Burglars In County Take Refrigerator From Home

Burglars who struck while a Lynn County family was away from home for a few days took a refrigerator, washer, two television sets, some bedding and dishes between Monday, April 4, and last Thursday. The home of Graham George about 2.5 miles southwest of New Home was entered by breaking a window. A complete list of stolen items had not been finished Wednesday. Crime Line, 998-5145, is offering a $500 reward in the case.

Danny Paris of Tahoka reported a Briggs and Stratton gasoline engine and a Homelite water pump stolen off a water trailer early Monday.

The right front tire on a school bus parked at Tahoka School was slashed by vandals on April 19.

The tire was valued at $78.

Tahoka Police Dept. investigated two vehicle accidents during the week. In the 2300-block of N. 2nd a wreck involved a 1980 GMC pickup driven by Barry Len Weaver of Tahoka and a 1981 GMC pickup driven by Hiram Willis Edwards of Tahoka.

In the 1500-block of Ave. J a Ford driven by Regina Crutcher of Tahoka and a Pontiac driven by Pedro Gutierrez Jr. of Tahoka collided.

There were no injuries reported in either accident.

Jackie Swinford of Tahoka reported that on Sunday someone poured acid on her 1979 Pontiac while it was parked near the courthouse. Damage was estimated at $1500.

A Tahoka man was arrested for public intoxication and jailed Sunday.

On Monday Mrs. Weldon Martin of 2235 N. 2nd reported someone threw a rock through a window at her home, causing an estimated $100 damage.

An 18-year-old woman was treated at Lynn County Hospital after a family altercation reported to police, who had a warrant for the arrest of her husband. Another assault case involved a 25-year-old Tahoka woman reportedly kicked and struck by her common-law husband Tuesday.

Police issued tickets for speeding and no proof of liability insurance, impeding traffic and two tickets for running stop signs.

School Marks Payoff Of 23-Year Bond Note

Tahoka School Board last Thursday honored the 1963 school board members who voted the original bond issue just paid off on construction of the present high school, as the school trustees celebrated paying off all bonded indebtedness in the system.

Eight cents of the total current 86 cents per $100 valuation school tax rate have been set aside for paying off the $550,000 bonds voted in 1963. With this portion of the total tax rate no longer needed for retiring the bonds, the tax rate could be lower when statements are sent out this fall.

Members of the 1963 board were invited to dinner with the current board and then to the regular meeting, where a resolution was passed commending the 1963 group for its "farsight and fortitude... and their faith in the future of this educational institution to brave such an endeavor." The resolution was adopted by the outgoing board, including Bettye Green and David Midkiff prior to installation of new members Billy Davis and Mike Huffaker, who with Joe Hays were elected to the board April 5.

After these three were administered the oath of office, the board was reorganized, with Hays re-elected president, Jim Wells vice-president and Nedra Young secretary.

Members of the 1963 board were Maurice Huffaker, Clint Walker, Roy Stephens, Cleve Littlepage, J.T. Miller, Olen Renfro, Wilton Payne, Clint Sikes and Clifton Hamilton. Present Thursday night were Huffaker, Payne, Walker, Miller and Stephens.

The board adopted a resolution paying special tribute to Mrs. Green, who had served on the board for nine years and as secretary for the last seven years. The resolution noted her "outstanding commitment and dedication...willingness to serve the board and the district during many difficult situations" and said "education in the Tahoka Independent School District is better because of her outstanding qualities."

Business manager Loretta

Tekell reported a balance in all funds of $1,498,843, and said that as of March 31 the 1985 tax collection totaled $673,867, or more than 89 per cent of the total tax roll.

Sandra Teaff and Patricia Knight spoke to the board regarding criteria for attaining honor graduate status, with high school principal Dr. Duane Carter answering their questions. Bid of Hamilton Roofing Co. of Lubbock of $111,370 for repairing the gymnasium roof was accepted with a completion date to be Aug. 15. A bid of $8,600 for a freezer unit to be placed in the school cafeteria was accepted from Golden Light Equipment Co.

The board also voted to pay a career ladder supplement of $1500.

The trustees voted to go to a six-period day, instead of the current seven class periods. The schedule will be six academic periods and one activity class period, with credit requirements for 1986-87 graduation to be lowered to 23-24 on a one-year trial basis.

It was voted to change the board meeting time to 8 p.m. starting in May.

All board members were present, as were Supt. Clifton Gardner and other administrators, representatives of the Tahoka Classroom Educators and others.

O'Donnell Youth To Visit Russia, Meet President This Summer

Some young high school graduates celebrate in the summer after graduation by visiting Aunt Mary in California, or taking a trip to Six Flags, or maybe even traveling around to visit prospective college locations. But Philip Mac Furlow, O'Donnell High School graduate who has excelled in academics, athletics and citizenship for all of his high school years, will meet President Reagan in May and then go to Russia in June, having been chosen for two unrelated honors leading to these events.

Furlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Mack Furlow of Draw, was all-district and honorable mention all-state guard on the football team, went to regional in UIL persuasive speaking, and was a four-year member of the National Honor Society, holds a double handful of honors in FFA and has held district and conference Methodist youth offices, including president of two such groups. He also has won awards from Farm Bureau, Rotary, and other organizations.

Two of his biggest triumphs have come in the last month or so, however. He was one of five students in the entire nation--chosen from 2,800 applicants--to be selected for the Ronald W. Reagan Scholarship at Eureka College in Eureka, Ill., and one of 20 delegates chosen from over the nation to the 1986 People to People Agricultural Student Ambassador program, which means he will get to visit agricultural projects in England, Finland and the Soviet Union, plus some other European sites.

Fifty-six of the 2,800 high school seniors who were eligible to apply for the Reagan scholarship were selected for interviews for the scholarship. Philip then was chosen unanimously by the seven-member committee as one of the five students to receive the full four-year scholarship.

Established in 1982 to honor President Reagan, a 1932

graduate of the college, the scholarship is based on criteria of leadership potential, commitment to service and academic achievement.

As a Reagan scholar, Philip will also participate in a mentor program which provides the student a chance to learn from established leaders in his chosen field of study. Philip plans to major in political science and international law at Eureka College. The five recipients also are scheduled to meet President Reagan May 11.

Philip is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Barnes of Draw and Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Furlow of Lamesa.

The People to People Agricultural Student Ambassador program is designed to expand American youth's knowledge of other nations while personally

Annual Food, Fun Festival Set

The Lynn County Hospital Auxiliary met Monday morning, April 14, to finalize plans for the upcoming sixth annual Fun, Food Festival. Proceeds are to be used for the purchase of a Flexible Sigmoidoscope, which is used in the screening and diagnosing of colon and rectal disorders, including cancer. The Auxiliary also hopes to be able to purchase a drug-packaging machine which will enable the hospital pharmacist to package and label drugs for hospital patients more efficiently.

The Fun, Food Festival will be Saturday, April 26, from 5 to 9 p.m. in the Lynn County Show Barn in Tahoka. There will be food booths and entertainment. The 50 cent admission fee makes one eligible to win any of a variety of door prizes.

Among the many gifts and donations to be auctioned are a painting by Vicki Diggs, and afghan made by Dorothy Hale, a quilt made by Mrs. Eva Dorman, and a quilt made by the Senior Citizens.

representing the youth of this nation. As one of the 20 delegates to make the trip June 26, Philip will attend briefing sessions in Washington and two international agriculture events in England and visit research stations, farms, livestock shows and other events in Europe. He also will spend a week with a farm family somewhere and in each country he will visit cultural and historic sites.

"I think it's great," said Furlow of the program. "It's an excellent opportunity to see different types of agricultural systems." Of particular interest in the Soviet Union, he said, are the co-op farms where farmers are allowed to own part of the land they cultivate. The private plots on these farms, he said, reportedly produce more crops than the larger areas run by workers in accordance with official communist policy.

Furlow dismissed any doubts or apprehensions about traveling through that country with its totalitarian government, citing the cultural exchange agreement made as a result of the Reagan-Gorbachev summit.

And since he'll be a part of a 20-member delegation, said Furlow, their Soviet hosts will probably work hard to portray the best side of their country to the visiting American youth.

To make this trip, Philip is depending on the generosity of local businesses and some individuals who have made donations to help defray the travel expenses, which total more than $3,000. Much of his preparation for the trip had required his knocking on doors of businesses in Lynn and Dawson counties, explaining the nature of the undertaking and making a request for funds.

Most of the reactions he has received are favorable, he said, considering the destination.

"They think it's an excellent idea, since it's not every day someone gets to go to the USSR," he explained. "They are more open and willing to be a sponsor because they like the idea of an agriculturally-orient-

SCRIPTURE:

Isaiah 1:18; St. John 10:9-10

As I begin this writing, the question in my mind is this: WHAT can I say to awaken you who are in such grave danger of losing your life — your eternal life? Some who read thus far may laugh (uneasily?) but one may stop to think. Saith the Lord, "Come now, let us reason together." They may be alerted to the danger and seek to know the Good News of how to live abundantly and eternally.

Recently I made the statement to others that it is not what we say that is most important in doing the Lord's work, but it is how we say it. It is our willingness to follow Jesus, to be the instrument He can use to reveal Himself, and what He can do through us that is important. So in Jesus I find courage to write, for He wants you and He wants you to know how to obtain life.

Jesus — Who is Jesus? I plead with you to never rest until you know the answer to "Who is Jesus?"

"I am the bread of life..."

First of all, Jesus is the Son of God, sent to save us, to die for sinners who are separated from God, and He paid all the price to redeem you from sin and Satan; made a way for you to enter into heaven to live forevermore with the heavenly Father. Jesus is the way for you to have eternal life. He is the only way.

The important question now for you to answer is "What can I do? I want to live and never die, so what must I do to be saved?" Jesus said, "Come unto me ... and I will in no wise cast you out." He did not say wait until you can make yourself good before you come to me, but come just as you are and Jesus will change you. He can make the worst sinner clean. He can "mold" you as clay, one step at a time, finally into a likeness of Himself. No one else but Jesus can do that. Give yourself to Him and trust Him. His shed blood blots out your sins (all of them) and then He goes with you to show you all the way Home. If you fall, He helps you up to follow Him anew.

Don't wait. Come to Jesus now. God help us all to hear and to heed or we are lost forevermore. How to tell you... How to say it...?

Jesus saves! He is the one. He wants you, He loves you; will you accept Him? That is what you must answer now, while there is yet time. Then you, like me, will know you are a forgiven sinner, and joy and peace and eternal life are yours now.

OUT OF THE WOODS

By Juanell (Wood) Jones

I THINK I must be sick. I have actually enjoyed painting our back yard fence during the last few days. The days have been so nice, for the most part, and we have been intending to paint our fence since last summer (this was one of those projects that we kept putting off until we "had time").

So, last weekend I got out there with all the necessary materials close at hand — white paint, brush, wash rag, yard gloves, Pepsi, and Cheetos, and oh yes, two small and very helpful children. For those of you wondering where my husband was, he had been kidnapped by my father and brother for their annual motorcycle trip to regions never explored by cyclists before (not these cyclists, anyway). They really had to twist his arm to get him to go.

Anyway, we painted the fence, a tractor tire (to make a sandbox), some grass, three wasps, a couple of flies, and all our arms and clothes. When we finished, I truly knew the meaning of being "white-washed."

Actually, we didn't quite get finished because we ran out of paint. I bought another gallon this week, so if the weather permits, we will once again take brush in hand this weekend. This time, though, my husband will "offer" to help, I'm sure.

Our children think this is a wonderful pastime, I guess because it's fun to paint mommy.

Here's a little bit of Tahoka Trivia: Did you know that we have our very own Mother Hubbard who lives in a shoe (shop, that is)? Yes, her name is Beulah Hubbard, and she is a mother, and she and her husband used to run Dave's Shoe Shop on the south side of the square.

A widow now, she still lives in the renovated shop, and although her children are grown she still gets a chance to give away motherly love, volunteering time as a senior companion.

For you CB'ers out there, you may find yourself talking to "Old Mother Hubbard" one of these days. That's her handle, and that's the truth.

Museum Board Meets, Sets Wagon Train Activities

The Wagon Train is coming closer and closer! Nadine Dunlap, spokesperson for the Wagon Train Committee, reported on activities connected with the arrival of the wagon train on May 8. Many area schools will bus their students to Tahoka and the Tahoka Pioneer Museum Board Members will be on hand to assist any group or groups that wish to tour the museum.

At a regular meeting of the board on Monday, April 14, Mrs. Dunlap said that some group activities for school classes are in the planning stage and that the museum tour had been requested by various area schools. All museum board members will be available on the afternoon of May 8 at the museum for this purpose. Tentative arrangements are for Belton Howell, Tahoka Pioneer, who will be 100 years old in September of 1986, and who is planning on riding into Tahoka on the lead wagon, to be at the museum to talk to people about his past experiences.

A meal of hamburgers, chips, brownies and beverages will be served. Many organizations will be taking part in this endeavor.

The Tahoka Pioneer Museum board voted special thanks to Mrs. Dunlap for her efforts on this program.

Mel Leslie suggested that the board consider obtaining video equipment to use for recording special events and Harold Green, president, is to make inquiries on finding a knowledgeable individual to form a committee for this purpose.

Kenneth R. Durham, Heavy Equipment Curator, challenged the board to add three donations of the art work of Bill Craig to the museum collections and he would "give" the buggy that he has on loan to the museum.

Also Dr. Durham reported that Winston Wharton had completed restoration on a "Go-Devil" and it is on display on the terrace of the small back yard at the museum.

Other new acquisitions are various items of clothing and equipment from the World War I conflict donated by Mrs. G.M. Stewart. An army shirt, duffle bag and ditty bag with some of the containers still intact, and a sleeveless pullover sweater; a few pictures of Sgt. Stewart overseas in France during his time of service.

Three pieces of metal sculpture by Bill Craig, all early pieces from 1974 and 1975, were given in Memory of Robert E. Abbe, by the Abbe Family. The pieces are a windmill with a stock tank, an irrigation pump and a small planter.

Board members present were Harold Green, Lottie Jo Walker, Mel Leslie, Maurice Huffaker, Winston Wharton, K.R. Durham, Mabel Gurley, Madeline Hegi, Auda Norman, Jim Solomon, Mildred Abbe. Absent were Sonny Roberts, Bill Craig, Mary Louder and Weesie Carroll.

PREGNANCY

For a pregnant woman, a cigarette's nicotine sets off a reaction that constricts the blood vessels supplying the uterus with nourishment. This could cause reduced blood flow and lack of oxygen for the fetus. Also, the level of carbon monoxide in a smoker's blood is higher than normal and could reduce oxygen for the unborn baby. So if you are pregnant, give up smoking for the health of your baby, and yourself.

Children Need Practice, Not Preaching, To Learn Safety

Practice, not preaching, helps children learn safety. Many adults unwittingly allow their children to face danger in daily life without giving them the right kind of training, says a safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Because children don't have the mental capacities of adults, they must be taught in a manner that accounts for their limitations," says Dr. Gary Nelson. "Child education experts agree that young children generally must experience their lessons--not just hear them.

"So, if children are to learn safe methods, we must help them practice what we preach," Nelson emphasizes.

Children must be taken by the hand and shown how to do things safely, says the safety specialist. Then they should be observed to be sure they follow through when alone.

Practice, as a way of teaching, should be used to help children properly handle childhood dangers related to traffic safety, fire safety, climbing safety, proper behavior around animals, and safe use of toys. As children grow, also show them proper use of hand tools, safe use of kitchen appliances, and precautions with yard equipment.

Educators explain that demonstration saves children a big step in the mental process, Nelson points out. To follow verbal directions, children just interpret abstract words, which are merely symbols for actions, ideas and things, and apply them to the real world. Imitation, on the other hand, allows children to bypass the interpretation stage and match their action with the action seen or practiced.

"Children are much more likely to remember what they have done than what they have been told," notes Nelson.

Because children learn by example, it is most important and essential that adults use proper safety procedures themselves--all the time and not just when teaching children, Nelson emphasizes.

THE WOODBOX

BY TERRY WOOD

Recently I decided to clean my fish aquarium, but now I regret it since all my fish died after I changed the water. One of these fish was over 12 years old, a red-tailed shark given to me about two years ago by a friend of the family. The other four were all mine. I always find out a little more about how to take care of fish and their environment after one of them is dead, which means that I learn something new about every couple of months.

Aquariums look good when they are clean, but fish do things to make it hard to see through the water, so you have to clean them on occasion. I hate to do this because I'm basically lazy, but I did what I thought was right and caught my five fish, put them into a separate tank of some of the old fish water, emptied the tank of dirty water and then I took it into the backyard and rinsed it out with the waterhose. My 20 gallon tank has gravel in it which I figured needed cleaning also so I got one of those soap pads as usual and started scrubbing everything in sight.

Unfortunately this is a big no-no because you're not supposed to ever use any type of soap or detergent to clean the gravel, as I was later told by an employee at a pet shop.

They also said you are never supposed to use anything but chlorine bleach to clean a fish tank and also make sure that the new water is left to settle for 24 hours before you put the fish back in. (I always cheat on that one.)

Anyway, I thought I had rinsed all of the soap out of the tank so I filled it with fresh water and put it back inside and after the water reached a safe temperature which took about an hour, I put my fish back into their new water. They looked fine so I left and returned to feed them the next morning and all but one was dead, but I knew this one was a goner, too, because he was swimming upside down and banging his head against the glass--not a good sign.

After giving my fish a proper burial--two little ones down the toilet and the three big ones in the dumpster--I drained the tanks again and told some "fish people" my story, learned a little more about what not to do and what to do and now I have three fish who have been healthy and lively for a week now. If I can only remember half of what I'm supposed to know, they ought to have a good chance of survival.

"TRASHED OUT" — Weldon Self, left, Chamber of Commerce President, offers a helping hand to Naomi Norman, Grace Huffaker and Genny Halford as they clean up behind "Genny's" downtown store. The group was picking up mostly tumbleweeds which tend to gather at Genny's back door when the wind blows. The clean-up was in response to the Chamber of Commerce's request for businesses to spruce up before the Wagon Train comes to town in May.

CONSUMER PROBLEMS WITH COLOR LOSS IN CLOTHING--More consumers are finding out the clothes and household textiles they buy in one color may fade or develop spots and streaks after just a few uses. This color change and loss can be traced to the fabric manufacturers, the consumer or the cleaning procedures used. According to Dr. Ann Beard, textile specialist, International Fabricare Institute figures indicate half of the color change problems are due to manufacturing failures. "Some of the dyes may not be color fast to light, others are not colorfast to water and some are not colorfast to dry-cleaning solvent," she says.

LOW AND HIGH CALORIE DIET TRENDS—According to Dr. Alice Hunt, nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX), various studies show that as many as 75 percent of Americans may have changed their eating habits in some way as a result of diet or health concerns. Americans in general have increased their consumption of eggs, coffee, red meat and whole milk, she says. The trend toward lower calorie, lower fat foods has been reflected in everything from restaurant menus to reduced-calorie frozen entrees and salad bars in fast food stores. Yet industry figures show that Americans are also eating more croissants -- at 65 per cent fat-- more chocolates, more premium high-fat ice creams and more chewy cookies than ever, Hunt says.

IRRIGATION EFFICIENCY, SAFETY HIGHLIGHT EXTENSION ENGINEERING WORK-- Texas Agricultural Extension Service programs related to irrigation efficiency, farm safety and other areas benefit Texans in numerous ways, including reduced irrigation costs, increased water conservation, and reduced farm-related deaths and injuries. For example, on-farm demonstrations of irrigation pumping plant efficiency testing have shown a tremendous potential for cost reductions in farm irrigation pumping--$1.23 per hour on the average natural gas-powered pump for a furrow system, 56 cents per hour for the average diesel-powered pump, and $1.30 an hour for the average electric-powered pump. Educational programs in farm and ranch safety have helped reduce farm and rural accidents 28 percent over the past five years, representing a decrease of 255 fatalities and 25,500 disabling injuries.

Russian Wheat Aphid Makes First U.S. Appearance On Texas South Plains

An aphid which for almost a century has plagued small grain producers halfway around the world has made its first U.S. appearance in wheat fields on the South Plains of Texas.

Entomologists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service revealed April 1, that the Russian wheat aphid has been identified in fields from Gaines to Hall counties and from Parmer to Scurry counties, and in Curry County, N.M.

"This is no joke to our wheat farmers," said Dr. William P. Morrison, Extension entomologist, at a press conference at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center. The infested area annually produces some 17 percent of the state's wheat, with a yield of about 26.4 million bushels on 1.3 million planted acres. Yield reductions can result from infestations by this aphid, Morrison said.

The Russian wheat aphid injects a toxin into the plant on which it feeds. This can make the plant turn purple; cause infested leaves to exhibit white, longitudinal streaks; and give heavily infested plants a flattened appearance with the tillers lying almost parallel to the ground, the Extension entomologist said.

"The aphids are found mainly on the newest growth of the wheat plant, generally at the base of the tightly curled last leaf," Morrison said. In later growth stages, the aphids infest the flag leaf. Emerging wheat heads may become bent and white.

Morrison said a few fields he has examined on the South Plains in the last few days were beginning to experience whitish circles, three to five feet in diameter, where the aphids had begun to kill the wheat.

The Russian wheat aphid is relatively small, less than two millimeters long. It is green, with an elongated, spindle-shaped body. The Extension entomologist said it is easily distinguished from other aphids by extremely short antennae; a characteristic projection above the cauda (or tail) which gives it a "double tail" appearance, and to the naked eye, absence of prominent cornicles (or dorsal tubes) typical of other aphids.

It got its common name because it is indigenous to southern Russia, where it has been a pest of wheat and barley since the turn of the century. It also has been common in the Middle East and Mediterranean coastal regions of North Africa and Europe. In 1978 it was found to cause severe damage in South Africa. By 1981 it was found throughout South Africa and also was identified in central Mexico. By 1983 it had spread to northern Mexico.

There are no records until now of this aphid occurring north of Mexico.

Task Force To Outline Plans For Action

Leaders (Agriculture, Business, Government, School, Home Economics, Community and 4-H) will convene Monday, April 21, to outline plans, determine needs and establish long range plans for the Extension Program into the 1990's.

Rapid changes in the economy, population and agriculture are placing challenging demands on resources for all state residents and their communities.

"The changes point to the need for identifying the most critical issues facing Texans and Lynn County residents today, and determining new directions the Texas Agricultural Extension Service should take as the state moves toward the 1990's."

"Local citizens' input is crucial in this planning process if Extension is to fully address educational needs that reflect the major concerns of all Texans," notes Stanley M. Young, Lynn County Extension Agent.

At the local meeting, leaders will form four task forces for identifying the most critical issues in the fields of agriculture, home economics, youth and community development.
