Tahoka Couple Among Mission Group Flown Out Of Haiti Friday

A Tahoka couple and a former Tahoka and New Home minister now living in Lamesa were among a group of 21 members of a Volunteer In Missions team which was in Haiti for 12 days before being rushed to the airport at Port-Au-Prince and flown out of the country last Friday, two days earlier than scheduled.

The decision to get the mission workers out of Haiti was made just hours before they were able to leave the country, which had been plagued during the week by rioting and protests against the current government regime of Jean-Claude Duvalier, ruler of the impoverished nation for the last 15 years.

Dalton Wood, publisher of the Lynn County News, and his wife, Lenda, were members of the mission work team sponsored by International Child Care (ICC) and which had planned to stay for 14 days in Haiti, primarily working on construction and remodeling of a hospital for children with tuberculosis. Also on the team was Rev. Hugh Daniel of Lamesa, formerly Methodist pastor at New Home and later at Tahoka.

"We never did feel that we were in danger of being harmed deliberately," Wood said Saturday after returning to Tahoka. "But we were concerned that we might not be able to leave the country Sunday as scheduled, so we were all relieved to get back to the states Friday... Too, there was a possibility of being caught between factions and getting hurt, since there was some rioting and shooting during the height of the tension last Thursday and Friday." He added that the group actually saw none of the incidents or even heard any shooting, since team leaders had told the group to stay in their motel and off the streets late Thursday and Friday.

The Woods also affirmed what many others have been quoted as saying in the national media: North Americans are well-liked in Haiti and no anti-American feelings are in evidence anywhere.

Judging from the brief time we were there and from those we came into contact with, I would describe the Haitian people as mostly very poor, but very hard workers when they can get jobs and also very appreciative of the help from various outside sources. There are lots of missionaries and church workers of many Protestant denominations doing great service in Haiti," Wood said.

Mrs. Wood said the group's contact with the workers and patients at Grace Children's Hospital in Port-Au-Prince and with a Methodist dental and medical clinic which serves both children and adults was a rewarding emotional experience.

"To see those little boys and girls—some in pitiful condition—really tears at your heart, but is so great to see that many are being cured of their diseases and sickness," she said.

Grace Children's Hospital is a Methodist project; it is supported by several churches and other organizations working with ICC. Methodists do contribute to the support of the hospital, however, and all the members of the team, five Texans and 16 from Michigan, were Methodists. The other Texans in the group were layman Jack Gallarneau of Amarillo and Rev. Jerry Klaverweiden, pastor at Miami, TX and formerly Methodist minister at Lorenzo.

The mission volunteers arrived in Haiti Jan. 19 and were met by Priscilla Schleigh, public relations coordinator for Grace Children's Hospital. A large quantity of drugs, toiletries, nurse uniforms and other items donated to the hospital by churches represented by the team members was delivered; on inventory later it was given a retail value of more than $20,000.

Items sent by Tahoka First United Methodist Church were valued at $1,900.

On Jan. 20, the group visited the Methodist Dental and Medical Clinic and school, operated by Sister Paulette Holley, an ordained Methodist deaconess who has been with the facility for 20 years. At this clinic about 50 persons a day are treated, mostly children.

Later in the day the team visited College Bird, a Methodist school and church and the headquarters location of all Methodist churches in Haiti, and also visited a Baptist mission in Petionville, just outside Port-Au-Prince.

On Tuesday the team began what eventually totaled six days of work at Grace Hospital, with members being assigned various tasks such as painting buildings and gates, assembling and painting bedside stands, gardening, building shelves for a new pharmacy area, sewing and working with files of x-rays, and tearing out a concrete wall. On most of the jobs they worked side by side with Haitian workers.

During the 12 days the group also visited the Christian Institute for Rural Life, where Haitians are trained in better methods of raising stock and growing things, and attended church services at Duplan, a rural community where the oldest and fastest-growing Methodist Church in the country is located, and visited an Episcopal school for handicapped children. They also attended a non-denominational service conducted in English for

SILENT REMINDER — Students at Tahoka High School were reminded of the grim fate of the space shuttle Challenger as they walked beneath the flags flown at half mast last week. When teacher Christa McAuliffe was killed in the Challenger's fiery explosion, students throughout America were stunned and violently shown that space exploration is still in the pioneering stage. ## Thefts Listed, Two Other Cases Cleared Lynco Automotive, located on Lockwood, reported to police that a front seat had been removed and three wire wheel covers valued at approximately $200 stolen from a 1974 Chevrolet Monte Carlo. The theft was believed to have occurred between Friday and Monday.

Police reported on Monday that 13 traffic signs located between the Starlite Drive-In and Texas Highway Department were knocked down or damaged on Monday night. Police matched tire tracks and paint to a red 1985 GMC pickup that belonged to a 17-year-old Tahoka High student. The suspect is currently being questioned by county authorities, but was not arrested.

Police have recovered a 35mm camera during the past week that was taken during a September burglary from Moorehead, Minn.

Police cleared the theft of the air compressor belonging to Dwan Jones on Friday and a Tahoka man was charged this week for that theft.

Police arrested a 17-year-old male for disorderly conduct on Sunday. The man posted bond, was released from jail, and was Americans in the country, mostly missionaries.

"The Duplan church service, conducted in Creole, was a very moving one," Wood said. The special music sung by the choir in Creole, including the hymn, "How Great Thou Art," was highly praised by the team members.

One day the group visited the southern coastal city of Jacmel and swam in the sea after traveling through beautiful mountainous country to get to Jacmel.

"We finished up all the work we had scheduled for us at Grace Hospital before we left, so all we really missed was a trip to the island of La Gonave," the Tahoka newspaperman explained. After the problems in Haiti became major news in the U.S. newspapers and on television toward the end of the month, there was much concern by family members back in the states for all team members.

"The tension toward the end of the trip certainly didn't spoil it for us," Wood said. "All of us appreciate the concern that was expressed and we were glad to be home. But overall, it was a great experience, and the Haitians are very fine people who deserve and appreciate any help they can get."

later served a warrant on resisting arrest and was again transported to Lynn County Jail.

Police made one DWI arrest during the past week.

Dept. of Public Safety officers arrested two persons in a vehicle on U.S. 87 north just inside the Lynn County line and they were being held for investigation of possible narcotics violation.

Charles Stenholm Is Candidate For Re-Election

Charles W. Stenholm has announced that he will be a candidate for a 5th term as the representative from the 17th Congressional District of Texas. Accompanied by his wife Cindy, Stenholm expressed appreciation for support from friends through the years. He also assured the group that he is cautiously optimistic regarding the economic future of the country.

"If we can influence 218 votes in the House of Representatives for more legislation to get our fiscal house in order and muster the political courage to continue on this course, this nation will be vibrant and productive," Stenholm said.

Repeating his promise to stay in close contact with the vast district of 35 counties, he urged everyone to take full advantage of our freedoms and opportunities as citizens of this great nation by participating in the political process.

Stenholm concluded by saying, "I am thankful that I can face each decision that arises with confidence that you are behind me. I really believe that these past years of experience in Congress make it possible for me to serve the 17th Congressional District and our country in a better way than ever before."

WOODWORK

BY DALTON

RIOTING and political turmoil in Haiti have been prominent in the news during the last week or so, and I'm here to say that despite all the upheaval, North Americans in Haiti are pretty safe, because Americans are well-liked by the Haitian people.

I'm also here to say that I'm glad I'm here to say anything, because there were a few hours last Friday when we wondered if we were going to get out of Port-Au-Prince without problems.

When someone asks me "How was Haiti?" I am tempted to say "Revolution." But while this might be a good quip so far as the political situation is concerned, it would be unfair to apply that word in its other sense to the country and the people. The scenery is beautiful except where it is marred by the signs of poverty. There are mountains, palm trees, green fields and the sea, and the people are proud and intelligent and willing to work if they can find any work to do. Most are not educated, but that doesn't mean they aren't smart. It's just that most cannot afford to go to school.

There were five Texans, including me and my wife, in a group of volunteer mission workers who went to Haiti (there should be another story about all that somewhere in this issue) on Jan. 19 to see how some of the churches' mission dollars are being spent and to work on remodeling and painting and other projects needed at a children's hospital.

The people we worked with were friendly and helpful and they appreciated our coming down to help them.

Around our motel, though, we were constantly besieged by peddlers of carved objects, beads, woven articles and paintings. We bought a lot of stuff we wanted and also a lot of stuff we didn't want, mainly because we knew these vendors had no other source of income.

Drivers in Port-Au-Prince, a city of about 600,000 but with only two or three traffic lights, would make good kamikaze pilots. All the driving is done with a horn and guts. They pass within millimeters of each other and also come that close to the pedestrians. They are good drivers (all the bad ones already have been killed, no doubt), but going for a ride is quite an exciting experience. We noticed, though, that none of the drivers ever seem to get angry with the other drivers, even when they cut in front of them or block them off.

With the government controlling television broadcasts and with no newspapers (that we saw, anyway), it was a bit strange to be in a country where we had no information on what was happening there, except for rumors. It really made me appreciate our freedom of the press and the basic right of the people to know what is going on.

We played golf one Saturday when we weren't working, and I hit a drive more than 400 yards off the first tee. It was 150 yards straight out and 250 yards straight down, because the tee box was on top of a small mountain.

It was winterjime in Haiti; the high temperature usually was around 90 degrees.

When things got a bit tense on Friday before we were to leave on Sunday, we managed to get out of the country early.

The unofficial motto of Haiti is "no problem," since this is what we heard frequently from all the citizens whenever we would request help. This is the kind of attitude which keeps the country functioning despite the fact they really do have some problems; they just jump in and do the best they can.

Our mission leader, a preacher from Michigan, said he wanted all of us to stick together. I guess that's why we had peanut butter and jelly sandwiches three different times. When you bite down on one of those, you start sticking together immediately.

OUT OF THE WOODS

By Juanell (Wood) Jones

EXPANDING WAISTLINES are always a good clue that some of us are not sticking to our diets. Other areas may expand also but this is a family newspaper and we can't mention those areas.

I remember my first semester at college when I lived in the women's dorm and had the "privilege" of dining in the cafeteria there. They only served from 5:00 til 5:30 p.m. (we always thought that 30 minutes was as long as the servers could stand to look at that "food"), so by 8 o'clock all of us were usually hungry again.

Now sometimes we'd go to the pizza place late in the evening, but on the nights we missed that, there was always the 10 o'clock snack we all looked forward too. We usually gathered around the television in the lobby to watch the 9 o'clock movie, which had a 30-minute break at 10:00 for the news. Now there was this great little donut shop down the street whose owner made fresh hot donuts at 10:00 every night, and although he was officially closed, we knew the back kitchen door was always open to let in the fresh air.

Well, you guessed it... Not only did the door let in fresh air, it let in droves of starving young females who would buy several bags of the hot goodies and drool all the way back to the dorm. There we would gobble up all these calories while we watched the conclusion of the movie.

This got to be such a bad habit that by the next semester we all decided to go on a diet. We had read about the low-carbohydrate diet and felt sure this was the way to "beat the bulge." Surprisingly, we all did pretty well — for about two weeks. And it would have lasted longer too, but for the villain of this story — my sister! I was looking through her closet one evening for something, and what should I find but a bag of cinnamon rolls, with a couple obviously missing.

Well, we confronted her with this incriminating evidence and she shamefacedly confessed, adding that she had "lost all the pounds she needed, already." Well, well ... was she implying that it was okay for her, but the rest of us who were pleasantly plump should stick to our diets? No way, we decided. If it was okay for her, it was okay for us too, we logically deduced.

Anyway, to make a long story short(er), we forgave her, but we ate all her cinnamon rolls and that was the end of our diets. I still try to diet occasionally, but since my sister doesn't live with me anymore I can't blame my downfall on her. It must be my husband's fault.

Gov. White Against Drug Testing For Texas Teachers

Governor Mark White issued recently the following statement:

"I want to make it clear that, in Texas, we have no drug abuse problem among our teachers. Not only do our teachers do an outstanding job in their subject areas, but they serve as excellent role models for our children and have been front line advocates in the war against drug abuse. As I said earlier, I see no need to require drug testing of teachers, except in those infrequent instances where there is some obvious outward evidence of drug abuse impairing job performance. I do stand by my statement that Texans demand and deserve a drug-free work place.

Tahoka Woman Finds Haiti Project Rewarding

(Mrs. Dalton Wood of Tahoka, a postal clerk, was on a Volunteers in Missions (VIM) work team which returned from Haiti Jan. 31. Following are some of her observations about the children's hospital where the team worked).

BY LENDA WOOD

While we were in Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, our work was at Grace Children's Hospital where we did some painting, built and painted night stands, built shelves for the hospital pharmacy, sewed, and worked on thousands of x-rays. We worked right alongside the Haitian people, and they are very hard workers.

Some Haitian young men worked on a driveway just outside the hospital for more than a week, mixing all the concrete by hand, hauling it in on a wheelbarrow and smoothing it down by hand. Their clothes are threadbare, with holes in them... some of their pants don't zip up, but they're not ashamed; it's the best they have. Some do not have shoes, and the shoes of most of the others just half hang on their feet.

Grace Children's Hospital (GCH) was established by the personal efforts of Mr. and Mrs. James Snaveley, who visited Haiti on a vacation in 1961. First they worked from their home in Haiti and drew support from friends in the U.S., then the private home of the Mexican Ambassador to Haiti was purchased. In December, 1967, the hospital officially opened with 37 children. Tuberculosis was targeted as the problem to be conquered and eventually a group of American laymen and ministers organized a board called Child Care Foundation, and now known as International Child Care.

All children admitted to GCH must have an advanced active case of T.B. Coupled with that disease is often malnutrition, anemia, worms and other health problems. These children, mostly from very low income families, are treated without cost to the parents. The in-patient program averages 2 to 4 months. T.B. out-patients are also treated, more than 1,600 per month.

Volunteers-In-Mission work teams, of which we were a part, spend two weeks at GCH periodically to help with upkeep and remodeling programs.

The hospital is not like our hospitals in the States—the older children in the ward are allowed to roam around the ward, go outside in the courtyard and play on the swings, chat with the workers. Visitors are allowed in the ward at any time.

The children's ward is a very large room, lined with little blue baby beds filled with babies from a few months old through a year or so. There were about 40 babies, and 20 or 30 toddlers through 12 or 14 years.

In the center is the intensive care unit, divided only by a 4-foot wall. In it lay eight or 10 little children clinging to life, with IVs going into their arms. One mother and father were with their child. The father was praying for his child.

The first time we visited in the ward, it was heart-rending to see the babies standing up in their beds reaching out to be picked up. I cried the first time I picked up a little girl (about 10 months old, probably) just thinking how terrible it must be to bring the little sick children and leave them. Many of them live so far away that they're not able to come visit their babies, but some can. Not more than 5 or 6 parents were there to visit their children when we were present.

Wives of missionaries and other ladies come in the mornings and spend four or five hours rocking the babies. One lady said she rocks about 30 babies every day.

Some of the little children have malnutrition. The 8-year-olds are not much bigger than my 4-year-old grandson. And their little arms and legs are so thin they look like sticks. But they want to be loved. So we gave them our attention. As we walked around in the ward, holding one, sometimes two, there would be another one tagging along holding to my skirt.

Although it was heartbreaking, it was also a rewarding experience to see their faces light up and the big smiles they could give us.

It was comical to see their routine of eating lunch and then being bathed. The little tots were seated at long benches where they were fed rice and beans mixed with carrots and potatoes. When a baby finished eating, one nurse removed his or her diaper and shirt (if they had any on—some didn't), the next nurse plopped him in the bathtub, soaped and rinsed him. The next nurse took the baby and dried him. Next nurse diapered him. I was there one day, so I got to put their shirts on and put them in their beds.

The experience is unforgettable, and we came away thankful that there are so many dedicated men and women in Haiti, and all over the world, who are helping make it possible for others to live.

Our work team took on an unplanned project while we were in Haiti: we raised enough money to buy new Haitian Bibles for all the staff and the laborers and other workers at the hospital. The first shipment of complete Bibles ever printed in Creole arrived in Haiti the same time we did, and reportedly the entire lot was sold out before we left.

Some of the Haitian workers had mentioned they would like to have one of the new Bibles, but most of them could not afford to buy one. We located some, raised the money, and the workers, about 100 of them, were called in one at a time to get their Bibles. All were delighted, and some cried with joy over their new Bibles as nurses, custodians, mechanics, and others came in. During the lunch period we saw several men reading their Bibles.

One man in ragged clothing, carrying his Bible, approached my husband, and in his limited English said, "You good people. I love you." Touched, my husband responded, "I love you, too."

And that's what this whole business is all about.

Almost a year has passed since Jaime Newsom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Newsom of Tahoka, received a liver transplant in Dallas-March 2, 1985. He was born Feb. 2, 1983 with alligial syndrome. At the time of his operation he weighed 16 pounds and was unable to stand by himself. He now weighs 25 pounds and is walking alone.

The operation reportedly cost $52,000. Due to the efforts of residents of Tahoka and surrounding communities, $18,000 was raised to help pay for the expenses.

He is the grandson of Dixie Newsom of Tahoka and Ruby and J.C. Leverton of Abilene.

SEASONLESS WARDROBE SAVES MONEY--Although the stores may be filled with 'spring' clothes, you can save money by thinking in terms of a seasonless wardrobe. Seasonless wardrobe planning simply means buying items you can wear year-round, says clothing specialist Becky Saunders. This maximizes the wear you get from each item and expands your wardrobe. A seasonless wardrobe is built on clothes made of fabrics appropriate for different climates, says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist. Lightweight wool, for example, is comfortable in spring and early summer as well as fall. Linen fabrics that were once worn in the summer only can also be used throughout the year.

The world's most populous city is Shanghai, with about 11 million people.

Social Security ... Out West

By Bill West
Social Security Field Representative

A new Social Security continuing review process is beginning, Laura Purcell Social Security manager in Lubbock said recently. The old process stopped in April 1984 while new rules were developed.

"The Social Security Disability Benefits Reform Act of 1984 and later regulations will make the process more effective, fair, and easily understood", Mrs. Purcell said. "Cases will be carefully and completely developed, and decisions to stop benefits will be well supported and uniform at all levels nationwide."

Mrs. Purcell said that the biggest change is the new medical improvement review standard. "Benefits generally will continue unless there is substantial evidence of both medical improvement and ability to work. Before, only ability to work had to be shown."

There are some limited exceptions where benefits may stop without medical improvement, but they will apply in relatively few cases. For example, entitlement can end if a person is gainfully employed or has clearly benefitted from medical advances or vocational therapy related to ability to work.

"Another important change provides revised rules for more realistically judging a mentally impaired person's ability to work," Mrs. Purcell said. "They were developed in cooperation with public and private professional experts who work with mentally impaired people."

"Also, a beneficiary who appeals a decision that he or she is no longer disabled can have checks continue through a decision by and administrative law judge. If the appeal is unsuccessful, though, benefits must be repaid unless a waiver is granted."

The law requires everyone who receives disability benefits to be reviewed regularly. How often a person's case is reviewed will depend on the severity of the impairment, how likely it is to improve, and other factors. A person getting Social Security or supplemental security income (SSI) disability checks can have his or her case reviewed from as soon as 6 months to as long as 7 years after entitlement.

Among the first cases to be reviewed under the new process are those where medical improvement was considered likely when benefits were awarded. Many of these reviews were previously scheduled but delayed while the new rules were being prepared.

Also scheduled for early review will be cases where a cessation decision was appealed. They include those returned by Federal courts which will be re-evaluated under the new medical improvement review standard.

Mrs. Purcell encouraged anyone in the Lubbock area who wants to know more about disability reviews to contact the Lubbock office. It is located at 1611 10th St., Suite 100, and the phone number is 743-7381.

Bucy Not Seeking Science Advisor Post

Former Texas Instruments President J. Fred Bucy, formerly of Tahoka, has taken himself out of the running to be the new White House science adviser, sending the administration's executive headhunters back to square one, according to a story in the Washington Times, Jan.

10. John P. McTague, deputy director of the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, has taken over as acting director of his office as well as acting science adviser in the interim, replacing George A. Keyworth II, who resigned last week so he could step up a private consulting firm.

Bucy, in an interview with the Times by telephone from Dallas, said: "I was called in early December by the White House and asked if I'd consider taking the position of White House science adviser. I have since called them back and told them thanks, but no thanks."

Bucy, who spent 32 years with Texas Instruments before resigning last May, said he wanted to stay in Texas and that "other family considerations" prevented him from agreeing to take the job.

SCRIPTURE: Acts 1: 2:1-21

The disciples, following Jesus listened to Him, worked with Him, watched Him, learning many things as they were being prepared for service to our Lord. But there was to be one other thing before the disciples went out to witness, one other point of instruction for them from Jesus as He ascended back into heaven. The disciples were to wait in Jerusalem for the first fulfillment of the promises which Jesus made while on earth: "But tarry ye in Jerusalem, until you be endued with power from on high."

The Scripture tells us the disciples went back to wait as Jesus told them to do. As they waited expectantly, they prepared themselves to receive and be ready when that promised power to witness came. The power, sent from the Father, hidden from human sight as the electric power is hidden in a prepared cable — but it is there just the same. Whether you get some good from it is up to you.

The electric power line may be right beside your house, but unless you wire your house, make the contact with the power line, put in the light bulbs and turn on the switches, you will never have light in your house from that power line.

The disciples were doing exactly that to their spiritual house. They prayed, read the Scriptures, studied and talked about how Jesus had fulfilled these Scriptures. Peter reminded them to continue following the Scripture instructions, so they prayed and chose Matthias to take the bishoprick of Judas Iscariot.

When the power came, they were all with one accord together — their house was wired, etc., ready and waiting when the Power came as a rushing mighty wind. Then to the amazement of "the Multitude," they heard these Galileans speak the wonderful words of God in every tribe and nation under heaven.

I am glad the Holy Spirit came (does come) to all of any nationality, to all who will believe in Jesus. For now I can know that Jesus is no respecter of persons and that He did include me, too!

While we were yet sinners, God loved us so much that He sent His only begotten Son — Jesus Christ died for us that we might be reconciled to God and live eternally.

Jesus not only died to redeem us from sin, but He arose from the dead, went in body back into heaven, and sent back the Holy Spirit to abide in us and with all of us who will take Jesus as our personal Savior.

The joy that is ours, the faith of those who know Him, transcends all the troubles, disappointments, suffering and heartaches of this world.

Believe Jesus, and remember He always keeps His promises. Herein lies the secret of power: Jesus said, "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you."

Are you an abiding Christian? Are you a Christian? Take Jesus — only He can save you!

R HOW IMPORTANT IS FLOSSING?

Most dental authorities today consider flossing to be at least almost important as brushing your teeth. This is because proper use of dental floss will effectively remove disease-causing bacterial plaque from areas between the teeth, where a toothbrush cannot reach.

But, many people with average normal dexterity find flossing to be difficult and awkward. Some of the reasons are gagging, the floss gets slippery, fingers get in the way, it takes too much time. Now, as the importance of flossing is realized new aids to make it easier are being developed. See our complete dental aids section.

Voters Get Certificates; Help Sought

Voter registration certificates were mailed out Monday to all registered voters in Lynn County, according to George McCracken, tax assessor and collector, who said they will be valid from March 1 this year through Feb. 28, 1988.

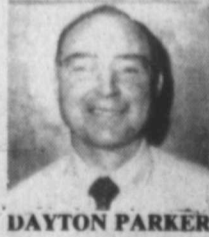

McCracken asked that each voter who has registered but who did not receive a certificate in the mail contact his office in the courthouse. Also, he asked that those receiving the certificates check them to see if there are any errors, any changes in voting precincts, changes in name or addresses, or if date of birth is wrong.

"It would be better to get the voter registration listed correctly before they go on the list," McCracken said.

The highest United States military decoration is the Medal of Honor.

DAYTON PARKER

TAKE ALL THE MEDICATION UNLESS DIRECTED OTHERWISE
Don't stop taking your medication as you begin to feel better. Altering the full course of treatment, as prescribed by your physician, may prevent complete recovery even though you may think you are well. Antibiotics, in particular, when taken for incomplete time intervals, can develop drug resistance by the virus or germs and lead to re-infection, which would be harder to cure.

LVN Testing Dates Announced At SPC

The pre-entrance exam for South Plains College's vocational nursing program will be administered March 26 and April 30.

The exams will begin at 9 a.m. in SPC's Student Assistance Center, located on the third floor of the library. Fee is $5.

GED results and three complete references from persons other than relatives, according to Pinny Jaquez, SPC vocational counselor.

Persons who did not complete their high school studies can take a GED exam, scheduled at 8:30 a.m. each Thursday in the Student Assistance Center, according to Mrs. Jaquez. Fee is $15.

FARM COMPUTER TRAINING- Farmers and ranchers can learn more about using microcomputers as management tools by attending special training sessions in the coming months conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. The sessions are three-day short courses at the Stiles Farm Computer Training Center at Thrall, about 6 miles east of Taylor on U.S. 79. County Extension offices have a schedule of the various short courses and registration information.

SEEDING RANGELAND- Many Texas rangelands have had limited forage production the past several years due to drought past several years due to drought conditions for a forage seeding program, points out a range brush and weed control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Range seeding is usually done in late winter or early spring. If desirable plants make up less than 10 to 15 percent of the vegetation, seeding is probably necessary. Seeding also should follow root-plowing which destroys existing turf.

REMOVING SMOKE DAMAGE FROM FABRIC- Studies on the removal of smoke damage from washable clothing indicate that the best procedure may be washing them at home, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist Dr. Ann Beard. Tests on cotton, polyester and cotton/polyester blend fabrics show that repeated washings removes smoke damage more effectively than dry cleaning. Both visible smoke damage and odor may be successfully removed from washable fabrics.

Zane Grey's Birthday Observed At Care Center

On Jan. 31 the Tahoka Care Center residents observed Zane Grey's birthday with a western day. Beginning at 9 a.m. they gathered in the dining room to listen to western music. Lois Culp and Buster Todd were named this year's Cowgirl and Cowboy.

Lois Culp has been a resident of TCC since Oct. 1983. She is the mother of Dorothy Norwood and James Day. She was a nurse in Big Spring for many years.

Buster Todd came to TCC in Sept. of 1985. He was a longtime farmer in the New Home area and has two sons, Donnie and Jerry Todd and a daughter, Sharon Baker.

At 2 p.m. refreshments were served by Faye Huff and Wilma Gerner.

HONORED AT CARE CENTER — Buster Todd, left, and Lois Culp were named this year's Cowboy and Cowgirl at the Tahoka Care Center recently. The residents observed Zane Grey's birthday with a western day on Jan. 31.

RANGE WEEDS TO BE HEAVY—Texas ranchers can expect to see heavy weed population on rangelands in 1986 since weeds were plentiful last year following droughts in 1983 and '84. Broomweeds and ragweeds are the most common weeds and can be controlled easily with several herbicides, says a range brush and weed control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Controlling weeds will increase forage production and will boost grass cover on rangelands. Generally, a pound of grass can be produced for every pound of weeds controlled.

City Council Accepts Annual Audit Report

Annual audit of City of Tahoka finances was presented to the city council Monday night, with the report by Joe Hays of Love, Hays & Schaffner accepted.

Hays said the city's finances appear in good shape, despite the fact that some deficits are shown in the report. He explained that the report was for only six months, ending Sept. 30, 1985, since the city last year changed its fiscal year to start on Oct. 1.

This caused expenditures to be considerably more than income in some funds, since no taxes were collected during the six-month budget period, other than delinquent taxes.

Councilmen also approved some housing rehabilitation and one relocation under the Community Development Block Grant program, discussed a tentative revenue sharing budget, heard a monthly report from Police Chief Gary Morrison, and set the city election date for April 15, in the school cafeteria.

Council members present were Nick Summitt, Dr. Richard White, Jim Thomas and Dalton Wood, plus City Manager Carl Reynolds and Mayor Jim Solomon. H.B. McCord was absent.

County News, the chamber office or the Tahoka Daisy.

Speaker will be Merle Anthony of Wichita Falls, a highly-acclaimed public speaker who puts emphasis on patriotism.

Tahoka Chamberettes will serve the meal featuring brisket.

Board members also voted to rescind action taken at the January meeting reducing the number of required directors, as it was learned this was in violation of the chamber charter.

Chamberettes To Meet

Tahoka Chamberettes will have their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 11 at noon in the SPS Reddy Room. All members are urged to attend, and guests are welcome.

The Wagon Train project will be discussed, and plans will be made for the annual Chamber Banquet.

Men In Service

Army Sgt. Glofiro Martinez, son of Pedro P. and Manuela Martinez of Tahoka, was involved in a NATO-sponsored exercise by participating in the Army's return of forces to Germany (REFORGER) and the Air Force's Crested Cap exercises.

Martinez is a supply specialist with the 63rd Armor at Fort Riley, Kan.

Cotton Today

Industry Challenged President Sam B. Hollis, opening National Cotton Council's 48th annual meeting in Orlando, Fla. Challenged industry leaders to market cotton aggressively at home and overseas in an effort to return the industry to profitability.

He urged delegates to seek favorable implementation of the new farm bill, further decline in the dollar's exchange value, and fair trade policies while continuing to promote the "Made in the U.S.A." campaign.

Hollis said cotton's foreign and domestic customers must be made aware that the new farm bill mandates government assistance in meeting world price competition, protecting U.S. farm income, and assuring equal treatment for domestic mills.

To enhance cotton markets, the Council president said ways must be found to put Cotton Incorporated on a financial footing that will enable it to carry out more aggressive market development. NCC Group Takes Case To Capitol Only hours after National Cotton Council's annual meeting adjourned in Orlando, Fla., a representative group of industry leaders from all segments headed to Washington to communicate cotton concerns to government officials.

Board Chairman Sam Hollis led delegation including Duke Barr, Oak Ridge, La., producer; Eduardo Esteve, Dallas merchant; Thomas W. Smith, Bakersfield co-op leader; Carlos Moore, textile manufacturers' representative, Washington; and John Maguire, the Council's director of Washington operations.

Reinforcing a communication sent from the meeting to USDA officials earlier in the week, the group emphasized the cotton industry's priority on inventory protection. They pointed out that a cotton program similar to the wheat and feed grain program would be highly detrimental to the cotton industry and totally counter to Council policy adopted by delegates representing the seven segments in Orlando.

Pledges To County Livestock Show Needed

All contributors to the Lynn County Livestock Sale who have not turned in their money should do so immediately in order that checks may be mailed to the exhibitors.

Conservation Meeting Set

A conservation meeting will be held Thursday, Feb. 13, at the Hale County Ag Center, in Plainview starting at 9 a.m. "The meeting will feature farmers who are using conservation tillage farming systems and irrigation water management. Several kinds of irrigation and conservation tillage equipment will also be on display," said Euel Davis of Tahoka SCS. Free lunches will be served by participating chemical and equipment companies.

Feb. 16 — Opening of New Petroleum Wing, Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, Canyon. Texas' oldest and largest state-supported museum houses 100,000 sq. ft. of exhibits telling the story of Texas from early geologic time through Indian occupation, ranching, town building, and 20th Century industrialization.

Beef Cattle Research And Management Program Set Feb. 12

A program on Beef Cattle Research and Management Update will be presented Wednesday, Feb. 12, from 10 a.m. to noon in Lamesa at the Dawson County Community Building. This meeting will provide the most up-to-date information available on beef cattle, and will cover stocker cattle as well as cow-calf operations, Utilizing Wheat and Other Forages, and a Look At Ways to Increase Net Returns in both of these situations.

Windbreak Trees Available

The Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District is still taking orders for windbreak trees which will be delivered about March 1. Orders will be taken until Friday, Feb. 7.

For more information or order form, contact Helen Saldana, 998-4622 or come by the SCS office in Tahoka.

SORGHUM DISEASE CONTROL—Diseases remain a major problem of Texas' $300 million sorghum crop, so farmers should give special consideration to disease control as they plan their 1986 crop. Diseases such as downy mildew, head smut and maize dwarf mosaic can seriously limit production if farmers fail to take proper measures, says a plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System. Planting disease-resistant varieties is the answer to most sorghum disease problems. Also, certain chemical treatments are available that do a good job on sorghum diseases, and crop rotation is a good disease control practice.

The annual series of county meetings for the election of directors to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, will get underway in February and continue through March, PCG officials note. A meeting will be held in each of the 25 member counties, featuring informative programs on the newly-passed 1985 cotton law and other subjects of interest to the cotton industry.

The date, time and place of each meeting will be announced as it is scheduled.

After the county meetings will come the PCG annual meeting at which directors elected by the individual counties will be certified by the membership. Although details are not complete, the annual meeting has been set for April 10 during the week of the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association convention in Lubbock, Johnson announced.

"By attending these meetings, expressing their views and taking part in the selection of their representatives to the PCG board," Johnson says, "cotton people can help assure that future PCG actions and policies will reflect the true needs and desires of the majority in our area. An active board of directors that will devote the time and effort to adequately and accurately represent the majority view of the people is the key to PCG's success in filling membership needs."

This will be especially true for the next few years, Johnson points out. "With a new farm law on the books that leaves much to the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture, literally millions of dollars of producer income will turn on whether High Plains' interests are fairly weighted in the Secretary's decision-making process."

Current directors and PCG staff members will be on hand at county meetings to provide information on the organization's work and answer questions.

All producers and agribusinessmen are invited and urged to attend. However under PCG By-Laws only current dues-paying PCG members will be eligible to vote in elections or be elected a director.

Drinking water containing coliform bacteria in excess of the standard may constitute a potential threat to public health. Your water system has collected additional check samples as required by the "Drinking Water Standards". This sample was collected on October 28, 1985 and was found no coliform found.
