Councilmen Hear Plans For Improving Water

Tahoka City Council members Monday night were briefed on plans to take most of the salt out of the Canadian River water which is the primary source of Tahoka's water supply.

Tahoka, Lubbock, Amarillo, and several other cities on the pipeline from Lake Meredith in the Panhandle will pay a pro-rata share of the costs of desalination of the water supply, which has been getting saltier each year.

John Williams, general manager of Canadian River Municipal Water Authority (CRMWA), told the Tahoka council of plans to drill wells along the river's course to divert the saline material to an underground area away from the river bottom. At present, saline deposits in the vicinity of the Ute Reservoir in northeastern New Mexico are being forced upward into the river, causing the water to be salty downstream as the river flows eastward to Lake Meredith.

This is not the only place that salt is getting into the water, but it is one of the worst, according to City Manager Barry Pittman.

The desalination project is to be funded equally by the federal government, the state government, and the member cities. The exact cost has not been determined, but it will be something above $3 million, it was reported. Tahoka will be responsible for less than half of one per cent of the cost, .46 of a per cent, and this is expected to cost the city about $14,000.

Williams told the group that even if the project gets started immediately, it will be about 10 years before water users in the system will notice the improvement in water quality.

The Bureau of Reclamation wants to start on test wells and other work on the project immediately, and since none of the money from the member cities, the federal or state governments is available now, the CRMWA is seeking approval to use reserve funds to start the work now, with the reserves to be replaced later.

Tahoka council members approved a resolution supporting use of reserve funds by the authority. In a related matter, the council reappointed V.F. Jones as Tahoka's representative on the CRMWA board of directors.

No one showed up for a public hearing on the proposed city budget for 1993-94, but the public will get another chance to express opinions on the budget later this month. The council discussed a proposed budget which will be higher than the current budget and which is expected to require a tax increase, although the amount of the budget and the amount of the tax increase have not been determined. Presently the tax rate for Tahoka is 54 cents per $100 valuation, with the city having no general obligation bonds to pay off.

The city voted to join the Lynn County Federal Credit Union to allow city employees to participate in this program if desired.

Also discussed Monday was the program to rid the city of dilapidated buildings, which so far has resulted in seven buildings being demolished and several being refurbished, Pittman said. Five more buildings in the city are being targeted for demolition or fixing up, according to the choice of the owners.

Mayor Jim Solomon presided at the meeting. Council members present were Joe Calvillo, Dayton Parker, Mike Mensch and Wayne Huffaker, with Wayne Tekell absent. Also present were Williams, Pittman and attorney Cal Huffaker, representing the city.

O'DELL HOGAN of Tahoka got a phone bill the other day for calls made in July. It included 21 pages of long distance calls, and the bottom line was that he owed $4784.93 for last month.

As soon as he regained consciousness, he contacted the phone company and discussed the situation. His own calls and local service totaled $23.18; the rest of the calls were made to various places in the United States from Germany and charged to his AT&T calling card (which he has since canceled).

GTE, which handled the billing, told him to pay just what he owes; presumably they will do some investigating of the bill.

I read something just a few days ago about computer hackers (usually college age people) who are tapping into programs of long-distance carriers and running up huge phone bills on credit card numbers selected at random. I don't remember if any of those young thieves have been caught or not.

I hope nobody in Germany gets my credit card number. If so, the least they could do is send me a note: "Guten tag, Amerikaner Sucker: Here ist ein grossen whoppen phone billen!"

A LADY NAMED Sharon Hatfield, a missionary worker for Four Corners Native American Ministry, sends us a report from the mission, which serves Navajo Indians on the reservation at Shiprock, NM. Mrs. Hatfield, who was in Tahoka a couple of years ago to speak to a church group, says it has been lonely at the mission this year, as volunteer work groups are staying away since the deaths of several persons in that area from a mysterious disease which they now are saying is caused by proximity to rats.

Just in case the economy here gets as tight as it is up there, she sent along a "Recipe for Prairie Dog," a delicacy I doubt that she has tried:

First, flood hole with water. Prairie dog will come to top of hole. Hit over head with shovel or large stick.

Prepare to Cook:

Slit front of carcass, remove insides.

Sew front with wire to hold carcass together.

Build fire and let coals burn down.

Put prairie dog in fire and turn over so that hair will burn off.

Brush off excess hair and coals--take special care to be sure all hair has burned off.

Put excess coals to one side.

Dig hole 6-8 inches deep, bury prairie dog and build another fire on top of burial spot.

Cook for 45 minutes for good roasted prairie dog that is excellent with tortilla.

Personally, I would change the last line to read:
Cook for 45 minutes, dig up prairie dog. Place in dumpster and go to the nearest Dairy Queen for dinner.

IF YOU HAVE ACNE DO SOMETHING NOW.

Pimples, blackheads, blemishes and boils can make life miserable. They often can be controlled or eliminated by proper care. If neglected, permanent scars may develop. We have some helpful products any one can use safely. But if acne constantly recurs, it is wiser to consult a physician.

Acne is caused by poor adjustment of the skin to the secretions of maturing glands. It is not caused by dirt, but frequent washing clears the plugged oil glands to prevent blackhead formation. A blackhead is not dirt. The black color is from a chemical change in the secretion. Around the age of 18 or 19 acne usually vanishes, but until then don't neglect proper care.

now are rescued each year in the United States for recycling. Americans produce a total of 87.5 million tons of paper yearly, but this year more than 40 percent of that paper will be recovered for recycling and export, according to Georgia-Pacific Corp., one of the world's largest forest products companies and a major recycler. The amount of recycled paper has jumped significantly in the last decade. In 1980, only 26.7 percent of all paper produced was recovered. Every ton of recycled paper saves 3.3 cubic yards of landfill space.

Mrs. Slover Mentioned In Lamesa Article

Mrs. Ina Slover of Tahoka was mentioned in a recent article in the Lamesa Press-Reporter about the old one-room Loveland School, where she was a teacher from 1930 to 1932. The school, once located near the Mesa community about 22 miles west of Lamesa, operated for about 20 years before closing its doors in the mid-1940s, according to the article written by Jeffrey Patterson.

Robert E.L. Smith of Lamesa has moved the old school building near his home in Lamesa and plans to refurbish it. Smith is a history buff and antique collector and hopes to restore the school as near to the condition it was when it was built.

The school was built in 1924 and was a relatively crude facility. "We had no lights, electricity, telephone or water - we didn't even have bathrooms," Mrs. Slover was quoted as saying, adding that the crudeness of Loveland never hindered learning. "Boy, did we work hard!" she added.

She said school began at 9 a.m. and went until 4 p.m. with 15 minute recess breaks in the morning and afternoon. Students from grade school through high school studied geography, geometry, U.S. history, Texas history, reading, spelling, writing, health, English, science, algebra, and arithmetic.

"I was the only teacher and I had everything," said Mrs. Slover. "I was the school's coach, principal and teacher. It really kept a person busy."

Esther Jones, a first grade student in 1925, said students of Mrs. Slover's looked forward to the informal nature of Friday afternoons. Since there were no lessons after recess on Friday evenings, the students would have spelling matches or community programs.

Loveland not only was a school, but also served many other purposes for citizens of the area, including community center, church house, and election center.

Loveland School was forced to close its doors in the mid-1940s for several reasons, one of which was lack of funding.

BBB REPORT

Unwelcome bugs and rodents can visit at any time and some may cause serious, unseen damage to your biggest investment — your home. Some bugs you can exterminate yourself; however, you may wish to ask a professional to check your home out and exterminate for you. Termites, for instance, would require a professional exterminator to control. Before signing a contract, be sure you fully understand the extent of infestation and the work necessary to solve the problem. Check the licensed exterminator out through the BBB office. Compare bids and guarantees from several pest control companies. Ask the company if they have liability insurance to cover any damages to your house or furnishings caused by the treatment. The BBB warns consumers to beware of fraudulent pest control operators who show up at your door uninvited and offer a free inspection for pests. The operator may try to scare you into immediate treatment for bugs he has brought in. Call 763-0459 and check them out.

DAYTON PARKER

High Anxiety Heart Risk

Drugs like Valium and other antidepressants may greatly increase the risks of heart attacks for women. British researchers who were studying women age 16-39 for possible birth control/heart complications, were surprised to find that women using anti-anxiety drugs seemed to have a nearly 17 times greater risk for heart attack. It is possible that other lifestyle factors related to the drug use also increase heart risk. As with any prescription drug, talk to your doctor about proper use of the medication.

Windstrips Can Help Control Land Erosion

Windstrips are one of the alternatives producers in Lynn County can use to control wind erosion on their cultivated land. Producers who choose windstrips have several different options that will comply with the requirements of the Food Security Act. D.J. Hlavaty and his three sons, Doug, Lance, and Tommy of 4-H Farms are farming with a "new idea" with regard to the use of windstrips. "Tommy is responsible for the idea for this windstrip pattern," Doug said. "Tommy wanted something that would control wind erosion and also meet the conservation compliance requirements of the Food Security Act."

"They looked at several different systems trying to find one that would best fit their operation," Doug said. "Tommy lost a few nights sleep before coming up with this idea." What he came up with was planting the blank row in their cotton with small grain, since they use a 16x1 pattern. This past year they planted triticale in part of the blanks and beardless wheat in the remainder. Both worked, the only difference was the triticale got a little taller than the wheat.

This past year the Hlavatys chiseled and bedded their land in December after the cotton was harvested. They did this with one trip, after which they planted the small grain in the blank row. In March, they cut the stalks and incorporated their Treflan with a stalkcutter. In May they planted the cotton. The Hlavatys rodweed and plant with one trip. Doug said, "Since they farm the same rows each year, they plan to plant the small grain in September from now on."

"The small grain breaks up the land and keeps the soil from being picked up by the wind," Doug said. "They never had to sandfight in this field this year." He did not know if the wind strips would totally eliminate the sandfighting every year, but he does know that they do not have to be in as big a hurry to start. "They did not have any weed problems in the strip. The insects were not a problem, not even next to the residue," Doug said. The Hlavatys use furrow dikes to help conserve moisture. Doug also stated, "The rows that had the dikes did not have any runoff even after the rains at the end of June. The rows that were not diked all had runoff."

Research has shown that wind stripcropping is an efficient way to control wind erosion on cultivated land. Windstrips can help producers save soil moisture, topsoil, and young crop seedlings.

Producers who have questions about windstrips are encouraged to call the local Soil Conservation Service at 998-4507 or come by the office located at 1647 Ave. J, Tahoka.

Field Demonstration Day To Be Held August 12

A water conservation field demonstration day will be held Thursday, August 12, at the Leland White farm 4 miles west of New Home on Farm Road 211. Area farmers are invited to drop by the field day at their convenience between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. to observe the numerous water conservation techniques on display.

A highlight of the field day will be the 10-acre drip irrigation system installed at the site. The drip irrigation demonstration project is partially funded by a grant from the Texas Water Development Board in Austin and the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1.

Drip irrigation is the slow, frequent application of small amounts of water to the soil area directly surrounding plant roots. Water losses caused by evaporation, deep percolation and runoff are virtually eliminated. Using drip irrigation can save 30 to 40 percent of the water required by most other irrigation systems.

"There has been a great deal of interest in drip irrigation among area producers. This field day is designed to give these interested farmers an opportunity to see an actual drip irrigation installation. If a producer wishes to explore the possibilities of drip irrigation in his farming operation, then he'll have an opportunity to visit one-on-one with representatives from the various sponsoring agencies at the various information stops," said Ken Carver, High Plains Water District Assistant Manager.

Additional information is available by contacting Carver at the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, 2930 Avenue Q, Lubbock, TX, 79405-1499, (806) 762-0181.

If your bank doesn't know your name ... Forget theirs.

In times like these, you need to know who your banker is today. And who he'll be tomorrow.

You need a banker who knows who you are. With one of those big, out-of-state holding company banks, it might be kind of tough to find a banker who remembers your face, let alone your name.

Truth is, as fast as those out-of-state banks change, it might be kind of tough for you to remember their name.

You don't have that problem when you bank with neighbors.

We're one of the "I's of Texas" Your Independent "hometown bank" that helped build this town. And chances are, we know each other already.

Water Development Board Schedules Lubbock Meeting

The newly-created Texas Water Bank and its potential effects on the High Plains area will be discussed at a public meeting scheduled for August 11 at 10:30 a.m. at the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District office, 2930 Avenue Q, in Lubbock.

"This meeting provides mayors of area towns, representatives from other underground water conservation districts, regional water providers, and landowners interested in selling water reserves and putting them into the Water Bank an opportunity to determine if the Bank will be of benefit to people in the High Plains area," said A. Wayne Wyatt, High Plains Water District manager.

In June, Governor Ann Richards signed Senate Bill 1030 (SB 1030) into law, thereby creating the Texas Water Bank to be administered by the Texas Water Development Board (TWDB) in Austin.

Under the provisions of SB 1030, the Texas Water Bank will be established to encourage marketing of water to provide adequate water supplies. The Bank will allow individuals to transfer as much as 50 percent of their water rights into the Bank. While on deposit in the Bank, surface water rights are protected from cancellation for an initial 10-year period and for an ensuing 10 years following the Texas Water Commission's approval of a water rights transfer.

Deposits in the Water Bank may include water rights or the right to use water under an authorized water right. These deposits may consist of surface water, ground water, or water from any other source, such as treated wastewater effluent or irrigation tailwater.

Commercial Motor Vehicle Drivers Need To Comply With Texas Law

In the nearly 33 months that Texas-based commercial motor vehicle drivers have had to study for and take the tests necessary to receive a commercial drivers license (CDL), some 412,000 persons required to have the license have done so.

"We're concerned, though, that some drivers in our state who are required to have a CDL don't yet realize that they are now considered commercial drivers," said Inspector John Hall, who administers the Texas Department of Public Safety's Commercial Driver License program.

"The law requires some drivers who previously did not meet the criteria of a commercial driver to get a CDL," Hall said. "For instance, a person who drives a vehicle designed to carry 16 or more people (including the driver) now is considered to be a commercial driver, and that could include drivers of vehicles used by churches and day care facilities," he said.

The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) began issuing commercial driver licenses in September 1990 and the law mandating that drivers of certain classes of vehicles obtain a commercial driver license went into effect April 1, 1992. The Texas law was implemented to conform to the federal Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1986 that, among other things, makes it illegal for an operator of a commercial motor vehicle (truck or bus) to have more than one license. In addition, it defines who is categorized as a commercial driver.

The law also makes a CDL mandatory to drive a vehicle that weighs more than 26,000 pounds or carries certain hazardous materials. There are exemptions for farm, military, emergency and personal-use recreation vehicles.

Since the law went into effect nearly 15 months ago, DPS and other law enforcement agencies have issued citations to persons who do not have a CDL but were required to. CDL suspensions/disqualifications for various lengths of time have been taken against drivers of commercial vehicles.

Wilson's Mission Bautista La Luz and its youth group will hold a bake sale Saturday, Aug. 7 from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. at the United Supermarket in Slaton. All types of baked goods will be available and proceeds will go to the church's youth group activities.

She participated in the clothing construction contest and as part of her activities she appeared in a fashion show at the South Plains Mall. Kimberly will be a seventh grader at Wilson Jr. High this fall.

Wilson is lucky to have a decent ball park and place for baseball fans of all types to enjoy the game. However, with the right of use and enjoyment comes the responsibility to clean up the trash after the game. There was a tournament at the ball park this last weekend, and Monday morning the area surrounding the field looked like a regular dump. Come on folks, if you use it you are responsible for keeping it clean and trash free. People who leave trash and other debris ruin it for all the rest of us who enjoy these facilities. A short time ago, it was reported that the city council was looking at the possibility of closing and then disposing of the field. Quite a number of folks raised a fuss and the council did not take any action on the matter at the time. If the trash problem continues, the ball park may be lost. Many thanks to whoever cleaned up most of the junk later on Monday.

St. Paul Lutheran Church held its vacation bible school last week. Sixty-five children and youth attended. Each evening began with a dinner, ranging from hot dogs and sandwiches to spaghetti and lasagna. Children decorated a clay pot and planted a plant to symbolize the need to be planted in the Bible in order to grow in the Lord.

Every evening the children went on a Bible treasure hunt to find six pieces of a large 24 piece puzzle with clues leading to the "treasure hidden in a field" (Mt. 13:44). VBS ended Sunday with a swimming party at the Tahoka pool. Thanks to Cody Donald was injured in an agricultural accident Monday, Aug. 2 as he was cleaning weeds off a plow. Cody, son of Lonnie and Connie Donald, was rushed to Lynn County Hospital by Lynn County EMS where he was treated and then transferred to Lubbock's University Medical Center where surgery was performed. Cody lost part of his middle two fingers on his right hand and has some damage to the little finger on the same hand. Cody is left-handed. Cody spent Monday night and probably Tuesday night in the hospital before coming home to recuperate.

About 5:30 or 6 p.m. also on Monday evening, Lynn County EMS transported Ryan Wied to Lynn County Hospital for injuries suffered when he ran into a glass storm door. Ryan is the son of Keith and Susan Wied of Wilson. He suffered unspecified cuts and bruises but was released from the hospital after being stitched up and observed for a short period of time.

A special thanks and a couple of "well done's" to the ambulance crews from the Tahoka EMS, who responded to both of these accidents. Tahoka, Wilson, and the rest of Lynn County should be proud of these dedicated people who respond anytime night or day to every type of medical problem.
