County Leaders Change Waste Station Hours

Lynn County Commissioners Court met in regular session Monday morning, June 22 in the Lynn County Courthouse and discussed the waste containment station, a contract with the City for the landfill site, and the county agent's schedule.

Judge J.F. Brandon told the group that it had been requested that the waste containment station open earlier on Saturdays, and commissioners approved changing the hours from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. to 8 a.m.-5 p.m. on Saturdays. On Mondays and Wednesdays, the station will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

County Agent Wade Shackelford met with commissioners and discussed his schedule, saying that the morning hours was the best time for people to contact him in his office, and that he was often involved in visiting projects and other field work in the afternoons.

Commissioners approved a contract with the City of Tahoka for the land where the waste containment station is (formerly the city landfill). Since both groups had officially approved the project months earlier, the contract was essentially a formality between the two entities.

In other business, commissioners discussed purchasing a renting a tree limb chipper to handle brush and limbs at the containment station, but no action was taken.

The dry hydrant well project, which is currently being undertaken by Wes-Tex RC&D, was mentioned to the group. Commissioners approved of the project, which will locate wells for fire departments to have access to water in the remote rural areas in the county, and said they would cooperate as much as possible in maintaining roads to such well sites.

Present at the meeting were commissioners J.T. Miller, Sandy Cox, T.A. Stone and Gerald Gerner; Judge Brandon, Shackelford, Janet Porterfield, Wanda Glenn, and Juanell Jones.

Tahoka's Ma Hill To Retire After 50 Years In Work Force Here

by JUANELL JONES

Mrs. Loretta "Ma" Hill has worked for the public in Tahoka for 50 years, and next Tuesday, June 30, just 17 days after her 85th birthday, this energetic lady is finally going to submit to retirement. The people of Tahoka will be sad to see Ma Hill retire, but not one would disagree that she needs a much-deserved rest from the work-a-day world.

A reception honoring Mrs. Hill on her retirement will be held Tuesday from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. at Parker Pharmacy, and all friends and acquaintances are encouraged to come by to visit with Ma, and enjoy cake and punch. City of Tahoka Mayor Jim Solomon will present a proclamation to Mrs. Hill claiming Tuesday, June 30, 1992 as "Ma Hill Day" in Tahoka.

"I guess my age finally caught up with me," said Mrs. Hill, who says that although she is retiring from the public work force, she plans to keep busy during her retirement by working in her garden and visiting with family. "For such a long time, I didn't physically feel as old as I was, but I guess at some point your age catches you," she added.

Ma is employed at Dayton Parker Healthmart Pharmacy, where she has worked for 24 years, beginning in 1967 when it was Collier-Parker Pharmacy. Before that, she worked for Robinson Ready-To-Wear on the west side of the square for 26 years.

KCBD Channel 11 reporter Karla Leslie interviewed Ma Hill this week, and she will be featured on the 10 o'clock news Thursday (today), a school bus there, and I worked at the store," said Mrs. Hill. "We moved away in '38, and then moved to Tahoka in 1939. I began working in 1941 for Mrs. Robinson's dress shop, and have worked in Tahoka ever since then," she added.

"When I worked for Mrs.

She said her husband operated Sinclair Oil in Tahoka for a while before Sinclair closed down the smaller companies, like Tahoka's, during the war. He died in 1977, and she has a daughter, Mrs. Charles (Joretta) Smart of Lubbock.

Mrs. Hill credits her good health to 85 years of walking, instead of driving, to any local destination. She never learned to drive a car, although she says when she was young she "drove a Model-T a few times, but my brother and sisters were always fighting over who got to drive, so I didn't drive very much."

Tahokans are accustomed to seeing Ma Hill walking to and from work, and she has always participated enthusiastically in any fund-raising walk-a-thons such as those sponsored by the American Heart Association or the American Cancer Society.

In one particular incident just a few years ago (she was about 80) she participated in the AHA Turkey Walk, getting pledges for each mile she walked. Her employer, Dayton Parker, told her he would pledge $10 a mile, thinking she might walk a few miles. Ma Hill, however, started out early and walked a whopping 15 miles that day, returning to an aston-

She was born June 13, 1907 in Erath County, and from 1928 to 1938 she and her husband, John N. Hill, lived and worked in Wilson. "My husband ran a grocery store and drove the top floor of the courthouse (which looks down on the square). Those prisoners didn't have a thing in the world to do except look out the window, and when I'd sweep the sidewalk they would whistle at me," she

"PIP" Basketball Program Offers Fundamentals For Local Children

Players In Progress (PIP) is a relatively new basketball program being offered to area children to teach the fundamentals of the game, according to Cindy Gardner, Tahoka PIP coordinator. PIP is a national franchise organization, and is a six-month program of practices and performances for elementary-age students.

"The program initiates with a half-day camp on Saturday, July 18, from 9 a.m. until noon at the Tahoka High School gym," says Mrs. Gardner. "Then we'll have four more half-day sessions on Monday through Thursday, July 20-23, from 9 until noon. After that, we will schedule practice sessions during October through February, and will perform at halftime during local high school basketball games, some other area high school games, and at one Texas Tech basketball game," she explains.

Registration fee for the PIP program is $50 per child, of which $35 is the PIP membership fee, and the other $15 goes for the summer camp, a t-shirt, bumper sticker, and decal. The PIP program is open to children who have completed Kindergarten through fifth grade.

A signup period will be offered Tuesday, June 30 from 6-8 p.m. in the Lyntegar meeting room, according to Mrs. Gardner. "During that signup time, we'll have a ten-minute video about PIP which we will show to anyone interested," she says. The deadline to sign up for PIP is July 7. She stressed that the PIP practice sessions will be over by the time youth basketball season begins, and that the PIP program will help prepare players for their season.

At the first half-day camp here July 18, a PIP's coordinator from Dallas, Brenda Land, will be on hand to organize the activities. Mrs. Gardner is the local coordinator, and there will be several other local assistants who will help with the program here. Depending upon the number of participants, Mrs. Gardner says she hopes to have a separate boys group and girls group. "This is not a competition, and we will not have teams," stresses Mrs. Gardner. "The PIP program is geared to teach skills, discipline, confidence and fun - it allows each child to work at his/her own level and be successful, and gives them an opportunity to perform in front of a crowd and overcome that nervousness that keeps so many from trying new things," she says.

The PIP program strives to create an early interest in basketball and encourage the development of ball handling skills. "This program will help children to build self-assurance and improve agility, physical skills and general fitness," Mrs. Gardner says. "We want to see each child develop some self-discipline for the game, and stimulate individual work."

To sign up, or for more information on the PIP program, contact Mrs. Gardner at 998-5385, or mail the registration form (which was handed out to elementary students at the end of the school year) and $50 registration fee to her at P.O. Box 775, Tahoka, TX 79373.

The officer training is held each year to teach 4-H youth officers the duties of their respective offices. Parliamentary procedures and the business meeting will be other topics at the training. Groups will also receive materials to complete annual planning before the August 1 deadline.

ished employer to claim $150 for the Heart Association. He paid up good-naturedly, and most probably toned his pledges down a few dollars after that.

When Channel 11's Karla Leslie interviewed Ma this week, they asked if they could film her walking home from work, and she agreed. She walked so fast, however, that before the camera-man could get ready, she was a good distance from them. "The look on Karla Leslie's face was so funny to us," remarked Dayton and Jewel Parker. "She had to holler at Ma to slow down so that they could get her on film, and she turned to us and said 'That lady's fast!'"

Her co-workers at Parker Pharmacy will miss the dynamic 85-year-old's presence at the cash register and industrious work habits in the store. "Ma is a very, very special lady," said Connie Hallmark, one of her co-workers. "I will miss her being at the store very much, although we will see each other and still plan to walk together as often as possible, for exercise," she added.

"My doctor has told me that walking for all these years has kept me physically fit, and I plan to continue walking for exercise," said Mrs. Hill. "It's going to be hard to get used to, not getting up and coming to work every day," she added.

In 1985, a Health Mart official visited Parker Pharmacy and was so impressed with the energy and devotion to duty of Mrs. Hill, then 77 years old, that he initiated a new program of special recognition for outstanding employees and Mrs. Hill was the first person so honored.

Store owner Dayton Parker commented that "nobody is more deserving of this type of recognition than Ma Hill ... she walks to and from work in all kinds of weather, is the first one on the job and stays as long as we'll let her. She does everything from scrubbing floors to handling money."

Now, in 1992, after 50 years of hard work, Ma Hill will retire from the public work force. There will be many who will miss seeing her friendly face at Parker Pharmacy, and many who will wish her a "very happy retirement".

Tahoka's Ma Hill is truly "one of a kind" and she deserves all the accolades given her on "her day" Tuesday, June 30.

FASTER THAN A SPEEDING HILL - KCBD Channel 11's Karla Leslie (right) and photographer Rick Mize try to get a picture of Ma Hill as she walks speedily to work, as she has done for 24 years at Parker Pharmacy. Ms. Leslie interviewed Ma Hill this week, as Ma prepares to retire after working 50 years in Tahoka. The interview will be shown on the 10 o'clock news tonight (Thursday) and at noon Friday. (LYNN COUNTY NEWS PHOTO)

NEARLY 50 YEARS AGO - Ma Hill (far right) is shown when she worked at Mrs. Ethel Robinson's (far left) Ready-To-Wear dress shop in Tahoka in about 1945. Mrs. Hill worked there for 26 years until 1967, when she began working at Collier-Parker Pharmacy (now Parker Pharmacy). She is retiring Tuesday after 50 years of working for the public in Tahoka, and 24 years at the pharmacy. The other woman in this photo, just to the left of Mrs. Hill, is Mrs. Ora Boyd.

There will be a "miscellaneous" bridal shower for Rachel Curry, bride-elect of Bruce Lehman, at St. Paul Lutheran Church Parish Hall. The shower will be Sunday, June 28 from 3 p.m. - 4 p.m.

Selections are at Hometown Hardware in Tahoka and Mervyn's in Lubbock.

You are also asked to bring a favorite recipe, which will be combined with others for a special recipe collection for Rachel.

Young at Heart will be changing their June meeting time to 12 noon. This is for this one time since they are having a special pot-luck luncheon and Bingo. Come share in the fun and fellowship June 25 at 12 noon. July meeting will be back at the regular time.

This past weekend was quite busy for Zora Powers, out on "Hungry Hill." Zora's sister-in-law, Maxine Wise and her son J.W. Wise from San Antonio spent a few days visiting. They were accompanied by family friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bittle and son, Jim, also of San Antonio. On Sunday, Karla Moore and Mike Green along with Gary and Debra Moore and family visited.

Sky and Wacy Moore have been participating and doing well in their Junior Rodeo events. The boys, who are the sons of Delton and Melvna Moore, participate in team roping, breakaway roping and steer stopping.

Wacy participates in the 9-12 age bracket and Sky is in the 13-19 bracket. Both boys will be riding in the National Finals of the Hi Plains Jr. Rodeo at Lovington, New Mexico in July.

"Lots of Luck to these two fine riders!"

Wilson ISD Board of Directors met in a special meeting on June 23 at 7 p.m. This meeting was held as a "Board Training" session and was not a business meeting. The training session was conducted by Dr. Michael Stevens who is a professor in the Education Department at TTU, and who is the former interim Superintendent of Wilson ISD.

Dr. Stevens addressed the responsibilities, duties, and constraints of the local board members. The time spent in this session will count towards the board members, required, training hours.

The Staked Plains branch of the Lutheran Brotherhood Insurance will hold an area meeting at St. John Lutheran Church on Saturday, June 27 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. This is a "Get Acquainted" type meeting with questions and answers to be the main area of concern. A bar-b-que meal will be served.

St. John Lutheran Church is planning its 75th anniversary celebration in January of 1993, and they are raising some of the funds to cover the costs of the celebration by having a garage and baked goods sale. This sale will be Saturday, July 18 from 8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. The people in charge of the sale have requested that anyone having merchandise to donate to the sale to please deliver the items on Friday, July 17. These items can be delivered to the church parish hall and there should be someone there to accept it.

It is important that this sale be a success since the church has received word that the Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL), branch number 7946207 will be providing matching funds up to their set limit on this project.

Wilson I.S.D.'s summer reading program will begin on Monday, June 29 and end on July 30. This program is available to all Wilson ISD students in the elementary grades and will consist of four, 2 hour sessions each week. Those who have signed up for the program should be receiving a letter giving all the final details, times and other pertinent information this week. For further information, please call the school at 628-6261.

The Lions Club is still putting the finishing touches on the 4th of July celebration to be held in the park on Saturday, July 4. Several groups have indicated that they will have their booths set up, so along with good food, various crafts and games, and whatever, there will even be live entertainment by various area groups including the gospel music of the "Spiritual Soul Seekers" of Lubbock.

The festivities will begin at 5:30 p.m. and end about dark-thirty. Lions Club raffle tickets are still available from any Lions Club member.

I HAVE A FEW comments to make about insurance policies and health care costs, and as might be expected, the comments are not complimentary. I have friends in both the insurance and medical professions, but I pay them enough to allow me a few derogatory remarks.

The other day I told my daughters, who already are older than I ever thought I'd get, that I am turning over to them a couple of small life insurance policies I have had on them since they were 3 years old. "You can pay these premiums if you want to, and make somebody besides me the beneficiary if you wish," I told one of them.

"How much is the policy for?" she asked. "Twenty-five hundred dollars," I replied. "Only enough to bury you about six inches deep."

She may want to drop the policies because they probably have the same provisions as my car and house and medical policies—they pay only if the loss occurs on a Leap Year Tuesday between 3 and 3:15 p.m.

Health care dollars in the U.S., according to the first of a three-part series in this month's Consumer Reports and also in an article we received from the "Families USA Foundation", are being wasted like crazy and we (both the government and citizens) are paying a lot more than we should for what we get.

Ron Pollack, director of the foundation, says "we now spend over $7,000 per family every year on health care. That's nearly three times as much as in 1980, just 12 years ago." He adds that this figure is projected to be $14,000 a year by 2000, and see the basic problem as this: "Every dollar squeezed out of your family budget by health costs winds up in somebody's pocket. We'll never solve our health cost crisis until we crack down on the health profiteers: insurance companies, big drug companies, hospital chains, high-priced medical specialists and medical labs."

He says health care in the U.S. costs 40 per cent more per person than in Canada, even though Canadians live two years longer than we do.

Of course, this guy doesn't know everything. He also says that people who make only $250 a week are "living on the edge of poverty."

Besides that, he looks like Dan Quayle.

Out of the Woods

The wayward thoughts of Juanell (Wood) Jones

I hate to admit this in public, but this weekend, for the first time in my life, I mowed the lawn. It was a Father's Day gift to my husband, who had to work all day Saturday, so I mowed the grass so that he could have Sunday to play golf and not have to worry about the lawn.

For all of you incredulous people who can't believe someone has never mown the lawn, let me stress here that I am extremely allergic to work ... uh, I mean, fresh cut grass. When I was a child (a mere few years ago) I would break out in hives if I walked through fresh cut grass, my eyes would water so badly I couldn't see where I was going, and I could just forget about trying to breathe through my nose. I would gasp and choke like a fish out of water, eyes bulging and watering, with whelps on my skin — it was not a pretty sight.

So for years I have stayed inside while the grass is being cut, and my husband has always mowed the lawn. This weekend, however, in a fit of generosity (quite unlike me, I know) I thought I'd give it a try.

The first thing I had to do was figure out how to start the thing. I knew you pulled the little handle on the end of the cord, but that was about it. My sister happened to come by the house about that time, so I asked her to show me how to start it. She looked at me, incredulous, and said, "You mean you don't know how to start a lawn mower?" like this is a skill everyone is born with. I told her to quit laughing at me and just show me.

An hour and a half later, I had mown the front and backyard, my alley and my neighbor's alley (I was on a roll), and I was covered in sweat and dirt from head to toe. By then I was breathing in short little bursts and my eyes were watering some, but I didn't break out in hives.

What really bothered me, at this point, was that I was so hot I thought I was going to explode. I have heard of people who have an unfortunate little problem with spontaneous combustion, and thought it quite likely that I might join the elite few. Little puddles of sweat fell to the ground behind me wherever I went and my hair was sticking to my head in a most unbecoming fashion. My 7-year-old daughter told me I looked "yuck" and to go take a shower.

The cold shower did wonders for my attitude, although when I got out and took a look in the mirror at my hair sticking out, I went a little berserk. I was not in the mood to mess with my hair, so I got a pair of scissors and began hacking off everything within reach, not caring one whit what it was going to look like when I got finished. Fortunately, the finished result was something that, in my opinion, is pretty decent if you don't look too close.

The look on my husband's face when he got home later that afternoon was something to behold — I wish I'd had the video camera. "Okay," he said, "Who mowed the grass?" followed immediately by, "Who cut your hair?" and a double-take in my direction.

"I did," I informed him smugly. "Did what? Cut your hair?" he asked. "Well, that too. I mowed the grass, myself. Happy Father's Day," I told him, grinning from ear to ear.

He was dumbfounded. Is there really such word as dumb-founded? And who made it up?

Anyway, he was. I was quite proud of myself, and told all my friends what I had done (they weren't impressed). I, however, am quite smug about the whole thing. Next year I may try changing the oil in the car for Father's Day. His car. I wouldn't want to ruin my car.

Texas Producers Seek Alternatives For Damaged Cotton Crops

by BRENT BEAN, Texas Extension Agronomist

Recent wet, cool conditions along with scattered hail storms, has greatly reduced the chances of area farmers producing a successful cotton crop. Historically, the potential for harvesting a cotton crop after a planting date of June 10 is not very good.

Hence, many producers may want to consider an alternative crop such as grain sorghum, soybeans, sunflowers, or pinto and other dry beans.

Cotton producers who incorporated Treflan or Prowl or who applied Probe, Caparol, Cotoran or Karmex as a pre-emergence herbicide, will be running a risk of crop injury if grain sorghum is planted.

This is especially true on the sandier textured soils where the depth of the herbicide in the soil could be relatively deep, depending on the herbicide and the amount of rain received.

The problem of herbicide residue can be circumvented on the heavier soils with a buster planter, set to displace the top four to five inches of soil to establish a herbicide-free seed furrow.

This works especially well for Prowl and Treflan due to their low leachability potential; the other pre-emergence herbicides used in cotton are more soluble and may have moved deeper into the soil profile making it more difficult to place the seed in untreated soil.

However, as these herbicides are leached downward they become more diluted, thus decreasing the potential for sorghum injury.

Past experience has suggested few problems from herbicide injury when four to five inches of soil is removed before sorghum planting, regardless of the cotton herbicide used.

If dual herbicide has been applied, sorghum seed can be planted into the treated soil as long as safened sorghum seed is used.

Hybrid selection is also an important consideration. Sorghum planting may range from late April to early July, depending on the maturity class of the hybrid.

In general, a full-season hybrid should not be planted after June 10 and the cut-off date of a medium-to-late maturity hybrid would be June 20-31.

An early-medium maturity variety could be planted up to June 25-July 31, depending on the particular hybrid and how far south in the panhandle or south plains you are located.

Before planting any hybrid, be sure and check with the seed company for their recommended planting date for that hybrid.

For a list of the major sorghum hybrids and their maturity class, check with the county extension office.

Finally, producers who plant late sorghum should be aware that midge infestation and other insects, may be a problem and be prepared to apply insecticide if needed.

Soybeans may be a particularly good replacement crop for cotton in irrigated areas.

Treflan, Prowl, Dual or Zorial used in cotton will not soybeans and the crop can be planted over a wide range of dates.

If Caparol, Cotoran, Karmex or Probe has been used, at least three to four inches of soil will need to be removed before establishing a seed furrow.

Generally, the optimum planting date for soybeans would be prior to June 1, however, excellent yield results have been obtained when planted in late June.

Soybeans will usually require at least two waterings during the summer. Since soybeans are sensitive to day length, late plantings result in short stalk growth and may lead to poor harvestability of the lower seed pods. This problem can be partially circumvented by the use of varieties that fall into the late group IV and the early group V maturity classifications.

Other cultural practices which encourage stalk growth in the late planting are higher seeding rates (65 to 70 pounds of seed per acre), planting a single row per bed, and early irrigation.

A list of soybean varieties and their maturity classification may be obtained at the county extension office.

Sunflowers also constitute an alternative crop, this crop can usually be planted as late as mid-July and still make a good yield.

Sunflowers may be the only reasonable alternative for dryland farmers. If one summer irrigation can be made it should be applied from budding until two weeks after first flowering since this is the critical period when stress should be avoided.

Seeding rates range from 12,000-16,000 plants per acre under dryland conditions and 22,000-26,000 plants per acre under irrigation.

If the land has been treated with Treflan or Prowl this should not be a problem with sunflowers. However, like soybeans, if Karmex, Probe, Cotoran or Caparol has been used, then three to four inches of soil will need to be removed before establishing a seed furrow.

For more specific information on sunflower production, contact the county extension office.

A final replacement crop for cotton is pinto beans or peas. June 25 dryland plantings can yield 1,400-1,800 pounds per acre of pinto beans and 800-1,200 per acre of peas.

Irrigated beans can yield up to 2,400 pound per acre and irrigated peas 2,000 pounds per acre. It is important that beans and peas be contracted before devoting many acres to the crops.

Treflan and Prowl-treated fields should not be a problem for planting pinto beans or peas, but if Caparol, Cotoran, Probe, or Karmex were used, then again, at least three to four inches of soil must be removed before establishing a seed furrow.

Other cultural practices for pinto beans and peas should be obtained from the contractor before plans are made to plant one of these crops.

The following is from a June 11 interview with Dr. Dan Krieg, Crop Physiology Professor in the Department of Agronomy, Horticulture and Entomology Department, College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

"Producers need to get grain sorghum in the ground and get the crop up and growing as soon as possible.

"For sorghum to produce at its maximum potential, it needs about 15 pounds of nitrogen and 3 pounds of phosphorus per each 1,000 pounds of grain yield.

"It takes about four inches of water to grow the stalk and produce 600 pounds of grain. Every inch of water received beyond this point will increase yield potential by 500 pounds.

"With our full soil profile now a couple of timely summer rains, we have the potential to produce 3,000 to 3,500 pounds of dryland grain sorghum. In this case, dryland farmers will need to apply 50 to 60 pounds of nitrogen and 15 to 20 pounds of phosphorus per acre.

"Dryland farmers might want to consider that one pound of seed per acre should yield at least 1,000 pounds of grain. It is important not to over populate. I would recommend that they plant three to three and a half pounds of seed per acre. This should easily produce 5,000 pounds of grain, and this will not hurt the producer if it turns off dry.

"Irrigated producers should follow the same ratio. With five to six pounds of seed per acre, they should be able to achieve a target yield of 5,000 to 7,000 pounds of grain. They would likely need only one irrigation during the growing season since the soil profile is full of moisture now," said Dr. Krieg.

Tahoka: The Lake That Started The Town

Tahoka's whole reason for existence is located three miles north on FM 400 and one mile east. The lake site is approximately one half mile wide and three miles long.

Some early settlers, such as Ance

Lockwood, Bill Nevels and Ed Ketner, thought Tahoka meant "bad water." However, some Indian language authorities believe it means "fresh or clear water." Because this lake was a favorite Comanche camping site due to the abundant water supply, this definition seems likely. There are two works in the Choctaw language "Taha" and "Oka." When used together, these two words mean the "water is all gone." Usually water is not in the bed of Tahoka Lake, but the fresh water is found in the springs flowing into the lake. Many fossils have been found in Tahoka Lake from as old as 11,000 B.C. Many of these fossils are on display in area museums, however, some are also privately owned.

Since game gathered at sites of water, it is assumed that this is what brought people to Lynn County. When interviewed in Tahoka in the 1940's, Baldwin Parker, one of Tahoka's first settlers, said he had heard Comanches talk of Tahoka Lake, and believed it was a place where they came to get fresh water.

In the times of the Civil War, Tahoka Lake is believed to have been on the route to Fort Union, N.M. If this is correct, this was the first time that Anglos were ever in Lynn County.

There have been many legends about gold being in the vicinity of Tahoka Lake. One legend goes like this:

About 160 years ago, some gold miners had been working some mines in the mountains west of Roswell. The trail they were returning home by went through Tahoka Lake. Coming upon the lake, the miners discovered that they were being trailed by Indians. Panicking, the miners hid the gold. The Indians killed the party with the exception of two or three, who made their way home on foot. This legend has inspired many excavations which have concluded with no rewards of gold ever being found.

Since people settled in Tahoka because of the "clear, fresh water," it is only appropriate that the town is named after the lake. In 1902, the name "Tahoka," proposed by W.E. Fannie Henderson won overwhelmingly against "Dew Drop" which was proposed for Dew Drop Lake.

BEWARE OF BUGS AND BEES

Modern sprays and repellents have cut down enormously on the harm caused by bees, wasps, ticks, chiggers and other such creatures that abound during the summer months. However, stinging monsters still take their toll with barefooted and barely clad children.

Use a good repellent, we have many in stock regularly. Apply prior to summer outings. Try to wash with soap and sponge with alcohol as soon as you come back. Quickly treat any sting with a soothing lotion or ointment. We stock them. If it is unusually severe and swelling, consult your physician.
