Horwood Family Facing Deportation

Members of the Bruce Horwood family, who have lived in Tahoka for the last six years except for a 3-month return to their native Great Britain, have been ordered to leave the country by July 4.

Mrs. Dorothy Horwood said Tuesday that the Immigration Dept. had indicated to her and her husband in a May 14 interview in Dallas that their problems could be worked out and they could continue to live in the United States, but said the letter just received gives them just over three weeks to leave the country.

The Horwoods have contacted the office of Sen. Phil Gramm, and his office is working on the issue. However, it has been suggested that the senator's office would have more ammunition for its case if friends of the Horwoods in Tahoka will write the senator immediately so the letters can be shown if necessary as support for the Horwoods to continue living in Tahoka.

Interested persons are urged to write Sen. Phil Gramm, 370 Russell, Senate Office Bldg., Washington D.C. 20510.

The ruling also affects the two children of the Horwoods. Daughter Jane, 21, is a graduate of THS and son Andrew, 18, is to be a senior in high school. They also would have to leave the country unless something can be done.

Horwood is a plumber with steady work in Tahoka.

"Immigration has been telling us one thing and telling Sen. Gramm's office something else," said Mrs. Horwood. "We certainly will appreciate any support we can get. All we want to do is to continue to live and work in Tahoka."

Tahoka students in grades 7-12 are asked to pick up their academic records at the high school as they will not be mailed this year.

Cowboy Breakfast Offered At McNeill Ranch

Something new has been added to the list of fun things to do on the South Plains, according to the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, who received information this week about an "Authentic Cowboy Breakfast" with a feeling of the "way it was back then."

NEEDS SOME PARTS—This 1985 Chevrolet may need some new parts after it smashed into the front of Tahoka Auto Supply on Main St. Monday after being involved in a collision with another car. There were no injuries to the driver, Leona Strickland of Tahoka, or to the driver of the other vehicle, Janet Norwood Harvick of Tahoka. At right, Tahoka Auto owner Leonard Dunn inspects a plate glass window broken in the mishap and a dented ladder which only moments before the incident had been used by a painter who had just climbed down.

Rural Area Home Hit By Burglars

Another rural home in Lynn County was the target of burglars sometime between last Thursday and Monday, as items valued at more than $2700 were stolen from a residence north of West Point, owned by a Lubbock man.

Among the items taken were a GE refrigerated window air conditioning unit, an RCA 25-inch color TV and cart, antique radio, bumper pool table and accessories, chairs, and an electric cord.

Police investigated a family disturbance in the 1800 block of South 7th on Tuesday. Upon arriving, police found that a husband and wife had been fighting and the woman told police that her husband had assaulted her. Police reported that the 35-year-old man had to be handcuffed and was arrested and taken to Lynn County sheriff's office where he was booked and jailed.

Police investigated an accident at 1600 Main on Monday that involved a 1980 Pontiac driven by Janet Norwood Harvick of Tahoka and a 1985 Chevrolet driven by Leona Hull Strickland of Tahoka. No injuries were

Scrambled TV Irks Cable Subscribers

Subscribers to Tahoka cable television channels have been deprived of much programming on Channel 5, Christian Broadcast Network, during the last couple of weeks as the channel has been scrambling its signal on a test basis preparatory to permanent scrambling later this month.

Officials at the cable company, Signet Cablevision, admitted receiving complaints from subscribers, and said this week that hopefully the problem will be resolved soon and viewers will be able to receive all the channels designated.

Channel 6, ESPN, also has been scrambled a few times, as has Channel 17, the fulltime news channel. A company representative said descrambling devices are supposed to be operating soon, but they had not yet arrived at the local outlet.

Officials of the parent company's managerial firm are scheduled to be in Tahoka this week.

WOODWORK BY DALTON

SOME GUY NAMED Jimmy Hatlo (I think) used to draw a cartoon called "They'll Do It Every Time," a sort of forerunner to the Murphy's Law theory which says if something can go wrong, it will. And all of us have experiences which fit the "it happens every time" theory.

For example, suppose you are an office worker and during a slow period of the day or week you are left alone, as the only person in the office (or you may be the only person in the office every day). You sit around or dust things and try to find something constructive to do for an hour, while no customers come in, and the phone is silent.

Finally you have to go to the restroom, so you make a quick dash into it. The phone immediately rings, and you hear three people up at the front of the building. They have been waiting patiently outside for you to go into the restroom, so they can come in and holler "Is there anybody here?"

Even when I was in college, the telephone situation was the same. I remember a physics teacher at North Texas State posing the old question "What happens when a body is immersed in water?" and giving the now-old answer, "The telephone rings." This is an almost certain way to get your phone to ring at home; that's why many persons now have phone extensions in the bathroom.

Some people are more likely to have things go wrong than others. I am one of these; my wife says it is because I expect something to go wrong. "You're too pessimistic," she says. And I reply, "I'm not either...it's just that I know from experience that everything is going to turn out lousy, and besides, the whole world hates me..."

Twice I have gone to banquets where everybody got served but me (until I made a scene). My boneless fish often has bones in it. I am invisible to waiters in restaurants. I am the only person in the world who has never been to Hawaii. I could go on ad nauseum, but I won't.

Actually, I'm mostly kidding. Things don't always turn out bad; some are even great. I have good health and good friends and $31 in the bank and our house will be paid for in only 264 more months.

Canyon, George and Opelia McNeill will load passengers into a wagon and pull them down a ranch road with a restored 1934 "poppin' Johnny" tractor. Stopping under the tall cottonwoods down by the riverbed, passengers are treated to an old-time cowboy breakfast of homemade sourdough biscuits, cream gravy, Ophelia's wild plum jelly, campfire-scrambled eggs, bacon or sausage, campfire coffee, and juice -- all served from an antique chuckwagon.

The site is five miles into the historic 105-year old SR Ranch which was recognized during its 1982 Centennial Celebration by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Tickets are $14 per person. Individuals may make reservations but will be put on standby until a group of 25 is made. The McNeills will begin cooking June 10 every day but Sunday throughout the summer and into the fall. Reservations must be made for 25 or more at least 10 days ahead and only through the

MRS. BRENT HOWARD HOFFMAN Nee Jana Lynn Boardman

Boardman - Hoffman Exchange Vows

Jana Lynn Boardman and Brent Howard Hoffman exchanged wedding vows at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church of Crosbyton. Dr. Lester B. Griffin officiated the double-ring rite.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Boardman of Crosbyton. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Nowlin of Lakeview and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Huddleston of New Home.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hoffman of Lubbock.

Traditional wedding music and prenuptial selections were presented by a brass quintet from the Texas Tech Band. Leslie Chambers, former Miss Lubbock, sang "Flesh of My Flesh" "Only The Beginning" and "The Lord's Prayer". She was accompanied by John Griffith. "Trumpet Voluntary" called attention to the bride's entrance and was performed by Mark Heidel of Lamesa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white bridal satin by Milady. The bodice was designed with an open neckline appliqued with alencon lace ornately encrusted with white iris sequins and seed pearls. The full length Elizabethan sleeves were shadow-boxed with alencon lace also encrusted with pearls and iris sequins.

The fitted princess bodice, complemented by a trim basque waistline featured pearl drops and clusters along with sequins shaping the v of the waist. The ball gown skirt fell into a full cathedral train with lace motifs and appliques encrusted with pearls and white iris sequins embellishing the skirt. Sculptured, bejeweled alencon lace graced the edge of the skirt. A candy box bow completed the back of the gown.

The bride chose a band of pearls and crystals accented with a side waterfall headdress which completed her ensemble, with French tulle fingertip veil attached.

She carried a cascading bouquet of Dendrobium orchids, champagne roses, white lilies and miniature Han's ivy. For tradition, the bride carried a handkerchief that was carried by her mother, grandmother and sister at their weddings. Something blue was her garter, borrowed was an 1889 Indian head penny placed in her shoe by her grandfather. She carried a necklace belonging to her great-great-grandmother Boardman. Something new was her gown and veil.

The groom wore a white tailed tuxedo with white tie and cum-berbun. Mrs. Troy Davis, sister of the bride, of Crosbyton, was matron of honor. Maid of honor was Catherine Baen of Mathis. Martha Cobb of Lubbock, Beth Filgo of Lancaster, Andra Draper of Tahoka, Suzanne Latch of Lafayette, La., Linda Hoffman of Lubbock, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Teri Cowan of Odessa were bridesmaids.

They wore teal satin gowns with sweetheart necklines accented with teal lace motifs encrusted with teal iridescent sequins and gold beads. The modified puff sleeves enhanced the princess lines of the fitted bodice. The waltz length skirt featured vertical fishtail ruffles caught at the waistline with a candy box bow. They carried bouquets of purple and lavender dedrobium orchids, yellow freesha, rubrum lilies and pre-vait roses in a cascading style.

Jerrell Key of Lubbock served as best man. Serving as groomsmen were Billy Breedlove of Lubbock, Brent Bertrand of Lubbock, Kevin Parr of Lubbock, Clay Powell of Lubbock, Brent McCarty of San Angelo, David Howard of Lubbock, and Kent Hoffman of Lubbock, brother of the groom. They wore black tuxedos with black ties and cum-burmbuns.

Guests were registered by Louise Shive of Coahoma and Jenny Dwyer of Crosbyton.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in fellowship hall. Servers were Tonya Heath, Amy McDowra, Jenny Dwyer, Louise Shive, Lisa Wunneburger, and Misty Montgomery.

Rice bags were presented to the guests by Amy Simpson.

The bride is a graduate of Crosbyton High School, Texas Tech University and is employed by Ralls ISD. The groom is a graduate of Monterey High School, Texas Tech University and is employed at First National Bank of Lubbock.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will live in Lubbock.

Courtesies

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman. The dinner was held at the County Line restaurant in Lubbock.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held June 6 at the Lubbock Club. Mrs. Nathan Boardman and Mrs. Tony Davis, mother and sister of the bride were hostesses.

ALLERGY UPDATE

Living With Your Sensitivities

Man's best friend can be one of his eye's worst enemies.

Dander, minute scales from the hair or skin of dogs and other pets, can trigger an allergic response in susceptible individuals. A similar reaction can be elicited from those sensitive to pollen, dust and mold spores. Regardless of the cause, the results are the same thing: itching, tearing, burning, red eyes, among other symptoms.

Medical experts refer to this eye condition as allergic conjunctivitis, commonly known as red eye.

Avoiding the allergic causes of red eye may be no simple task. Allergies may take years to surface in some individuals, and the pet who has become part of the family may have to be let go if another member becomes allergic to it. Other individuals susceptible to pollen may have to give up outdoor activities during certain times of the year, while some must totally avoid certain environments, such as dust- or smoke-filled rooms.

If getting rid of the family pet or foregoing a trip outdoors is too drastic a measure, there are alternatives. Medication is available that can lessen an individual's sensitivity to certain allergens. Potential pet owners might do well to investigate those breeds of animals, such as poodles, which do not affect most allergy sufferers.

During periods of peak pollen counts, those who suffer from allergies are advised to use their home and auto air conditioners and keep their windows closed. Those sensitive to dust can avoid household furnishings that raise dust, such as draperies and cloth upholstered furniture. The surroundings should be dusted with a damp cloth frequently, to avoid much dust accumulation, and damp-mopping is recommended over sweeping.

Red eye may flair up from time to time despite constant vigilance. Relief is available in the form of over-the-counter eye drops. The latest, OcuClear* from Schering Corporation, soothes, clears and keeps the red out better and three times longer than leading brands.

Along with eye drops and allergy medications, sensitive individuals can find relief.

Letter to The Editor

Dear Editor:
 I am writing to you because about a month ago we had some cans taken from the Tahoka Nursing Home. The Little People and the Nursing Home Staff had saved these cans for the last year in hopes of using them to buy something for the Little People. We save these cans every year to buy something for our home!

Last year we bought outdoor furniture for the home's backyard. This year we were going to buy something different or take some of our Little People fishing or on a little adventure. Now our whole year's savings have been taken from, not us, but from our residents. It has to be a sad situation for someone to take from our elderly citizens of our community. We ask that someone return these cans to where they were taken and NO QUESTIONS ASKED! We hope that if they are not returned that they will be of better use than what we had planned.

Thank you for letting us air our problem.
 The Staff of the Nursing Home and the Residents.

Dear Sir:
 I just wanted to write and tell you how much I enjoy the Lynn County News.

I grew up near Tahoka, six miles east of town. My parents were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hammonds. I still have relatives that live there. I've been gone for 47 years.

I visit there every few years and the paper keeps me up on the happenings around town.

I thank you very much for the Lynn County News.

Respectfully,
 Pearl Vaughn Oildale, Calif.

Your HEALTH TIP

SAVE SKIN
 The worst enemy to youthful skin is excess sun exposure. A suntan gives the illusion of health and vitality; in 15-20 years the cumulative effect brings wrinkling, aging, irregular skin color, and higher incidence of cancers. Apply a sunblock lotion each day for 10 days before going on a sunshine holiday. It builds up your skin's tolerance level. Avoid the sun from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in summertime.

CAPITOL JOURNAL
STEVEN A. CARRIKER
 House of Representatives

The regular session has ended, and the Legislature will reconvene June 22 for a special session to deal with the growing state budget crisis. Although it would be possible to deal with the budget in a matter of days, my fear based on recent legislative practice is that the special session(s) may drag on to Labor Day or beyond. We in the Legislature have two choices. We can immediately adopt a fair budget which adequately funds basic state services, then we approve reasonable revenue measures that pay for the basic programs we have authorized. Or we can immediately accept Gov. Clements' bottom line and slash state funds and raise local property taxes. There is no getting around the fact that those are our two alternatives. We should stop kidding ourselves that there is another answer.

Up to this point, the Legislature has been postponing the inevitable. We must write a budget. We must approve the revenue measures which bring enough money into the state treasury to fund that budget. Stalling will make the current fiscal crisis worse, not better. The governor and the Legislature have to realistically address the future needs of Texans at this critical time.

The Legislature addressed "tort reform" in the First Called Session of the 70th Legislature, a two-day gamble that paid off. This complicated topic is aimed at addressing the challenges in obtaining liability insurance. Tort reform seeks to change statutes governing lawsuits, insurance companies, and liability. The two-day special session was only a first step toward resolving the problems. The bill set penalties for plaintiffs who file frivolous lawsuits, and it places some limits on damage award amounts. The law also gives some protection to municipal governments in specified situations which are deemed to be in the public interest. Since little immediate improvement in insurance cost and availability is expected, the Legislature will no doubt be asked to make more substantive changes in future sessions.

The upcoming Second Called Session of the 70th Legislature will be a critical decision point for Texans. We in the Legislature need to hear from you. The future direction of our state for the 1990's and beyond will be decided this summer. Your views on state taxing and spending need to be made known to me and, just as importantly, to the governor. Our state's ability to develop its economy and the fate of our educational system for years will be determined by the shape of the budget drawn in Austin in the coming months.

OUT OF THE WOODS

By Juanell (Wood) Jones

IT'S PANIC TIME, ladies. We've fooled around and kidded ourselves into thinking that "just one more chocolate chip cookie won't hurt" and now it's time to pay our dues. I'm speaking, of course, of that horrible, demeaning experience of figure-conscious females the world over: swim-suit shopping.

Don't laugh. It's not funny taking a skimpy piece of cloth (a.k.a. swim-suit) into a tiny cubicle the stores call 'dressing rooms', stripping down to the bare essentials, and observing one's body in a full-length mirror from a mere four inches away. What's worse, many dressing rooms have mirrors behind you also, so you get an appalling close-up rear-view of thighs and swim-suit. And all the pulling and tugging at the edges and corners of your suit doesn't make it look any better.

Finally, after disgustedly trying on almost every style available on the racks, one chooses the style that is least awful-looking, and decides to blow $39.95 on this essential piece of clothing. Now comes the fun part... when you take the suit to the clerk at the check-out stand. She looks at the suit, holds it up (to see if it gets any bigger, I guess), looks at you over the top of her bi-focals, gives a little shake of her head, smirks, and says, "Is this yours?"

You nod, pay, grab the bag and leave the store, clutching the precious sack in your fist so as not to lose it -- you wouldn't want to go through that painful experience again in one season. Anyway, here's the funny part, and it's a common female trait: You go home, head straight for the bedroom, strip, and try on the swim-suit again... just to see if it looks any better at home.

It does, too. I did that, and sure enough, when I had backed up about 15 feet from the mirror and took off my glasses, the suit didn't look half bad.

By the way, ladies, here's one rule to apply: Never, but never, take your husband with you when swim-suit shopping. They don't know diddly-squat about the trials and terrors of the whole ordeal. My husband, who has 20-20 vision, always says "Well, that looks okay." He never has an opinion that is more complimentary (or less, thank goodness). Take your sister or best friend — they will tell you when absolutely not to buy a certain style of swim-suit (you can tell when they collapse in a fit of giggles that the suit is definitely not "you").

4-H News

The Lynn County 4-H Young Adult Council held a meeting on June 4 in the backyard of County Agent Stanley Young's home. After feasting on some of Stanley's gourmet cooking, officers for the 1987-88 year were elected as follows: Jody Woodard, president; Jason Spence, vice president; Kathy Davis, secretary; Robin Moore, treasurer; Luke Dunlap, reporter; Cody Smith, parliamentarian; District Council delegates, Luke Dunlap and Jody Woodard.

The council discussed plans of student exchange with another state. A committee was appointed to gather more information on the matter. Other plans for next year's council were discussed and committees were appointed.

County 4-H Council -- Leaders of the Future

County 4-H councils have been working in Texas 4-H since the late 1940s, and council members have given significant leadership to club and county programs.

The county 4-H council is composed of young people from all 4-H clubs and significant groups in the county, points out Stanley Young, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. It meets quarterly to work toward these objectives: Plan and conduct in-service training to support all aspects of youth leadership in the county.

Provide a forum for discussing youth interest and concerns.

Plan and conduct activities of interest to all 4-H'ers, especially older youth.

Promote involvement of youth on county task forces and in county 4-H activities.

Promote participation of youth leaders in county, district, area and national youth leader opportunities.

While serving on a county 4-H council, youth practice life skills of decision-making, planning, public speaking and working with adults. They learn to be "leaders of the future".

More information on 4-H is available at the county Extension office.

Museum Board Has Meeting

Two members of the Tahoka Garden Club, Clifford Tankersley, president; and Opal Hines, attended the Tahoka Pioneer Museum Board of Directors meeting Monday, June 8. They discussed projected plans for the Pioneer Memorial Rock Garden adjacent to the museum. The cornerstone from one of the area schools of long ago will be placed in the rock garden and the sidewalk along the west side of the building will be widened enough to accommodate a wheel chair.

Lottie Jo Walker, secretary-treasurer, presented a financial report.

Mary Louder, membership chairperson, reminded members that dues should be paid.

Winston Wharton reported that the painting of the outside wall of the museum has been done.

The museum will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 27, for participation in the Old Settler's Reunion.

The register at the museum indicated that visitors from Oregon and California had stopped at the museum in the last month.

Post cards of the mural, painted by Bill Craig, will be available at various stores in Tahoka for 25 cents.

Present for the meeting were Harold Green, Lottie Jo Walker, Mabel Gurley, Auda Norman, Madeline Hegi, Mary Louder, Winston Wharton, Mel Leslie, K.R. Durham, Weesie Carroll, and Mildred Abbe. Absent were Jim Solomon, Bill Craig, Sonny Roberts and Maurice Huffaker.

WHEN THE FREEZER FAILS--

As the season for violent weather approaches, it's time to think about the consequences of power outages. What do you do when the freezer fails? According to Marilyn Haggard, nutrition specialist, "the first thing you do is find out how long it will be out. It's anything less than a day or two, don't worry." A well stocked freezer should stay frozen two days. A half-stocked freezer should last a day. As long as the freezer is not running, Haggard recommends keeping it closed as much as possible. If the power will be off for a few days, try to divide up the food among your friend's freezers or possibly rent space in a commercial freezer. In case of emergency she recommends putting dry ice in your freezer, with caution. A little knowledge and common sense during storm season may help you and your food last longer.

SUSIE & PAUL LUCHSINGER Luchsingers To Sing At New Home Church

Paul and Susie (McEntire) Luchsinger, (Reba McEntire's sister) will give a gospel music concert Wednesday, June 17, in the New Home Baptist Church. Admission is free. Everyone is invited to attend.

PROS AND CONS OF BULK MEAT BUYING--

Before purchasing a large quantity of meat, such as a side of beef, weigh the advantages and disadvantages. Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutritionist says, "Bulk meat can be a good deal if you realize what you're getting. If you don't enjoy stews, soups, and hamburger, it might not be the best buy for you." According to Hunt there is a about a 15 to 20 percent difference between the advertised carcass weight and the actual packaged weight, and the amount of each type of cut may be deceiving. Cutting and wrapping fees, and the cost of freezer space also are hidden expenses to remember when figuring out if bulk meat is a good buy. The specialist says, "Don't let misleading advertising and the lure of 'cheap' meat get in the way of deciding if buying bulk is the best answer."

CONSERVE WATER BY REPAIRING LEAKS--

Water conservation doesn't always mean installing new water saving devices and developing better water usage habits. In fact, some of the most effective water conservation occurs when leaky faucets and toilet tanks are repaired. Dr. Susan Quiring, a housing specialist says, "Leaks are not only frequent and annoying, they are also a waste of water, money and energy. A faucet dripping 60 drops per minute will waste almost 2300 gallons of water per year. Leaky toilets are even worse. They can waste over 300-500 gallons of water per day without anyone noticing." The average homeowner can fix these small leaks, and possibly save themselves the expense of major repairs or replacement later on.

Cows have four stomachs.

Beef Short Course Set On 'Gearing Up for '90s'

"Beef: Gearing up for the '90s—Meeting the Window of Acceptability" will be the theme for the 1987 Beef Cattle Short Course to be held Aug. 10-12 at Texas A&M University.

The short course is being planned by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, two agencies of the Texas A&M University System, in cooperation with livestock breed associations and other industry groups.

The program is being planned for producers, feeders, packers, retailers, consumers, and health professionals, points out Stanley M. Young county Extension Agent.

On Monday, Aug. 10, a review of U.S. beef breeds will be conducted in the Pearce Pavilion. Time also will be made available throughout the day for breed association activities and meetings, and various breed associations will set up exhibits in the Pearce Pavilion. At 1 p.m.

that day, short course participants will have an opportunity to evaluate five head of live cattle, including four steers and one heifer, which will be placed and then discussed by a panel of experts. Breed reviews also will continue that afternoon. A reception will follow at 8 p.m. at the College Station Hilton.

Morning discussions on Aug. 11 in the Rudder Theatre will include a forum on beef, nutrition and health, and will focus on the concern of where beef fits into the American diet. Experts from health and medical profession and from consumer activists groups will address these issues. The program that afternoon will center around the issue of meeting consumer demand and how the industry can advance to that point. A banquet that evening will feature several key beef leaders.

Major thrust of the Aug. 12 meeting in A&M's Kleberg Center will be producing cattle that fit consumer demand, Young says. More information is available by writing Dr. Dan Hale, Extension Meats Specialist, 114 Kleberg Center, College Station, TX 77843, or call 409/845-2052.

Dear John:

John Deere Answers Your Lawn and Garden Woes

Keep Weeds Lean

Dear John: I wish I could be as good at losing weeds as I am at losing weight. Can you offer any tips that will make my vegetable garden more lean on weeds?

Dear Weight Wizard: In a lot of ways, dieting is just like weeding. The task may not be the favored form of fun, but the results are great! And, like dieting, it's easier to keep on top of weeding by doing a little every day than it is to tackle the job after it's out of hand.

In your garden, millions of weed seeds are just craving to sprout. So, put weed seeds on a diet and don't let them get the nourishment they need—sunlight, air and water. Here are some weed-reducing tips:

- Place a plastic mulch between rows of plants. The mulch keeps sunlight, air and water from reaching the weed seeds, which will discourage them from growing.

- You also can use a mulch of grass clippings. Just make sure the clippings have dried in the sun for a couple of days before using them for mulch. Green grass clippings will snack on nitrogen in the soil while you're not looking. Also, if you've used a weed-killer on your lawn, mow three times before using clippings in your garden.

- Plant vegetables in square patches rather than long rows. The idea is that a dense patch of crops will shade weed seeds and prevent germination. The dense crops can choke out any weeds that do sprout.

Dear John: How much water does a lawn need and how do I know if it has had enough?

Dear Drink Minimum: Most lawns need to be watered to a depth of 6 to 8 inches each week.

That means about 1 inch of water should be applied to the surface of the lawn. If it doesn't rain that much, your garden hose will have to make up the difference. To measure how much water you apply, mark several containers 1 inch from the bottom. Place the cans around the sprinkler's watering zone and time how long it takes to fill the cans to the 1-inch mark. Then water for that amount of time each week if conditions warrant.

Dear John: I have a steep slope in my yard that's tough to mow. What do you recommend?

Dear Sidehill Sid: If the slope is treacherous, you can replace the grass with an attractive ground cover that doesn't need to be mowed.

Skips In Cotton Replant Or Leave?

The calendar date and the number of plants lost are major considerations for farmers when deciding to replant storm damaged cotton.

In evaluating stand losses, it is generally recommended that if two or more plants per foot of row survive and if there aren't too many long skips the stand is still good enough for optimum lint production, said Dr. James Supak, a cotton agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock.

If a poor, skippy stand can be replanted in late May or early June, the odds are that the replanted crop will be more productive and therefore justify replanting expenses, he said. A May planted crop, even with a skippy stand, is more likely to produce a higher yield and more mature fiber than a perfect stand of cotton resulting from a planting after the June cutoff date, warned Supak.

Under good growing conditions, the plants on either side of a two to three foot skip can compensate for the missing plants with little or no loss in yield, said Supak.

Studies were conducted from 1981 through 1984 at the Texas Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock to determine the effects of skips on cotton yields. In these tests, skips of varying lengths were scattered throughout the field ranging from 1.5 to 9.0 feet. "The skips were positioned at random to approximate the situation typically encountered under field conditions," said Supak.

He said the number of skips were controlled to provide three types of stands: normal stands, which include about four plants per foot with no skips longer than one foot, 25 percent stand loss, which has approximately three plants per foot with random 1.5 to 9.0 feet skips, and a 50 percent stand loss which contains two plants per foot with random 1.5 to 9.0 foot skips.

The accompanying table 1 summarizes results of a four year study measuring the effects of skippy stands on cotton yields. The study showed that a 25 percent stand reduction, reduced lint yields about 13 percent, while a 50 percent stand reduction cut lint yields approximately 26 percent. Comparable lint yield loss can be expected from similar skippy stands under actual field conditions, said Supak.

He said the possibility of planting thin, skippy stands depends largely on the calendar date.

The accompanying table 2 gives the results of a planting date study conducted at Lubbock. The table shows that replanting prior to June 1 will likely result in a yield reduction of less than 10 percent while replanting after June 10 is likely to lower yields in excess of 20 percent.

Treatment	Average Stand (plants/foot)	Lint Yield (lbs/acre)	Yield decrease %
Normal Stand	4.5	438	--
25% Stand Loss	3.3	381	13.0
50% Stand Loss	2.4	324	26.0

Table 2. Yield reduction of irrigated cotton due to delayed planting, Lubbock, 1960-66*

Planting Date	Lint Yield (lbs/acre)	Yield Decrease (%)
May 15	866	--
June 1	800	7.6
June 10	662	23.6
June 20	442	48.9

SUMMER CLOTHING FEATURES WRINKLES--The new summer fashions are out in local stores and the comfortable, casual look is "in". According to Dr. Ann Beard, clothing specialist, "The trend this summer is toward denims, khaki, and other casual fabrics. The "wrinkled" look is also back, so you can put away the iron until the new fall fashions arrive." Wrinkles aren't found only in cotton and cotton blends this summer, she says. They also are showing up in silky looking clothing. "Denim is showing up everywhere this summer," says Beard. "It's no longer a fabric just for jeans, and it isn't being restricted to its traditional colors. The soft, washed look seems to be very popular, but some of the stronger colors are being worn more often." Color combinations are changing too. Summer fashions will bring olive and khaki together, as well as olive and peach. These combinations are enhanced by the primitive looking prints that are part of the new trend.

An easy way to ice cupcakes is to place a small piece of chocolate on the top when the cupcake is still hot, and spread the chocolate as it melts.

Cotton Today

Cotton's Marketing Strategy Praised:

U.S. cotton's new price competitiveness, coupled with aggressive marketing strategy, continues to increase domestic consumption and enhance overseas market development, National Cotton Council directors heard this week from President Aven Whittington. He noted that domestic consumption for 1987's first quarter reached an annual rate of 7.5 million bales, the current season's export sales may surpass 1.25 million bales.

Council economist Dean Ethridge said the improved demand for U.S. cotton could result in a 1986-87 offtake of 14 million bales -- 26 percent above the five-year average offtake and the second largest in 20 years. The 5.2 million bales expected in ending stocks will be 44 percent below those at the season's beginning. Ethridge said domestic mill consumption increased 900,000 bales this year, 1.6 million above average consumption of the past five years.

Last month's highly successful U.S. cotton seminar in Europe has prompted plans for a similar event in the Far East next year, Cotton Council International's executive director Adrian Hunnings said. Textile executives from 110 European spinning mills participated. Maid of Cotton Amy Gough reported on her domestic and overseas tour, and Frank Mitchener, Sumner, Miss., cotton producer, announced that industry members across the Cotton belt will soon be given an opportunity to subscribe to the Cotton Telecommunications Network. Textile manufacturer Dewey Trogdon said the textile trade bill now has 232 cosponsors in the House and 49 in the Senate, and an all-out effort is being made to secure sufficient House sponsorship for a veto override if necessary. Trogdon said a House vote on the bill is expected in late June or early July.

'Grown and Made' Kits To Get National Exposure: Velma Rankin, Extension Service's national program leader for textile and clothing, has requested 170 of the National Cotton Council's "Grown and Made in the U.S.A." organizational kits. They will be distributed to 110 state textile and clothing specialists at the nation's land-grant universities and to 60 state textile and clothing chairmen of the National Extension Home Makers Council. The request came after Rankin examined a kit sent her by Nick Hahn, Cotton Incorporated executive vice president and coordinator of the industry's campaign to promote U.S. made textile and apparel products of U.S. grown cotton.

Study Says Textile Trade Bill Would Create Jobs: The proposed textile trade bill would create as many as 152,100 jobs within two years, according to a study commissioned by the Fiber, Fabric and Apparel Coalition for Trade (FFACT) and distributed to members of Congress this week. The study estimates the bill's overall net economic benefit at $1 billion in 1987 and $1.7 billion in 1988, using the 17 percent annual import growth rate as the basis for comparison.

Meanwhile, Commerce Department figures show that even though total textile/apparel imports were down one-half percentage point in March compared with a year ago, cotton textile/apparel imports were up 5.1 percent or 25.5 million square yard equivalents. First-quarter cotton imports were up 11.4 percent or 160 million square yard equivalent over 1986. Imports for all fibers showed a first-quarter increase of 4.4 percent or 143.1 million square yards.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
By Michael A. Guido Metter, Georgia

Our apple tree never bears apples, and a visitor asked, "How can it be an apple tree without apples?" "Because," I explained, "that's its nature."

The Bible says, "There is none righteous." You and I are sinners, not because we bear the fruits of sin, but because we have the nature of sin.

Giving up our old habits won't save us. What we need is a new heart.

That's what our Lord meant when He said, "You must be born again." When you receive Jesus you're born again. You become a brand new person inside. You're not the same anymore. A new life has begun.

Wouldn't you like to receive Jesus and begin life all over again?

To win a bet for $40, Thomas Garson of Chicago ate 22 hamburgers and two quarts of ice cream in 25 minutes back in 1938.

THEN and NOW!

HAY FEVER HISTORY
The sneezing and wheezing associated with hay fever are the subject of much nosey speculation. It's a misunderstood ailment that affects millions of people.

In the 1880's, many people thought hay fever was brought on by new hay in springtime.

Then: The term "hay fever" was coined in the early 1800s when people thought the illness was a malaise brought on by new hay in springtime. By 1937, scientists reported finding the first compound that blocked the action of histamine—one receptor that is responsible for allergic symptoms. It was too toxic to use in humans, however. In 1946, many of the antihistamines currently available were first introduced. Though effective and safe to use, they produced

Now we know it is caused by many pollen varieties and can be controlled by a prescription antihistamine that does not cause drowsiness.

Now: Over 14 years of research has resulted in a better alternative—a prescription drug that's as effective as commercial antihistamines yet does not cause the unpleasant side effects. Called Seldane, the drug has been prescribed for millions of allergy sufferers who can't afford to be sleepy. This is just one more good reason why allergy sufferers should see their doctors.
