SINCE I WROTE last week that I never heard of roasting an ear of corn (wondering why some oldtimers call them "roasting ears"), at least two people have called to tell me that of course, you can roast corn, and that folks used to do it all the time (until they learned better, I assume).

A guy said he had eaten roasted corn often, but he admitted that it tastes better boiled. And a woman called the office and left me a message: "Tell him you can roast corn--in the oven or on a grill--leave it wrapped in the shuck."

Leave it wrapped in the shuck? No wonder it doesn't taste as good. But maybe she means just until you get it cooked.

THE TEXAS BUSINESS Review for August reports that the Texas economy is doing very well, no doubt a surprise to folks in the oil and farming business, and definitely a surprise to retailers in small towns in West Texas.

While most small businesses are seeing their gross sales continue on a downward trend and many are cutting back on the number of workers, the exact opposite is true for the entire state, according to the review published in Austin. The Texas Employment Commission reported in June that 7,778,000 people were employed in Texas in May, a new record high number, beating the previous record set in June 1984.

In the 12 months ending in May this year the increase in Texas jobs has accounted for one out of ever eight jobs created in the entire nation.

Where are all these jobs? Well, the fastest growth in those 12 months was in El Paso.

To keep the figures in perspective, unemployment rates also are high in Texas. This means that more people are working in the state than ever before, but more people are also out of jobs or looking for them than ever before.

In other words, there are just more people in the work force, period. And all these statistics don't mean much if you happen to be one of those persons who can't find a job.

Holland Student Visits Rotary Club

The Tahoka Rotary Club had a number of special guests at its regular meeting Thursday, July 23. Grace Prohl attended along with her grandson, Ty Botkin. Also visiting with Mrs. Prohl was Jasper Arendse, a young student from Holland, whose father was a Rotary exchange student in Tahoka in 1961.

Mrs. Prohl's husband, the late Dr. Emil Prohl, was an esteemed member of the Tahoka Rotary Club for many years. He held the title of Paul Harris Fellow, after his sustaining support of the Rotary Foundation. Dr. and Mrs. Prohl boarded some 13 exchange students during those years and she shared the many benefits of such interaction between countries and people around the world.

The program was presented by Luke Dunlap and Jody Woodard, the two young men from Tahoka selected as this year's Camp RYLA awardees. They brought a brief presentation of their camp experience wherein principals of the American Free Enterprise System are taught.

Also present was Nadine Dunlap, mother of Luke Dunlap.

Tower Is Target Of Bomb Report

The new brightly-lighted radio tower west of Tahoka was the scene of a cautious search Wednesday morning after an engineer for the station reported his telephone recorder had a message on it that a bomb had been placed at the transmitter.

No device was found, but officers from the Lynn County Sheriff's Dept., Tahoka Police Dept. and specialists from Lubbock went to the location about mid-morning.

Traffic on both sides of the transmitter was halted as workers from the Texas Hwy. Dept. assisted officers in traffic control on the highway next to the tower, FM 3112.

The tower serves KLS radio, which has not yet gone on the air, and which is supposed to operate from both Lubbock and Lamesa. The station engineer, who lives in Lubbock, said he discovered a message on his phone recorder, made sometime during the night Monday, that a bomb had been left at the tower. Apparently there was no mention of any reason for such an action or any mention of a time designated for a bomb to go off.

The Lynn County sheriff's office said numerous complaints had been received recently about the brightness of the flashing strobe lights on the new tower. The lights are visible for many miles.

Late Wednesday morning officers called off the search and considered it to be a false report.

The tower is located six miles west of Tahoka and then two miles south of U.S. 380 on FM 3112. It reportedly is 910 feet tall.

A 17-year-old Tahoka youth was treated for stab wounds and bruises shortly after midnight Friday after being injured in an altercation at O'Donnell. The young man was treated and released at Lynn County Hospital. He told officers he was attacked at O'Donnell by three adults and three juveniles, who later were questioned by O'Donnell Police Chief B.J. Bairrington and two county officers. No arrests had been made or charges filed in the case.

A 1979 Pontiac owned by Pickett Warden of Lubbock was reported stolen from a residence just north of FM 2192 during the night Saturday. The car was found by officers in a nearby field.

Tahoka police investigated an incident reported by Leonard Dunn of 1928 N. 2nd that during the early morning hours on Saturday someone had stolen 12 cassette tapes and a tape box from a 1979 Ford pickup which was parked in the driveway. Total value was set at $164.36.

Police arrested a 31-year-old Tahoka man on Saturday at Double Circle Farm Supply located at 1208 Lockwood. The man, who reportedly had poured coffee on another man, was arrested for public intoxication, disorderly conduct and assault and was booked and jailed at Lynn County Sheriff's Office.

Police made one warrant arrest for revocation of probation during the past week.

Bid On Paving Is Approved

Caprock Highway Construction Co. of Lubbock was given the contract for paving in the baseball park area and around the swimming pool in the south part of Tahoka, as Tahoka City Council met to open bids Monday night.

Caprock's low bid was $53,285. The project, to be paid by government grant funds, is expected to begin this summer.

Present were Mayor Jim Solomon, engineer A.C. Bowden, City Manager Barry Pittman and councilmen Leonard Dunn, Milt Uzzle and Nick Summitt.

Dumpsters Not Place For Grass

Stop putting those grass clippings and tree limbs in the dumpster--you're tearing up the city equipment.

That was the message to homeowners in Tahoka this week from City Manager Barry Pittman, pointing out that grass, sticks and limbs and heavy metal items are not supposed to be placed in dumpsters. Residents are supposed to carry such things to the dump grounds themselves.

The city does, however, occasionally send its brush truck down the alleys to pick up without charge tree limbs and brush left in the alleys. This is not done on a regular schedule, but as work load permits, Pittman said. The city also cannot make special pickups of brush at specific locations on request.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

Parker Healthmart Pharmacy

(Note: The Tahoka Chamber of Commerce selects a business to be spotlighted periodically, emphasizing the importance of these local businesses to the community.)

For 87 years this coming October there has been a drug store on the same northwest corner of the public square that is now occupied by Dayton Parker Healthmart Pharmacy.

Dayton Parker graduated from the University of Texas School of Pharmacy in January 1963, and was immediately employed by Wynne Collier, owner of the store at that time. Less than two years later, Collier died in November 1964. The following January 1965, the store was incorporated with the name of the store being changed to Collier, Collier, and Parker Pharmacy with Wynne's widow, Coye Collier, Wynne's brother, Bob Collier, and Dayton Parker being the shareholders. Five years later in 1970, Parker became the sole owner of the corporation and the store name became Dayton Parker Healthmart Pharmacy. This same year he married the former Jewel McIntire. They have two daughters, Connie and Lana.

In October, 1982, Parker Pharmacy went through major renovation in which the stock was greatly increased. At that time, the name became Dayton Parker Healthmart Pharmacy, and became a part of the national Healthmart chain of independent pharmacies.

In September, 1985, Dayton Parker Healthmart Pharmacy went through another major change when the front corner was remodeled and a complete line of 14K gold, precious stones, and sterling silver was added. The Parkers buy from an American manufacturer and sell their jewelry at a tremendous saving every day.

Presently employed are a group of happy persons ready to assist you in any way they can. They are Loretta (Ma) Hill (1968), Sallie Saldana (1976), Connie Hallmark (1979), Deena Lawson (1986) and Mary Beth McKibben (1987).

OUT OF THE WOODS

By Juanell (Wood) Jones

WHAT TO DO, what to do... The long days of summer are upon us, and, hard to believe as it is, some of us find ourselves getting bored already. For those of us who can't afford to take more than a couple weeks of vacation to far-off lands of excitement, here's a list of activities sure to spice up your summer:

For teenagers: Get up early, surprise Mom and Dad with a home-cooked breakfast. They won't know how to react, and may possibly be more receptive to the idea of a day at the movies or the swimming pool.

If you really want to psyche 'em out, do some chores around the house without being told. Parents think they are "dead and gone to heaven" if they come home from work to a clean house with all the trash taken to the dumpster and the yard all nicely mowed and edged. That should do nicely for asking to borrow the car for a night out with the guys and gals, with a slight to better chance of some "green currency" to go with it.

As for us working adults who were too dumb to have married a rich person, and too poor to risk calling in sick twice a week, there are ways to beat the hum-drum of the "office blahs." Here's one trick that worked at our office: At about 2:30 in the afternoon, just when you get the "don't-want-to-do-nothing blues", call an office meeting and vote on a proposal to send a representative to the Dairy Queen for some cool refreshment. If you have a really Democratic office environment and a super boss (like ours) you can even over-rule with majority vote to have the boss pay for the goodies. Don't try this too often, however, or your boss may declare a Communist regime.

Other ways to beat the blahs:

- Take a brisk stroll every hour from your office desk to the water cooler or the bathroom — this will be sufficient to raise the eyebrows of co-workers and give them something to talk about.

- Tell at least one good joke every day. This gives fellow employees something to look forward to, and improves your "creativity."

- Appoint one person to bake brownies at least twice a month — we have found this improves our attitude immensely.

- Appoint another person to give lectures at least once a week on the benefits of exercise and diet, to counteract the "benefits" of brownies.

- And lastly, when it's quitting time, go home and don't worry about work. Do something fun and energetic with the family. The kids will have already cleaned the house and dutifully completed their chores, so go out and enjoy the summertime.

If by chance your sweet children have forgotten to complete (or even begin) their chores, forgive them and treat them to an evening of fun anyway... They'll never know what hit 'em.

WATCH UP FOR POWER LINES

Power lines can be dangerous.

Touching irrigation pipe to a power line can divert the electricity through the pipe... and to anyone in contact with it. In this part of the country, this is the leading cause of farm injuries and deaths in electricity-related accidents. Any equipment of unusual height represents a potential danger. Lift arms on field equipment, combine auger spouts and even radio antennas can cause serious injury or death if they, and you, make contact with a power line.

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

SELLING YOUR OWN HOME

If you're planning to sell your own home during peak home sales times this fall, now is the time to start getting it in good condition. Your investment in repair and small improvements now, could pay off later in profit. "Selling your home involves a lot of marketing strategies, just like selling any other product," says Dr. Susan Quiring, a housing specialist. "The more appealing you make your home appear, the better impression it will have on prospective buyers. First impressions are important," the specialist says. "People may decide not to buy your house before they even look inside if the outside isn't attractive. Inside the home, try to make it look clean and uncluttered. It's also important to make any necessary repairs and complete those unfinished remodeling jobs before showing your house."

MAKE MEXICAN FOOD "LIGHT"--If you love Mexican food--but not the extra calories--try making "light" Mexican dishes at home, suggests Dr. Alice Hunt, nutritionist. "Mexican foods served in restaurants and the prepared foods sold in grocery stores often contain a generous amount of fat," says Dr. Hunt. "By using lower-fat ingredients and alternate cooking methods you can make similar dishes with fewer calories. The meat, beans and cheese in many Mexican Foods are a good source of protein," Hunt says. "However, the meal may lack nutrients from fruits and vegetables." To get a balanced meal, she recommends serving vegetables as a side dish or adding chopped vegetables to the main dish. This is also a good way to stretch the meat in fillings for tacos, enchiladas, and other dishes. A fruit salad for dessert will help round out the meal, adds the nutritionist.

Social Security ... Out West

By Bill West
Social Security Field Representative

Applying For Social Security Retirement Benefits

Individuals who wish to apply for Social Security retirement benefits but who find it difficult to visit a Social Security office can apply by telephone. Social Security personnel will obtain the necessary information and then arrange to complete the application process by mail.

An application for retirement benefits should be made at least 2 or 3 months before the person plans to stop working. This will help assure that benefits will start for the month of retirement. The first check should be received early in the month following the first full month of retirement.

Certain documents are essential for establishing eligibility for retirement benefits. They include a Social Security card or a record of the number and proof of date of birth, such as a birth certificate or a religious record of birth or baptism that was recorded before the person was five years old. These documents must be original records or copies certified by the agency that issued them.

In the event that original records or certified copies are not available, the best possible evidence of date of birth should be submitted. These include, among others, schools and church records, a marriage license, a passport, and employment or military service papers.

Applicants for retirement benefits should also submit their Wage and Tax Statement form (W-2) for the preceding year, and self employed individuals should submit a copy of their Schedule SE. The reason is that the most recent reports of earnings may not yet have been credited on the applicant's Social Security record.

A spouse who applies for benefits will have to provide similar documentation. In addition, a marriage certificate may be required. The birth certificates and Social Security numbers of eligible unmarried children should also be submitted.

Additional information about applying for Social Security retirement benefits can be obtained at any Social Security office or by calling the Lubbock Social Security office at 743-7381.

Periodically in this column I remind parents that all dependents age five or older who will be reported on tax returns due Jan. 1, 1988 or later must apply for Social Security numbers for the children. At the present time the numbers are being assigned and the cards are being received in two or three weeks. We are concerned that beginning in January 1988 the time to process a Social Security card will increase and it will take much longer to receive a card. We are encouraging parents to apply as early in 1987 as possible to avoid the last minute rush.

PHOTO FROM THE FILES--This picture, probably not of anyone local, was found in files of the Lynn County News. We occasionally will reprint some of our old file photos just so people can see if they can identify them. In each instance, we'd be happy to hear from anyone who knows who is in the picture.

Budget Settlement At Last

The special session is over, a budget has been adopted, and homeowners are breathing a sigh of relief. Gov. Clements has been foiled in his seven-month long crusade to raise local property taxes through shifting the state's burden for education funding. His effort to gut state funding for kindergarten, vocational education, and teacher salaries was rejected by a Democratic legislature that refused to pass the buck to local property owners. As a result, local school taxes should go up less than one percent in districts where property values held steady.

The revenue measure to pay for basic state services consists mostly of rounding off the sales tax at six percent. Other money comes from an increase in cigarette taxes, license fees for professionals such as doctors and lawyers, and changes in the corporate franchise tax. All things considered, this is probably a fair price to pay for holding the line on property taxes and avoiding the much dreaded state income tax.

An interesting sidelight to the session was the near failure of the entire budget package due to the political maneuvering of about one-third of the House members. This minority consisting mostly of House Republicans, acknowledged the necessity of the tax bill but did not want to take the political heat for voting for it. For two days they held the budget captive by denying it the required two-thirds majority. Then they agreed to a legally questionable parliamentary trick to allow them to vote "no" on the tax bill itself, but vote "yes" on another bill to allow the tax bill to take effect immediately. I suspect it will be hard for these legislators to explain why, if they allegedly thought the taxes excessive, they then voted to start collecting them as soon as possible. I guess it just proves that Washington hasn't cornered the market on innovative political double-talk.

$8.25 per head to the producer. The trials are aimed at evaluating deworming programs and the economics of internal parasite control for beef cow-calf and stocker calf herds in distinctly different environmental areas of Texas, says Young. The Hoechst-Roussel Agri-Vet Co., which manufactures the dewormer SAFE-GUARD (fenbendazole), cooperated in the study.

A total of 195 spring calving cow-calf pairs were involved in the statewide study. One group received the recommended dosage of SAFE-GUARD the last week of February for control of internal parasites while the control group received no deworming treatment. Both treated and control groups were pastured separately in areas not previously grazed that year and kept there until calves were weaned. Calves in the treatment group were treated with the recommended dosage of SAFE GUARD at about three months of age.

According to Young, the deworming studies are a part of the on-going Extension beef program focusing on "Integrated Resource Management." Additional studies are planned over the state this year and into 1988 to evaluate more accurately the strategic timing of deworming both spring and fall calving herds.

Based on preliminary results, Young outlines these cost-effective, seasonal control practices for producers regarding deworming:

Cow/Calf

Deworm cows between March 1 and April 15 (before extended grass growth)

Deworm the calves by June 1. Calves should weigh at least 200 pounds at deworming.

Depending on the length of the grazing season, treating the cow in late fall or early winter may be beneficial

Stocker Cattle and Bred Heifers On Permanent Pastures

Deworm when spring grass growth begins, followed by a second treatment three to four weeks later, and a third treatment three weeks after the second treatment.

Makes 6 servings.

A Visit With Your County Agent

By Stanley Young

Deworming Pays For Cattlemen

Preliminary results of deworming trials conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cow-calf and stocker calf herds show that deworming is a profitable practice for beef producers, points out Stanley M. Young, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Production benefits of strategically timed deworming programs in Texas showed an average 28-pound advantage in weaning weights for spring-born calves from dewormed cows and a 16-pound gain advantage for stocker heifers dewormed in the spring.

The 28-pound advantage represents an increase of 7.3 percent in calf weaning weights over the control group and a return of about $16—almost a 6 to 1 return for dollar invested. In one trial, treated cows gained an additional 43 pounds per head over those in a control group.

The 16-pound gain in the stocker heifers was a return of

Cotton Today

Council Witnesses Support Classing Bill: Four cotton industry leaders testified this week in support of a bill that would adjust the cotton classing fee on the basis of inflation and the volume of cotton classed in order to avoid a revenue shortfall that would curtail the service. Testifying before a House Agriculture subcommittee on behalf of the National Cotton Council were Bill Lovelady, Tornillo, Tex., producer; Jack Hamilton, producer-ginner-warehouseman, Lake Providence, La.; Myrl Mitchell, Lenora, Tex., producer-ginner; and Caleb Davis, Braggadocio, Mo., producer.

Stressing the importance of the service to growers, the Council members said the new fee system should guarantee that the quality of the service is maintained even during high volume years. It also should enable USDA to build up an adequate reserve to sustain the programs during periods of negative cash flow, they said. The bill authorizes upward or downward fee adjustments based on a break-even volume of 12.5 million running bales. Fees would be announced annually by June 1, a month earlier than is now done.

The measure was marked up by the subcommittee, and approved late in the week by the full House Agriculture Committee.

Exports Top 6 Million: With two weeks remaining in the 1986-87 cotton marketing year, export shipments for the week ended July 16 totaled 6,019,300 running bales or about 90 percent of sales. USDA's projection for the current season's exports is 6,240,000 bales.

Sales for the next marketing year continue to rise, increasing 119,500 bales during week and bringing the accumulated total to 2,645,000. The week's major buyers were Japan with 64,400 and South Korea, 23,000.

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

The 1988 cotton program loan rate, target price and the percentage of required acreage reduction, if any, are the key provisions on which the U. S. Department of Agriculture has asked for comment, according to Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

These and other 1988 program decisions were discussed in the July 17 Federal Register along with the invitation to comment by Milton Hertz, Executive Vice President of USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation. Some of the decisions must be made by November 1 of this year and the deadline for accepting comment is September 15.

The loan level by law must be set by a calculation based on either a five-year average of U. S. spot market quotations or a 15-week average of quoted prices for five Northern European growths. However any reduction can't be greater than five percent of the previous year's loan rate nor below 50 cents per pound.

Although all figures are not yet in, USDA says the loan is likely to be based on the U. S. spot market average. Quotations from August 1982 through March 1987 would result in a base loan of 51.8 cents per pound, and PCG doesn't expect quotes for the remaining four months of the marketing year to alter that figure much if at all.

The Administration earlier called for a 10 percent cut in the target price for all crops, which would drop this year's cotton target from 79.4 cents to 71.5 cents. But since current law imposes a target price minimum of 77 cents, anything below that level would require new legislation, something Congress so far has stoutly resisted. The calendar year average price paid to farmers or the loan rate, whichever is higher, is subtracted from the target price to determine the per-pound rate of deficiency payments. Thus if the target price is established at the minimum 77 cents and the loan is announced at 51.8 cents, the maximum 1988 target price will be 25.2 cents. Of course an actual deficiency payment that high would require the average farm price in 1988 to fall below 52 cents from the 72.8-cent mid-July price this year.

Acreage reduction programs, limited to a 25 percent cut, are required by USDA if it is determined that full plantings would cause an excess supply. The stated goal of the farm law is a crop each year that will result in a carryover of four million bales at the beginning of the following marketing year. The first year of the program, 1986, began with a carryover above nine million bales and an acreage reduction of the maximum 25 percent was required. The 1987 beginning carryover dropped to 5.2 million and this year's acreage reduction again was set at 25 percent.

Current production and offtake projections point to a carryover as low as 3.6 million bales on August 1, 1988, casting doubt on the need for and the size of any acreage reduction next year. A preliminary regulatory impact analysis done by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service indicates the probability that a reduction in the range of 15 percent will be implemented.

Dear John:

John Deere Answers Your Lawn and Garden Woes

Solid Soil

Dear John: My soil is hard as rock and my lawn is obviously suffering from it. Is this a treatable condition?

Dear Hard Case: This sounds like a situation where too many feet are spoiling the lawn. A healthy lawn can withstand occasional heavy use, but a lawn that constantly fights rush hour traffic can suffer from soil compaction. Signs of compaction are foot-worn paths across the lawn or areas where the grass is thin.

Compaction prevents the flow of air, water and fertilizer into the ground, restricting a lawn's healthy growth. So, give your lawn a break—literally. Use a core aerator to pull up plugs of soil. This will allow air, water and nutrients to flow in freely. Then rake the soil plugs and use extra soil to fill in low spots.

Dear John: Several of my flowers have a fine white powder on their leaves and buds. What is this and how should I treat it?

Dear Powder Puff: Unlike the perfumed powders so popular with women, the "powder" on your flowers won't enhance their beauty or their scent. Your plants have a form of "powdery" mildew, noticeable as a dry white growth on the surface of the leaves and on closed buds.

One of the best ways to prevent all forms of mildew is to maintain good sanitation all year long. Clear away dropped stems and wilted foliage. Make sure there is plenty of room between plants. Mildew is most likely to spread when flowers are crowded, air circulation is poor, or sunlight can't reach inner leaves and buds.

Your first line of defense against mildew is to spread a thin layer of sulphur where you see the mildew. If this doesn't do the trick, cut the plants back to 3 or 4 inches above the ground. This will give the plants a chance to recuperate and flower again in late summer.

Dear John: I'm worried. The leaves on my tomatoes are starting to curl and turn yellow. Will my harvest be ruined?

Dear Rattled Reaper: You can still have plenty of tasty tomatoes to harvest this season! Yellow or curled interior leaves on tomato plants are signs of abrupt changes in soil moisture, varying from dry to wet to dry again. To prevent this, keep soil evenly moist. Water thoroughly to a depth of 6 inches by applying 1 inch of water to your garden each week when there's not enough rain.

WHEN BUGS BITE--Insect stings and bites are usually annoying and mildly painful, but in some cases they can be dangerous. "Few people have extreme reactions to bug bites and stings," says Dr. Mary Ann Heussner, a health education specialist. "Yet for the few who are allergic, reactions can be quite severe. Unfortunately, most people don't know they're allergic until they're bitten, so it's important to recognize and understand the difference between a local and systemic reaction," says Heussner. "Local reactions may cause swelling and redness at the site of the sting or bite. Systemic reactions are far more serious and involve the entire body." Symptoms of systemic reactions include dizziness, shock, fainting, wheezing, hives, a tightness in the chest, and facial swelling. In the case of a systemic reaction, the specialist recommends you call the local poison control center, or immediately take the victim to the nearest hospital emergency room.

CARING FOR A DEMENTIA VICTIM- A SAFER HOME ENVIRONMENT--Taking a bath, cooking a meal and walking around the block-- these are just some of the things taken for granted in every day life. But for the victims of dementia, even ordinary activities can cause increased agitation and eventually become dangerous. "Managing a loved one with progressive dementia isn't easy. It involves understanding the disease, patience and skill," says Dr. Judith Warren, a gerontologist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. There are many steps you can take to make a dementia victim's environment safer, and provide them with a safe area to wander. "Keeping the home environment safe also means that the caregiver should not be overwhelmed and exhausted," emphasizes Warren. "Health care professionals and community groups such as the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association (ADDA) can offer some good ideas and advice."

Baked Stuffed Eggplant

Summer is a good time to grow or buy fresh eggplant in many areas of the U.S.

Take advantage of the crop and try this dish. Double the recipe and freeze one stuffed eggplant for later use.

1 large eggplant	2 tbsp. margarine
1 cup chopped onion	1 lb. lean ground beef
1 cup chopped mushrooms	1/4 cup tomato paste
1 1/2 tsp. basil	1/4 cup wheat germ
1/2 tsp. chervil	2 tbsp. fresh chopped parsley

Wash eggplant, and cut in half lengthwise. Carefully remove the pulp leaving 1/2 inch of the outer shell. Dice the pulp.

Sauté the onions, mushrooms, seasonings and meat in the margarine. Stir in the tomato paste, wheat germ and eggplant pulp. Cook until meat is slightly done.

Spoon meat mixture into the eggplant shell and place in an oiled ovenproof dish and bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 30 minutes. Garnish with parsley.

Yield: 6 Servings

MUST YOU BE SICK?

Your body has the ability to fight off disease. At the first symptom of an invading infection, the body manufactures its own antibody for relief.

Unfortunately, if your body has not sufficient energy and strength, the battle can be lost. That is why it pays to visit your physician regularly for a check-up. He can prescribe medication, when needed to make your body strong enough to fight sickness.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"
