Nashville Trip For Janessa Lee Is Canceled

A trip to Nashville, TN scheduled for Janessa Lee of Wilson, who is seriously ill with leukemia, was canceled because of her condition, relatives reported this week.

Janessa, 11, is a patient at Children's Hospital, a division of Lubbock Methodist Hospital, and continues to need platelets of blood types O positive or O negative. Prospective donors should check with Blood Services, 2523 48th St. in Lubbock and specify that they are willing to donate for Janessa, who continues to need such donations three or four times a week.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation had arranged for a trip to Nashville for Janessa July 21-23.

The daughter of Mrs. Brenda Crowson Ewerz has had leukemia since she was a baby.

She said this week that she is really thankful for all those who have donated platelets, and also to "all my friends who wrote letters." On days that she feels well, she likes to have visitors.

LOOKING AT TAHOKA'S FUTURE—Cal Huffaker discusses the format of a town hall-type meeting of persons interested in the appearance and future of Tahoka last Thursday at Tahoka Methodist Church.

Forum Here Discusses Problems Facing Tahoka

By DALTON WOOD

Most of the obstacles preventing Tahoka's economic and population growth could be solved with money which is mostly unavailable, it was agreed at a town-hall type meeting of citizens last Thursday night. But it also was agreed that Tahoka has many assets which make it a good place to live and that an attack will be launched on one of the main problems—general appearance and lack of pride in ownership.

A committee representing a cross-section of citizens, with members from each organization in the community, is to be established, to identify appearance problems and ways to get help from all residents in trying to solve them.

Coordinating the committee selection will be the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored Thursday's meeting at the First United Methodist Church's Fellowship Hall. The committee itself will function outside the chamber, hoping to involve all residents interested in a more attractive Tahoka, whether in business or not.

Both the city and a class from Tahoka High School already are planning demolition of some existing eyesore structures in Tahoka, it was reported to the group of about 70 persons who attended Thursday's meeting.

Cal Huffaker and Dustie Cook presided as the group suggested that the main problems facing Tahoka, which has seen business closings and a drop in population from about 3,200 to 2,800 between the 1980 and 1990 Census, are lack of enthusiasm, lack of capital, lack of loyalty to existing businesses, general appearance of the city in both business and residential areas, pride of ownership in these homes and business structures, and teamwork or lack of a

Four Wrecks Investigated

Four traffic accidents were investigated by a Dept. of Public Safety officer last weekend on highways in Lynn County, with two persons treated and then released at Lynn County Hospital for injuries apparently not serious. Four vehicles were "totaled" in two of the accidents, according to the DPS officer.

On Friday morning at the intersection of U.S. 380 and FM 1054 a 1992 Ford Crown Victoria driven by Charles Ray Trammell, 54, of Draw and a 1981 Toyota pickup driven by Jason Eggemeyer, 17, of San Angelo collided. No injuries resulted, according to the report.

Two wrecks occurred in early morning hours Saturday. One, at 2:55 a.m. was on FM 400 5.9 miles north-east of Wilson, where a 1984 Volkswagen driven by Juan Rios Jr., 23, of Wilson struck the rear of a 1977 Ford Thunderbird driven by Jerry Wayne Robinson, 30, of New Home. Rios was treated at Lynn County Hospital.

Twenty minutes later a van parked at the roadside park north of Tahoka on U.S. 87 was struck by a white pickup which drove into the park, with the driver speeding away after the collision. There were no injuries to the family of Mickey Bailey of San Antonio sleeping in the van. Damage to the van was slight.

On Sunday at 4:45 a.m. 15.1 miles north of Tahoka on U.S. 87 a 1980 Toyota driven by Barry Wayne Liljestrom, 47, of Lubbock, struck a 1983 Mercury parked on the shoulder of the highway, without lights. It was owned by Hector Hernandez of Lamesa. Liljestrom was treated and released at Lynn County Hospital. Damage to both vehicles was heavy.

Tahoka Police Dept. handled cases of assault and criminal trespass and a patrolman arrested a Tahoka driver Sunday afternoon after a brief but fast chase. A patrolman began the chase on S. 1st St. after noticing the car had no current inspection sticker and the driver was not wearing a seat belt. The vehicle then sped away, with four minor females as passengers. The vehicle was stopped and the driver arrested after pursuit to the 1100-block of N. 7th St. During the chase several traffic violations, including running three stop signs, were observed. The driver was jailed on charges including fleeing, reckless conduct, no seat belt, unrestrained child under age 2, failure to signal left turn, expired registration, no liability insurance, expired motor vehicle inspection sticker and three counts of running stop signs.

A reported assault on a Tahoka female by two other females at the carnival Friday night was investigated by police. Justice of the Peace H.W. Edwards lectured all parties concerned and the case was considered cleared.

A building at the corner of Harper and Ave. J owned by The Lynn County News was burglarized during the weekend, with damage to a door and window, but nothing was reported missing.

In addition to the driver in the chase, six other persons were placed in Lynn County jail during the week. Charges included contempt of court and hindering proceedings by disorderly conduct, violation of protective order, driving while intoxicated first offense plus possession of marijuana under two ounces; public intoxication, DWI first offense, DWI subsequent offense.

The wayward thoughts of Juanell (Wood) Jones

I'm back from my annual shopping trip to Dallas, and nothing bad really happened, unless you count the police and fire departments breaking into the house next door while we stood outside with our mouths open, gaping and looking basically unhelpful.

We stayed with a friend in Dallas, whose unfortunate neighbors will be getting a big unwelcome surprise when they get home from wherever they happen to be on vacation. You see, they (the neighbors) have a security system hooked up to the Dallas police and fire departments, which notifies those departments if a smoke alarm, or security alarm, goes off.

Saturday morning, as we were having breakfast, we looked outside and noticed a fire truck parked next door with lights blazing and three firemen traipsing around the house. Naturally, we all jumped up and ran outside to offer our assistance, although in my case I didn't actually have much assistance to offer.

The family we were staying with, however, told the firemen that their neighbors were away. Because the fire department was obligated to check out the alarm, they called the police department, who came and broke out a window in the back of the house to gain entry. What they all discovered when they got into the house was that the owners had set off several bug bombs in their home before leaving, but neglected to disconnect the smoke alarms. Won't they be surprised when they get home?

Other than that, our trip was surprisingly uneventful — a surprise to me because trouble always seems to follow me wherever I go, sort of like the little dust cloud that follows Pigpen in the Peanuts comic strip.

Of course, that wasn't my official vacation, that was just a short weekend trip. My official vacation is in a couple of weeks when the family will take off for parts unknown (unknown because we haven't yet decided where to go on $12 and 76 cents). The official Jones Family Vacation has always struck terror into the hearts of those who know their Jones Family history.

I'm speaking here strictly of myself, my husband and our children, for those of you who happen to be my mother-in-law and may wonder why I'm talking ugly about your wonderfully excellent family. No ma'am, I speak here of family vacations since I married your son and turned his vacations into something to be anticipated with equal amounts of fear and dread.

For those of you unfamiliar with the history of our family vacations, let me assure you that I do not exaggerate here. Just ask my sister, who dared to go with us on a camping vacation a few years ago and spent most of the time huddled in a tent while it rained for days and days on end. Actually, we didn't spend the whole time in the tent — some of the time we sat in the car, and sometimes we put garbage bags over our heads and wandered around the muddy campsite.

It was one of those vacations that if you had just gone outside and tossed about $500 into the wind and stomped back inside your home, you would have spent about the same amount of money and had a much better time, while saving wear and tear on your car and your nerves.

And then there was the time when I took my children to Sea World and my six-year-old daughter came down with chicken pox about eight minutes after we arrived in San Antonio. I'm pretty sure we were basically responsible for giving approximately 10,000 other Sea World visitors the chicken pox two weeks later. We're sorry. Really.

That's just two of our family vacations in the last few years. There are others I could tell you about, but I'm already depressed just thinking about it. We haven't really saved any money for this year's fun-filled action-packed trip, so we may possibly make it as far as O'Donnell before we're forced to stop and have fun.

I don't have anything against the people of O'Donnell so I feel it's only fair to warn you: We drive a red car, and there will be one tall man who will look like he wishes he wasn't there, one frazzled short dumpy blonde (that's me) and two blonde-headed kids carrying everything but the kitchen sink in the back seat. If you see a blonde cocker spaniel you'll know for sure that it's us.

Just nod and wave at us, folks. If you'll give us money, we'll go somewhere else. A dollar or two might get us clear out of Lynn County.

A positive note was sounded by Mayor Jim Solomon, who said that "Tahoka won't ever be like it was in the 70s, but I don't believe that the outlook is as gloomy as some have painted it." He added that "Tahoka is a good town," and was interrupted by applause from the group. He also said that one of the main problems is with the attitude of the people—"we have a lot of assets, particularly in some of the younger citizens" who have elected to try to make their careers in Tahoka.

MRS. PAUL GLISSON (nee CANDICE BAILEY)
Couple Exchange Wedding Vows
In Double Ring Ceremony

Candice Zan Bailey and Joseph Paul Glisson exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony Saturday, July 18, 1992 at 4 p.m. in the Tahoka First Baptist Church. Carroll Rhodes of Ruidoso, N.M., officiated. Parents of the couple are Quaydene Bailey and Pat Glisson, both of Tahoka.

Matron of Honor was Bridget Taylor. Bridesmaids were Brandie Webster, Jennie Wells, and Jodi Glisson, sister-in-law of the groom, all of Tahoka. The attendants wore backless, teal polished-cotton dresses with fitted bodices and full tea-length skirts, accented with a bow at the waist in the back. Their hair was designed by the mother of the bride and Byron Norwood.

Thomas Glisson, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Michael Isbell of Lubbock, Rusty Jennings of Houston, and T.C. Spruiell of Tahoka. Ushers were Kurt Bryan of Abilene and Heath Brewer of Tahoka.

Terri Solomon of Tahoka registered guests.

Keely Boone of Tahoka was flower girl. She wore a white polished-cotton dress accented with a crochet lace collar. She carried a parasol of white crochet lace and organza ribbon. Kyle Thomas of Lubbock, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

The bride was escorted by her older brother, Brandy Bailey and Cody Bailey, her twin brother. She wore a romantic gown of white crystalline organza designed by San Martin. The bodice was heavily beaded with sequins and pearls on Venice lace. The gown featured a wedding band neckline with narrow applique net sleeves highlighted with fluffed ruffles at the shoulder. The full ball-gown skirt, adorned with lace appliques and ruffles, flared to a ruffled cathedral train.

Adding to her ensemble the bride wore a floral wreath accented with hand-rolled roses and pearl sprays highlighted with a double filament pouf. The garter was given to the bride by Ruthie (Moma) Tilley.

The bride carried a bouquet designed by Judy Aslin. It had two silk magnolias accented with silk baby's breath, magnolia leaves and white satin ribbons.

The center aisle of the church was lined with brass candlesticks, white candles and white satin bows. The altar had two spiral candelabrum accented with silk English ivy. Centered between was a heart-shaped candelabra with 19 white candles and one teal candle in memory of the groom's great grandmother, Marie Thomas.

Byron Norwood and Brenda McCleskey sang "Holy Spirit," "Thou Art Welcome," "After All," and "To Me." Byron Norwood also sang "The Lord's Prayer." Susie Rhodes, of Ruidoso, N.M., was pianist.

Seated with the bride's mother was Vinson Caswell. Louise Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Lindy Thomas were seated with the groom's mother.

Before leaving the church the bride and groom presented red roses to each other.

Grandparents attending were Ralph and Ima Robinson and Louise Fisher.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the church. The bride's cake was a white heart-shaped pedestal with teal roses, topped with Precious Moments figurines. Serving at the bride's table were Bridget Taylor and Terri-Solomon.

The groom's cake was a heart-shaped chocolate layer cake. Serving at his table were Jennie Wells and Jodi Glisson.

After a honeymoon to Abilene the couple will reside in Tahoka. The bride is a 1991 graduate of Tahoka High School. The groom is a 1990 graduate of Tahoka High School and is employed at Malouf's.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is asking the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) for approval to begin charging $3.00 per bill, for duplicate paper copies of a customer's bill up to 15 pages. If the customer's bill exceeds 15 pages, an additional five cents per page will apply. If the customer's bill is lost or mutilated for reasons other than negligence by the customer, no charge for a duplicate copy will apply if a customer notifies Southwestern Bell within 60 days of the billing date. The effective date of this application is December 4, 1992.

If approved by the PUC, this application will increase the Company's annual revenues by $835,000, which is an increase of approximately two one-hundredths of 1 percent (.02 percent) in the Company's adjusted revenue for the 12-month period ending December 31, 1991. The application could affect all of the Company's approximately 4.6 million residence customers and all of its approximately 575,000 business customers should they choose to request duplicate copies of their bills.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the PUC as soon as possible. The deadline to intervene is August 7, 1992. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas at 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the PUC Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

This matter has been assigned Docket No. 11223.

Parents Can Teach Youth How To Manage Time

Part 2 of a 4 Part Series
By Donna M. Peters, CEA-HE
 Some days you wish you could package your child's energy and sell it, or you wish you could borrow some of it. They seem to have more energy than their parents much of the time. However, their energy is limited. Resourceful youth recognize their energy has sources. They realize that they feel better and get the most done when they manage their personal energy.

Explore resourceful energy use with your child. Our energy depends on how much we sleep and rest, what we eat and how much physical activity we have. Healthy eating and exercise habits can also help maximize a child's athletic and academic performance. Also, healthy eating should be fun.

Help your child get the best start with healthy foods for breakfast, children may feel fatigued, sleepy and unmotivated. Promote healthy snacking by stocking the kitchen with healthy choices. For children, snacking may account for 30 percent or more of daily calories and 20 percent or more of nutrients.

Routine physical activity is helpful for several reasons. It burns more calories and allows children to eat more healthy foods during the day. Also, inactivity is one of the biggest contributions to weight gain, obesity and sluggishness.

Even if eating on the run is part of the family lifestyle, children can be taught to make healthier choices from vending machines and fast-food establishments. High-fat foods take longer and more energy to digest so a diet heavy in fat may drain energy.

Help youth see how personal decisions about eating, sleeping and physical activity affect their "go power." Make energy banks from seven glass jars. Mark one for each of the following: Sleep, exercise, breads and cereals, fruits, vegetables, milk and cheese and meats. Use dried beans and drop one in for each hour of sleep they get each night, one for each serving of breads and cereals, milk and cheese, fruits and vegetables and meats they eat a day, and one for each hour of physical activity or exercise they get during the day. At the end of the day, have them write on a piece of paper how many beans are in each jar. Have them rate how energetic they felt during the day, with one meaning little energy, five meaning average level of energy, and 10 meaning super energetic.

At the end of the week compare their ratings for each day with the number of beans in each jar. What seemed to make the biggest difference in how energetic they felt? What was different about the days they felt best and the days they felt they had less energy? If interest in tracking their energy level continues, let them give a monthly report. When they look back over the month, particularly if they changed any of their "energy habits" during the month, what did they find made the biggest difference in how much energy they had to do things that were important to them?

Children's energy can be a real drain on some parents, but when you know how to manage their personal energy, it can be resourceful to the whole family.

Mrs. J.T. HAYSE (nee Susan Kay Mounts)

Mounts-Hayse Vows Exchanged

Susan Kay Mounts and J.T. Hayse were united in marriage July 18, 1992 at 7 p.m. in the Northside Baptist Church of Plainview with Rev. Bruce Keller officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Mounts of Balko, Okla. and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gasaway of New Home.

Church decorations included two heart-shaped candelabra entwined with greenery at the altar, along with emerald green and ivory bows decorating the pews and church. Misti Gasaway, sister of the groom, registered guests.

Susan Moore, pianist, played traditional wedding music before and during the ceremony. Pre-recorded musical selections played during the ceremony were "The Lord's Prayer," "Battle Hymn of Love," and "Rockin' Years."

Renell Wheat of Phoenix, Ariz., was Matron of Honor and bridesmaids were Lisa Denham of Vernon, Donna Holt of Silverton and Kathy Mounts, sister-in-law of the bride, of Sand Springs, Okla.

Flower girl was Ashley Mounts, niece of the bride, and Chad Harger, nephew of the groom, was ringbearer.

Best man was Eddie Gasaway, father of the groom. Groomsmen were Jim Wyatt, Chuck Smith and Michael Mounts, brother of the bride. Ushers were James Harger, brother-in-law of the groom, and Scott McAllister.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father and they were joined at the altar by her mother.

The bride wore an elegant gown by Alfred Angelo. The traditionally-styled gown of ivory chantilly lace over ivory satin featured a Sabrina neckline with full-length tapered sleeves. The front of the bodice was adorned with motifs of Schiffler lace embellished with pearls and sequins. The back of the bodice was an open keyhole with three strands of pearls swinging across the back. The straight skirt of the gown included a detachable train of ivory satin attached at the waistline under a stain peplum. She wore a derby of ivory satin with illusion veiling; a soft pouff accented the back of the hat.

The bride carried a large bouquet of silk roses in ivory, emerald green, and black enveloped in ivory lace and tied with ribbons and streamers in the wedding colors. All of the floral arrangements were made by the bride.

The Matron of Honor and bridesmaids wore full skirted tea-length dresses of iridescent emerald green taffeta. Lace overlaid the princess bodices, sweetheart neckline and extended to the puff sleeves, dipping elegantly to a v-back, accented with a bow. The attendants carried two long-stemmed roses of ivory silk accented with baby's breath and greenery and tied with ivory, emerald green and black ribbon and lace bows. The flower girl wore a dress of similar design.

As something old, the bride carried a linen handkerchief belonging to her Grandmother Kellin, something new was her gown, something borrowed was a gold rose lapel pin from Grandmother Mounts and something blue was her garter. She also wore pennies of the couple's birth years in her shoes.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall following the ceremony. The Bride's Table was covered with an ivory lace tablecloth over green. It held a three-tiered Italian cream wedding cake iced in an ivory lace effect icing, decorated with a cascade of ivory icing roses spiraling down the front of the cake. The top of the cake held a porcelain bride and groom figurine in a heart-shaped setting. Emerald green crystal candleholders with ivory spiral candles were placed at each side of the cake. Punch was served from a crystal punch bowl. The groom's table was covered with an ivory lace cloth over black and held a chocolate cake which was served with coffee.

Serving the guests were Gracie Casteneda; Jo Beth Ware; Melinda Wyatt; Linda Garcia; Shelli Harger, sister of the groom; Noretta Williams and Karen Kellin, both cousins of the bride; and Marcia Rogers.

Following a honeymoon to Las Vegas, the couple will reside in Plainview. The bride is a graduate of Balko (Okla.) High School and Northern Oklahoma Junior College in Tonkawa, Ok. She received her Masters in Physical Education from Southwestern Oklahoma State University and teaches in the Plainview I.S.D. The groom graduated from New Home High School and attended Western Texas Junior College and Texas Tech University. He is employed by Resco Wood Industries of Lubbock.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner in the fellowship hall of Northside Baptist Church, Plainview, the evening prior to the wedding.

Courtesies

A bridesmaid's luncheon was given by the bride's mother the day of the wedding at The Grainery Restaurant in Plainview.

A bridal shower was given by the ladies of the Balko Baptist Church in Balko, Okla. on May 30.

The teachers at Edgemere School in Plainview hosted a kitchen shower on June 25.

Friends of the groom's parents hosted a bed and bath shower in New Home on June 27.

A personal shower was given by the Matron of Honor in Plainview on July 17.

Jason Belew, a member of the Tahoka FFA Chapter has been recognized for first place in the Agriscience Student Recognition Program by Texas FFA. The award was presented at the 64th Annual Texas FFA Convention held July 14-17 in Amarillo.

Belew competed with nine other area winners for the award. Advisor for the Tahoka FFA Chapter is Denny Belew. Also attending from the local FFA chapter was Amy Chandler.

This 64th convention featured the election of new state FFA officers, selection of the first Mr/Miss Texas FFA team and guest speakers, and business meetings in general sessions of the convention. More than 2,000 members were recognized for achievement and $891,000 in scholarships were awarded.

Kris Wood Attends Texas Lions Camp

Kris Wood, 15, the son of Marian S. Wood, of Tahoka recently attended the Texas Lions Camp in Kerrville. Sponsored by the Tahoka Lions Club, the camper rode horses, went swimming and camped out under the stars while enjoying fun and fellowship with other campers.

Located on 500 acres of hill country, the camp serves children who are visually or hearing impaired or have physical disabilities, ages 7 through 16. Camp programs are adapted, if necessary, so that everyone may participate. A well-trained staff supervises each camp activity at a ratio of one counselor to two campers.

The Texas Lions Camp is a non-profit organization funded by generous individuals interested in providing challenging programs for handicapped youth.

Carrie Taylor Attends National FHA Conference

On July 5-10 Carrie Taylor, Future Homemakers of America Region I National Officer candidate and a senior at Tahoka High School, and her advisor, Mrs. Patti Rambo attended the National Future Homemakers of America leadership conference in Chicago, Illinois.

The theme of the national meeting was "The Time is Now." The meeting focused on important and timely issues facing today's youth, families and the organization. Through workshops and sessions, members were motivated to take action today to make a better tomorrow. This theme was carried out through general sessions, issue-oriented sessions, national program workshops and displays.

Carrie and Mrs. Rambo were two of the 200 representatives from the state of Texas to participate in the leadership conference. Carrie hosted one workshop and the Japanese Exchange Program. Both Carrie and Mrs. Rambo, along with 950 other members of the Future Homemakers of America, participated in the Student Body Fun Run on Thursday morning, July 9. Live coverage of the Fun Run was carried on a local Chicago TV station.

Future Homemakers of America is a co-curricular home economics student organization and is the only student organization that has the family as its central focus. The Future Homemakers of America is sponsored by the Texas Education Agency. Locally the Future Homemakers of America has two chapters. The Tahoka FHA is sponsored by Patti Rambo and the Madeline Hegi FHA is sponsored by Donna Stone.

Irrigators Reminded Of Regulation Prohibiting Motor Oil Disposal

Producers on the Texas High Plains who utilize internal combustion engines to power their irrigation pumps should note that it is now illegal to discard used motor oil from these engines onto the land surface.

According to the Texas Water Commission (TWC), it is estimated that about 18 million gallons of used motor oil is dumped on the ground or into storm sewers or discarded with household garbage within the state.

New regulations passed by the 72nd Texas Legislature took effect April 1, 1992, requiring that used motor oil must be taken to a waste oil collection center, such as a quick lube operation, service station or retailer, for disposal.

The Texas Legislature charged the Texas Water Commission with the responsibility of enforcing these regulations.

Anyone who continues to drain used oil upon land surface can face fines of up to $2,000 per violation.

Many rural communities on the Texas High Plains do not have public waste oil collection centers. In this case, the Texas Water Commission recommends accumulating used oil until it is feasible to transport it to a recycling center.

"The used motor oil may be accumulated for a short period of time in plastic gallon jugs. If the farmer is going to be accumulating the waste oil for an extended period, then a more substantial container like a metal drum is recommended," said D.E.

Balusek of the TWC's Recycling and Waste Minimization Section.

The Texas Water Commission new registers all collectors, transporters, marketers and recyclers of used motor oil. These collectors must report annually on the amount of oil they receive from the public. They also must use registered transporters to remove collected oil. The transporters must maintain careful records of the source and destination of each used oil shipment.

For more information about the used motor oil disposal regulations, contact the Texas Water Commission's Recycling and Waste Minimization Section at (512) 834-6682 or write the Commission at P.O. Box 13087, Austin TX 78711-3087.

LUBBOCK, Friday, July 17, 1992
By Shawn Wade

The last of the grower approved reforms to the Cotton Research and Promotion Order go into effect July 31 according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG). That is the day USDA officials have announced rules authorizing the collection of assessments will take effect, actual collection will probably begin August 1.

July 31 is also the day a lower supplemental assessment rate goes into effect. Beginning July 31 both domestic and imported cotton will be assessed at a rate of $1 plus five-tenths of one percent of the value of the bale. The new rate will be effective for three years. After three years the assessment will revert back to the previous rate of $1 plus six-tenths of one percent of the value of the bale.

"Many of the producers who voted to end their own right to a refund under the research and promotion program have been concerned with the delay in beginning the assessment of imported cotton," says Larry Nelson, PCG Chairman of the Board and Vice Chairman of Cotton Incorporated's (CI) Board of Directors. "We have finally worked out all the details and are now ready to begin collecting these assessments."

Nelson notes that the payment of assessments on imported cotton will provide a significant boost in CI's operating budget beginning with the 1992 crop. The lowering of the supplemental assessment rate from six-tenths to five-tenths of one percent of the value of each bale of cotton will lower total collections for the program by an estimated $4.6 million dollars.

"The reduction of the supplemental assessment by one-tenth of one percent doesn't look like a big drop at first glance," explains Nelson. "In actual dollars that one-tenth of one-percent reduction represents a full 10-percent of CI's projected 1993 budget."

Nelson says that CI's projected budget is based on estimates of overall supply and the estimated price the cotton will bring when harvested. This year's crop losses and depressed prices will have a big impact on the eventual size of CI's 1993 budget.

Another item that will be determined from the price farmers receive for their cotton is the 1992-crop deficiency payment. Calculation of the deficiency payment rate is based on a formula that calculates the weighted average farm price of cotton and subtracts that figure from the current target price of 72.9-cents.

Preliminary figures show marketings for the month of May totaled 247,000 bales with an average price received of 52.2 cents per pound. May's preliminary marketing total is the first to come in lower than marketings for the same month in 1991. Preliminary figures indicate total marketings of 6,321,000 bales so far in 1992. In contrast 1991 marketings didn't top the 6 million bale level until September.

Wilson Teacher Honored For Conservation Efforts

The National Association of Conservation Districts has selected Patty Hamilton, fourth grade teacher at Wilson ISD as the 1992 Texas First Runner-up Teacher of the Year.

She was nominated by the Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District for her efforts in promoting conservation education.

Mrs. Hamilton will be attending the Annual State Meeting of District Directors to be held at South Padre Island on Oct. 19-21, where she will be presented with a plaque for her dedicated efforts in teaching her students conservation practices used in this area.

Harvest Festival Slated Here Oct. 3

The annual Lynn County Harvest Festival is set this year for Saturday, Oct. 3, in conjunction with Homecoming weekend for Tahoka residents.

Co-chairmen of the Harvest Festival Committee are J.D. House and Ann Roberts, and booth chairman is Dustie Cook. Leah Taylor and Rebecca Ingle will head up the Queen and Princess contests, and J.D. House is chairman of merchant prizes.

The Harvest Festival Committee met Monday evening at the First National Bank Community Room to initiate plans for this year's festival. Anyone with suggestions for this year's event is encouraged to contact a committee member or one of the chairmen.

Foster Parent Information Meeting Set

Anyone interested in learning more about Methodist Home's foster care program is invited to attend an informational meeting which will be held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, July 30, in the Fellowship Hall at Forrest Heights United Methodist Church, 3007 33rd Street, Lubbock.

Methodist Home, a private, non-profit, children's service agency based in Waco, opened a branch office in Lubbock last October and is currently recruiting Christian couples to serve as foster parents.

FUNSPHERE PARK IN ARLINGTON- Several racing enthusiasts slide around the unique Slick Track at FunSphere, a new family fun park in Arlington.

FunSphere Family Entertainment Fun Park Opens In Arlington

FunSphere, a new $7 million, 7-acre family fun park considered to be the largest of its kind in the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex and one of the biggest in the United States, opened to the public this week.

FunSphere is a new entertainment venture for Wet 'n Wild Inc. Although it is located directly east of Wet 'n Wild-Arlington, FunSphere will be independently operated year-round. Entry will be free during most hours, and activities will be competitively priced on a pay-as-you-play basis.

FunSphere can accommodate up to 2,500 active participants at a time.

Two 18-hole miniature golf courses wind through a naturally wooded area accented by many bridges and a man-made brook and waterfall. Baseball, softball and T-ball enthusiasts have access to various batting, fielding and pitching cages designed to accommodate all skill levels and ages.

Motorized vehicle attractions include Fast Track Indy-style race cars, Slick Track sliding cars, Kiddie Karts children's go-carts, Goof Buggies bumper cars, the one-of-a-kind Bounding Main bumper boats, and the Desert Storm simulated battle game accommodating multiple participants on foot and in mechanized tanks.

Video game fanatics can take advantage of more than 200 different player positions in the top-of-the-line, 10,000 square foot Time Out arcade. This air-conditioned area features food and party facilities along with today's most popular interactive electronic games.

Through Aug. 22, FunSphere is open Sundays through Thursdays, 10 a.m. to midnight, and Fridays and Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 2 a.m. Hours will vary by season.

For FunSphere park information, call (817) 265-3356.

HELPFUL INFORMATION ABOUT CORNS

Corns are horny thickenings of the skin, usually caused by shoes that fit poorly, or wearing run-down heels which make the feet assume an unnatural position, creating friction. Hard corns usually occur on the outer side of the small toe. They can easily be treated by a good corn remedy and we can select a reliable product for you; one that also removes callouses.

Soft corns are formed on the inner surfaces of the toes. They rate the care of a podiatrist. Diabetics should never use corn remedies or cut their corns. When applying a corn or callous remover, always soak the feet in warm water for about 15 minutes. Then thoroughly dry them and place a drop of the corn remover directly on the center of the corn for four successive days. Soak the foot again in hot water and lift out the corn.

Marla Rudd Attends Washington Conference Program

Marla Rudd of the New Home FFA Chapter attended the 1992 Washington Conference Program in the nation's capital.

The chapter's FFA advisor is Dale Schaffner.

The week-long program helps FFA members improve leadership skills, develop an understanding of national heritage and prepare for more effective leadership roles in their chapters and communities. Sessions on human relations, goal setting, and interpersonal communications were combined with discussions on personal outlook, motivation, and values to help members become effective leaders in the science, business and technology of agriculture.

ATTENDS WASHINGTON CONFERENCE — Marla Kay Rudd (left) of New Home is greeted in Washington, D.C. by Michael Bennett of Artesia, N.M., Washington Conference Program Director of the National FFA Organization. Miss Rudd attended the week-long National FFA Washington Conference Program.

Water Quality Problems Attributed To Three Sources, According To SCS

The Secretary of Agriculture has directed the Soil Conservation Service to give high priority to helping farmers and ranchers plan and install measures to enhance water quality and quantity in the 1990's.

"Everyone depends on water for drinking, but to farmers and ranchers, water is even more important," said Rodney Duus, soil conservationist for the USDA's Soil Conservation Service in Tahoka. "Agriculture depends on water for crops and livestock as well as household uses." Generally, water quality problems attributed to agriculture come from three main sources: sediment, nutrients and pesticides.

Sediment is composed of particles of eroded soil that can be carried by either wind or water runoff. It can carry nutrients and pesticides into receiving waters. Reducing erosion helps maintain soil productivity and water quality.

Erosion can be reduced by using conservation practices such as terraces, grass waterways, contour farming, conservation tillage, critical area planting and range management.

Nutrients supply the essential elements for crop growth. Proper management of nutrients optimizes crop yields, reduces movement into the water supply and improves the soil.

Nutrients can be managed by using conservation cropping systems, split applications, correct timing and placement of fertilizers, precise application rates, properly calibrated equipment, erosion and sediment control, proper management of irrigation, plant analysis and soil testing.

Pesticides help control weeds and pests that can affect crop yields. Pesticides, however, may be carried into surface water runoff and into ground water by leaching. Managing pesticides protects water quality and reduces health hazards.

Pesticides can be managed by using less hazardous pesticides, biological and cultural controls, crop rotations, integrated pest and crop management, precise application rates, proper mixing and storage and proper container disposal.

For information and help in planning water quality improvement measures, contact the Soil and Conservation Service or the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Tahoka. Financial assistance may be available from USDA's Soil Conservation Service and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

RC&D County Committee Meets

The Lynn County Committee of West-Tex Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) met Tuesday morning at Lyntegar meeting room, with 16 people present. Dan Hensley, Acting Coordinator from Morton, led the meeting.

The group discussed the current project concerning adaptation of irrigation wells to connect to fire department equipment to allow access to water in remote rural areas in the county.

At present, there 16 sponsors in Lynn County for the RC&D. West-Tex RC&D encompasses 16 counties, including Lynn, with a total of about 95 sponsors. Hensley praised Lynn County for having 16 sponsors, noting that most of the other counties in the West-Tex RC&D averaged about eight sponsors each.

The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 20 at 8:30 a.m. in the Lyntegar meeting room.

New Outdoor Farm Show Set In Lubbock

Officials of the Farm Progress Companies and the city of Lubbock have announced that a major outdoor farm show will be held on farm property just east of Lubbock beginning in the fall of 1993.

Both in scale and concept, The Farmer-Stockman Show will be unlike any other agricultural event ever held in the state of Texas or the Southwest. Attention will be centered on actual harvest and planting of crops and on working livestock demonstrations.

Texas Farmer-Stockman magazine will sponsor The Farmer-Stockman Show. Dates for the initial event in 1993 will be Oct. 12-14.

The show site will include a 60 acre exhibit field where farmers and ranchers can examine equipment and visit educational events, and 500 acres of additional cropland where actual harvesting, tillage and planting demonstrations will take place.

Exhibitors will include major farm equipment manufacturers, livestock suppliers, irrigation equipment makers, and many other companies engaged in producing and marketing of agricultural equipment and products.

High Plains Water District Established In Sept. 1951

In the 1930s and 1940s, irrigators considered underground water to be limitless. Many people thought the water was supplied by great underground rivers flowing from the Rockies to the High Plains. As the number of irrigations wells increased, water was allowed to flow freely, and waste was high.

Some state legislators noted this waste and began to introduce bills calling for state ground water control. Producers objects and voiced their opinions in town hall meetings across the High Plains.

Arthur Duggan, a Littlefield attorney, was hired to represent the irrigators in their effort to declare underground water to be the landowner's private property — similar to oil, gas and other minerals. Duggan would also fight for the creation of underground water conservation districts.

In August 1950, the Texas State Board of Water Engineers delineated the boundaries of a subdivision of an underground water reservoir in all or parts of 21 counties of the Texas Panhandle. This area was officially known as Subdivision Number One of the Underground Water Reservoir, High Plains Area, of the Ogallala Formation, South of the Canadian River.

On September 29, 1951, residents of 13 Southern High Plains counties voted to establish the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1. This was the first district to be created in accordance with the Underground Water Conservation Districts Act passed by the Texas Legislature in 1949. The establishment of the Water District was later ratified by an act of the Texas Legislature.

"The Water District was not created to do away with the rights of the individual, but rather as a local organization designed to maintain those individual rights, and at the same time, provide for orderly development and wise use of our water," wrote Cross Section Editor Allan White in the March 1956 issue.

Parts of two other counties were added later. Commissioner's Precinct Four in Hale County entered the District in May 1967. The western Precinct of Crosby County above the Cap Rock was added in April 1969, and the remaining portion of Crosby County above the Cap Rock was added in 1988.

Today, the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 consists of all or parts of Armstrong, Bailey, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Deaf Smith, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Parmer, Potter, and Randall counties.

Registered voters living in southern Lynn County may cast their early ballots (absentee) from July 20 through August 4 to ratify the annexation of that portion of the county into the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1. Regular voting will be held August 8.

The proposed addition includes the southern two-thirds of Lynn County. The cities of New Home and Wilson are currently within the Water District service area. A majority vote in favor of the annexation is required before the territory can be added to the existing District.

Additional information is available by contacting Becca Williams, Director of Administration, High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, 2930 Avenue Q, Lubbock, TX 79405 or call (806) 762-0181.

District 2-T2 of Lions International recognized one of their own last Saturday at the summer cabinet meeting, which was held at the Idalou country club.

Past district governor, Roy Lynn Kahlich, who passed away recently, and who was a member of the Wilson Lions Club, was honored by the district by the presentation of a Melvin Jones Fellow award. This award was presented after the district had made a sizeable contribution to the Lions Club International Foundation in the name of Roy Lynn.

Roy Lynn's partner in service, Joyce, was presented the award by outgoing district governor Roland Bell of Littlefield.

The Summer Reading Program at Wilson ISD elementary school is about two weeks away from being over and the kids are enjoying the new-found friends they have made. These friends are the characters in the books that they are reading.

After the kids in the older group complete their books, they have a project to do that is taken, in some way, from the books they have read.

This program is intended to develop good reading habits and therefore increase the comprehension of the students involved.

Wilson Lions Club held their regular meeting on Thursday, July 16. A medium sized crowd enjoyed the meal and then listened to a program concerning the insect populations and migrations that may or may not already be affecting the 1992 crops. The program was presented by the entomologist who is overseeing Lynn and Dawson counties.

The "PEOPLE" group that has began meeting here in Wilson held a work day last Saturday at the City Park. They worked at several projects to help keep the park neat and clean.

"Young at Heart" will meet next on July 30 at the regular time and place.

Mrs. Pearl Davidson and her daughter, Ann, of Wilson attended the bi-annual reunion of the Davidson family. This event, known as "Davidson Cousin Day" was held at Glen-Rose July 17-19. There were 44 people in attendance representing eight states including, California, Washington, Arizona, Iowa, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Jersey and Texas.

Friday night, several of the people went to see a play called "Promise." This is a Christian theme play presented on an outdoor stage similar to the "Texas" pageant held in Palo Duro Canyon.

Has anyone noticed the new access ramp in front of the Wilson State Bank and the concrete work done in front of the building? This ramp will enable the handicapped or disabled easier access to the services offered by the bank.

People at City Hall were interrupted last Thursday by a loud series of thumps, bumps, and finally a resounding crash. The noise was traced to the rear of the City Hall building where a repairman had been working on the air conditioner.

As he was attempting to service the unit, the stand the air conditioner was set on gave way and slowly pulled the unit from the wall and dropped it on the serviceman's ladder. As the ladder folded into an "L" shape it slid down the wall and deposited the air conditioner and the serviceman on the ground.

The serviceman was not injured, except for a few strains and bumps, but the air conditioner and the ladder suffered fatal injuries. A new stand and air conditioner are in the process of being installed.

Zora Powers had visitors again this weekend. In addition to her grandchildren and great-grandchildren, she had several groups of friends from Slaton come out and visit. On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Pinkard came by and on Sunday, Lou and Ivy Walton visited.

Wilson First Baptist Church will be hosting a youth skating party on Saturday, July 25. Contact Brother Ira for more information.

The flowers around the school are really pretty this year. The flower bed between the high school gym and the cafeteria is full of blooming gladiolas and the walkways from the buildings to the parking lot are lined with bronze marigolds.

There are many other areas around school that have new plants, shrubs, or trees which have been planted or donated by people in the community or some of the school classes. There is a real pretty pair of Russian Olive trees on either side of the walkway to the elementary building office area.

Wilson 4-Hers will have a swimming party on Thursday, July 23. The party will be from 8 p.m. - 10 p.m. at the Tahoka Swimming Pool. Hot dogs will be served and parents will be notified of what they need to bring.

Two of Wilson's band students are enrolled at the Texas Tech Band Camp this week. They are Lora Yowell and Audra Young.

The Wilson High School cheerleaders attended the I.C.F. cheerleading camp at Texas Tech last week. They were one of 10 squads in attendance and they placed 3rd in the competition held on Friday. This 3rd place standing qualified the Wilson squad to attend the cheerleading nationals to be held at a later date.

The Wilson squad was also named the Most Improved Squad when awards were handed out on Friday.

The members of the squad are Rachel Mendez, Adrienne Caballero, Carol Frausto, Claudia Gonzales, Michelle Rio; and Audra Young. Jessica Creswell is also an important member of the squad but was unable to attend camp.

Vo-Ag instructor Bob Williams and six of the Wilson FFA members attended the 64th annual state FFA convention held in Amarillo last week.

Michael Buxkemper was awarded his Lone Star FFA degree.

Other Wilson students in attendance were Steven Villarreal, Daniel Clark, Adam Castillo, Adam Garza and John Lehmann.

Amy and Katy Williams went along with the group so they could keep the boys and their dad, Bob, out of trouble.

Janessa Lee is still in need of blood platelets. If you are able to give blood and have not donated for a while, please consider giving a little time and effort to help a great little lady. You may donate by going by United Blood Services in Lubbock at 48th and University. Please be sure to specify that the donations are for Janessa Lee.

St. John Lutheran Church will be conducting its annual vacation bible school next week, July 27-31. This will be a night school so that whole families may attend and participate in the experience. A quick pot-luck supper of finger foods will begin at 6:30 each day and then the classes will start at 7 p.m. All of the participants will be studying the Lutheran Catechism and what it means. Anyone is welcome to attend and refresh your knowledge of the Catechism or just learn what Lutheran beliefs are.

BASEBALL TRIVIA
Last week's question: This player never led his league in home runs but has hit more all-star homers than anyone else. Who is he?

Last week's answer: Stan (THE MAN) Musial. He has 6 all-star homers.
This week's question: Name the team that won a World Series Game before winning an opening day game.

MEDICINE: TALK ABOUT IT!

Whenever you are given a new prescription, ask your doctor or pharmacist about it. Remember, the more you know about your medicine, the more likely you are to take it correctly, and so derive the greatest benefit from it. Ask:

- What is the name of the drug and what is it supposed to do for me?
- How and when do I take it, and for how long?
- What foods, drink, other medicines or activities should I avoid while taking this drug?
- Are there any side effects, and what do I do if they occur?
