"The Hospital Auxiliary has done so much for us," says Louise Landers, administrator of Lynn County Hospital. "This group is very dedicated to this hospital, not just when it comes time for the festival, but throughout the year," she adds. "They really care, and it shows."

Lynn County Hospital opened its doors Jan. 11, 1971, but the Hospital Auxiliary was not formed until 1979, and it was not until 1981 that the first Fun/Food Festival was held. The original purpose of the Auxiliary was, and continues to be, "to make life more significant through unselfish service to others; to bring home, hospital and community into closer relationship; and to help create and maintain a cheerful atmosphere in the hospital."

This volunteer group provides extra services that make patient and family more comfortable. They serve juice to patients and provide reading materials for patients and their families. Incoming doctors and nurses are honored with a reception in order for them to become acquainted with people of the community, and the Auxiliary strives to be

Gee, there are so many special days this week that I just don't know which one to talk about first. Logically, they should be taken in order of appearance on the calendar, so I wouldn't want to do that. I'll talk about my mom's birthday which is next Tuesday - I know that's not this week, but hey, when have I ever been right anyway?

I have the best mom in the world (just ask her grandchildren) and she's going to be -well, I wouldn't want to just blurt out to everybody how old hands. she is, now would I? (Dear Mom - For your birthday I'm not going to tell everyone how old you are. You're welcome.)

Anyway, happy birthday, Mom. I'll bring you a cake or something - you make the ice cream. (That's next Tuesday folks, April 28 at her house bring a spoon.)

Other really special days this week include Secretary's Day on Wednesday, April 22, followed by Earth Day on Thursday, April 23, which seems only natural. Earth take care of it ... for our wouldn't be worth much if there were no secretaries to keep it running smoothly.

For Earth Day, I think I'll plant something in the ground - something green, I think, but nothing too complicated. A friend of mine gave me some daisies to plant, so I think I'll stick with those.

For somebody who knows absolutely nothing about planting stuff, I've sure been a busy beaver in my yard lately. Lots of people have commented on seeing me out in the yard with a hoe in my

I'm not really planting anything - I just go around digging up holes every Saturday. so that I can experience the pure pleasure of aching shoulders, stiff muscles and calloused hands.

Why don't you plant something green for Earth Day? I really like living here ... in fact. I can't think of another place I'd really rather live than Earth. As far as I know, I'll be living here for the next, ch, 50 or 60 years, God willing. Let's children's sake.

BLUE BELL Ice Cream, Schwan's and the Hershey Chocolate people are doing all they can to keep America's population explosion under control.

What they are doing is making all those super delicious things to eat which are killing us. Sweets of any kind, like turnips and the ACLU, are bad news for almost everybody, and I have to agree reluctantly with the couple I saw on TV recently declaring that "we Americans are eating ourselves into the grave."

Blue Bell Creameries this month is introducing two new frozen snacks, called "the Homemade Vanilla Bar" and the "Double Fudge Bar." Even the vanilla bar has a chocolate coating. Blue Bell is also bringing out something called Double Chocolate Brownie, another all-calorie gut-buster.

I am addicted to chocolate. Like an alcoholic, one small amount and I can't stop. I try to live one day at a time without chocolate, because the stuff is bad for me, causing me to have to get my clothing made at A.E. Quest, and in recent years giving me immediate indigestion (and if I complain about the awful pushing up feeling in my innards, people keep telling me I probably have a hyena's hernia).

The Hershey group has been eliminating people for years, making really good stuff that folks like me eat until their blood vessels get all clogged up with chocolate, or they just explode.

ANOTHER GOOD REASON to buy at home: I'm always telling people they need to buy things locally, but recently I ordered a motorcycle battery from a mail-order company. I did check with a couple of local outlets first; one couldn't get the battery I needed and the other didn't have one, but could get one for $58. The Chicago firm had it listed for $30, including shipping, so I ordered one.

About two weeks later they sent me a package, which I opened to discover they had sent me an innertube, instead of a battery, and of course they already had billed my credit card.

I packaged it up and sent it back, telling them to please send me the correct item. (The item number was one digit different). Instead, two weeks later, I was notified by mail that they were crediting my account with the $30, with no explanation as to why they were not sending the battery.

The motorcycle is still just like me-very difficult to get started.

Patient Admissions Decline It takes more than a helping hand from the Auxiliary for a county hospital to be successful, however. Area residents must be willing to use the hospital, and recent years have seen a sharp decline in patient admissions at Lynn County Hospital.

Patient admissions at the hospital have been declining for the past several years, and during the last year the 24-bed bed hospital was occupied at only 20 percent of its capacity, ac-

"There are several reasons for this decline in admissions, and hospitals everywhere are facing the same problems," she said. cording to Mrs. Landers.

In 1987, there were 663 patient admissions to Lynn County Hospital, not including those on an observation one-night stay at the hospital. Last year, only 316 patient admissions were recorded at the county hospital, with an additional 254 "observation" patients staying overnight. Forty-four babies were delivered last year, mostly by Dr. Richard Wright, the hospital's only full-time doctor on staff at the present time. One baby was delivered by Dr. José Allas, who is employed part-time at the hospital.

"We are hoping to see an increase in hospital admissions when we have another full-time doctor on staff," said Mrs. Landers. "Dr. Donald Freitag will open his family practice at the hospital-clinic in August on a full-time basis. We are excited about him joining our staff, and feel fortunate to get someone with family roots in this area," she added. Dr. Freitag and his wife, Tonda (Klaus), both attended school at Wilson and still have family there.

WHEN SHOULD YOU

TRY SELF-MEDICATION?

Medical authorities agree that self-medication should be restricted to first aid for symptoms of conditions that one can recognize easily. Examples are, a simple cold that doe not persist, occasional constipation, simple headaches, minor aches, and pains, infrequent indigestion, or minor had aved in Lubbockenned But, if symptoms persist, or re-occur frequently, it is dangerous to keep masking them with home remedies. A physician should be visited to diagnose the true causes of any ailment and to treat them for a cure. Treatment at the beginning of any problem is usually more effective and can prevent much future pain.

an opportunity to provide medical service to their families," said Mrs. Landers. "We have been, and will continue to be, a progressive and caring facility. We are continually updating with new lab equipment, computer systems, and other facilities here, and we have a qualified staff who cares about their patients' needs," she added.

The hospital also offers "custodial care", a service as an alternate for nursing home facilities, or for someone requiring medical attention on a continuing basis. This custodial care is privately funded by the patient's family, and offers area residents a place for professional medical care without the added strain of traveling to and from Lubbock or other surrounding facilities.

The custodial care is offered an on "as-needed" basis, for as short or long a period of time as deemed necessary by the patient's physician.

Hospital Sees Changes

When the hospital first began operations in 1971, the first payroll was $4,000 and was operating with two physicians, Dr. Skiles Thomas and Dr. Emil Prohl. Currently, the hospital has about 50 full and part-time employees with a monthly payroll of $57,000. Two physicians clinics were completed in 1973 and a third clinic was opened in 1977.

ambulance service which began in 1973, with the first ambulance drivers operating on a "Scoop and Run" policy (scoop and run as fast as you can to the hospital). In 1982-83, the laws governing ambulances changed to require minimum levels of training for personnel to work on the ambulance, and continuing education to remain certified. The Lynn County Emergency Medical System was organized in 1983, and by 1984 the EMS had approximately 21 trained members. Currently there are 18 EMS personnel, and two ambulances. O'Donnell also has an ambulance and EMS personnel, but the Lynn County EMS handles emergency calls throughout the county.

In 1985 the Lynn County Hospital Home Health Agency was added, with 1,170 visits made in 1990. Beginning 1989, a changeover to computer was begun with direct billing to Medicare as the first step of computerization. That same year, St. Mary's Hospital of Lubbock furnished funds for a helicopter landing pad in order to provide for quicker transfer of critical patients. Lynn County Hospital is a member of West Texas Rural Health Providers Association and through this organization received grant money for the MEDNET program which provides continuing education for doctors and medical personnel. A new heating and air-conditioning system was installed in 1990 and a modernized boiler system in 1991. Hospital administrators since the facility opened have included Don Clanton, 1971; James F. Thompson, 1971; Joe Collins, 1972; Troy Patton, 1974; Gerald Moore, 1974; John Brooks, 1980; and Louise Landers, since 1988.

April Is Child Abuse Prevention Month: Society Must Safeguard Children From Abuse

BY MOLLY J. HELMLINGER Lynn County Child Welfare Board Member and Tahoka

Elementary Principal (NOTE: This is the third in a fourpart series for Child Abuse Prevention Month.)

Children, a precious resource, are society's only hope for the future. Adults as guardians of this resource, must make prevention of child abuse an urgent social priority. There are many misconceptions surrounding the abuse of children. In order to prevent child abuse, a person must be conscious of the signs. This article is designed to acquaint you with those signs. The abuse of children can be broken down into four broad categories: 1) Physical Abuse; 2) Neglect; 3) Sexual Abuse; and 4) Emotional Maltreatment.

Physical abuse includes any nonaccidental physical injury caused by the child's perpetrator. It may include burning, beating, punching, and so on. By definition the injury is not an accident. Physical abuse may result from over discipline or from punishment which is inappropriate to the child's age or condition. Common signs of abuse include: frequent injuries such as bruises, cuts, black eyes, or burns especially when the child cannot explain their cause; frequent complaints of pain without obvious injury; burns or bruises in an unusual pattern which may indicate the use of an instrument or cigarette burns; lack of normal reaction to pain; wears unseasonal clothes which may hide the injuries to arms, legs, and other body areas; aggressive, disruptive, and destructive behavior; and absence of happiness.

Neglect involves inattention to the basic needs of a child, such as food. clothing, shelter, medical care, and supervision. Neglect tends to be chronic and consistent. Common signs of neglect include: lack of personal cleanliness, habitually dressed in torn and/or dirty clothes; obvious fatigue and listlessness; unsupervised for long periods of time; begs or steals food; frequently absent or tardy to school; and child is given inappropriate food, drink, or medicine.

Sexual abuse includes any contacts or interactions between a child and an adult in which the child is being used for the sexual stimulation of the perpetrator or another person. Sexual abuse may also be committed by a person under the age of 18 when that person is either significantly older than the victim or when the perpetrator is in a position of power or control over another child. Common signs of sexual abuse include: evidence of injury to the genital areas; physical signs of a sexually transmitted disease; difficulty in walking or sitting; extreme fear of being alone with perpetrator; engages in sexually suggestive or promiscuous behavior; and overly knowledgeable about sexual relations which is not age-appropriate.

Mayor Speaks At Rotary Club

City of Tahoka Mayor Jim Solomon was guest speaker at the noon meeting of Tahoka Rotary Club last week. He spoke on the implications of the proposed interstate highway through Tahoka and other projects affecting the city in the near future.

Solomon told the group that the final decision has not yet been made, but that current prospects look good for the interstate coming through Tahoka. If the interstate does intersect with Tahoka, Solomon said that it would only mean good things for the city, with the possibility of new hotels, gas stations and restaurants being constructed.

He also mentioned that the Keltner Hotel renovation by South Plains Community Action should be completed by October this year. The renovation project began about two years ago, with Community Action to have their offices located in the hotel.

Emotional maltreatment is probably the most difficult to prove in a court of law. Maltreatment includes blaming, belittling, or rejecting a child; constantly treating siblings unequally; and persistent lack of concern by the parent or legal guardian for the child's welfare. Maltreatment can be indicated through the child's behavior including: habit disorders (sucking, biting, etc.); conduct disorders (antisocial, destructive, etc.); neurotic disorders (sleep disorders, refusal to play, etc.); and lags in physical development commonly called "failure to thrive."

If you know of a child who shows sings of physical abuse, neglect, sexual abuse, or emotional maltreatment, report it. Reporting child abuse is required by Chapter 34 of the Texas Family Code. Failure to report a case of child abuse or neglect is a Class B Misdemeanor. Call 1-800-252-5400. Help save our most valuable resourcechildren. They are the future of America.

TISD Media Fair Projects Advance To State

Ten projects involving 53 students in grades 3-8 from Tahoka I.S.D. are advancing to the state competition in the Substance Abuse Prevention Media Fair.

This year's Media Fair is sponsored by the Texans' War on Drugs, the Texas Association for Educational Technology (TAET) and Drug Free Schools and Communities, Region 17. The purpose of the fair is to encourage research and production of media which discourage the use of illegal drugs and alcohol by youth and/or drug abuse by adults.

"This fair is a fun way to encourage students to study one of the nation's most serious problems, drug abuse," said Gwen Cate, district coordinator. "Our youth are faced with many difficult decisions concerning drugs and alcohol in today's society and I feel the fair has been a very positive experience for all of our students. We have some outstanding elementary projects this year and we are looking forward to some state awards," she said.

"I am pleased that Angie Ehlers and her junior high class entered their computer program this year. They also did an outstanding job and I think they will do well on the state level," added Mrs. Cate.

Third grade projects from Tahoka Elementary that won first place and will be judged this week at state include audio, multi-media, and photography. Audio winners are Isreal Galindo, La'Shae Pridmore and Phillip DeLeon. Winning first place in multi-media with a filmstrip are Andrew Liendo, April Saldana, and Jeremy Lawson.
