I HAVE HAD IT up to here with mortgage companies which are run by computers and insurance companies which act like they are doing me a favor by letting me pay them for their expensive policies.

I have been trying to deal with both of the above for a few months now and, in the case of the mortgage company which totes the note on my house, I fear they are about to win, with their idiotic computerized letters and statements designed to make the poor sucker who is buying the house just give up and send them all of his money from now on, with no questions asked.

This mortgage company in Oklahoma City bought the note on my house from Belly-Up Savings and Loan of Dallas, which had purchased it from GMAC, which had acquired it from Honest Jake's Used Car Lot in Bangor, Maine, which acquired it from First Shyster Mortgage of Provo, Utah, which got it from Sentry Savings and Loan, where we financed it in the first place. There were a couple of other owners in there somewhere, as the loan has been passed around so often that we hardly know where to send our payment.

Anyway, I won't go into all the problems with the current mortgage holder, except to say that they didn't pay my taxes in time last year, and I wanted them to restore to my escrow the money I lost by not paying early enough to get a discount. I wrote them about it, and got some computerized letters, including one which said they would research the problem and get back to us in a month or two, and another in which they returned our payment check, saying it was not enough, except that it was exactly what they said in the next line that it should have been.

Phone calls get a recording which, if you press No. 1, 2, 3 or 4 on your touch-tone phone (if you have one), gets you some more recordings, and more numbers to punch, but no real people. Anyway, I plan to write them and explain that we have a phone system where you twist a little handle and call Central.

Well, enough of that. I may have to drive to Oklahoma City, and see if there are any humans in the building who can talk to me.

The insurance company? Aetna keeps wanting to audit my records, demanding to know how much every employe makes, what our business grosses a year, how many toilets are in the building, who laid the carpet, do all our workers have healthy attitudes toward sex, Oliver North and General Motors, the cholesterol level of all executives, and a bunch of other things which are none of their business. Seriously, they actually base their premium rates on how much gross a business does in a year. This is totally idiotic, since they are selling a product which should cost the same to everyone. If we sell a typewriter, or an advertisement (we sold two in 1988), the price is the same to everyone. If they sell me $100,000 of insurance coverage, it should cost me the same as the guy down the street who grosses half as much or twice as much, but still makes the same $68 profit per year.

What they did was send me a questionnaire about how much everybody makes, and I sent it back with the notation that it was none of their business, and they sent me a bill for an additional $63 premium. ("To: Lynn County News: Dear Mr. News: Instead of owing the company $11,000 for one year's premium for $500 coverage on your crummy business, you now owe us $11,063 for being a wise [word deleted]"). So I went into the office of my agent and screamed and jumped up and down and rent my garments (someday I hope I can afford to buy them), and the bottom line was I still owe the company $63.

I am considering sending it in at $1 a month for 63 months.

Water Ways

It seems as if our water supply is infinite. We'll always have all we'll ever need. That wasn't the case last Monday night when we temporarily had no water to drink, to use in cooking, or to even take a shower. Yes, we got a taste of a water shortage without the long-term effects.

When I realized I was without water, I suddenly became very thirsty! My mouth was parched from the evening walk! Then and there I decided I would get a bottle to keep water in my refrigerator - just in case! Water is an important part of our diet and it's necessary for us to conserve our supply which - due to contrary belief - is not infinite!

Here are some water facts:
The human body contains 40-50 quarts of water.

2-3 quarts of water are lost daily through perspiration, urine and breathing and must be replaced.

As little as a 3-percent reduction of your body weight due to water loss can affect your strength and endurance.

A 15-20 percent water loss can be fatal.

Additionally, water performs many important functions in the body. Water quenches your thirst and helps the digestive process. Water, in the form of perspiration, sets up a self-cooling system for you during exercise. It carries nutrients to the cells and removes waste products. A healthy complexion depends on a water enhanced skin tone. Joints are lubricated by water.

On the curative side, water can often help relieve headaches and decrease premenstrual bloating. And, for those who wish to maintain or lose weight, drinking large glasses of water during the day or right before meals can help you curb your appetite and avoid impulse snacking. Alcoholic beverage consumption, which should always be in moderation, should include other liquids to dilute the effect of alcohol.

Nutritionist continue to advise everyone to drink 6 to 8 glasses of liquid a day, and they mean water. Caffeine - or alcohol - containing beverages are not recommended because they are diuretics that will act to remove water from your body. Other drinks such as regular soft drinks and milk shakes are not recommended in excess because of their high caloric content.

It is important to increase your fluid consumption in situations that stress the body like exercise, fever, infections or even travel to higher altitudes. Don't rely on thirst to tell you when your water level is low. Drink fluid before, during and after exercise. If you are ill or have trav-

SPS Region Continues To Be Cattle Feeding Capital Of World

For the second year in a row, feedlots within the area served by Southwestern Public Service Company during 1990 fed a record number of cattle, according to SPS's annual Fed Cattle Survey.

Feedlots in the SPS service area fed 5,570,203 head of cattle, a 1.9 percent increase over the 1989 total of 5,468,350.

The survey also showed that the one-time total capacity of area feedlots in 1990 was 2,887,275, up from the one-time total capacity in 1988 of 2,758,662 head.

"The growth indicated in the survey is good news for this region," said Dave Krupnick, SPS manager of agricultural and wholesale marketing. "It shows that cattle feeding is still solid and a vital part of the area."

SPS annually prepares a Fed Cattle Survey covering feedlots in its service area, which covers 52,000 square miles. The region includes the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles, the Texas South Plains, eastern and southeastern New Mexico and southwestern Kansas.

While most numbers in the survey were up, the number of cattle slaughtered last year in the area decreased slightly. The 13 beef-packing plants in the SPS service area slaughtered 4,661,163 cattle, down from 4,694,852 in 1989. At the same time, however, capacity at the plants increased in 1990 to 5,095,520.

"There are several packing plants located just outside our service area," Krupnick said. "That accounts for the difference between the number of cattle slaughtered and the number fed."

Krupnick said information from the Fed Cattle Survey is used across the country by ag-related industries. "It helps highlight this area's agriculture and food-processing industries," Krupnick said. "We have a good agriculture story to tell and this is just one chapter of it."

The Fed Cattle is also showing growth in the total number of feedlots in the area, from 117 in 1989 to 120 in 1990.

The report also includes a chart on the ten-year history of fed cattle and the one-time capacity of surveyed feed lots, as well as information on the number of feedlots with 5,000 head capacity or more, and a county breakdown of lot capacity and numbers fed.

Copies of the report and survey are available at SPS offices across the company's service area or many may be obtained by contracting the SPS Agricultural Marketing Department (806-378-2181) at the SPS headquarters building, Tyler at Sixth Street, Amarillo, Tx 79170.

From The D.A.'s Desk

by Ricky Smith, District Attorney
106th Judicial District

Sale of Cigarettes or Tobacco Products to Minors

Prior to Sept. 1, 1989, it was against the law in Texas to sell, give or trade cigarettes or tobacco products to a minor younger than 16 years of age without written consent of the child's parent or guardian. On Sept. 1, 1989, this law was both repealed and amended by the 71st Legislature.

By law, the repeal and amendment of a statute by the same legislature did not invalidate the amendment. Therefore, the amendment should be valid. However, to further complicate the issue, that same legislature enacted section 161.081 of the Health and Safety Code which reads almost identical to the repealed law as it related to selling cigarettes or tobacco products to minors, retaining the age limit at 16 years and a fine of not less than $10 or more than $100 for violating the law. The amendment to the old law is substantially different.

The pre-1989 law, as amended provides that a person commits a Class C misdemeanor (this carries a fine of up to $200) if the person, as a commercial enterprise, sells or gives or causes to be sold or given a cigarette or other tobacco product to a person he knows is younger than 18 years of age; or sells or gives or causes to be sold or given a cigarette or other tobacco product to any person knowing that the person receiving the cigarette or other tobacco product intends to deliver it to a person younger than 18 years of age. This same law requires you post a sign in a conspicuous location close to your cigarette vending machine which states, "Sale or provision of tobacco products to a minor under 18 years of age is prohibited by law. Upon conviction, a maximum fine of up to $200 may be imposed." If you don't display the sign, you can be fined up to $200.

The significant differences in the two laws (which are presumably both in effect) are as follows:

- a. The minimum age in one is 16 and the other is 18.
- b. One applies to everyone who might sell or give cigarettes or tobacco products to a minor. The other only pertains to commercial enterprises.
- c. One makes an exception in the case of parental written consent and the other does not.
- d. One makes no mention of signs on vending machines and the other does.
- e. The fine is $10 to $100 in one and up to $200 in the other.

What should you, as the business owner, do until the legislature cleans up this mess. I believe that you would be safe in following the amendment which establishes the age at 18 and requires the vending machine sign requirement. If you want to be absolutely safe, you could recognize the 16 year age limit.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Company), in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission), hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for residence Custom Calling Services, effective August 1, 1991, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Company has filed an application with the Commission to restructure and change the rates for certain residence Custom Calling Services.

The Custom Calling Services affected by the Company's application are optional telephone service arrangements that provide the following features: Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three Way Calling, Speed Calling 8 and Speed Calling 30.

The Company's proposal would increase the monthly rate for the individual Call Waiting feature from $2.10 to $3.10 for residence customers. Also, the rates for certain combinations of Custom Calling Features (Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8) would increase or decrease depending upon the combination of features. In addition, the company proposes to obsolete the optional Custom Calling Service feature Speed Calling 30 for residence customers except for existing customers at their existing locations. Following are the feature combinations and their current and proposed rates.

One Feature Per Line	Current	Proposed
Call Waiting	$2.10	$3.10
Call Forwarding	2.10	2.10
Three-Way Calling	2.10	2.10

Call Waiting, Call Forwarding 3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8	6.90	7.30
Speed Calling 30	3.20	3.20

*denotes rate decrease
Southwestern Bell's application proposes to obsolete residence Speed Calling 30 except for existing customers at their existing locations.

Most of the Company's residence customers in Texas who subscribe to one or more of the Custom Calling Service features will be affected by the proposed rate restructuring. It is expected that the proposed rate restructuring of Custom Calling Services will increase the Company's annual revenues by $15.9 million, which is an increase of approximately one half of 1 percent in the Company's adjusted revenue for the twelve-month period ending December 1990. The restructuring will result in an increase in the Custom Calling Services rates for approximately 2.5 million residence customers and rate decreases for approximately 15,000 residence customers. Also, the obsolescence of the optional feature Speed Calling 30 will affect approximately 156,000 residence customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Tax Rebates Ahead of 1990

"The states moderate but stable economic growth is one good reason there is more than a 10 percent increase in sales tax rebates for Texas cities and counties thus far in 1991, when compared with the first five months of last year," State Comptroller John Sharp said this week.

Sharp made the comments as he sent over 1,000 Texas cities, counties, city transit and hospital districts checks totaling $147.1 million in monthly sales tax rebates.

Through the first five months of 1991, the state has rebated a total of $740.9 million to city and county governments, a 10.6 percent increase over the same period last year.

This month's checks include taxes collected on March sales and reported in April by businesses filing monthly returns, and also includes taxes reported by those filing quarterly returns for sales made in January, February and March.

O'Donnell received $2,202.84 compared to $2,177.55 for the same period last year. Payments to date are $5,970.70 compared to last year's $6,288.95 showing a 5.06 percent decrease.

Tahoka's payment was increased from last year's figure of $8,091.11 to $10,292.94 this period. Year to date payments showed an increase of 12.63 percent, with a payment of $26,501.71 this year.

Wilson's payments this period showed a 40.48 percent decrease from $1,217.38 last year to $723.33 this period. Payments to date are $2,398.54, a decrease of 36.10 percent over last year's payment of $3,748.08.

Lyntegar Cited For 4-H Service

Lyntegar Electric Cooperative, Inc. in Tahoka was cited for outstanding service to 4-H at the 1991 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University June 4.

Wilton J. Payne, general manager, received a special plaque from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service 4-H Youth Development program. Accepting the plaque for the company and Payne was Binie White.

Lyntegar has supported the 4-H program and the Extension Service financially and educationally for 40 years. The company contributes to 4-H safety and electricity projects by providing training sessions and research that young people and adults can use in method demonstrations or educational programs.

The firm has contributed more than $60,000 to 4-H programs through the county and district Gold Star banquets, scholarship endowments and livestock shows in the South Plains and Far West Texas. Lyntegar also lends support by providing facilities for Extension activities.

The company has been recognized as a Friend of 4-H in Lynn, Garza, Hockley, Terry, Dawson and Borden counties. Lyntegar received top honors when a 4-H method demonstration about the company won first place in state competition.

Cotton Decisions Call For Careful Assessment

Recent thunderstorms, high winds, blowing sand and hail — coupled with some problems of seedling disease — have many area cotton farmers facing a tough decision about replanting damaged stands. To help in those decisions, County Extension Agent Brett Cypert said several factors should be considered.

"Decisions about replanting should be based on objective evaluation of the remaining stand, its uniformity, condition of the surviving plants, the costs associated with replanting and the calendar date."

"There are no universal rules on which to base cotton replanting decisions," said Dr. James Supak, agronomist and cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "The 'right' decision depends on the circumstances in each situation. It may vary from field to field, or even among areas of a given field," Supak said.

Cotton spacing studies in the U.S. for more than a century have shown that optimum plant density, both for production and harvesting efficiency, ranges from about 25,000 to 50,000 plants an acre. "That's about two to four plants per foot of drill in conventional row spacing."

"In evaluating stand losses," Supak said, "it is generally recommended that if two or more plants per foot of row survive and if there aren't too many long skips, the stand is still adequate for optimum lint production."

"When making replanting decisions, the first rule is to not make the final judgement on the extent of crop damage too quickly, the county agent said. Cotton has a great capacity to recover from adversities.

"It's usually best to delay the final stand evaluation until after the crop is exposed to two or three days of good growing conditions," the agent said.

In the meantime, use of a sandfighter or some other tillage tool on crusted fields can reduce sand and wind damage, improve aeration and hasten warming and drying of the soil, which will reduce development of seedling disease.

Here are some of the following suggestions to help in evaluating your cotton fields.

Remaining Stand

To determine after-damage plant populations, count and record the number of plants showing signs of recovery in a given length of row, such as 5 feet.

Periodically, dig up plants in a three-to-five-foot section of row and examine root system, stems and terminals to be sure they can recover.

Make several stand counts at random locations in the field. In addition to plant numbers, make note of the number and length of skips, or barren spots. Indicate locations in the field where the counts were made.

As a rule, if two or more reasonably healthy plants remains per foot of 38-to-40 inch rows, and there aren't too many long skips, the stand is adequate for optimum lint production.

Costs Versus Benefits

Replanting incurs additional costs for seed, labor and machinery use. It may also require additional inputs for irrigation, herbicides, insecticides and fungicides.

Other considerations may include crop insurance coverage, farm program options and the yield-price outlook for alternative crops. Secondary factors such as benefits from rotating crops or a fallow period may warrant consideration.

If the grower decides to replace damaged cotton with an alternative crop, he also must consider the effect on the new crop of any nutrients or pesticides already applied to the soil.

Control Bag Worms Now

By BRETT CYPERT, CEA-AG.

Bagworms are one of the major pests of junipers and other trees and shrubs in Texas. Spring hatch began in early May on the South Plains this year. Hatching is usually completed in about three weeks. Insecticide control is most effective in June when the bagworms are small, says County Agent Brett Cypert.

In spring, bagworm larvae emerge from hatching eggs inside last year's bags and begin feeding on leaves. They soon begin to construct their own protective bag of silk, twigs and leaves, making them camouflaged and hard to see. As the larvae and their bags continue to grow, control becomes more difficult.

Bagworms feed throughout the summer months, building their bags until the bags are about 1/12 inches long. In the fall, the bagworms become adults, mate and the females lay eggs inside their bags. They then overwinter as eggs in these bags in trees and shrubs. Each overwintering female bag on a tree contains from 500 to 1500 eggs.

Since the bagworm only completes one generation a year and spreads very slowly from plant to plant, picking the bags off infested plants in the winter will help a lot toward control where measures were not applied, chances are very good that an insecticide will be needed this spring.

DAVIS HONORED—Dr. Lynne W. Thilodeaux, assistant director for 4-H and youth with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, presents a plaque to Billy W. Davis, adult leader from Lynn County, for 20 years volunteer service to 4-H during the State 4-H Roundup Salute to Excellence Awards program.

Insecticides which can be used to control bagworms include sevin, dursban, malathion and orthené. The biological insecticide bacillus thuringiensis can also be used. To obtain effective control, through coverage of the foliage is important. The addition of a small amount of liquid soap or surfactant to the spray solution will improve control because it helps adhere the insecticide to the treated trees and shrubs. Always read and follow label instructions when applying insecticides.

Letter To Editor
 Dear Sir:
 Almost sixty years ago a wonderful lady in O'Donnell, Texas saved my life. Her name was Mrs. Galneau, the mother of G.T. Galneau. I wonder if any of her descendants are still living in that area so I can tell them what this great lady did for me?
 In about 1932 or 1933, I was pulling cotton bolls for a family near O'Donnell in the Draw community. I don't remember the name of the family but the lady of the house was the daughter of Dave Kirkland. I came to O'Donnell with her two brothers from Central Texas to work in the cotton fields.
 I worked until noon on this particular Saturday and went in to O'Donnell hoping to hitchhike to Lubbock to visit my two brothers. I stood out on the Lubbock highway for several hours but no one stopped to pick me up. I became very ill and began to run a high fever. I didn't know what to do as I had no money for a doctor. I had previously met G.T. Galneau, who was a friend of the Kirkland brother. I inquired where he lived and found their home in O'Donnell. Mrs. Galneau came to the door when I knocked. I told her my name and that I was very ill.
 She put me to bed, bathed my face with cold water and worked with me patiently for a considerable time until my fever subsided. When I began to feel better I thanked her and started to leave, but she would not let me. She kept me until the next morning and by that time I felt well enough to return to the family where I was working.
 This great lady took me in, a complete stranger, and nursed me back to good health. Talk about a Good Samaritan, she was one in a million, in fact one in several million. As long as I live I will never forget this wonderful act of kindness. I don't know why I waited so long to tell about it. I should have contacted her years ago but we get busy with the cares of life and don't think of these things until it's too late. I feel sure by now she has gone on to her heavenly reward.
 If the two daughters of Clarence Jackson, relatives to the Kirklands, see this letter, I extend my best wishes. We use to get together on weekend and play the piano and sing.
 Sincerely, Morris Holly
