Ag Commissioner Candidate Visits Tahoka Thursday

Bill Powers, Republican candidate for Texas Agriculture Commissioner, was in Tahoka briefly Thursday afternoon. Powers criticized the present ag commissioner, Jim Hightower, as having "a lack of sensitivity to the state's budget problems,' and said the office needs "leadership instead of showmanship."

Powers said that Hightower's department made no spending cuts after Gov. Mark White issued a call for a voluntary 13 per cent cut.

"Jim Hightower has shown no fiscal responsibility or leadership whatsoever," said Powers. "It is evident that Hightower's plan is to spend, spend, spend and have the government tax, tax, tax, while you and I pay, pay, pay."

WOODWORK BY DALTON

A PREACHER was telling us the other day some things about being especially chosen, and he mentioned those who go in the first round of the draft, so to speak. He prefaced that with a comment that "God ain't mad at me," then added, "that's bad grammar, but good theology."

I don't know what he meant by that. I didn't hear no bad grammar.

This preacher went on to pose the question, "Do you remember when you were a kid and they chose up sides to play baseball or football? And were you ever the last one to be chosen?" He pointed out what a humiliating experience it was to be selected last. This was quite a revelation to me. I remember I was almost always the last one picked when we chose sides. But I thought they were just choosing in alphabetical order. This got me to thinking about how members of our family used to play touch football every Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day for many years, when our children were growing up, and we had people going out to the parks and vacant lot for those good games of touch ranging in age from 9 or 10 to their late 40s.

I played in these games with the sons, uncles, brothers-inlaw, friends and other males for years, until I was in my late 40s. Even then, unless I did the choosing, I was usually the last one chosen.

Somewhere in those years of touch football, I learned to detest young, trim, tall and agile people. Like one day very late in my illustrious sandlot football career I finally was chosen to play on a team selected by some young guy about 27 or so; lean and fast. "What do you want to play?" he asked me as we walked out to receive the kickoff.

'Quarterback,' I replied. But he explained that he wanted to play quarterback himself. "How about wide receiver?" he snickered. "You certainly are wide enough."

I have disliked tall, skinny guys ever since.

LIKE MOST of you, we received our our property tax notices in the mail this week. And like most of you, the taxes were a lot higher. And like most of you, our economic situation is worse than it was last year.

"How in the world am I going to ever pay all this?" I wondered aloud after I totaled them all up. "Go rob the bank," suggested a fellow worker. This sounded like a good idea, so I went home for my Saturday night special, stuck it in my pocket and headed for the bank. The only trouble was that everyone else got his tax notice that day, too, and people were standing in line for more than a block waiting their turn to rob the bank. By the time I reached the window with my note and gun, the bank would have been closed for the day.

Dr. Kenneth Durham, a 1956 graduate of Tahoka High School and now a professor of history at LeTourneau College in Longview, presented an autographed copy of his book, "Santa Anna-Prisoner of War in Texas" to the Tahoka High School library during the publishing house in Paris, TX., assembly of ex-students here Sept. 19.

The book was published this year and includes material collected by Dr. Durham for his master's thesis in 1963.

Dr. Durham said he received a call from the owner of a regarding the possibility of making into a book the thesis which Dr. Durham had done more than two decades ago. "I was real surprised and delighted."

Skipper Steely, a history buff who has made his interest in history into a publishing business, had been doing some research at East Texas State University in Commerce when he came across a copy of Durham's 1963 thesis on Santa Anna and his time spent as a prisoner in the Republic of Texas.

Durham said Steely felt that with the renewed interest being shown statewide in Texas history due in part to this year's celebration of the Texas Sesquicentennial, with some work Durham's thesis topic could be a marketable book.

"Santa Anna-Prisoner of War In Texas" is Durham's first published book, although he has completed a number of shorter articles in magazines and journals. Durham said he reworked his college thesis and updated it with some research he has done in more recent years for the book. While the name of Santa Anna should be familiar to most people who have had a basic course in state history, Durham said his work is one of the few studies focusing solely on the time the Mexican leader spent imprisoned by the Republic of Texas.

While the casual observer might consider Santa Anna's capture at San Jacinto a benefit for those fighting for Texas' independence, he turned out to be more of a liability than an asset, Durham said.

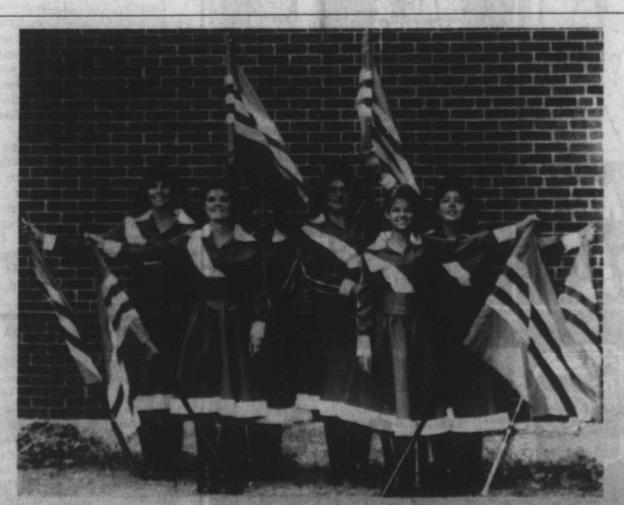

"He could have been killed at San Jacinto and Texas would have been better off," the author

Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna Perez de Labron, Santa Anna's full name, was the source of much debate among Texas independents. The treaty agreed upon by Mexico and the Republic of Texas called for the prisoner to be returned to his country.

But Durham said many Texans, including a number that were armed, remembered Goliad and the Alamo and wanted to see Santa Anna shot or hanged. Others thought keeping Santa Anna alive would give Texas an edge in negotiations for the recognition of independence from Mexico, he said.

> Phebe K. Warner Study Club met Sept. 23 in the home of Grace Prohl with Dorothy Draper serving as co-hostess. Nineteen members and two guests were present. Twila Gibbens-Rickman was welcomed as a new member.

> Members voted to contribute $25 to the Girlstown Education Fund and were reminded that their Oct. 14 meeting is collection day for supplies for Girlstown.

Guest Nadine Dunlap, Co-Chairman of the Lynn County. Harvest Festival Committee, expressed thanks to those who had participated in and helped with the Harvest Festival. Special thanks was given by Zuma McWhirter to those club members who served as hostesses for the fair where children's art from the Tahoka Public School was displayed as well as many other art and craft projects from Lynn County residents.

In keeping with the "Texas Heritage" theme of the meeting, members answered roll call with some interesting Texas facts and trivia. One such fact that might be of interest to Lynn County residents concerns the naming of Lynn County. In 1876, Texas legislators named this county after G.W. Lynn, an Alamo martyr. Further research reveals that Granston Washington Lynn did not die in the Alamo; rather, he participated in the siege of the Alamo at an earlier date. There was a man named William Linn, from Boston, Massachusetts, who did die in the Battle of the Alamo. More than likely, it was intended that the county be named after Linn. The program was brought by two ladies who have had much to do with making Lynn County's Sesquicentennial Celebration year a great success: Beth Huffaker, Chairman of the county's Sesquicentennial Celebration committee, and Nadine Dunlap, Texas Wagon Train Spokesperson. Mrs. Huffaker reviewed the many activities and events of the '86 year and noted that the committee is planning yet one more activity to bring the Sesquicentennial Celebration, here to a close. When the year 1986 itself becomes history, Lynn County residents will have preserved some of the year's memories in the Tahoka Pioneer Museum.

The official Tahoka Sesquicentennial banner is displayed there along with the Texas Sesquicentennial etching. Also there are the video cassette recordings of the Miss Wagon Trian and Mr. Trail Boss Contest and the arrival of the Texas Wagon Train on May 8. Tahokans can be especially proud of the recently unveiled mural by artist Bill Craig, which depicts a historic scene at nearby Tahoka Lake. Eventually there will be a marker in front of City Hall designating Tahoka as an official Sesquicentennial community and Texas Wagon Train site. Mrs. Huffaker says that the committee plans to use the money it has left at the end of the year on some lasting projet in this area. As the program ended it was agreed that the overall effect of Texas' 150th year celebration has been increased patriotism and interest in Texas history and heritage.

Leopards to the victory. Texline's Lonnie Asher had given the Tornadoes a 12-8 lead with a thirdquarter touchdown.

New Home opened up the scoring in the first quarter with a safety by tackling Asher in the end zone following a fumble.

The score remained 2-0 until a 5-yard touchdown by the Tornadoes' Mitchell Bezner in the second quarter gave Texline a 6-2 lead that stood until intermission.

In the third quarter, New Home's Carey Rudd took a kickoff return 65 yards for a touchdown and New Home was once again in the lead, 8-6, but the lead see-sawed once more as Asher darted 14 yards to put the Tors in front 12-8

Wyatt's 9-yard TD scamper put the Leopards ahead to stay late in the third period, and Wyatt tallied on a 1-yard insurance touchdown pass in the waning minutes, but the Leopards held on to secure the victory.

Asher paced the Tors with 140 yards on 23 carries.

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor do not necessarily express the views of this newspaper. All correspondence must be signed, and in good taste before it will be published, and the name of the writer must be published also. Letters to the editor may not be more than two double-spaced typewritten pages.

Dear Editor...

These are some feelings I had as I returned home from Tahoka's Homecoming activities. If it is not too lengthy, I would like for you to publish it.

A casual observer might have wondered a couple of weeks ago at a small group of middle-aged folks walking down the streets in Tahoka, talking about Collier's Drug Store, Rutherford's ...

Levine's.. Robinson's..etc. They walked through Rutherford's, where hand-made articles were on display, but their comments were not about the handwork. Instead, one might have overheard such comments as... "This was the men's department"...Here is where the X-ray machine stood...The piece goods were here...Remember when we would gift wrap up there ... " etc.

On down the sidewalk they walked. Other building fronts were identified as they were thirty years before. And for a few seconds, those vacant, neglected buildings took on, in the minds of the observers, the look and busy-ness of days gone by.

These strollers were from the Tahoka High School Class of 1956. From that class of 43 graduates, 32 had returned to the reunion and to renew acquaintances. Out of these 32, 22 had been first graders together in 1944 in Tahoka Elementary.

Today, there are farmers, pilots, doctors, lawyers, educators, preachers, career women, preacher's wives, teachers, coaches, builders, housewives, business men, etc. But for a few short hours, they were fourth graders again, running races to win the heart of a girl friend, chasing each other around during recess, remembering first dates, discussing great victories on the football field and basketball courts, recalling senior trip escapades.

It was good for them all to escape "today" and to retreat back into "yesterday" for a few hours. Those hours of remembering helped them to understand the importance of lasting friendships, of community pride, of victories and defeats, of the acceptance of life and of death... of sharing one's feelings and thoughts.

Cars and air planes took these adults back into "today"...with memories of the memories lingering still. They are richer from having spent a few hours together ... talking laughing, crying.. and being kids again.

Thank you, Tahoka, for giving this group of "kids", good, wholesome memories.

May it ever be so! Mariana McGinty Long

Mauro Family 'Caravan' Stops Here Tuesday

Lou Mauro Strauch, mother of Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro was in town with family and friends campaigning for her son Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Strauch said, "Garry has done an excellent job as your Texas Land Commissioner, and I am not just saying that because I am his mother."

Mrs. Strauch said that in their endorsement of her son, Texas Business magazine said, "When he ran for office in 1982, he promised that if elected he would run (the General Land Office) like a business...he has fulfilled his pro-

BUYING SUGAR SUBSTITUTES

For years large food and drug companies have been pursuing the perfect substitute for sucroseor sugar. Most of their efforts have gone into artificial sweetners, such as saccharin, cyclamate and aspartame. But the companies are also experimenting with other types of sugar, including xylitol, sorbitol and fructose, as a replacement for sucrose.

Every sweetener so far has some disadvantages. Saccharin has a bitter aftertaste and its safety has not been firmly established. Aspartame cannot be heated and is very expensive. Cyclamate may pose health risks. And the sugar alcohols are poorly absorbed by the body.

Dieters and diabetics are the most likely candidates to use artificial sweeteners. Diabetics should check with a physician to see which artificial sweeteners fit into their diet plan.

Since nearly everybody diets from time to time, artificially sweetened foods are growing in popularity. But according to the Food and Drug Administration, there is no evidence that drinking diet soft drinks or eating artificially sweetened foods will help a person lose weight. Consumption of diet sodas and other artificially sweetened products have dramatically increased, and yet Americans are heavier than

The only proven way to lose weight is to reduce caloric intake from all sources and to increase physical activity. Even for diabetics the need to avoid sugar is open to question, since diabetic diets have been liberalized to

'GENERIC' DRUGS

You can stretch your budget dollar by asking your doctor to specify the 'generic' name of drugs rather than the brand name in prescriptions he writes for you and your family. The cost of brand name drugs includes the advertising and prestige of the large pharmaceutical company that produces it. Generic drugs are of the same chemical formula but usually at a

The sugar substitutes on the market are not harmful, but probably should be kept used in moderation. To be safe, children and pregnant women should avoid saccharin.

Eagles Roll On Unbeaten

The O'Donnell Eagles raised their season record to a perfect 4-0 with a tough 8-0 win over Roby in a non-district game last Friday night, and this week will get a rest before starting district play the following Friday.

Not until the fourth period did the Eagles break the defensive battle at Roby with a 6-yard scoring run by Charles Sanchez, followed by a 2-point run by Bobby Sanchez.
