Seven Seeking Tahoka City Council Seats

Two last-day entries on the ballot swelled to seven the number of candidates seeking three available seats on the Tahoka City Council, as deadline for filing for that office was reached last Wednesday. Terms of H.B. McCord Jr., Richard White and Nicky Sammitt are up for votes, and Summitt was the only one to seek another term. RECENTLY I ACQUIRED one of those little cheapo plastic digital watches, and after I had owned it only three hours I knew why they are so inexpensive.

The reason is that you probably would have to buy about 50 of them before you accidentally got one that has the correct time, or even something within an hour or so of the correct time. The watches are cheap because Albert Einstein is dead, Robert Goddard and J. Fred Bucy are unavailable, and nobody else can set the time on the blamed things.

There are, however, a lot of instructions which come with the watch, but if you have time to read all that and especially if you have time to figure out what it means, then you have all the time in the world, and don't need a watch anyhow.

I measured the instruction sheet. It is 27 1/2 inches long and is printed on both sides. I didn't understand anything on it; it might as well have been written in Japanese. It is supposed to tell you how to use the watch to get the hour, minute, second, date, day of the week and month, use as a stopwatch, an alarm, and single beep every hour on the hour.

That's all real nice, but I'd be happy if I could just figure out how to get it to tell me what time it is.

NOT LONG ago someone

brought me a copy of a magazine called Up Reach and suggested that I read a particular article which was concerned with husband-wife relationships (no, it wasn't brought to me by my wife).

It was, indeed, a very good article, written by a Sandra Woodroof Milholland (the kind of name you'd never get on an ankle bracelet unless you are the same size as William Perry of the Chicago Bears). Anyway, Sandra has some good points, including a comment that no matter how much a man and wife love each other, there are going to be times "when we grow uncomfortable, unhappy and impatient and all we want is o-u-t, out." Among her suggestions of things we can do to get over these rough spots is that husband and wife take time for each other. Make a date, act like you did when you were courting each other, etc.

Sounds like a good suggestion, but for some reason it reminds me of the married couple who had not been out to a restaurant or movie in years, and she said one evening: "We haven't been out in a long time. Why don't we go out somewhere tonight?"

"Great idea," he said. "If you get home before I do, be sure to leave the key in the mailbox."

DAVID ESTRADA — TERRY VILLARREAL

Villarreal-Estrada Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Villarreal of New Home announce the engagement of their daughter, Terry, to David Estrada, son of Inez Estrada of New Home and the late Mary Estrada. Vows will be exchanged June 28 at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church.

Help Is Needed With Restorations For Museum

Dr. K.R. Durham, chairman of the farm equipment acquisitions committee of the Tahoka Pioneer Museum, has asked that anyone familiar with this type of equipment, or who has knowledge of paint colors or anything conducive to properly restoring this type of equipment, join his group of volunteers to restore the equipment. The committee, in addition to Dr. Durham, includes Winston Wharton, Truett Smith, Bill Craig, Roger Bell, Bob Haynie and Madeline Hegi, treasurer.

Currently, restoration of very old equipment from about the 1920's era, is being done. Wagons, field equipment, and other horse-drawn vehicles from that time will be put on display when they are properly renovated. Each member of the committee accepted the responsibility of selecting one item for renovation.

Additional funds may be needed to complete the restorations, for paint and replacement of broken parts or possibly some professional assistance. Donations may be made to Madeline Hegi, treasurer, 998-4851.

This equipment is an integral part of the heritage of Lynn County and, as such, will be a valuable addition to the museum displays.

Eagle Guard 3rd Team All-Stater

Phillip Mack Furlow, senior offensive guard for the O'Donnell football Eagles, was selected recently to the Class A All-State team on the third team.

Coach Odis Summers said he believes Furlow is the first Eagle griddler to be named to the all-state team. He cited Furlow's dependable blocking as one of the keys to O'Donnell's success in running the winged-T offense. The Eagles were in the playoffs the last two years.

Phillip is the son of Bobby Mack and Brenda Furlow of Draw and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Barnes of Draw.

OUT OF THE WOODS

By Juanell (Wood) Jones

I WENT to one of those sales last week where they feature "spectacular prices" for three days only, knowing full well the store would be jam-packed with people but figuring I could "handle it" just this once.

Saturday I went to this sale at one of the fabric stores in Lubbock, wanting to buy some material to make my daughter and I new Easter dresses. Half the female population in West Texas must have had the same idea, because the place was full of hectic women tearing around through the store, trailing fabric after them as they pushed their way to the cutting counter. I stood in that line, if you could call it a line, patiently for 15 minutes or so until it was my turn to unload my material on the counter.

The girl with the scissors smiled vacantly at me as I told her how many yards I needed, unrolled the fabric, made a snip at the point of measure, and then cut through the fabric, oh so slowly. The poor girl must have had a rough day because if that was her normal speed, I'd hate to see her when she's not in a hurry.

After she finally finished cutting, she gathered the material to fold it for me, and I got the feeling I was in a slow-motion movie. She painstakingly folded it exactly in half, making sure the corners met precisely, smoothed out all the invisible wrinkles, stared out over the crowd, folded it again, etc., etc. By this time I was shifting from one foot to the other, my patience wearing thin, as I could see the check-out line getting longer and longer while she folded my material as if for presidential inspection.

When it was folded to her satisfaction, she just stood there holding it until finally I reached out my hands toward her and she gave it to me, looking dazed, and said something like "come again." I grabbed the material, muttered "thanks a lot", gave her a brittle smile, and thought about shaking out all her nice little-folded corners just to see what she would do.

I headed for the check-out counter, choosing the shorter of two lines where I made it to the front in record time. I thought, "This wasn't so bad," I was thinking, just before the checkout girl dashed off to help the customer in front of me. "She'll be back ... she'll be back," I kept chanting to myself, looking around irritably for the silly girl. Sure enough, she came back but she had to fill out some order forms for the lady still in front of me.

Anyway, I ended up waiting 25 minutes next in line! By this time I wanted to jump up on the counter, fling my material out over my head, stomp up and down, and scream "take my money!" so I could leave. However, being a civilized person, I didn't do this (sometimes I wish I wasn't so well-bred), and it was eventually my turn. I could hear the muttering down the line behind me, and as I turned to go I got a glimpse of the woman waiting behind me — she had a wild look in her eyes, too, and the hands gripping her material had white knuckles from pressure.

I know a great solution for handling customers during one of these three-day sales. On the first day you could allow only women whose names start with the letters A-I, the second day with the letter J, and the last day with K-Z. I know all you Jones'es out there will agree with me.

Home Economics In The '80s

Tamara Overcast

Just as any other household, a farm or ranch family needs to incorporate savings, insurance and retirement into their financial plan. As farm income has dwindled, however, some families have dropped these from the budget.

Consumer economics specialists with the USDA have some suggestions for how families can inexpensively provide a financial safety net for themselves.

One of the most important benefits of off-farm employment can be group health insurance for family members. Other employment fringe benefits, such as life insurance, can provide economic security that the self-employed farm operator cannot afford for the family.

Since farm operators are not required to pay self-employment tax when net farm income for the year is less than $400, and since spouses of self-employed farm operators are excluded from earning Social Security credits, a limited number of farm families can qualify for Social Security benefits as retired workers, disabled workers, or survivors.

However, farm families can continue coverage by paying self-employment tax on gross income in bad years. Compared with private insurance, paying into the Social Security system would provide another in-sive, although minimal, protection for the farm family.

Although most farm families do not currently need or seek income tax shelters, payment into an IRA or Keogh account is an option which will allow them to establish savings for retirement.

LOW FAT DIET

Besides diabetes, Dr. Whitaker labels fat as the villain in heart health also. "When large amounts of fat are eaten, the red blood cells stick together and stack up. This limits the flow of blood cells thru the capillaries. It creates 'sludging' with 30 percent less oxygen reaching the heart. "A very low fat intake boosts the oxygen supply to nourish the heart, creating a 'forever young' condition of basic health," states Dr. Whitaker.

Fruit, Nut Trees Need Annual "Lube" Job

Have you given your fruit and nut trees their annual "lube" job? This refers, of course, to an application of dormant oil to control scale insects.

Why control scale insects? The answer is simply to save the tree. If a scale insect such as the San Jose scale or white peach gets started, it could kill your tree.

Dormant oil can be purchased at many different stores where garden supplies are sold. Be sure to follow all label directions and apply the mixture when the temperature is between 40-70 degrees F. Do not apply if a freeze is likely within 48 hours after application, and do not apply after the tree has budded out. Dormant oil is applied when the tree is dormant. Spraying flowers and leaves could cause leaf burn and flower drop.

Scale insects are difficult for most people to detect, so dormant oil should be applied once a year. Sooner or later your tree will probably be attacked by scale insects, so be ready by guarding against them with an application of dormant oil.

Soil Insect Control In Vegetable Gardens

As vegetable gardeners in Lynn County prepare for spring planting, their first step should be to control soil insects.

Soil insects can reduce vegetable quality and yields if left uncontrolled.

For effective control, mix insecticides into the soil at a depth of 4-6 inches at least two weeks before the garden plot is planted.

Among destructive soil insects are wireworms, white grubs, seed corn maggots, cabbage maggots, mole crickets, sowbugs, slugs, snails, and cutworms. Some destroy plant seeds, roots, tubers and underground stem parts while others cut off young plants at or near the soil surface.

Most soil insects can be controlled with diazinon 25 percent liquid concentration or Spectracide 6000 applied as a 5 percent granule. Granules usually give the best control. If cutworms or sowbugs become a problem after the garden has been planted, broadcast 5 percent Sevin bait over the soil surface. This bait containing metaldehyde will also control slugs and snails. However, it is not formulated to be mixed into soil.

Garden sites planted for the first time or those previously in grass or weeds are more likely to harbor damaging numbers of soil pests. Before treating with an insecticide, inspect the garden site by taking soil samples at several locations to a depth of 5 to 6 inches. Remove one square foot section of soil from each location and record the number of soil insect pests present. As a general rule, an average of one or more soil insects per sample suggests the need for insecticide treatment.

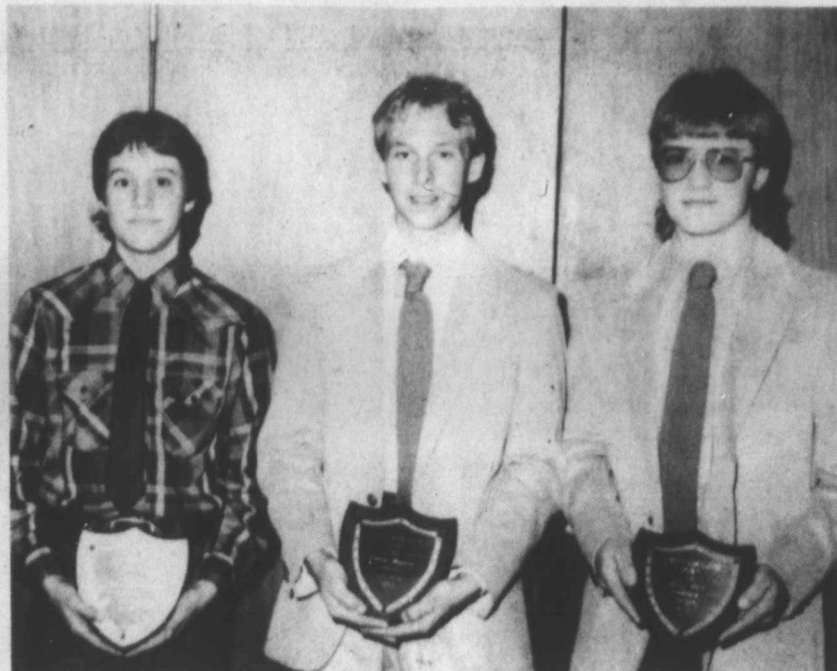

Before applying any pesticide always read and follow label instructions.

Check Plants, Soil For Diseases, Nematodes

Homeowners and gardeners should make sure they are getting healthy plants anytime they make purchases.

Gardens and landscapes often become infested with disease-causing organisms when individuals bring in contaminated plants.

It's important to check plants for any abnormalities and to particularly look at root systems for decay and abnormal swell-ings. Plants with unhealthy root systems should be discarded since removing the infected tissue will not likely remove the source of infection.

One thing to look for particularly is the presence of root-knot nematodes. Root-knot nematodes cause knotting or galling of the root system that can be detected easily by the naked eye. Plants with this symptom should never be transplanted because nematodes are difficult to eliminate once they become established.

Care also should be used when bringing in soil from other areas. Soil can be contaminated with disease organisms that can affect garden and landscape plants. It's usually better to improve the fertility and tilth of present soil than to bring in soil with an uncertain history.

Healthy planting stock is generally produced by using disease-free cuttings or seed in sterilized soil and keeping it away from contaminated soil. Buying from a producer who uses these methods will improve the chances of getting healthy planting stock.

4-H Reaches Youth In Many Ways

Today's 4-H program is noted for its flexibility, a feature that makes it the largest youth serving organization in the country.

4-H is flexible because it is organized in different ways, for different needs, in different places.

Organization may take the form of community or neighborhood clubs, project clubs, special interest groups, television and special activities. Young people may take part in 4-H through any or all of these.

The community or neighborhood 4-H club is associated with an area known to local people, such as a crossroads, a small community, a town, a section of suburban community, a city block or blocks, or a housing complex. The number of 4-H members in a club may range from five or six to more than 100. This type of 4-H club continues from year to year. Usually both boys and girls belong to the club, enrolling in projects according to their interests.

In many areas, 4-H is organized on a "project club" basis. Young people are encouraged to form these clubs for a year or less. Examples include project clubs for garden, clothing, dairy, automotive, horse, bicycle and small engine. These 4-H clubs vary in number of members from five to six to 50 or more. The 4-H project club territory may range from a neighborhood cluster of a few families to a city block to two or three towns—or an entire county. In many counties, members of a community or neighborhood 4-H club may belong to a larger area 4-H project club. Teenagers especially like this system.

In special interest groups, the subjects taught depend on the interests and ages of the girls and boys related to the needs of their community. Young people may take part in this kind of intensive short-term group if they do not wish to be members of a 4-H club. They may get training in bicycle safety, health, first aid, fire protection and safety, or jobs in a local business.

Special education activities often supplement 4-H programs. These include tours; 4-H junior and teen leader training workshops; achievement programs; camps; state conferences; seminars; recreational leadership training; exhibitions; fairs and shows; project training meetings and career exploration.

There are many special state and national events held for 4-H members each year. The largest national event is National 4-H Congress, held in late fall in Chicago, to recognize about 2,000 state, sectional and national winners. National 4-H Conference, held each spring at the National 4-H Center in Washington, D.C., involves 250 4-H'ers in developing national 4-H programs.

Groups and individual 4-H'ers take part in special activities as they gain experience and can benefit from them.

Whichever method suits youngsters best, 4-H has a way for them to learn and to have fun in an exciting youth program.

It takes 72 different muscles to speak one word.

Farm Credit Banks Release Year-End Data

An announcement from the Farm Credit Banks of Texas indicates that the three agricultural lenders took some of their earnings for the last 11 months of 1985 and restructured their debt portfolio, contributing to a net loss of $67 million for the Texas banks and affiliated associations.

This restructuring, however, allowed the banks to pass on savings in interest rates to many Texas farmers and ranchers who borrow money from the $4 billion agricultural lender, according to James A. Rogers, the banks' president.

Rogers had projected late last fall as much as $30 million in earnings for the three banks. He stated that with the agricultural depression continuing and the banks in a healthy position in terms of surplus and equity, the Farm Credit district board of directors opted to use 1985 bank earnings to buy back $346.7 million in high-cost bonds and that resulted in a charge of $40.9 million against earnings. These were securities that had sold in earlier years at 12.4 percent or more and had an average cost of 13.9 percent. The banks replaced this debt with funds costing about 8.75 percent.

This move placed the banks' debt portfolio in a position so that interest rates to agricultural cooperatives, Production Credit Associations and 14 other financing institutions that borrow from the Texas banks could be lowered, according to Rogers.

Cotton Today

Cotton Inventory Protected: National Cotton Council President Lloyd Cline says the inventory protection plan in the 1986 cotton program will allow cotton merchants and textile mills to buy normally from 1985 loan stocks to meet their August through October requirements.

This will give producers some equity on cotton which otherwise would have been taken over by the government, the Lamesa, Tex., grower said.

Under the cotton program announced by USDA this week, all cotton in inventory on Aug. 1, 1986, and not under CCC loan or CCC-owned will draw cotton payment-in-kind certificates valued at the difference between the 1985 loan rate of 57.3 cents plus carrying charges and the world price on that date.

The plan was requested by a Council delegation which went directly from the industrywide organization's annual meeting in Orlando, Fla., a few weeks ago to meet with officials at the Department of Agriculture and the Office of Management and Budget.

Gramm-Rudman To Hit Farmers: USDA will partially meet its $1.3 billion budget cut under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law by discounting producers' 1986 crop advance and final deficiency payments 4.3 percent beginning March 1.

The reductions will be made after the $50,000 payment limit per producer has been applied. Regular deficiency payments for 1985 crops will not be reduced even if those payments are made after March 1.

Price support loan proceeds from the 1986 crop also will be discounted 4.3 percent. No reductions will be made in target prices, purchase agreements, the amount of acreage entering the conservation reserve, or the annual rental payment based on producer bids.

CCI Team On Export Credit Mission

A special Cotton Council International research team is exploring ways to make export credit a more effective tool for selling U.S. cotton overseas.

Over the next three weeks, the team will meet with cotton traders, textile mill representatives, government officials, and private and government bankers in Thailand, Indonesia and the Philippines. The mission is part of a special Cotton Foundation project made possible by a Union Carbide grant. CCI, the overseas arm of the National Cotton Council, is coordinating the project.

The team met with government officials and private companies in Washington, D.C., last month to discuss the monetary trends affecting world trade.

Dexter Walcott, executive vice president of Staplcon Cooperative, Greenwood, Miss., is chairman of the group. Members include Stuart Frazer, vice president, Weil Brothers Cotton, Inc., Montgomery, Ala.; Winford McGhee, vice president, Dunavant Enterprises, Inc., Memphis; Jimmy Sanford, producer, Prattville, Ala.; and Geron Rathel, USDA marketing specialist, Washington. Special advisors are Earle Billings, executive vice president, American Cotton Shippers Assn., Memphis, and Adrian Hunnings, CCE executive director. The team will travel to Portugal, Egypt, Yugoslavia, and Hungary in March.

Two Farm Bill Changes Proposed: The House Subcommittee on Wheat, Soybeans, and Feedgrains has approved bills modifying two provisions of the new farm law.

One would give the Secretary of Agriculture discretionary authority to permit only a limited number of crops to be planted on "excess permitted acreage."

The recently passed farm bill allows producers who elected to plant 50 percent but less than 92 percent of their permitted acreage to receive deficiency payments on 92 percent of their permitted acreage. It also allows them to plant any non-program crop on their underplanted acreage. Under the subcommittee-approved measure, the Secretary can permit planting for harvest of certain specialty crops and also haying and grazing.

A sleeper with inner-spring for $398 and the matching love seat for $1. Look. This is probably the best value in the whole building, including my office. We have only one solid oak exterior trim eight piece sectional in a beautiful tan blend Hercules fabric. This modular originally was tagged $3695, but to close it out, we'll sell it for $1995. How about a 5 drawer almond and oak chest for the ridiculous price of $98? I'll sell you the matching student desk "with hutch top" for $198. Who says you can't take it with you? You've always needed that portable wardrobe closet and now it can be yours. Large door for hanging clothes and 5 compartments for storage. Ready to assemble, not for $265 but only $98. Or, ready to assemble wall units in oak or white, with lots of shelves and doors for storage. Believe it or not, each is only $48. Or, pay $38 for microwave carts or television and VCR portable carts. Without this one, you'll mutiny. Picture a cane wrapped sofa and love seat in island texture Haitian Hercules that listed for $1195, but when this one set is gone at $298 (both pieces), it's gone. Oriental dresser with lots of brass and burwood with tri-vu mirror and matching nightstand was $1300. Someone already took the headboard so the rest can be taken away for $298. Why are we doing this? Why are we creating some of the greatest bargains in furniture history and closing our downtown Clearance Center? It's really very simple. By closing the Clearance Center, Hollon's will be able to serve you better by concentrating all our efforts at one location. Now you'll be able to do all your shopping at one location instead of two. But right now, the important message is this: this is the final ad for our downtown Clearance Center forever. We must move this merchandise. Don't miss this sale-of-a-lifetime!

THIS IS OUR LAST AD!

SCRIPTURE

Matthew 5:1-12, 13-16

From the time of our childhood, you and I have been taught that it is more blessed to give than to receive. We hear this from parents about Christmas time, from the church at a special stewardship time, and from all kinds of charities when they are making a financial drive. And we know this is true, but this is only one side of life. There are two other sides also — being and receiving, and they are blessed, too.

In the Beatitudes the real "being, giving and receiving" are all three proclaimed by our Lord in this scripture.

Looking at the Beatitudes, we can find that not everyone has to be exactly alike. There are some who are poor in spirit. There are some who mourn. Some are meek. Others hunger and thirst for righteousness. Some are merciful, others are pure in heart — yet all of us do need to be at least a portion of all these. Yet each one of us may be stronger in any given area.

The Lord recognizes the differences in people and that we do not all have to fit into the same mold. It's okay to be different, for the call of Christ is not a call to sameness, but is a call to uniqueness. This can be seen when we take a good look at His 12 chosen disciples, who were all different individuals.

Not everyone has to be as impulsive as Peter, forever opening his mouth and putting his foot in it. Not everyone is as loving and in the inner circle of friends like John. Not everyone wrote Gospels like Matthew. But the amazing thing is that the Lord accepted them as they were, letting them be their unique selves, doing their witness as Jesus taught them. And Christ does the same for you and me.

He does not call us all to preach, or to teach, or to do anything, except to witness for Him in our own way. He doesn't ask us all to be intellectuals. He doesn't ask us all to speak in tongues, to be M.D.s or surgeons, or Methodists or Baptists. He calls us to follow Him, to be who we are, and to leave the rest up to Him. (And I praise His name for that!)

Jesus Christ calls us to be His disciples, to be ourselves, and then in following Him, to give away ourselves and our love to others, and to do the things mentioned in the Beatitudes, to mourn, to be meek, to show mercy, to be peacemakers, to be persecuted. When you get right down to the basics, this is how to really give ourselves and our love in His name.

Better Business Bureau News

South Plains businesses are cautioned to be on the lookout for a mailing from a company called "Checkwriter Protection" of Dallas. The company has mailed and continues to mail solicitations for business that strongly resembles legitimate bills or invoices. Bureau experience has shown that many businesses, believing the mailing to be a bill, send a check to "Checkwriter Protection" without ever realizing that they did not owe anything to the company. The product offered by the company is checkwriter machine insurance which is underwritten by American Bankers Insurance Company of Miami, Florida.

A most popular type of phony invoice promotion comes from small directory companies that try very successfully to appear as the "Yellow pages" people from the phone company. These promoters even use the yellow page "fingers do the walking" logo and yellow page format to enhance their mailing piece. One such company is Direct Mail Advertising Department of McAllen, Texas. Many businesses have reported to the BBB that they paid this company thinking it was a bill from the telephone yellow page office.

Journalism Scholarships Available

High school seniors in West Texas are invited to apply for journalism scholarships at Midland College for the 1986-87 school term, Ralph L. Sellmeyer, Allison Professor of Journalism at Midland College, announced this week.

The scholarships are funded by a $750,000 endowment provided by the James Allison family, former publishers of the Midland Reporter Telegram, and provide books, fees and tuition valued at more than $600 for those receiving scholarships. The Allison endowment also provides the funds for the Allison Chair of Journalism, the only such endowed journalism chair in a community college in the U.S.

Those students granted scholarships are also eligible for paid staff positions on the college's weekly newspaper and the twice-yearly college magazine.

"We are interested in getting applications by June 1 from students all over the state, but particularly West Texas," the Midland College and former Texas Tech journalism director said.

Interested students should write to Ralph Sellmeyer, Allison Professor of Journalism, Midland College, 3600 North Garfield, Midland, TX 79705. Those who desire additional college financial aid should also write Bill Burns, director of financial aids, at the college.

IRON ABSORPTION DETERMINES INTAKE-- Getting enough iron in your diet is not simply a matter of eating iron-rich foods, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist. Iron intake is determined both by the amount of iron-rich foods eaten and how well the iron is absorbed into your body, says Dr. Alice Hunt. "Generally, iron added to foods or taken in the form of supplements is not absorbed as well as that which comes from natural food," she explains. Red meats are the best source of iron and also facilitate absorption from other foods, she adds.
