

Looks like a rumble ...

These Crosbyton and Tahoka players are all very active and busy tangling with the opposition on this play. For Tahoka, Gerald Cantu (24) is challenging the runner, Chris Williams of the Chiefs. No. 9 for Tahoka is Chad Swinford, and No. 11 is Juan Luna. In what looks like a free-for-all, one Tahoka player has grabbed a Crosbyton player's shirt (left center), Luna appears to be pushing another's face into the ground, and at extreme right, a Crosbyton player appears to have a Bulldog down and is beating on him. Crosbyton won the game 8-6.

Stephanie Stennett Crowned Homecoming, Festival Queen

A good crowd turned out at Tahoka's downtown square Saturday for Lynn County's 18th annual Harvest Festival, enjoying a day chock-full of food, games, visiting and various entertainment events.

Stephanic Stennett, a junior at Tahoka High School, captured top honors at both Homecoming and Harvest Festival, as she was crowned Homecoming Queen during Friday night's varsity football game, and then crowned Harvest Festival Queen Saturday afternoon. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stennett, and will receive a $100 scholarship from Tahoka Chamberettes, sponsors of the festival queen contest, and a $100 scholarship from the Harvest Festival Committee.

Abby Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wells of Tahoka, was first runnerup in the Festival Queen contest, and Micah Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pebsworth, was second runnerup. Both girls are freshmen at Tahoka High School. Also named in the top five finalists were juniors Shannon Garvin and Lynna Tahoka third grader Kyndel Byrd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kim Byrd, was named Harvest Festival Princess, followed by first runnerup Lisa Rodriquez and second runnerup Emily Gill. Kyndel received a $100 savings bond from the Harvest Festival Committee, and Lisa and Emily received $75 and $50 savings bonds, respectively.

Top prize winners at the festival were Gilda Taylor, who won the Puerto Vallarta trip for two, and Kelly Flynn won the Texas Tech weekend package. Sara Alvarado won the $300 Cow Patty Bingo first place prize, and Josie Alvarado won the second place prize of $100.

Wanita Kelley won a 13" color TV in the drawing sponsored by the Lynn County Child Welfare Board, and Chris Rangel won the Senior Citizens quilt drawing.

A complete list of merchant drawing winners, children's contest winners and other information will be printed in next week's Lynn County News. A photo display of festival and homecoming events can be found inside this edition.

Police Check Out Minor Incidents

Tahoka Police Dept. had reports of two minor incidents during the last week, including a report of damage to a sign at the Fina service station in Tahoka and damage to a sign at the entry of the airport.

Lynn County Hospital reported that a young man had injured his hand and was treated at the emergency room, and he told police he hurt his hand as he and some other young men had been drinking and were beating on a gasoline price sign with their fists early Sunday morning.

Four other persons involved were named, but the manager of the convenience store declined to press charges provided the damage was paid for.

In jail during the week was one person for driving while intoxicated, first offense.

THAT FISH with both of its eyes on one side of its head just looks like a flounder if its eyes are on the right side, says the Texas State Aquarium. Well, how about that? I didn't know that any fish had both its eyes on one side of its head, since I never caught a fish in my life, except for a 3-inch catfish or two.

Anyway, a flounder has both eyes on the left side of its head, says the Aquarium. And the one with both eyes on the right side is called a hogchoker, for reasons not explained.

I'm not familiar with flounders, much less hogchokers. I thought a flounder was someone who started up a business which failed.

I can't think of many things more ridiculous than a fish with both of its eyes on one side. It reminds me of cartoon characters drawn by a guy named Virgil Partch ("V.I.P."). As I recall, they were in the Saturday Evening Post..

Or maybe it was the New Yorker. Or perhaps it was Spicy Detective Stories. These are all publications I used to read. Anyway, all of his faces looked like this:

The only guy I ever knew who really looked like that, with both eyes on one side of his nose, was a quarterback I knew in high school. He wasn't that way until he got hit really hard once trying to pass the ball. After that, he could throw well to his right, but was totally blind to his left.

The hogchoker's mouth shifts to one side, too, says the Aquarium. "After metamorphosis, the fish settles to the bottom where it lies buried in the sand," said the news release.

Then there's the "editorfish," which lies (every week) buried in the sticks.

KNOTHOLES: I had to say that last, before somebody else did, since we newspaper types get no respect. . . Speaking of no respect, someone left me a paper bag with my name on it in the (Sort of for the) press box at THS last Friday night. Inside was a note, suggesting that "After reading your editorial (about how the new press box failed to include room for the press), I think you need this", plus a brand new pacifier. I started to put it in my mouth and go up and down the stands, but those who didn't know what it was about would have been sure I had flipped. Actually, I thought it was kind of funny.

Crosbyton Edges Fired-Up Bulldogs

By DALTON WOOD

With a new coach in charge, a few lineup changes and a new attitude, the Tahoka Bulldogs gave a Homecoming crowd a lot to cheer about last Friday, giving favored Crosbyton a mighty tussle before going down 8-

Crosbyton Coach Dale Gilbreath told Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reporter Kent Best that "This certainly didn't look like the Tahoka team we had scouted," indicating that Tahoka was a lot tougher than he had anticipated.

Coach Darrell (Tooter) Draper, Tahoka's passes against Crosbyton's

taking over direction of the Bulldogs after former head coach Chris Wigington was reassigned to classroom duties only, said he was very proud of the performance of the boys Friday night. "They played really well, and we had a chance to tie at the end. . . We had two great goal line

Draper moved junior Wes Solomon back to quarterback, and he responded with a good game, handling the ball well and throwing some fine passes, especially in the first half. For most of the game, it was running, primarily by senior tailback Chris Williams, who gained more than 200 of the Chiefs' 245 yards on the ground.

Solomon hit 10 of 19 passes in the game, for 96 yards, with four of these going to Juan Luna, and catches also made by David Ayala, Gerald Cantu, Terry Gwin and Martin Gill, whose 22-yard reception was the longest for Tahoka gained only 62 net yards on the ground, with Cantu the leading rusher with 33 yards on 9 carries. Running back Ramiro Rodriguez was injured at the end of the first quarter, and with a strained Achilles tendon, won't play this week at Whiteface, but may return to action against Ralls.

Coach Draper said the Whiteface game, listed on the schedule at 7:30 p.m., actually will start at 8 p.m. It will be homecoming for Whiteface.

He added that Whiteface has only a combined 7th and 8th grade team, so Tahoka 7th and 8ths also will be combined for a junior high game starting here at 5 p.m. Thursday (today), followed by a junior varsity game at 6:30.

The Bulldog defense, which apparently grew some more teeth during the last week, was led Friday night by linebacker Jesse Perez, guard Cody Hale and tackle Johnny Rodriguez, but they weren't the only Dogs who were charging hard to find somebody to hit.

The game was scoreless for three quarters, as Crosbyton's Williams kept making good yardage, but never could quite get away from the determined Bulldog defenders.

On the game's first series, the Chiefs drove to the Tahoka 30, but a wild pitchback was recovered by Perez for Tahoka at the Crosbyton 39. A few short passes and runs and a big penalty put Tahoka down inside the Chiefs' 20, with Luna attempting a field goal from the 21 which just barely missed to the right.

In the second Tahoka put on its first goal line stand after the visitors carried down inside the Bulldog 10. Linemen John Quintanilla and Oscar Garcia stopped one run, and Perez went charging in to make stops for losses on successive plays. Then Ja-

Did you read in the paper the other day about the "super" squirrel that can leap tall buildings in a single bound? Or rather, leap from tall buildings in a single bound? Some forest ranger way up in the northern parts of the USA said he saw one of these squirrels leap from the top of a 100-foot ranger tower, land safely on the ground, and scamper away, presumably to rescue Lois Lane from the clutches of evil-doers.

Say ... if Lois Lane was such a hot newspaper reporter, how come she never figured out that Clark Kent was actually Superman? I mean, this guy's disguise is a pair of glasses and a business suit over his red and blue underwear. I think I could recognize my fellow employees, even if they took off their glasses and stripped down (God forbid) to their red and blue underwear. That's not to say, by any stretch of the imagination, that I know what color my fellow employees' underwear is. I have noticed they all wear glasses, Anyway, speaking of super stuff, I think we might possibly have a super dog. Susie is our Cocker Spaniel, and even though she looks at us through these incredibly intelligent-looking brown eyes she is really rather ... well ... stupid. Super-stupid, actually.

This is the dog who has lived with us throughout her entire four-year lifespan, but when one of us takes the garbage out through the back gate and comes back through it 15 seconds later, she goes berserk barking at what she perceives to be an intruder bearing an attack trash can. Frenzied barking continues until we get close enough to either, (a) get within her 2-foot sniffing radius, or (b) tell her in loving tones that we're going to fry her up for supper if she doesn't quit that infernal barking.

Either way, her response is to wriggle all over happily and scamper to the door, where she knows we'll let her in, due to the fact that she has an annoying habit of pawing the door every 4.5 seconds, making a loud raspy noise comparable to that of a nail scraping a chalk board, until we let her in, let her in, LET HER IN. Half the time she thinks her name is "OKAY, already! get in here."

I thought she might be about half smart, though, because she knows to stand on her hind legs at the kitchen counter where we keep the dog biscuits, and does this any time we happen to be in visual range. She'll stand there with that sappy dog look on her face that says she'd be in dog heaven if we'll just give her one little doggy biscuit.

So I took the box (while she was watching me) and placed it on the opposite side of the kitchen, telling her that I would be perfectly willing to get her a dog biscuit if she would show me where it was. She looked expectantly at the kitchen counter where it was five seconds ago, as if it would shower doggy biscuits on her any minute.

But where this dog is really super is in her snoring abilities. She snores like a vocally-deranged freight train, so much so that my husband purposely keeps a pile of shoes and clothing near the bed so that he can toss them at her periodically throughout the night to rouse her from her nocturnal serenades. She sleeps on a pillow in a corner of our bedroom, and by morning is draped in dirty socks and shirts, and surrounded by a haphazard display of work boots and tennis shoes, and always seems a little surprised to find them miraculously moved during the night while she slumbered away.

As I sit at my computer, Susie is lying at my feet, gazing at me adoringly, using her one remaining brain cell to determine that, yes, it's really me sitting here. Gee. I feel badly about talking about her that way. You'd think a smart dog would do something about it, like — hey, HEY! Quit that! She peed on my carpet!

Lyme Disease

May and June are the worst months for Lyme disease infection. The ticks that spread the disease are most often in their nymph period, smaller than the head of a pin. One of the first symptoms is usually a bull's eye rash along with a range of flu like effects. Some develop arthritis; some eye, neurological or cardiac problems. The chance of getting Lyme's is lower than once thought, one study showed only a 30 to I chance from a known tick bite son McMillan recovered a Crosbyton fumble at the Tahoka 8. Tahoka came out of the hole as Solomon hit Luna on passes of 19 and 8 yards, then fired a 22-yard strike to Gill. On fourth down at the Crosbyton 35, Solomon hit Gwin for a first, then Luna again for 7 to the 23, but time ran out to make it 0-0 at halftime.

In the third, Crosbyton, set up by an interception, moved to a first and goal at the Tahoka 1 on a 26-yard run by Williams. But three running tries from there were stopped cold by the defense, led by Perez, Hale and Quintanilla, with help from a whole pack of Dogs. And a fourth down pass into the end zone was intercepted by Cantu, who ran it back all the way to the 50.

Crosbyton finally got on the board with 9:12 left in the fourth, on a 17yard run by Williams, who also ran for 2 points to make it 8-0. Tahoka came right back, with a drive mostly on the ground and finally reached the 1-yard line on Cantu's 18-yard burst, the longest running play for Tahoka. From there Solomon sneaked across for the score. Tahoka tried a pass for 2 points, but couldn't connect. It was 8-6 at 4:14, and Crosbyton killed most of the time with a drive which finally stalled at the Tahoka 20 near the end of the game.

Well, the critters are showing up again. Several weeks ago a couple of members of the Moore family saw a bobcat on Hungry Hill, then last week the bobcat was seen again along with a younger one. The writer has also seen possums, raccoons, quail and pheasants, a couple of badgers and two flocks of turkey all near the highways between Slaton and Tahoka.

There have been reports of a small number of deer in some of the less accessible areas around some of the playa lakes in the county as well. Several of the landowners have made mention that hunters are NOT welcome and that they will not, under any circumstance, tolerate violations of their posted notices.

The Wilson Museum and Shorty Moore had several visitors this last week. Former Wilson residents Trueitt Hannabass of Lubbock, Edward Hannabass of Austin and Fama Hannabass McKelvy all visited with Shorty. Robert and Belle Meillican from Slaton dropped by to discuss plans for their 50th class reunion which will occur next year. Also visiting were Ivy Walton and Jitter Feagin.

Debra Moore just returned from a short visit to see her sister in Tulsa, OK. Debra and her brother, Scott McNally of Lubbock, and brother and sister-in-law John and Virginia McNally from Littlefield, all made the trip.

Knotgrass Well-Suited For Growth In Area Playas

Playa basins in the High Plains of Texas are typically an under-utilized natural resource, says a spokesperson of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1. They are extremely difficult to farm, since they are collection basins for rainfall runoff and are likely to fill with water and drown any crop planted in them. They seem to always be muddy when they need to be plowed to control weeds, and many a farmer has bogged his tractor up to the axles trying to plow his playa.

To say the least, most farmers have a difficult time managing their playas, especially to obtain some economic benefit.

James Mitchell of Wolfforth has solved the problem of managing his playas., says the Water District. In 1983, he transplanted some sprigs of Paspalum distichum, or knotgrass, into two playas located on a farm he leases in Lynn County. Knotgrass is a perennial grass native to the Southern United States and is found primarily standing in fresh water marshes or areas that are periodically flooded. The grass is well suited for playa

The most notable quality of knotgrass is its ability to survive while being submerged under water and then thrive in dry conditions throughout the remainder of the summer, according to the Water District. The grass will even grow up to the top of the water and have stems and leaves floating on the surface. Mitchell has seen cattle wade out into water in playa lakes to graze on the knotgrass.

Knotgrass is a warm season plant that grows to heights of one to two feet, and when submerged in water it develops an extensive rhizome system. The plant produces long flattened stolons that creep along the ground and form roots at the swollen nodes. These roots give the plant its name because they look like knots of Knotgrass growth is similar to bermuda grass. It comes out slowly late in the spring. Once the grass is out, it has a good growth rate.

The grass also has deep roots. Roots have been found as deep as 17 feet into the ground. This allows the plant to reach greater depths of moisture to survive during drought peri-

Mitchell sprigged knotgrass in both of his lakes. "I have really enjoyed the knotgrass because it is maintenance free," Mitchell said. In the last 10 years, he has only fertilized the grass two or three times.

The Water District has a nursery bed of knotgrass. "During the past 10 years, the Water District has given about 50 interested growers a handful of sprigs to start their own nursery beds to transplant into their playas. Many have enjoyed the same success as Mitchell has had. Perhaps your neighbor's playa has an established stand of knotgrass and will be able to share some sprigs with you. If not, come by the Water District office at 2930 Avenue Q in Lubbock, and we will give you some sprigs to get you started," said a spokesman.

PCCA Announces Record Margins

Plains Cotton Cooperative Association (PCCA) announced record total net margins of over $31.6 million for fiscal year-end June 30, 1993, during the Lubbock-based cooperative's 40th Annual Stockholders meeting. It was the second consecutive year PCCA has achieved record earnings.

These total margins are the best in PCCA's history and exceed the previous record by 29 percent, or approximately $7 million, " PCCA President Van May announced. Checks totaling more than $17.5 million for retirement of outstanding stock and payment of cash dividends on last year's earnings will be distributed in late September.

Margins from the cooperative's textile mill division also set a record. "This is the best year the denim mill has ever had," May added, "not just since 1987 when we moved it under the PCCA umbrella, but since the plant was completed in 1976." Perbale earnings for the division were $32.46, and the cash portion of the mill dividends equals $14.75 per bale.

The record earnings were achieved despite what initially appeared would be a dismal year due to significant crop losses in West Texas. However, cuts in planned expenditures and improved weather conditions in the Rolling Plains and southern High Plains that contributed to excellent yields helped turn what looked like a disastrous year into a good year for PCCA's marketing di-

The members of PCCA also reelected three directors during the annual meeting. They are: Raymond Althof, Roscoe, District 8; Wendell Jones, Glasscock County, District 9; and Curtis Jensen, Danevang, District 10. Members also elected Steve Bauer, La Feria, District 11, who replaces the retiring Harold Scale of San Benito.

Emergency Response Course Set At SPC

First Responder: Emergency Response to Hazardous Spills and Occurrences is scheduled Oct. 13 in three sessions at South Plains College, Levelland.

Registration deadline is Oct. 12. Session 1 will meet 8 a.m.-noon, session 2 from 1-5 p.m. and session 3 from 6-10 p.m. in the SPC Petroleum Technology/Law Enforcement Build-

Cost is $10 per person and instructor is Capt. Alan Breazeale with the Lubbock Fire Department.

The four-hour program will enable fire and emergency response personnel to reduce the threat to their community created by hazardous materials emergencies, explained George Lawless, chairperson of SPC's occupational training department and an associate professor of lawenforcement.

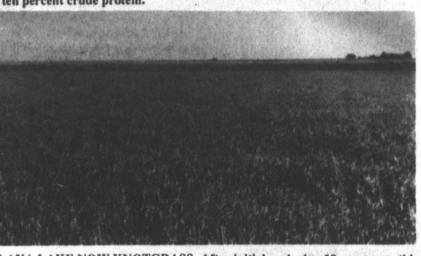

The course meets the requirements of OSHA's Hazardous Waste Operations and Emergency Response Final Rule (29 CFR 1910.120).

A minimum of 10 persons must enroll for the class to make.

For more information, contact the law enforcement office at 894-9611, ext. 291.

(left) and James P. Mitchell of Wolfforth inspect knotgrass growing in a playa lake bottom on Mitchell's farm near New Home. Knotgrass is highly adaptable since it can survive in dry conditions and when submerged in water. In addition, it can withstand heavy grazing by cattle. An analysis of the knotgrass shows eight to ten percent crude protein.

PLAYA LAKE NOW KNOTGRASS- After initial sprigging 10 years ago, this playa lake in Lynn County is now covered with knotgrass. Planting knotgrass has allowed this producer to maximize land production since the playa lake can be grazed by cattle. Propane Fuel For Water Heaters Touted

A water heater fueled by propane could save the average Texas family nearly $200 a year compared to the cost of heating water electrically, while at the same time benefiting the environment and creating jobs in Texas, according to the Railroad Commission, which has launched a new newspaper and radio advertising campaign that starts this week. The campaign is part of the Commission's legislative mandate to educate Texans about propane's benefits as an environmentally beneficial alternative fuel.

Commission studies show the initial expense of installing a propanefueled water heater is no higher than other types, but the return on investment is much faster. According to Chairman James E. (Jim) Nugent, fuel-cost savings recoup the initial purchase price in about two years.

Letters To The Editor

Heft Tahoka Nov. 1956 and served 20 years in the Marine Corps. Since retirement I've lived in N.H., Wis., CO., N.M., and AZ. I came back to Tahoka Nov. 91 to live with Dad 37

As I walked the streets downtown, memories came flooding back, Bennet & Lankford Variety, Whites Auto, Rose and Wallace theaters, the square surrounded by business the streets were so full it was hard to find a place to park. 4th of July and memorial day parades, Donkey Ball games and Turkey shoots, but most of all I remember the pride and community spirit that was so alive at that time. I guess that was called The Good Old Days. I just wonder if 10-20 or 30 years from now if one of the kids of today will be heard to say I remember there used to be a red light right here and there must have been 10 or 12 business downtown up the road here was the Dixie Dog and Fina where we all hung out. Guess this town died because they lost their Pride and Community Spirit now its just a wide spot in the middle of the road.

The 4th of July was a disappointment. Post, Brownfield, Wilson and O'Donnell had something going on. The only flag I saw in Tahoka was at the Red Top Trading Post "Thanks Cecil and Marybelle." I've been to the football games, I don't know what it would take from the players to get the fans excited enough to scream and stomp. I remember the 50s when those same stands used to Rock & Roll. Guess its undignified to scream and shout today.

This is the first place I've lived since leaving here in 56 that I can't walk down to a local bar, drink a beer, shoot some pool and talk to people. Yep folks I drink beer and I put my beer cans in my dumpster not carry them down two dumpsters and dump them. Lets face it everyone in Tahoka knows who drinks, etc. so what, that's the price you pay for small town living.

I look at the streets on Monday littered with beer cans and bottles and I wonder why Tahoka would let all that revenue go to the strip and bars in Lubbock, guess our coffers are full or maybe if we ignore it, then it doesn't exist. ...

This is the wettiest dryiest little town in West Texas.

I would like to thank the kids. There was a parade and Bonfire Thursday and Friday morning Main street and 4th street were festooned with Blue and White streamers.

The harvest festival was fun and less see theres Lyntegars annual BBQ. That's about all the excitement there is in Tahoka. Why don't we do more of these things. How about a Western Week-BBQ a Buffalo have shootouts - hayrides etc etc.

How about Town meetings every three months so everyone can get together and say about what's going on and maybe get some ideas to help make Tahoka grow. How about a Dog Pound at the games for those of us who like to scream, shout and make fools out of ourselves rooting our Bulldogs on.

Just maybe if we could get people together there might be enough ideas that come out and implemented that it will make Tahoka a fun place to live with a lot of pride and community spirit.

Thank you, Charles Isham To The Editor:

I am writing this letter to simply express my opinion. It saddens me to see what has happened in the football program. I have seen many positive efforts made by Coach Wigington for his players. Not too often do you see a head coach going business to business in person to raise money for the football program. Also I know there were many times that he gave his personal time to listen to the boys' problems and try to help them through them.

Coach Wigington worked hard to help Tahoka Athletics be competitive with others.

I am not directly involved in Tahoka football but as a supporter I feel that the support may not have been there for him.

Thank you, Kim Mercer
