Area Gins Nearing Finish LineWith Record-Setting Bale Counts

by JUANELL JONES

Lynn County gins are finally seeing daylight at the end of the tunnel as the end of ginning season nears, and most ginning plants are setting bale-count records far beyond any previous years. The Lynn County News has followed bale-counts of nine area gins this harvest season, with a total this week of 385,515 bales to date – and still counting.

Earlier in the year, about mid-January, predictions were that Lynn County would produce an all-time record high number of bales this year, as much as 441,490 bales, based on the number of acres planted and the predicted yield estimates. Lynn County Agricultural Extension Agent Bryan Reynolds said this week that the incredibly high number is not out of reach, and that producers have already surpassed the county's previous record of 275,800 bales produced in 1973.

"I think we'll be able to get real close to that 441,000 prediction," Reynolds said Tuesday morning. "That figure was based on a 1-1/2 bale yield per acre across the entire county, and Lynn County producers planted 295,179 acres of cotton this year – the most acreage planted to cotton of any county in Texas," he added.

The county agent notes, however, that Lynn County may not lead Texas in number of bales produced this year, as some counties may have more irrigated acreage which produces higher yields than dryland, but he expects that Lynn County's bale count will definitely be among the top three counties in the state. Lynn County producers planted 217,835 acres of dryland and 77,344 acres of irrigated cotton.

"For the most part, the modules have been picked up in the county," said Reynolds. "There's probably ten guys who still have some cotton out in the field, and of course there is some out in the low spots of the county where it has been too wet to harvest – and they may not get to," he added.

He expects the harvest should be mostly complete by the third week of March, and that more exact figures will be available then. Reynolds will also have access to the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service, which compiles cotton production figures from throughout the state.

Earlier predictions were that the 2004 crop will be the largest in history in the United States, with an estimate of 22.5 million bales projected. Texas was expected to produce 7.7 million bales of cotton.

In Lynn County, Farmers Coop Gin in O'Donnell had finished their season by this week, and Woolam Gin in O'Donnell finished Tuesday night, with most others expecting to finish within 1-2 weeks, although a New Home Coop-Lakeview gin official predicted 33 days of ginning remained at their plant.

Final Count for 2004 Crop Year

Most of the gins far surpassed their previous bale-count records, and most more than doubled last year's count.

Farmers Coop Gin in O'Donnell, who finished with 54,339 bales, fell short of the record 72,000 bales they set in 1992. This year's bale count, however, is more than double last year's final count of 26,031 bales for the 2003 crop.

Tallying the highest figures in the county is the Texas Star Coop Gin in Wilson/Union, reporting 109,441 bales as of Tuesday and approximately 12 days left of ginning. Formerly the Wilson Coop Gin, the Wilson plant merged with another gin at Union since last season, with both plants operating under the name of Texas Star Coop Gin this year and combining bale counts from both plants. The Wilson Coop Gin record was 42,061 bales set in 1997, according to a Texas Star Gin official.

By mid-February, New Home Coop-Lakeview Gin had surpassed their previous record of 57,095 bales (set in 2003), reporting 68,944 bales on Tuesday this week and more than a month of ginning still to be completed. In mid-January, gin manager David Wied predicted the gin would finish with a bale count in the 80,000s and possibly pushing 90,000 bales before finishing. With 33 more days of ginning predicted, that pushes their ginning season into the first of Woolam Gin in O'Donnell finished Tuesday night with a final bale count of 42,675, far above their previous record of 29,500 bales and more than double their usual average of 18,000 bales.

Bob Ballard, manager of Farmers Coop Assn. #1 in Tahoka, says he expects to finish ginning in mid-March, and by the end of January had surpassed their old record of 28,750 (set in 1998). As of Tuesday, the bale count was at 41,775 and still climbing.

Wells Coop Gin is having a record-setting year, reporting 32,300 bales this week with approximately 2-1/2 weeks remaining in their season. Their former record was 21,800 bales set in 2003.

Grassland Coop Gin has nearly doubled their old record of 9,000 bales set in 1973, with one week still to go and a bale count of 17,039 as of Tuesday morning.

Close City Gin at Post is almost finished ginning, with a bale count of 11,976 bales Tuesday morning. Their former record was 9,829 bales in 1973. Lynn County Gin is a new operation this year, with no former records to compare, but their bale count to date is 7,026. Gin manager Charles Smith says he expects to finish in approximately two weeks.

With the harvest much later than usual this year, county producers are currently busy preparing the land for the upcoming planting season, deep breaking the ground and fertilizing. Reynolds says planting occurs mostly between May 10 and June 10 in Lynn County. "Everybody's behind just because the harvest took so long – but they're not complaining about that," he added."

DRUGS CONFISCATED – Lynn County DPS Troopers Joel Callaway (left) and David Hoard are shown with the drugs the troopers confiscated early Sunday morning after stopping a vehicle on Hwy. 87 north of Tahoka. Callaway is holding 75 grams of cocaine, and displayed on the desk are other drug-related items, including two scales for measuring the drugs, and a small package of marijuana.

DPS Vehicle Search Nets Drugs, Jail Time For Three From Montana

Local DPS Troopers Joel Callaway and David Hoard confiscated 75 grams of cocaine, marijuana and numerous drug paraphernalia after stopping a 2000 Chevrolet Pickup at 12:30 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 27 for speeding violations, eight miles north of Tahoka on U.S. Hwy. 87. Trooper Hoard said the officers smelled marijuana inside the vehicle, and a search under the center console revealed the drugs and paraphernatical

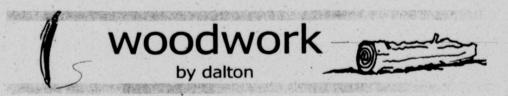

The three males in the vehicle, all of Montana, were arrested and charged with felony possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute because the officers also found scales and sandwich baggies with the drugs. Arrested were Anthony Bonavita, 19, Justin Jónes, 20, and Brandon Morse, 19. All three are being held on $500,000 bond at Lynn County Jail, and the vehicle was impounded. They were also charged with three other drug-related misdemeanor charges.

Hoard said the felony charges could bring anywhere from two years to 99 years imprisonment.

Tahoka Police went to the scene of a domestic disturbance and arrested a 23-year-old Lubbock man for criminal trespassing and public intoxication during the week.

Thirteen new inmates were jailed during the last week, including three for manufacture and delivery of a controlled substance, three more for possession of a controlled substance and three more for possession of marijuana. Three also were charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, and one each was held on charges of public intoxication, driving while intoxicated, assault/family violence, and driving while license in-

Total jail population early this week was 46, with 30 of these held for Lubbock County.

HONDA, which makes motorcycles, lawnmowers and who knows what else, now has built an experimental robot which is four feet tall, sort of human-looking, which can recognize up to 10 faces, carry on a conversation and even tag along on a slow jog.

Sounds like a pretty good deal for some lonely person wanting companionsnip without too much commitment. I don't know how deep the conversation can get, whether it talks about the weather, the neighbor's dog barking all night, or just says meaningless things, like Dan Rather and lots of folks you can meet almost any day.

Way back there when we were younger, we had some four-foot beings around the house who could carry on brief conversations and could recognize 10 faces, nine of which were featured in Saturday morning cartoons. Honda's robot still has a big advantage: you don't have to feed it when it isn't doing anything, and it probably isn't programmed to give you smart-alecky comments.

AFTER I BUY my robot (to be used only on those days when my wife won't speak to me and our dog tries to bite me), maybe I will use what money I have left to buy a new Montblanc fountain pen. Probably not, though, since it costs $150,000. I actually read this in USA Weekend, so I'm not making this up. The story didn't say much about the pen, like how many they made and who owns one, but it did say the pen has 1,430 diamonds on it.

If I had a pen so expensive, I'd just lose it the first day. That, of course, is my real reason for not running out and buying one right away.

Girl's Big Heart Touches Reader, Who Sends $100

Dear Readers.

In an earlier edition of the Lynn County News, I submitted a paper written by one of my third grade students, Elizabeth Locke. She wrote about what she would do if she had $100. I was touched by her generous spirit and so were many others. Several people have told me how much they enjoyed reading her pa-

Last Friday, I received in the mail an unsigned note from a Lynn County News reader (post-marked San Antonio) who not only was moved by Elizabeth's paper, but put some action to it. Enclosed was a one hundred dollar bill with this mes-

"If you wouldn't mind, please accept the enclosed $100 and use it to fulfill her wishes, if you can."

When I told Elizabeth about the money, she was truly speechless, but smiled from ear to ear! What a lesson this is to all of us. When we give, we ARE going to receive something back. I have received such a blessing from this incident and want to share it with you. "Out of the mouths, (or pencils) of babes!"

Sincerely. Chloie Jan Wells Editor's Note: The earlier letter, printed in the Feb. 3 issue, said that Elizabeth would spend her money in the following manner: "If I had $100 I would buy food for my family. I would give money for the Tsunami victims. I would give $50 for tithes and I would give some to the abandoned baby center. All the rest would go to buy food for my family and friends. If I had money left, I would buy a canopy for my bed. If I had $1 left, I would buy a pack of hair things." Elizabeth is the daughter of Roger and Melody Locke of Tahoka.

Volunteers Needed To Help With Local Track Meets

Volunteers interested in assisti with two upcoming local track meets are encouraged to meet with Tahoka ISD Athletic Director Troy Hinds in a meeting set for 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 20 at the THS field house. Tahoka is hosting two track meets in March, and many volunteers are needed to assist, Hinds says. The Middle School Track Meet will be held March 22, and the High School Track Meet is set for March

"This is a good opportunity for the community to work together as we host these invitational track meets, and our coaching staff appreciates all the help. The track meets will run much more smoothly if we can get enough volunteers to assist,"

Six Candidates File For Elections

Six more candidates added their names to election ballots this week, with incumbent Helen Stephenson filing for re-election for the Wilson City Council, and incumbent Charles Burenheide filing for another term on the New Home ISD Board of Four have added their names to O'Donnell elections, including one candidate for the special election at O'Donnell ISD for the two-year unexpired term. Mark Roye signed up for that seat. And with three more candidates filing for the O'Donnell City Council during the past week, adding their names to one who filed last week, a contested race is assured in that election. Willie Luera, Andy DeLosSantos and Max Mendieta all filed for council seats, as did Scotty Martinez the prior week. None are incumbents

With only four days remaining until the March 7 filing deadline. both Tahoka city and school elections are filled but uncontested, with all incumbents seeking re-election; no one has filed for three seats on the Wilson ISD Board of Trustees: and only one incumbent has filed for three seats on the Wilson City Council. O'Donnell-ISD still needs one candidate for a regular term on the Board, as does New Home ISD. No candidates have filed for mayor or two council seats with the City of New Home. Lynn County Hospital District only has one candidate for two seats on their board.

City Approves Survey As Class Project

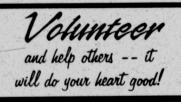

City of Tahoka council members met in regular session on Friday, Feb. 18 at noon at city hall, approving a request from Rebekah Curry to allow Texas Tech students to conduct a small survey within the city. Ms. Curry teaches a marketing class, and the survey will be a class project conducted by students, at no cost to the city. The survey addresses satisfaction levels regarding city services, economic growth issues, and other issues relevant to the business of city. government

"As I understand it, five Texas Tech students will come to poll 300 citizens, then they will put a report together and present their findings to the council," said City Administrator Jerry Webster.

In other business, the council approved the city's annual audit as presented by Joe Hays, CPA, and approved a request from Lynn County Appraisal District regarding the possible purchase of a building to house their office.

An election was ordered for May 7 for the election of two council members and a mayor. To date, incumbents have filed for the election, without any challengers, including Mayor Mike Mensch, District I councilman Rudy Fuentes, and District 3 councilwoman Amy Preston. Deadline to file for a place on the ballot is March 7:

Only two council members and the mayor were present for the meeting, which had been postponed twice because a quorum was unavailable. Present were Mayor Mike Mensch and councilmen Jay Dee House and Ray Box, as well as Webster. Council members absent from the meeting included Clara Calvillo, Rudy Fuentes and Amy Preston.

COTTON MARKET WEEKLY

February 24, 2005

Nearby cotton futures at the New York Board of Trade settled slightly weaker Thursday but well off early lows. No fundamental news was seen behind the market's early selloff, analysts said. However, Oklahoma and Kansas producers traders were awaiting Friday's release of the latest export sales data from USDA. The figures were delayed due to the President's Day

According to USDA, net export sales of 137,300 bales in the week ended Feb. 17 were 41 percent less than the previous week and 57 percent less than the four-week average. Major buyers included Indonesia, China, Pakistan and Turkey. Sales of 82,800 bales for delivery in 2005-06 were mainly for Mexico and Canada.

China, which celebrated its New Year from Feb. 9 to Feb. 15, did not make a strong presence in the market over the holiday. One cotton analyst noted that despite the fact that USDA's export sales report showed sales at a slower pace, there is anticipation that the market will see firmer sales and good purchases from China in the near future.

fore the season is complete.

In other news, the National Cotton Council reported this week that U.S. mills used cotton on a seasonally adjusted annualized rate of 6.18 million bales in the month of January. The figure was lower than most analysts expected as it was well below the December consumption figure of 6.43 million bales.

Despite lower domestic consumption, a USDA economist said this week that he expects the demand for cotton in 2005 to exceed production, drawing down surplus stocks. He said lower U.S. cotton production would support prices in

"Even with cotton area in the U.S. rising slightly, a decline from 2004's phenomenal yields will sharply reduce production from last season," the economist said. "U.S. cotton area probably will rise approximately four percent following last year's record-shattering yields, bales were just one percent more than the previous week and 14 percent better than the four-week average. Primary destinations included Turkey, China and Mexico.

On the spot cotton scene, Texas, sold 65,703 bales online in the week ended Feb. 24 compared to the previous week when 95,445 bales were traded. Prices received by producers' selling their cotton online ranged from 34.27 to 36.54 cents per pound versus the previous week's range of 33.99 to 34.71 cents per pound.

Meanwhile, the 2004 crop-year will lay claim to record crops for the state of Texas, for the U.S, and for the world, and harvest is nearing completion as each day passes. Sources on the Texas High Plains now say it looks like area ginners have slightly less than 400,000 bales left to gin from the final tally that is estimated to exceed 4.6 million

Both the Lubbock, Texas, and Lamesa, Texas, Cotton Classing Offices now have surpassed their existing record numbers of bales classed in a season. Lamesa broke their 1988 record of 937,056 bales classed a couple of weeks ago and should be near the million mark be-

The Lubbock Classing Office has broken its record, and now stands as the U.S. record holder at 3,277,917 bales classed thus far. The previous office record in Lubbock was set in 2002 when employees there classed 2,711,976 bales.

NRCS Offers Funding For New Technology

Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) State Conservationist Dr. Larry D. Butler announced recently $500,000 available funding for new technology under the Conservation Innovation Grants (CIG). CIG, a component of the Environmental Quality Incentives Program, provides farmers and ranchers with the opportunity, through innovation, to address some of the states most pressing natural resource conservation needs.

"These grants offer an opportunity to promote public-private partnerships and support the agency's agenda to provide innovative technologies and approaches to environmental enhancement and protection on working agriculture lands," Butler stated.

State, tribal, and local governmental entities, non-governmental organizations, and individuals may apply. Project proposals should demonstrate the use of innovative technologies or approaches to address a natural resource concern. Project results are expected to improve and create the transfer of conservation technologies, management systems, and innovative approaches (such as market-based systems) into NRCS technical manuals or guides or to the private sector.

Applications are due in the Texas NRCS State Office by April 22, 2005. Project proposals will be evaluated with the assistance of the State Technical Committee based on the criteria identified in the request for proposal.

Selected applicants may receive grants up to 50 percent of the total project cost, not to exceed $75,000. Applicants must provide nonfederal matching funds for at least 50 percent of the project cost, of which 50 percent may be from in-kind contributions. Projects may be single or multi year, not to exceed three years. Additional information, the Request for Proposals and related forms are located on the Web at www.tx.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/cig and at www.fedgrants.gov.

Now At The Library Echoes

By: Danielle Steel

For the Wittgenstein family, the summer of 1915 was a time of both prosperity and unease, as the guns of war sound in the distance. But for eldest daughter Beata, it was also a summer of awakening. By the glimmering waters of Lake Geneva, the quiet Jewish beauty met a young French officer and fell in love. Knowing that her parents would never accept her marriage to a Catholic Beata followed her heart anyway. And as the two built a new life together, Beata's past would stay with her in ways she would never have predicted. For as the years pass, and Europe is once again engulfed in war, Beata must watch in horror as Hitler's terror threatens her life and family-even her eighteen-year-old daughter Amadea, who has taken on the vows of a Carmelite nun.

For Amadea, the convent is no refuge. As family and friends are swept away without a trace, Amadea is forced into hiding. Thus begins a harrowing journey of survival, as she escapes into the heart of the French Resistance. Here Amadea will find a renewed sense of purpose, taking on the most daring missions behind enemy lines. And it is here, in the darkest moments of fear, that Amadea will feel her mother's loving strength-and that of her mother's mother before her-as the voices of lost loved ones echo powerfully in her heart. And here, amid the fires of war, Amadea will meet an extraordinary, British secret agent Rupert Montgomery, Amadea finds a man who will help her discover her place in an unbreakable chain between generations...and between her lost family and her dreams for the future—a future she is only just beginning to imagine: a future of hope rooted in the rich soil of the

Acts 4:1-37, Acts 5:1-42

Question: What is a prime example of true zeal for God?

In Acts, chapter 4, Jesus' followers were detained by unbelievers. They were asked, "By what power, or by what name, have ye done this?" Peter was filled with the Holy Ghost, and with total disregard to his personal safety and reputation, he told the rulers of the people and elders of Israel that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth does this man stand here whole. Paul politely told these men who crucified Christ that "you will not be saved by any other name than Jesus." Remember, the men he told this to killed Jesus. These people discussed the fact that the man with them had been healed by undeniable miracle and everyone knew it. They were in a bad position. They couldn't harm Peter and John and all who were with them. These guys threatened them, trying to make them stop the work and worship of Jesus Christ. In verse 24 they lifted up their voices of one accord and prayed. They were all in agreement. In verse 31, after they prayed, the place shook where they were gathered. They were ALL FILLED WITH THE HOLY GHOST, and they spoke the word of God with boldness. They were all of one heart and soul. In verse 32, none of them claimed their own possession. In verse 33, great grace was upon them. They sold all their possessions and brought their money to the apostles. All that mattered was God and serving Him. Do we have that zeal? GOD BLESS YOU.
