Doings At Muleshoe Airport

A Muleshoe Flying Service plane was damaged last week during an attempted landing on a rural road near Needmore.

Pilot Fred Boyd had just emptied the hopper tank of the Super Cub and was making the landing to reload when the spray booms became entangled in weed growths on the roadides, which resulted in the plane spinning around, going out of control and finally landing in a deep soft mud at the edge of a lake.

A boom suppet which extends from underneath the wing to the spray boom, also serves as a safety device, normally breaks and allows the boom to fly up releasing it from entanglements, failed to sever and release the plane.

The motor mount and propeller were damaged, and one wing was heavily damaged.

Morgan Locker, Flying Service owner said that he watched the happenings from the field, and that Boyd did exceptionally well at the controls of the plane, preventing more extensive damage. The mud in the lake cushioned the final blow and as the plane came to a halt there, the left wheel was buried completely out of sight.

Boyd was not injured in the mishap.

The Super Cub will be repaired at the Muleshoe Flying Service repair station by pilot Boyd, who is also an A&E mechanic.

STUDENT TRAINING

Clifford White, student pilot, is beginning his instrument flight training. Instructor, Morgan Locker said that White, after 2 hours under the hood, accomplished the art of lining up with the runway for an instrument landing.

White lined the airplane up on instrument heading, came in on the east-west runway at an altitude of 150 feet, then Locker raised the hood and he completed the landing.

White is the 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman White.

SOLOS COMANCHE

Stanley Williams, private pilot, completed dual instruction in the Comanche and flew the craft solo Sunday morning.

Williams resides at he State Line Farm.

ATTENDS TECH GAME

Mr. and Mrs.Morgan Locker flew to Lubbock Saturday night and attended the Tech-Texas A&M football game as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neal, Piper distributor of Lubbock.

The Lockers especially enjoyed the spectacular performance of the 254 piece Texas Aggie band. They stated that they were impressed by the Tech Band and their halftime performing, but the precision of the A&M Band was unexcelled.

BARBOURS FLY IN

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Barbour landed at the Muleshoe airport at 5 p.m. Sunday enroute to Sulpher, Oklahoma to be with Mrs. Barbour's father who is ill in a hospital there.

Weather prevented their flying on to Sulpher that night and they remained here in the home of Barbour's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Barbour.

Monday morning, Mrs. Barbour called her parents and found that her father's condition was much improved and as the weather remained unsettled for flying near Wichita Falls, they returned to their home in Farmington, N. M. Monday.

PASSENGERS

Ira Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. John Moore made a local flight Sunday afternoon in the Comanche with Morgan Locker piloting the plane.

They climbed to an altitude of 15,000 feet, going over the clouds at that altitude. They spent some time looking at the cloud formations below before coming back beneath the cloud-deck.

Social Security Representative Due Oct. 19

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Muleshoe, in the Bailey County Courthouse, at 9:30 a.m., and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.

Few people will dispute the saying that the only thing constant is change. During the past 25 years, you've witnessed perhaps more changes than any other generation in history. Some of them have had little to do with you directly; others have been vital to your well-being.

During those years, you've grown older, presumably wiser, you're probably better off financially... and you've come a lot closer to retirement.

But, even the law that helps you to retire, social security, has changed during those years—12 times to be exact. The latest change, affecting more than four million people, may be one that directly affects you.

For instance, you probably know that it is now possible for you to retire at 62. But do you know exactly what happens if you do? And do you really want to retire?

You can get the information necessary to answer "yes" to the first question by visiting your nearest social security office. But in the second, you will have to decide for yourself.

You don't have to retire at 62, 65, 70 or any other age for that matter. If you do retire at 65, you will receive your full benefits from social security. If you retire before that age you will get less (20 per cent less if you retire at the minimum age, 62).

On the other hand, you can earn up to $1200 a year while you are retired and still draw the same benefit you would get if you didn't work. Pension plans and insurance do not count in the $1200—only your earnings.

With a little figuring, a healthy worker, employed at a steady job, might still find he can earn more and save more for his retirement by working more. There's a good chance that he would never retire at 62, perhaps not even at 65.

New changes help those people who are in poor health, and those who might not be working. It helps victims of technological unemployment or of forced retirement. These are the people who will benefit directly.

Yet, you benefit in general from the extra protection of the law.

If you have all the facts, you can make a wise choice. Write or stop at your nearest social security office and get all the information. Avoid being a "quick-change" artist. Take the time to study this change. As you grow older, you'll recall that you were wiser if you do.

itself at the crossroads of its very existence. It must make a choice between following the course of least resistance to temporary profits and determining to become a virile force in the preservation of its very right to exist.

Business has sought every possible customer in its effort to make every possible dollar. Business has carefully avoided any intentional offense toward a person or group for fear of losing a present or potential customer. Business has refused to participate in programs with a patriotic theme for fear of losing a few sales dollars and of arousing threats of boycott from the Communists and their dupes.

As further concessions business spends fabulous sums in sponsoring some programs which sadly have a positive anti-American propaganda line. This is done on the true but terrifying premise that good Americans won't complain.

In the zeal of business to avoid having red figures to explain away, business has not considered how it will explain its total demise under a Red regime. Business does not realize that it is a possibility, just around the economic corner, that stockholders are going to ask, "What destroyed the capitalistic system that made our business possible? What caused the political and economic debacle that annihilated our system, our company and every other company built on the solid virtues of hard work, individual effort and courage to invest and to produce a better product under the goal of personal competition?" They must ask, "What happened to history's highest standard of living that all these things produced?"

Through its blind fear of losing a few customers, business will have lost them all. Through the fear of offending a few persons who make loud splashes throwing rocks in the shallows of America's economic river, business will have permitted the great — but silent — mainstream of America to flow unrestrained over the precipice of collectivism, never to be retrieved. Through fear of reprisal from some in government, business has failed to take a stand in favor of the Constitution and what it guarantees.

Whether business likes it or not, it has now reached the place where the road divides. It is not unmarked trail like the proud pioneers traveled with the courage to make a choice on which to stake the contents of their cart and the only life they had. Rather, it is a well-marked crossroads that has been traveled many times by many peoples. The pages of history interpret them in clear and unmistakable language so they may understand. Many civilizations have been lulled by the sedatives of prosperity, apathy and fear until the point of no return has been reached down the socialist fork of the road. And its further stretches are strewn with their wreckage.

Businessmen and all others who love freedom can defeat the fatal forces which are destroying us. This battle can be won only at a profit and with pleasure. Countless hobby patriots and millions of exuberant youths can join

It Seems Easy to Ignore Those So-Called 'Controversial' Topics

Davis Merwin has been editor, publisher and correspondent for some 40 years, seeing combat with all four armed services. He has since World War II devoted his time to National Defense—both stateside and overseas, including two Korean War tours, as a newspaper correspondent.—Editor.

By DAVIS MERWIN

The Senate Armed Services Committee hearing on the role of the qualified military in training troops in the nature and extent of the Communist threat—and in helping educate the general public on the subject—seems to have petered out. It is easier to ignore such "controversial" subjects. In this, Washington has distinguished itself, until the practice has become a dangerously - costly habit.

While the hearing lasted, it gave fleeting promise of granting a patriotic Army general a chance to salvage what might be left of his career, and of settling for the benefit of the American people a question of extreme importance—how adequately to increase public understanding of the Red apparatus.

The session produced some significant exchanges between Sen. Strom Thurmond, who has led the effort to prove the continuing necessity for participation by responsible officers of the armed services, and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, an important part of whose claim to competence seems to be: "Before I came to Washington I was paid $400,000 a year to take responsibility for the second biggest business enterprise in the world."

GIVES ENEMY ASSIST

business in reinforcing the long-time dedicated patriots and gain their share of the laurels and have fun in winning the battle. The vast and overwhelming majority of the American people, the customers of business, could walk another block or drive an extra mile.

celebrated "confidential" memorandum—an expression of opinion undertaken without reference to members of his Senate committee—Secretary McNamara issued directives clearly playing into the hands of the enemy by restricting service commanders whose duty to subordinates is one of unremitting effort to paint a clear image of the enemy and thus guard against repetition of the major tragedy of Korea. There, ignorance on the part of U.S. troops of whom they were fighting and what they were fighting for led to scandalous defections during periods as prisoners of war.

Unfortunately, it seems that both Messrs. Fulbright and McNamara mistrust the military, the former probably because of his lack of personal acquaintance with a service uniform, and the latter for reasons less apparent, as he is an officer in the Armed Forces Reserve. Irrespective of cause, the fact is that the results are unhealthy, since, through denial to the public of essential information, and thus demoralization, they clearly accelerate the newest phase of the unceasing Red campaign for conquest of the American mind and the will to resist.

WOULD SQUELCH ALERT
One point is unmistakable: Mr. Fulbright records in his memorandum to President and Pentagon:

"Fundamentally, it is believed that the American people have little, if any, need to be alerted to the cold war."

Opposing the opinion and unilateral and initially-under-cover efforts of senator Fulbright—and the ready compliance of Secretary McNamara, by issuing gag orders—there remains in effect a controlling directive issued in 1958 by this Nation's top strategy body, the National Security Council (NSC). No device of these two powerful but misguided officials alone can legally reverse this NSC decision calling upon qualified military men to become active in that part of our National Defense program designed to expose the true nature and extent of the Communist evil, as viewed both at home and from abroad. Yet, while Secretary McNamara cannot legally defy the National Security Council, he has arbitrarily ordered the Service Chiefs who make up the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and for that matter, the Armed Forces Secretaries and the rest of the Pentagon to be polite to the Kremlin.

Approval Obvious
The Secretary of Defense obviously has White House support; so he may be expected to continue his arrogance until set straight by qualified authority. It is Congress that, under the Constitution of the United States, holds both power and responsibility to provide for and regulate the military services, even though the President serves as their commander-in-chief.

In a public speech a day or two before his election, President Kennedy promised:

"If I am elected next Tuesday, I want to be a President known as one who not only held back the Communist tide but advanced the cause of freedom and rebuilt American prestige—not by words but by works—not by stating great aims merely as a good debater, but by doing great deeds as a good neighbor—not by tours and conferences abroad, but by vitality and direction at home." Mr. Kennedy intended to be "a President who has the confidence of the people—and who takes people into his confidence."

IKE CRITICAL
Is there anything suggestive of these words in the recent actions of the Administration? Even Mr. Eisenhower who has consistently given unconditional backing to the White House, reached the end of the line last week with the statement that Americans "are chagrined, puzzled, disturbed, distressed and troubled by the Administration's handling of recent events," or words approximating those. He pinned on the Kennedy Administration "Indecision and uncertainty," descriptions that have been used in this column repeatedly as applying in particular to Laos and Cuba.

Senator Fulbright argues that the responsibility of the military should be confined to action overseas and, in opposition to the NSC view, implies that there is not only no substantial Communist threat at home, but that the "military mind" is not broad enough to deal with it.

I believe Senator Fulbright's motives are entirely patriotic. I am just as thoroughly convinced that he is an unwitting victim of diabolically-clever double-talk of the deadliest foreign enemy in history.

Earth Youth In Germany

Army Pvt. Arthur F. Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Williamson, Earth, Tex., recently lived in Germany and is now assigned to the 18th Artillery.

Williamson, a cannoneer in the artillery's Battery C in Darmstadt, entered the Army in April 1961, completed basic training at Fort Hood, Tex., and was last stationed at Fort Sil, Okla.

Parmer County Farm Bureau News

This Thursday night will mark the 13th annual convention of Parmer County Farm Bureau. The announced place of meeting is the PCA Office in Friona. However, if the crowd exceeds the capacity of the building, a quick move will be made to the school cafeteria. There should be enough to fill the cafeteria, and your directors hope so.

There will be several subjects of vital importance to all farmers brought up for discussion and decision. Perhaps there will be resolutions brought up on the floor. Opportunity will be given for these, and we hope there will be some. Other important business to be taken care of is the election of five directors and a president. Herman Gerles, who has done a good job the last year and a half feels that he is too confined with the operation of his farm to give as much time to the presidency as he should, and has asked that his name not be placed on the ballot for that reason.

One of the most important resolutions to be considered has to do with the question "Do we need more or less government intervention in agriculture?" Several relative questions will be considered in coming to a decision for the answer to the over all question. Other subjects are farm labor, child labor, farm to market road funds, building permits for rural improvements, taxes, Bloc Voting, and several others. Bill Wedemeyer, Research and Promotion Director for Texas Farm Bureau gives this information. The American Federation of Labor and CIO have released to participants in National High School Debate Program material explaining the policies and work of American Trade Unions in support of education. Wedemeyer says if you parents are opposed to federal control of schools, you might need to look into this if some of the mentioned material comes into the hands of your children in school.

Mules Rack Up Friona 47-7 For First Win

Muleshoe's Mules broke into the win column for the first time this year as they trampled the Friona Chiefs 47-6.

Led by Jim Young's three touchdown jaunts, and the long kick-off returns of Travis Bessire, the Mules completely dominated the game from the opening whistle until the last down was played.

Bessire set up the first score with a 57 yard kick-off return. Kenny Heathington, quarterback, plunged over from 3-yards out to begin the scoring for the Mules.

Jim Young scored a few minutes later after the Mules had forced Friona to punt, where they took over on their own 20. From there, with Pierce, Gilbreath, Young and Heathington carrying the ball, the Mules worked down to the Chief's 12. From there Young blasted over left tackle for the Mules' second center. Pierce ran over the extra point.

Fullback Pierce raced 35 yards in the second stanza for the Mules third touchdown. Bob White kicked the extra point.

Just before the half ended Bessire again returned a Friona punt for long yardage. This time he took the punt on the Mules' 20, and with real good downfield blocking, raced back to the Friona 25. Billy Gilbreath scored from the Chief's 20-yard stripe. White again kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter, Bob White, Muleshoe center and linebacker, broke through the Friona defense to block an attempted punt on the Chief's 15. From that point Jim Young rambled over for another Muleshoe TD. Young came right back with his third score of the night as he blasted over from 10-yards out. Again White's toe was true for the extra point.

Heathington scored the final Muleshoe TD as he picked up a bad hand-off and cut over center from 9-yards out for the final Muleshoe score.

Bessire had a 98-yard pass interception touchdown play called back on a penalty.

It's The Law

OATHS AND RELIGIONS

Separation of church and state is a basic principle in our law. For example, the other day a Maryland citizen sought a notary's commission. To get it, he would have had to declare his belief in God. Refusing to make this religious declaration, he got no license. He sued for it and lost.

SON RETURNS HOME

Pvt. Harvey Boleyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Boleyn, who has been stationed in Hawaii for the past year, arrived Monday of last week for a 30-day furlough. His 3-month old son, Richard De Boleyn is a patient in Reese Air Force Base Hospital, Lubbock, with spinal meningitis.

Muleshoe (Tex.) Journal, Thursday, Oct. 12, 1961, Page 5

He took his case to the U. S. Supreme Court. The court said he should get his license without taking the religious oath. The court will not enforce such a state law since it violates the safeguards of freedom of religion.

At common law all oaths referred to God. Their reference to God was a reminder of possible divine punishment for a false oath. For centuries, an Englishman who would not take such an oath could not enforce his rights in court.

Today, other solemn declarations are allowed to bind a person's conscience instead of an oath referring to God.

The U.S. Constitution says that "no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

Though some federal oaths have religious references, the government cannot force a person to profess a belief or disbelief in religion.

Government cannot "establish religion" and must remain out of religious activities so far as possible.

How far can the government go in religious activities? The state can provide buses for parochial schools to promote safety for children (not to establish religion). State schools may release children for church classes. A church or church school may claim tax exemptions.

In the past, the U.S. has provided funds for ex-GI's to go to colleges, some of them religious. The Armed Services have long had chaplains of various religious faiths. A long time ago the U.S. used funds to aid missionaries.

THE INDIANS ARE HERE!

Paymaster SEED FARMS

The Plains are abuzz with the prospect of next season's plantings of Paymaster's newly announced hybrid sorghums—The Indians.

Seedmen were introduced recently to this complete line of closed-pedigree seeds developed by Paymaster Seed Farms at Plainview; these seeds are now released for sale on the Plains and elsewhere throughout the sorghum belt.

Farmers are expressing keen interest in them.

• Five New Combine-Type Sorghum Hybrids.

These five Indians—Ute, Comanche, Apache, Kiowa and Cheyenne—have been bred, tested, developed and processed to give farmers a wide variety of performance choice. Each is adapted to special needs, soils, climates and maturity rates.

• 3 Little Indians.

This is a new kind of forage sorghum that is a blend of strains and varieties adapted to many soils and climates.

• And Cotton Planting Seeds, Too!

Paymaster's long-time research program in the development of cotton seeds has produced outstanding varieties—Paymaster "88-90" and Paymaster "101-A" and "54-B." Ask about them.

• Sweet Sioux.

This is a sorgo x Sudangrass hybrid that provides an innovation in performance; increases in forage yields and grazing value up to 70% have been recorded in field tests.

• Crop Guard.

This is the "workhorse" of the new line—a sterile seed that grows tall to protect young, tender vegetation from winds, and grows a useful forage crop as an added benefit.
