The machine which is designed to separate green bolls and clean cotton picked up by a stripper is expected to turn out cotton equal to hand picked cotton.

The manufacturers have been working on their machine for the past three years. Fifteen have been active in the South Plains area with favorable results, they report.

Mrs. Vernon Bleeker sustained a broken finger, severe lacerations of the ankles and minor cuts and bruises in a one car accident which occurred approximately ten miles from Muleshoe on Highway 84 Monday afternoon. She was traveling alone in a 1958 Chevrolet Station Wagon, which was a total loss.

Mrs. Bleeker said that she was attempting to pass a wrecker towing a pickup when she noted that an apparent wind draft was pulling her station wagon into the vehicles she was passing. She cut her wheels sharply to the left, the car overturned, and landed upright, headed in the opposite direction from which it was traveling. She was thrown into the back seat.

An unidentified young Muleshoe man brought Mrs. Bleeker to Green Hospital and Clinic where she is being treated for injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meeks and his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Meeks of Bakersville, California, are visiting this week with the Pat Bullocks and the Bill Jim St. Clairs.

Pat Bulloch is Mrs. Frank Meeks' brother-in-law; Frank Meeks is Bill St. Clair's uncle.

Two youths were seriously injured Wednesday night at 7:45 p.m. when the 1960 Ford pickup they were riding was involved in a collision with a 1957 Chevrolet sedan at West 15th and American Blvd.

Sheron Tucker, 10 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Tucker, Rt. 3, Muleshoe, sustained a skull fracture, broken right leg and right arm, and left jaw fracture. She was reported in serious condition at Green Hospital and Clinic Thursday morning.

Investigating officer Bob Adkinson reported that the pickup driven by Sheron's 16 year-old sister, Patricia Ann Tucker was hit in the back while making a left-hand turn into West 15th off American Blvd. The Chevrolet, driven by Robert Frances Cole of Muleshoe, was traveling East on American Blvd.

The two youths were riding in the back of the pickup. Sheron was thrown from the pickup as it whirled in a complete circle.

The Chevrolet skidded into the curb on the corner of West 15th and American. Cole was reported uninjured.

Property damages were unofficially estimated at $300 and $375.

Jess Osborn Heads Local Symphonic Drama Campaign

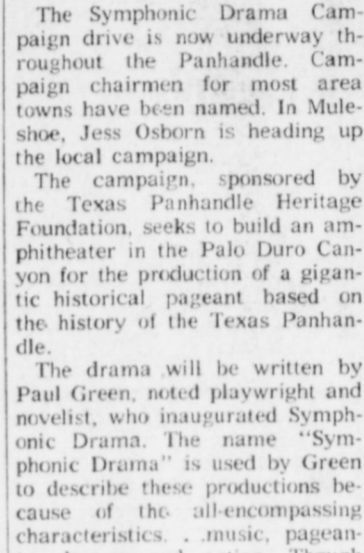

The Symphonic Drama Campaign drive is now underway throughout the Panhandle. Campaign chairmen for most area towns have been named. In Muleshoe, Jess Osborn is heading up the local campaign.

The campaign, sponsored by the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation, seeks to build an amphitheater in the Palo Duro Canyon for the production of a gigantic historical pageant based on the history of the Texas Panhandle.

The drama will be written by Paul Green, noted playwright and novelist, who inaugurated Symphonic Drama. The name "Symphonic Drama" is used by Green to describe these productions because of the all-encompassing characteristics... music, pageantry, humor and action. Though there will be music, the play is much more than a musical production.

When symphonic drama is launched in the Palo Duro Canyon it will be the first to be staged west of the Mississippi. The Theater, to be located within the contour of the 600-foot bluff in the Canyon, will seat 1,000. Last year 150,000 visited the Palo Duro Canyon. The attraction of Symphonic Drama is expected to lure thousands of tourists who stop overnight in the Panhandle during the height of the tourist season. In Amarillo alone, some 5,000 stop overnight in motels and hotels during the vacation season.

Symphonic Drama has flourished in the eastern part of the United States for more than 20 years. In 1959, The Stephen Foster Story played 60 nights during the summer to a near-capacity crowd. The show netted a profit of $45,980. In a remote village in North Carolina, Kermit Hunter's Story, "Unto These Hills", brought tourists in droves. In 1950, Cherokee, North Carolina had no overnight accommodations. Now, since the opening of this drama, more than 5,000 accommodations are available within a 15-mile radius.

Paul Green believes symphonic drama will give the Palo Duro Canyon a voice that will attract nationwide attention.

The plan has been endorsed by The Amarillo Area Foundation and the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce. It has also been approved by the State Parks Board.

Construction is expected to begin immediately after the campaign goal of $350,000 has been reached.

More than 360,000 people live within fifty miles of the Canyon, and twice this number in a hundred mile radius. It will be twelve years before all of them can see the great show in the Canyon, not including a single tourist.

Campaign workers reported a total of $66,636 toward the campaign goal in a report meeting last Thursday, May 24.

"This year I planted 160 acres of P. A. G. 515 which produced the highest average yield per acre in my 25 years of farming. I averaged 6,675 pounds of combined grain per acre with 3 waterings on the 160 acres. I also liked the P. A. G. 515 because it matured quickly and standability was good. Funeral Services For Dr. Barnett Set For Thursday

Dr. J. B. Barnett, 66 years of age, longtime physician, and one of the founders of the Mule Memorial Association, died Sunday, May 27, of an apparent heart attack, in Marlin, Texas.

Dr. Barnett was also an agricultural leader, as well as being most active in civic affairs throughout the state.

Muleshoe residents will recall that the late Dr. Barnett flew out to Muleshoe on August 25, 1961 to assist in organizing the Mule Memorial Association, and that he worked diligently in the remaining months of his life for this cause. Dr. Barnett was interested in seeing the fast disappearing mule memorialized, and that he was determined that Muleshoe should be the site of a monument paying tribute to the mule.

Dr. Barnett was a proctor of Dr. L. T. Green, Muleshoe physician, and in his correspondence with the Mule Association, never failed to inquire of Dr. Green's health and progress.

Much could be written of Dr. Barnett's life, but one outstanding characteristic will be remembered by those who knew him. That is his energetic zeal for things he believed in. Until later days, Dr. Barnett hunted, fished, worked in his local Rotary club, and church, and for every worthy cause which came to his attention.

He had many patients in the Muleshoe area who saw him at Torbett Clinic in Marlin, where he was a staff member.

Funeral services for Dr. J. B. Barnett will be at 4 p.m. Thursday, May 31, in Marlin.

A HOBBY OF HUNTING arrowheads, spears, scrapers and other weapons vital to the livelihood of the Indian has filled most of the spare time hours for Richard Puckett since he began this collection five years ago. Puckett resides at 122 East Cedar Avenue and is employed by Peerless Pump Company.

THE CORRUGATED POT held by Puckett is one that he will always treasure as he probably has as many hours of work in it as the Indians who made it. The pot was smashed in a rock slide as he attempted to remove it from a mountainous area in Utah. Hours of painstaking work was required to restore it.

FARMER INDIANS utilized their skill and access to river bed rocks to fashion tool with which to carry on their work near the San Juan River. The basin in the background has an inlaid black and grey design.

LOCAL PALEONTOLOGIST DISPLAYS LARGE COLLECTION OF INDIAN ARTIFACTS

By DORIS KINSER
Journal Staff Writer

Although little has been recorded in the pages of history, arrowheads and artifacts found in the sandhills surrounding Muleshoe serves as a lasting memorial to the hunting grounds of the land's original inhabitants, the Indian.

For five years, Richard Puckett has hunted arrowheads and artifacts as a hobby and has a collection numbering 1100, most of which are almost perfect points and being the largest known collection in this area.

Having made a study of the red man, Puckett said that he does not believe that they lived on the plains the year-round, but all who were in traveling distance came here during the warm season to hunt along Black Water draw extending from Plainview to Portales and crossing Bailey County just to the south edge of Muleshoe. He said he believed they retreated to more sheltered places before winter began.

Old-timers relate that native grass along the draw grew waist high and there was an abundance of game-fowl, prong-horned antelope and buffalo. Bones taken from what is now a gravel pit near Portales and from a ditch near here recently, bear out the fact that the now near extinct animal once roamed these Plains at will. Many times, spear points and scrapers are found along with the bones of these animals.

In his study of the Indians, arrowheads and types of flint, and pottery, Puckett concludes that at least a dozen tribes hunted here.

Since there is no native flint in this sector, the Indians had to bring their flint with them when they came. Different arrowpoints, scrapers, knives and spear points made of the numerous types of flint, disclose that they came from as far away as the hills of Colorado and New Mexico; from along the Canadian to the north and the Caprock country to the east. Some of the points found here have been made from quartz and Puckett said that he does not believe that the small points were used strictly for birds and small animals as legend goes, but for big game too. A majority of the points found here are relatively small and with the knowledge of the amount of the large animal here in the early days, he said the fact that the flint had to be carried in, lead him to believe that the points were made small sizes to save flint and with their keenness directed to vital points from the force of the mighty bow could be just as fatal to large animals as to the small fowl.

The biggest find Puckett has made in one day was approximately 50 points which he found on the U-Bar Ranch to the Southwest of town.

Around the vicinity of Soda Lake, numerous signs remain of the summer Indian camps. Among the sand dunes can be found burned caliche rocks used to bank fires and at the same time, the ground there about will be covered with chips of flint.

Other items found there give the indication that the spot was also used by the early day white men, the buffalo hunters. An arrowpoint made from metal has been found at this site which authorities say was the work of an Indian. This shows that the white man did have influence removed from them, as they will eventually be restored for historical show places, or used in connection with science study.

The corrugated-like pot which Puckett is displaying is one he found partially buried in that section underneath an overhanging cliff. Dry corn was in the pot when he found it. As he started to remove a collection of rubble from around it, a rock slide began and smashed it and he removed the pieces and spent hours gluing it back together. It was done with perfection and one must observe closely to tell that it has been broken and repaired.

The pot is made from thin rolls of clay wound round and round, coil fashion, to form the shape and has been pinched together with the fingernails, the imprints of which can still be seen.

The basin pictured is also a piece of pottery found in that locale, bearing an Indian design in black and grey colors. These pieces have withstood years of sun and weather and it brings to mind the question of what the Indians used for dye that would be durable for thousands of years.

Puckett said the Folsom acquired its name after a negro cowboy found large bones and a point in a wash near Folsom, N. M. many years ago and the Sandia was named after the mountain range near Albuquerque, where the first point of this type was removed from a cave.

Among his treasured collection are items used by the farmer-type Indian. These he found along the San Juan River where the Navajo Indian once dwelled to the south and the Ute to the north of the river. Puckett has a hoe, axe, a bow steel and tomahawk made of River bed rock, and a wooden awl which were once used by this tribe to raise their corn and other crops.

Puckett spent a week exploring the ruins of a Pueblo dwelling in Utah two years ago which contained about 10 rooms. He said the dwelling was well preserved and a greater portion of it was still erect. He relates that these old ruins would be a collector's paradise, but laws governing the preservation of the ruins forbid digging there for any items to be

Know Your Candidates

Why do voters continue to vote for people who are against what they are for? One explanation to the question is that the voter does not know what the candidate is for. Another contributing factor is that the voter's will to vote against a given politician is altered by the fact that the candidate has the voter obligated to him. It must also be understood that if a public servant is confronted with the possibility of losing an air field or a large Government payroll in his district, there is a strong tendency to vote against his better judgment.

The time has come for a voter to decide what he is for, and demand public servants to vote in accordance with his desires. In a discussion, a local voter who believes in constitutional government, the free enterprise system, and freedom admitted that he voted for a candidate that was for a managed economy. When the voter was confronted with the facts, and asked why he voted for the candidate, he simply said that he thought he could have both. By both, the voter meant the inflation that would come with the extended public spending program, and the freedom and security that went with the sound dollar.

A Message To Graduates

All over the United States high school graduates and college graduates are entering the stage of life — at a time when business opportunities are plentiful.

Although young graduates are not too often prone to take freely-offered advice we will nevertheless offer a few points, as a general guide, which we believe might be helpful to those leaving school at this time.

The first thing worth mentioning is that every graduate, or even those who did not graduate, can succeed in life. We live in a country where success can be achieved as a result of sustained effort, or determination. One does not have to be a genius, brilliant, or even smart to achieve this success.

Fortunately, in the United States we have such plentiful opportunities that a determination to succeed, and a willingness to succeed, and a willingness to work, will produce very gratifying results.

Perhaps the most important single piece of advice to be given to graduates or those entering the business world at this time is the suggestion that they develop an individual Christian philosophy. This means that each person develop a set of principles and a philosophy by which he will try to live his life. Naturally, he will sometimes fail, but the point is that he will be attempting to live a life in harmony with certain basic guidelines.

Another suggestion is for youngsters today to resist the temptation to over-emphasize the importance of money. The great values of life, and of time, are not dependent upon financial means.

These things — a life patterned on the Christian philosophy of Jesus, one in which hard and sustained work is respected, one in which money is not worshipped as a god, and one in which help is extended to our fellow men, and evil gossip resisted, add up to a life of good citizenship, and a contribution to one's community, city and state.

Program Aims At Use of Low Quality Cotton

A pilot program aimed at diverting low-quality cotton and cotton by-products into a bagging material for cotton bales has been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The raw material for the bagging would come largely from the short fibers removed from cotton during ginning by lint cleaners. This lint, much of it now burned at gins, can be combined with other cotton by-products or low-grade cotton to make serviceable cotton bagging.

Under the pilot program a payment of $1 per bale will be made for the use of all-cotton bagging, up to a maximum of $100,000 bales. Payment will be from funds provided by Public Law 329. The program will begin on a date to be announced and terminate with the respect to the use of the bagging and filing of claims on June 30, 1963. Studies will be made during the operation of the program to determine the practical and economical value of this bagging.

The cost of the bagging will exceed that for jute which is now used. Producer organizations have indicated a willingness to assume part of the added cost during the initial stages of manufacturing and introduction of cotton bagging. As production machinery and methods are developed, costs are expected to be reduced to make the material competitive with other types of bagging. In addition, the used cotton bagging will have a greater re-use value than the present jute bagging, the USDA officials said.

Details on the pilot program, including instructions for making application to participate, may be obtained from the Cotton Division, USDA, Washington 25, D. C.

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER COMES

Out With Solution To Problem Of Candidates Interfering With TV

Editor's Note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm discusses what he considers a vital problem this week. It might be.

Dear editor:

Since nobody else seems to be working on this problem, I have decided to give it some thought. The problem is what can the country do about candidates interfering with television programs during a hot campaign?

Everybody knows how important it is for candidates with the guaranteed solutions to vital problems all the way from atom bomb testing to government waste to the salvation of civilization, to get on the air just ahead of an election and say so, makes no difference whether he's running for Justice of the Peace or Governor or the U.S. Senate. And yet everybody knows the groans that go up when the people settle down to see Gunsmoke and hear an announcer say the following time has been bought and paid for by somebody who is running for the State Legislature, Place 19.

Now I'd be the first to agree that the people need to be informed, and they need to be entertained, by television, although there have been times when I have been more entertained than informed by political speeches and more informed than entertained by entertainment programs.

But here's the thing: it's not fair to the people to have Gunsmoke, for example, put off the air temporarily for a political speech they don't want to hear, and it's not fair to the candidate who does it.

But I have hit on a solution. We can have both, at the same time. Haven't you noticed in a western or nearly any other TV drama there are long stretches of silence, like when the killer and the marshal are staking each other just prior to the show-down fight?

Why couldn't TV producers stretch these stalling periods out a little longer and let a candidate come on for a few words connecting the election of him with the preservation of Civilization? When the marshal is chasing the outlaw on horseback in a Western, or the private detective is chasing the killer by car in an Eastern, why not let them go two miles or ten blocks longer, as the case may be, and during the silence work in some more of the candidate's speech?

Then everybody can go to bed, entertained and informed, and not sure which he's the sleepest sure which he's the sleepiest from.

It's worth thinking about. This is a serious problem and needs solving right away.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Muleshoe Journal
Muleshoe, Texas

After hearing President Kennedy's remarks about his proposed Medicare Program, Senator Hubert Humphrey said he "has the bit in his mouth".

Now, I'm no horsewoman, but I believe my Dad used to tell me that the one who held the reins could turn the head. It is up to the elected representatives to turn the horses head in this life and death struggle against a foot in the door principal for complete socialized medicine for our nation. Since the representatives are elected by their fellow citizens naturally they look to them for guidance on casting their vote in these vital issues, so it comes right back to the individual to let these elected representatives know what we want. Few nations in the world have this privilege, and unless we exercise it a little more we may not have it for long!

This week is the crucial time to give Congress your view on Medicare. Proponents of the President's plan can be expected to sing long and loud about their handwagon support of the plan as evidenced by petitions signed by those attending last week's rallies at the expense of interested pressure group (eg. AFL-CIO), but many members may be more impressed by a vigorous and wide spread opposition to the bill from the folks "back home". If such the folks "back home": It such evidence should MORE THAN MATCH the communications generated by the RALLIES the pressure campaign just might backfire.

Won't you join "operation backfire" and get your letter in the mail today? Air-mail letters arrive very quickly and fifteen words cost only about seventy-five cents. Your local Chamber of Commerce is ready and willing to help you in the wording of any correspondence you may wish to send. Your own handwritten letters are the most effective weapon you have in defense of your Country's democratic principals.

Letters to Senators should be addressed to them at the Senate Office Building, Washington 25, D.C. Letters to Representatives should be addressed to the House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C. or to Wilbur Mills, Chairman of House Ways and Means Committee, House Office Building Washington 25, D. C. Get your voice in this issue now.

YOU AND YOUR GRANDCHILDREN AND THEIR GRANDCHILDREN WILL BE PAYING THE BILL. Conservative estimates show the present proposals will cost both employer and employee twenty-one dollars and twelve cents a month, by 1968. This is an increase of seventy-six percent over 1961 in only seven years, and Walter Reuther has said, "Therefore, if we could get the principle established, we want to build on that principle, just as we built on the Social Security principle!"

Dear Sir:

Ran across this item in one of the local newspapers and being a former resident it kinda' got me here' as the saying goes.

If memory serves me right, "Muleshoe Journal" is the name of the local newspaper published in Muleshoe. I would like to have a subscription to the paper to be sent to me here in Milwaukee.

There is one thing I take exceptions with in the article. I was under the impression that the popu-

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Back in 1888, Ohio State University economists report, most wage-earners spent at least half their income for food. Today, average per capita spending for food is only one-fifth of disposable income.

WITH BRUSHES IN HAND the Primary Vacation Bible School students are about to begin a painting lesson during craft period at First Methodist Church. Leaders are Jean Drake, Mrs. Garland Freeman and Alex Foy. The children enjoyed Bible lessons, crafts, singing and recreation conducted by their leaders.

County Economy Benefits From Rural Housing Program Success

John C. Kennedy, county supervisor of Bailey County Farmer's Home Administration, announced that presently there are ten rural housing loans, averaging about $8,600 each, on Bailey county books.

"All are current in their loans and collections have been better than former years. More loans have been made, many paid in full, which are not accounted in this figure," Kennedy said.

Six of these ten loans were made for construction of new homes, one for remodeling of the present home, and three for constructions for farm service, such as barns for hay and livestock and machinery, he added.

This supplements L. J. Cappelman, State Director of Farmers Home Administration who recently stated, "The Rural Housing Loan Program was started in Texas some twelve years ago and the records show the success of the program. Up to December 31, 1961, some 2,730 loans have been made and not one penny has been lost or written off as uncollectible."

"More than $20,449,000 has been advanced in Texas in Rural Housing Loans and the principal and interest payments made total over $8,845,000. Over 24 percent of these loans have been paid in full. Payment of principal and interest on the 2,064 loans outstanding total over $4,561,000, or 104 percent of the amount that has become due," Mr. Cappelman said.

"This is a remarkable tribute to the financial integrity of rural families and their ability to manage their financial affairs," the State Director said.

"Loans under this program are made only to those who cannot obtain financing from conventional sources. As a result, the 2,730 Texas families who have obtained these loans have had to be extra diligent in meeting their repayment obligations."

"This repayment record of rural housing loan borrowers is also a tribute to the judgement of the 654 Texas FHAs, Texas County Committeemen who assisted in evaluating the soundness of these loans," the State Director said.

"This program provides benefits throughout the entire rural-based small town economy and the overall economy of these counties," he added. "Contractors, small businessmen supplying contractors, and building trades workers all benefit through increased business. Their stepped-up activity in turn stimulates the entire rural economy. The approximate $4,800,000 the Farmer's Home Administration in Texas will make available this year is the equivalent of several new industries in terms of more jobs and greater purchasing power."

IT'S CROWDED AT THE TOP ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—The naming of class valedictorian and salutatorian at a high school in nearby Pittsford was dropped this year.

Arnold Carlson, school principal, said all seniors with averages of 90 per cent or better would be honored.

"When tens or hundreds of a point are separating factors (in determining top students) there has been some question over the years by educators and parents as to the selection of two top students."

Three-Phase Fire Burns 300 Acres

Twenty members of the Muleshoe Volunteer Fire Department and three hours work with the channel wrench (also called the "Idiot's Spoon" or "Spade" shovel) extinguished a 300 acre grassland fire on the Holt Ranch last Friday afternoon.

Actually three fires in one, the blaze raged at separate points two and one half miles south on highway 84, one mile below and two miles below the first fire. The fire was answered at 2:05 p.m. and local firemen worked with sandhill firefighting channel wrenches, digging up and throwing sand on the fire until 5 p.m.

The afternoon train's soot from the exhaust of the diesel—"Blown out the size of hunks of coal"—plus the extreme dryness of the Lubbock ranchman's land and high winds were blamed for setting the three-phase fire, Fire Chief Earl Ladd said.

This was the 71st fire call answered during 1962, although actually there have been over 100 fires, including multiple fires such as last Friday's fire counted and answered as one call, Chief Ladd added.

The koala bear is not a bear. It is an arboreal marsupial, a pouched animal that lives in trees.

FATE OF A BOOKMOBILE

(AP) - The large bookmobile of the Tuscarawas County library had been damaged in a traffic mishap and a replacement was requested from the state library to use until repairs could be completed.

The state sent over a smaller model, though the exact color of the county's own bookmobile.

During the borrowed bookmobile's first run, a youngster stopped the librarian with:

"What happened? Did it shrink when you got it washed?"

The Declaration of Independence was sealed in a helium-filled enclosure after 1924.

God's Hurry

In Peter 3:8 we read, "Beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day."

It is customary to think of God as having no concern with the passing of time. When the above text is read, the emphasis is usually placed upon a, "thousand years is as one day," in God's sight. Seldom is that emphasis placed upon, "one day as a thousand years," with God.

If you have sat by the bed side of a loved one at the point of death, you know that a few hours can be an eternity. Surely as God watches the dying multitudes of lost people, marching into hell, that a day is as a thousand years to Him.

We have been told that 4,630 people die every hour. Those who know tell us that 3.67 of these people do not claim to be a Christian. At this rate hell is a populated place. Every time one of these people die and go to hell God is heart broken. We usually think of God as patient God. We think of him as never in haste. Read the parable that Jesus told of the Prodigal son in Luke's Gospel chapter fifteen. In this parable, the father is representing God. When the son returned home, God ran to meet Him. In other words, God is in a hurry for straying man to return to Him. Actually the love of God demands our hast to return to Him.

When the tomb of Jesus was found empty, the angel instructed Mary to, "Go quickly and tell the disciples." (Matthew 28:7) The apostle Peter was in prison for preaching the Gospel. The church in Jerusalem was gathered together in prayer for his release when the angel appeared to Peter and said, "Arise up quickly." (Acts 12:7) It is natural with man to want God to hurry. We pray in the hour of suffering, "God relieve us now." In the time of need, we want God to act at once. On the other hand, we ask God to wait on us. Man will say to God, "Wait until I have fulfilled my earthly obligations or until a more convenient time." Yet, we are inclined to forget that God says now is the time for us to act for Him.

Social Security Representative To Be Here June 6

"You can't fight progress", the old farmer thought as he watched the bulldozers cutting through the rightaway for the new road. They needed his best land for the road, but had paid him a fair price for it. Still, he probably will make a lot less per year from the farm now.

Still, by working at it, he thought he could make at least $2,500 a year from the remaining land—about half of what he had been making recently. At age 69, with all of his children grown and married, that would do him and his wife all right. In fact, they would have the time to do the many things they had put off over the years. He be sort of retired.

The farmer knew social security benefits would be payable to him and his wife if he retired—he wondered about partial retirement. Next time that man from the social security office was in the courthouse, he'd have to ask him.

He did, and the social security man had good news. Yes, the farmer was, according to his expected earnings, eligible for part of social security—$750 a year to be exact. And, when he was 72, he and his wife could receive all of their social security, regardless of his earnings. In this farmer's case, that would be $1800 a year. If you are over 65, still working, and have never applied for social security check with your local social security office. The people will be glad to help you with your application. It may mean money in your pocket—money that rightfully belongs to you.

A representative of the Lubbock District Office will be in Muleshoe in the county Courthouse on Wednesday, June 6 at 9:30 a.m. and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.

YOUR VOICE IN STATE GOVERNMENT

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

WATER ATTRACTS CHILDREN

Owning a swimming pool is becoming rather common in Texas and it places some legal duties on the owner. Your main duty hinges on the "doctrine of attractive nuisance" under which you become legally responsible to young children who trespass on your land.

As a rule you owe no duty to trespassers. They must take your property as they find it: if dangerous, that is their tough luck. Not so for children who wander on your land. The attractive nuisance doctrine says that if you have some man-made things on your land which entice youngsters you have a legal duty to make your land safe for them.

A high tension line, an old mine shaft, a railroad turntable, a pool of clear acid may be irresistible to children. If they are likely to be attracted and unable to grasp the dangers, you have an "attractive nuisance," and you must make your premises safe.

Recently a court held that a swimming pool may be an attractive nuisance. In this case a toddler drowned in Jones' pool. Jones and the boy's parents lived across the street from each other. About 30 feet from the street, the pool was fenced but with openings through which children could enter. On weekends the Jones were not home, only the Jones' children. Animals often played near the pool.

The pool and the animals could attract a youngster; he could not grasp the water's danger. The Joneses could have had a locked gate. A jury properly held Jones responsible for the drowning. How young is the child? Can he appreciate the dangers? How easy is it for the owner to make the place safe for children?

There are times when an older child should appreciate dangers. An older child playing on a scaffold should appreciate the dangers of height. In another case a twelve year old boy tried to jump on a train which was moving along a public street. When he fell he could not get damages for his injury. He should have seen his danger. Besides how could one put up a barrier along a public street which could keep out twelve year old boys.

A land owner may have other duties to trespassers. He cannot set a "trap" on his land, create hazards on his land on purpose; he cannot put a pit on his land where people frequently trespass, put in spring guns, or other traps to harm trespasser.

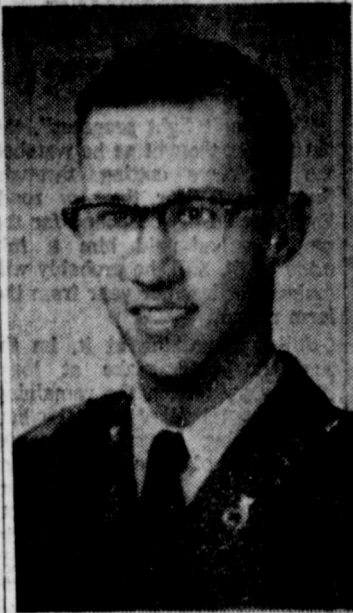

Sometimes a condition on your land may be a trap to children but not one for adults. The adult may grasp the danger of slippery algae growing in a partially drained pool, but not a child. But even with a trap on your land the attractive nuisance doctrine will not apply without some allurements or enticement to bring children to trespass on your land. Such attraction are, in effect, an implied invitation to enter. Check your place for such attractions, and in any event consider measure, such as insurance, to cover harm that may come from things on your land. And above all, keep your place safe. For all the money may not undo the harm.

(This newfeature is prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

School Transfer Deadline Friday

The deadline is Friday for any parents desiring to have their school children transferred for the 1962-63 school year. Bailey County Judge Glen Williams said in a final reminder.

Those who live in the outer edge of the school district and wish to transfer must make application at Judge Williams' office not later than Friday, June 1.

Cliff A. Jones Will Be N.M.M.I. June Graduate

Cliff A. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Jones of Muleshoe is listed among the 173 Third Classmen who are scheduled to receive certificates of completion, indicating that they have finished their high school studies and are ready for college work. These will be presented at the 69th Annual Commencement at the New Mexico Military Institute next week. The upcoming final examinations will be their last hurdle.

Young Jones has been a cadet at NMMI for the past several years. He previously attended the high school at Muleshoe, and is completing his high school studies at NMMI.

In the Cadet Regiment of ten companies and 750 cadets, Jones is presently a cadet sergeant. A final military promotion list will be announced at Commencement time.

Eighty-five First Classmen also will be graduating from Junior College. They will be awarded Associate in Arts degrees this year, instead of diplomas as has been the past custom.

June Food List Has Many Items For Enjoyment

Joys of summer eating are wrapped up in the June list of plentiful foods, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
 Light and refreshing dairy foods head the list, as milk production is at its peak for the year. Traditionally, June is Dairy Month. So look for an abundance of whole milk, skim milk, buttermilk, ice cream, sour cream, cheeses of all kinds, and all the other nourishing dairy products.
 Frozen orange juice, mostly from Florida, is another June plentiful. Its sparkling flavor and invaluable nutrition make it especially adapted to summer meals and snacks.

Broiler - fryers also remain plentiful at low, low prices — almost as low as last June when farm prices reached record-high levels. These tender, meaty birds are ideal for formal or informal meals, in the dining room, on the patio or on a picnic.

Vegetable fats and oils complete the June list. Commercial stocks of crude and semi-refined soybean and cottonseed oils have been running at an all-time high. Salad and cooking oil stocks are about four times higher than a year ago.
 These four foods have been given the official "plentiful" tag by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service because supplies of each
