WOODWORK

BY DALTON

SOME YEARS ago there was a report that a sixth grade teacher, trying to interest her students in some western folklore, announced that "William Bonney killed 21 people by the time he was 21 years old." The students were duly impressed and one boy wanted to know "What kind of a car did HE drive?"

This seems to be an appropriate illustration of what students these days are taught about the characters of the old west who lived in these parts of the southwest. Probably one of the reasons they aren't taught much is because the real facts about the most famous and infamous outlaws, peace officers, cowboys and pioneers are mostly buried in tons of literature and movies which never attempted to give any truthful portrayals. Billy the Kid, Calamity Jane, Buffalo Bill, Kit Carson, Jesse and Frank James, the Younger brothers, John Wesley Hardin, Ben Thompson, Wyatt Earp and his brothers, Geronimo, Doc Holliday and hundreds of others have been glamorized and fictionalized until it is difficult to separate fact from legend or just plain lies.

Yet all these people were real and some of their adventures were just as exciting as the ones dreamed up by writers. And many of them lived in this immediate area or close to it, so history books in Texas and New Mexico and other adjacent states should devote some space to what is known to be true or generally accepted.

William Bonney, or Billy the Kid, was the best-known participant in the Lincoln County War centered at Lincoln, N.M. in 1878. The confrontation was between two factions vying for control of sales of goods to the military and to settlers of the area; in other words, it was sort of like Sears and Wards hiring gunmen to shoot each other out of business.

One faction was the James Dolan-Lawrence Murphy crowd, the other was the Alexander McSween-John Henry Tunstall bunch. The latter two were British citizens, and it was with this group that Billy the Kid was allied.

The biggest battle of the Lincoln County War lasted five days, as about 30-40 gun-fighters for the McSween group gathered in Lincoln for a showdown with the much larger forces on the other side of the merchant struggle. There were about 11 men plus the families of McSween and some in-laws named Shields in the house when the battle raged in and around it for those five days starting July 14, 1878. Billy the Kid was one of those men and he escaped from the back of the house in a hail of gunfire. McSween stayed in the house even after it was set afire on the last day and was killed, along with four other men from both sides.

What stirred up our interest in all this stuff was a visit to Lincoln last week (it's the town you go to if you miss the turn to Ruidoso at Hondo). We learned after we arrived that on that very day, Saturday, July 19, exactly 108 years to the day after the McSween house was burned down, a group of archaeologists was starting to dig at the site of the McSween house, long buried in Lincoln.

State officials and historians are involved in the project. The dig, sponsored by several groups and partly paid by public donations, is expected to last for four weeks unless they get more money to continue it further.

Human Systems Research of Tularosa, N.M., is the contract archaeological firm, and I talked with two women who are part of the five-person team of experts doing the digging and sifting for artifacts.

Jackie Talley and Gennie Smith, both of Alamogordo, explained to me that the group had laid out a grid marked off by strings and were digging in small sections down six inches at a time in areas about four feet square. They then sift the soil to see if they can find anything.

Before the dig, Dr. Robert Utley of Santa Fe said that of the furniture, personal belongings, mirrors, utensils and such left when the walls of the burning house collapsed inward, "we're not likely to find much intact unless by chance it fell down into the shallow cellar the house was known to have."

The personable two ladies from Alamogordo said, however, that a woman's lapel pin was found the first day, within the six-inch depth, although nobody really expected to find much until they go quite a bit deeper.

Anyway, there's a lot of southwestern history in Lincoln and it really is an interesting place to go-- a lot quieter and less crowded than nearby Ruidoso, too.

Someday when I am long dead and perhaps well known, archaeologists may dig at places where I lived and find numerous sets of car keys and pieces of sunshades which I never could locate. And if by some miracle they could be preserved, hundreds of socks, all different, whose single mates I now have in my dresser drawer.

Man Held After Woman Slain, Child Attacked

A 38-year-old Wells community woman was murdered and her 11-year-old daughter reportedly was sexually assaulted sometime after midnight Saturday, and a 40-year-old farm hand who lived with the two victims was arrested and jailed.

Charged with murder and aggravated sexual assault on a child was Jimmie Earl Walker, a black male with a Lamesa address, but who was living in the house about 8 miles west of U.S. 87 on FM 213 where the incidents occurred.

The body of Barbara Lucille Richardson, who reportedly was Walker's wife, was found in the trunk of a car at the scene, where she was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Ben Morrison of O'Donnell. Morrison withheld ruling on the cause of death pending results of an autopsy. He also later set bond of $100,000 on each of the two charges filed against Walker.

Lynn County sheriff's officers said that the child, who was taken to the Rape Crisis Center at Lubbock, told them she was attacked by the suspect and that after she locked herself in a bathroom of the house, she heard her mother screaming and came out to discover her mother being beaten by the suspect, who was wielding a metal pipe. The child managed to escape the house and went to a home more than a mile away, from where the sheriff's department was notified, around 3 a.m. Sunday.

Deputy Cliff Laws went to the house where the girl had fled, talked with her briefly and then went to the farm hand's residence, accompanied by three ambulance attendants from O'Donnell. The deputy said the suspect in the incidents answered the door and told the deputy the woman was dead and was in the trunk of the car. Laws arrested the suspect, who gave no resistance, and the body of the woman was found in the car, badly beaten and with a stab wound in the neck. A section of pipe was taken as evidence.

Walker remained in jail Wednesday in lieu of bond.

Also in jail Wednesday in lieu of bond was another murder suspect, Felisiano Ramos Bustamante, 34, of Wilson, who was charged last week in the shooting death of Thomas Quintero, 37, of Lubbock, whose body was found near Lakeview a week earlier. Bond for Bustamante had been set at $75,000 by Justice of the Peace Ed Hamilton, although bond reportedly was to be lowered Wednesday to $20,000.

A third incident of violence during the last week involved a 23-year-old Tahoka woman who suffered a wound to the head from a piece of a shotgun slug in an incident about 2 a.m. Monday just southeast of the Tahoka city limits. Lupe Rodriguez of Tahoka was treated at Lynn County Hospital and transferred to the intensive care unit of Lubbock General Hospital.

No arrests or charges have been made in the case.

McCord Motor Co. reported to police on Monday that two 1986 Buicks had been damaged at the dealership. One was reported to have been dented on the top and the other car was reported to have had a broken windshield. These vehicles were apparently damaged by beer bottles, according to police.

Police also questioned two adults and one juvenile on Monday after a set of hubcaps was reported stolen from a used car at McCord's. No charges have been made at this time.

Tahoka police recovered a 1972 Pontiac Grand Prix on Sunday that reportedly had been stolen from Austin. Officers cur-

Stanley Young Cited For Distinguished Service

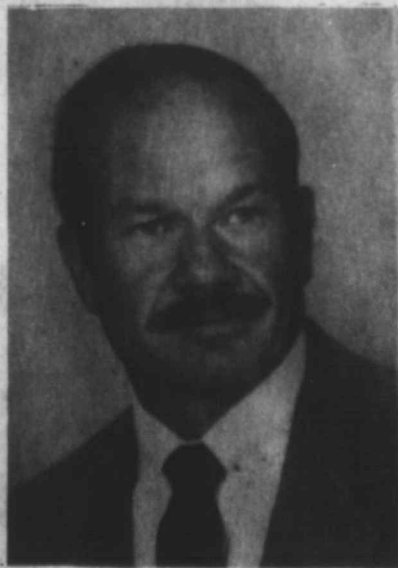

Stanley M. Young of Tahoka, who has served as Lynn County Extension agent for the past nine years, has been named to receive the Distinguished Service Award, the highest recognition given by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents.

The award is presented annually to county agents nationwide who have made outstanding contributions to agriculture and improved living, said Billy R. Thane of Brenham, Washington County Extension agent and president of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Assn.

Young is one of eight county agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, to receive the award, which will be presented at the NACAA meeting July 27-31 in Colorado Springs, Colo. He will also be given special recognition at the TCAAA meeting Aug. 3-6 in Fort Worth.

A 12-year veteran of the Extension Service, Young has conducted effective educational programs in cotton, sorghum, wheat, beef cattle and swine production. He is most noted for his successful work in cotton pest management programs that have actively involved more than 50 per cent of the growers in Lynn County.

Young was instrumental in organizing the Lynn County Livestock Assn. which has established a premium sale for the county's junior livestock show. This sale grosses more than $50,000 annually to provide financial returns for 4-H and

STANLEY M. YOUNG

FFA youth.

4-H programs in Lynn County have increased in quality and project participation also has increased due to Young's leadership and organizational abilities. Horse programs have increased 333 percent and 4-H'ers with swine projects have excelled at major livestock shows. In the past eight years Lynn County 4-H members have shown six grand champions at major shows over Texas, including the Grand Champion Barrow at San Antonio Livestock Show in 1982, '83 and '84.

Young joined the Extension Service in 1974 as an assistant county agent in Lubbock County after serving in the U.S. Army for two years. He transferred to Lynn County in 1977. A native of Swisher County, he holds a B.S. degree in animal science and an M.S. in animal breeding, both from Texas Tech University.

Frank Barrow, president of First National Bank of Tahoka since March 1, 1979, resigned that position at the regular monthly meeting of the bank's board of directors Wednesday.

The Rockdale bank has $51 million in deposits and is one of 26 banks owned by National Bancshares of Texas, headquartered in San Antonio, Barrow said.

The Barrow family includes his wife, Pat, a third grade teacher in Tahoka schools, and sons Boone, 15, and Tim, 13. They are members of the Methodist Church, and Barrow is past president of Tahoka Rotary Club and past president of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce.

"We have been in Tahoka for almost 7 1/2 years and it was very difficult to make the decision to leave," Barrow said. "The friendliness and resilient nature of the entire community will always be remembered by each of us."

"The Cowboys Mistique"

LUBBOCK—Where are you, Roger Staubach? Completing Real Estate deals instead of "Hail Mary" touchdown passes. What happened to you, Bob Hayes? He's completing a prison sentence for dealing drugs. Walt Garrison? Spanning the state on the Sesquicentennial wagon train, dipping Skoal the whole way. Tom Landry? Wondering where the good ol' days went.

least by Cowboy standards. No, the 'Pokes aren't a last-place team, but believe me, they're not bulletproof from that either. They've gone from the class of the league to the class clown of the NFL playoffs. Sadly, the Cowpokes have failed to do what is most difficult to do, and that's stay on top. The Bears, the Forty Niners, the Raiders and the Giants are the teams to beat, and America's Team is playing catch-up...something they've never had to do before.

"We're not going to deal from this deck next year," Cowboys president Tex Schramm declared angrily following his team's lackluster 20-0 loss to the Rams in the playoffs last season. "No one's job is safe, and I mean no one."

But you have to wonder if Ol' Tex isn't a year or two tardy with that decision. The Cowboys haven't had a game-breaking first round draft pick come through since they took Tony Dorsett 10 years ago. TEN YEARS. In the last 10 years, Marcus Allen, Earl Campbell, James Lofton, and countless other NFL legends-in-time have come into the league. Dallas has gotten nary a one. Non-skill positions? Mark Gastineau, the Jets all-everything defensive lineman, Rod Martin of the Raiders, Lawrence Taylor of the Giants, and the entire Bears defense have been drafted. Dallas has come away with the likes of Everson Walls and Michael Downs, and both of them were free agents, not taken in the draft.

The Cowboys haven't traded for a big-name player since they dealt their first round pick to the Colts for John Dutton. They've stubbornly clung to their "build through the draft" philosophy and their building's made of plaster.

Meanwhile, the rest of the league continues to play Dallas like they're a Super Bowl team. They were kicked around by the Cowboys in the Mid-Seventies, and now they're kicking back. Was there any doubt last season, when Cincinnati scored 56 points on that porous flex defense, that the 'Pokes were going nowhere fast? Hardly.

The Cowboys would be foolish to stand pat, but you can bet the road back will be a long one. Even today, the mainstays of the team are players drafted back when the Cowboys knew how to draft. It's still Danny White, Dorsett, Randy White and Ed "Too Tall" Jones who have to carry the load. Maybe in the last three years, the 'Pokes' have drafted better. Perhaps there are some young players out there who can come through. The problem is, though, that the jury is still out. And the jury is staying out too long. The Cowboys star players are long in the tooth, in need of revitalization, and it just hasn't happened. Potential abounds, production runs and hides. Therein lies the problem.

One of two things might happen to the Cowboys this season. They might make some wholesale changes. Guys like Tony Hill, John Dutton, Mike Renfro, Timmy Newsom, and Tom Rafferty might be moved aside, or even out. Tex, Tom, and Gil Brandt might even get gutsy and deal a big name (Tony Dorsett, perhaps?) for some defensive help, a running back and a wide receiver. The Cowboys might spend a year out of the playoffs...maybe with a losing record...for the sake of the future.

Or then, they might sit pat on what they have and do nothing...and be a perennial bridesmaid. Never a bride.

If you have a question or comment for RICK HAYES, please write; Rick Hayes, P.O. Box 64058, Lubbock, TX 79424.

Pete Bromley, as he always seemed to be, was happy.

Through his last years, though, he was really a lonely man. His wife left him, his children grew up and moved away, and his weight caused him serious health problems. One morning in his ranch house, a heart attack claimed him at age 55.

I often wonder if there's anyone left in the world with the charisma, the values and the warmth of Pete Bromley. But, that question is not important.

A Pete Bromley only comes along once in a lifetime. For that, I am eternally grateful.

rently are working with the Austin Police Department in this investigation.

A Tahoka resident was treated and released from Lynn County Hospital on Sunday for injuries received when struck on the head with a pistol during an altercation at a residence on Northeast 6th street.

Also during the past week, police investigated criminal mischief that occurred on South 5th and the east access road of Highway 87 that involved rental property belonging to Tom Cloe. Four windows and screens were reportedly damaged estimated at $180.

Granville Ayers reported to police during the past week that someone had stolen a set of jumper cables and a Roto Rooter from the back of Ayer-way Cleaners during the past week.

In jail during the week were the two murder suspects and one person for public intoxication and criminal mischief, an O'Donnell case in which a man was accused of breaking out some windows in a public housing development.

RESPONDING TO FREE GIFT OFFERS—Some "free gift" offers come with strings attached, that the consumer doesn't find out about until the merchandise has been received, says family economics specialist Nancy Granovsky. She points out that under Federal Trade Commission rules, all conditions and terms for receiving a free item must be sent out with the original offer.

"Before you sign up for this type of offer, be sure to read the fine print, she advises, "you'll probably find out that you have to pay something or do something in order to get the free item," says Granovsky.

Devotional

By Rev. Hazel House

SCRIPTURE:
I Peter 1:17-21,25; 2:5,9;
Hebrews 13:15-16

By holding on to each other, we hold on to hope and are held by hope. At least, in this sense, the church is a holding operation, a kind of survival group. Not holding each other down in smothering protectiveness or in hostile dominance, but holding each other up in prayer and deed, in compassion and patience and love. The church is a community that reaches out and touches — gets in touch with, stays in touch with, keeps touching each other with the touch of God's Grace. So we hold to the confession of our hope by holding to each other and by reminding one another that we are held by Another — our Lord Jesus Christ. That "He who promised is faithful" is what we trust.

Our coming together is to say together, "Lord, we love you" and "we praise you" — and to remind ourselves of the Other Reality (God)... to refer each other to the Reference Point behind everything else (Jesus Christ); to discover anew that in the dark shadows is God. We cannot afford to neglect meeting together to do all this (and Jesus knew this when He said for us not to forget to assemble ourselves together). Should we neglect this need, we will lose hold.

The church exists as a family, bringing children into the church, giving nurture to growing persons by correcting false images and declaring the Word, the Everlasting Mercy and forgiveness and love of God. The church has a strategic place in society, for no other institution has so clear an identity (and we identify with Christ), so creative a calling, so precious a commodity (life!). None other is so able to bear both the judging and the forgiving word. In spite of its messiness, its "historic corruptions," the church embodies and shares the grace that is God's grace.

In Hebrews 10:24, the Scripture says "stir up one another to love and good works." We are always stirring up one another to something. Is it to love and good works, or is it to withdrawal and inaction?

Former Teacher Visits Old One-Room School

A Tahoka woman who was once the only teacher for the nine grades in the one-room Loveland school between Lamesa and Seminole was the subject of a feature story in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal last week.

A-J writer Gerry Burton talked with Ina Slover of Tahoka about those days in the early 1930s when "Miss Ina" taught the classes at the school located near the present-day Mesa community halfway between Lamesa and Seminole.

One day, the A-J story said, a trustee showed up at the school with the news that the Seminole bank had closed and taken all the school's money. They couldn't pay the teacher's salary. In part, the A-J story related:

Miss Ina (now Ina Slover of Tahoka) had lost all of her money, too, by depositing it in the nearest town instead of going home to Tahoka for banking needs.

"I went a year without being paid. They couldn't pay me until people paid their taxes, and nobody had any money. Thirty years later, I got my money from the Seminole bank.

But, for the duration of the school year at Loveland School, Miss Ina boarded with two families, one named Lusk and one named Boyd, who knew she couldn't pay but were glad of a teacher so their children could go to school.

Memories of that time recently took Mrs. Slover back to the area to rediscover old students, a venture to be repeated frequently now that she has begun her heritage trek.

The school, once white and "so neat," today stands on the edge of an old gravel pit, the windows staring blankly at tumbleweeds and broomweeds fighting Johnson grass for right to be near the ramshackle structure.

Inside, the platform, where programs and plays once held forth for community enjoyment, has fallen to ruin, light pours through a buckling wall and a bare strip opposite shows where the blackboard was, once gathering place for the entire student body for a common arithmetic class with problems geared to status of each individual.

Floor boards, showing signs of desks once holding up to 22 students at a time doing essays about people and places according to degree of learning, are beginning to warp and buckle. A brick chimney stands in the corner, a black eye telling of the big coal stove that warmed the students except in frigid times when everyone stayed home in a time when parents judged the coming and going in bad weather.

Playgrounds - which once resounded to shouts of children playing ball, stealing sticks or wolf over the river - are weed-covered, showing no signs of happy feet at recess or marching feet headed for the nearby windmill with lunch buckets for a picnic.

Sandy approaches have no ruts to recall the big horse-drawn flatbed trailer full of youngsters celebrating the end of school with a ride for the annual festivity lauding "no more books" from May till August.

The land around now is "the prettiest, reddist farmland with a jillion oil wells," but when Miss Ina kept school, it was all sagebrush.

She added that it has been rewarding to have former students write or tell her how her teaching helped them later.

ATTEND CHEERLEADING CAMP--The Tahoka varsity cheerleaders attended camp at NTSU in Denton July 15-19. They received three superior, two excellent and a super star squad ribbon along with a certificate for receiving two spirit sticks. The mascot and sponsors also received blue ribbons. All school age boys and girls are invited to attend the one hour school.

County Accidents For June Reported

Capt. L. A. Reinhart, District Supervisor of the Lubbock Highway Patrol District comprising of 21 counties said, "For the month of June, our troopers investigated three fatal accidents, 60 personal injury accidents, and 68 property damage accidents. There were three persons killed and 60 persons injured in these accidents."

Sgt. Jack Chrane of Brownfield stated, "In Lynn county, our troopers investigated one fatal accident, two personal injury accidents, five property damage accidents in the month of June. One person was killed and two persons were injured in these accidents."

West Point Gets Rainfall

Rain fell in west and northwest parts of Lynn County Monday night, with 1.5 inches reported in the West Point vicinity by one farmer in the area.

West and northwest of New Home, .80 of an inch was measured. No rain was reported in Tahoka or other parts of the county.

HOME PRESERVATION WITHOUT SUGAR--Foods can be preserved at home with less sugar, but the results may or may not be acceptable to your tastes, says a specialist. Before trying no-sugar recipes on your produce, nutritionist Marilyn Haggard advises experimenting with small batches first to see if you are pleased with the results. Recipes for canning fruits call for the addition of sugar or a sugar syrup to maintain the texture, shape and color of the fruit and to improve the flavor, she explains. Omitting the sugar will primarily affect the fruit texture and flavor. When canning without sugar, the specialist says to use only firm ripe or slightly under-ripe fruit so it won't become too soft from canning. By adding ascorbic acid or a commercial and anti-darkening agent fruit will retain better color. "If you plan on using artificial sweeteners, add it when the fruit is served," says Haggart. "The heat of processing can cause some artificial sweeteners to become bitter and others to lose their sweetening power."

Cotton Today

'87 Export Sales Climb—U.S. upland cotton export sales commitments for 1987 delivery rose 236,300 running bales during week ended July 11. This brought next season's total commitments to 2,338,700. The week's major buys were Taiwan (87,000), South Korea (75,000), Indonesia (19,500) and Italy (14,900).

Net 1985-86 sales decreased by 200 running bales due to cancellations, buybacks, or deferments. Export Shipments for the week were reported at 4,700 bales, bringing the highest yearly export figure on record for American Pima. To date, 26,000 bales of Pima have been sold overseas for 1986-87 shipment.

CCI To Host Fourth Team—Continuing efforts to boost U.S. cotton export sales, Cotton Council International will host textile executives from southern Europe July 19-Aug. 3.

The delegation is from Italy, Spain, Portugal, and Greece, which together buy about 450,000 bales of U.S. cotton each year. During the two-week tour, the group will get a firsthand look at U.S. cotton production and marketing practices, and be briefed on details of the new farm program. A business reporter from Spain's second largest daily newspaper will accompany the group.

'Cotton Man' Song Being Aired—Mississippi songwriter Paul Ott's musical salute to cotton farmers is being played on radio stations across the Cotton Belt. Entitled "Cotton Man," the song was previewed at the National Cotton Council's annual meeting last January. Since that time, it has been arranged and recorded in a Nashville studio with Ott and the Greer Brothers doing the vocal.

The song has been distributed to some 800 radio stations along with three 30-second public service announcements paying tribute to cotton farmers.

The recording was made under a grant from FMC Corporation to the Cotton Foundation. FMC also has announced that it will contribute all proceeds from sale of the record to The Foundation's cotton research programs. To order, send your name, mailing address, and a $5 check or money order to the Cotton Foundation, P.O. Box 12284, Memphis, TN 38182.

Foreign Cotton Group To Visit

An European delegation of cotton and textile executives will receive a detailed explanation of the new U.S. farm law when it visits Lubbock Monday.

The group, composed of representatives from Italy, Spain, Portugal, and Greece, will spend two weeks in the U.S. on a trade mission sponsored by Cotton Council International. Officials of CCI, overseas arm of the National Cotton Council, said the delegation also will observe production and marketing practices of the U.S. cotton industry.

While in Lubbock, the group will attend a briefing and dinner reception hosted by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange. These Southern European markets together annually purchase around 450,000 bales of U.S. cotton.

The Sun's power in watts is 380,000 billion billion kilowatts.

EXTRA COST-SHARE FUNDS AVAILABLE—The ASCS Office has received additional funds to cost-share terraces, pipeline, and water storage tanks. The second sign-up will be Aug. 4-15. For more information contact the SCS office in Tahoka, 998-4622. The above photo shows ditch digging for irrigation pipe. (SCS PHOTO)

A Visit With Your County Agent By Stanley Young

Time To Control White Grubs In Lawn

Lynn County residents who want to protect their lawns need to keep a close lookout now for white grub worms.

May or June beetles have been emerging from the soil and swarming in lawns in the evening. Females laid eggs which have hatched into white grubs. These grubs are beginning to feed on roots of home lawn grasses. The Extension agent said, "Once grubs begin feeding, control measures should be taken."

Treatment time varies with the area of the state. Homeowners in the South Plains need to treat between mid-July and early August. Timing of chemical application is critical for adequate control.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns. Check for white grubs by cutting a square foot section of sod with a shovel and examining the roots and soil to a depth of four inches. Examine at least one square foot of sod for 1,000 square feet of lawn area.

Chemical treatment is needed if there are more than four grubs per square foot of sod. Diazinon, Dursban or Otanol provide adequate control and should be used at recommended rates given on the chemical container label.

The Extension agent said the granular form is easier to apply and to wash into the soil than are liquid or spray formulations. After using granules drag the grass with a tow sack or water hose to knock them down to the soil. The insecticide should be watered in with a half-inch to an inch of water immediately after application.

Diazinon sprays should be applied at the rate of 25 gallons of water. Including the insecticide, per 1,000 square feet to wash the chemical into the soil. Wetting the lawn before spraying also helps.

"Always keep children and pets off the treated lawn until the grass is dry," the county agent stressed.

The key to controlling white grubs in home lawns is proper timing of chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where the grubs are feeding.

Some companies count on fact that many consumers mistakenly believe they are obligated to pay for the merchandise or to return it at their own expense, says Nancy Granovsky, a family economics specialist. Beauty is not skin deep. Your skin can only be as healthy as your body is healthy. Dr. Grassman, plastic surgeon of Denver, suggests: "Avoid deep-fried, empty-calorie, sugar-laden meals and snacks. ## OUT OF THE WOODS

By Juanell (Wood) Jones

A RATHER pointed editorial comment has mysteriously appeared on my refrigerator door at home. If you recall, last week's column referred to my ongoing "battle of the bulge" and how my husband's ice cream purchase upset me.

Just last night when I went to the refrigerator to open the freezer compartment for (no, not ice cream) some ice, I noticed a new cartoon had been taped to the door. Periodically I tape to the door a cartoon that seems particularly fitting to our lifestyle, like the one of "The Better Half" where Stanley looks up at Harriet from his easy chair and says, "What do you mean I never help with the housework

ATTENTION: GTE CUSTOMERS IN WILSON

General Telephone will offer an optional customer exchange program to all Wilson customers. This exchange program will be in effect Thursday, June 5, through Friday, September 5, 1986.

The exchange program is being offered to single line residential and business customers with leased equipment who wish to exchange their present rotary dial for touch dial equipment. These customers may do so by bringing their telephones to the Tahoka Local Service office, located at Murray's Florist, 1537 Avenue J, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The equipment exchange is on a voluntary basis, and any customer who wishes to continue with current rotary equipment may do so.

The current rate for single line residential service is $8.55 plus Extended Area Service (EAS) $1.35 and $2.00 access charge. For single business line service, the rate is $22.15 plus EAS $3.55 and $2.00 access charge. Depending on the style of equipment the customer selects, the monthly customer rental rate may vary. Regulated customers (those customers who have not changed any service since January 1, 1982) who turn in their equipment will change automatically to a deregulated rate base, since all regulated equipment stocks have been depleted. Deregulated customers see a slightly higher monthly rental charge. During this special 90 day period, between June 5 and September 5, 1986, the usual handling fee for touch call service of $8.00 for residential customers or $13.50 for business customers has been waived. The monthly rate for touch call dialing is $2.00 for residential customers and $2.50 for business customers.

This exchange program is being offered in conjunction with the May conversion of the Wilson central office to computerized switching. The switch, which is designed to process touch call dialing, requires rotary dialing to be converted into touch call dialing signals, with the result that rotary dialing is much slower and more expensive than touch call dialing. General Telephone would like to offer the opportunity to Wilson customers to upgrade their telephones with as little inconvenience and cost as possible.

Customers with questions may contact the local business office at (806) 637-8531 for residential customers or (806) 637-7641 for business customers.

... aren't you forgetting March 14, 1965?" He figured that covered his housework for the next 30 years or so.

I don't know if my husband took offense at that or not, but to get back to my story — the new cartoon of "The Better Half" shows Stanley and Harriet reading a book entitled "How To Have A Hard, Flat Tummy." The book advises the best way is to "find a large wooden plank — eat it whole."

When I questioned Gary about this new "dieting technique" and how it had found its way to the refrigerator door, he just grinned and said he "thought it was funny." Uh, huh ... real funny.

There's another cartoon I like better. My sister, who sympathizes with me, sent me a "Garfield" cartoon where the cat's owner says, "Garfield, I'm putting you on a diet." Poor Garfield gives him a pained expression, so the guy says, "Now I know you hate diets. If you can think of a better way to lose weight, I'm willing to listen." So Garfield holds up a furry paw and pleads, "Amputate something."

When I get to heaven, one of the things I plan to ask God is why He didn't put little doors in our tummies so that when we finished overeating, we could open our tummy door and "take out the trash." Sounds like a good idea to me.
