Jason Spence, who qualified for state; Jody Woodard, Bebo Willis and Timothy Young. Results were as follows: Grade Mare: Jody Woodard, 3rd.

Grade Gelding: Bebo Willis, 4th.

Western Riding: Jason Spence, 1st.

Reining: Jason Spence, 1st; Jody Woodard, 8th.

Poles: Timothy Young, 10th.

be just that much more to pay.

Council members were advised by City Administrator Carl Reynolds that the zoning board met Monday afternoon and refused a request for a variance in zoning in the area of N. 7th and Ave. L, where an Oklahoma resident wanted to place a mobile home. He said a good crowd of residents of the area appeared to protest any variance.

He also said that it really wasn't necessary for residents in such cases to appear in person, although they are welcome to do so, since comments either favorable or unfavorable to any such proposed action may be made by letter or phone prior to the zoning board meetings. The board ordinarily will not grant exceptions to zoning classifications when opposition is expressed by affected residents, he said.

Ray Don Box was appointed as a member of the zoning board, which also includes Johnny Wells, B.R. Taylor, James Roberts and Isidro Fuentes.

Police Chief Gary Morrison reported on his first month of operations in that position. He said that during June the police department made 14 arrests, including four in felony cases, issued 22 warning citations and 17 traffic tickets. He also said that 35 persons have shown up for two crime prevention meetings and that Lynn County 4-H members plan to help make Neighborhood Watch signs.

A vacation watch program has been started in cooperation with Lynn County Sheriff's office, Morrison said. Any persons who plan to be absent should contact either the police department or sheriff's office and fill out a form which officers will refer to while checking the homes daily.

Morrison also said since some citizens have voiced concern about speeding and running stop signs in residential areas, police plans to step up patrols in these areas.

The council accepted the resignation of Tom Cooper. All other council members were present.

Sanders New Manager Of Thriftway Here

Steve Sanders has been named new manager of Thriftway Supermarket in Tahoka, and began his duties as manager this week. Sanders previously had worked in the store with former manager Ken Holt, who has moved to Snyder.

Sanders comes to Tahoka from the Snyder store of the Holt family. Steve and his wife, Judy, have two children, Matthew, 2½, and Amanda, 1. They have moved to Tahoka. The family is Baptist.

Sanders graduated from high school in Liberal, Kansas, and graduated from Seward County College in Kansas. He worked for 10 years for Allied Supermarkets in Kansas and Oklahoma, including three years as a store manager before becoming associated with the Holts.

WILL THIS BURN ME? — Neither Raymond Hernandez, who is holding a sparkler, nor Nancy Escamilla, who is watching it carefully, seem sure that all this business is entirely safe. The five-year-olds are children of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Hernandez and Mr. and Mrs. Candelario Escamilla of O'Donnell. Many area youngsters will be playing with sparklers and older ones with firecrackers today, the Fourth of July. (LYNN COUNTY NEWS PHOTO)

Traffic Tickets, One Accident Are Reported

Tickets during the past week include two for running stop signs and one ticket each for running red light, running red light and no driver's license, running stop sign and no driver's license, one for excessive noise and defective vehicle, one for failure to control speed resulting in an accident, one for running red light, invalid inspection sticker and one ticket for no driver's license and no liability insurance resulting in an accident.

Charles McCullough of 1910 N. 8th reported to police on Monday that someone had fired bb's or pellets through the rear window of his Jeep while parked at his residence on 6-26 or 6-27.

Police investigated an accident at Lockwood and Main that involved a 1974 AMC driven by Domingo Amador of Tahoka and a 1972 Oldsmobile driven by Johnny Bob Atkinson of Tahoka. No injuries were reported.

Police arrested one Tahoka man on Monday for public intoxication and the man was taken to Lynn County Sheriff's office where he was booked and jailed.

Angel Gomez, 29, of Lubbock, was sentenced to 10 years in prison this week after pleading guilty of a recent burglary of a barn owned by Danny Lockaby south of Tahoka. Gomez was sentenced by District Judge George Hansard.

In jail during the week were one person each for public intoxication, traffic warrant, aggravated assault and driving while intoxicated.

DPS Estimates 17 To Die Over July 4 Weekend

The Texas Department of Public Safety estimates that as many as 17 people will die in traffic accidents in the state during the 30-hour July 4 holiday period.

"Though this year's estimate is lower than last year's death toll, the final figure could be even lower if Texans refrained from drinking and driving, stayed within the speed limit and buckled their safety belts," said Colonel Jim Adams, director of the DPS.

Last year, 20 persons died in crashes on Texas streets and highways during the July 4 holiday period. Three additional fatalities resulting from serious injuries during the period pushed the final toll to 23.

"This year's estimate of 17 deaths compared to the higher number of fatalities last year is in keeping with a downward trend in Texas traffic fatalities," said Adams.

In 1984, 48 per cent of the fatalities reported during the July 4 period resulted from accidents in which speed or DWI was listed as a contributing factor.

"In an effort to limit the number of deaths, additional DPS troopers will again be patrolling rural roads and highways during the holiday period," Adams said.

The Department's "Operation Motorcade", in which the number of fatalities will be reported at intervals through the period to remind Texas drivers of holiday

New Farm Supply Operation Begins; Manager Named

Farmland Industries of Kansas City, Mo., has leased the farm supply portion of Farmers Co-Operative Assn. No. 1, and on July 1 began operating that part of Farmers Co-Op under management of Joe Jolley, who comes to Tahoka from Carlsbad, N.M., where he had been associated with Farmers Co-Op of Carlsbad.

Farmland Industries, a farmer-owned regional supply co-op which operates in 22 states, will not operate the gin, which remains in the hands of the shareholders. Farmland, or Double Circle Farm Supply, will have all the supply business at the facility, including fuels, diesel, LP gas, tires, batteries, accessories, fertilizers, automobile service and related services.

For now, both the gin and the service will be operating out of the same office, Jolley said.

Jolley and his wife, Barbara, and their two sons, Mike, 2½, and Luke, 7, already have moved to Tahoka. He graduated from high school in Anchorage, Alaska and attended Washington State University. He has been in the farm supply business about seven years.

Jolley invited everyone "to come by and get acquainted and help me re-establish the business in such a way as to benefit the most people in the area."

Phone number for the operation, which will be called Double Circle Farm Supply, is 998-5528.

ALL YOU prospective parents: How would you like to have a baby which is 14 feet long and weighs several tons at birth? Well, obviously you wouldn't particularly like it, even though, if a human baby came in anywhere close to those numbers, the pro football scouts would be around with a contract in the first week.

Humpback whales are about that size when they are born, and they get up to 40 or 50 feet long in less than two years. That's what we were told recently by a naturalist who is part of a team of oceanographers doing prolonged studies on whales--how they live, where they go in winter, what they eat, their mating habits, etc. According to this guy, the serious scientific study of whales is relatively new. So new, in fact, that one of the things they don't know yet is how long whales live.

The naturalist who gave out this information (actually he was more specific than I have been on weights and lengths, but I lost the notes I took while he was speaking) gets paid very little for being part of the study group; he makes a living explaining whales to dumb tourists who go out on whale-watching cruises in the North Atlantic.

It was our privilege to be on one of those cruises, going several miles out into the ocean off Cape Ann, north of Boston. On this cruise, we spotted several whales, including a sighting which excited the naturalist. He said we were looking at a "right whale" (as opposed to the wrong one?), and said that morning's sighting was only the second time in three years for a right whale to be seen in that vicinity.

The guy was astounding. He could look out across the water a mile away and tell you that you were looking at a humpback whale named Julius (or something) because they see the same whale frequently in that area. He also said whales sometimes gain as much as a ton a day, and that even tops some of the records I've set after church dinners. And he said that the humpbacks eat plankton, which I think is a little ocean critter about the size of my little finger, so they obviously have to eat a heck of a lot of them. He said they just swim through the food with their mouths open. It would be great to do that with hot fudge sundaes.

There was one fact about this young scientist which dilutes his credibility a little. He is from New Mexico, where whales are not seen too often.

Have Safe July 4th Don't Drink & Drive

The 4th of July is celebrated by almost everyone. However, for some there will not be much to celebrate this 4th of July holiday as lives will be lost and people will be injured in traffic accidents.

Since this is usually a time for celebration, many believe the best way to celebrate is by drinking and then driving. Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of Public Safety, states, "At least 50 percent of all traffic deaths are alcohol related. Any one who drinks can be a problem once they are on the highway. Many of these drivers go undetected until they get into a tight traffic situation, at which time a brain depressed by alcohol cannot think fast enough to keep them out of an accident producing situation."

On any given day under the right circumstances even that one "little drink", with which the social drinker is allegedly satisfied, can be one too many, and he can become a menace on the road.

NEWS

Encouraging news to anyone who wants to learn—or relearn—skills for operating in the challenging and ever-changing field of media relations is a recently-published book called, "On Deadline: Managing Media Relations." Reviewers of the book say the authors, Carole Howard and Wilma Mathews, have drawn on years of solid experience to produce a "timely, lively, and very readable book." Published by Longman, "On Deadline," is available by phoning (914) 682-3344.

The book, considered almost an encyclopedia of media relations, is helpful to anyone who has ever been responsible for calling an editor or managing a full media relations program.

Cherries Jubilee

Try this simple dessert to "fire up" your dinner guests, or as an extra touch to a special dinner.

- | | |
|-----------------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 2 Cups Pitted Bing Cherries, with Juice | 1 Tablespoon Grated Orange Rind |
| 1/2 Cup Currant Jelly | 2 Tablespoons Heated Brandy |
| 1 Tablespoon Cornstarch | |

Pour juice from cherries into a saucepan with the currant jelly, cornstarch and orange rind. Cook over low heat until the jelly melts. Stir in the cherries. Cover and simmer 10 minutes.

At the table, pour the warm brandy over the cherries in the serving pan and flame. Spoon into meringue shells or over ice milk while cherries are still flaming.

Choose You This Day... Life Or Death?

SCRIPTURE: St. John 3:16

I wish I knew just how to tell
This story which I know so well,
Of Jesus, and His love for me,
And how He died to set men free
From sin and death.

I wish I knew just how to say
His words to turn your night to day,
And cause you just to trust and say
Jesus is the truth, the way
To life eternal!

Jesus came one silent night
To bring to earth His glory bright;
The power of God so quietly came
And all men were to know His name—
The Son of God ...

Jesus lived here, a man, yet still
Was God's own Son, to do His will;
He came to seek and save all men,
Both you and I can enter in,
To live by faith.

Jesus died, He gave His life
To pay our sin's most awful price
Of death for sin, and man was freed
To make a choice, in word and deed,
Of death or life.

Jesus died, and arose, the work is done
For man's salvation, by God's own Son;
None can earn it by works or fame;
By God's grace are ye saved
through your faith in His name—
Take Jesus and live!

Texas A&M needs $800,000 before constructing wildlife study facility

COLLEGE STATION — About a third of the money has been raised or pledged to build a $1 million-plus wildlife studies facility at Texas A&M University capable of housing some of the exotic animals rounded up last year from a ranch near Laredo.

Another $800,000 is needed — urgently, say university officials — before construction can begin on the star-shaped center which would be located on about 20 acres of land belonging to Texas A&M's veterinary school.

The center sports a special design to shelter several different varieties of animals as they undergo studies aimed at increasing basic knowledge about how they reproduce.

A 10-foot fence surrounding the site was recently finished at a cost of almost $30,000 paid for by private donations, said veterinary researchers heading the project — Drs. J.D. McCrady, Duane Kramer and Stephen Seager.

Plans also call for donations to finance a 50-foot-tall aviary within the fenced area where exotic birds being studied by Texas A&M researchers could enjoy considerable free flight, said Seager.

Fascinating Facts

About Fascia

Many homeowners are not aware how much the condition of the fascia (the facing board at the edge of the roof) and the soffit (underside of the roof overhang) contribute to the overall appearance of a home.

Keeping a roof looking tip-top requires the fascia and soffit to be in good condition.

Normally, you might not pay much attention to it, but if the soffit and fascia are in bad shape, they can ruin the looks of an otherwise attractive home.

Many people consider aluminum soffit and fascia an answer. The aluminum waterproofs the home at the roofline, one of the places where moisture tends to accumulate and cause the most damage. By choosing vented soffit, you can also protect your attic from moisture. To keep air circulating in your attic, you can alternate solid and vented soffit panels. Prospective buyers might consider prime fascia prima fascia evidence of a home in good condition.

New Home News

By Florence Davies — Call 924-7479

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Brummett and children moved this week to their new home in Lubbock. Their address is 2814 68th St.

Jack Poer of Tucumcari, N.M. and his daughter, Sharron Bogart of Phoenix, Ariz, spent Thursday and Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Poer.

Sherman Inman of Mulehoe was in St. Mary's Hospital Thursday until Saturday. He had an angiogram Friday and got a good report.

Kathryn Ann Higgins of Austin was here Wednesday until Sunday and Martha Pritchett of Midland came Friday to visit their mother, Mrs. Melba Roper. On Saturday they and Melba's father, Roland Thompson, attended the Thompson, Ellis, Duncan cousins reunion in Plainview. Mr. Thompson, 96, spent a week in St. Mary's Hospital. He was dismissed Friday and returned to the Golden Age Nursing Home.

We went to Lubbock after morning services Sunday to meet Carlton and Joyce Davies of Amarillo and their children, Randy and Diana and Kenna Jo and Mack of Lubbock for a dinner celebrating the young folks first wedding anniversary and a delayed father's day.

Mrs. Hiram Sharp was in Midland three days last week with her daughter, Mrs. Jimmie Ericson and family, and visited her father, E.R. Holt in Odessa.

Harland Dean's sister, Mrs. Doris McKnight of Lubbock, is in Methodist CCU after suffering a heart attack at her home Tuesday morning.

Ruby Overman left by plane Friday, June 21, and met her sister, Janelle Steincamp, in Dallas. They went to Reno, Nev. for the Viney family reunion. There were 57 present from Guam, Anchorage, Alaska, Wyoming, Oregon, California, Washington and Texas. The ladies returned home Monday.

Mrs. Myrt Crumley of Austin spent the weekend with friends, Rev. and Mrs. Ron Walker and David.

Margaret Edwards left Thursday, June 13, for Poulso, Washington to visit her son, John Lynn, and family. They moved to the Seattle area in December. John is special service project manager of the Bangor Naval Submarine Base in Bangor. Margaret returned home June 26.

David Unfred and family of El Cajon, Calif. are here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Unfred, and other relatives. Joe, Betty, Melissa and Matthew met their plane in Las Cruces, N.M. and they toured the White Sands area before coming here Sunday night.

Melba Jacobs' grandmother, Mrs. Viola Tipton of Petersburg, is in St. Mary's Hospital ICU after suffering a stroke at her 1984 TEXAS STATE CINDERELLA TOT — Angie Dee Heathington, daughter of Kenneth and Claudia Heathington of O'Donnell, and granddaughter of Hattie (Gardner) Heathington, will attend the 1985 Texas State Pageant July 3-7. During the week she will be presented as the 1984 State Cinderella Tot overall winner, and at the end of the week she will crown her successor. Angie will entertain during the pageant, singing several numbers, one of which was written for her by gospel composer Tina English of Lubbock. During the last year as State winner, she enjoyed a cruise, a trip to Disney World and a week in Miami, Florida. She has entertained at several pageants and benefits. In August she will compete at the International Finals in Miami, Florida.

home Saturday night. Her son-in-law, Loyd Murry, is reported slightly improved in St. Mary's CCU.

After visiting here about three weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Nettles, Brent McClung returned to his home in Austin by plane Saturday.

CRIME STOPPERS

Robert Earl Garris, 50, is charged with the March 25, 1984 shooting death of Glen Duckworth.

Investigators say Duckworth, 33, was sitting in his house with a friend watching television. Both men were getting very intoxicated, police reports indicate.

Suddenly a third man burst into Duckworth's house and fired one shot, striking the victim in the head. He died in an Amarillo hospital about 24 hours later. The shooting suspect fled on foot and successfully avoided a police dragnet.

Detectives say they have no idea what prompted the shoot-

Shifting income to children reduces taxable income

COLLEGE STATION — Tuition increases passed by the legislature could provide the impetus for parents of college-age children — and those who have children approaching college age to take advantage of tax saving measures to help pay for college, says a Texas A&M University accounting professor and tax specialist.

By utilizing techniques for diverting financial resources to their offspring, parents could end up paying less than they would before the three-fold tuition increase now pending with Gov. Mark White, points out Dr. Lawrence Bravence.

The only catch is that parents must have resources to divert, Bravence adds.

The action involves high-rate taxpayers (parent) shifting their income to low-rate taxpayers (children), which reduces taxes paid and provides extra revenue in the long-run for college.

"There are various alternatives people can learn from their attorneys or tax accountants, but one of the best today is to put property in a 10-year trust," says Bravence. "This can be done not only for children going to college, but for children interested in starting their own business or for the aged who need financial support."

ing. However, shortly after the slaying, a warrant was issued for Garris' arrest.

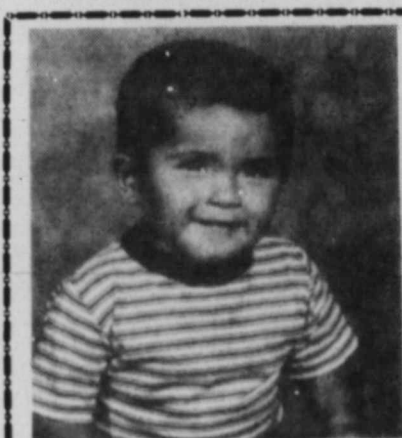

He is described as a white male, 5-9, 160 pounds, with brown hair, balding on top, and blue eyes. He was last seen wearing a beard.

Garris uses several aliases, including the name Robert Johnson and the nickname "Virginian". He is a painter by trade.

This week Garris has been added to the Texas Most Wanted List. A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered for information leading to his capture.

Anyone who knows where Garris is located is asked to call the Texas Crime Stoppers Advisory Council toll-free at 1-800-252-8477 or their local Crime Stoppers program. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO IMPLEMENT RATES

General Telephone Company of the Southwest in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas gives notice of its intent to implement new exchange access rates for the provision of shared tenant and tenant resale services.

These proposed rates are applicable to customers of General Telephone Company of the Southwest, excluding hotel/motel customers, who provide local exchange telephone service of General Telephone Company of the Southwest to their tenants or patrons on a resale or shared use basis. This resale or sharing arrangement is normally provided utilizing a customer-provided PABX or other similar stored control switch capable of common control processing or other features commonly associated with a PABX "Smart" switch.

These proposed rates are designed to recover costs on a usage basis for local exchange telephone service access and are identical to General Telephone's "Optional Measured Service" rates. The monthly access rate will be $28.95 per trunk line and the usage rates are as follows:

Over	Up To and Including	Band	Set Up	Full Rate Period Each Minute
0	7 miles	A	$.025	$.015
7	14 miles	B	.035	.021
14	21 miles	C	.050	.030
21	28 miles	D	.070	.042
28		E	.090	.054

As this is a new service offering, we are unable to determine the number of customers who may be affected. Currently, there are no known prospective customers. Until any customer utilizes this new offering, there will be no effect on the revenues of the telephone company, and in any event, the telephone company does not expect revenues to be affected by more than 2 1/2 percent. These proposed rates, where applicable, will provide tariffed local exchange access to customers who then will provide shared or resale services to tenants.

These proposed rates have been suspended by the Public Utility Commission of Texas and will become effective as proposed or modified by order of the Commission on a date to be determined by the commission.

The proposed rate schedule is on file with the Commission for public inspection and is also available at any business office of General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumers Affairs Division at (512)458-0223 or (512)458-0227, or (512)458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

BREAST FEEDING

Are breast-fed babies healthier? The medical profession is realizing that human milk possesses a chemistry, an inner power, that is uniquely suited to the human child. Human milk is more readily assimilated than cow's milk and does not cause allergic reactions — it also possesses immune factors which protect against various infections. Also important, breast-feeding helps the mother get her body back in shape. The baby's sucking causes the uterus to contract, which helps to prevent hemorrhage after delivery.

SPIDER MITES--TINY PESTS CAUSE BIG PROBLEMS

Spider mites are tiny but they can cause big problems in home gardens.

These pests prefer tomatoes, beans and peas and do most of their damage in hot, dry weather.

Spider mites, also called red spiders, are only 1/60 inch in length and vary in color from white to green to red.

The tiny pests can build up quickly and completely engulf plants. They lay eggs on the underside of leaves, which hatch in four to five days. A complete life cycle takes three weeks, and as many as 20 overlapping generations can occur in a single year.

Mites spin a thin web which often can be seen on the underside of an infested leaf. They feed by inserting their mouth-parts into the tissue and sucking juice from the plant. While feeding, they inject toxic substances into the plant.

Infestations of spider mites can be identified by tiny white spots on the underside of a leaf. Heavy infestations cause bleaching or yellowing, first along the main leaf veins and then throughout the plant. The plant may also shed buds and small fruit. Spider mites can completely defoliate a plant if not controlled.

Control of spider mites is often difficult and requires from two to four applications of insecticide at five-day intervals. Plants should be checked frequently for spider mites since the pests can build up rapidly.

Insecticides registered for controlling spider mites in gardens are diazinon, kelthane, malathion, ethion and sulfur. However, avoid using sulphur on vine plants as severe plant change could occur.

As always, read and follow label directions on all insecticides.

Tick populations increase dramatically with warmer weather, causing inconvenience and health hazards for homeowners and pets.

Ticks are biting, blood-sucking parasites, and their bites may become inflamed and infected due to toxic secretions. Tick paralysis, tularemia and Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever may be transmitted through tick bites.

Brown dog, American dog and Lone Star ticks are the most common in Texas home landscapes. Brown dog ticks are reddish-brown while American dog ticks are yellowish-brown when unfed and slate gray when engorged. The brown dog tick rarely occurs in rural areas; instead, it hides in crevices around buildings. American dog ticks are most often found along roads and trails. The Lone Star tick has a characteristic white spot on its back and commonly referred to as a spot backed tick.

A female tick may lay several thousand eggs, beginning a two-to-four-month life cycle. Remaining stages--six legged larva (seed tick) and eight legged nymph and adult--generally develop on separate host animals. After each feeding the tick drops off the host and temporarily hides until the next developmental stage.

Regardless of the species, control is basically the same for all ticks. Heavy infestations in the home may require treatment by professionals. Spot treatments with household sprays containing diazinon, Dursban, Baygon, resmethrin or Vapona will provide excellent control of light infestations.

Outside the home where vegetation is thin, use 5 percent carbaryl (Sevin) dust at 20-25 pounds per acre. Increase the rate as vegetation thickens. If using a spray, mix five tablespoons of 25 percent diazinon emulsifiable concentrate (EC) in one gallon of water. Apply one gallon of spray per 1,000 square feet.

Chlorpyrifos (Dursban) is also suggested for tick control. Apply 1.5 ounces of material per 1,000 square feet of treated area.

When spraying, pay particular attention to roadsides, animal trails, paths and pet resting areas. Retreatment may be required if tick populations continue to be observed. Always read the label on the insecticide container for application instructions. Properly store any unused portion of the insecticide under lock and key to prevent accidental child poisoning.

Most species of ticks can't survive in cleared areas where they are exposed to excessive sunlight and predators. Keeping areas clear of debris is important in tick control.

Hikers and campers may want to use repellent materials on their jacket cuffs or the bottoms of their trousers. Also Young recommends tucking trousers into the tops of socks or boots. Sleeves buttoned tight will also aid in protection.

Pet owners are advised to examine their animals frequently. Light infestations can be controlled by rubbing carbaryl dust into the pet's hair. Also, treat the animal's sleeping quarters every week.

If a tick becomes attached to the skin, remove it with a slow, steady pull. Be careful not to break off its mouthparts. A drop of chloroform, isopropyl alcohol, ether, acetone or fingernail polish rubbed over the tick may help remove it. It can be removed a half-hour later with less damage to the skin because its oxygen supply is reduced.

Always apply an antiseptic to the tick bite. If your hands touched the skin, wash them thoroughly with soap and water to reduce the risk of spreading disease.

RICE OUTLOOK CONTINUES BLEAK--Rice farmers in Texas and other states are faced with the same situation as other producers--large crop supplies and increased competition abroad. These factors are keeping the lid on rice prices and thus pushing acreage down, points out an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The U.S. rice crop will likely be down to only two million acres this year compared to 2.78 million acres last year. Prices for the '85 crop should fall in the $8 to $8.50 per hundredweight range. An export PIK (payment in kind) program could help the struggling U.S. rice industry. In the meantime, farmers must increase productivity and yields per acre to reduce per unit costs.

New Publication On Conservation Is Offered

"Conservation Tillage: Things to consider," is a new publication to help farmers decide how conservation practices can be used in their operations. This publication, from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, provides information on basic conservation systems, their advantages and disadvantages; costs; and effects on erosion, crop yields, pest control and soil fertility.

Highlights of research underway on problems associated with some practices are discussed. Sources of computerized information on conservation tillage systems are also given.

For a copy of the publication, Agriculture Information Bulletin No. 461, write the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402. Price is $1.50 each.

For assistance in planning conservation tillage practices, contact District Conservationist Eual Davis at the local office of USDA's Soil Conservation Service, or call 998-4622.

Cotton Research, Promotion Rule Change Proposed

John Block, Secretary of Agriculture, has asked for comments from producers on his proposed regulations to increase assessment levied on upland cotton. He has proposed increasing the supplemental per bale assessment for cotton research and promotion from four-tenths of one percent to six-tenths of one percent to offset the effects of increased cost and competition from foreign produced cotton. The proposal would amend the Cotton Board rules and regulations to allow this increase.

Comments on the proposal must be sent to Naomi Hacker, Chief, Research and Promotion Staff, Cotton Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, DC 20250 or call 202/447-2259. All comments must be received by July 9, 1985.

A copy of the Federal Register showing a complete proposed rule may be reviewed at the local ASCS office.

By GREG HENLEY

4-H'ers Enjoy Wood Science

4-H'ers who enjoy doing things with their hands will find the 4-H Wood Science program "a natural".

This program helps youth learn all about different types of wood and wood products and can provide a number of career opportunities, says Greg Henley, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Specific objectives of the 4-H Wood Science program include the following:

- *Develop an understanding of and appreciation for the fiber products of the forest.
- *Acquire knowledge and develop skills in the selection and uses of various types of wood and wood products.
- *Acquire knowledge and develop skills in the selection, care and safe use of woodworking tools and machines.
- *Learn about the business and economics of the forest products industry.
- *Learn about environmental protection and the wise use of natural resources.

Outstanding accomplishments in the program are rewarded by the national 4-H Council, which provides four trips to National 4-H Congress and four $1,000 scholarships, all at the national level.

Additional information about the 4-H Wood Science program is available from the county Extension office.

I think we should close the window.
Buffalo and Rochester, NY, lead the nation in annual average snowfalls, even though they are further south than such cities as Minneapolis and St. Paul, MN.

Cotton Today

Plan Would Make Cotton More Competitive: An industry proposal aimed at making cotton more competitive in domestic and export markets and at the same time protecting producer income has been placed before U.S. Department of Agriculture officials and congressional leaders.

National Cotton Council President Samuel B. Hollis of Memphis, who led the industry delegation to Washington, D.C., said the Council proposes including the plan in the new farm bill.

"The plan would give negotiable certificates redeemable in CCC-owned commodities to persons regularly engaged in buying and selling upland cotton who have entered into an agreement with the Commodity Credit Corporation to participate in the program. Under ordinary circumstances, neither the producer nor the user would handle the certificate," Hollis said.

The certificates would have a value per pound equal to the difference between the loan rate and the world price as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture each week.

Among the plan's advantages, Hollis noted, is that it uses CCC-owned stocks, thus avoiding new cash outlays by government and ending carrying costs on those commodities.

Hollis explained that the work by the industry delegation is in line with a resolution approved recently by the Council's Board of Directors.

The resolution calls for the Council to work for a market enhancement program that (1) makes U.S. cotton competitive in world markets without adversely affecting producer income, and (2) provides equal treatment for domestic and export users.

In addition to Hollis, the delegation included Sykes Martin, Courtland, Ala., producer; R.A. Aker, Phoenix, ginner; Jack McDonald, deatur, Ill., crusher; Eduardo Esteve, Dallas, merchant; Tom Smith, Bakersfield, Calif., cooperative, and Daniel Frierson, Chattanooga, manufacturer.

Guide to coastal plants published by Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION — Beachcombers have long entertained themselves by walking up and down the Texas coast, collecting shells. Now a new book from the Texas A&M University Press offers a new pastime: identifying plants along the shore.

Plants, the basis of life in the dunes and wetlands, often go unnoticed by visitors, according to authors Mary Michael Cannatella and Rita E. Arnold. For those willing to explore beyond the hotels, restaurants and amusement parks that are part of the coastal landscape, a variety of beautiful and interesting plants, both exotic and common, are waiting, the authors say in "Plants of the Texas Shore — A Beachcomber's Guide."

Coastal regulars and newcomers alike will enjoy this easily understood book that was published in conjunction with the Sea Grant College Program at Texas A&M. It contains 77 pages and is available for $5.95.

Texas A&M Press book depicts 49 scenes from along the Rio Grande

COLLEGE STATION — The Rio Grande, perhaps North America's most magnificent river, is portrayed in all its splendor in "Watercolors of the Rio Grande," a recent offering of the Texas A&M University Press.

"Watercolors of the Rio Grande" is a collection of 49 paintings — 33 in full color — by Texas artist Michael Frary, a professor of art at the University of Texas at Austin.

Frary's watercolor paintings follow the river along its 1,800-mile journey from its beginnings in South Colorado to the point where it meets the sea at the Gulf of Mexico. A map identifies the location of each of the 49 paintings. The book also includes a narrative in which the artist shares both what he's learned of the river's history and his own thoughts with readers.

"Watercolors of the Rio Grande" is available for $37.50 from the Texas A&M University Press.

Couple's Dream For A Baby Realized

By BARBARA BARTON
Globe-News Staff Writer
(Reprinted from the Amarillo Globe News, May 21, 1985.)

Her tiny brown hand squeezes the end of her grandfather's finger. Her head, heavy with sleep, tilts forward onto her chest.

Jenny Lee Rhoads drifts into a deep slumber, dreaming of the alleyways teeming with homeless urchins and other vagabonds of the Korea she left behind.

Yoo Na Lee, the sleeping cherub's birth name, arrived at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport with three other infants little more than a week ago from Seoul, South Korea. Among the hive of anxiously waiting parents stood Michael and Sara Rhoads of Amarillo.

The couple was apprehensive, fearing that the child promised to them by the adoption agency would not be among the passengers departing the plane. For one year, the Rhoads had carefully prepared Yoo's passage from Korea. Reams of official paperwork and long-distance phone calls kept the couple teetering on the fiber between triumph and failure.

Finally, the infants emerged one by one in the arms of the adoption agency's chaperones. The heavy somberness of the new parents melted into sobs and howls of excitement. The Rhoads still waited.

The last infant to deplane was Yoo. Her guardian released her to the Rhoads with a single baby bottle filled with water — the child's only baggage.

"It was the longest wait," Rhoads said. "I tell you, it was a wild experience."

Mrs. Rhoads had already chosen the name Jenny for her daughter, Yoo Na Lee, but kept Lee as a reminder of her daughter's heritage.

The couple recalled the year touched by worry and complicated steps of adoption.

"We were like blind men walking through a dark cave," Rhoads said as he described the procedure.

The couple contacted several adoption agencies for white, American babies, but "the thing that turned us away was the three to four year waiting period." Also, the staggering fees each agency charged dissuaded the couple.

Mrs. Rhoads, who was worked as a checker — clipping births and deaths from the daily newspaper — at the Amarillo Credit Bureau came across a picture of several couples picking up babies at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport. The caption underneath the picture included Dillon Children's Services, the adoption agency instrumental in bringing the babies to the couples.

With rekindled hope of adopting a baby, the Rhoads contacted the Tulsa agency.

"I was just curious," Rhoads said. "I didn't think it would lead to anything."

The agency arranges its adoptions through the Eastern Child Welfare Society, Inc., one of four Korean agencies working directly with American inter-country adoption programs.

Mrs. Rhoads wasn't counting on a positive encounter with Dillon because "the previous times we've tried at adoption agencies, we didn't think anything would happen."

Because of the unknown reactions from the medication Mrs. Rhoads must take for her epilepsy, she and her husband decided to adopt a child rather than risking the health of an unborn child.

The couple completed the standard pre-application booklet sent by the Dillon agency. Additional procedures of the adoption process included physical examinations, having a set of fingerprints made at the police department, which would then travel through an international crime computer, and arrange home studies with a social worker, Rhoads said.

Not only were the couple's private matters thoroughly investigated but the agency also contacted friends, employers and their pastor.

The cost of adopting Jenny, which will eventually total $4,200, proved less than adopting a white child. To afford the adoption fee, the couple has gradually increased their savings.

"Sara quit her job," Rhoads said. "It's going to be an adjustment, but it's worth it."

The familiar anguish of hopelessness returned when the couple was placed on a waiting list by the agency.

"(The agency) told us it could take three months to forever" to acquire a baby, Rhoads said.

Word of the adoption spread. Surprisingly, the Rhoads' learned of several relatives adopting Korean babies. A cousin of Rhoads in Colorado already had adopted a Korean baby. One of Mrs. Rhoads' relatives in Plainview had adopted a Korean boy — from the same agency!

In February, the couple received a picture of the Jenny from Dillon for their approval. Immediately, the Rhoads were smitten by the fuzzy-headed infant.

"After seeing her picture, there was no way we could refuse her," Rhoads said. Information accompanying the picture gave the harsh truth of Jenny's birth — she was illegitimate, Rhoads said.

According to the "Initial Social History," Yoo Na Lee was born to parents both 31 years old in the South Korean province of Kyung Sang Buk-do. Both parents had limited formal education.

The couple placed Yoo for adoption with the Eastern Child Welfare Society, Inc. where she became case No. 84C-3209. She was then placed with a foster mother until suitable parents could be found.

Throughout the adoption process, the couple has encountered almost complete, overwhelming support and enthusiasm from friends and relatives. One friend, however, unobliquely offered his negative thoughts to Rhoads.

"He thought it was like a dog pound and getting a kid," referring to adopting a foreign child, Rhoads said, quickly adding "that he was more worried about us getting a sick baby than I was."

Fortunately, a visit to a pediatrician shortly after Jenny arrived revealed her excellent health.

Dreams of Jenny's arrival occurred to Mrs. Rhoads just days before the Dillon agency telephoned her at work. The call unnerved her.

"I was shaking," Mrs. Rhoads said. "(The agency) said, 'We have a surprise for you.' I couldn't talk after that." She had one of the girls in her office call her husband.

"I couldn't recognize the voice for the first few minutes," Rhoads said because his wife was breathing so hard.

"Are you going to get the car running by Friday?" Mrs. Rhoads recalled saying to her husband. At that instant, Rhoads knew he and his wife would become parents.

Since Jenny's arrival, the couple has experienced different emotions.

"It used to be, I'd come home and work around in the house or out in the yard," Rhoads said.

"Now I come home and everybody's here."

"It hasn't soaked in yet," Mrs. Rhoads said. "We keep thinking we're babysitting." The Rhoads must still complete more paperwork before finalizing the adoption.

Meanwhile, the pink-gowned infant will remain in the gentle clasp of her new family.

Jenny was born Dec. 28, 1984 in Korea. She arrived in Texas May 10, 1985.

Grandparents are Billy and Shirley Rhoads of Tulsa and Mary Lou Jackson of Ft. Worth. Mr. and Mrs. Newman Bartley of Tulsa are Mike Rhoads' grandparents and great-grandparents of Jenny, and Alpha Rhoads of Wilson is great-grandmother.

BY REV. YNES M. ALEMAN

Es muy triste saber lo que es mejor para nuestra vida, y no hacerlo. No siempre todo lo nuevo, es lo mejor. Hay cosas muy viejas y no han cambiado. Tenemos el sol, la luna y las estrellas. Los caminos de Dios, tambien son muy antiguos y estos son lo mejor. La Biblia dice: Asi dijo Jehova: paraos en los caminos, y mirad, y preguntad por las sendas antiguas, cual sea el buen camino, y andad por el, y hallareis descanso para vuestra alma. Mas dijeron: No andaremos. (Jeremias 6:16) Los caminos de Dios aunque viejos, nos ofrecen felicidad y satisfaccion para nuestras almas. Lo que Dios ha hecho en el pasado, garantiza nuestro presente y futuro.

It's very sad to know what's best for our own life and not gone for it. The new is not always the best. There are things which are old and are the best: The Sun, Moon and the Stars. God's ways are old and ancient, but the best. The Bible says: Thus says the Lord, "Stand by the ways and see and ask for the ancient paths, where the good way is, and walk in it: and you shall find rest for your souls. But they said, We will not walk in it." God's ways nevertheless are old, they offer happiness and satisfaction for our souls. What God has done in the past, guarantees or assures our present and future.

We invite you to visit with us, this Sunday at 9:45 a.m. Sunday School, at 10:45 a.m. Preaching.

WATCH

UP FOR POWER LINES

Power lines can be dangerous.

Touching irrigation pipe to a power line can divert the electricity through the pipe... and to anyone in contact with it. In this part of the country, this is the leading cause of farm injuries and deaths in electricity-related accidents. Any equipment of unusual height represents a potential danger. Lift arms on field equipment, combine auger spouts and even radio antennas can cause serious injury or death if they, and you, make contact with a power line.

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

Lions Elect New International President

Joseph L. Wroblewski, of Forty Fort, Pennsylvania, was elected president of The International Association of Lions Clubs at the association's 68th annual convention held in Dallas, Texas, June 19-22, 1985.

Joseph L. Wroblewski

As president of the world's largest service club organization — with over 36,000 clubs in 158 countries and geographical areas — Wroblewski will travel throughout the world as the association's ambassador. He will observe service activities sponsored by local clubs and meet with heads of state and community leaders to promote Lionism and the theme of his presidential program: WE SERVE BETTER — TOGETHER. The program focuses on Lion activities in the areas of drug awareness and diabetes education and research.

A Lion for over 30 years, Wroblewski is also past president of both the North-eastern Heart Association and the National Employment Association. He is a funeral director.

Wool/Mohair competition ready to go

(AUSTIN)—"Make It Yourself with Wool" is the title of the statewide fashion show and competition sponsored by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Auxiliary and the Texas Department of Agriculture during this year's State Fair of Texas in Dallas next October.

The fashion show competition is part of a statewide promotion of wool and mohair, as well as other natural fibers, which are all major agricultural products in Texas.

Entry forms are available for pre-teen, junior, senior and adult categories. District and state winners will receive gifts and state junior and senior winners will participate in the national "Make It Yourself With Wool" finals in San Diego in January, 1986.

District competitions this year will be held in San Marcos on Sept. 14; in Nacogdoches on Sept. 21; in Amarillo, Denton, San Angelo, Kerrville and Fort Stockton on Oct. 5; and in Houston on Oct. 12.

For more information, contact TDA's marketing division or your County Extension Agent.
