

Voters To Decide On CED Tax Exemptions

by JUANELL JONES

An election will be held Saturday, Aug. 10 with voters receiving two ballots, one on the proposed constitutional amendments concerning allowing voters of County Education Districts to adopt exemptions and personal property taxation and a second amendment on student loans, and another ballot listing three CED propositions, two of which concern exemptions, and one concerning the taxation of personal property.

Lynn County residents may go to the polls from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m., with voters in precincts 1, 6, 7, 9, 12, and 14 voting at Tahoka ISD Business Office, precincts 3, 5, and 10 at O'Donnell High School Business Office, precincts 2 and 8 at Wilson High School Business Office, and precincts 4, 11 and 13 at New Home High School Business Office.

Constitutional Amendments

On the constitutional amendment ballot, amendment number one reads "The constitutional amendment to allow the voters of a county education district to adopt certain exemptions from the district's ad valorem taxation for residence homesteads and to provide for the taxation of certain tangible personal property." If this amendment passes, it means that CEDs may allow voters to decide on exemptions and personal property taxation, which is actually what the other ballot voters will receive is about. If this amendment does not pass, then the other ballot which concerns CED propositions will not be valid. In the interest of conserving time, however, both ballots are being presented to voters at the same time.

The second amendment on the constitutional amendment ballot reads, "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide educational loans to students." This amendment has nothing to do with County Education Districts.

These two amendments are state-wide.

CED Propositions

The other ballot which voters will receive lists three County Education District propositions, and is CED-wide. Each County Education District within the state will abide by the propositions which its voters decide. However, if the constitutional amendment on the other state-wide ballot concerning CEDs is not passed, then this CED propositions ballot will not be valid. If the constitutional amendment is passed, and it most likely will, then this CED ballot will be valid.

The first proposition allows voters to decide whether or not they wish to be taxed on tangible personal property (cars, boats, RVs, motorcycles, etc.). It reads, "The taxation of all tangible personal property, other than manufactured homes, in the County Education District, that is not held or used for the production of income."

The second proposition allows voters to decide if they want a homestead exemption on their CED taxes. It reads, "The exemption of 20 percent of the market value of the residence homestead from ad valorem taxation in the County Education District."

The third proposition allows voters to decide if disabled and elderly persons will receive an additional homestead exemption on their CED taxes. It reads, "The exemption of $10,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of an individual who is disabled and of $10,000 of the market value of the residence homestead of an individual who is 65 or older from ad valorem taxation in the County Education District."

For Lynn County residents, the CED propositions will affect only County Education District Number 6, which includes school districts in Lynn, Borden, Dawson, Gaines, Lubbock, Terry and Yoakum counties. The propositions must pass or fail CED-wide, which means that the votes in these seven counties must be canvassed together, as will other County Education Districts throughout the state of Texas.

GETTING THE DIRT OUT - These two photos show Tahoka coaches cleaning the field house in preparation for football workouts, which begin next week. Coach David Johnson (top photo), new to Tahoka this year, gets "right down to it" as he eyeballs the dirt underneath the lockers. Coach Chris Wigington also runs a vacuum cleaner in the locker room. New head football coach Tim Smith praised all his coaching staff, saying "they really put out a lot of effort in cleaning, painting, and sprucing up the field house for Tahoka athletes."

(LYNN COUNTY NEWS PHOTOS)

Two-A-Day Workouts To Begin Here

Tahoka High School football practice begins Monday, Aug. 12, according to head football coach Tim Smith, with a different schedule of two-a-days than has been used in the past.

"We're going to try something new this year, having our athletes begin at 8:00 in the morning and stay until 2:30 in the afternoon, instead of morning and evening workouts," said Smith.

The new schedule will be as follows:

8:00-10:30	First workout period
10:45-11:25	City Pool swimming
11:30-12:00	Eat lunch - athletes may bring a sack lunch or buy a lunch
12:00-12:30	Offensive and Defensive meeting
12:30-1:00	Dress for afternoon practice
1:00-2:30	Second workout period

"This schedule allows for fewer interruptions in the day, and allows our athletes to get a minimum of 17 hours rest between two practices," Smith explained. These workouts will be held Monday through Saturday, through Aug. 19.

The swimming session for the athletes will give them a chance to cool off and relax their muscles, plus giving them a break during the morning, explained the coach.

"We're trying to avoid the heat of the day by having our schedule arranged like this," said Smith. "It's really cooler at 1:00 o'clock than it is at 5:00, and the kids won't have to come and go twice a day," he added.

The Tahoka High School varsity, junior varsity and junior high cheerleaders will be helping at the practices, preparing the water and drink breaks for the athletes.

"I encourage anyone to come watch us work out," said Smith. "I think if we can generate some positive excitement for our athletes, then we'll be getting the best start that we can," he added.

The new coach is optimistic about Tahoka's football program, saying, "I'm real excited about the program and the assistant coaches have really been working on getting the field house ready for our athletes. They have cleaned, painted floors and walls, and spruced up the field house, working hard to create a better atmosphere for our players."

Coach Smith believes that the willingness of his coaching staff to spruce up the field house and other preparations will motivate his athletes to put out their best efforts in practice, also. "We're going to do all we can to motivate our players," he said. "I hope the community will get behind them, too."

Athletic Physicals Scheduled Friday

According to Tahoka High School Athletic Director Hulon Kirkland, athletic physicals will be given to all students in high school athletics who need physicals on Friday, Aug. 9. The physicals will be given in Lubbock, and Kirkland says a bus will leave the high school here at 7 a.m. to take the students to Lubbock. The physical examinations are free to the students.

All athletes, especially all freshmen and anyone else who will participate in athletics at THS, should call Coach Kirkland to pre-register, or may just be at the school at 7 a.m. Friday to go on the bus. Students should wear tee-shirts and shorts, and the exams will be given at the Sports Network.

The wayward thoughts of Juanell (Wood) Jones

The human male species has a very interesting scientific background, beginning with the very first male, Adam, who was made out of dirt. God took a wad of dirt and shaped a male body out of it, breathed life into him, and called him "good."

What this particular male was good at; I don't know, but after naming a few hundred animal species he got bored and God, in all his infinite wisdom, made him a woman so she could tell him what to do. (We all know that eventually she told him wrong and led him astray, but I think I'll ignore that.)

Anyway, if you take a cross-section view of a male body, you will find that he has tried very hard to keep in touch with his origins, coating his outer epidermal layer with a coating of dirt, called the filthidermous. This layer begins to form when a male child is about three months old, and builds to such a degree that male teenagers are hardly recognizable behind their filthidermous, unless of course they grow their hair long enough that even the dirt can't get through. Usually though, your typical 90's kind of guy has finally realized that long hair is (wait, what a surprise) Ugly, with a capital UG, and so has a normal filthidermous layer.

Generally, by the time males reach the age of 35 or so, they have tried to chip off some of the filthidermous layer, usually for a date or a wedding or something important like that. Occasionally, however, you can see a specimen who has such a full armour of dirt that when he gets to heaven God won't realize that a man has already been formed from that particular wad of dirt, and will make him start life all over again.

Scientifically speaking, males have other disgusting cellular glands and tissues which, to my amazement, other researchers have failed to identify, and which I will immediately rectify in this column. Be aware that this is an opinion of one lowly writer, and not the consensus of the scientific community. Where is this community, anyway?

For instance, in the tips of the fingers of the male species, there is a soft tissue layer called the magazoid, caused by flipping through thousands of magazines while behind closed doors in the bathroom. Why men think this is the reading room, I'll never know. When we remodeled our bathroom, we built in a magazine rack right next to the you know what so that if a guy wanted to, he could just stay in there until he got hungry enough to want out.

This magazoid tissue layer ranges from a quarter inch thick in males around the age of 20, up to a good half-a-mile thick or so in a male who has passed his 60th year. This can make magazine reading very difficult, but the male species is not anything if not persistent.

Another relatively new cellular discovery is the ESPNoculus Deltoids in the shoulder area. This is a muscular group of densely-populated cells which is caused by the male hunching over in his arm chair over his popcorn while watching his favorite sports event on ESPN, the sports network.

During football season, the ESPNoculus Deltoids can become stressed to the point where they get locked in position, giving the male a curiously hunched-back position which can only be cured by his wife changing the channel to watch an occasional movie. This cure is extremely painful to the male species, as evidenced by the howling and moaning until the channel is switched back to the game.

Then there's this new batch of glands in the skin section of the foot called the Grouchatolas Yardious Gland. These are vicious cells which come to attention anytime the male species is forced to do any type of yard work. They band together to create various aches and pains in a man's foot, sometimes causing the male to give up yard work altogether and just watch television.

Finally, I have discovered through my research a new cellular group called the Dumpstertoids, also located in the shoulder area. These are trashy little cells which produce a toxic poison which travels directly to the brain when the male species is forced to carry the garbage to the dumpster in the alley. This poison cause the male to react in a very bizarre manner, muttering and sometimes ranting and raving about "where did all this trash come from anyway". Usually, the poison has subsided by the time the male actually returns to the kitchen with an empty trash can.

Hey, stop the presses! I've just discovered another female gland: the Yawneous Computertoid Gland, caused from typing this column on the computer, in the late hours of the night and producing sleepy newspaper people. I'm outta here. Have a good week, all you humanoids.

City Council Discusses Taxes, Parking Ordinance

by JUANELL JONES

No one showed up for the public hearing on raising city taxes Monday evening at Tahoka City Hall, so City Council members, City Manager Barry Pittman, and Mayor Jim Solomon said the City will set the tax rate on Aug. 20.

The new tax rate, however, will be the same as the current tax rate, and city taxpayers will be paying the same amount of taxes as they did last year. According to Pittman, the city has paid off a 10-year obligation bond used for 1981 street improvements, and had added 5.35 cents to the tax rate at that time. With that indebtedness now paid off, taxes may be lowered. However, the city would like to keep the taxes at the current level in order to have a fund for street improvements.

"We would like to use that extra money to keep an on-going fund for seal coating and other street improvements," said Mayor Solomon. This will free approximately $25,000 per year which will be used to set up an annual program to seal coat the streets, which engineers tell city officials should be done at least once every seven years. "Considering the millions of dollars we have tied up in our streets, not taking care of them is a very foolish option," he added.

"I would just like to reiterate, however, that the proposed tax rate is exactly the same as what last year's tax rate was. This is not a rate increase, but rather a proposal to leave the rate as it is instead of lowering it," Solomon said.

In other business, council members approved Ordinance 891B, which is a rate increase from Energas Co. They also reappointed V.F. Jones as Tahoka's representative to the Canadian River Authority board of directors.

A new parking ordinance was approved by members, making it unlawful for anyone to park a vehicle within 20 feet of an intersection on any street or thoroughfare, except in an emergency.

"We've had some problems with people parking their vehicles so close to the corners that drivers cannot see oncoming traffic from those streets," said Pittman. "This ordinance is a safety measure to insure motorists have an unobstructed view of oncoming traffic," he added.

City Council members approved ordering a new street sweeper, and Capt. Randy Smith of the Tahoka Police Dept. gave a report on police activities for the previous month. In other action, the group voted to pay the bills, and participated in a budget workshop.

Present for the meeting were Solomon, Pittman, Smith, and council members Dayton Parker, Wayne Tekell, Carl Reynolds and Mike Mensch.

CHIEF'S COMMENTS

by Jerry W. Webster
Chief of Police, Tahoka

At Monday night's Tahoka city council meeting an ordinance was passed that will hopefully lead to less frustration and reduce accidents at intersections within the city. I would like to take this opportunity to explain the provisions of the ordinance to lessen the confusion the wording of the ordinance might create for some.

The ordinance is number 8-91A and it will amend section 18 of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Tahoka, prohibiting parking of vehicles and obstruction of view at intersections. The ordinance is broken down into two main provisions. Provision (a) states that it shall be unlawful for the owner or operator of any motorized vehicle or trailer to park it on the street or public roadway within 20 feet of an intersection, except in an emergency situation or at the direction of a police officer.

Provision (b) states that it shall be unlawful for the owner or operator of a motorized vehicle or trailer to park it on a street or public roadway which, in the officer's opinion, would obstruct the view of any driver of an oncoming vehicle approaching the intersection of any street or public roadway controlled by a stop sign, yield sign, or any such traffic control device, except in an emergency situation or at the direction of a police officer. A violation of any provisions of this ordinance is punishable as a Class C misdemeanor.

If you have any questions or comments regarding the new ordinance, please come by and talk to me about it, or give me a call at city hall.

POKA-LAMBRO TELECOMMUNICATIONS

DON'T CELL YOURSELF SHORT

When you're ready to go cellular, don't cell yourself short. Choose the cellular company that can provide you with the largest possible calling scope. Because if your phone can't ring, or you can't make a call, then there's really no reason to even have a cellular phone.

You see, not every cellular company can provide you with the same extended coverage that you'll get from Digital Cellular of Texas. With us, it's sort of like having a telephone with a really long cord... a cord that stretches all the way from Lubbock to Midland/Odessa. The other company's cord just doesn't reach that far, which means you'll come up short.

To find out more about the other differences that set Digital Cellular apart from the competition, call or come by your local authorized sales agent. Or call the Digital Cellular of Texas sales Hotline at 1-800-662-8805.

Homebase Teacher

There are many factors that are used to help assist me in determining what homebase teacher your child receives. All these factors are considered in the placement.

(1) Balancing Ethnic Groups. It is important that all ethnic groups (hispanic, black, caucasian, etc.) be represented in each classroom. Our children must learn to live in a multi-cultural society and the classroom is an excellent training ground for that. This is not to say it is exactly divided, but an appropriate ethnic balance is made. For example, we do not have the same number of second grade hispanic boys as we do caucasian boys, so each ethnic group is divided amongst the classroom teachers. The ethnic background is only one factor involved in the placement, however.

(2) Balancing Gender Groups. This involves having a balance between boys and girls in each classroom. Just like the ethnic groups, each classroom may not have an exact division, but an appropriate balance is made.

(3) Separating Relatives. This is probably the hardest factor since so many families are related to one another in our town. Sometimes it is next to impossible not to have some distant relative be in the same classroom. However, we do separate immediate brothers and sisters and similarly situated children. Just as with the other factors, it is a balancing act.

(4) Teacher Recommendations. At the end of the preceding school year, each teacher submits to the principal a recommendation list. The list usually contains names of students that are recommended not to be put together for various reasons. For example, Ted Talker and Fred Fighter were constantly picking at each other and Sally Shy depended too much on Lucy Lively. The teacher recommendations include these kinds of personality factors. There are some students, which when mixed together, create a less than ideal learning situation. We try to see that this does not happen and that the best possible educational match is made.

(5) Unique Students. Each and everyone of our students are unique at Tahoka Elementary. Some students have a hard time learning while others do not. Some students get on the Honor Roll every six weeks and other children struggle to get to the next grade. We try to have a balance in each classroom of differing abilities. We do not "track" or "label" students, but a conscious effort is made to have "mixed academic abilities" together.

(6) Miscellaneous. There are other factors that come into play, too. Sometimes, a teacher may be a relative of one of the students or the parents are "best friends". A teacher will let the principal know that it would be better not to have the child in her classroom because of this relationship.

(7) Late Enrollment. When students enroll after pre-registration such as after the start of the school year, it is usually just a matter of numbers. Whichever classroom has the fewest students in that particular grade level, that is where the student is placed.

As you can see, there are many factors involved in determining placement. It is a tough responsibility and one that I take very, very seriously. I wish that I could just ask each parent where they want their child and place the child there. Unfortunately, with over 430 students to place, it is not as simple as that. I have to consider all the factors and make a determination. Sometimes the decision works out and sometimes it doesn't. Nevertheless, by considering all the factors above, it is I can come to being fair.

As a parent, you can help your child get a great start on the school year by being positive about which homebase teacher your child received. If you make positive comments about the teacher, the child will feel good about the placement. However, if you make negative comments about the teacher, the child may feel bad. A child will often imitate or take on the parent's attitude at school. Please help your child by making positive comments and being excited about school.

Our school theme this year is "Bee Super At Tahoka Elementary". An explanation of the theme is found on pages 1-5 of the 1991-92 Student-Parent Handbook.

School starts on Wednesday, Aug. 21. The tardy bell is at 8:10 a.m. The Student-Parent Handbook will be distributed the first day of school. If you have any questions, please feel free to call me at 998-4350.

Parenting Tips For Coping With Stress

BY DONNA PETERS, CEA-HE

With the current state of national affairs, the need for attention to children is more crucial than ever. Today's high-stress circumstances—like the unrest in the Middle East, job lay offs and an unsteady economy—impact many families.

The high levels of stress that many families are experiencing make children particularly vulnerable as family stability is threatened by forces over which parents have little or no control.

The following tips can help your family cope better in times of stress:

Remember to be the parent. Children need your attention at times like these.

Keep communication open. Listen and don't duck the hard questions.

Be reassuring and comforting. Listen to your child's fears. Let the children know you will be there for them.

Be truthful about your feelings. Children can sense when you're upset and if they don't know why they may believe they are the cause.

Spend time together. Family activities and games will help everyone relax and enjoy each other.

Be consistent. Continue usual routines and household rules. Unexpected or sudden changes are confusing and stressful to children.

Take time to think before you act. When disciplining your child don't overreact to your own fears and anxieties. Take steps to calm yourself down—count to 20, take several deep breaths or remove yourself from the scene for a few minutes.

Don't take it personally. News of war or a lost job, difficult family events and other stresses can make your child upset and irritable. Kids are only human—their moods may have nothing to do with you.

Public Notice

On April 9, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to request that the optional feature "Call Transfer Disconnect" be available to all PLEXAR I customers by including the feature in Southwestern Bell's PLEXAR I tariff. Currently, this optional feature is available only on a customer requested basis.

Call Transfer Disconnect (CTD) is an optional feature that allows PLEXAR I customers the ability to transfer a call to another telephone number within or outside their PLEXAR I system, hang up, and permit the two remaining parties to continue with the call. The PLEXAR I user is then free to place or accept another call. CTD is not intended to be used to avoid toll charges. Therefore, CTD will not be available to PLEXAR I customers subscribing to optional Extended Metropolitan Service or Extended Area Calling Service.

If the company's application is approved, the monthly rate for CTD will be $4.00 for each PLEXAR I station line. Prior to the June 19, 1991, interim rate approval, Southwestern Bell was billing customers who receive the service $1.50 for each station line equipped with this feature. In addition, under Southwestern Bell's proposed tariff, every line within the PLEXAR I system must be equipped with this feature. The nonrecurring charge for the additional lines which must be equipped with CTD will be waived for existing CTD customers. The tariffed monthly rate will apply to all existing and future CTD customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0256, or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf.

Widespread confusion among Texas voters about provisions of a proposed constitutional amendment on the August 10 ballot and a referendum on exemption and personal property taxes as prompted the Texas State Legislative Committee of the American Association of Retire Persons (AARP) to warn older Texans about casting votes based upon inaccurate information.

J. Kenneth Huff, chairman of the AARP State Legislative Committee, says the 23 member group has been inundated with telephone calls from AARP members and other voters requesting clarification of ballot ambiguities.

"It is important that voters realize that on Aug. 10 they will be concerned with both a statewide constitutional ballot and a school district wide referendum on exemptions and personal property taxes," says Mr. Huff. "Amendment 1 on the statewide constitutional referendum must pass or the votes cast in district balloting on tax exemptions will be meaningless," he adds.

Mr. Huff explains that if Amendment 1 on the Aug. 10th ballot is passed, it would allow voters in each county education district to adopt certain exemptions from the district's ad valorem taxation of residences and allow taxation of tangible personal property. If Amendment 1 fails, it will not be possible for any homestead exemptions to be passed by local taxing entities, including additional exemptions for older homeowners.

Mr. Huff adds that voting for adoption of homestead exemptions and exemptions for the elderly would not obligate county education districts to levy personal property taxes on non-income producing properties, such as automobiles, boats, and recreational vehicles, although the two measures are linked in the wording of Amendment 1.

Mr. Huff points out Amendment 1 must be passed if voters are to have a voice in establishing exemptions for homesteads and the elderly. School district ballots on the same day will give voters the opportunity to vote for or against such exemptions as well as approving or disapproving a district personal property tax.

"Voters should also be aware," Mr. Huff says, "that the issues of homestead exemptions, elderly exemptions, and impositions of personal property taxes will be separate ballot items."

AARP is the nation's leading organization for people age 50 and over. It serves their needs and interests through legislative advocacy, research, informative programs and community services provided by a network of local chapters and experienced volunteers throughout the country.

Notice of Effective Tax Rate 1991 Property Tax Rates in City of Tahoka

This notice concerns 1991 property tax rates for City of Tahoka. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. Compare it to the tax rate the taxing unit proposes for this year. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$ 203,098
+ Last year's debt taxes	$ 26,092
= Last year's total taxes	$ 229,190

Card Of Thanks

Thank you seems so inadequate to express my appreciation for all the caring and thoughtful things done for me during the past months.

During my stay in the hospital and while I have been confined at home, friends and family have been there with flowers, food, visits, gifts, and prayers.

Recently, I had many cards, calls and remembrances on my 86th birthday making it a very special day.

I am humbled by your kindness and want to express my deepest gratitude. God bless you all.
